Pension funding hits all-time low

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

State funding of the pension system for Illinois university employees is at an all-time low, causing some SIU-C officials to question the system's future.

"The pension system is living on borrowed time," William Capie, director of Personnel Services, said Thursday. "There will come a time when (the system) won't have enough money" to pay benefits to retirees, their survivors and those with work-related injuries.

In July, Gov. James R. Thompson used his budget-cutting powers to trim $1.07 million from the State University Retirement System's 1988 budget, a 13 percent reduction from last year's budget. While the $70.7 million appropriated for the system is enough to meet current expenditures, it represents less than half the system's total obligations.

About 50,000 state university employees — including 8,000 at SIU-C — contribute a part of their paychecks to the pension system. By law, the state is required to match the amount contributed by the employees. But the state has not been holding up its end of the bargain, Capie said.

"They're not matching that amount," he said. "What they are doing is matching that amount at a significantly lower rate."

The state's portion of funding for 1988 represents only 44 percent of the system's total obligations. Other years, state funds have covered about 60 percent of the system's obligations, said Arthur Aikman, a professor of curriculum, instruction and media at SIU-C and a member of the retirement system's board of trustees.

"The way it looks, it's going to be a disastrous year," Aikman said.

However, Vince Petri, a spokesman for Thompson, defended the cut in state funds for the retirement system. "It was our opinion that cutting some funding from the retirement system wouldn't hurt the system much," he said.

Petri noted that four other

Aquino safe following bloody confrontation

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Rebel soldiers attacked the presidential palace and a government television station Friday in a coup attempt that left at least 18 people dead and 69 wounded, but President Corazon Aquino told the nation she is safe.

The rebels, described as loyal to ousted President Ferdinand Marcos, used bombs and guns to attack the Malacalag Palace compound — which houses Aquino's residence and offices — and the state-run Channel 4 television station at about 2 a.m. (2 p.m. EDT Thursday).

Government troops repulsed the palace assault in street combat that lasted nearly two hours and chased away rebels after a five-hour battle at Channel 4. But some rebels infiltrated armed forces headquarters at Camp Aguinaldo in the capital, seized three buildings and held the air force chief hostage.

Aquino, interviewed on independent radio several hours after the fighting began, said she was safe and fully protected by security guards at the palace.

"In a few hours, we will be able to settle this," Aquino said of the fifth coup attempt against her since she took power in February of last year.

At Channel 4, gunfire could be heard in the background as the station went on the air at 6 a.m. staffed by workers trapped inside.

"We are hiding in our offices," said a station employee. "There is a fierce gun battle outside" between the rebels and government troops on the roof of the building.

An hour later, a station employee said, "We're OK now. Civilians are now streaming inside the television station." He said four employees were wounded during the five-hour battle.

Armed forces spokesman Col. Honesto Isleta described the situation as "grim" at Camp Aguinaldo and said the rebels were holding air force chief Maj. Gen. Antonio Sotelo in his office.

Isleta said Sotelo asked armed forces chief Gen. Fidel Ramos to send a helicopter to drop leaflets urging the rebels to surrender and prevent a "bloody confrontation."

Police said the rebel troops were loyal to Marcos. But Marcos, in an interview with CNN television, denied any involvement in the uprising.

"I promised the American government that I would not have anything to do with the destabilization that is going on," Marcos said from his home in exile in Hawaii. "I intend to fulfill that promise. I am not going to leave the country. I am not going to participate in any attempt at destabilization."

At least 15 people — 10 civilians and five soldiers — died in the fighting outside the palace, which lasted for about 90 minutes before troops loyal to Aquino drove off the rebels, witnesses said.

Some witnesses said the civilians died in a cross-fire, but one witness said he saw rebel troops open fire on a group of civilians who began chanting "Cory, Cory" and "Surrender, surrender," in support of Aquino.

Witnesses said they saw six military trucks and a tank emerge from the presidential compound to engage rebel troops firing weapons. Flares lighted the surrounding streets.

They said abandoned cars with shattered windshields were strewn through one side street where a battle took place.

Ramos, in a separate radio broadcast, said the attack was launched by about 200 to 300 rebel troops from Fort Magsaysay in nearby Nueva Ecija.

Around Channel 4, at least three truckloads of soldiers exchanged gunfire with security men, and reporters there said at least one person was killed inside the building.

In addition, press photographers said Australian freelance photographer Robert McDonald of the Melbourne-based magazine Pacific Defense Reporter was shot in the head and killed outside the station by government snipers who mistook the flash from his camera for gunfire.

Healthier Sen. Dunn ready for another re-election bid

By Deedra Lawhead
Staff Writer

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, will run for re-election in 1988, saying that he has "announced early to scare off some strong competition."

"I have a pretty good shot at it," Dunn said Thursday night at a news conference in the Student Center's Old Main Room.

He said he will have to run a hard campaign because the 58th District is one of five districts being targeted by Democrats for the 1988 elections. The 58th District includes Jackson, Monroe, Union, Randolph, Perry, Washington and portions of St. Clair counties.

Sheila Simon, daughter of U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, had considered running as a Democrat against Dunn in 1988. Her father's bid for the presidency and her marriage, which will be Sept. 12, has put her political career on hold.

Dunn said Sen. Simon's bid will not hurt the state's Republicans. Dunn said he doesn't think Simon's popularity will sway the Democratic vote in 1988.

Awareness key to crime prevention

By Tracy Barton
Staff Writer

The first step in solving crime on campus is for students to be aware that the problem exists, Nelson Ferry, SIU-C Police Community Relations and Training officer, says.

"One of the biggest problems we have here is that students just won't lock up their personal belongings," he said.

Ferry said two problem areas where theft most likely occurs on campus are the Student Center and Morris Library.

"We've had kids go to the Student Center and fall asleep with their backpacks lying beside them and when they wake up everything's gone."

He recommended not sleeping there to solve that problem.

Leaving books and backpacks unattended on tables in the library invites theft, he said.

"It's pretty tough to catch the person doing the stealing, unless we have an eyewitness."

Ferry recommends students report suspicious behavior to police, no matter how minor it might be. "By doing that, they can help us help them," he said.

Students should use good common sense and not be so trusting of others in keeping their belongings from being stolen, Ferry said.

He advises students to lock doors, never leave their belongings unattended and engrave the make, model and serial number on items such as televisions, stereos and cameras.

Ferry said engravers are

Iran calling for elections for third time since revolt

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Iran's third elections since Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini came to power in the 1979 revolution will be held next spring, possibly after the Iranian New Year, Tehran announced Thursday. The official Islamic Republic News Agency quoted Interior Minister Hojatoleslam Ali Akbar Mohtashami as saying "the third nationwide Majlis (parliament) elections will be held next March," and candidates would be required to register in "February. Iran held the last elections to the Islamic Majlis in 1964.

Soviets: Chances "better" for arms agreement

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union said Thursday the chances of concluding an arms reduction agreement with the United States have "changed for the better," since West Germany agreed to eliminate 2 Pershing 1-A missiles from its territory. But Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov accused President Reagan of pouring "a very cold rain" on improving East-West relations by using anti-Soviet rhetoric in a speech Wednesday in Los Angeles.

Ethnic violence spreads through Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — Ethnic violence spread to the provincial city of Hyderabad Thursday where troops were deployed to curb clashes in southern Pakistan that have killed at least 33 people, officials said. In Karachi, Pakistan's largest city at 7 million, at least 29 people died since Wednesday in violence involving Mohajirs, Punjabis and Pathans and more than 100 people were injured, hospital sources said.

Novelist leads anti-government rally in Peru

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Police used water cannon and tear gas to disperse rock-throwing supporters of President Alan Garcia who were trying to smash an anti-government rally by novelist Mario Vargas Llosa in the southern city of Arequipa, news reports news reports said. A stick of dynamite also exploded near the main square while Vargas Llosa was speaking, frightening some protesters but causing no damage or injuries, the reports said.

Five men face death penalty in four states

By United Press International
Unless they win reprieves, five men will be executed in four states Friday — the most in one day since the death penalty returned in 1976 — and one of the condemned men ordered his attorneys Thursday to drop their appeals. Two men were scheduled for electrocution in Florida, one in Georgia, another in Alabama and one faces death by injection in Utah, all within 18 hours.

Committee fails to verify Casey's ransom plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA director William Casey sought President Reagan's approval last year for a $10 million ransom payment for U.S. hostages, though a smaller payoff the year before had failed to gain their release, congressional sources said Thursday. The Iran-Contra congressional committee, however, have obtained no evidence showing that the 1985 ransom plan discussed by Casey and former national security adviser John Poindexter "was actually taken to the president or the proposal pursued," said a source familiar with the plan.

Poindexter wants rank back before retirement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former national security adviser Rear Adm. John Poindexter, a central figure in the Iran-Contra scandal, has informed Navy officials that he intends to retire this fall, sources said Thursday. But Poindexter has indicated he wishes to retire at the higher three-star rank he held as a vice admiral before leaving the White House last November.

