United States assembles tank force

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — The largest U.S. military logistical operation since World War II is proceeding on schedule as ships bearing hundreds of M-1 Abrams tanks near Saudi Arabia, the mission commander said Sunday.

The tanks, named for a U.S. commander in Vietnam, will be the crucial backbone of the U.S. ground force now assembling to confront Iraq.

Maj. Gen. William Pagonis, who has the daunting task of ushering in the enormous quantities of men and materiel coming to the desert kingdom, said at a news conference that essentials for a combat force had been delivered and the key task now was sustaining the troops.

"We have got everybody to the right place and all the cargo to the right place," he said. "Our combat power is growing rapidly, and we are ready to sustain it for as long as necessary."

He said the military foundation had been laid by hundreds of air sorties, still being flown at the rate of about 50 a day, and five cargo ships from a pre-positioned maritime force in the region.

The vessels, which had been stationed at the Indian Ocean base of Diego Garcia in case of a Middle East crisis, are delivering enough armor and equipment to sustain a full Marine brigade for 30 days.

Pagonis said the next stage of the deployment would be the arrival of ships bearing an estimated 300 M-1 Abrams main battle tanks, America's top-range heavy armor and a vital attack weapon should U.S., Saudi and Arab forces move against the Iraqi armies stationed in occupied Kuwait.

The tank is named for the late Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, a legendary World War II tank fighter under Gen. George S. Patton who later commanded U.S.

military forces in the Vietnam War. "Right now, they are due in the next few days," Pagonis said.

Troops from the 24th Mechanized Infantry Division have been streaming to Saudi Arabia to man the armor when it arrives.

The M-1 is viewed by analysts as overwhelmingly superior to Iraq's Soviet-supplied T-72s.

Its employment would allow American forces to take the offensive and actually occupy ground they expect would be yielded by Iraqi troops hit by U.S. airpower and naval barrages.

More than 40,000 U.S. ground troops are estimated to be in Saudi Arabia, and many have been deployed to defend the main port of Jubail, north of Dhahran and about 130 miles south of Kuwait.

Pagonis bestowed accolades on the American military personnel in the desert, who he said had performed "miracles" by dealing with a myriad of challenges since Operation Desert Shield began full-scale Aug. 8.

"It is probably the largest logistical exercise ever accomplished in the shortest period of time since World War II," he said, noting the units originally had been working 36-hour shifts with four hours sleep.

New multi-purpose ID cards to be ready spring semester

By Shonda Talerico
Staff Writer

University students and staff will have access to everything from meal tickets to admittance into residence halls to check cashing privileges with the new identification card this spring.

The purpose behind SIU-C using the computerized system is to consolidate all current activity cards into one card, said Jeff Duke, coordinator of the campus ID card system.

The new system will be able to access a central processing unit through a magnetic stripe on back, Duke said.

When the University switched to a Student Information System for registration, he said, Admissions and Records didn't have a need to use the current system. The ID

Gus says the new card may consolidate student activities of every kind, but if the computer goes down, you're really in a bind.

High fuel prices cause rural crisis; American farmers fear lost sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Like winds that sweep across fields, bending the grain into passing waves, the impact of the Persian Gulf crisis is rippling across rural America in the form of higher fuel prices and worries about lost sales.

There were reports of fuel prices rising 40 cents a gallon in the Northwest while Corn Belt farmers, some of them approaching the end of a rain-soaked growing season, worried about unexpected costs for drying their grain.

In the parched Southeast, the president of the Georgia Agribusiness Council said higher fuel prices could worsen the situation of producers who are pumping water to their crops.

"You start pumping hundreds of thousands of gallons of water a day, and you can go through a tanker of diesel (fuel) in a day," said council president Gary Black.

An Agriculture Department official estimated that a $5 a barrel increase in oil prices could add $900 million a year in farm fuel, fertilizer, pesticide and utility costs, assuming a long-lasting oil-price increase.

"Diesel prices are up 40 cents a gallon from a month ago," said Gary Benner, petroleum manager for a farm supplier in the Spokane, Wash., area. "Where (the farmer) used to spend $7,500 per year, he's now spending $11,000."

New programs to help families pay for college education

By Brian Gross
Staff Writer

While most financial aid is restricted to low-income and minority families, more middle-income families need help to afford sending their children to college.

During the past year, the Illinois Student Assistance Commission has developed two programs to offer to middle-income families.

Eligibility for the two programs, a loan program and a savings program, is not based on family income but on individual family need, said ISAC public information director Robert Clement.

Also developed was a college savings program aimed at helping middle-income parents who are looking ahead at their child's education, James Osberg, the assistant to the Governor for education, said.

Gov. James R. Thompson addressed the need for a loan program and savings program for middle-income people in his state-of-the-state message in 1989, Osberg said.

These programs were developed for those people who just barely make enough money that financial need is the pivotal element in disqualifying them from the Pell Grant and Stafford Loan programs, he said.

"There's a lot of folks making $30,000 to $70,000 a year who, as federal money became more scarce, were left out in the cold as far as any financial aid being available," Osberg said.

The Illinois Opportunity Loan has the same 8 percent interest rate as the Stafford Loan, but unlike the Stafford Loan a student does not have to show need to qualify, Clement said.

This type of loan geared for middle-income families has become popular around the country, with Pennsylvania already running such a program, he said.

Parents can begin saving while their kids are still in grammar school with the college savings

Soviet Union not joining U.N. naval blockade

MOSCOW (UPI) — Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze affirmed Moscow's support Sunday for a U.N. resolution allowing use of force in the gulf but said the Soviet Union does not plan to join a naval blockade.

Shevardnadze and visiting French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas issued a joint statement in which their governments demanded Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait and the restoration of the tiny emirate's sovereignty.

The two men met as Egyptian Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel Meguid left Cairo for Moscow in the mounting international effort to resolve the Middle East crisis spawned by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Official Egyptian news media said Meguid was carrying a personal message from Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak for his Soviet counterpart, Mikhail Gorbachev, but its contents were not disclosed.

