President Morris Opens Two-Month Fine Arts Festival This Sunday

On Carbondale VHF Channel

SIU To Request Educational TV Outlet From FCC

Howdy Doody may come to the campus, SIU will seek permission to operate a television station it was recently announced.

The station, if given to the University, would be an educational station and would operate on Channel 8.

The Federal Communications Commission has allocated two VHF channels to Southern Illinois, Channel 8 (educational) has been given to Carbondale and Channel 3 (commercial) to Hannibal.

Professor Buren C. Robbins, head of SIU's radio-TV department, said, "We are pleased that the FCC has assigned a broad coverage VHF channel to the area for educational use. We certainly plan to apply for permission to operate on that channel."

The University has been working toward eventual operation of its own TV station for several years, beginning with a conference on the subject in 1950. In 1951-52, SIU asked the Commission to assign a VHF educational channel to this area.

Robbins estimated it might require a year to 18 months or more to get a station on the air after authority was granted, depending on a number of variables — including the University's budget and building space requirements.

SIU's radio transmitter building, under construction has been held up since March 1 by adverse weather, will be large enough to house TV transmission equipment as well as radio, Robbins said. The building already erected also is capable of supporting both radio and TV transmission antennas.

Space for studios has not been planned for in detail, SIU's newest buildings, however, all have been equipped with electric circuits suitable for running TV cameras.

More 40 students are now enrolled in the radio-TV department.

ROBBINS SAID some expansion in the schedule for TV courses probably would follow authorization for a station, and the department probably will attract more TV students.

The TV station would be operated under the same policies planned for the radio station, Robbins added. It would carry University-planned programs, perhaps some class work for credit, and would be available for the use of area organizations as well as SIU.

'Blood Alley' Pic Showing At Movie Hour

The spring series of Movie Hour films starts off with a bang tonight with the showing of "Blood Alley" at 6:30 and 8:30 in the University School Auditorium.

There are, in fact, several bangs in this movie—the kind made by artillery for the most part. The artillery belongs to the Red Chinese government, which wants to prevent an entire village from escaping down the Formosan Straits in an antique ferryboat.

The villagers have the ferryboat; they just need somebody to make it run. So they enlist the aid of an American girl (Lauren Bacall), who just happens to be in town, and who conveniently arranges a jailbreak for a fellow countryman who happens to be a sailor—he also happens to be John Wayne, which leads to interesting complications, romantic and otherwise.

From this point on, the action becomes action in the best sense of the word. The ferryboat puts to sea, Wayne indulges in a bit of wrestling with both his conscience and Miss Bacall, and the artillery opens up.

Admission will be 25 cents for students and 40 cents for adults.

CHOIR DIRECTOR
Robert S. Hines, director of choirs at SIU, will lead the Southern Illinois Oratorio Society in its performance of Mozart's "Requiem in D Minor."

Oratorio Chorus Will Sing Mozart Mass After Talk

The climax of months of preparation comes this Sunday afternoon when SIU's second annual Fine Arts Festival begins.

The festival officially opens at 3:30 in Shroyck Auditorium with a talk by President Delyte W. Morris. At 3:45 the Southern Illinois University Choir in presenting Mozart's "Requiem in D Minor."

Considered by many to be one of Mozart's greatest works, "Requiem" was incomplete at the time of the composer's death. It was later finished by a pupil of Mozart, following detailed instructions from the composer.

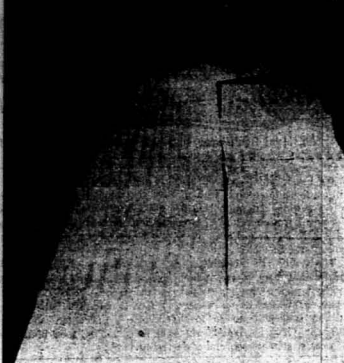

Spring Quarter! Tornado Tips Timely Topic

With spring quarter comes tornado quarter. Students who were here last year do not have to strain their brains too hard to remember last spring term when tornado whirled long around as fast as the wind itself.

There are few simple rules everyone should remember.

First of all, open the windows on the north and east sides of the house which helps to equalize the air pressure. Be sure to shut off the gas and electricity to minimize fire possibilities. Stay in the cellar or southwest of the corner of the basement.