Scholarship winners get recognition, but no money

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — About 12,000 college freshman who qualified for the state's merit scholarship program are finding their awards are not being funded, state officials said Thursday. The 2-year-old program awards $500 per year for two years to students in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating class. Last month Gov. James R. Thompson slashed funding for the program for fiscal 1988.

A little competition won't chase couple from heat of kitchen

By Michele Eskins
Staff Writer

Jerry and Linda Goforth aren't afraid of a little competition — even against each other.

In fact, competition seems to make for a successful match-up for the two graduate students in administration of justice.

Married for four years, Jerry and Linda learned new things from the relationship. Linda learned how to shoot a .38 caliber pistol, and Jerry, a member of the Murphysboro police force for 18 years, learned how to frost a wedding cake.

"His friends on the force give him a hard time about baking," Linda said.

For the third year, the Goforths have entered baked goods in the Du Quoin State Fair competition. Entering cost them about $50, but, to them, cost isn't important — winning is.

THIS YEAR, the couple's nine entries included angel food cake, oatmeal cookies, brownies, chocolate chip cookies — Linda frosted hers with chocolate while Jerry left his bare — and sponge cake.

"Everytime I set my entries on the table I get nervous," Linda said.

Linda's anticipation wasn't necessary. Her fudge and cherry Black Forest Torte entry won first place in the inventive mix trick cake division and her brownies rated first place in the division. She received second place in chocolate chip cookies and third in the sponge cake division for her French pastry.

The cakes, pies, cookies and brownies are judged for taste, texture and appearance. Many of the elaborate entries were in danger of melting in the heat of the exhibition hall this year, the couple said.

THE GOFORTHS don't cook for competition only. Linda, who used to cater for University employees, including former president Albert Sommit, has all the baking business she can handle from friends in De Soto.

"I don't need to advertise — I get plenty of word-of-mouth business," Linda said. "I start taking orders for Christmas cookies the day after Thanksgiving."

Linda and Jerry also make custom wedding cakes, usually six to eight a year.

"We made a wedding cake with 200 pounds of ingredients one time," Linda said. "We had to use a pool table to put it on. A regular table would have been hard pressed to hold it." The maroon-and-white cake, which took two hours to put together, had Linda climbing a step ladder to complete the final layer.

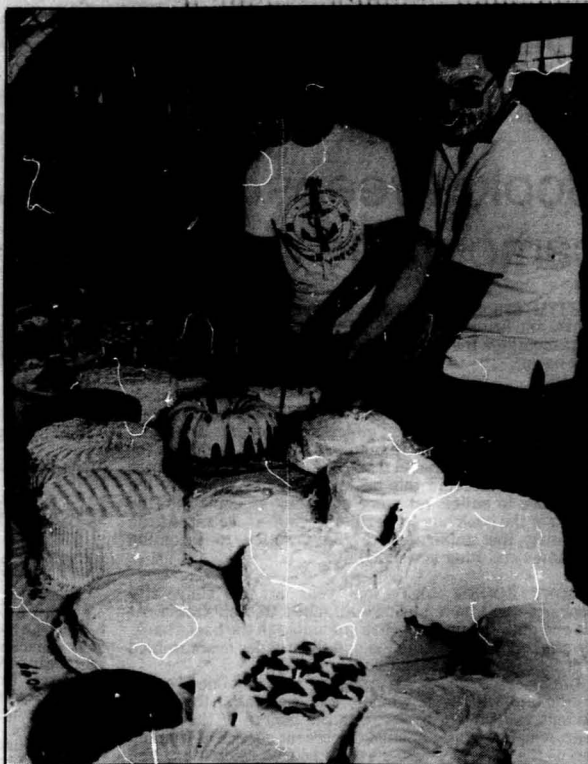

JERRY HAS become skilled at doing wedding cake borders, which helps Linda complete the order.

"I wash dishes too," Jerry said. Frosting the cakes is a good way to lose weight, he said.

"When you do wedding cakes, the frosting is made with Crisco and sugar," Jerry said. "After about a half hour of licking your fingers, the sugar dissolves and you get a greasy taste in the back of your throat. From then on, when your fingers get sticky, you go wash them off."

Jerry's baking methods are more experimental than Linda's, who likes to follow the recipe.

"When he's making cookies, he'll add wheat germ or something," Linda said. "But he's precise when it comes to decorating. Sometimes he even uses a ruler to measure the cake, and his color combinations are better than mine."

Jerry's specialty is bread. But, his efforts aren't always successful.

"You have to use a mixture of white and whole wheat flour," Jerry said. "I baked some whole wheat the other day for some friends who were coming over and it turned out hard as a rock," he said as he tapped his knuckle on a table.

Book sweepstakes camouflage reality

WITH ITS SWEEPSTAKES offer of computer, car, cruise and lesser prizes, the University Bookstore is trying to camouflage the hard truth of end-of-the-semester book buy-backs.

Instead of dragging their books to the store for a standard and depressing "Sorry, we're not buying this book back; the course has been canceled," students are being offered the chance to win fabulous prizes in exchange for suffering a brutal financial setback (90 percent losses are common). But could this be just a shabby effort by the bookstore to entice yet more unwitting students into the realm of the book buy-back rip off, while at the same time shielding the unfairness of the practice to incoming freshmen and other new students?

MOST BOOKS SOLD this year at the University Bookstore will have stickers attached to their fronts. At the end of the semester, when students sell the books back, the stickers will be detached and their codes descrambled in order to determine their values, if any.

Jim Skiersch, bookstore manager, said that one of every 20 stickers will be a winner, and estimated that each student will buy 10 books over the course of the school year, which provides about a 50 percent chance of winning one of the lesser prizes, such as pocket calculators and earphone radios.

Unfortunately, a student can't win unless he or she takes the books back at the end of the year or writes to the national judging organization (200 Universities nationwide are participating in the Follet Corp.-sponsored event). How many, if any, students have the time to track down this organization's address, and mail them a letter? Probably not very many.

PERHAPS THE BOOKSTORE is afraid that too many veteran buy-back victims have wised up and decided not to sell their monetarily worthless books back for the usual pittance. With the new incentive of possibly winning a computer, car or cruise, students seemingly would be fools not to take their books back.

This is precisely what the bookstore is banking on. Literally.

If this sweepstakes was a program of true merit, the stickers would be given out on the basis of the amount of money a student lost on his or her sell-back. For instance, if a student lost 10 percent of the original money spent on the book, he or she would receive 1 sticker; 20 percent loss, two stickers, etc.

As it is, attractive — if misleading — bait has been hung out to lure the students into the buy-back trap. Step right up and take a financial licking. But win a pocket calculator in the process.

It would be bittersweet compensation.

U.S. roughed up in Pan-Am games for reasons uniquely American

I DON'T mind Japan making better television sets than we do or Germany making better cars. I can even accept the fact that Great Britain has better mine-sweepers; it used to be an island empire, after all. But do we have to put up with Brazil beating us in basketball? And Cuba in baseball?

I mean, basketball and baseball are our sports. We invented them. If our Latin American friends want to beat us at something, let them beat us at jai alai. But baseball and basketball? At the Pan-American Games yet? What ever happened to sportsmanship?

The whole object of the Pan-American Games is for us to win all the medals. Oh, we might let a Bolivian high-jumper get a silver medal but basically we're supposed to win them all. It is our reward for being the biggest, richest country in the hemisphere and the leader of the Free World besides. We own the bats and balls. The other countries represented come in one of two flavors: big and poor or small and poor. Their per capita income wouldn't buy a power lunch at a trendy Washington restaurant. What are they doing, beating us at running, jumping and throwing?

THE LOSS TO Brazil in basketball is especially galling. I visited Brazil during its pre-Lenten Carnival and one of the things I remember most was that I was taller than everybody there. I am 6 feet tall maybe a little less. We have just got beat in basketball by a country that stands 5-foot-8 in its stocking feet! Moreover, they do not even play basketball over there, at least not where you can see them. You do not see hoops in back yards; you do not see back yards, for that matter. Throw a Brazilian kid a ball and he kicks it. To get out-rounded by Brazil is deeply humiliating.

Donald Kaul

Tribune Media Services

The Cuban loss isn't quite so bad — but it's bad enough. Cuba is this little Communist country that has a hard time paying its bills. We're told that 30 years of Castro have brought it to the brink of economic ruin, that it can't even do a good job of making cigars anymore. It beats us in baseball.

Oh, I know the excuses: All of our good players are professionals. If we had Magic Johnson and Larry Bird at the games, we would win all the medals.

WELL, OF course we would but so what? The point is that a country as big and rich as ours should be able to produce enough athletes to stand up to the best of Cuba, Brazil and Nicaragua without resorting to our professionals.