The Soviet Union joined 12 other members of the U.N. Security Council in authorizing U.S., British and French warships to carry out limited military enforcement of sanctions against Iraq as previously imposed by the United Nations.

"We voted so (for the U.N. resolution) because other nations have possibilities and are ready to take part in inspecting ships, craft, vessels suspected of carrying prohibited products and merchandise," Shevardnadze told reporters.

"Such forces are in the Gulf now," he said. "A corresponding resolution has been passed, and they can act. As far as the Soviet Union is concerned, we are not planning and we do not intend to use force or take part in those Moscow, which cut off arms shipments to Iraq hours after the invasion of Kuwait, previously indicated it would join a naval

Salukis picked last in Gateway poll

By Paul Pabs
Staff Writer

A pre-season Gateway Conference football coaches poll has the SIU-C Salukis squad picked last, but Saluki football coach Bob Smith, this means very little.

"I've been in that situation before," Smith said. "I have coached teams picked to be first and teams picked to be last. Polls tend not to turn out correct anyway. Football is played on the field, not through votes."

Smith's statement echoes the confidence he has in his second season as skipper at SIU-C. His ballot had Northern Iowa, the Salukis first opponent, as the top team in the Gateway, but Smith reiterated that no team in the conference is unbeatable.

"There is parity throughout the Gateway," Smith said. "Every team is going to get their chance to be at the top. This league has real balance. The difference between the top team and the bottom team could be one key injury."

The poll had Southwest Missouri State, led by star quarterback DeAndre Smith, as the top squad. Smith was last season's first-team Gateway quarterback, and Coach Smith agrees DeAndre Smith is the conference's premier player.

"He (DeAndre Smith) is the biggest impact player in the conference," Coach Smith said. "He makes so many big plays. He is small, but can run and throw well and has great field savvy."

While DeAndre Smith is touted as the best quarterback in the Gateway, Coach Smith believes that the Saluki passing game is the best around.

"I'd like to think with our strength at quarterback, that we will have the strongest passing game," Smith said. "We became known for our air attack last season, sometimes out of necessity."

Saluki standouts such as senior linebacker Kevin Kilgallon, senior defensive end Marty Hochertz, sophomore receiver Johnny Roots and junior tackle Tom Roth were honored as first-team pre-season Gateway 1990.

The Saluki's 1990 slate has only two conference home games and four on the road, beginning Sept. 1 at Northern Iowa.

The Northern Iowa Panthers finished the 1989 campaign with an 8-3 record and was ranked 20th in division I-AA, just missing the playoffs. The Panthers return four starters from the offensive line and boast six returnees from the defensive corps.

The big news in the Panther backfield again this season should be junior running back Steve Hougom who ran for 618 yards last season. The Panthers beat the Salukis 38-14 in 1989.

The Indiana State Sycamores struggled with a 4-7 record in 1989. Sycamore hopes will rest on the running ability of senior fullback Shawn Young, who led the team in rushing with 847 yards and seven touchdowns.

The Salukis lost 35-24 to ISU in a game that saw Saluki quarterback Fred Gibson connect on 30 of 47 pass attempts for 278 yards.

ISU visits Carbondale on Sept. 8.

The Southwest Missouri State Bears won the 1989 Gateway Conference title with an 10-3 record and also reached the I-AA playoff quarterfinals. The key Bear returnee is 1989 Gateway Offensive Player of the Year DeAndre Smith who led the team in passing and rushing. Smith will be helped on offense by returning running back Eric Jenkins and receiver Randy Rapert.

Gibson rallied the Salukis in last season's 31-25 loss to the Bears by throwing three touchdown passes and 312 yards in only 15 completions.

Cornell: Lack of depth challenge to runners

By Tiffany Youcher
Staff Writer

The SIU-C men's cross country coach Bill Cornell has quite a challenge facing him and his runners this season.

Cornell has athletes of exceptional ability, but the team has faced some drawbacks.

"This year we're a little thin," Cornell said. "We've really only got five strong runners."

Cornell explained the team has lost one of its leading runners, Paul Burkinshaw, who graduated in May.

"The toughest thing we will deal with will be replacing Paul Burkinshaw," Cornell said. "He was a consistent runner, usually finishing in our top three."

Cornell further commented that junior Nick Schwartz, who he expected to follow Burkinshaw's lead, has recently been down with strep throat.

Despite these drawbacks, Cornell said his runners certainly "have the ability to do well."

Returning senior Mike Kershaw will serve as team captain and should be a strong leader for the team.

Junior Mark Stuart finished a close second to Illinois State's David Wilson in the 1989 Missouri Valley Conference Championship and then went on to finish first among Saluki runners in the NCAA District Five Championships. He is considered to be one of the team's top athletes and will pace other Saluki runners in the season opener.

Cornell also expects a solid performance from sophomore Gerallt Owen, who took first at both the Indiana State and Mississippi Invitational as a freshman in 1989.

Returning juniors Vaughan Harry and Mike Danner also are hoping for a place in one of the top spots this season.

The Salukis were picked second only to Illinois State, in a recent MVC coaches poll concerning this year's league race.

"This should be a quality team capable of challenging for the Missouri Valley Conference Title and a spot in the nationals," Cornell assented. "We just have to hope our key performers have improved from last season."

The Salukis first meet will be held on September 8 at Lawrence, Kan.

Amy Lawler, of Lantana, Fla., wins the open women's barefoot competition with a jump of 46.9 feet Sunday afternoon at the Du Quoin State Fair.

Barefoot ski records broken during Du Quoin State Fair

Jeff Bobo
Staff Writer

Records were meant to be broken, even in sports where bare feet are the main pieces of the equipment.

The big finale of the National Barefoot Ski Championships held at Du Quoin State Fairgrounds was a record breaking jump made by Mike Seipel, of Winter Haven, Fla. The jump of 72.8 feet edged out the record of Australian Brett Sands who held a mark of 72.5 feet.

"I had a feeling if I was going to break the record, today would be the day," Seipel said. "Conditions were perfect for jumping."