Don't stand near the window or remain outside where flying objects can strike you. Don't use the telephone so that the lines may be open for vital messages. Above all, don't get into a panic.

SIU STUDENT COMPOSERS
Crowding over fifteen feet of Shroyck Auditorium floor are the musical compositions of Andrew Fox, left, and Lewis Songer of SIU. The two young composers will have their works played before Mlle. Nadia Boulanger when the noted music teacher conducts her Composers Symposium during the Fine Arts Festival.

Dr. Lloyd Morey

Speaks At Lecture Series

"The State University in the Educational System" will be the topic of the public lecture to be given by Dr. Lloyd Morey, former president of the University of Illinois, at 7:30 p.m. in the Library Auditorium on April 1.

Now a member of the SIU faculty as visiting professor, Morey served as state auditor after Orville Hodge was dismissed following the scandal surrounding his office. Morey was credited as being the man who nursed the Illinois public treasury back to health following Hodge's mishandling of funds.

The talk by the former university president will be a review of the history and development of the university and its application in the United States, particularly as to the state-supported institutions.

The lecture is the second of series being sponsored by the SIU School of Business. Distinguished visiting professor Dr. Paul S. Lomax, former chairman of the business education department at New York University, gave the opening lecture on March 13. Morey will also speak on April 15, May 1, 13 and 27.

Morey was comptroller of the University of Illinois from 1916 to 1955, comptroller of the University Retirement system of Illinois from 1941-53, and president of the Urbana school from 1953-56. He served as state auditor of public accounts in 1956-57.

In addition to teaching at the Universities of Illinois and Michigan, Morey has served as consultant to the Florida Council of Higher Education in 1955-56, and to the U. S. Department of Defense during the same period.

Carl Martz New Editor

New Obelisk staff members for the 1958 yearbook were chosen by the Campus Journalism Council at a meeting held just before the beginning of the Spring vacation.

Carl Martz, junior from Windsor, grabbed the Editor's post for the 1958 yearbook, while Marian McBride, Donna Jo Falkenstein and Ronald Vaskie were named associate editors.

Martz succeeds Myra Swanson, who was the editor of the 1958 yearbook, which is being wrapped up at the present time, and who should be ready for distribution June 1.

He is a community newspaper major, and served as an associate editor of the 1958 Obelisk staff. A member of Phi Delta Epsilon, an honorary fraternity for students who work on student publications, Martz is pledging Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalism fraternity. Martz transferred to SIU from Colorado A&M during his sophomore year.

Marian McBride, an associate editor for the yearbook, is a freshman business major from Marion and served as a co-associate editor last term.

A second associate editor for the yearbook is Donna Jo Falkenstein from Belvidere. She is a math major and was an associate editor of the 1958 Obelisk staff. Donna was editor of her high school newspaper in 1955.

Rounding out the four member staff for the annual is Ronald Vaskie from Elkhart. He will be an associate editor on the new staff and is a freshman business education major.

The 1958 yearbook edition will be the 44th time that the Obelisk will be published. It was first published in 1914 when Ralph W. Jackson was editor-in-chief. The 1958 model will have 320 pages which is a 32 page increase over last year's Obelisk.

Charles C. Clayton has been the faculty adviser for the yearbook since 1957, but will be succeeded by Dr. Donald R. Grubb, associate professor in journalism at SIU.

Grubb was faculty adviser for the Obelisk from 1949 to 1954. In 1954, he began work on his Ph.D. at the University of Utah and completed work on his degree in 1956.

His specialty in journalism is news and editorial writing along with special publications. He is director of the Southern Illinois Press Association and advised the Egyptian for five years.

Deadline April 11 Selective Service Tests Set

The Selective Service College qualification test will be given to college men on May 1. Lt. Colonel F. E. Woodworth, State Director of Selective Service for Illinois announced. The May 1 test will be the only one offered for the 1957-58 school year, he said. Applications must be postmarked not later than midnight April 11.

Scores made on the test are used by local boards as a guide in considering requests for deferment from military service to continue studies. A student's standing in class is also considered.

Application cards and instructions may be obtained now from any Selective Service local board. Men planning to take the test were urged to make early application at the nearest local board office for full information and necessary forms.