It's not as though we are being brought low by excessive arateurism, after all. The kid we sent to the Pan-Am Games are essentially semi-professionals. They are ostensibly college students but in reality they earn their way by playing ball. So why can't they beat a bunch of Brazilians?

Perhaps we're being brought low by excessive professionalism. Sports, in this country, have ceased to be something to play, they have become something to watch. Our entire system of athletic competition is geared to producing a few, exceptionally talented players whom the rest of us can watch.

THE RESULT is that kids who are not obviously gifted athletically are discouraged from playing sports, particularly team sports. It has led to a generation of young couch potatoes. Two generations.

That's a complete perversion of what sports should be: something that people do for fun and relaxation. Preferring to watch people do things rather than do them yourself is essentially a pornographic impulse.

Critics of higher education argue for a de-emphasis of sports in college life. They're misguided. Sports are important. If anything, they aren't emphasized enough in college. What needs de-emphasis is spectating.

IF WE GOT kids out from in front of their television sets and encouraged them to play — and that would include getting rid of Little League, which, with the possible exception of artificial turf, is the worst thing that has happened to kids' baseball — I'd guarantee that the likes of Cuba and Brazil wouldn't be beating us at our hometown sports.

On the other hand, we can look on the bright side. We won in volleyball.

Quotable Quotes

"Look how far back Chicago is in the standings. Would you suggest that they quit the league? I say they should keep playing and wait for better times." — Clemente Guido, novelist and presidential candidate, on why he continues his anti-Sandinista activism in Nicaragua.

"I don't want to talk to the clowns. I want to talk to the owner of the circus." — Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega, saying he would discuss peace with President Reagan but not with the Contra leaders.

SIU-C alumna returns for lost reflections

By Cathy Foster

DRIVING DOWN Route 127 toward Carbondale this August was different from my first trip 11 years ago. My car wasn't loaded with a semester's worth of belongings and there were no nervous butterflies in my stomach.

This time I was on a pilgrimage of sorts, to visit the campus I hadn't seen since my graduation in 1978. In recent years I had become increasingly nostalgic and curious about the town and the campus. I felt a need to return, although I wasn't quite sure why. Nevertheless, I finally decided to head whatever it was that was calling me back.

So I found myself driving the once-familiar route to Carbondale, passing through the little towns whose names I used to know as well as my own. The towns looked almost unchanged. There was something comforting about their timelessness.

IN THE FINAL lap of my journey I grew more eager, even excited. I couldn't wait to see Thompson Point again, and "my" dorm, Bowyer. Quite a switch from the sick terror I felt as an incoming transfer student in 1976.

Turning right at Burger King, the campus only seconds away, I recalled how anxious and scared I'd been that August 11 years ago.

The bedlam of students moving into the dorms didn't do much to quell my unease. Cars parked everywhere. Suitcases and stoves piled in the street, the sidewalks, the yards. Throngs of parents and students milling around.

THEN I MET my roommate and my spirits sank even lower. Mary was a cute, vivacious, well-endowed blonde. She seemed my opposite in every way. I was afraid my worst roommate fears had come true.

I was certain of it when I saw flowers and mushy "I'll-miss-you" cards from her hometown boyfriend adorning the bureau she'd claimed. I had visions of getting thrown out of my room every weekend for Mary's romantic encounters.

I was wrong about getting kicked out of my room. I was wrong about Mary, period. She wasn't a conceited snob, as I'd feared. She was a warm, genuine, nice person who emerged as the natural leader of our group.

NEVERTHELESS, I still found myself envying the ease with which she seemed to fit in, her open friendliness, her confidence.

Then one day, I found a crumpled-up list in the trash can between our desks.

It was Mary's list. I don't remember it word for word, but it was a list of resolutions about her attitude and behavior while at SIU-C. It said things like not being afraid to meet new people, to make every effort to make friends, to take risks...

So going off to SIU-C was a little scary even for the Maijs of the world. I felt better.

THIS AUGUST, the fall semester not yet started, Thompson Point is peaceful and quiet. I sit on one of the stone picnic tables by the lake, watching the turtles. Now, as then, I'm glad I lived at Thompson Point. The Towers had air-conditioning, but Thompson Point had beauty and charm, and a friendly ambiance I always felt lacking in my visits to the Towers.

At the back entrance to Bowyer Hall, I can peer in through the glass panel, and see my old room, 105.

I can see Mary endlessly latchhooking a rug for her boyfriend's Christmas present. (She finished the rug and the relationship simultaneously. She still gave him the rug. Sort of a "parting gift," you might say.)

AND WIBS, soaked to the skin, running down the hall threatening revenge, after having been locked in the shower.

"For a moment, I wish it were 1976 again, that I could do it all over. And that the unfamiliar faces around me could be replaced with the 'First Floor Bowyer Babes' and 'Pierce Perverts' from those days. But the moment passes."

There's Joyce, Michelle, Dee, Butt, Tag, Betsy and all the rest of us in the end room for another Friday night vodka-and-lemonade party, dancing to the Four Seasons and Boz Skaggs.

There are more ghosts at Pierce, the scene of my first dorm party. ("Where are you from? Where are you staying? What's your major?")

I walk past the dorms and "Mama Lenz" to Thompson Woods. I am impressed anew with its beauty and tranquility, the late afternoon sun sending golden shafts through the backlit leaves.

CONTINUING MY stroll, I appreciate in a way I didn't then, the graceful beauty of campus. Altgeld's German castle architecture... Pulliam's clock tower... Shyrock Auditorium's globed, black iron streetlights.

Walking along the sidewalks that crisscross campus, I remember my initial confusion 11 years ago, trying to find the buildings my classes were in, and the shortest routes between them.

Now, as I gaze about, a young girl asks me for directions to Morris Library. It makes me feel ridiculously happy and knowledgeable to be able to tell her.

WATCHING HER carry her armload of books to the library, I remember how we all agreed with Denny when he complained about the hours of studying. The "real" world would be easier, he said. You put in your eight hours and that was it. No studying at night. No tests.

Except we didn't know about overtime or continuing professional education. We didn't know about office politics or job performance pressures. Or juggling jobs with family. Or paying bills.

That evening I visit The Strip with my sister, who has accompanied me on this journey and is already tired of my "This is where we..." and "Here's where I..."

I find that Das Faas and Merlin's are closed and shuttered. And what happened to Buffalo Bob's and The Dugout?

REASSURINGLY, GATSBY'S and The American Tap still exist, as does El Greco's, The Gold Mine, Pagliani's, and best of all, Booby's. We order beer and a Booby's Special. It's still as good. I feel certain students are still calling Booby's for late night deliveries.

We wander down Illinois Avenue to have a few beers at American Tap. The dark heavy tables and benches are as I remember them. The back room is being remodeled, but all in all it seems virtually unchanged, even to the sign pointing to the downstairs bathroom.

We drink our 40-cent drafts in the courtyard outside. It is fairly well populated tonight with what I assume are some summer students, early arrivals and locals.

WATCHING THE drinking, chatting groups, I remember my friend Michelle saying that the friends you make in college would be your friends for life. Ironically, Michelle is one of the first people I lost touch with.

For a moment, I wish it were 1976 again, that I could do it all over. And that the unfamiliar faces around me could be replaced with the "First Floor Bowyer Babes" and "Pierce Perverts" from those days.

But the moment passes. I wouldn't really want to relive that time, as special as it was. I'm closer now to the person I want to be than I was then. I haven't done all the things I thought I would do, but I've done some of them. And I've got the rest of my life to do the others.

AND I REALIZE that temporary friendships born from a shared time and place are just as real as those that span a lifetime.

I raise my glass in a silent toast to those friends. To the past. And the future.

Adventures in Babysitting — (University Place 8, PG-13) Elisabeth Shue of "The Karate Kid" discovers babysitting isn't what it's cracked up to be.

Back to the Beach — (University Place 8, PG) Annette Funicello and Frankie Lymon bring their innane act of cavorting about the beach to their eighties.

The Big Easy — (University Place 8, R) Dennis Quaid and Ellen Barkin star in this love story.

Born in East L.A. — (Fox Eastgate, R) Richard Cheech Marin countered the Boss with his hit song of the same title. The Boss got a video, Cheech gets a feature-length film.

Can't Buy Me Love — (University Place 8, PG-13) From Disney's Touchstone Films.

Dirty Dancing — (Saluki, PG-13) This film features some hot dance action.

The Fourth Protocol — (Fox Eastgate, R) One time Bond candidate Pierce Brosnan stars with Michael Caine in this action thriller.

Full Metal Jacket — (University Place 8, R) Directed by Stanley Kubrick ("Clockwork Orange," "2001 — A Space Odyssey,") this powerful Vietnam War drama is said to be as good or better than "Platoon."