Seipel scored his record breaking jump on his third attempt. His first two at 64.6 and 63.7 were well below the elusive 70 foot mark. The nearest jump to the record breaker came from Peter Fleck, of Miami, Fla., with a mark of 65.7 feet.

The women's slalom world record was also broken in Sunday's competition. Jennifer Calleri, of Winter Haven, Fla., scored 14.5 passes to break the previous record of 14.25 formally held by Lori Powell of Lakeland, Fla.

Calleri was also the women's overall winner, taking the slalom event as well as the trick event. Calleri is the world's record holder in the trick event.

Amy Lav of Lantana, Fla., the defending champion took the jump event with a score of 46.9 feet.

Although a Scarpa, of Winter Haven, Fla., didn't win any individual events, he took the overall men's competition. The slalom event went to Brian Fuchs, of Deerfield Beach, Fla., with 18.75 crossings.

The men's trick event went to Rick Powell, of Lakeland, Fla., who happens to be the brother of former women's slalom world record holder Lori Powell. Rick Powell is currently the men's overall world champion and world record holder in the trick event.

Olazabal dominates World Series of Golf

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Jose Maria Olazabal completed his four-day destruction of Firestone Country Club with a 3-under 67 Sunday to win the World Series of Golf with a record 72-hole score of 18-under par 262.

Olazabal, who shot rounds of 61, 67, 67, and 67 on the par 70, 7,149-yard South Course layout, finished 12 shots ahead of Lanny Wadkins, who shot a final round 56 to finish at 6-under 274. He obliterated the old 72-hole record of 13-under 267, set by Wadkins in 1977.

Hale Irwin shot a 74 and finished third at 3-under 277. Donnie Hammond, at 1-under 279, was the only other golfer in the 47-man international field to break par.

In earning the $198,000 and 10-year PGA Tour qualifying exemption that goes with the victory over the demanding Firestone course, Olazabal proved to fans in the United States what the rest of the world already knew—he is one of the best golfers playing today.

The 10-year exemption is meaningless to Olazabal, who does not plan to play in the 15 events a year required to maintain membership in the PGA Tour. Olazabal's 61 Thursday in his first competitive round at Firestone was a course record, and his 39 straight holes without a bogey also is a tournament record.

Olazabal played the first four holes of the tournament in 5-under par. He also set tournament records for the lowest score after 36 (128) and 54 (195) holes, as well as for the largest lead after 36 (9) and 54 (8) holes.

The 12-shot margin is the fourth-largest in PGA Tour history.

Astros top Cardinals 4-2; Darwin improves to 10-1

HOUSTON (UPI) — Danny Darwin scattered eight hits to win his ninth straight decision Sunday, leading the Houston Astros past the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2.

Darwin, 10-1, improved to 8-0 in his last 10 starts. He struck out six and walked three in posting his third complete game.

"This was one of the hardest games I've pitched in my whole career," Darwin said. "It was a struggle the whole game. I didn't have anything on my pitches. The guys behind me made some good plays ... you have to have some luck."

Astros Manager Art Howe, though, was pleased with Darwin's effort.

"He showed why he has all the wins," Howe said. "He wasn't quite as sharp early as he's been in the other wins, but he pitched a great game after the first inning."

Ken Hill, 4-2, allowed three runs on three hits in six innings, striking out five and walking four in taking the loss.

"What hurt us more than anything was the walks," said St. Louis Manager Joe Torre. "Three of them scored. Hill pitched well except for the walks."

Houston broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth. Bill Doran led off with a double and moved to third on a passed ball. With one out, Franklin Stubbs was intentionally walked.

Stubbs then stole second and Doran was successful on the double steal, beating the throw back to catcher Todd Zeile at home.

The Astros added a run in the seventh against reliever Frank DiPino. Rafael Ramirez drew a one-out walk, advanced on Doran's sacrifice, and scored on Eric Yelding's singled to left, giving Houston a 4-2 lead.

"We're doing the little things right now — moving the runner, taking the extra base," Howe said. "We're executing. For us to be effective, we have to do the little things right."

Pleasure boat capsizes in Taiwan; 55 feared dead

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — An overloaded and unlicensed pleasure boat chartered by the Shell Oil Co. and carrying 83 vacationers capsized at a lake resort in Taiwan, and 55 were feared dead, rescue officials said Sunday. The triple-decker boat, authorized to carry 60 people, overturned late Saturday night at Sun Moon Lake while making a sharp left turn. Thirty-three of the passengers managed to swim about 500 yards to shore, the officials said. Only 17 bodies had been recovered 18 hours after the accident at the popular resort, located about 160 miles from Taipei.

Security forces capture island in Sri Lanka

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — Security forces entered the fifth day of a major offensive against Tamil guerrillas Sunday, seizing control of a strategic island in northern Sri Lanka and preparing to storm the rebel stronghold of Jaffna, a senior military official said. The object of the offensive, which was launched Wednesday and involved some 3,600 troops, was to capture the area surrounding a 300-year-old, star-shaped former Dutch fort, where about 200 soldiers and policemen have been trapped by rebels for more than two months.

Troops sweep South African townships

VOSLOORUS, South Africa (UPI) — Paratroopers, mechanized soldiers and police swept through strife-torn black townships Sunday, searching homes, and seizing makeshift weapons in a bid to enforce emergency law designed to quell savage, inter-tribal violence. Officials of the rival factions tossed a number of the 27 township townships under emergency rule, seeking to consolidate a tenuous peace among their followers and reassure them in the face of the heavy military presence. An attack late Saturday hit a railway station waiting room at Roopeport.

Columbia shuttle prepares for launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — After a long, launchless summer, NASA finally is ready to resume shuttle flights Saturday with the blazing post-midnight liftoff of the repaired spaceplane Columbia and its seven-man crew. The now presumably leak-free shuttle, carrying a $150 million battery of telescopes, is tentatively set for launch at 1:17 a.m. EDT, three months after elusive hydrogen fuel leaks first grounded Columbia and then its sister ship Atlantis. The schedule of work to ready Columbia for takeoff is extremely tight, and officials say the flight could slip a day.

