ISSC recipients get tuition waiver

By Toby Eckart

Students who receive money from the Illinois State Scholarship Commission will be spared from the $103 spring tuition increase.

The Board of Trustees voted Thursday to give partial tuition waivers to about 5,150 ISSC students who receive ISSC awards. About 1,500 SIU-C students will get similar waivers.

The waivers will last only through the spring semester. They will cost SIU about $710,000, or 31 percent of the $2.2 million expected to be generated by the tuition increase.

Chancellor Lawrence Pettit called for the waivers after the Legislature failed to give the commission additional funds to cover mid-year tuition increases enacted at all 12 of the state's public universities.

That's the ticket

SIU-C police officer Jim Lindsay issues a parking ticket to a car that violated the 15-minute parking limit in front of the University Museum at Faner Hall Thursday morning. Lindsay calls the tickets hit gift certificates.

Reagan: Summit a 'success'

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- A satisfied President Reagan declared his third superpower summit "a clear success" Thursday that paved the way for a meeting in Moscow next year and provides the hard-fought freedom to press ahead with his "Star Wars" anti-missile program.

"During these three days we took a step - only a first step, but still a critical one - towards building a more durable peace," Reagan said, "and, indeed, a step that may be the most important taken since World War II to slow down the arms buildup."

In a televised address to the nation delivered at the end of the first Washington summit in 14 years, Reagan praised the Intermediate Nuclear Forces Treaty signed on Tuesday, and said his often contentious talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev had created a basis for better relations.

Reagan seized the initiative in defending the INF treaty against criticism from conservative, in his own party as one that would force the Soviets to scrap almost four times as many deployed toward building a more durable peace," Reagan said, "and, indeed, a step that may be the most important taken since World War II to slow down the arms buildup."

Grad Council OKs title change resolution

By Dana Schults

A resolution to establish new faculty titles for researchers was passed Thursday at the Graduf-e-Council meeting.

The new titles - research professor, associate research professor and assistant research professor - would enable the University to "better recruit research active faculty," Stephen Schenier, chairman of the research committee, said.

Approval by the administration is needed before the titles can go into effect campus-wide and Schenier said he didn't know when the approval would be sought.

The new titles would not replace the titles presently in use: scientist, associate scientist and assistant scientist, but would be an addition to them, Schenier said.

Under the new titles, people would be able to come to SIU to carry out their research, he said.

"Because we didn't have these sorts of titles, we couldn't offer this sort of position," Schenier said.

These positions aren't tenure track. Persons filling the position would have little to no teaching obligations and would draw most or all of their salary from external funding grants they obtain, he said.

As long as they have the funding, they will have the position," Robert Radke, chairman of the committee, said.

These positions could be filled in any of the departments of the University. The Medical School already has these titles and one person

Hot start fizzes as men cagers lose

The Salukis will be having nightmares of Jay Taylor. The Eastern Illinois University’s second big league match was against the Salukis with a last-second basket for the second year in a row to give the Salukis a 67-63 win on Thursday night in Charleston.

With the clock winding down and the score tied, Taylor moved into the lane and hit the gamewinning shot to beat Steve Middleton.

"That’s a big league shot," assistant coach Scott Howard said. "He deserves the credit. We lost the game on defense.

The sizzling Salukis jumped out to a 13-point lead after the opening seven minutes of the game but their shooting touch for the rest of the night was poor as well. The Salukis ended up with the game’s lead 63 with less than a minute remaining.

Scott said. "They came out and played so well early. I think the game would fall apart all night long," Howard said. "They came back when we just quit hitting from the outside.

Scott said. "I didn’t think we pushed the ball down the floor as well as we did in the first seven minutes. They prevented us from running by crashing the defensive boards.

The Panthers improved to 4-1 while the Salukis fell to 2-2. Indiana is 1-3.

The Hoosiers are led by senior forward Cindy Bumpen, who averages 16.2 points per game and 5.8 rebounds. An All-America selection, Bumpen has scored in double-figures in all four games this season.

There’s always a lot at stake when Indiana comes to the Arena.

Men cagers cram for Bears contest

The men’s basketball team will take its last basketball final exam against Southwest Missouri State at 7:35 Saturday night in the Arena.

Coach Rich Herrin’s class has its test scheduled a week early. After tests against Wisconsin and Eastern Illinois, the Salukis’ final exam will be the most difficult. It will be against a team that advanced to the second round of the NCAA tournament a year ago. The Bears beat Clemson 65-60 in the first round before being ousted by Kansas, 70-67.

"We know we’re going to be up against one of the finer teams in the Midwest," Herrin said. "Their excellent play in last year’s NCAA tournament has done a lot for their program and it’ll take another all-out effort on our part to keep up with them.

The Bears went into last night’s game against Alabama State with a 4-2 record, but their biggest victory came in their 86-80 win over Kansas State in four overtime on the road. The Bears’ setbacks came from Southern Methodist and Arkansas.

Bears coach Charlie Spoonhour puts his starting five on the court and lets them go to work. Every starter averages over 30 minutes per game. In fact, because of the quadruple-overtime game, guard Doug Lewis’ minutes per game average, 41.6, is greater than a regulation game’s 40 minutes.

Forward Clay Holt leads the Bears scoring attack, averaging 19 points per game. Center Rolby Sackey (14.4 pg, 6.4 rebounds per game), guard Lewis (13.9), forward Stan Worthy (12.6 pg, 8.2 rpg) and guard Keith Jackson (9.8, 2.8 pg) are the Bears’ scoring leaders.

The "Five Bears" have made up for the departure of guard Winston Garland. He was the conference’s most valuable player last season, scoring 21.3 points per game. Garland, a guard, was released by the NBA Golden State Warriors on Wednesday. He was also cut by the Milwaukee Bucks just before the season began.

Sterling Mahan hit a three-pointer from the parking lot 25 feet away, closing the gap to one. After two EU free throws by forward Norm Evans, a three-point bomb by Middleton tied the game at 63 with less than a minute remaining.

EU then called time-out to set up the eventual game-winning play. The Salukis started the game strong at the opening tipoff. Steve Middleton, picking up where he left off against Wisconsin, hit his first shot to give the Salukis a 2-0 lead.

SU-C, creating an up-tempo game, exploded to a 24-11 lead at the 11:49 mark. But the Salukis fell on hard times during the rest of the game. After EU coach Rick Samuels called a timeout, the Salukis’ hot shooting turned ice cold.

During the next 7:25, the Panthers outscored the Salukis 12-2.

The Salukis were able to regroup and hold on to a 33-29 halftime lead.

In the second half, the Salukis’ cold shooting returned. Middleton scored the only SU-C basket of the first five minutes. On a 11-2 run, the Panthers jumped to a 49-38 advantage.

The Panthers were warmed up to go on a run of their own, reclaiming the lead 41-42. The Panthers then went on a three-point barrage, hitting four to open up their biggest spread of the night, 60-52.

Middleton, coming off of a 39-point effort, was the Salukis’ leading scorer with 18. Rick Shipley finished with 13, Kai Nurnberger and 10 and Randy House nine.

Norm Evans led the Panthers with 13, Taylor finished with 14 and Troy Joseph 11.