Hamburger Hill — (University Place 8, R)

Replacements scheduled for Student Center

Tickets are now on sale for a concert by the Replacements who will perform at 8 p.m. Sept. 16 in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Audiences never know what to expect from the good natured Minneapolis hard core and punk band. The Replacements' current album on Warner Brothers' Sire label is titled "Pleased to Meet Me."

Tickets to the concert are general admission and are being sold at the Central Ticket Office in the Student Center. They are $9.50 for SIU students and $10.50 for the general public. The ticket office is accepting cash sales only for this event.

This movie joins "Platoon" and "Full Metal Jacket" in the recent Vietnam film trend and it's billed as being better than either of them.

House II — (Saluki, PG-13) This house's property value isn't getting higher or lower, it's getting weirder.

La Bamba — (University Place 8, PG) The biography of late fifties' rock star Ritchie Valens, who died in the same plane crash that killed Buddy Holly. Great music is featured, but the dialogue gets a little sappy. Valens is played by newcomer Lou Diamond Phillips.

The Living Daylights — (Fox Eastgate, PG) The 15th in the series of Albert Broccoli Bond flicks, this film brings us Timothy Dalton as the new Bond.

The Lost Boys — (Varsity, R) Teenage, punk vampires stalk the night in search of a party in this lame thriller.

Maid to Order — (University Place 8, PG) Ally Sheedy fills the order.

Monster Squad — (University Place 8, PG-13) Kids kick the werewolf and other scary monsters in the "nards."

No Way Out — (Varsity, R) Kevin Costner and Gene Hackman star in this Hitchcock-style thriller set within the Pentagon.

Robocop — (University Place 8, R) Peter Weller stars as the high-tech answer to rampant crime in the future.

Snow White — (Liberty, G) Walt Disney's first full-length animated feature.

Strikeout — (Varsity, R) Richard Dreyfuss and Emilio Estavez co-star as police partners.

FRED'S WHO IS FRED?

Fred was a coal miner who liked to dance and party on Saturday nights. But he also was a family man. He wanted to go someplace where he and his entire family could have fun...but didn't cost too much (in other words cheap). There were only so many weddings, Jacob Days, Stranefests, Ava & Sesser Homecomings to go to. The fraternal clubs were for members only. The Strip didn't play country music (real country music, the kind you can clog to), and if you're a drinking man the motel lounges became too expensive. The only solution for Fred was to build his own place, where young and old could go, to hear country music pure and simple, and bring their own coolers to cut costs. In 1968, Fred built his dance barn and instantly became a part of the cultural tradition of Southern Illinois.

Group plays loud gospel rock 'n roll

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

Mylon LeFevre and Broken Heart, a popular Christian rock group, will perform at 7:30 tonight in the Marion Civic Center.

The group is touring to support their latest album "Crack the Sky," which has reached the number one position on the Contemporary Hits music chart.

Before forming Broken Heart, LeFevre recorded and performed with such rock musicians as The Beatles, The Rolling Stones, The Who, Eric Clapton and Billy Joel. At 17, LeFevre wrote the gospel song "Without Him," which Elvis Presley and 125 other artists recorded.

Fame and wealth followed LeFevre soon after, as well as a heroin addiction. "I stayed stoned 24 hours a day for 10 to 12 years," he said in an interview with The Houston Post.

A drug overdose nearly killed LeFevre and eventually led him to the church. In 1980, he left a $670,000-a-year salary to accept a $75-a-month job as a janitor at the Mount Paran Church of God in Atlanta.

In 1981, LeFevre was ordained as a minister and the following year he returned to Christian music.

LeFevre insists that his music is rock 'n' roll — just as loud and flashy as any other hard rock group. On stage, the band members wear jeans and leather, and use flashing lights and explosions for their stage show.

Tickets for the Marion concert are $10.50 and may be purchased at the box office.

The band will appear at Syassee Keyboards in Marion from 2 to 5 p.m. before the concert to sign autographs.

state pension systems — those for elementary and secondary school employees, judges, legislators and other state employees — had their budgets cut by 4 percent. The university retirement system looked like a healthy target for a deeper cut, Petrini said. "It is a very, very strong system."

Demographic trends at Illinois universities make that a fatal practice, Capie said. As more employees reach retirement age, he said, the system will find its resources strained beyond its limits. The fact that people are living longer and thus drawing pensions for a longer period of time exacerbates the problem, he added.

"This cycle has to be broken," Capie said. "If they (the state) don't up the ante, rather than funding a portion, the state's going to be funding all of it."

If the state continues to underfund the system, Aikman said, the system may fail by 2036. And if it fails, the burden

"At this point, pensions are not particularly high on their (legislators') priority list."

—William Capie

of bailing it out will be on future generations.

"When the state decides it has got to bite the bullet, it's going to be a tremendous load" on future taxpayers, Aikman contended.

Ron Hodel, deputy director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, blamed the reduction in state funding for the system on the Legislature's refusal to raise taxes. "We were very disappointed at the the outcome of the legislative session," Hodel said. "We knew it was going to be a difficult time for all areas of education."

The governor's reduction in state funding for the retirement system was "just another upset," Hodel said.

Part of the problem, Aikman said, is that retirement systems are tempting targets for budget cuts when state funds are scarce.

"Somebody says 'Aha, let's not fund the retirement system this year and somebody will take care of it later,'" he said. "But they won't."

The legislature may override the funding cut in its fall veto session, Capie said. He urges University employees to write their legislators.

"At this point, pensions are not particularly high on their (legislators') priority list," Capie said. University employees "need to make their legislators aware of the concerns they have about the retirement system."

state Senate, Dunn calls himself "the senior citizen of the Legislature."

He said he was in better health now than two years ago. "I'm not worried about my health," Dunn said. "I'm worried about my age, but there's nothing I can do about that."

Dunn said he has raised $20,000 for his campaign and is prepared to spend $150,000 to win.

To attract student support, Dunn said he plans to campaign on campus and take part in tailgate. During his 1984 campaign, Dunn went door-to-door in the dormitories to drum up support.

Dunn considers himself an advocate for students, saying he is always available to help them.

"If they have something they don't want to take to the (SIU-C) administration, they can talk to us and we will," he said.

A staunch supporter of education, Dunn said he will do what he can to help the University grow.

Dunn said he will try to get more money for the SIU-C Coal Research Center to replace the 25-year-old boilers, for research into removing sulfur from coal and for generating electricity from coal.

Dunn said he supports a 20 percent increase in income tax, a new state penitentiary in Southern Illinois, a work camp in Du Quoin and several Build Illinois projects in Du Quoin, Waterloo, Sparta and Tilden.

Dunn has served 12 years in the House, and two years in the Senate. He is minority spokesman on the Senate Higher Education Committee and serves on the Elementary and Secondary and Appropriations II committees.

Museum chief defies danger in Alamo film

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

Jack Whitlock, director of the University Museum, risked his life by participating in a movie that he describes as a "genuine and authentic account" of the attack on the Alamo.

Whitlock and the Seventh Illinois Cavalry, a national battle re-enactment regiment, were chosen to participate in "Alamo ... The Price of Freedom" because of their expertise in the handling of horses.

In the movie, Whitlock, along with the Cavalry, portray the Mexican lancers who attacked and killed all 189 Alamo defenders, including Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie. The attack scene was a "harrowing experience," Whitlock said. "We rode downhill at full-speed with lances extended, and then leaped a wooden fence."

"It's one thing to ride down full-gallop, but it's another to jump a barricade I could have killed myself," Whitlock said. "The trick is to stay in the saddle, hold the lance straight, and look like a Mexican lancer."

The scene was shot 12 times, Whitlock said. "People were hurt in almost every shot and some were taken to the hospital."

Whitlock also helped depict a celebration featuring a Spanish-American dance called the Fandango, in which he played a Texan, and participated in a scene in which he had to climb hand-ouilt ladders over a 30-foot wall.

The movie was filmed in and around a scale replica of the Alamo at Happy Shahan's Alamo Village in Brackettville, Texas. Approximately $6 million was raised by private citizens of Texas to help fund the movie because they wanted the public to know what really happened at the Alamo in 1836.

Great lengths were taken to make sure everything was historically accurate, Whitlock said. Actors were told during shooting to remove modern jewelry, glasses and other objects not historically correct.

The Seventh Illinois Cavalry make a real contribution to reliving and recording the history of the country, Whitlock said. "In many instances, we are participating in a very real situation, and bringing history to life."

The Cavalry appeared in a number of movies including, "North and South Parts I and II," "Dream West" and "The Blue and the Grey."

The movie was filmed by Director Kieth Merrill on the IMAX system, which projects 70mm film onto huge screens that sometimes reach proportions of 70 to 100 feet. Merrill also directed the movie "To Fly," which was shown in IMAX theaters around the world.

Construction of a 6-story-high IMAX theater is underway in San Antonio, Texas, where "Alamo ... The Price of Freedom" will premiere on March 6, 1988, the 152nd anniversary of the attack on the Alamo.