Groups question high school drug testing

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Drug testing of high school students is not stirring the emotional and legal battles that it did when started a year ago, but groups are questioning its effectiveness. The Tippecanoe School Corp. instituted its testing program in 1988 and it was challenged in court by two students through the American Civil Liberties Union before it could begin operating. The school system won the fight in December 1988 when the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the policy, which would randomly test only athletes and cheerleaders.

Short, fat guys trundle to tie in mile-long race

CROOKED RIVER RANCH, Ore. (UPI) — An undetermined number of contestants crossed the finish line in one huge, huge bunch in the fourth annual "Short Fat Guys Road Race." "We ran out of entry forms, so I don't have any idea how many people were in it," said Bob Ward, senior steward of the race at Crooked River Ranch in central Oregon. "I guess about 45, but how would I know?" At any rate, there's never been a single winner of the race. The 1-mile course is all downhill.

Trivia Contest

Use today's newspaper to come up with questions for a trivia contest that you can play at home with your family.

Examples:

What was the score of last night's baseball game?

What is our mayor's middle name?

How hot was it in your town?

How much are carrots at the supermarket?

You can use these questions with any trivia board game you may have at home. Or you can create a quiz show patterned after your favorite television game show.

It also might be fun to invent a game of your own! To do this, think up a name, decide on the object of the game, and write a list of the rules.

Rita: Yesterday I finished all the requirements for the Family Reading Challenge, and I'm sending off my entry form today. Does that mean I have to stop reading for the rest of the summer?

Rex: Of course not, Rita. The rules said you have to read at least two books, two magazine articles and two newspaper articles. But I plan to read much more than that!

of medieval Europe. According to SCA literature, the group began in Berkeley, Calif. in the 1960s. The local group, called the Shire of the Far Reaches, was formed about 14 years ago as a University organization, Dan Gunnell, a member and Carterville resident, said.

A prerequisite for membership is the development of a persona with a name that could have been plausible in the Middle Ages. Gunnell takes the name Grimbold Hardaxe. Standing somewhere about 5-feet-9 with a well-rounded physique and close-cropped brown hair, the name Grimbold Hardaxe seems to fit his character better than the name Dan.

The atmosphere at SCA events is relaxed and somewhat informal. There is, however, an implicit code of behavior that includes chivalry and politeness. Gunnell said the part of the group's value is "family-based."

"The Society almost turns into an extended family. It's very nice. There is a lot of humor, chivalry and politeness," he said.

Worldwide, the group has about

Thomas Allen, known as Thomas the Tactless to Society for Creative Anachronism members, sculpts fantasies as a part of the craft he practices as a SCA member.

17,000 members, Gunnell, a forensic scientist for the Illinois State Police, said. About 100 people were expected to attend the event Saturday, but Gunnell noted that attendance would probably be low because members attended one of SCA's large events Aug. 12 to Aug. 19 in Pennsylvania.

At the event, the Middle Kingdom, consisting of North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan and parts of Iowa, battled with the East Kingdom, which includes Maine and continues south to West Virginia. Gunnell said about 7,000 people attended this year's event.

Though SCA typically has been associated with armory and one-on-one combat, members' talents range from jewelry making to calligraphy. One of the local group's members is a sculptor originally from Peoria.

Thomas Allen, 31, a Carbondale resident, sculpts figures of dragons, fairies, Vikings and castles, then makes casts of the work in a latex mold so he can make plaster reproductions. He hand paints the figures and will often take them to SCA events and trade with merchants for armor or other items he may want.

Allen, whose persona is Thomas the Tactless, became involved with SCA about four years ago.

"There is a lot of poetry in this. And I've never been able to do it so the name stuck," he said.

Allen's father sculpted birds of prey, such as falcons and hawks. Before his father died, he would work with him, but did not like the work because it was too structured.

"Birds have a particular structure, but with dragons, who's to say I'm wrong?" he said.

Campaigns need strict spending caps

SEN. PHIL GRAMM, R-Texas, has nearly $1 million from business political action committees to add to his campaign war chest. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, is leading the pack with about $400,000 from labor and entitlement PACs.

Real issues and stands are no longer the focus of campaigns today. Money is.

Money is the root of all political campaigns nowadays. You need money to buy advertisements, television air time and, unfortunately, to sling a little mud around.

Congressman Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, however, is one politician who sees a problem with our campaigning system, and is ready to break the rules.

POSHARD IS limiting his spending to $100,000, refusing all PAC contributions and gifts and will not participate in any Washington fund-raiser during this election year. He also is declining money from the Democratic Party.

We applaud the noble efforts of Poshard, and encourage politicians to follow his lead. We hope, however, that his decision to run a low-cost campaign does not affect his chances of a re-election.

Poshard is an effective congressman, and has served Southern Illinois well during his two-year bout in Washington. Theoretically, it takes close to a million dollars to win an election today, but Poshard just doesn't buy that.

LET'S FACE IT—politicians are buying the elections.

Poshard is banking on the people to win him this election. He said citizens are disgusted with the amount of money spent on political campaigns, and maybe he's right. We should feel disgusted that millions of dollars are spent during every election. Money spent on elections could be spent on real causes such as helping the homeless or funding for education.

WHAT WE NEED is a spending cap on the amount of money spent on elections. Recent legislation in the House enables politicians voluntarily to limit their campaign spending to $550,000 in the combined general and primary elections.

Voluntarily just won't cut it. How many politicians are going to "voluntarily" risk losing the election? We need serious campaign reforms so the real issues can be the focus of the elections instead of money.

Quotable Quotes

"The last thing I swallowed was hairspray. I just pulled off the spray top and gulped the ingredients. Yes, I was on my way to hell—again."
 —Kitty Dukakis, a self-described manic depressive, said in her new book, "Now You Know," a book about her addictions after husband Michael lost the presidential election in 1988.

"We are almost facing a crisis of a world gone mad." — Jordan's King Hussein said explaining why he will be meeting with many Middle Eastern leaders to reach a solution to the Persian Gulf crisis.