Hoosiers to meet 2-2 women cagers

The 13th-ranked women’s basketball team faces its second Big Ten opponent this week when Indiana comes to the Arena 2 p.m. Saturday.

The Salukis are trying to rebound from Wednesday’s 61-58 loss to Illinois.

“Our players, coaches and fans are hungry seeing us play against a Big Ten school. There’s always a lot at stake whenever we play a Big Ten opponent,” Saluki coach Cindy Scott said.

On the line is the Saluki’s 26-game home win streak.

“Tehir young team has struggled some this year but we can’t afford to take them for granted. Our size and experience makes us the favorite but every team on our schedule will be gunning for us because of our national ranking,” Scott said.

The Salukis are 2-2 while Indiana is 1-3.

The Hoosiers are led by senior forward Cindy Bumpen, who averages 16.2 points per game and 5.8 rebounds. An All-America selection, Bumpen has scored in double-figures in all four games this season.

Rosalie Carlton, a senior center, has 13 points and 13 rebounds in the Hoosiers’ 79-67 win over Marquette.

Indiana’s losses came to No. 1 Tennessee, Middle Tennessee and Cincinnati II.

Indiana wins the series’ four games, 3-1, but is 2-3 against Scott. The schools last met in 1971 when two free throwers down the stretch gave the Salukis a 77-76 home-opener win at the Arena.

McAndrew Stadium’s facelift, scheduled to be done by September, remains unfinished.

The firm contracted to install SIU-C’s new track in McAndrew Stadium has been given until Dec. 26 to finish construction or the project will be suspended until late February, University Architect Allen Haake said.

Olympic Stripping, Inc. of Portland, Ore., began construction in late August and planned to complete the track by the end of September.

"When they came in, we were under the impression that it would take between 17 and 21 working days,” Haake said, adding that OSI has been in Carbondale more than 100 days.

Paul Hulin, part-owner of OSI, said construction has been delayed by bad weather. Hulin said rain, wind and temperatures below 50 degrees make it impossible to work on the track.

The track still needs two

MOSCOW (UPI) — Authorities banned a dissident human rights seminar before its opening ceremony Thursday, setting up the banquet hall where delegates planned to gather by declaring a cleaning day and arresting at least 12 people. But the dissidents, members of the Press Club Glassnost, ignored the ban and went to an apartment where they declared their Independent International Seminar on Humanitarian Problems to be open.

Thousands clash with riot police in S. Korea

CHEONJU, South Korea (UPI) — Thousands of followers of dissident leader Kim Dae Jung fought riot police Thursday and disrupted campaign rallies staged on Kim’s political turf by opposing presidential candidates. About 100 people were injured — including about 80 policemen — when violent protests raged in two cities. Ho was touring, police said.

Canada charges immigrant with war crimes

TORONTO (UPI) — Authorities said Thursday they had charged a 75-year-old Hungarian immigrant as a war criminal in the deaths of an unknown number of Jews and the kidnappings of almost 9,000 Jews during World War II. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police filed charges of manslaughter, kidnapping and conspiracy to commit violence offenses in 1946 that constituted war crimes and crimes against humanity, court documents said.

Israeli soldiers kill one protestor, injure 15

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli soldiers, corroder by recent protests hurling metal pipes and stones and killing a Palestinian teenager Thursday during a second day of violent demonstrations in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. At least 15 protestors and eight members of Israeli security forces were injured in clashes in the territories. In other unrest, merchants in the West Bank town of Nablus and the nearby Balata refugee camp shuttered their shops at midday and classes throughout Gaza were cancelled.

October trade deficit raised to record level

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A flood of manufactured imports pushed the trade deficit to a record $17.6 billion in October, the government said Thursday, prompting a shocked Congress and financial markets to demand corrective action. The unexpectedly huge gap between imports and exports quickly sent stock prices and the value of the dollar sharply lower, and persuaded the Federal Reserve Board to prop up the U.S. currency with purchases of dollars.

Stock market drops, closes at 1855.44

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market went 15 rounds Thursday with a dismal report on the U.S. trade deficit pounding away at its spirit, and despite a gauzy midday rally, it finally threw in the towel and closed sharply lower. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 47.08 to 1855.44. The Dow plunged more than 45 points in the first 30 minutes on the trade data before the slide and making its way into plus territory in early afternoon trading. It then fell about 25 points in the final minutes.

Antibiotic-fed cows may be cause of poisoning

CHICAGO (UPI) — The largest outbreak of food poisoning ever recorded in the United States was caused by an “extraordinarily resistant” strain of salmonella bacteria that may have come from dairy cows improperly fed antibiotics, government scientists reported Thursday. But the researchers from the federal Centers for Disease Control and the Illinois Department of Public Health said they may never pinpoint the exact source of the bacteria that contaminated 2 percent milk sold by Jewel Food Stores in March and April of 1985.

Bakker receives new ministerial credentials

CHARLOTTESVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Fallen PTL founder Jim Bakker said Thursday he has new ministerial credentials from the Faith Christian Fellowship International and will return to the pulpit where he hears God’s call. Bakker, defrocked by the Assembly of God last spring after admitting to a 1980 sexual affair with Jessica Hahn, said the Tulsa, Okla. fellowship granted the credentials, but he will remain in California through Christmas.
Evergreen Terrace roofs may be repaired with loan

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

Residents of Evergreen Terrace may experience fewer drafts and leaky roofs next year if the University accepts a $1.5 million loan from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The money would be used to make badly needed repairs and undertake energy conservation measures at the housing project. But Donald Wilson, vice chancellor for financial affairs, said Thursday that the University will not get the money unless it accepts stipulations attached to the loan.

The stipulations would give the federal government greater control over the running of Evergreen Terrace. Wilson said he is not sure the University will want to accept the greater federal role.

For instance, Wilson said, HUD would have to review and approve any rent increases. That may cause nagging delays in implementing a rent hike, he said, "and we all know what a financial bind we're in."

The apartments, located southwest of campus, were built in 1968. Wilson told the SIU Board of Trustees that the apartments are in need of major renovation but that funds are scarce. A project to replace roofs at Evergreen Terrace are had to be dropped this year because no money was available.

The projects planned for Evergreen Terrace are wide-ranging. They include replacing roofs and gutters, insulating buildings, installing new concrete patios, painting apartments and installing new refrigerators and electric ranges.

The University and the SIU Foundation — which owns Evergreen Terrace — would have to contribute $300,000 to the project to qualify for the loan. The $155,000 spent last year to replace roofs and gutters on 26 buildings and parking lot and road improvements planned for 1988 would more than meet the requirement, Wilson wrote in a report to the board.

The University can repay the loan by setting aside Evergreen Terrace operating funds in an escrow account. Vice Chancellor Donald Wilson wrote in his report that the University would make a decision on whether to accept the loan by the end of the month. The funds would be available Jan. 1 and work would have to be completed by Dec. 31, 1988.

The loan would have to be repaid by 2009, with 1-per cent annual interest. The University would repay the loan by setting aside Evergreen Terrace operating funds in an escrow account, Wilson wrote in his report.

Part of the money may have to come from a rent increase. Wilson wrote. However, he added, "Any rent increase required for this project would be substantially less than would be required if the needed improvements were funded entirely from operations without the (federal loan)."