No plank for radio pirates, but possible battle brewing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charges against two pirate rock radio broadcasters operating from a rusty ship off Long Island were dropped Thursday because the renegade station has been off the air since a July raid, the government said.

But the broadcasters for Radio New York International said they were planning to return to the air, an action the government vowed would result in another arrest of the operators. The Federal Communications Commission maintains the station needed a license to broadcast, but the operators said that since the station was in international waters, no FCC license was required.

The broadcasters, who said New York radio "stinks," went on the air July 23 with an eclectic format of vintage rock and contemporary talk beamed at New York listeners.

MUST YOU LEAVE YOUR BRAIN AT HOME WHEN YOU GO TO CHURCH?

Warm faith does not require brainless belief. In our church we think your mind matters. Spirituality and intellectual integrity are compatible. And we try to foster both. We confess Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior but we have no elaborate and rigid creed. We have a heritage of respecting the right of our members to think for themselves and to come to their own conclusions about the interpretation of scripture. We enjoy our diversity. You will too. If you are tired of religion that put you in an intellectual strait jacket, experience the faith-filled freedom of the Disciples.

Blues queen to perform at E-Night

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

Koko Taylor, internationally-acclaimed "Queen of the Blues," and Big Twist and The Mellow Fellows, will perform at the Student Center during E-Night Festivities on Sept. 11, at 7:30 p.m.

Taylor is touring to support her recently-released album, "Live From Chicago-An Audience With the Queen," on Alligator Records.

The new album is Taylor's eighth and is the follow-up to her critically-acclaimed album, "Queen of the Blues," which received a Grammy nomination for Best Blues Album.

Her stage performance also won her the W. C. Handy Award for "Entertainer of the Year" in 1985 and "Female Vocalist of the Year" in 1986. She is the only performer ever to have won a Handy Award for seven consecutive years.

In 1984, Taylor won the Grammy award for "Best Blues Recording" for her performance on "Blues Explosion," a live recording done at the Montreux Jazz Festival. She has received a total of seven Grammy nominations throughout her career.

Taylor's greatest hit was the million-selling Willie Dixon song, "Wang Dang Doodle," which has become an international blues standard.

Endangered otters penned, relocated to avoid oil spills

SAN NICHOLAS ISLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Twenty-four California sea otters were released Thursday into floating pens in the waters off San Nicholas Island in a relocation project aimed at protecting the furry creatures from possible oil spills.

The animals — the first of 70 scheduled for relocation from the San Luis Obispo County coast this year — were flown in before dawn from temporary quarters at the Monterey Bay Aquarium, David Klinger, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service spokesman, said.

"The otters are being placed in mesh-wire pens several dozen meters offshore, where they'll remain for the next two to five days before being released," Klinger said. "We want to keep them in these pens to give them a chance to readjust from the shock of being transferred and acclimate to the island."

The colony of otters is being established at an island 75 miles off the Los Angeles coast to protect the threatened species from a possible oil spill, which could devastate the population.

The eventual transfer of 280 of the estimated 1,650 sea otters living along the state's central and northern coast was approved last week by the state Fish and Game Commission.

The Great Place to LIVE

IN CHOOSING A PLACE TO LIVE, COMFORT IS BASIC AND PERHAPS THE FIRST CONSIDERATION. But there's more: convenience and superior service is what makes a great place to live.

University Hall is the great place to live for Southern Illinois University students. It is a complete, co-educational facility, providing the best in comfort, convenience, and service.

Certified by Southern Illinois University as an accepted living center for all single undergraduate men and women.

A Variety of Recreational Facilities

For entertaining guests, holding rap sessions, or just relaxing, there is our sunken main floor lounge. Other activities include ping pong, pool, and watching television.

University Hall has a 25' x 60' swimming pool and furnished patio, which can be enjoyed during the three warm seasons of the year, fall, spring, and summer, as can the outdoor basketball/volleyball court. For year around use, there is a fully equipped weight room.

Living in Total Comfort

Comfort is epitomized by our furnished rooms which include ample closets, desks with florescent study lamps, and individually controlled heat and air conditioning. Each room is wired for the installation of a private phone, and there's a hookup for our master television antenna.

You may choose your own roommate, of course. Single rooms are also available.

The carpeted hallways and excellent sound-proofing give the comfort of very quiet surroundings. Elevators at both ends of the building and our large parking lot for cars, plus bike racks, provide added convenience, as do the laundry rooms, and the variety of snack and drink vending machines. Mail pickup and delivery is provided on a regular schedule by the Carbondale Post Office.

Close to Campus and Shopping

University Hall is located just 5 blocks from the center of campus, and just around the corner from a shopping area which includes a movie theater, a supermarket, a service station, as well as a restaurant and lounge. Other shopping areas are within easy walking distance.

We're proud of our service, not only our food and maintenance service, but the service our resident counselors provide: whether it's answering a question, or helping you with a problem. We at University Hall have been and always will be receptive to the wants and needs of our residents—we want to know your suggestions for improving our service to you.

Comfort, convenience, and service—University Hall has the best of all three. We think that covers it, but if you have questions please write, or come visit us.

NASA blames water pipe for shuttle rocket test delay

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (UPI) — A long-awaited firing of the first redesigned space shuttle rocket booster with new O-ring joints to prevent a repeat of the Challenger disaster was aborted twice Thursday by frustrating problems with ground equipment.

The rocket, loaded with 1.1 million pounds of rubbery solid propellant, had been scheduled to fire at 1:05 p.m. for a full 122-second "burn" to subject the new fuel segment joints to the heat and pressure of ignition for the first time.

But within 15 seconds of ignition, an engineer said, "The motor is aborted," and the countdown entered a delay.

THE PROBLEM involved a leaking hose in the system that sprays cooling water on the horizontal rocket's case to prevent burned propellant from damaging the walls of the booster after firing. There was nothing wrong with the rocket itself.

The problem was corrected, but a second attempt to fire the rocket stalled at 2:57 p.m. at the T-minus 3-minute mark when ground control computers had to be "recycled" because of the earlier delay.

The test marked a crucial element in NASA's plans to launch the shuttle's Discovery next June on the first post-Challenger flight.

"THIS TEST ... is the most

"This test is the most critical test since the redesign and recovery program began."

—Royce Mitchell, Booster Project Manager

critical test since the redesign and recovery program began," said Royce Mitchell, booster project manager at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

The rocket was equipped with three O-ring seals, better insulation and a host of other improvements and engineers had expressed confidence the new design would work as advertised.

But a final determination depended on analysis of test data from 520 sensitive instruments and evaluation of the rocket's insides after it is disassembled at this Morton Thiokol Inc. rocket plant in the Utah desert 85 miles north of Salt Lake City.

CARVER KENNEDY, Morton Thiokol's vice president for space programs, said the rocket, called Development Motor 8, or DM8 in NASA terminology, provided a "quantum jump from the pre-Challenger design."

"I guess to summarize, we have gotten to the point where in the paratroopers, you've learned to pack the parachutes and now it's time to go jump," he said at a news conference two hours before the initial test time.

Some 100 journalists and 200 invited guests were on hand for the test at a viewing site 9,000 feet from the rocket.

AT LEAST three more test boosters must successfully endure full-scale firings before shuttle flights can resume in a redesign program that will cost $460 million.

"None of these tests guarantee that we'll go on time, but any one of them can guarantee we won't go on time," said John "Mike" Lounge, one of Discovery's five crew members.

But with the tempo building for launch, the first firing marked a major hurdle for the beleaguered space agency. Discovery's flight processing begins Sept. 8 and the first segments that will make up the shuttle's boosters are scheduled to arrive at the Kennedy Space Center Dec. 16.

CHALLENGER WAS destroyed and its seven crew members killed when a joint between two segments of its right side booster ruptured Jan. 28, 1986, triggering the aerodynamic breakup of the shuttle.

Air quality has improved overall, according to EPA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency reported an overall improvement Thursday in air quality in 1986 but warned cities violating ozone and carbon monoxide laws to conform to standards or face sanctions.

The agency released the data covering air quality tests for 1984 to 1986 and noted there were 14 fewer areas in the country having an atmosphere that violates the national standard for ozone pollution.

The EPA said 16 areas were dropped from the list of those violating the ozone standard but two new areas were added.

Ozone pollution, which causes breathing problems, is a component of smog. It forms when sunlight strikes exhaust fumes, gasoline vapors and other air pollutants emitted by some factories, power plants and municipal burners.

The EPA warned cities still violating ozone and carbon monoxide laws by Dec. 31 that they will be sanctioned by the agency, possibly getting a construction ban and a cutoff of federal funds for some pollution projects.

The agency said hot, sunny weather this summer, which contributes to ozone pollution, is likely to put some cities back on the 1987 list of violators subject to sanctions.

