Derge postpones decisions on issues

By Randy Thomas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student Senators had a lot of questions for SIU President David R. Derge at a senate meeting Wednesday night, but the newly appointed president provided few answers.

Derge refused to take a stand on the controversial Doug Allen tenure case, the Center for Vietnamese Studies, the VTI phase out program, the Expro report on the Daily Egyptian and the tradition of granting the University Senate veto over-ride power over the president.

In answer to questions concerning all of these issues Derge replied that he has not yet had a chance to study them sufficiently in order to take a definite stand.

In a short address to the senate, Derge said he will periodically ask the senators for advice concerning the student body.

"I am interested in evaluation of teaching, student welfare and God knows what else comes down the pipe," he said.

Derge extended an invitation to the senators to speak out to him on any issue at any time.

The bulk of Derge's address dealt

Testimony suggests change

State pollution limits may be too restrictive

By Donna Korando

John Stahl, assistant professor of zoology, Wednesday indicated that state regulations limiting the amounts of dissolved solids that can be dumped into Illinois streams may be too restrictive in some cases.

Testifying before hearings of the Illinois Pollution Control Board (IPCB), Stahl said that invertebrate fauna that serve as food for fish shows no gross effects in water containing over four times the amount of dissolved solids allowed by law. The hearings were conducted in Morris Library Wednesday to hear testimony on proposed mining regulations.

with the current tight money situation at SIU.

He said that in the past money was readily available to the universities in Illinois. He pointed out that SIU will no longer be able to get money from the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) on the basis of quantitative expansion.

"In the future all money will come on the basis of qualitative educational programs," he said.

When asked to comment on an article in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian concerning his hailing of the IBHE and the Phase III Master Plan for Higher Education, Derge said that reporters often run into problems when trying to combine a thirty minute speech into one column of print.

"It is irresponsible to believe that the IBHE is a useless body," he said. "It is definitely here to stay."

Derge seemed to imply that support and cooperation with the IBHE might be to SIU's financial advantage.

In other senate business, Elwyn Zimmerman, dean of off-campus housing, announced that a model off-campus housing contract for students is being printed.

Zimmerman said the contract, which has the Carbondale City Council's approval, will provide a fair shake for both students and landlords.

He said the most important part of the contract authorizes the University to set up an arbitration board to settle disputes between landlords and tenants.

Zimmerman asked the senate to approve the optional contract, which they did.

In other business, John Conlisk, Westside dorm senator announced the results of the special senate election to fill four vacancies.

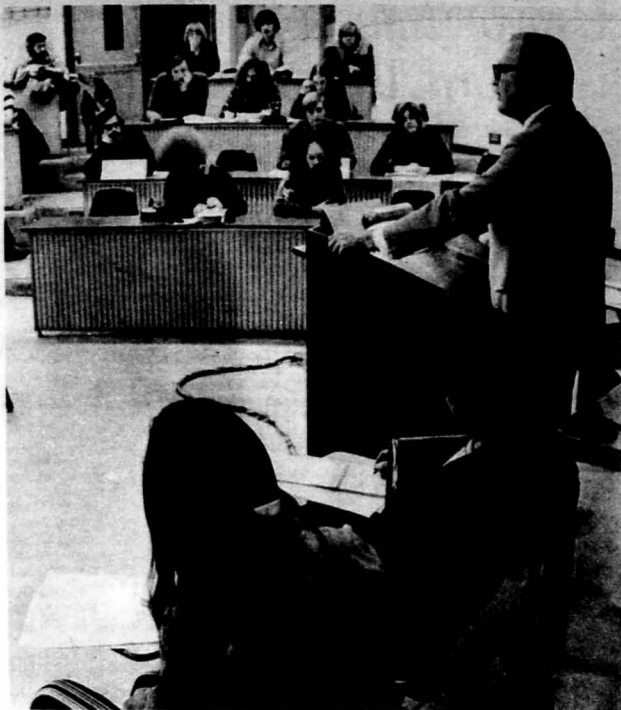

The new Senators are: Mickey Chusid, Thompson Point, 245 votes; Owen Marienthal, University Park, 140 votes; Charles Scroggs, Westside nondorm, 28 votes and Grant Holliman, commuter, 18 votes.

All of the new senators were seated at the meeting.

In earlier testimony, mining officials said some restrictions in the proposed mining regulations would be economically impossible to live with. They may even halt coal mining in Illinois, the panel—consisting of an engineer and two members of the Pollution Control Board—was told.

James R. Jones of Peabody Coal Co., raised three legal points. Jones said the proposal invades matters which the Illinois General Assembly has delegated to the Department of Mines and Minerals. He also said the regulations were overlapping with the Surface Mine Land Reclamation Act.

Violation of the Illinois Constitution was claimed in discriminatory provisions of the proposal. Jones said miners are being attacked whereas agriculture and highway construction

Nixon envisions actions as progress to peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told the nation Wednesday he scored "breakthroughs toward peace in a changing world" by arranging his Peking and Moscow summits and by rebuilding alliances.

The chief executive also injected himself into the swirling debate over alternatives to his Vietnam policy by cautioning presidential candidates in a nationwide radio broadcast to avoid statements which "might give the enemy an incentive to prolong the war until after the election."

He indicated in his 94,000-word foreign-policy report to Congress that agreement with the Soviet Union is near on a pact to curb the superpower nuclear missile race.

But in the report Nixon said progress in search for "a stable structure of world peace" was tempered by several sharp disappointments—including continued Vietnam fighting, Mideast tensions and the India-Pakistan War.

He solicited election-year public support for his policies, telling his radio audience that "this breakthrough year has shown...we can make peace a reality in the generation ahead."

The double-barreled assessment of world affairs came less than two weeks before Nixon is to arrive in China on a "journey for peace" which he said "might help avert a disastrous catastrophe later."

"We do not expect instant solutions to deep-seated differences, but the visit is a beginning," he said of his Feb. 21-28 talks with Chinese leaders.

The State of the World reports came three months before his visit to Moscow. "I will go to that meeting in May," he said in the speech broadcast from his Oval Office, "with no naive illusions but with some reasonable expectations."

The Third Annual Foreign Policy Report to Congress stressed he is seeking a solution in Vietnam, but made no mention of his Vietnam critics. He did, however, confront them in his radio address.