"I thought we were dead. My thought was to get back to the hotel by 12 p.m. so I could get room service." — John Krusk said after his pinch-hit three-run homer highlighted a nine-run ninth in a game that lifted the Philadelphia Phillies to victory over the A. Dodgers.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board. Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page or, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters fewer than 25 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

Song's so bad it could start war

The shooting hasn't started yet. And maybe it won't. But ready or not, this nation already has its first Middle East Crisis war song.

It's the creation of Hank Williams Jr., a country-western singer, and we should all be grateful to him for his patriotic outburst. The song is so awful that it might forever put a deserving end to the writing of patriotic war songs.

I'm not going to name the song because I don't want to encourage anyone to buy it.

How bad is it, you ask? Consider this line, directed at Saddam Hussein:

"You can take that poison gas and stick it in your sassfras."
 Or this one: "Yeah, I'd like to find out just for fun just how fast those camels can run."

Enough? You are masochistic? All right, one more: "Cause if you do somethin' stupid we're goin' to come down hard on Cupid."

That's it, I refuse to go on. If you want any more, you'll have to listen to some radio station that appeals to people who lack front teeth and whose eyes meet at the nose.

Like so many things, they just don't make war songs like they used to. Which figures, since they don't make wars like they used to.

In our Revolutionary War some troops sang "Yankee Doodle." Although some of the lyrics are a little silly, they don't stoop to telling someone to stick his poison gas in his sassfras.

Both sides had fine songs in the Civil War—the inspiring "Battle

Mike Royko
 Tribune Media Services

Hymn of the Republic" and the jaunty "Dixie."

When I was a kid, my father and other World War I vets would march in their American Legion parades and sing "Over There" and "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Our most song-filled war was World War II. We had everything from a chaplain praising the Lord and passing the ammunition, to young ladies being admonished not to sit "under the apple tree with anyone else but me, no, no, no."

After that, though, war songs fell out of fashion. I don't remember any Korean War song. It could be that nobody could think of anything that rhymed with Yalu or Inchon. On the other hand, if Hank Williams Jr. had been around, he might have been moved to write: "I'm gonna put the pinch on some gook at Inchon."

Grenada and Panama happened so fast that there wasn't time for anyone to whip off ditties and rush them to the disk jockeys. Besides, what kind of lyrics would they have inspired? Maybe: "I was a Reagan Raider in Grenader and I shot me a Cuban cook."

The trouble with trying to peddle a war song today is that most Americans have doubts about wars.

Those who were in Korea and Vietnam know that we aren't automatically the good guys or the winners, and we aren't always sure what it is we're killing and being killed for.

Why, some Americans have become so cynical that they don't believe we fight wars for truth, honesty, justice, goodness and the American way. Thanks to the moronic miracle of television, Americans who have never been near a war now have had an opportunity to see what war really look like. And they know that reality has nothing to do with John Wayne, Clint Eastwood, Sylvester Stallone or Chuck Norris.

It's a little naked kid running along a road and screaming because the napalm hurts so bad. War is young men in body bags—theirs and ours. And the dying doesn't necessarily have anything to do with baseball, apple pie and the Grand Old Flag.

So most people know that if the shooting begins in the Middle East, it won't be as simple as telling Saddam to stick his poison gas in his sassfras.

Incidentally, Hank Williams Jr. was born in 1949, which means he was old enough to have been in the Vietnam War. He wasn't. I don't know why. Maybe he had a good reason—guitar lessons.

Reader calls for goof-in

I have declared this week Goofiness Week. Let me explain.

The world is bizarre, the people in it even more so. Humans are silly creatures. As Richard Bach put it, "We are the others of the universe." Not many people realize this.

Many problems arise because people take themselves too seriously. If everybody could see what a goofy place we live in, how incredibly stupid we can be, and if everybody was able to deal with that and laugh at themselves, I think the world might be a better place. So I thought we could try it, with a week-long, campus-wide goof-in.

Am I serious? Of course not. That's the point. Will people take me seriously? It doesn't really matter.

Whether or not anyone acts silly at all this week, it will still be Goofiness Week. Everyone can act as "normal" as they want to; people are bizarre as a given. All I want is to see people put their goofiness down, to see people laugh at themselves, to find something within themselves that's funny and to let the world in on the joke.

Be goofy.—Jim Caldwell, Carbondale.

There is a great need for readers to read for the disabled. This position calls for minimum wage, and only requires that the individual have adequate reading skills. Disabled students need to publicize the immediate need for readers so that the students can hire the help they need.—Diane Dove, a senior in sociology, psychology and cinema and Tim Beyer, a sophomore in public relations.

Local Earth First! members rally with Redwoods group

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

Sentiments among Earth First! members were optimistic Saturday at a solar-powered musical rally in Murphysboro's Rive side Park.

The rally was designed to unite supporters of Southern Illinois' environmentalist movement with fellow Earth First!ers from the Redwood Forests of California.

"This is a national grassroots movement," said Langelle, Earth First! press liaison, said. "Both groups empower each other in our cause. We want to take the power back from the corporate state and give it to the people."

Langelle said the Shawnee Forest encampment that began June 20 by Earth First!ers was partly inspired by the desire to show solidarity with the cutting of redwoods in California.

Langelle noted that environmentalists from Southern Illinois and St. Louis involved with Earth First! would like to have gone out to California to show support this summer during the redwood cutting controversy, but instead, "stayed to defend the Shawnee."

The group's appearance in Murphysboro was suggested by the two Redwood singers because, "they wanted to show solidarity with the defenders of the Shawnee."

Joe Glisson, one of the founders of the Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists in Southern Illinois, said he is optimistic because the Chicago law firm Jenner and Block has agreed to handle the group's appeal to halt further cutting in the Shawnee in the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Jan Wilder-Thomas said the recent arrest of a fellow Earth First!er at the Shawnee encampment only "added oxygen to the flame" and hasn't deterred the environmentalists.

In response to accusations that Earth First! has spiked trees with nail to discourage timber harvesting, Langelle said that the group neither condemns nor condones "monkey wrenching," the act of disabling inanimate objects to protect living things.

Dan Duffield, solar energy consultant from St. Louis, rigged the concert's power system and calls solar energy the most ecologically responsible method of generating energy.