Following are areas that violated the EPA ozone standard from 1984 to 1986, listed in order starting with the area with the highest ozone levels:

Los Angeles; San Diego; Houston; New York; Greater Connecticut; Providence, R.I.; Sacramento, Calif.; Atlantic City, N.J.; Chicago; the Philadelphia area.

Also Atlanta; Bakersfield, Calif.; Baton Rouge, La.; Dallas area; El Paso, Texas; Fresno, Calif.; Louisville, Ky. area; Modesto, Calif.; New Bedford, Mass.; St. Louis.

28,000 possible deaths linked to Chernobyl, scientists project

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Up to 28,000 people in the Northern Hemisphere could die of cancer related to the April 1986 accident at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant in the Soviet Union, a University of California researcher estimated Thursday.

Researcher Marvin Goldman said the projection is surprisingly low, given that 3.5 billion people live in the northern half of the world. However, he said, radiation that reached other countries was lower than he expected.

"I was rather surprised that the radiation (circulating into the atmosphere throughout the hemisphere) was that small and the consequences for health effects amount to a few thousandths of a percent," Goldman said at a news conference to release the results of his study.

Goldman said people living in Europe could be exposed to about three rads of radiation over the next 50 years. He compared that to one-tenth of a rad that each human is exposed to each year from natural sources.

A rad is a measure of absorbed radiation.

Goldman, who specializes in studying the long-term effects of radiation on mammals, headed a research team commissioned by the U.S. Department of Energy.

Goldman's team estimated there will be up to 700 additional cases of severe mental retardation and as many as 1,900 additional serious genetic defects during the next half-century resulting from the release of nuclear particles.

South African miners say owners have declared war

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Mine owners fired 18,400 black miners Thursday and threatened 32,000 other strikers with dismissal, a move that unions warned could trigger a general strike of all black workers.

"It is quite clear that (mine owners) have declared war on the union and are bent on destroying it," Marcel Goiding, deputy leader of the black National Union of Mine workers told reporters.

Thursday's dismissals surpassed the firing of 16,000 black strikers from a platinum mine in 1985 and marked the biggest mass firing ever in South Africa.

THE FIRINGS came after miners voted Wednesday to reject an offer by owners to improve vacation pay and death benefits, saying the concessions fell far short of their demands for a 27 percent wage increase.

South African trade unions warned mass firings in the strike could result in a national sympathy strike by black workers. The strike entered its 18th day Thursday and has crippled the country's most important industry.

"The mine owners have made it a test of strength and that is what it is going to be, and from our side we are determined to win it," said Jay Naidoo, general secretary of the Congress of South African Trade Unions, which has

"Black workers in this country have few weapons, but one of those weapons is withdrawal of labor. A general strike is not a last resort, it is one of the weapons we have."

— Jay Naidoo

650,000 members.

"BLACK WORKERS in this country have few weapons, but one of those weapons is withdrawal of labor," he said. "A general strike is not a last resort, it is one of the weapons we have."

Naidoo acknowledged a nationwide strike by blacks would be illegal under a 14-month-old state of emergency.

The giant Anglo American Corp., which employs more than half the estimated 330,000 strikers, fired 18,400 workers from seven idle shafts and marked 30,000 others for dismissal if they failed to report today.

Another 2,000 were given until Saturday to resume work.

"WE ARE processing dismissals at a number of mines," Anglo American spokesman Paul Clothier said. "Strikers have deadlines to return to work tomorrow at a number of other mines."

Anglo American, considered by labor analysts as the most progressive mining house, earlier cited "an urgent need to resume mining operations" amid speculation the strike had already cost the company $100 million.

Clothier said among those fired were 3,000 strikers who staged an underground sit-in Thursday in the world's deepest mine, Western Deep Levels gold mine, where shafts sink 3 miles into the earth.

THE UNDERGROUND protest continued late Thursday with no attempt to move the protesters, Clothier said, although the company reportedly broadcast messages to them from a helicopter.

Up to 24,000 strikers employed by General Mining Corp. face unspecified disciplinary steps, spokesman Harry Hill said.

And another 3,000 strikers will be fired today if they fail to report at a mine owned by Johannesburg Consolidated Investments, said company spokesman Jeremy Nel.

SIX MINERS have died and some 350 have been wounded in clashes, most between private mine security forces and militant strikers.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE STARTS HERE

Nunn not running for presidency

ATLANTA (UPI) — Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia, the politically moderate, highly respected defense expert many Democrats believed was the party's best hope of winning the White House in 1988, announced Thursday he would not run.

He said Senate and family responsibilities led him to decide — at 8:15 a.m. Thursday — against entering the race, and the rest of the contenders for the Democratic nomination breathed easier.

Nunn, 48, ended months of speculation about his ambitions in a letter released to the Atlanta news media and supporters.

"My new responsibility as chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee weighed heavily in this decision," Nunn said in his letter. "With a son in high school and a daughter in college, I am also concerned about the impact of a presidential campaign on my family."

"I have been surprised and honored by the many sincere offers of political and financial support that I have received from both old and new friends throughout the nation," the letter said. But, "I have decided not to run in the 1988 presidential race."

Nunn's letter also said the Armed Services Committee "faces many challenges in the next few months on matters relating to national security, foreign policy and arms control. I know myself pretty well, and I have concluded that if I attempted to run for president and also carry out my Senate duties, I would wind up doing neither well."

At a news conference Thursday afternoon, Nunn said he believes he could have raised $6 million to $10 million by January to finance a presidential bid.

He said he has already he returned "hundreds of thousands of dollars" to people who had sent him money.

Nunn said the chances of a draft movement if the Democratic National Convention, in Atlanta next summer, is stalemated "are 1,000 against that situation arising, and I wouldn't speculate on something that remote."

"I felt the chance of waging a successful campaign were really there," he said. Nunn told Democrats at a gathering in Atlanta in February that he was not seeking the nomination at that time but lately came to feel that "I felt I had a better chance in August than I did in February," he said.

Jet sale limited to planes lost in gulf war

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To quell Israeli opposition, the administration will propose a sale of up to a dozen F-15 fighter planes to Saudi Arabia on condition they be released only to replace aircraft lost in accidents or in combat with Iran, sources said Thursday.

Administration sources said that despite a published report to the contrary, the sale proposal next month will be limited to the F-15s, worth about $500 million, and will not include any plan to sell 1,600 Maverick anti-tank missiles.

PUBLIC NOTICE DIRECTORY INFORMATION SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY AT CARBONDALE

Under the University policy on the Release of Student Information and Public Law 93380 as amended, the University may make accessible to any person external to the University "directory information" concerning a student, unless that student notifies the Office of Admissions and Records that he or she objects to the release of such information. Directory information is considered to be public in nature and will be released at any time upon request without prior approval from the student. Notice is therefore given that directory information listed below in respect to each student enrolled at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale will be available to any person unless the student files in writing with the Office of Admissions and Records a request to restrict release of student directory information to external sources.

The University has designated as directory information the following student information:

- Student name.
- Student local address and telephone number.
- Student home address and telephone number.
- Date-of-birth.
- Current term hours carried.
- Classification (freshman, sophomore, etc.)
- Academic unit.
- Major.
- Dates of attendance.
- Degrees and honors earned and dates.
- The most previous educational agency or institution attended prior to enrollment at Southern Illinois University.
- Participation in officially recognized activity or sport and weight, height and pictures of members of athletic teams.
- Picture.

Any student enrolled for the Fall Semester who does not wish to have released any or all of the above listed items of information should contact in person, the Office of Admissions and Records, Woody Hall by Thursday, September 3, 1987. Students who elect to restrict release of student information must sign a statement to that effect. The restriction on the release of student information will be valid until September 1, 1988 and must be renewed annually each Fall Semester.

Students who wish to verify or correct the existing student directory information must also contact in person, the Office of Admissions and Records, Woody Hall, Wing A.

Performer pedals bicycle during entire comedy tour

By Curtie Winston
Entertainment Editor

"Comedy is such a competitive business that you have to stand out in some way," Tom Snider, a comedian who stands out by riding a bicycle to all of his gigs, said.

Snider is making a tour of "Comedy Hell" entirely by bicycle. He performed Tuesday night at BG's Old Time Deli and Saloon at Professional Comedy Night, which is held every Tuesday and Wednesday.

His unique act employs playing harmonica with his nose, handstands, balancing his seed corn hat on his nose and flipping it onto his head and bouncing a balloon through the audience, as well as one line jokes and stories.

Snider rode to the Midwest earlier this summer from his home in Las Vegas, enduring a burning desert, rigorous mountains, and the boredom of the plains. He listed snakes and getting robbed as his major fears in making the trip.

A native of Ottawa and a graduate of Illinois State University, Snider started doing improvisational comedy in Normal. He lived in Omaha with some comedy friends for a short time, but recently moved to Las Vegas.