Nixon said he was not complaining about the vigorous criticism and does not "question the patriotism or the sincerity of those who disagree with my policies to bring peace."

are also contributing to the pollution problem.

Speaking for regulation, R. E. Favreau of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said there is a definite need for control. As an engineer of region five (Southern Illinois) of the Department of Public Health he said he was familiar with the streams in the area.

Favreau said the Saline, Big Muddy and Mary's Rivers have a high content of acidity, iron and sulfide. He said such pollutants have damaged private property such as farms.

He talked about definite problems encountered by water treatment plants in Murphysboro, Elkhart, Herrin, Royalton, Harrisburg and Carrier Mills. These towns had high pollutant content resulting in special treatment problems, he said.

Carbondale was affected, Favreau said, when it was looking for additional water sources for the city. Carbondale had to abandon its original prospective sources, Crab Orchard and Sycamore Creeks, because of pollutant materials.

In speaking about these water treatment problems, Favreau focused on Murphysboro and the pollutants in Beaucoup Creek. He said, "Murphysboro pays the penalty for the treatment cost while the operator who causes the problem pays nothing."

The proposed regulations would require mine operators to obtain permits for opening, operation and abandonment. Strict pollution controls, with inspections, are provided for in the regulations.

Hearings will continue Thursday at Harrisburg and will be held in Peoria and Galena later in the month.

Use of lake area is heard by council

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council Tuesday night heard a number of proposals concerning development of the land around Cedar Lake, the city-owned reservoir now in the planning stage.

Representatives of Stanley Consultants, the engineering firm working with the city on the reservoir project, presented a list of possible land uses. Among the possibilities listed were a golf course and clubhouse, a lodge and conference center, boat harbors and marinas, residential areas and a public park.

Robert Paulette, a Stanley consulting engineer, told the council that the golf course, conference center, boat harbors and residential areas could be "substantial revenue producers" for the city.

Those developments could help pay for other needed improvements of the area, including a road and street system, a utility system and a series of ponds to be built in the area from which soil will be taken to build the dam, he said.

Paulette said the city should consider the adjacent land area when deciding uses for its Cedar Lake property. Coordination with an existing United States Forest Service plan for land adjacent to city property might be desirable, he said.

Revenue from the money-making developments would far exceed that realized from sale of water, he predicted.

Paulette said that the difference between the money the city realized from bond sales and the anticipated construction cost of the reservoir could be used for the development of roads and for the open spaced areas.

However, the city probably would have to find other sources of funds for the "revenue-producing" developments, he conceded.

Paulette expressed the hope that construction of the dam itself could begin within 60 days.

In other action, a representative of a Chicago consulting firm told the council that his firm will issue a report by Tuesday regarding possible procedures and costs for aiding the city in its search for a city manager.

Gerald Howell, a representative of the Jacobs Company, said his firm will begin its search for candidates as soon as the council agrees to contract for the firm's services.

Under a tentative plan approved by the council, the company would draw up a list of up to 15 candidates for the vacant position, together with a detailed personal profile of each candidate.

The list would then be submitted to the council, which would determine 4-6 candidates whom it would like to interview.

The candidates then would be brought to Carbondale for three days of interviews with the company, the council and various representatives of local citizens groups.

Howell said that his firm will make a detailed study of the Carbondale situation as a basis for determining what type of candidate to look for, if the city contracts for the services.

The screening process could be completed within two months, he said.

Public works director Bill Schwegman has been acting as city manager since William Schmidt resigned that position at the end of 1971.

In another matter, Acting City Finance Director David Rosenthal predicted a "certain cash deficit" in the city budget for the fiscal year ending April 30.

The deficit will be at least $30,000 and possibly could approach $120,000, he said.

Earlier estimates had placed the deficit at just short of $100,000.

Editor suggests subscription fee for Daily Egyptian

By Pat Nussman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Bill Harmon, managing editor of the Daily Egyptian, suggested Wednesday that student activity fees allocated to the newspaper be considered a subscription fee and be earmarked by the Student Senate to pay circulation costs as a service to students.

Harmon's suggestion was in response to a remark by George Camille, student body president, at the Student Senate hearing on Expro, that the Senate constitution does not allow student activity funds to be used for academic programs. Some journalism courses are taught in conjunction with the Daily Egyptian newsroom operation.

Expro is a plan for reorganization of the paper's news operation to provide more student control. Recommendations for implementing it in principle have been presented to the University Senate. Camille has said the recommendations fall short of providing student control, and the Student Senate this week began hearings on the issue. The hearings—open to all who wish to present their views—continue through Friday, 2 to 4 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

Harmon said that if Student Senate philosophy says that where student money goes, student control must follow, then the Senate might broaden its definition of "activity" to include services to students and allocate funds to the newspaper for circulation purposes on that basis.

Harmon agreed that to make support of the newspaper equitable, it would be desirable for faculty and non-academic staff also to contribute to Daily Egyptian funding.

Harmon said he considers the Daily Egyptian to be both a newspaper serving the University community and a laboratory newspaper for students in journalism. He is an instructor in journalism.

"It is really both. It is a kind of a hybrid in that respect," he commented. "That does create some problems. It is not as good a newspaper as I would like it to be."

Sometimes it is not as good a campus newspaper because of its function to teach students who do not yet know journalism thoroughly, he explained. And it is not always a good laboratory newspaper because of the demands of a daily production schedule, Harmon said.

Harmon said that he is the person who largely controls what the student news staff does as well as the newspaper's content. His decisions in the newsroom are controlled, he said, by considerations of the space and material available, what the deadlines are and what he understands of news values.

"This newspaper is as free as you'll find in the country," Harmon said. "There is not any story on or off campus we will not print if we can find the information."

He said he is present in the newsroom to offer professional advice but added that he does not always have time to read all the copy.

Harmon said he saw no reason that another newspaper—which has been suggested as an alternative to Expro—could not be printed weekly or twice weekly with Daily Egyptian facilities.

Jim Storzum, a University Senate student intern, who said he had helped in writing Expro, said he was bothered by a statement in the recommendations to the U-Senate that the present system should not be junked. The recommendations, he said, then present a whole package to change the Daily Egyptian. He said changes should be implemented one step at a time.

"Why take a chance on destroying the output of the Daily Egyptian?" he said.