Another portion of the payback funds would come from energy and maintenance savings, Wilson said.

In a related matter, Wilson told the board that SIU lawyers are negotiating with the state auditor general and the Evergreen Terrace bond council to take full control of Evergreen Terrace. The University is the lease and manager of the housing project.

"Managerially, we feel it would be much easier and it would allow the Foundation to do what they're supposed to do," Wilson said.

County fair officials want betting

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — County fair officials urged state leaders Thursday to pursue legislation to allow pari-mutuel wagering on harness races at county fairs, despite warnings that the events probably would lose money under current conditions.

The request came after state Agriculture Department officials and about 60 county fair representatives discussed the requirements and costs of sponsoring pari-mutuel wagering events based on the state's experiences with betting events at the Illinois State Fair and the DuQuoin State Fair.
Arms agreement: an optimistic sign

THE HISTORIC ARMS agreement signed Tuesday by President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev signals an end to the intermediate-range nuclear missiles. Substantial progress in superpower relations—beyond the reduction of nuclear arms—could be made in the near future if the summit’s long-term potential is realized.

The agreement calls for the removal and destruction of more than 1,700 Russian and 800 American missiles either in or aimed at Central and Western Europe. And while it may seem fairly amazing that Gorbachev consented to such a top-sided agreement, there is sound logic to the decision: mainly that Russia, like the United States, cannot continue to dump enormous amounts of cash into an already overcrowded defense budget, while at the same time further crippling an already strained economy.

Gorbachev’s reasons aside, the agreement stands as a Reagan victory—a victory desperately needed by his scandal-wrecked administration. While reducing the rumblings of critics of his terms-long penchant for defense spending and a reputation as something of a war monger, Reagan has turned the knob on the imposing door that has for so long barred the perpetuation of Soviet and American cooperation.

If this cooperation is to develop, more conciliations need to be made by both governments, many of them by the Soviets. A complete ban on all nuclear weapons is, of course, out of the immediate question. Complete trust issues would have been heavily bled in recent years by the once-very-perfect-relationship. A complete ban on all nuclear weapons is, of course, out of the immediate question. Complete trust issues would have been heavily bled in recent years by the once-very-perfect-relationship.

MUCH OF THE rebels’ success is a direct result of the weapons provided them by the United States. The bitterness harbored toward America because of the weapons issue would be watered down by a Russian withdrawal, just as such an act would cool U.S. indignation at the very presence which the withdrawal would eradicate.

Relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, while always fragile, have keynotes to the future of a peaceful world. While both nations sometimes indulge in behavior befitting a school yard bully, the potential for peace provided by Tuesday’s arms agreement is promising.

Count your many, simple blessings while the opportunity still exists

The holiday season is upon us again and a new year approaches. I find myself, once again, reflecting back to the past and wondering what the future will be.

Thanksgiving was a time to give thanks for the many blessings we have. Did you? Did you and will continue to every time I see or meet someone who is less fortunate than I. Yes, I have problems, but not the problems of some. I have my family, friends, health and career. Anyone who is alive has problems to some degree or another. Think about it, the only people who don’t have problems are dead. So you’re alive, start being thankful for that.

The Christmas season is fast approaching. People are hustling and bustling about, trying to choose the “perfect gift” for someone special, or worrying about how much money they need to spend and how little of it there is.

All of this contributes to our losing sight of the real meaning of Christmas. Have you stopped long enough to think about what the season is all about? If you find yourself getting caught up in the shuffle of it all and wonder now you got to this state, just stop and think a minute.

I have been taking care of a lady in an area nursing home for more than four years now. She was once a very bright, energetic and kind person, but know she is a virtual vegetable. She has Alzheimer’s disease. The point I am trying to make is that in my frequent visits to the nursing home, I see people who are absolutely helpless and at the mercy of others. They cannot take care of themselves, though they would love to be able to. We take even that for granted. Can you imagine how humiliating it must be for a once independent, strong person to have to rely on others? Try.

If you find yourself getting lost in the “shuffle,” go to a nursing home. If you really want to get jerked back to reality, talk to a resident, help someone dial the phone, help someone put his shoe on because he can’t bend over in his wheelchair. Believe me, if you visit a nursing home you can’t make you realize how much you have to be thankful for, nothing will.

So take a few minutes out of your “hustle and bustle” life and reflect on all the things you do have to be thankful for. Elizabeth Furr, Technology Com- mercialization Center.

Student casts his vote for $3 IPIRG fee, says nay to student government control

This is a letter to a response to Chuck Hagerman’s request for IPIRG feedback. These are my answers to his questions, in the order they were asked:

1. Yes, I did sign the IPIRG petition because I thought the idea of a PIRG was great. A PIRG would provide lobbying power in Springfield for the students of SIU-C. It would define the idea of the $3 waiverable fee, mainly because it makes it easy to pay, and still allows those who don’t want to pay a way to avoid it. I also want an SIU-C PIRG to be successful, and since PIRGs with volunteer fees are historically unsuccessful, I don’t want to take that chance. Finally, I feel that $3 is reasonable when you consider that some schools pay $5 to have a PIRG.

2. I like the idea of a PIRG, but I don’t think student government should control the fee. When a student pays the fee, the student is saying, “I want this $3 go to IPIRG.” I believe that student government has enough to do already and shouldn’t be burdened with figuring out the best way to spend PIRG funds. Students will elect an IPIRG board of directors who can spend their time more efficiently doing this.

4. I am in favor of having a Public Interest Research Group charter at SIU-C. I think its time for students to have a voice in public concerns. James F. Quisenberry, senior, computer science.

When a student pays the fee, the student is saying, “I want this $3 go to IPIRG.” I believe that student government has enough to do already and shouldn’t be burdened with figuring out the best way to spend PIRG funds. Students will elect an IPIRG board of directors who can spend their time more efficiently doing this.

4. I am in favor of having a Public Interest Research Group charter at SIU-C. I think its time for students to have a voice in public concerns. James F. Quisenberry, senior, computer science.

Quotable Quotes

“I would say that humbly speaking, a human being would like to live in a regular home. This is a museum.” — Raisa Gor­ bachev, representing on whether she would want to live in the White House.

“I don’t do flags.” — White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, asked if the Soviet flag would fly over the White House during the summit.
Suicide myths need to be dispelled to help others who may be in danger.

This is the time of year when many students experience stress not only because of final exams and papers, but also because of final projects, work, homesickness and problems associated with campus life. A recent suicide attempt reported in the Daily Egyptian shows that although we may be aware of these problems, they can become overwhelming.

We would like to dispel some myths about suicide and form the community about some of the warning signs and help people help themselves or others to deal with stress.

Myth: "People who talk about suicide really commit suicide."

Fact: People who attempt suicide generally are not going to kill themselves. Unfortunately, they may become so desperate that they have no other way to express their despair.

Myth: "The subject of suicide with someone, you may put the idea into their head."

Fact: Asking someone directly shows your concern and may make it possible for them to talk with you about it.

Often a suicide attempt is made in response to difficulty in coping with stress. If you or someone you know is having trouble dealing with stress there are several resources on campus and in the community that can help.

The Counseling Center always a counselor on duty and is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. "(Weedy Hall 320, 453-3771). A wide variety of support options for women at all—just variations on the themes of health and practice.