It was the car trip to Vegas that helped Snider to decide to pedal his way to his comedy gigs. On the way his car blew up and after he was told by a mechanic that repair would not be feasible, he caught a bus to his destination where he wondered what to do next.

It was when his agent scheduled a gig in Des Moines, Iowa, that he started thinking he could ride his bike to the places he was to perform. Snider said he had taken a cross-country bike tour before and had always been athletic, having wrestled at ISU, it seemed like the logical thing to do.

However, the car trip west had pretty much strapped him financially and his old Peugeot 12-speed needed some repair before it would be roadworthy, so he decided to make the money he needed by playing blackjack at the Vegas casinos.

"I was down to my last $2 twice," Snider said, but he persisted and three days later he was travelling across the desert with $207.

Snider's story of his trip from Las Vegas seemed incredible so far, but 1,400 miles into the trip he received word that the club in Des Moines that he was scheduled to appear had burned down.

Running out of money and energy, Snider continued to Illinois, where he has relatives. He spent his last few days on the road living on crackers and ended up in Ottawa with 17 cents.

After a brief rest in his hometown, Snider packed up his rickety bicycle and headed for gigs in Omaha, Topeka, Kan., Lake of the Ozarks, Mo., and Springfield, Mo.

Snider referred to his gigs at American Legion halls, bars and restaurants and other places that normally don't have comedy for entertainment as "Comedy Hell." It's hard working in those places he said, adding that most crowds aren't used to comedy and the clubs don't police the audience to take out hecklers that can disrupt an act.

Snider will be cycling to the Rockies after gigs in Springfield, Ill. and St. Louis for a gig in Fort Collins, Colo. on Sept. 17.

80th Birthday Celebration

Lou Bertac C. McKinley Cavitt was celebrated on Saturday, August 22nd She was honored with a surprise dinner at the Eurma Hayes Community Center, given by her 6 children 18 grandchildren, 9 great-grandchildren, attended by more than 80 relatives and friends from various parts of the U.S. The children extend Warm-Hearted Appreciation to those who participated in this Glorious Occasion.

Luncheon honors foster families

A luncheon to honor foster children and the families who have adopted them will be held on Aug. 29 at the Du Quoin State Fair.

The second annual luncheon, sponsored by the Department of Children and Family Services, will be attended by about 1,000 children and their parents from the 34 counties that comprise the agency's Marion and East St. Louis regions. DCFSS sponsors the luncheon.

"Foster and adoptive families are very special people," DCFSS Director Gordon Johnson said. "Once a year we honor them with this 'fair within a fair.' It's our way of saying thanks for taking in uprooted children and showing them that someone still cares."

"At the same time, it gives us the opportunity to show the children a great time," he added.

As part of Governor's Day activities at the Fair,

Governor James R. Thompson will join Johnson in welcoming the families.

The luncheon begins at 11 a.m. on the lawn of the Hayes Mansion at the fairgrounds. The fun-filled program includes games, prizes and carnival rides. Entertainment will include Shrine clowns; JoJo & Friends; the Mystifying Gorzich, a magician and illusionist; the Royal Australian Circus.

German singer scheduled

German scholar and performer Klaus K. Urban will sing in German at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 1 in the Museum Auditorium, located on the north end of Paner Hall.

SIU-C's Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and the German Club are co-sponsoring the event, which is free and open to the public.

Urban will accompany himself on guitar and his performance will include some of his own works.

A professor of special education at the University of Hanover in West Germany, Urban has performed on German radio and television. He also has performed abroad under the programs of Goethe House, a German cultural institution.

Western coach optimistic for '87 promises "leatherneck" defense

MACOMB, Ill. (UPI) — When 14 ballots made their pre-season picks in the Gateway Conference this month, everyone picked Northern Iowa to win the title except Western Illinois coach Bruce Craddock. He's putting his money on his Leathernecks.

"I think it's really a balanced league and I think every week either team can win. It's a matter of breaks and staying healthy," says Craddock. "I really feel we have the potential to have a truly fine football team."

The Leathernecks, who have posted three consecutive seasons without a losing record and have 28 lettermen returning, boast an experienced offensive unit but must replace nine defensive starters from last year's 6-5 team.

However, his untested defense does not worry Craddock, a 43-year-old native of Park Forest.

"I'm really delighted with our defense," Craddock says. "We've got two veteran, part-time starters at the defensive line spot, a linebacker corps solidified by captain Marty Lomelino and, in the secondary, we've got five or six guys who were part-time starters last year back. So we have more experience there than what it might appear since we lost so many senior starters."

On the other side of the football, Craddock is expecting big things from an offensive unit that averages 278 pounds on the line and has veterans returning at the quarterback, running back, fullback and tight end positions.

"Our emphasis has swung a little bit more toward the throwing game," with the addition of passing game coordinator Gary Crowton, says Craddock.

"We've always thrown the ball," he adds. "In 75 plays offensively, we've probably have thrown for 35 and rushed in 40. In last Saturday's scrimmage, we threw 67 and ran 40 out of 107 plays."

Paul Singer, a junior with 2,700 career passing yards who has alternated with Rick Fahnstrock, will start at quarterback on WIU's "big play" offense, with running backs Mike Cox and Claude Milsap and fullbacks Brett Grimslaw and Victor Perrin back for another year.

If the offense has a weakness, it's in the receiving corps because of Albert Brown's graduation and senior tight end Tom Bragg, who is recovering from wrist surgery.

The offensive line is anchored by all-conference guard Keith Blue. Craddock's hopes for a healthy year already have been shaken: before the first game with pre-season Division I-AA All-American tackle John Wisnosky sidelined with a broken ankle that will keep him out of the first two games.

"I think we have that ability to bounce back from adversity," says the Leatherneck coach. "We have good depth now and we just need to stay healthy through the remainder of this season."

Should that happen, Craddock says he expects to finish well above the fourth-place finish in the Gateway set by the pre-season prognosticators.

Cubs lose one to darkness, another to Braves & Smith

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dale Murphy hit his 35th home run and Zane Smith scattered six hits Thursday, carrying the Atlanta Braves to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the first game of a double-header.

The Cubs dropped to 62-65, their first sub-500 record since April 24 when they were 7-8.

The second game of the double header was canceled in the top of the eighth inning due to darkness. The Cubs had established a 8-6 lead on five home runs. The game is slated to be replayed at a later date, but the two teams are not scheduled to play each other again this season.

Smith, 14-7, collected his sixth win in his last seven starts and raised his road record to 8-2 with the first game win. The victory was Smith's first ever against the Cubs. He went the distance for the seventh time, fourth best in the National League.

After giving up three hits and two runs, one unearned, in the first inning, Smith held the Cubs to one hit the rest of the way. He struck out three and walked one.

Losers Jamie Moyer, 10-11, gave up six hits, struck out two and walked five over seven innings in taking the loss.

The Cubs scored two runs off Smith in the first inning on three hits and two errors. Ryne Sandberg and Andre Dawson hit one-out singles and Brian Dayett hit a sharp bouncer that shortstop Blausner booted for an error, allowing Sandberg to score.

Keith Moreland hit a grounder to third that Runge booted, allowing Dawson to score.

The Cubs and Braves were rained out two days in a row, creating Thursday's double-header. The third game of the series, originally scheduled for Thursday, will be played later in the season, if necessary.

Controversial draft by NFL draws widespread criticism

NEW YORK (UPI) -- The NFL goes ahead with its controversial supplemental draft Friday despite declarations from several teams they will not participate on moral grounds and widespread anger in the college sports community.

College officials and some NFL clubs say the league has set a dangerous precedent by deciding to hold a special draft for Ohio State All-American receiver Cris Carter and Pittsburgh running back Charles Gladman after they were declared ineligible for their senior seasons for signing with agents.

The NFL agreed to hold a special draft for the two players, citing the danger of being sued and saying the league was not in a position to act as the NCAA's enforcement arm.

Carter worked out in front of scouts Thursday at an Indianapolis high school. He was scheduled to practice in front of scouting combines in St. Louis, Dallas and at the Indianapolis Hoosier Dome in the past week, but all the workouts were canceled.

Mitch Frankel, Carter's agent, said the National Scouting Service canceled the St. Louis workout citing "pressures from outside forces including fear that they would not be able to look at players on college campuses in the future."

"I don't know who will come or not," Frankel said of Friday's draft. "I find it hard

"I find it hard to believe no one is interested in a player of that talent. It seems he's being made a symbol of all the NCAA-NFL problems."

Mitch Frankel, agent of Chris Carter to believe no one is interested in a player of that talent. It seems he's being made a symbol of all the NCAA-NFL problems."

The National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics has led the criticism of the NFL.

"We feel this sort of thing plays into the hands of player agents by honoring those who leave school to play in the NFL," said Dennis Collins, a spokesman for the organization.