Storzum defended Expro, which is termed incomplete in the recommendations to the U-Senate. He said that if the Daily Egyptian were to be changed tomorrow in accordance with Expro, the content would not change radically since the student editors would still be chosen from the School of Journalism and would have a professional outlook.

Tom Steinkamp, Daily Egyptian staff member, said he thought that the recommendations of the Interim Board would facilitate more student control, since staff writers would have a definite student editor hierarchy and would have a channel of appeal.

Ed Chambliss, staff member, commented that it would be difficult for a student editor-in-chief to function in the newspaper on a 20-hour work schedule and carry a 12-hour course load. Chambliss said he had served as editor-in-chief on a newspaper of about the same circulation as the Daily Egyptian's and that it was a 10-hour per day job. Larry Roth, member of the Student Mobilization Committee, complained to the panel about advertisements that he considers sexist and about coverage of SMC meetings.

Ms. Carolyn Gandolfo, member of the hearing panel, urged students to attend the meetings. Eight persons, including those who spoke, attended Wednesday's session.

Government works --but not much

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

The decline and fall of the American civilization can be dated from the beginning of the year 1972. It was then that the Government radically upped the taxes it withheld from the salaries of most workers.

Conditioned by years of experience, Americans generally gazed at their shrunken paychecks with glazed-over eyes, groaned twice, shrugged three times, muttered, "What can you do about it?" and went apathetically about their duties.

But for Burton Brillig it was the last straw.

Brillig, the dynamic, decisive young Director of Toves for the Borogrove Bandersnatch Company, brought his shrunken paycheck home, placed it on his lap and stared at it moodily for a full hour before dinner while doing computations in his head.

"Do you realize," he said finally to his wife, Philodendra, "that what with all the taxes we pay for this and that, I'm now working two days a week for the Government?"

"That's a nice change for you dear," said Philodendra absently. "Which two days are they?" At this a fiendish smile distorted Brillig's normally honest features. "Tuesdays," he said, "and Thursdays."

So it was the following Tuesday that a furious Basil Borogrove, president of the Borogrove Bandersnatch Company, finally hunted Brillig down in the plant's infirmary. The latter was lying on a sofa, a cold compress on his forehead.

"I think it was something I ate, sir," said Brillig, "on my second coffee break."

"Second coffee break!" exclaimed Mr. Borogrove indignantly. "It's only 11:43 a.m."

"Good heavens!" cried Brillig, leaping up. "That gives me must 17 minutes to get ready to go to lunch."

"Is there some reason I shouldn't fire you, Brillig?" inquired Mr. Borogrove icily.

"Yes, sir, I'm working for the Government today." And Brillig explained the situation, concluding, "So, seeing I'm working for the Government, I'm sure you wouldn't want me to work any harder than other Government workers."

Now, like any patriotic American businessman, Mr. Borogrove hated the Government and its works with all his heart. After a moment's frowning thought he patted Brillig on the shoulder. "My boy," he said, "you're an example to us all."

So Brillig took an hour and a half for lunch, returning barely in time for his 1:30 coffee break, and then decided to take his accumulated annual sick leave (two hours and seven minutes) and went home early.

The Brillig Syndrome, as it was called, spread throughout the plant. Lower income workers had to be satisfied with working for the Government only on Wednesdays. But Mr. Borogrove, who was in the 60 per cent bracket, showed the way by refusing to make decisions, resolve disputes or issue clear-cut orders three days a week.

The production of Bandersnatches, of course, dropped drastically. And as the movement swept the country, the gross national product became 50 per cent less gross. Naturally, to make up for the loss in Government revenue, taxes had to be increased and by 1984 everyone was working (as little as possible) for the Government full time.

The President, in desperation, issued an emergency proclamation abolishing taxes and disbanding the Government. But before the proclamation could be approved by department heads, stenciled, mimeographed, stapled, folded and mutilated, it was too late. Everyone had starved to death.

The basic issues in Vietnam

By Harry S. Ashmore
L.A. Times Syndicate

In dramatically unveiling Henry Kissinger's secret negotiations with the North Vietnamese, President Nixon added little, except some no doubt politically advantageous obfuscation, to the actual and implied United States proposals that have been on the table at the Paris peace talks since they opened almost four years ago.

The release of prisoners, which in all previous conflicts has been assumed to be a matter that follows a peace settlement, remains the President's stated first priority. This is an obvious domestic political ploy that has nothing really to do with the actual differences that block a negotiated settlement in Vietnam.

The real sticking point is the President's insistence that the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front accept a cease-fire and withdrawal proposal that in their eyes constitutes a surrender. Conversely, Mr. Nixon stands on the proposition that anything less requires him to "overthrow" the Thieu regime in Saigon, which the President equates with an American surrender.

The North Vietnamese went to Paris at Lyndon Johnson's invitation assuming that the Americans were prepared to accept a political resolution of what had clearly become a military stalemate. That means, by definition, a compromise in which both sides would back off their stated aims in order to gain the mutual advantage of cessation of armed hostilities.

The talks never got off the ground because President Johnson refused to consider any settlement that recognized as a legitimate political force the considerable body of South Vietnamese who make up the National Liberation Front. Some form of coalition government in Saigon including the still undefeated NLF was plainly a minimum condition for effective negotiation on such matters as prisoner return, protection against reprisal and the like. The concession tacitly offered in return was abandonment of the demand for unification of Vietnam under the Hanoi regime.

The closest the Nixon-Kissinger elaboration of the current American position comes to recognizing this central point is the proposal that supporters of the NLF would be eligible to vote in an election to establish a new government after they and their North Vietnamese allies abandon their present military advantage. Since the voting would be arranged under the sway of the present Saigon regime, with President Thieu stepping down only a month before the election, it is palpably unacceptable. Hanoi can hardly be expected to ignore the fact the most recent "election" in South Vietnam was rigged by Thieu to eliminate all opposition and was in fact a charade that only confirmed his status as a military dictator.

Henry Kissinger's follow-up to the Nixon television extravaganza was intended to advance the White House image-builders' new emphasis on "flexibility," but in fact it only served to underscore the fact that the President has still not moved away from an unequivocal commitment to maintain the Thieu regime in power. Whether he can in fact do this and meet his other commitment to remove all American ground forces is, of course, a matter of conjecture—one that looms so large in the eyes of most impartial military observers there is a real question whether there is any longer any practical incentive for the North Vietnamese to bargain at all.