How truly "optional" can an AMA be? It can be, when that organization sees itself as only one, trading controlling interests, making statements about wanting to die or it all end in a long way, and depression. Often they state that they are not contemplating suicide.

Myth: "Everyone who commits suicide is depressed."

Fact: Not all people who attempt suicide are obviously depressed. Those who are anxious, agitated or wish to escape what seems to be an intolerable situation.

Myth: "If you bring up the subject of suicide with someone, you may put the idea into their head."

warheads as the United States and the Soviet Union have not yet tested on each other, "has not been "proven to be unprotested," as charged by some critics.

"I have spoken personally with the leaders of the major powers, and the feeling is that the treaty (of State George) Shultz and our diplomatic, Reagan said. "The treaty has full allied support.

The same arguments are expected to be made today, when Reagan meets with congressional leaders in press for "expeditious action" on ratification of the pact.

Beyond the arms treaty he lauded as "a landmark in post-war history," Reagan asserted his discussions with Gor- bachev on a wide range of issues had "put Soviet-American relations on a far more candid and far more realistic footing.

Despite positive rhetoric from both leaders in public, common ground at times proved elusive as the third Reagan-Gorbachev summit in 26 months ended with some key areas of disagreement, from human rights to Afghanistan.

Even in the "room of a steady downpour on the South Lawn, with the Gorbachev and his wife, Raisa, at his side, Reagan, who long resisted the notion of summity for the sake of summity, said their talks had been valuable and should help forge a more stable, durable relationship.

by evening, as details of the deliberations emerged, for weeks spent on time in capitalizing on the momentum of the last few days by highlighting the undeniable centerpiece of the summit - the signing of the treaty - and lobbying for its ratification by the Senate.

At the same time, however, he stressed the summit must not be viewed in the context of a total achievement, for the extent that he and Gor- bachev cover the waterfront of U.S.-Soviet relations.

$1.2 million in state funds for the School of Medicine's three medical family practice centers. The future of the center - located in Quincy, Belleville and Decatur - has been in question because of a decline in state and federal funding.

The University has been able to keep the centers afloat by shuffling the Medical School's internal budget. However, the 4 percent cut in SIU's 1988 budget caused officials to make plans for closing the centers.

The closing was called off in August, after legislators assured increased state support in 1989.

The centers, opened in 1979, provide primary medical care in areas of downstate Illinois plagued by a lack of practicing physicians. They also provide residency experience for Medical School students.

"It is important for us to maintain a stable funding base for the satellite centers outside of Carbondale and Springfield," Petiet said.

President John Guyan said that it the state fails to give more money to the centers, "We're going to have to sit down with the hospitals and work out some form of alternative funding plan."

- Approved the sale of $6.5 million worth of bonds to finance construction of a fitness Annex at the Recreation Center. The bond sale will cover the $5.8 million cost of construction and interest on the bonds. Some of the money also will be used for a design or contingency fund, which will cover any unexpected costs for the project.

- A budget shortfall has resulted in $200,000 worth of components being dropped from the plans for the 72,000-square-foot addition. Skylights, some net and vinyl curtains to divide squash and racquetball courts, the proposed second-floor jogging track and six racquetball court interiors have been scrapped.

- Also dropped were an entryway vestibule and decorative truss system. The components could be added later as the budget allows.

10 Reasons to Give FRES!

Bumper Stickers for Christmas:

1. They're a lasting gift, unlike gifts of food, liquor, or money, Fred's bumper stickers stick around for a long, long time (Unless you remove your sticker). The stickers usually outlast the chrome.

2. They hold deep and cherished memories. Anyone who's been to Fred's nostalgically remembers the poetic choppiness of the houndstooth, the simple beauty of the Grandpa dance, the heart rending weeping of Wayne Higdon's fiddle. As one former Fred's patron, since moved away, remarked, "I can't wait 'til I wish I had a sticker."

3. They're in Christmas Colors! Well, at least one Christmas Color: Red.

4. They'll fit in a stocking. So do your feet, but how many feet stick to a bumper?

5. The guys at Mr. Munchie all have one. And they have good taste, just ask them.

6. They're not as expensive as an engagement ring. And they last longer than most marriages.

7. They're unique. Anyone can give Fast Food gift certificates, only unique folks give Fred's Bumper Stickers.

8. You can't break them.

9. You can't return them.

10. You can only get them at Fred's! THIS YEAR - Introducing a whole line of Fred's junk: The soon to be famous Donny McFun Pig Mug, the Fred's Donny McFun Mug, the eve-rywhere printed Fred's Donny McFun Pig Cap. All of them are excellent gift ideas for the person you bought to Fred's this year.

This Saturday: Donny And The Goodtimes with Way-Oh Higdon on Fiddle. To Reserve a table, call 547-8221. This is your last chance to party at Fred's before Christmas Break!

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opposing attorneys in Michael Deaver's perjury trial portrayed the ex-White House aide in dramatic closing arguments Tuesday as both an influence peddler who betrayed his friends, the president, and an honorable man wrongly accused.

Independent prosecutor Whitney North Seymour Jr., flashing documents on a screen to back up his arguments and raising his voice for dramatic emphasis, described the former White House deputy chief of staff and still-a-siv manipulator of power who could pick up the phone and get through to top-level administration officials.

Seymour charged Deaver did that on frequent occasions on behalf of high-paying private consulting clients once he left government May 10, 1985.

Seymour said Deaver was motivated to lie under oath to avoid prosecution on ethics violations and to protect his business and his long list of friends, at the top of which is President and Mrs. Reagan.

Herbert Miller Jr. denied this in his fluorescein-peddler speech as he said he was portrayed by Seymour as the independent prosecutor of a trap his client into alleged lies by asking broad questions.

"It would be ridiculous and the height of folly" for Deaver to have deliberately lied while under five to six investigations at once, he said.

Miller called "non-events" meetings and phone calls that evidence, indicated Deaver lied with former Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, Secretary of State George Shultz and former national security advisers Robert McFarlane and John Poindexter because Deaver was not lobbying on behalf of clients.

He also noted that key witnesses such as Dole, former NSC official Gaston Sigur and vice presidential chief of staff Craig Fuller failed to testify for the prosecution.

"You know deep in your hearts that the type of case put Deaver was an "evil" or nothing but a verdict of not guilty," Miller told the jury in the flushed courtroom packed with spectators.

"I ask you to prayerfully consider the fact that he is not guilty," he said, going on to describe Deaver as "a fine man with an honorable upstanding man" who could have sought favors from the president but chose not to.

But Seymour said in his rebuttal that each contact Deaver had in the administration gave him a motive to lie and scoffed at Miller's suggestion that Deaver would be the only person in the courtroom to be affected by the jury's verdict.

"Don't you kid yourself," Seymour told the jury, his armed raised high, finger pointed. "This is a major case of importance to you, to the community and in the administration of justice."

Seymour said Deaver was scheduled to go to the jury today.

Red Cross needs donors to meet holiday blood need

You could save a life this holiday season—Give blood, Vivian Ugent, blood drive coordinator, said.

Free Domino's pizza, popcorn and cookies are available for blood donors from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. today at St. Francis Xavier Church, 303 S. Poplar St.