Student deferments, which test scores have helped determine since 1951, have been a major factor in insuring the Nation its present supply of specialized manpower, Colonel Woodworth pointed out.

Many students deferred since the testing program was begun are now scientists, engineers and specialists in technical fields, the social sciences, teaching and humanities.

Test scores, with other information which each registrant is required to furnish his local board will help the boards continue to insure the national strength by making the best possible decisions on how and when a man may most effectively contribute to the national defense.

Many men are able to complete their graduate study before reaching an age when induction can be expected and do not need to seek a deferment, Colonel Woodworth said. Draft calls presently are for men 22 years of age and older.

Council Airs Parking Woes Next Meeting

The SIU parking problem will be discussed at an open meeting of the Student Council next Thursday evening in the Ag Seminar Room. All interested students are invited to attend to hear Robert F. Eberidge, assistant dean of Student Affairs, give an explanatory talk about the parking situation on campus.

Exact time of the meeting will be announced in the next issue of the Egyptian.

DANCE! DANCE! DANCE!

All thirty tergiversarians are invited to attend the Coko Dance at the Student Union This Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. Get those vacation complex smoothed away with some dancing to the music of the London Branch Band.

Russian Expert Will Give Public Lecture

Dr. Homer L. Dodge, president emeritus of Norwich University and a noted authority on science education, will deliver a public lecture at SIU at 8 p.m. April 3, in Shroyck Auditorium.

His current national tour is sponsored by Sigma Pi Sigma, national physics honor society which has a chapter at SIU.

Dodge, the first American to make an on-the-spot study of the Russian educational system since World War II, will report on his visits to schools, technical colleges and universities in the Soviet Union.

Accompanied by his son, who speaks Russian fluently, Dodge was permitted to tour the country for a month without official escort. Some of his findings were featured in four issues of U. S. News and World Report and by the U. S. Office of Education.

J-Day Dinner

A weekly newspaper editor's banquet but happy life will be described to the SIU journalism students at the J-Day Dinner on April 3 by Grover Shipton, publisher of the Roadhouse Record.

A log-cabin female journalist living at Carverville will be a speaker for the Journalism Assembly Monday, March 31, at 10 a.m. in the Library Auditorium.

Anne West, an SIU graduate, has had stories and articles published in 90 magazines, while eleven of her stories have been adapted for network television dramas.

Miss West, who attended the Missouri School of Journalism, was once a columnist for the Cairo Evening Citizen.

J-Day program, Thursday morning at 10 a.m.

Rowland spent three months studying Korean newspapers and conferring with editors in a trip sponsored by the U. S. State Department.

GRANTS AVAILABLE FOR HEALTH WORKSHOP

Public school teachers with five years of service may apply for 100-dollar grants to attend a Health Education Workshop at Southern Illinois University this summer.

Twenty stipends of 100-dollars each are available for qualified teachers, SIU seniors and graduate students. The four-week workshop, from June 16th through July 11th, will deal with mental health, nutrition, safety education and other topics.

NEW OBELISK STAFF MEMBERS
These smiling faces reflect the optimism of the new 1959 Obelisk staff. From the left, Donna Jo Falkenstein, Carl Martz, the new editor, Marian McBride and Ronald Vaskie will be pasting up, typing, proof-reading and writing the materials for the SIU yearbook's 45th edition.

The Editors' Opinions

Lead Off

With this issue a new staff says in its own name. Perhaps the "new" does not apply in entirety for many have been working on the EGYPTIAN in the past. For most of us, however, it will be like a babe taking his first stumbling steps, "feeling" his way along.

There will be changes. Every staff has its own ideas on what a good paper is composed of and what should be printed. Without changes there would be no improvement. A static, unchanging paper which does not adapt to the times is a dead paper.

A few of the rules held to be gospel by the past staff will be adopted. The opinions expressed in the editorials will be OUR opinions, not those of any fraction or group. We will print what we believe. Above all, it will be remembered that the paper is a STUDENT paper.

BEHIND THE NEWS

The above rules are ones we feel are necessary if the paper is to serve its function adequately. A paper which is merely a "puppet" or a "tool" of another person or group cannot accomplish any good for the University.

We invite your letters, comments and criticism. Only by bearing your opinions can we know if the paper is "going" or "coming" or becoming so much wastebasket material.