Mr. Nixon is rapidly coming to the point where he must rely wholly on logistic support and aerial bombardment to prop up the Thieu regime. This will still require a heavy investment of American money and Vietnamese blood—and there is nothing in the turgid Nixon prose to identify a compelling American interest sufficient to justify thus continuing the slaughter in Indochina.

City needs zoning ordinance

Carbondale's proposed zoning ordinance should be an asset to the city. After the proposed ordinance is completed it should go to the people for informational meetings in late March. The proposal should be before the city council by late spring. This proposal would combine some areas of the 1967 ordinance with other factors and define more clearly other areas. But the main asset of the proposal lies in some of the stipulations for display signs and mobile home parks.

Display signs for businesses have created an eyesore in many instances. With the increase in size and gimmicks, the signs vie for attention in all corners of the city. Under the proposed ordinance, the signs would be limited as to size. The ordinance would ban moving signs, flashing signs and pennants. The size of the sign would be limited to either correspond with building frontage or to each 100 square feet of floor area in the business. Signs on homes would be limited to one square foot attached flush to the house. Obviously this ordinance will not be pleasing to all businessmen, but it should increase the aesthetic beauty of the city.

The mobile home park regulations would apply mainly to potential developers. Existing facilities would be given to a district classification, but potential developers would have to apply for a zoning label. The ordinance has not yet determined if any new regulations for the mobile home parks would apply to existing facilities, however those for potential parks are extensive. The contemplated innovations include landscaped open space, off-street parking for two cars (instead of the existing rule of one car), paved streets which would meet city requirements, a storage area for each home, and anchorage to decrease the danger of a mobile home being tipped over.

Although the rest of the proposed ordinance may or may not be adequate, it appears if these areas of the ordinance would be approved by the people and the city council, it would be a definite asset for the city. These two facets of the ordinance stand to increase the aesthetic beauty and the usefulness and safety of Carbondale for its residents.

Womens' decision to buy is theirs

To the Daily Egyptian:

I witnessed a strange event yesterday while walking through a local department store. There, right before my very eyes, were several men, cleverly disguised as advertisements, herding hundreds of women into a large cage. My curiosity got to me so I watched as the men tied the women's hands behind their backs. They then instructed the helpless creatures to lie down on the floor and took all the money out of their purses.

Just as I was about to call the police I heard one of the men yell out, "buy this new bra and floor wax." The women refused, so the men started whipping them with process color and bold headlines. The women finally gave up and reluctantly bought the products.

Sound silly? Not to some people. At least that is what Miss Burch, in her editorial (Feb. 4) would have us believe. Any women who believed that editorial is obviously suffering from a guilt complex and commercial paranoia. This is witnessed by the bra-athletic supporter analogy.

Television advertisements do not "force" 9-year-old females to buy bras, or feminine deodorant sprays, tampons, iron tablets, menstrual pills, etc. No one twists a consumer's arm at the cash register and forces money for a purchase.

The editorial would have us believe that women are insulted into buying these products. If this were the case any advertising agency in the world would kill to find out the formula.

Men are also insulted by singing shaving creme, talking razor blades and personified hair dyes. As of yet no male has complained of these being advertised to both sexes at the same time.

If women and men are naive and stupid enough to be "blackmailed" into buying useless products, then they deserve the embarrassment of the advertisements. But they should not set up cause and effect relationships between TV advertisements and 9-year-old bra wearers. If it is the advertisements to blame, then it is the women's fault for being duped. It is women who are the actresses and announcers in the bra, deodorant and iron tablet commercials. Don't tell me some whip-carrying male chauvinist forced them to do the commercials.

The only reason those embarrassing products and commercials exist is because women buy and use them. And if they buy these insults, then who is to blame? The dollar bill is the ballot in any business.

As a final note, we must be reminded that we are all "slaves unto ourselves," our own inhibitions. Embarrassment is a purely psychological factor inflicted upon us by our hangups. It is not a result of some imaginary, omnipotent, male chauvinist pig advertising magnate.

Letters to the editor

Allen petition

To the Daily Egyptian:

Rather than a lengthy letter discussing the pros and cons of Professor Douglas Allen's teaching methods, I wish to call attention to the fact that representatives of the Doug Allen Defense Committee will soon begin a citywide drive for signatures on a petition calling for a reversal of the Board of Trustees' decision to deny tenure to Professor Allen. I urge all students and faculty concerned with preservation of the rights of free speech and academic freedom to sign these petitions. At this time, firm student-faculty solidarity may be the only hope in gaining tenure for Dr. Allen.

Shameful crowd

To the Daily Egyptian:

The presentation in the Feb. 3 Convocation by the Mohawk Indians made me very ashamed of a certain element of SIU students. These Indians came to us to present their culture and religion in an attempt to help us understand their values and ways of life. Instead of displaying common courtesy, various students took it upon themselves to make a complete mockery of something their selfish and narrow minds could not comprehend.

If the shoe had been on the other foot, Carbondale would have probably had a few more store windows broken out. As it is, the Mohawks shall go home with an even more sour taste in their mouths while a certain SIU element got a "good" laugh.

Allen gets dull after a while

To the Daily Egyptian:

It looks like Doug Allen's winter '71 class is finally getting around to opening up. Having a good friend in that class, I joined her one day to see how Allen taught Indian philosophy, as I had taken a similar course at another school. The day (days) before this particular class there had been some kind of American invasion in Laos. The class started when Allen (five minutes late) said he supposed everyone wanted to talk about the new invasion. No response. He suggested that maybe we were unaware of it. No response. He went on to tell us about it, saying he hadn't prepared a lecture for that day as he expected we would be bursting with questions and discussion.

After an hour of paper airplanes, dogs running around and a little discussion (more like a monolog) he concluded that we were probably worn out from the test a few days before and weren't up for a discussion.

I was surprised to hear him say that even though the demonstrations at SIU hadn't appeared to accomplish anything, there were actually 15 people (somehow connected with the Viet Center, of course) that were going to be sent here to study but now were not because of the demonstrations—thus, so keep up hope and give it the old college try. I wasn't so surprised because it was something I hadn't heard before, but rather something he and his counterparts monotonously repeat at all their riots, rallies, demonstrations, teach-ins, etc. It's like an old joke—the first time it's repeated it has an impact, repetitions only serve to dull it.