Anyone 17 years-old or older, 105 pounds and in good health is eligible to give blood every eight weeks. Individuals who donated blood in September are eligible to donate again, but not those who gave blood in November.

It's important to give blood during the holiday season, she said. There are more accidents because of increased travel.

"There's an increased burden on the dibuted blood supply and it's important to be prepared," Ugent said. "We need blood whether it's Christmas or New Year's Day."

"Give blood, the best gift of all this holiday season. It doesn't cost a thing."

Cult kills Missouri student

JOPLIN, Mo. (UPT) — About 400 people packed into a church Thursday for services for a high school senior allegedly beaten to death by three classmates and thrown into a water well with the carcasses of several small animals as part of a cult sacrifice.

The crowd, including more than 100 high school students excused from classes to attend the service, filled the Immanuel Lutheran Church of Joplin before heading to nearby Carl Junction cemetery to mourn the death of Steven Byran Newberry, 18, of rural Joplin.

Newberry's body was found Tuesday in 16-foot-deep water in an abandoned well near the Kansas state line. The remains of two squirrels and a recently killed cat also were in the well and officers found baseball bats in the vicinity.

Ronald Clements, James Hardy and Theron Roland, all 17 and residents of the Carl Junction area, were charged with first degree murder.

Tickets available for 'Messiah'

By Curtis Winston

By John V. Mochnick, associate professor of music, the performance by the 118-member college-community chorus will be the first performance in Southern Illinois of the '1743 version' of Handel's epic oratorio.

"We've tried to recreate the first London performance of the 'Messiah' as authentically as we possibly can," Mochnick said. "It's not good enough to say you're doing the 'Messiah' ... you have to say which 'Messiah.'"

The '1743 version' of the work is in the original manuscript as it was premiered in London on March 23, 1743. Mochnick said the authenticity is retained by interpreting the un-written subtleties of the work, such as phrasing and note values, in the style that Handel did in 1743.

Several versions of the 'Messiah' exist, Mochnick said, adding Handel often changed the oratorio to meet the needs of the different singers he worked with.

Vocal soloists will be soprano Jeanine Wagner, lecturer in the School of Music and coordinator of the University opera company, the Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater, and Catherine " Kitty" Mabus, a staff-clerk in the department of foreign languages who was a featured soloist in the Robert Kingsbery tribute concert held this summer.

Taking the solo tenor part will be Brett McCluskey, featured tenor in the music department at Mount Vernon high school and state president of the Music Educator's Association. SIU-C graduate Eric McCloskey will be singing the solo baritone part.

McCluskey, who completed his Master's of Music degree in 1986, is the only professional singer from a Carterville coal mining family. He has sung professionally in St. Louis opera productions. McCluskey has toured with the San Francisco Opera Center's Western Opera Theater, and in January will tour with New York City Opera's touring production of the "Barber of Seville."

The chorus will be backed in the three-hour long choral "tour de force" by a seventeen-piece orchestra.

Instrumental soloists include trumpeter Robert Allison, instructor of music, and cellist Daniel Mellado, associate professor of music. Handel's "Messiah" is the most well known oratorio because of its "Hallelujah" chorus.

Tickets, $5 for the general public and $2 for students, are available at the Student Center ticket office.

Japanese study Vietnamese at SIU-C

By Stephanie Wood

Japan's Ministry of Foreign Affairs has sent diplomat trainee Hiroyuri Inui to the University to study Vietnamese with professor Dinh-Hoa Nguyen. Inui is the eighth Japanese student to study with Nguyen. Japan sends students to universities all over the United States to learn proficiency in foreign languages. "They are smart. They send a student to Indiana University to study Russian and send these in Vietnamese to SIU-C," Nguyen said.

North wins 'Dubious' Esquire title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lt. Col. Oliver North Thursday was named "Dubious Man of the Year" by Esquire magazine in its Dubious Achievement Awards of 1987 that also gave Bronx cheers to Madonna, Spuds MacKenzie and Michael Jackson.

North was heralded by Esquire for his remarks during the Iran-contra hearings, including his defense of the diversion of funds from the Iranian arms sales to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua — "I think it was a neat idea."

Pop star Madonna made the 27th annual list by turning down an invitation for an audience with Pope John Paul II, saying, "If his holiness wants to see me, he can come to my show."

Macho canine mascot MacKenzie got tapped for turning out to be a female.

Jackson won for his "strange behavior, ranging from his $1 million offer for the remains of the Elephant Man to his reportedly numerous nose jobs and other plastic surgery."

Esquire said it was retiring an annually reprinted picture of a jubilant Richard Nixon, with the caption, "Why is This Man Laughing?" for one of Garry Hart with Donna Rice sitting on his lap.

Toy knife,
guns top list
of worst toys

BOSTON (UPI) — Realistic-looking guns that shoot plastic bullets, hand-held helicopters with electric rotors, and fake — but rigid — jungle knives topped a list of "10 Worst Toys of 1987" announced Thursday.

The list of toys that promote "killing" and pose a physical threat to children is compiled annually by Edward Swartz, a Boston products liability lawyer and consumer advocate and author of the book, "Toys That Kill."

Swartz released the list in time for the holiday shopping season, the period between October and Christmas when the $12 billion domestic toy industry realized about 60 percent of its annual sales, according to the Toy Manufacturers of America.

The target of this year's list is realistic weaponry, said Swartz.

"Some toy companies are turning our playing fields into killing fields," he said. "More than ever, this year's toy manufacturers, distributors and mail-order companies have made accessible to children a wide array of play "weapons," many, with the potential to maim or kill."

Manufacturers defended their products, insisting the toys are safe.

Tasty condoms not for sex

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Planned Parenthood of Raleigh is hoping to spread Christmas cheer to a group of people who may not normally get much of it.

"The tasteful way to make your point," reads the script on the timer box designed with hearts.

"For internal use only," it reads. "Accoutrement of Condom-Mints to body parts will result in a sticky mess as well as a mess with a gift idea intended to promote safe sex — Condom-Mints.

"Include inside 12 foil packets with a familiar shape. But the packets contain chocolate, not latex and the people care a warning in case anyone gets confused.

Leadership America program now accepting applications

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

Applications are now being accepted for Leadership America, a 10-week national leadership development program that is designed for college students. The program runs from June 10 to Aug. 18, 1988.

"It's a wonderful opportunity to be someone, and it would look good on a resume," said David Browne of the International programs and Services.

During the first five weeks all training is concentrated in the program, plus housing and most meals are paid for and provided by the program. Participants also receive a scholarship for $500 that can be used for other expenses and their internship.

Five students can apply for the program from SIU-C. Fifty students will be selected from campuses around the country to take part in the program. To be eligible, students must have completed their junior year before June 10, 1988, and can be no more than a senior by next fall.

Five students are selected from each of the 10 geographical regions around the country. Illinois is in the North Central Region, which includes North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. The program consists of a five-week formal session, an internship and a graduation session.

Participants will begin the program in Greensboro, North Carolina. There they will concentrate on self understanding.

They then will spend their second week in the Rocky Mountains participating in a program run by Outward Bound.

For the next three weeks the program moves to Dallas, Texas.

The next four weeks will be spent in an internship. The internships are held throughout the country and around the world.