The rapidly expanding University presents a challenge to the new staff. It is a challenge which we hope to be able to meet. The task of lowering the campus for all the news is an ever expanding one.

To those who are worried about the changes mentioned earlier, we close with this comforting word: Staffs come and staffs go but GUS BODE remains. —the staff

It Finally Happened

The danger to pedestrians of service vehicles and bicycles using the University walkways was pointed out ominously by a member of the Student Council at one of its meetings last quarter.

The EGYPTIAN also cited this danger in an editorial following the meeting.

On the day before the Winter term concluded a woman student was struck from behind by a SIU panel truck at the south entrance of the Library.

Fortunately, the student was not hospitalized and received "only" scratches and bruises. Fortunately, the vehicle was traveling slowly when it hit the girl.

The driver of the truck had glanced back when a rear door of the truck came open while his attention was diverted his vehicle struck the girl "directly in the small of the back."

The impact, however slight, sent her sprawling to the ground; and she barely missed the concrete walls of Library entrance as she tumbled forward.

The driver of the truck suffered from shock. He had believed that the girl he severely injured the woman pedestrian.

His fear was justified, as is our concern, that unless something is done to prevent service

THE NEWS

By Joe Blawie

A new quarter starts and weary students are still coming in from their travels. The silent lines in front of the Library attest to the joy of returning students.

Perhaps many of the students have "vacation hang-overs." For many the vacation merely provided a chaos to earn a little cash. Many students stayed in Carbondale and worked.

For others, however, the swaying palms of sunny Florida beckoned. The word "sun" is used rather loosely in this instance. The annual trek to the southland was again made by quite a few of the students.

The trip to Florida is a graphic illustration of students overcoming tremendous handicaps. No money. Carbondale banks rejected the requests of students "clearing out their accounts"—all two and three dollars.

It seems that some sort of credit should be given to those who toured Florida on a shoe string. Maybe the University could be persuaded to offer three or four hours credit for such feats. Surely the practical experience gained by these trips would be equal to a classroom course of the same number of hours.

I doubt if there is any chance of the University establishing a Florida "course" in the near future. If such a course were started the number of applicants would probably number one hundred percent of the student population.

The spring quarter does offer several advantages over the winter quarter. Weather is probably considered the biggest one by the students. The return to shirt sleeves and the lighter clothing will be a welcome relief from the heavy overcoats.

Spirits always rise with the return of warm weather. Everything seems easier, even studying.

Then there is the "long, hot summer" and more vacation just

Job Opportunities

New York State Camps Need Qualified Student Help

(Editors' Note: This is the first of a series of articles to be published which will give information concerning job opportunities for graduates and students seeking summer work. Realizing that everyone is concerned over the economic trends of the United States, we hope that these articles will stem the tide of fear which accompanies the gloomy forecasts of the "hatchlings of doom.")

Answering the inquiries of many college students puzzled about prospects for 1958 camp jobs, the New York State Employment Service reports that summer job opportunities for counselors are as bright as ever, with salaries and fringe benefits adding up to a profitable summer's pay.

"Only one who may be left out in the cold are the 'Alphabets and Gammas' who wait until everyone else has had his pick of jobs," says Muriel Sobel, head of the Employment Service's camp unit at 119 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Let's Blit Unlucky

"We'll be doing intensive screening for camp positions during Easter vacations and anyone who doesn't put in his bid then may find it tough getting the job he wants later."

The increasing popularity of counseling writes for the free pamphlet, "What Is A Camp Counselor," 119 Fifth Avenue, New York City, to the State Employment Service.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MAINE has announced insurance coverage for itself, faculty, and employees of the university. The policy provides coverage for teachers in the event accidents cause bodily injury to students in classrooms or laboratories for which such teachers might be held personally liable.

Letter To The Editor

Male Reply

To The Editor:

This letter is in response to the letter appearing in the March 7, issue of the Egyptian. The young ladies who wrote the letter said they do not care if a boy has a car or not. It appears they do not know the boy's side of the story too well.

A poor unfortunate boy who does not have a car will call up one of the SIU beauties. The conversation will go something like this:

Boy: May I speak to x?

Girl: This is Y.

Boy: This is Y. I was wondering if you are doing anything this Friday?

Girl: No, I'm not busy Friday.