The lecture ended with Doug Allen saying, "Spring is coming!"

If we have to separate Doug Allen's classroom activities from his activities outside the class, shouldn't he also have to separate his classroom and extracurricular (his duty) activities?

How would Camille run paper?

To the Daily Egyptian:

As a student and journalist, I would like to know how George Camille, student body president, can try to tell the media how to run its operation when he can't even handle his own operation.

Camille has stated that he is against any faculty member having any control over the newsroom operation of the Daily Egyptian. I feel, as did others who were interviewed by the University Senate's committee on Expro, that running the newsroom is too much of a job for a student trying to go to school.

Camille is also very interested in the allocation of activity fee funds to the Daily Egyptian. He threatens withdrawal of this money (which he does not control, the Board of Trustees does) if a satisfactory plan for student control of the newspaper is not implemented.

Maybe Camille's feelings on the newspaper can best be put as: If you don't play by my rules, then I will pack up my things and go home.

Possible amendments to be discussed at GSC meeting

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A series of possible amendments to the Graduate Student Council's constitution will be one of the topics which will be discussed at the 3:30 p.m. meeting of the Graduate Student Council (GSC) Friday in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

The first amendment would establish five new standing committees. The committees would be a steering committee, a membership committee, a finance committee, a social welfare committee and an educational resources committee.

Another amendment would change the length of term for a GSC representative. Instead of serving a year, each representative would serve six months. Elections would be held in May and November.

A change also would occur in the election of officers, University Senate representatives and Graduate School Council representatives. The president and secretary of the council and the representatives for the graduate council would be elected in May. The vice president, treasurer and senate representatives would be elected in November.

Under the present constitution, the amendments can not be approved Friday. A three-step process is needed. First, the representatives must accept the amendments. Copies of the amendment must be distributed to the members. This was done at the last meeting.

Second, the council must now consider the amendments. This will be done at Friday's meeting. If a majority of members attending Friday's meeting approve the amendments, a special meeting will be made within seven days to vote on the amendments.

Finally, members of the council will vote by written ballot. A two-thirds of the total membership is needed for approval.

In addition to considering the constitutional amendments, Wayne Riley, vice president of the council, will ask for further recommendations concerning graduate pay scales.

At the Jan. 29 meeting, the council approved a study which will look into the possibility of a uniform pay scale for all graduate assistants. At that meeting it was pointed out that each college within the University has its own salary scale. There are no restrictions on department chairmen as to the rates they must pay graduate assistants. A uniform pay scale will be based on the education and experience of the employee.

The council also will consider the formation of a committee to evaluate the referendum concerning the use of graduate student fees.

At the Jan. 29 meeting, the council began the referendum. The objective of the referendum is to determine the consensus of all graduate students on the methods of collecting and spendings of graduate student fees.

Free double features to highlight festival of old Clark Gable flicks

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A Clark Gable Film Festival will be held from Feb. 17 until March 5 in Ballroom D of the Student Center. All the films except the last will be double features, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The festival is being sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC). Admission is free. Here is a schedule of the Clark Gable films:

"It Happened One Night" and "Boom Town," Feb. 17; "China Seas" and "King and Four Queens," Feb. 20; "It Started in Naples" and "San Francisco," Feb. 24; "Lone Star" and "Soldier of Fortune," Feb. 27; "No Man of Her Own" and "Command Division," March 2; "Tall Men" and "Saratoga," March 5 and "The Misfits," March 9.

Doug Whitley, chairman of the SGAC films committee, said that this is the first time a film festival at SIU has ever been conducted on a double feature basis.

Whitley said that initially the films will be shown in Ballroom D. However, he said, if, at any time during the festival, the new Student Center Auditorium is completed, the festival will be moved there.

To promote the festival, Whitley said, posters are being distributed around campus. In addition, he said, a collage of Clark Gable pictures is being erected in the window of the old Student Center bookstore.

WIDB reception improved in 3 dorms, says station

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

East Campus residents of Mae Smith, Neely and Schneider residence hall now will have better WIDB radio reception, Jim Rohr, public relations director of WIDB, said Wednesday.

Rohr said that WIDB chief engineer Phil Hejtmank, along with his technical engineering staff of Ron Krizman, Mike Kuklinski

Texas church celebrates 138 years of service

SAN AUGUSTINE, Tex. (AP)—McMahan Chapel, oldest Protestant church in Texas, celebrated its 138th anniversary recently.

It was established in 1833 and has a continuous record of unbroken service.

The church was first pastored by the Rev. Littleton Fowler who is buried beneath the pulpit of the church. The grave marker stands directly behind the pulpit.

and Bill James recently assisted SIU Physical Plant technicians in installing "power splitters" in each floor of the three dormitories.

"Power splitters," said Hejtmank, "are electrical units used to evenly distribute our carrier-current signal to all parts of the building."

Previously, said Rohr, the WIDB transmitters, located on the ninth floor of each residence hall, radiated the WIDB signal in such a way that the upper and lower floors were in "fringe" receiving areas, thus making poor reception.

Rohr said that residents of Thompson Point who report bad reception of WIDB "should also look forward to a much improved signal into the dorms there in the near future."

The building of the power splitters was financed by funds from the Student Government Activities Council, said Rohr.

He said he did not know how much the project cost, because, he said, WIDB has not yet received a bill from the Physical Plant.

Work on recreation area to begin early fall quarter

By Louis Macaluso
Student Writer

Construction on an $8.9 million recreation area north of Brush Towers will begin in early fall according to Willard Hart, university architect.

Hart said that the 27-acre area will include a four-acre recreation building. The building will house an Olympic size swimming pool, three gymnasiums, a dance studio, locker room facilities and handball courts. Construction will take about two years, according to Hart.

Hart said that the handball courts may be excluded from the plans if there is a shortage of funds. "If we don't come within our budget, we will begin to trim at the handball courts," he said.

The rest of the area will include football fields and softball fields, according to Hart. "We are going to plan an outdoor pool."

However, Hart said that the outdoor pool, like the handball courts, will be excluded from the plans if expenses exceed the budget.

Hart said that the recreation facilities may be utilized by all SIU students and personnel. It will be particularly important to intramural sports at SIU. "It will be a headquarters for the intramural people," Hart said.