"Some were held in Mexico and Europe," Brusseau said.

In mid-August, participants will meet in Washington, D.C., to review internships, report on group projects and evaluate the summer long program.

Applications must be postmarked no later than Jan. 30. Interested students can call Brusseau at 453-5774.

Mill, Illinois Avenue signal bids received

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

The bids are in on a project to install traffic signs at the intersections of South Illinois Avenue and University Avenue and Mill Street.

Dec. 4 was the last day to submit open bids on the project, said Woody Gump, traffic engineer for the Illinois Department of Transportation. The estimate for the project is $19,000, and of the four bidders, one placed a bid just below the estimate, he said.

The intersection, which is north of campus, is a merger point for north-and south-bound traffic from U.S. Route 51. The plan calls for four overhead signals at the intersections of South Illinois Avenue and Mill Street, and University Avenue and Mill Street.

Numerous accidents have occurred in the past three years where Mill Street crosses University Avenue and merges with South Illinois Avenue, Gump said.

Gump said IDOT has been aware of the problem for a long time, but that installing the signals will cause some problems.

The biggest problem will be getting specific materials supplied, he said. "We will also have to interrupt the flow of traffic on Route 51," he said.

Santas wanted to give presents to needy kids

"Share Your Blessings," a project sponsored by National Learning Systems, needs participants to give Christmas gifts to needy children.

The Department of Health and Family Services will provide a wish list and the child's name. Each person is asked to spend at least $50.

Staff members of the department will deliver the gifts and the giver will remain anonymous.

Counties being served by the project include Williamson, Franklin, Jackson, Perry, Saline, White, Gallatin, Pope, Hardin, Maacou and Johnson.

For details, call 964-1870 in Marion, 697-3585 in Murphysboro or 222-3728 in Harrisburg. Gifts are tax deductible.

Students soon can put books on account
By Amy Gausatz
Students with credit balances on their Billing Receivables System account will be allowed to charge textbooks and supplies against their account at the University Bookstore from Jan. 12 to Feb. 3.

"Last Fall, 1,142 students participated," John Coker, director of the Student Center, said. "I'm sure there were more that could." Tables will be set up at the north end of the Bookstore so that students can see if they are eligible. A "refund" list from the Bursar's Office will list qualified students.

"It's a weekly list that is updated," Coker said.

Students can charge only up to the amount indicated on the approved "refund" list. Purchases exceeding that amount can be paid for by cash, check, credit card or money order. Students will receive a goldendoor copy of the charge transitions at the time of the purchase, which must be shown for any items students wish to return. Cash refunds will not be given for charge transactions. Approved returns will be refunded through the Billing Receivables System charge system. Refunds can be made through Feb. 6.

"We think it is important for students to have books at the beginning of the semester," Coker said. "We feel that it has been a good service to the students."

Power Symposium slated for University during 1991
By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer
SIU-C will host the 1991 North American Power Symposium, the largest conference devoted to university power systems engineering research.

The conference attracts almost all universities that have power programs," Morten Dannesholt, SIU-C assistant professor of electrical engineering, said. Dannesholt will chair the 1991 conference organizing committee.

The conference is designed to "stimulate scholarly work in electrical power engineering and to provide a forum for university faculty and students to discuss and exchange research ideas," Dannesholt said.

Power engineering is concerned with the generation, transmission and distribution of electrical power.

Last year's conference in Canada drew more than 200 university, government and industry representatives from nine countries.

Majesty reigns at Madrigal Dinner

By Curtis Winston
Entertainment Editor

With a four-course dinner "fit for a king," the Student Center's 11th Annual Madrigal Dinner Concert proved to be a feast for the stomach, and with joyous singing and jesting, it was a feast for the eyes and ears as well.

The Student Center ballrooms became a great royal dining hall, decorated with evergreen and holly. As guests of the King and Queen waited to enter the dining hall, they were entertained by a magician, a minstrel, a mime and a royal fool, who roamed through the waiting throng of guests, spreading Christmas cheer.

With the sounding of the first of nine trumpet fanfares, the guests were allowed to enter. Many parties were seated with strangers, but by evening's end, the room was filled with a family of friends, as everyone at the table had shared an experience of great music and good food.

The second farefare signaled the entrance of the King, Queen and the madrigal singers, all in elaborate Elizabethan garb. Everyone involved with the dinner was magnificently costumed.

After the presentation of yule log carried in by two guards—a short guard carried his end of the log on his head because his considerably taller partner carried the other end at about chest level, the King called for the serving of "wassail," a hot aromatic cinnamon and apple beverage that warms the heart and soul.

With the presentation of the boar's head, the feasting begun. The main course of prime rib of beef, Christmas trees and balls (broccoli and bell pepper), gingerbread and baked apples, was a sumptuous feast.

Throughout the feasting, the diners were entertained by a classical guitar trio, a harpachord and a recorder quartet. The renaissance-period sounds of the musicians added greatly to the Elizabethan atmosphere. Dancers and swordsmen added action to the scene.

After-dinner laughs came in the form of juggler Harmless T. Jester, a professional comedian from the kingdom of Arkansas. Harmless took to the stage in the center of the dining area, making nearby guests nervous as he emptied the contents of his bag, which included juggling clubs, razor-sharp machetes and a petroleum product used for lighting torches.

Harmless started his act by juggling three balls, often dropping them, which surely made the nearby guests very uneasy. He did, however, prove himself to be a master juggler when he juggled clubs and the machete, even though he said his back up system for the machete act was, "If I go, he back up."

With the flaming torches, Harmless showed his worth as a fire juggler, as well as a fire eater, proving he didn't need the fire extinguisher placed at the base of the stage.

Even after Harmless left the stage, fires still burned, but on the flaming Yorkshire pudding which was served for dessert.

After dessert, a short madrigal concert was given. The blend of the four voice parts, ladies singing soprano and alto, and men on the tenor and bass parts, was a delicious a la carte! 'He dinner, providing good music to digest by."

Temporary jobs abound at Christmas
By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Area retail sales outlets are hiring their annual amount of “jingle-bell” help, the short-term employment for the holiday season, according to a number of area job-finders.

"Christmas is hiring during the process of picking up now,” Rick ean, manager, supervisor of the Carbondale office of the Illinois Job
Service, said Friday.

The number of jobs is up slightly over last year at this time, Beverly Easton, owner-manager of a local retailer,
Temporary Services in Carbondale, said.

"Most companies take on some Christmas help. The wholesale-resale area has shown a slight increase,” Easton said.

Area malls are probably inundated with applications,” Carol King, office manager at Carrs, Inc., Carbondale, said.

King said an alternative to retail work over the holidays is the temporay help needed in the office support staff positions.

For SIU-C students who may be in town over the semester break, there is plenty of temporary employment available, Morris said.

"Most retail stores and offices are opening.
There are a lot of students that stay, the opportunities are good for them," he said.

ILINOIS ANTHOLOGY RELEASED

By Stephanie Wood Staff Writer

"Dream South, An Anthology" is a collection of written and graphic works about the area of Southern Illinois known as Little Egypt.

Recently released by Southern Illinois Poets Press, the works were submitted by authors from as far away as California, Colorado and Mississippi.