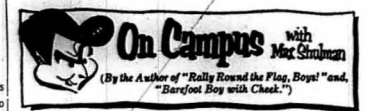

Boy: Well, I was wondering if you would go out with me then this Friday?

Girl: I would love to.

Boy: Swell. By the way, we'll have to walk. I don't have a car.

Girl: Oh, I'm sick and if I'm not sick, I will be sick.

On Saturday, a couple can go

Talks On Career Jobs

Career opportunities in the Federal government for college students will be discussed on Tuesday, April 8, at 10:00 A. M. in The Library Auditorium by E. Bishop Hill, District Manager of the Social Security Administration at Harrisburg, Illinois. Mr. Hill will be available for personal interviews after his talk and also from 11:00 A. M. to 2:00 P. M. the same day in The Placement Office. Of particular interest to students will be information about jobs for college men and women who pass the Federal Service Entrance Examination. Instituted in December, 1955, the examination is a qualifying examination used by Federal agencies to fill a wide variety of positions. During 1957, a total of 450 college trained persons began careers in the Federal government in a broad range of agencies in the states of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin as a result of passing the Federal Service Entrance Examination. Certain technical jobs, such as those in engineering, physics, chemistry, and accounting, are filled through other examinations. However, the Federal Service Entrance Examination serves as the main examination through which college-caliber persons may begin a career in the Federal government.

Home Ec Building

Otto's Likable Lingo Gets Tough Job Done

By Bill Christie
Otto Aue isn't very good at names, but that is only a mild occupational hazard of supervising all the work on the budding Home Economics Building at SIU. When the concrete needs pouring, it doesn't really make an difference if Otto tells Hey, Bud or Matthew Mark Luke John Jones to let 'er rip. The assignment is there either way, and on this job results have been right on the heels of sentiment. Since early last December, Aue has been calling the punches at the corner of Grand and University. A year from this April, the punches are expected to be completed, and then the homemakers of tomorrow — bless 'em — can take over. It is a two million dollar job, and Aue is handling it with white gloves, if that can be imaginable. As a stereotype, the construction major dome has the short end of a filter — tip in his mouth, a five o'clock shadow on his cheeks and a harsh word for everybody from nine to five. Even the hours are different with Aue. He is one stereotype that got away. Nature Takes Its Course Well, he does get a heavy whisker growth at day's end, but that's just a matter of nature taking its course. Aue talks nice to his men, for that gives morale a shot in the arm, and he wears holly-wood-type sun glasses, for they ward off the sun from his recently dilated eyes. "Been having trouble with both eyes lately," Aue said, away from the hub-bub created by the 60 workers under him. His office is upstairs in the building that used to house the SIU Information Service. If Director Bill Lyons saw the old home town, his typewriter ribbon would turn gray. The place

Practically born with a guitar in his hands—an aunt gave him one at the age of eight—Gibson did not attract much public attention until he enrolled at Southern. An appearance in a freshman talent contest was "a hit" and he has been in demand ever since for student programs and, later, at the Carbondale theater.

Language Teacher Job Prospects High Says SIU Professor

Gibson has a style—he questions the use of the word "style"—of his own. Taking bits of Shakespeare and other works, he "improvises" songs. The resulting combination has added to Dick's popularity.

Foreign language teachers graduating from college are finding their job prospects especially bright. That's the conclusion of Dr. Vera Peacock, chairman of the SIU Department of Foreign Languages. Peacock says that many secondary schools have renewed their interest in languages and are expanding their language programs.

He got the idea for the job at the theater, while watching a movie with a friend. His companion complained of the show being dull. The next day Gibson inquired about the possibility of "picking

Last year alone, the SIU Placement Service listed 235 vacancies for language teachers. The greatest number of openings are for teachers of Latin and Spanish, with the demand for French teachers next in line.

NOTHIN' BUT THE COLD FACTS

Not only are girls the weaker sex, but they are also the lighter sex. It has been proven that girls can get along with less clothing than the husky men. A test which weighed the clothing of one coed and one male student—everything from "unmentionables" to cuffs—resulted in these facts: the girl wore 8 lbs. 12 oz., the boy 15 lbs. 3 oz., which is almost double. Any comments, fellows?