Gunman escapes WLS-TV

CHICAGO (UPI) — WLS-TV returned to the air Sunday after nearly nine hours of dead air caused by the search for a pizzeria bandit who slipped into the station's building.

It was "business as usual" for the ABC station once it resumed broadcasting at 7 a.m. after three searches of its Loop location failed to locate the gunman, station president and general manager Joe Ahern said.

Except for intermittent reports from a makeshift studio, WLS had been off the air since the station was evacuated just before Saturday's scheduled 10 p.m. newscast.

The gunman, suspected in the robbery Saturday of a near north side pizzeria, was fleeing police when he slipped into the building where the WLS studios are located, police Capt. Robert Sheehan said.

Sheehan said the suspect, John Fidel Kane, 28, allegedly robbed about $6,200 from the restaurant with his brother, James Kane, 31, and then fled in a car. The car was pulled over a short time later by an officer, but John Kane escaped with the money and a gun and fled to the WLS building, Sheehan said.

Ahern said Kane apparently entered the building through a garage door that was open for a news truck returning from an assignment.

"Their reaction is the reaction you and I have to rising gasoline prices — they don't like it."

Iraq was the 12th largest market for U.S. agricultural exports, buying $800 million in goods during fiscal 1989. Even before the U.S. embargo, sales had been expected to shrink because of curtailment of Iraqi access to export credit guarantees.

Rice prices have fallen by about 50 cents per 100 pounds since Iraq invaded Kuwait.

cards will be handled by the Student Center because of its central location and number of services offered, Duke said. To have current a ID validated, students can present copies of their class schedule at the check cashing center in the Student Center.

One of the most beneficial features of the new cards is the ability to use it as a debit card. The card will work similar to a cash station card where money can be withdrawn from an account, Duke said. Cardholders can deposit money into a special debit card account and can withdraw from it to buy goods on campus. When making purchases, students present the ID cards like a charge card, which insures against abuse.

For example, with the new cards, students could deposit $500 into their accounts, spend $200 for books with the University withdrawing funds from the account, he said. This feature, which is scheduled to be on-line Summer semester 1991, would eliminate the need to carry cash.

With the Vali-Dine ID system, all University office needs are met with one card, which offers greater security to students and convenience to buy goods on campus, Duke said.

Enhanced security also is a benefit of the Vali-Dine card. Students must insert cards into an access reader when entering a building equipped with the system. If that person is authorized to enter, the door will open. If not, the door stays locked. Also, the system will deny the use of a lost or stolen card, which costs $10 to replace.

SIU-C will lease the cards from Griffin Technology, Inc. of New York. The cards will be paid for by $10 replacement fees, $5 charge to new students and payment on a pro-rated basis by departments who use the system.

The computerized system is used by more than 350 colleges and universities nationwide, Duke said. As of now, SIU-C is the only institution in Illinois to implement the Vali-Dine system. SIU at Edwardsville is studying the system and will probably use it as well, he said.

program, Osberg said. "It's for people looking ahead 15 years from now," he said. "For those people who have not looked far enough ahead, then they need to take out the loan."

The program is designed to increase the amount of savings faster than the rate of inflation, Osberg said.

The savings program is in the process of being put into place, but the ISAC is still looking for additional investment houses to support the program, he said.

To raise the money needed to guarantee the loan program, ISAC issued $60 million in bond. Clement said some of the bonds were sold to middle-income parents who were investing as a saving instrument for their children.

The Illinois Opportunity Loan is limited to students who are Illinois residents and at least sophomores. The minimum loan amount is $1,000 and recipients must start paying interest while they are in school, Clement said.

The number of loans is limited, so Clement said they are being distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis.

blockade if the United Nations sanctioned one.

And Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, in an urgent message to Saddam Hussein shortly before the Security Council vote, warned the Iraqi president to remove his occupying forces from Kuwait or face a more severe international response.

Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz complained that Gorbachev's message had given Baghdad only 90 minutes to respond before the U.N. Security Council voted 13-0, with Cuba and Yemen abstaining, to allow limited military operations.

"We considered it our moral duty, before taking the vote, to appeal to the Iraqi leadership once more and show our support for the (U.N.) resolutions already passed," Shevardnadze said.

"I didn't count whether it was 90 minutes or 120 minutes, but before going to vote we appealed to the Iraqi leadership again. You know their (negative) reaction," he said.

Shevardnadze confirmed that the Kremlin had rejected a request from Baghdad to stall the Security Council vote and said Moscow is ready to give the United Nations information about the advanced weapons it has sold Iraq, but he said 193 Soviet military advisers in Iraq doesn't violate U.N. policy.

Singer Marx thrills teens at state fair

Concert Review

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

The digitalized, equalized and computerized state-of-the-art sound systems used on big budget rock tours have come so close to reproducing the formula-ridden sound of studio recordings that reviewing what pop-rock concerts "sound like" these days can be as easy as switching on a radio.

Theoretically, all a critic would have to do is borrow his sister's copy of...let's say, Richard Marx's "Repeat Offender" album, and that would tell him exactly what he would hear at...let's say, the concert Marx gave Saturday night to a Grandstand full of Du Quoin State Fairgoers.

Musically, Marx's stage show didn't stray far from his clean-cut pop hits, so I won't linger on something you can hear any hour of the day on Top 40 radio. It's my job to tell you all the real cool things he said and did. Heck, you'd rather hear that anyway.

Bugs were about to eat the poor guy alive, so after his second number, a faithful lackey came onstage with a can of Off! to hose down his meal ticket. And the crowd went wild. I guess some people will applaud anything.

Marx introduced his security guards to the audience, explaining that these long suffering servants get paid to tell front row fans to stay in their seats. Marx then instructed us—in colorful terms—to ignore what the security guards say and stand up anyway.

Profanity's no big deal, but the occasional naughty word from Marx came off as a pretty lame attempt to evoke screams of rebellious approval from a bunch of kids.

Marx isn't much in the dance department—lots of butt shakin', that's about it.