Among the local authors who contributed to the collection are SIU-C undergraduates James Hileman and Victor Tivole, doctoral student Randy Tindall, and graduate Jason Scott Steel.

Carbondale residents Robert Shrum and Bonnie Moreno also contributed works.

Tindall wrote a poem about working in a factory.

"It's kind of a generic poem, but basically applies to factories everywhere," he said. "I wrote about my experience of working in a factory in Iowa. It's about the idea that everything is atomized."

Tindall sent his poem to the Southern Illinois Poets on a whim after seeing an advertisement in the paper.

Moreno submitted a drawing of a swastika, symbolizing harmony between men. Moreno said she reflects the fact that the swastika has changed from its original meaning of harmony to anti-Semitism.

The words attached to the drawing illustrate that "the drawings operated in union, n.d. harmony," she said. "It is a universal concept.

The collection can be purchased for $4.50 from the Southern Illinois Poets, P.O. Box 395, Carbondale.

ATTENTION CITIZENS INTERESTED IN SPRINGFEST:
Excitement, festivities, entertainment for all... that is what Springfest is all about. To achieve this goal in planning the 1988 Springfest, the Student Programming Council and University Programming Office need your input and suggestions. Below are some specific questions to which we would like your response.

1. Are you a: SUIC Employee SUIC Faculty SUIC Professional Staff SUIC Student Other
2. If a student, your classification is: FR SO JR SR GRAD (circle one)
3. Your age is: under 18 18-20 21-23 24-26 27-30 31-45 45 and above (circle one)
4. Have you ever attended the Carbondale Boat Regents at Campus Lake?
   YES NO
5. Have you ever attended a Springfest in the Old Main Mall or SUIC halls?
   YES NO

IF YES TO NO 5, COMPLETE THE BOX IN AREA AND THE REST OF THE SURVEY.
IF NO, SKIP THE BOX AND FINISH.

What do you remember most about that Springfest?

During Springfest '87 did you participate in the non-alcoholic bar?
   YES NO

Did you consume alcohol at the Springfest you attended?
   YES NO

In addition to the Springfest activities in Old Main Mall, did you attend the Carbondale Boat Regents at Campus Lake?
   YES NO

What kind of activities did you enjoy most at the Springfest you attended?
   (circle three)
1) Live Music 2) Animal Rides 3) Musical Performances 4) Sports
5) Registered Student Organization Booths 6) Soul Dance 7) Non-Alcoholic Bar

What is the age of the person who sponsored the trip in your group?

If the events were held on separate days, would you attend BOTH the Carbondale Boat Regents at Campus Lake AND the Springfest in Old Main Mall?
   YES NO

If actions are taken to ensure responsible drinking at both the Carbondale Boat Regents at Campus Lake AND the Springfest in Old Main Mall, would you attend BOTH events held on separate days?
   YES NO

What ideas do you have on ways to ensure responsible drinking at Springfest?

If you are interested in seeing part of Springfest '88 that is not listed in the box.

IF YOU ANSWERED NO TO QUESTION NO.5, COMPLETE THE BOX IF OF THE SURVEY. BEGINNING HERE.

IF YOU ANSWERED NO TO QUESTION NO.5, COMPLETE THE BOX IF OF THE SURVEY. BEGINNING HERE.

6. What do you interested in seeing part of Springfest '88 that is not listed in the box.

7. If live music is part of Springfest '88, what type of music would you most like to hear?
   (circle one)
1) Jazz 2) Reggae 3) Country 4) Rock 'n Roll 5) Classical 6) Folk
7) Rap 8) Soul

8. If live entertainment is to be part of Springfest '88, what type of entertainers would you most like to see?
   (circle two)
9) Other

9. If participatory events are to be part of Springfest '88, what type of events would you be interested in participating in?

Researcher finds laughter no joking matter

By Laura Milbrath
Staff Writer

Studying normal children’s understanding of jokes and analyzing their reactions to them is a method being used by researchers working with retarded people to examine their knowledge of humor.

Kenneth Ruder, professor of communication disorders and sciences, began working on his study, titled “It’s a Joke! A Study in the Acquisition of Humor,” in 1983. He presented the results this summer at the 4th International Congress on Child Language Study in Lund, Sweden.

Ruder has spent the last 15 years working with mentally handicapped people to train them about the use of language and language rules. He found two areas the retarded had difficulty in were lying and telling jokes. Both “require manipulations of complex linguistic behaviors,” Ruder said.

“In order for me to do a decent job with the retarded or any language deficient child, I find myself looking at how normal children respond to language and emotional events,” Ruder said.

One of the main findings of the study, conducted with 60 normal children in grades two and three, who were at least one year above their grade, was that most have developed a knowledge of social convention of humor, Ruder said.

Ruder and his researchers read books of jokes to the children to study their responses to the verbal humor. They found that although many times the children of preschool age did not understand the meanings of the jokes or the different plays on language, they laughed.

“They recognize a joke frame, they don’t ask you what it means,” Ruder said. “We asked them why it was funny and the common response was because it was a joke,” Ruder said.

Different jokes violate different rules of the language, determining the various types of humor, Ruder explained.

Phonological rules, or plays on the sound of language, Ruder cited one example of a knock-knock joke in which the person is asked where there and replies “Candy.” He asked “Candy who?” The response is “Candy cow jump over the moon.”

Other rules involved in verbal humor include syntactic rules, the way words are ordered; semantic rules, which affect the meaning of language; and pragmatic rules, which are concerned with how appropriate words are in certain situations, Ruder said.

Ruder cited one example of a joke that violates semantic rules as “How do you keep a bank from a monkey?” The answer is “You hold his nose.”

The research between two interpretations of smuggling provides the basis for the humor, Ruder said.

“If you look at the structure of a verbal joke, most of it deals with ambiguity that results from our knowledge of linguistic rules,” Ruder said.

The children were judged on their facial reactions to the jokes. Ruder called this the mirth response with a zero representing no reaction, a one representing a smile and a two representing a laughing.

The children were asked whether they found the jokes to be funny and then asked to explain why they found them to be that way. These results then were related to language scores and cognitive tests given to each child, Ruder said.

“The child’s knowledge of language was strongly related to the way he appreciated the jokes,” Ruder said. “When you have told them a joke and they realize what the ambiguity is, at that point the child becomes a creator — he creates jokes rather than just repeating what others have told him.”

“It’s almost as though as you can see the light bulb going on over his head like ‘That’s it. That’s it. That’s how it was funny.’”

Ruder is using the data from this experiment to aid his study of retarded people and their responses to humor.

“We can determine what linguistic rules they have a knowledge of by the types of jokes that they respond positively to,” Ruder said.

When testing the retarded on verbal humor involved, Ruder’s hypothesis is that these reactions will let researchers know if the person truly understands the meaning of humor.

“Here is a way in we can see if they do have a knowledge,” Ruder said.

‘Miracle boy’ cranky but alive after icy plunge

FARGO, N.D. (UPI) — Alvare Garcia, 11, of the upper Midwest, was reported to be cranky Thursday when told a joke, even by St. Luke’s Hospital staff. They said the boy was pleased.

Dr. Giordano Atwood, a pediatric critical care specialist, said the youth who was submerged in the icy Red River for 45 minutes last week is “starting to act like an 11-year-old boy again, to humor. No bad sign.”