Warren Talley, co-capt. in from Pinckneyville, has been chosen "Most Valuable" by his teammates. SIU's tennis squad opens its regular season against Vanderbilt University on March 29.

Dames Club Cooks Up Ideas
By Warren Gray
Married men attending SIU can stop appearing undernourished, there is no need for it, or so claims the SIU Dames Club.

more attractive meals but also learn how to cook on a budget," said Hilda Boudo, chairman of the cooking and decorating group.

"Of course we aren't experts in the pot-and-pan field, so we provide guest speakers for the group," added Hilda, (whose husband Frank is a well-fred sophomore from Eldorado).

In addition to learning the economical way of buying food, the group also picks up methods on decorating the home.

A talk of color scheme is planned for the group in April. Miss Elizabeth Delye, instructor in the Department of Home Economics, will speak on beautifying the home.

"We have only 23 members in our organization and we could use many more," said Hilda, "and it's a fun and a hill group."

Any wife of an SIU student wishing information concerning the Dames Club cooking and decorating committee can contact either Hilda Boudo at 1848X, Carbondale; or Shirley McIntosh, Dames Club vice-president, at 1315X, Carbondale.

Teaching Aids Shown

Library Display Center Grows

By Doris Greenlee
"An instructional materials center as a part of a college is fairly new," Ruth Bauner, assistant education librarian, said in describing SIU's growing center.

The center contains study guides, reference books, sample textbook collections, and other materials to help students of education and teachers select the best methods of presenting lessons to their classes.

There are two reasons for the establishment of the center, according to Miss Bauner, who is in charge of the displays.

"We use the center for display purposes," she said, "to show students here and personnel in the area what is available in the way of teaching aids."

"The center is also helpful for those people on campus who are taking creative teaching or methods classes." By using the center, they can have materials for preparation of their classes."

Located in the Education Library, the Instructional Materials Center was once simply a curriculum library containing only textbooks and curriculum guides, publications put out by states and cities containing plans for study in those areas. Present plans call for it to develop into a center for all materials used in the classroom.

"The most important of these materials, of course, is the textbook. The center has a large sample collection of texts, kept up to date by the addition of new publications and disposal of old ones. The textbooks are gifts of the publishers.

books, are kept up to date. These volumes are only loaned to the library by the publishers, and when new editions are published, those on the shelves are exchanged for newer copies.

Also in the center are records which can be used in connection with lessons. These are designed to go along with the textbooks used in certain classes. On the elementary level, fairy tale and other books are featured, and on the secondary level, literature such as the Gettysburg Address and the work of Edgar Allan Poe are the main materials for recordings.

The center is gradually collecting a set of three-dimensional materials, including shells, rocks, minerals and models of pre-historic and jungle animals. A fine collection of amateur plays and another of children's library books add to the effectiveness of the center.

None of the materials in the center circulate, except the curriculum guides, the play objectives, and the children's books.

Selections from the play collection may be checked out by area schools or by people on campus for use in choosing a play to present. They may be kept for two weeks by schools, or one week on campus. The children's books may be checked out only by students enrolled in children's literature courses, interpretive dramatics, or student teaching, and may be kept for seven days.

"A company that plans far ahead gives me the chance to work out my future"

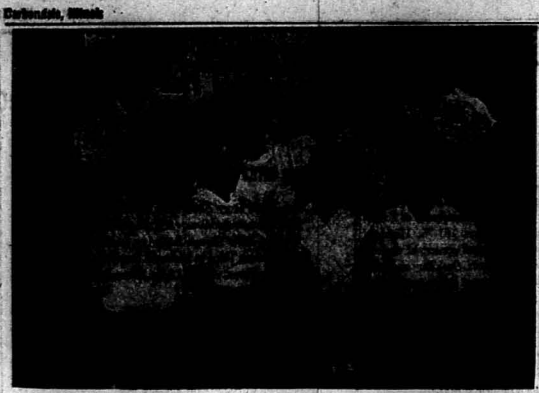

"Pleasing design is no accident," says 32-year-old TV set designer Richard Montmeat. "It takes creative planning. At General Electric, we're constantly developing new product designs—including some products which won't be on the market for several years. Ever since joining General Electric, I've had the opportunity and challenge of working toward the designs of the future. As I see it, a company which plans ahead gives me the chance to work out my own future, too."