Money was the biggest problem of the project, according to Hart. "We had a great delay from a financial standpoint," he said. The bonds that were needed to fund the recreation area were not attainable for several years, according to Hart.

The University is now able to finance the construction. A large portion of the financing will come from student fees, Hart said.

Reserve forces' role needs emphasis--O'Brien

By Jackie Clark
Student Writer

There are more reasons now than ever before to emphasize the reserve officer program, according to Lt. Col. William O'Brien, USMC Reserve Officer.

O'Brien explained his position on reserve forces in the present and future military posture during a lecture at Morris Library Tuesday morning.

"This past year has been critical to the reserve units," O'Brien said. "If the regular forces are reduced, we must upgrade the reserve forces. Otherwise, our defense will be weak."

"We must turn the emphasis on training. We need a highly extensive training program to make the reserves as close as possible to the regular forces," O'Brien said.

"I think the role of the reserve is most necessary," O'Brien stated. "It is my opinion that the American attitude will not support a large standing force. I think they will support a reserve. I think they realize that we need a force to rely on if war broke out."

O'Brien explained the current training program and the workings within the reserve program. He stressed the importance of the weekend camps and summer camps.

"You're going to sacrifice a lot of personal time. You're going to sacrifice a lot of pleasure. You're going to suffer a lot of ridicule. The guys who stay on and perform have high motivational values. That motivation cannot be in the form of material gain."

O'Brien received his commission during World War II. He was head football coach for SIU when he was recalled to active duty at the start of the Korean conflict. He is currently chairman of the recreation department at SIU.

When the Korean war broke out, O'Brien was conducting a football clinic. Friends of his, hearing the news that he had been recalled from the reserves, asked him his opinion of being a reserve officer then. He said he replied simply, "This is my opportunity to serve my country and to contribute where they think they need me."

Student Health Consumer Council elects new chairman and secretary

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Health Consumer Council (SHCC) elected a chairman and a secretary at its meeting Tuesday evening.

Gary Dickerson, representing student government, was elected chairman and David Johnson, representing community development, was elected secretary. The two will serve until summer quarter.

Suggestions for the second survey of the health care delivery system in Carbondale also were discussed at the meeting.

Michael Rainey, assistant director of the Health Care Planning Department of the SIU Medical School, suggested that perhaps the survey could be less biased than the last one. The first survey done by SHCC specifically asked students to register complaints rather than to make positive or negative comments.

The group is waiting for Gardiner Advertising to advise it on the best possible way to survey a given group. Gardiner Advertising, one of the firms consulting in the new comprehensive health service system, will attend the advisory board meeting Friday at 12:30 p.m. in the Missouri Room of the Student Center. At that time the SHCC hopes to draw up some more definite criteria for the survey.

Also on the agenda was a discussion of a transportation system to make the Health Service more accessible. Rainey said, "As

Modern dance classes given

The Carbondale Park District will sponsor a class in modern dance for women beginning at 7 p.m. Monday.

The class, which will be taught by Mrs. Colleen Kirby, will continue for 10 successive Mondays at 206 W. Elm St. in Carbondale.

There will be a fee of $5 for those wishing to enroll in the course, who may call the Park District at 457-8370 to register.

it looks now, the location of the Health Service appears to be pretty permanent, so some sort of transportation system will have to be devised to improve on the location."

The first suggestion in this direction was an all out hitch-hiking campaign. "We'd like to try this idea out because it is the most immediate solution to the problem. Of course, we also would work on a more permanent solution," John Beaumont, student representative for the advisor board, said as he explained the plan.

SHCC plans to make some signs which say Health Service and distribute them in strategic spots both on and off-campus in the hope that sick students will have an easier time hitching.

The question of including both dental and psychiatric care under the comprehensive health service plan also was brought up. Rainey said "It probably could be done, but the question really comes down to how many students are willing to pay "X" amount of dollars extra for its cost."

There will be another meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday for those who wanted to attend the meeting Tuesday night but couldn't. It will be in the Student Government office on the second floor of the Student Center. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

VTI students to oppose phasing out programs

By Chuck Hutchcraft
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Vocational Technical Institute's Student Advisory Committee has okayed action to oppose the phasing out of programs from VTI.

Tuesday night the council approved the distribution of petitions opposing the phase-out among "concerned citizens." Copies of the signed petitions will be sent to the SIU Board of Trustees and the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).

The council also will ask the VTI Executive Council and the area Programming Board to join it in requesting the board to hold its March meeting at VTI.

The council's action will be in opposition to the IBHE's recommendation in its Master Plan Phase III that some of VTI's programs that are duplicated in effect by junior colleges be phased out.

Arden Pratt, dean of VTI, has submitted a report to the president's office containing proposals as to which programs he feels are duplicated and should be eliminated from the VTI program. Following approval by the president, the report will be sent to the board.

Pat Stark, student senator from VTI, told the council that the petitions circulated last year in opposition to the IBHE's original recommendation to phaseout VTI entirely was effective in persuading the IBHE to change its mind.

He said perhaps more petitions could persuade the board and the IBHE that none of the VTI programs should be phased out.

Purse stolen in library Tuesday

A purse belonging to an SIU coed was stolen Tuesday afternoon in Morris Library.

Sharon R. Gozzola, 21, a junior majoring in English from Chicago, told security police that she left her purse on a table in the library and went to get a book off a shelf.

When she returned to the table, the purse was gone. Miss Gozzola said she saw no one take it. The incident occurred about 3 p.m.

students maybe we can get something done," Stark said.

Linda Hilgers, president of the council, said she will speak to the Executive Council and the programming board Friday about sending a letter to the board asking it to hold its March meeting, in which it will, Pratt said, consider his report, on the Carterville campus.

In other business, Al Ransom, vice president of the council, said he has written a letter to Pratt about the naming of majors on associate degree diplomas.

Ransom said students now graduate from VTI and their degrees give no indication as to what program they graduated from.

"Mr. Pratt and myself both feel it is at least worthwhile to attempt, if not get it done, at this time," Ransom said.

Ransom also told the council that he has information about financial aids, loans and grants which, he said, VTI students are eligible for as are other students.

Chess club organized; tournament is planned

By Barbara Kelling
Student Writer

The Egyptian Knights Chess Club will play Northeastern Illinois University in a tournament in the latter part of March.