Near the concert's end, Marx scored a 9.5 on the javelin throw, hurling his mic stand about 20 feet across the stage. Even more impressive was the roadie who made a perfect catch.

One thing for Marx, he isn't stingy about sharing the spotlight with the members of his band. Guitar, drum and sax solos by three very talented sidemen were uptempo highlights of the evening.

Marx showed off his own musical prowess to good effect, doubling on guitar and piano throughout the concert.

Though Marx's pop ballads are a little too streamlined toward the bubble gum crowd for my tastes, his voice is very well-suited to that type of song, and the Grandstand's appreciative audience had their lighters ready every time he sat down at the piano.

"Right Here Waiting" and "Hold Onto the Night" were crowd favorites because of their exposure on the pop charts, but I preferred the down-and-dirty "It Don't Mean Nothin'."

Marx's sanitized "white blues" were given a rest as he and lead guitarist Paul Warren took off on a couple of real blues numbers, a welcome relief from the rest of this commercialized pop show.

Marx delivered a first rate soul performance on the P.D. Withers classic "Ain't No Sunshine," while a Memphis-flavored guitar solo showcased Warren's true talent.

With a fireworks display, Marx pulled down the final curtain on the concert and the entire Repeat Offender tour.

DSR to plan for fall activities

Two programs for disabled offered

By Shonda Talerico
Staff Writer

Bowling, billiards and trips to St. Louis are some of the activities planned by SIU-C's Disabled Student Recreation this fall.

DSR will host a program orientation meeting for new and returning students Aug. 28 from 7 to 8 p.m. in the Student Recreation Center Assembly Room East.

"Meeting with prospective students is an opportunity to find out who's interested in our programs and who's interested in fitness," said Kathy Hollister, assistant director of intramural recreation sports.

DSR provides students the opportunity to engage in activities such as swimming and basketball.

Programs such as Arrow and Anything Goes offer freedom to students beyond what the University offers.

Arrow pairs up people to take part in sports have always interested them, but may not have had the opportunity to participate in, Hollister said. Horseback riding, rock-climbing, scuba diving, skiing and swimming are some of the sports requested through the Arrow program, she said.

Anything Goes is just that, Hollister said.

"We do what the group wants to do," she said.

Some of the trips planned for this fall include attending a Cardinals game and symphonies in St. Louis.

Aerial tours grounded by problems

By Todd Gardner
Staff Writer

Project Lighthawk, "the environmental air force," joined the effort to stop the timber sale in the Fairview area of the Shawnee National Forest, but mechanical problems prevented all but one of Saturday's reconnaissance flights.

LIGHTHAWK is a volunteer association of environmentally concerned pilots based in Santa Fe, N.M.

The group includes 53 pilots who give aerial tours of forest areas to journalists, politicians and industry representatives to provide a comprehensive view of the area.

Lighthawk is known for its work in the Pacific Northwest and the rain forests in South America.

ONE OF ITS goals is providing aerial photos showing what is not visible from the ground.

"You can drive along a road and see trees on both sides," said pilot Michael Charles. "But beyond that strip of trees can be devastated."

"The plane gives you the perspective of a hawk's view, hence the name (Lighthawk)," he said.

CHARLES, a commercial pilot from Memphis, had intended to give tours to members of Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists, the Jackson County Board and the media, but only five people were able to go up before mechanical problems grounded the plane.

Joe Glisson, member of RACE and one of the plaintiffs suing the Forest Service over the Fairview timber sale was aboard the day's only flight.

GLISSON SAID the biggest eye-opener was that Fairview is in fact the last big area of unbroken forest canopy left in the area.

"I was amazed at how totally unbroken it was," Glisson said.

He said that the rest of Union and Alexander counties were badly mutilated by older clear-cuts.

FOREST SERVICE representatives were invited to take part in the aerial tours but declined, said RACE member Andy Mahler.

RACE is attempting to get the 1,800 acres of closed canopy forest that includes Fairview, designated as a Forest Interior Management Unit.

This would preserve it as habitat for bird species that need large areas of unbroken tree cover.

ITS CASE against the timber sale in Fairview has been taken on, free of charge, by Chicago attorney Tom Buchele, who is with the legal firm Jenner and Block.

A PRELIMINARY injunction against the timber sale was denied by Chief Judge James Foreman in July. An appeal of the decision is pending in the 7th U.S. District Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The Forest Service has said the area being contested is encroached on by private lands and is already too fragmented to qualify for the special listing.

GLISSON HOPES that the photographs he took of the area are being used to prove the area is all closed canopy.

"I can see why they want the timber," he said. "There are some magnificent trees in there."

Glisson said he would love for Lighthawk to come back, but the legal battles do not leave him the time to try and arrange it for anytime in the near future.

Soviets to sponsor walk for peace

By Brandi Tipps
Staff Writer

People of all ages and backgrounds have the opportunity to join in a 21-day peace walk for citizen diplomacy.

The walk will take place from Sept. 1 to Sept. 22, and will cover Moscow and Kazakhstan in the Soviet Union.

Approximately 100 Americans and 100 Soviets, ages five to 80, will walk this year, according to the International Peace Walk Organization.

These are people who want to end the arms race, dedicate the world's resources to saving the environment and meeting human needs, said Wendy Zolla, executive director of International Peace Walk.

"We'll be meeting the public of Kazakhstan," Zolla said. "The people there have been isolated for some time by the Iron Curtain and we're some of the first foreigners to go to Kazakhstan in recent history."

"The walkers will go to the public's homes, jobs and churches," Zolla said, adding that Soviets welcome Americans freely.

The walk is being held in conjunction with the Nevada Semipalatinsk Movement, she said.

The Nevada movement is a Soviet grassroots citizens group, dedicated to ending the making of nuclear weapons in their Republic, Zolla said.

"They have essentially forced the Soviet government to shut down the nuclear weapons facility," she said.

According to IPW, these walks are the only citizen diplomacy project that is open to the Soviet public. Each year tens of thousands of Soviet citizens join the walkers.

IPW has sponsored the walks for the last four years and expects to have another next year.

The cost is $2,800 for all expenses, including air-fair from Washington D.C. to Moscow.