Progress in pleasing design—making appliances more enjoyable to own and use—is an important factor in our nation's growing use of electricity and in our constantly rising level of living. Planning now to satisfy future customers is important not only to the continued growth of the electrical industry, but to individual progress as well. Opportunity for long-range planning is part of the climate for self-development which is provided for General Electric's more than 29,000 college-graduate employees.

Frequency Of Fashion Changes Brings New Battle In War Between Sexes

The endless battle between the sexes continues with the publication of a recent poll of college students as to their views on the frequency of fashion changes in both men's and women's styles.

The poll, conducted by the Associated Collegiate Press, shows nearly half the men interviewed think women's fashions change too rapidly, while the coeds are quite certain the present rate of change is all right. On the other hand, over one-third of the coeds interviewed felt that men's fashions do not change often enough.

One fourth of the women students interviewed felt that women's styles change too often, and nobody—male or female—thought there was any danger of women's styles not changing fast enough. Approximately half of the men felt that the present rate of change in women's styles is all right.

None of the women felt that men's fashions change too often, but a small number of them—about one-tenth—thought so. More than half of the women and almost nine-tenths of the men are satisfied with the present rate of change in the men's fashion field.

The figures, as released by the association, follow:

Women's fashions:
Change too often—Men-43%, Women-26%
Present rate all right—Men-45%, Women-69%
Undecided—Men-12%, Women-5%

Men's Fashions:
Change too often—Men-9%, Women-0
Don't change often enough—Men-5%, Women-34%
Present rate all right—Men-84%, Women-58%
Undecided—Men-2%, Women-8%

Broken down by classes, the most opinions on women's fashions show more than half of the seniors feel the styles change too often, as compared with a little more than one-third of the freshmen and juniors and slightly less than half of the sophomores. A lit-

Larry Drake was the losing pitcher.

The following day, the Salukis traveled to Louisiana State for a doubleheader. Two 5-4 scores were racked up as the squads split. John Gilmore was the losing hurler while Jerry Thomas picked up the win for SIU in the second contest. Loss Big One

SIU Wrestlers To NCAA Finals

Three SIU wrestlers will compete with the nation's best in the national NCAA wrestling tournament at the University of Wyoming (Laramie, Wyo.) Friday and Saturday (Mar. 28-29).

Representing SIU will be captain Lee Grubbs, Overland, Mo., who is undefeated in 20 matches this year, 137-pound class; Herman Ayres, Harvey, either 147 or 157, and Gary Burdick, Omaha (Ill.).

Ayres holds a 17-1 season record, including championships at the Wheaton Tournament, Ozark AAU, and Interstate Conference; while Burdick posted a 14-2-2 mark. Combined records of the three SIU entries are 51 wins, three losses, and one draw.

The three played vital roles in leading Southern to a perfect 9-0 dual meet record this year, including a win over Indiana University, plus Ozark AAU and Wheaton Tournament championships. Accompanying the three SIU wrestlers to Wyoming will be SIU's coach Bob Franz and assistant coach Roy Fowley. Southern finished in a tie for third in the Central AAU wrestling tournament at Chicago last week end (Mar. 21-22) in a meet which attracted more than 400 wrestlers.

I Might Get Hit But . . .

By Ron Jacober Sports Editor

It seems that the SIU baseball and tennis squads have found a little rough going down south. The baseball squad lost the first day 11-8 and managed to salvage one game of a doubleheader the next day.

The tennis team lost three in a row before finally coming up with a victory against Texas Christian University. Both of the squads have certainly been at a disadvantage this spring because of the weather. The same thing happened last year. Bad weather prevented them from having anything but indoor sessions and both squads started out very slowly on their spring tours. The baseball team came out of it . . . the tennis team didn't.

The bad weather didn't only hinder the spring practice sessions. Numerous games were rained out during the season. The only thing we can do this year is hope and from the looks of it is going to take a lot of hoppin' because that baseball diamond is probably pretty wet.

The baseball team opens its regular season on April 3 against Quincy College. The University of Illinois was the site for the Illinois prep basketball finals last weekend. I was fortunate enough to see the opening session on Friday afternoon.

The opening game between Rock Falls and Danville was really quite an exhibition of how basketball should be played.