Although the tournament is still in the formative stage, Victor Turner, vice president of the club, said it would be an informal team match using the round robin format.

For this match, each team sends only its six best players. Each player from SIU will play one player from the Northeastern club once, and the winner will be determined by points.

The scoring system awards one point to the winner of a match, half a point to both players if the match ends in a stalemate and no points to the loser of a match. Individual scores as well as the school's total score both are tallied.

Turner encouraged beginning chess players to join the club. "Most people think that they have to be an excellent player to join the club but anyone can join."

Turner said that though occasional school tournaments are played, "we concentrate on inter-team games mostly for recreation."

He said that beginners have a good chance to advance in the club's ratings because of their system of stratification. "We use the ladder system of stratification. It gives the beginners a better chance to move up rapidly."

In the ladder system, a player challenges the next highest player for his position. If the challenger wins two matches out of three, he gets the position.

Turner said most beginners are afraid to play people better than themselves, "but the only way someone can improve his game is by challenging people stronger."

Spaghetti dinner set at Wesley Sunday evening

A benefit spaghetti dinner will be served at 6 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 13, at the Wesley Foundation, 816 S. Illinois Ave., according to the Rev. Gerry Gulley, director of the Foundation.

The cost of the dinner is $2. Proceeds will go to the Carbondale Free Clinic, Gulley said.

He went on to say that the dinner is part of the Wesley Foundation's "Matter of Conscience" program, which is a series of programs featuring contemporary films and plays throughout the month of February.

The dinner, Gulley added, "is part of our series of dealing with human concerns."

Tickets for the spaghetti dinner can be purchased at the Wesley Foundation.

Socialists Workers Party candidate asked to speak before YSA group

By Paul Harth
Student Writer

Linda Jeness, Socialist Workers Party (SWP) presidential candidate, will be asked to speak at SIU spring quarter.

According to Eric Peterson, coordinator of the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) at SIU, the YSA plans to have Ms. Jeness speak in early April. Laura Miller, national coordinator of YSA, also will be asked to speak, Peterson said.

Peterson, a freshman from Westmont, defined YSA as the youth organization of Socialist Workers Party. "We are a multi-national revolutionary socialist organization," he said.

The YSA is also planning to have Evelyn Reed, author of "The Problems of Women's Liberation," speak next quarter, Peterson said. No date for Ms. Reed's speech has been set, he said.

Peterson said the YSA also plans to obtain petitions to get the SWP on the ballot in Illinois. "SWP is on the ballot in Florida. We hope to get on the ballot in all the states for the '72 election."

Peterson said that YSA is working with the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) to get people to attend the April 22 demonstration in Washington. "YSA will coordinate its activities with national peace groups at the Washington demonstration to protest the war and racism," Peterson said.

Another project of the YSA will be a fund-raising campaign in the spring. Leonard Williams, a YSA member, said the campaign will include showing films and "possibly holding a used book sale." Peterson said the films will be Marx Brothers and Laurel and Hardy movies.

Ogilvie may debate opponent

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie hinted Tuesday that he will debate his Democratic opponent in the November election.

At a news conference, though, Ogilvie poked fun at the two Democratic gubernatorial aspirants, saying their dispute over debating ground rules is "nonsense."

In the wrangle, Chicago lawyer Daniel J. Walker has challenged Lt. Gov. Paul Simon to debate but neither candidate will agree to the other's conditions. Chicago television station WFLD recently withdrew an invitation to a televised debate after negotiations on debating ground rules fell through.

Ogilvie was asked if he would debate the winner of the March 21 Democratic gubernatorial primary.

"I don't want to get involved in the sort of thing that two candidates of another party are involved in," he said. "It sounds like a duel. First they fight over seconds, the choice of weapons and all that nonsense."

"In each of my campaigns I have made joint appearances with my opponent and I rather suspect it will happen this time," Ogilvie added.

guest to discuss
old strip mines

Al Grandt of Peabody Coal will be the guest speaker at the winter banquet of the SIU Block and Bridle Club Friday. He will speak on "Land Reclamation and Usage," according to club president Bob Weilmuenster.

Grandt will discuss the use of abandoned strip mines as agriculture land in Illinois.

The banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Fellowship Hall.

Among coming functions of the club are a visit to the National Stockyards in St. Louis on Feb. 17, and a club display at the "All Agriculture Guest Day" on Feb. 26. The display on the history and activities of the club will be in the Seminar Room of the Agriculture building, added Weilmuenster.

A rodeo will highlight the club's spring quarter activities, he continued.

Historian speaks of militant blacks' struggle in 1800's

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

America's injustice toward blacks was partly responsible for the violence of the '60's and the intensification of the civil rights struggle according to Gossie H. Hudson, historian.

"This confrontation and struggle is at the heart of the racist cancer in this society," he said. "Unfortunately for many white Americans, the inferiority of blacks is the essential element for a stable society."

Hudson spoke to more than 300 people Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Ballrooms A, B and C. His speech, the "Profile of a Black Militant in the 18th Century: David Walker," was given in connection with Black History Week.

"The central theme of Black History has been resistance to oppression. Black people have always struggled in their search for manhood and freedom."

But David Walker, he said, resisted at a time when it was unpopular to resist, at a time when slavery had become very intensified in the American society.

"It was a rough period for black people in 1829," he said, "but in 1829 David Walker wrote his 'Appeal to the Colored Citizen of the World,' this was a revolutionary document."

According to Hudson, the document pointed out the hypocrisy of the American nation which supposedly was religious but did nothing about slavery.

David Walker, he said, came out of the South and talked about the indignities of slavery. He attacked slavery where ever he found himself because his mission was the liberation of black people of the world, Hudson said. "He was a theorist, he wrote a great deal attacking the system. He believed in revolutionary education and that blacks should be in tune with what was going on in the black communities," he said.

He said that Walker appealed to slaves to "stop working for the master." Some blacks refused to work, refused to eat and ultimately ran away to freedom.

Hudson said that many abolitionists were against the appeal because they felt that Walker had gone too far.

"There was no such thing as a free black man," Hudson said, because as long as some blacks are in slavery there is always the possibility that a free black will be captured back into slavery.