Scholarships are available to students and the amount is based on need, Zolla said. Scholarships are also offered to journalists in the amount of $1,300.

Anyone is interested should call IPW at 1-800-541-6655, and the office will make all arrangements.

Capriati to make U. S. Open debut

NEW YORK (UPI) — In five months as a professional, Jennifer Capriati has signed endorsement agreements worth nearly $7 million, earned another $200,000 playing tennis and has climbed to No. 13 in the world rankings.

The other statistic about Capriati that boggles the imagination is her age, 14.

Fame and fortune sit well upon the talented young miss, who has been able to maintain a good sense of balance during her whirlwind year of success. She handles her daily contacts with adults with aplomb, and a few days ago, when she sat through five successive TV interviews, followed by separate sessions with various magazine writers and then with newspaper reporters, the only thing that got her excited was the arrival of her turkey sandwich.

"She's just a normal girl, she hasn't changed," says her mother, Denise. "She's normal just like any other child. She's certainly done a lot of things this year and she's learned a lot, but she's still the same."

Capriati will be starting the ninth grade, but before that she will further her tennis education by playing in the U.S. Open, which begins Monday. She won the Junior U.S. title in 1989, and this year she enters the main draw as the 13th seed.

"I feel like I'll be playing before a home crowd because I was born here," said Capriati, who now lives in Florida. "I'm excited about playing here, and maybe it will be easier. Maybe the fans will get excited if I can play well. I hope they go crazy."

Capriati made her professional debut in the Virginia Slims of Florida on March 5, 22 days shy of her 14th birthday, and reached the final. In her first Grand Slam event, she made it to the semifinals of the French Open, and she was beaten in the fourth round at Wimbledon by Steffi Graf.

Capriati faced Graf again on Sunday and caused the world's top-ranked woman player to work up a nervous sweat before she prevailed 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 in the championship of the Pathmark Classic in Mahwah, N.J.

"That's why I played this tournament, just before the U.S. Open, I wanted the chance to play the top players," said Capriati, who a day earlier had trounced fourth-ranked Zina Garrison.

finished 1989 with a 5-6 record, including four conference wins. Redbird hopes are up with the return of the leading rusher, passer, and receiver from 1989. Running back Ritchie Thompson, quarterback Brian Chaney, and receiver Vic Northern are the returnees that will lead the offense. Illinois State has a experienced defense that has five members returning from 1989.

The Redbirds beat SIU-C 21-17 last season at McAndrew Stadium. This year the Salukis travel to Normal to face the Redbirds on Oct. 13.

The Eastern Illinois Panthers finished the 1989 campaign with a strong 8-3 record and reached the I-AA playoff quarterfinals. The Panthers will be looking for a new offensive leader after the loss of star quarterback Eric Arnold. The running game looks healthy with the return of running back Jamie Jones, who rushed for 887 yards in 1989 including 122 yards against SIU-C.

SIU-C journeys to Panther country Oct. 20.

The Western Illinois Leathernecks posted a 4-7 record in 1989, but return 10 starters from last season's squad. Leading the Leatherneck offense will be running back Doug Romano and quarterback Ron Reed. The Leatherneck defensive squad is led by linebacker Thad Trump who replaces All-American Arnie Gasbaro.

Western visits the Salukis for the SIU-C Homecoming game Nov. 3.

Sox fall 4-1 to Angels

CHICAGO (UPI) — The air-conditioning in Chicago's clubhouse refused to work Sunday, proof anew that the pennant race has grown so hot for the White Sox.

Hoping to catch the Oakland Athletics in the American League West, the White Sox did nothing to improve their situation. Lance Parrish hit a tie-breaking solo home run to give rookie John Grahe his first major league win, lifting the California Angels to a 4-1 victory. "We've had some lumbago before," White Sox Manager Jeff Toborg said, talking about losing, not the uncomfortable clubhouse. "The kids have responded well."

The White Sox, refusing to admit they were still shellshocked from Saturday's 3-2 ninth-inning loss to the Angels, lost only their third game in the last nine.

Chicago Bears cut Duerson

LAKE FOREST, (UPI) — The Chicago Bears, continuing to rebuild their defense following a 6-10 season, Sunday cut eight-year safety Dave Duerson along with 13 other players.

Duerson, 29, had one interception last season and 91 tackles. He has been replaced in recent exhibition games at safety by Shaun Gayle and No. 1 draft pick Mark Carier.

Also cut Sunday were linebacker Steve Hyche, fullback Bryan Bero, running back Brian Taylor, punter Kent Sullivan, kicker Ray Tarasi, tackle Ronan Meusz, center Bill Anderson, tight end Steve Fumi, defensive back James Lott, wide receiver Chris Roscoe, linebacker Steve Thompson, wide receiver Henry Tuten and guard Alan Koch.

The move trims Chicago's roster to 58.

The Bears are 3-1 in exhibition play with one game remaining Thursday against the Buffalo Bills in Columbia, S.C.

with the Saluki Swimming Team and The Saluki Sports Pass

SWIMMING & DIVING — The Saluki swimming and diving program is steeped in tradition. A perennial Top 20 program, the Saluki men have placed in the Top 20 in 25 of the past 30 years including a 20th place finish in 1990. The Saluki women are equally strong as they have placed in the Top 20 in five of the past eight seasons. In the past six years the Salukis have produced 29 All-Americans and four Olympians. Coach Doug Ingram's swimmers and Dave Ardrey's divers also excel in the classroom. Both squads were awarded 1989 NCAA All-American Team honors with the women placing third nationally (3.72 gpa) and the men placing fifth in the country (2.88 gpa).

Get in the game with the Saluki Sport Pass. The Saluki Sport Pass is your ticket to see over 40 exciting Saluki athletic events during the 1990-91 season. At a cost of less than $104 per event you can't afford to miss out. The Saluki Sport Pass also gives you great discounts at eleven area merchants including Ruthie's, Castro's, and the University Bookstore. To get the pass simply fill out the lower portion of this ad and send it in, then get ready to cheer on the Salukis all year long!