Atwood said Thursday the boy was “restless, crabby and cranky, which we take as a good sign because you have to be feeling pretty good to be your crazy self.”

“Should eat a little bit of a McDonald’s hamburger,” the nursing supervisor at St. Luke’s said Wednesday night. After taken off a respirator on Tuesday, Alvare asked his mother for a hamburger, Coke and french fries.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A puzzled-looking Raisa Gorbachev confronted Nancy Reagan at a Soviet dinner party, asking her: "What is this about our not liking each other?" an aide said Thursday.

Press secretary Elaine Crispin said Mrs. Gorbachev asked Mrs. Reagan about the reports of a strain between the two first ladies at an embassy dinner Wednesday night.

Crispin said Mrs. Reagan told Mrs. Gorbachev she had a "nice time" with the Soviet first lady and could not account for the reports.

The reports have been based on observations of the two women at the White House, where Mrs. Gorbachev has appeared to try to upstage and at times ignore Mrs. Reagan.

But at White House departure ceremonies Thursday, the two women shook hands twice and smiled broadly at each other.

Some of Mrs. Gorbachev's comments, however, have been viewed as less than gracious. After her White House tour, Mrs. Gorbachev said: "Humanly speaking, a human being would like to live in a clean home. This is a museum."

She never got to see the family quarters on the second floor, which have a cozier feel. "What is this about our not liking each other?" Mrs. Gorbachev said through an interpreter as she greeted Mrs. Reagan at the Soviet Embassy.

It was the first time Mrs. Reagan had been in the Soviet Embassy, said Crispin, who noted the first lady sat next to the host, Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, and they had a "lively conversation" about the crowd.

Gorbachev wooed crowd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mikhail Gorbachev melted another barrier in U.S.-Soviet relations Thursday by jumping out of his motorcade at a busy downtown corner to shake hands with stunned passers-by, several of whom he left in awe.

"Gorbachev was beautiful. The people just loved him. That guy has got more charisma. He was like Sinatra or Barbra Streisand, just taking a bow," said Dale Zeilet, who viewed the scene from the terrace of his restaurant.

Scores of cheering people pressed forward to touch a grinning Gorbachev as Secret Service and KGB agents scurried to provide security and as television cameras recorded this curbside meeting between East and West.

"I touched him," one woman gushed. "He was very special to do that," said another. "He's a P.R. (public relations) genius," said still another.

Gorbachev, accompanied by Vice President George Bush, stopped his motorcade a few blocks from the White House for a few minutes at about 7:35 pm.

"Gorbachev was shaking hands with everyone," said Robert Burroughs, manager of a clothing store in front of where the motorcade came to a screeching stop.

Aging cage kings’ futures continue free-fall to failure

BOSTON (UPI) — Age, parity in the NBA and eerily similar problems have turned Friday’s replay of the championship series into a battle for self-confidence.

The Boston Celtics, 11-7, have lost four of their last five games, superstar Larry Bird is recovering from Achilles problems and All-Star forward Kevin McHale is recovering from injury. A few times in this young season, the NBA’s oldest starting lineup has looked very weary.

The Los Angeles Lakers, 11-4, have lost six of their last nine games; superstar Magic Johnson is recovering from Achilles problems and All-Star forward James Worthy is coming back from injury. Center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the NBA’s oldest player at 40, may not be defying the aging process any longer.

The two winnigest teams in NBA history appear to be losing their hold as the league’s elite.

Los Angeles, a three-time NBA champion, has lost three of four games on its current road trip and Lakers Coach Pat Riley said, “I never envisioned I’d come to Boston Garden either having to break through or hit the bottom of the barrel.”

Boston’s Jerry Sichting said both teams are free-falling toward failure.

“Whoever loses this game tomorrow is going to hit bottom. But it could be like a recovering alcoholic: Once you hit bottom, there’s no place to go but up.”

Johnson says the Celtics and Lakers may be feeling the affects of other franchises’ improved management.

“One team has been using their draft choices well and making good trades. We’ve been there so many times that you stay with what you have and age catches up with you.”

coats of an encapsulating material, a job that should take two or three days, Hulin said. After that is completed, the lane markings must be put on, which will take about 5 days.

Hulin, who has installed about 50 courts in the last 11 years, said this track has taken much longer to complete than most.

“The last track I took 3½ weeks,” he said. “But 120 days is a pain.”

Hulin said he has not been able to work during the good weather this week because the moisture from last weekend’s rain has not evaporated from the track.

“It’s like a sponge,” he said. Mike Perkins, assistant athletic director, said, “I think they may have underestimated the size of the job.”

Hakse agreed there may be more to the delays than just the weather.

“It seemed like it wasn’t as well organized as it could have been,” he said.

Hakse said the University cannot force OSI to complete the track by a specific date because there is no time table written into the contract and because OSI was not contracted to build the track, Hulin said, rather than a sub-contractor.

The general contract for construction of the track and installation of the stadium’s new field turf is held by Sportec International, Inc., of Buffalo, N.Y.

Perkins said OSI-C does not have the right to take OSI’s contract away if the track is not completed by a specific deadline because it is a sub-contractor.

“I don’t know if that’s our option,” he said. "I think that’s an option of Sportec." This leaves the University in a bind.

“Can we do it?” Perkins said. “We’re holding back more than enough to complete the job. (If OSU does not finish it,) Hakse said.

The total contract with Sportec amounts to $230,000, Hakse said, while OSI-C has brought in $75,000 or so.

In addition to money the University is holding back, OSI-C has a performance bond, “which guarantees that the job will be finished,” Hakse said. If the job is not completed, the performance bond can be cashed to cover the cost of completing the project.

“I’m getting really concerned whether we’ll get it done this year,” Hakse said.

“There’s just so many good days left,” Perkins said. "I still think it’s going to be a good track...someday.”

Troy St., Portland St., vie for Div. II grid title

FLORENCE, Ala. (UPI) — The quarterbacks for the NCAA Division II playoff teams are hoping for different results in offensive results in Saturday’s championship game.

“I don’t see a high-scoring offense,” Troy State quar­tback Mike Turk said. "I want a low-scoring game. Those high-scoring games get me in the heart.

Troy State, 11-11, is used to high-scoring games, which may need against Portland State, also 11-1, in their nationally televised contest at 10:30 a.m. CST at Braly Stadium in Florence.

In their 13-game season, the Trojans have scored 46 points once, 41 twice and 46 points in their opening Division II playoff game against Winston­Salem State Nov. 29.

“If it’s 10-10 toward the end of the game, I have confidence we can go down and score,” said Turk, a finalist for the Harlon Hill Trophy, signifying the best college player in Division II. “If it’s 44-44, I don’t know whether driving down and scoring will make any difference.

But Portland State’s record-setting quarterback, Chris Crawford, who broke Neil Lomax’s school passing records, figures that a 44-44 game down the stretch is right with him.

“When the offense is rolling, it makes me feel good,” said Crawford, who has completed 56 percent of his passes, "like a high-scoring game better.”

Crawford completed 181 of 294 passes for 2,412 yards and 16 touchdowns. His completion percentage this year eclipsed the school rec. of 53 percent set by Lomax, who now plays for the St. Louis Cardinals.