Maryland Coach Joe Krivak Thursday said he may ban scouts from team's participating in the draft from campus.

"The agents that are trying to sign kids prematurely ... are) not in the best interest of college football," Krivak said. San Francisco, Minnesota, Washington, Chicago, San Diego, Tampa Bay, the Los Angeles Raiders, Detroit, and New England are among the teams who have said they will not participate.

"A conscious effort to break down the mores of this sport by unconscionable agents and naive athletes could destroy a great tradition of national participation by all segments of our society," 49ers Coach Bill Walsh said in a letter to the NFL, NCAA and about 200 colleges.

Other teams have said they are leaving their options open.

"We're basing our decision on football ability and what they can do to help our team," Dallas Cowboys Vice President Gil Brandt said.

Carter, of Middletown, Ohio, lost his eligibility after it was disclosed he had accepted about $6,800 from agents Norby Walters and Lloyd Bloom. Gladman was declared ineligible for refusing to cooperate with an investigation of the agents.

The supplemental draft will be weighted to the advantage of the league's worst teams. Team's choosing players will lose their pick in the corresponding round of next year's regular draft.

Four others will be eligible in the draft. Dan McFadden, a defensive back from the University of Miami (Fla.); Paul Miller, who attended Illinois Valley in 1985 but did not play football; Marquis Pleasant, a wide receiver from Southern Methodist University's disbanded program; and Nicholls State defensive back Chester Savoie will all be available.

Saluki sprint 2 auto cross set for Sunday

By Todd Mounce
 Staff Writer

Autocross will be featured at the Southern Illinois Airport Sunday, Aug. 30, said John Mills, former president of the Southern Illinois University Grand Touring Auto Club and current instructor-teacher. The Auto Club and the Gateway Autocross Club from St. Louis are co-sponsoring the event. Last year, over 60 cars were involved in the Saluki Sprint 1. This year, over 100 cars have already registered and more are expected. Cars as well as some street cars, from as far away as Kansas City, Mo., will participate in the event. The course is one-half mile long using some of the airport's runways and part of the parking lot. The Saluki Sprint 2 is a warm-up for the Solo 2 Nationals, to be held in Salina, Kansas in mid-September and is subject to Sports Car Club of America rules. The event is free and the public is encouraged to attend.

No mistakes a priority for gridders

By Bill West
Staff Writer

The football scrimmage set for 9 a.m. Saturday at McAndrew Stadium is the last full-fledged scrimmage for the 15th-ranked Salukis before the home opener against Delta State Sept. 5.

Head coach Ray Dorr wants the Salukis to eliminate the mistakes that plagued the scrimmage last Saturday, he said.

"Players who fumble the ball, drop the pass or commit a similar grievous error may not start against Delta State," Dorr warned.

Although Dorr has in mind who will start against Delta State, the players' performance Saturday could persuade him to make changes, he said.

The coaches plan to work on all aspects of the kicking game in the scrimmage Saturday.

"We're not happy with the way the kicking game has progressed," Dorr said. "We feel like we are a little bit behind."

The team needs to work on returning the kickoff as well as deftly using the opposing team's kickoff return, Dorr said.

The teams will work on critical-situation plays such as goal-line stands for the defense and two-minute drills for the offense, he said.

Knee injury keeps spiker out of action

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Salukis volleyballer Sue Sinclair entered Thursday's scrimmage with Southest Missouri State with high expectations.

In the fourth game Sinclair's troublesome right knee buckled and she was carried off the floor. A preliminary report indicates a sprain, and she will be unable to play in this weekend's matches.

"When something like this happens it's like a knife's been stuck into you," Salukis coach Debbie Hunter said. "She's probably devastated. She has a lot invested in this season."

Sinclair's history of knee problems goes back to the spring of 1986. Since then she has had two knee surgeries.

The Salukis won all four games, 15-10, 15-10, 15-4, 15-8.

"Aside from the incident, I was extremely pleased with the scrimmage. We reaped a lot out of it. And we didn't collapse when Sue went out. The intensity was there," Hunter said.

Sinclair will see her physician on Friday in St. Louis. Secondary setter Dawn Thompson will move into her slot.

"We've been preparing Dawn for that role, knowing this might happen," Hunter said. Thompson is a 5-6 junior who had 57 assists in 17 matches last season.

Heads down

Saluki football coach Ray Dorr hopes he doesn't have to repeat the chewing out he gave his players after a dismal scrimmage last Saturday. This Saturday's scrimmage will be the last before the season opener.

Illinois, Notre Dame a tough way for spikers to open '87

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Why just get your feet wet when you can jump right in?

The Salukis volleyball squad is diving headfirst into the 1987 schedule when it opens against Illinois on Saturday and Notre Dame on Sunday.

"This is the toughest season opener we've ever had," said Salukis coach Debbie Hunter, who has a 267-200-9 career record through 12 seasons.

The Salukis meet Illinois at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Glenbard South High School in Glen Ellyn, a suburb of Chicago. Illinois, the host, annually plays in Chicago in order to recruit in the area.

The Illini are ranked sixth in the nation, according to Volleyball Monthly. They had a 36-3 record last year, were undefeated at 18-0 in the Big Ten, and reached the quarterfinals of the NCAA national tournament.

But most important, the Illini return five starters including All-American middle blocker, Mary Eggers. A 5-11 junior, Eggers led the nation in hitting last season with a .455 attack percentage.

"Traditionally, Mary is a slow starter," Illinois fifth year coach Mike Hebert said. "But even her slow start is still pretty good. I expect her to deliver."

Next to Eggers is middle blocker Nancy Brookhart, a 6-1 sophomore who was fourth in the Big Ten in hitting. She is a matter of concern to Hunter.

"She is as physically dominating as any I've seen in the collegiate system," Hunter said.

Disa Johnson is a 5-11 senior who is among the Top 10 setters in the nation. The other Illini starters are Bridgett Boyle (5-10, So.) at outside hitter, Sandy Schultns (5-8, Jr.) at outside hitter and either Elizabeth Binkley (6-4, Sr.) or Laura Bush (5-10, Fr.) at outside hitter.

Meanwhile, the Salukis have yet to establish a starting set due to recent injuries.

Amy Johnson, 5-11 freshman middle blocker, has a strained back. She must have a full rest for two weeks.

And Teri Noble, 5-8 junior outside hitter, has developed tendonitis. Her playing time will be limited to a non-jumping, backcourt capacity.

That leaves two slots open. Hunter may platoon with 5-8 junior middle blocker Beth Winsett, 5-11 freshman middle blocker Margaret Cooney and 5-10 freshman outside hitter Lori Simpson.

The rest of the lineup has 5-8 senior Sue Sinclair at setter, 5-9 junior Dorothy Buchanan at middle blocker, 5-11 sophomore Nina Brackins at middle blocker and 5-9 senior Joan Wallenberg at outside hitter.

"My main focus is the performance of our team, rather than massively looking at what the other team will do," Hunter said.

"Recently our ball control has not been as sharp as in earlier practices. It is essential we have our best ball control, we must serve aggressively without letting errors creep in," she added.

Illinois' Hebert expects a battle. "I think we'll see a typical Debbie Hunter product. SIU has a tremendous attitude on defense. They don't give up points. This is more than just a season opener," Hebert said.

In the last meeting, Illinois won 15-5, 12-15, 13-15, 15-12, 15-6 on Oct. 11, 1985 in Carbondale.

"We must play with a minimum of errors and force a lengthy match," Hunter said. "But I believe my team has the intangibles—the communication, the spirit—to be competitive."

Sunday's match against Notre Dame starts at 1:30 p.m. in South Bend, Ind. Other than spring exhibitions, this is the first meeting between the two teams.

While the Irish have their entire starting lineup back from a 33-7 squad, coach Art Lambert doesn't think his team is prepared.

"We've got a long way to go. We're really tired, by that I mean we're leg weary from practices. We've got to come on faster," Lambert said.

The top player for the Fighting Irish is Mary Kay Waller, a 6-0 junior middle blocker who was sixth in the nation in hitting.

Notre Dame has two members from the Olympic Festival: Kathy Cunningham, 5-11 sophomore outside hitter, and Zanette Bennett, 5-10 junior outside hitter.

The other starters are Taryn Collins (5-8, So.), outside hitter Kathy Baker (5-9, Sr.) and middle blocker Maureen Shea (6-0, Jr.).

Hunter said that a reasonable expectation would be for the Salukis to win four games. She expects to play 500 ball on the road.

The Salukis were 21-9 overall last year, with a 14-7 record against non-conference opponents. They had a 12-8 record on the road. In addition, they won their first two matches of the season.

Besides Illinois, the Salukis face two other Big Ten opponents. They host Indiana on Sept. 10 as part of the Saluki Invitational then face Iowa in Iowa City on Nov. 1.

Next week the Salukis have two matches, both at Davies Gym.