Hudson said that David Walker was born in 1785 and lived only a short time. Just before he died in 1830, Walker's friends, suspecting that he would be killed, came to him and offered him a way to escape into Canada via the underground railroad. Walker refused saying, "America belongs to the black man because America was built on the backs of black men and if anyone was to leave, it was to be white men," Hudson said.

"A few months later, he was dead" allegedly of poison, Hudson said. "Historian Lerone Bennett has called him the Frantz Fanon of the 19th century."

Psychologists Cobbs and Grier point out that "America must turn to a new ethic," Hudson said. "The David Walkers of America stand as the moral of all Americans, the most democratic of Americans, and surely the most courageous of Americans."

The Murawa Da-Da Dancers did four numbers. Four dancers performed to three Nina Simone songs, "Four Women," "I Wish I Knew How it Would Feel to be Free," and "To Everything There is a Season." Scorpio was the final number.

The Olivet Free Well Baptist Church Youth Choir also performed. They sang "Deep River," "Show Me The Way," "Oh, Sinner," and closed the program by requesting audience participation in singing the black national Anthem, "Lift Every Voice and Sing."

Fred Hampton death to be subject of film

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"The Murder of Fred Hampton," a documentary film about the 1969 death of the Black Panther leader, will be shown continuously from 1-5 p.m. Friday and beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Ballroom D of the Student Center.

The movie is being sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) in conjunction with Black History Week.

Admission is free.

According to a news release from NTS Films, producers of the film, "The Murder of Fred Hampton" investigates the "killing by Chicago police of the Illinois Black Panther Party chairman in a pre-dawn raid on Dec. 4, 1969."

"It is actually two films," said the release, "a record of Hampton's last year of life and an investigation of his death."

The film juxtaposes the testimony of State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan, who ordered the raid, and the police who conducted it with the physical evidence recorded by filmmaker Mike Gray and the eyewitness accounts of those who survived it, the release said.

A couple of old acquaintances of the SIU swimming program will be at Pulliam Pool Friday night when the SIU swimming team closes out its 1972 home season in a 7:30 p.m. contest against Northwestern University.

The two friends, Wildcat coach Bob Steel and distance man Rich Phillips, will lead the NU squad against a Southern Illinois team which is 4-3.

A win for the Salukis would guarantee them another winning season, their fourth in four years.

Steel, in his second year at the Northwestern swimming helm, is a 1961 grad of Southern where he was team captain. Following graduation he coached at Deerfield and high school power Peoria Richwoods before taking the job at Northwestern.

Last year, his first as coach, the Wildcats swam to a dismal 5-11 record but this season it looks like a different story as NU has a 5-4

Only Gerdes, Burge win

Wrestler bow to Sooners

Southern Illinois' wrestling team had to wait 18 days to wrestle against Oklahoma, but when it finally happened, the outcome was hardly worth waiting for.

Originally the wrestlers were scheduled to take on the Sooners in Norman, Jan. 29, but poor weather conditions forced that one to be scratched.

Linn Long's crew finally made it to Oklahoma Tuesday night, but came away with their fifth loss in a dozen matches, 33-8.

As had been the case when Southern has gone against top flight wrestling powers, the only people to win were Ken Gerdes (126) and Andy Burge (118). Southern got the rest of its points at 134 where Jim Cook and Sam Allen wrestled to a 3-3 draw.

Gerdes victory, his 16th of the season against only two setbacks, came over Eddie Webb, 2-0, while Burge beat Jim Breece, 4-1. The win was Burge's 18th against one defeat.

Another sour note came from heavyweight Todd Nicholson who forfeited to Bill Struve.

Nicholson had been plagued with a shoulder injury all week, and according to assistant coach Tom Justice, it was useless to risk reinjury by entering the heavyweight in a meet that was already lost.

mark.

The Wildcats have beaten Midwestern Conference member Northern Illinois, Loyola of Chicago and Notre Dame, while losing to Indiana, Wisconsin State, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Purdue.

Phillips, meanwhile, is the toughest swimmer Northwestern has. The former Colorado prep standout was heavily recruited by Saluki swimming coach Ray Essick last year, but decided to attend Northwestern instead.

Since then Phillips has been one of the country's premier distance men. His best time in the 1,000 is 9:54.2 which compares to SIU's Pat Miles' 9:42.5.

In the 500 Phillips has been clocked at 4:46.2 which currently places him ninth in the country. Miles has the sixth slot nailed down.

According to a Northwestern athletic official, Phillips has a slight shoulder injury and it is not known if he will be up to par for Friday's meet.

If his shoulder does manage to heal, the Miles-Phillips 1,000' and 500-yard freestyles could be the best events of the evening.

In this summer's Nationals, Phillips managed to beat Miles by a long arm's length. The two also met in the Illinois State Relays Dec. 4 facing each other in opposing relay legs. In the first leg of the 1500-yard relay Miles set a new freshman record of 4:46.2 which is also Phillips best time.

The Wildcats boast a young squad with 10 of its 13 members being freshman. Two sophomores and one junior round out their roster.

Following the home finale, Southern will close out its dual meet season Saturday with a road contest at Indiana State.

final tuneup before hosting the Midwestern Conference Tournament. The tourney sessions will be 7:30 p.m., Feb. 18 plus 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. the following day.

Postal bowling meet Feb. 15

A national intercollegiate postal bowling tournament will be held from 6:30-8 p.m. Feb. 15, at the University Bowling Center according to Kay Brechtelsbauer of the woman's P.E. department.

Any women undergraduate in good standing may participate. Interested participants may pick up application blanks at the bowling alley or room 105 of the Women's Gym.

Applications must be in by noon Feb. 15. Further information is available at 453-2296.

There will be a fee of $1.05 for the three games in the tourney.

dominated as every Saluki wrestler from 142-pounder Vince Testone, through 190-pounder Steve Snow lost.

Howard Mack, who dropped from his normal 190-pound weight slot to 177 was defeated for the 11th time this season. He has won only twice.

To make room for Mack, Mark Samuels dropped to 167 but the results were also the same. Samuels got pinned at 6:12 for his tenth setback.

The final move involved Peter Engles. He dropped from 167 to 158, replacing Loren Vantrees. Engles lost to Bill Beakley, 15-4, for his sixth defeat in 17 matches.

The wrestlers will next see action Saturday, taking on a tough squad from Ball State. The match is slated for Muncie, Ind. and will be SIU's

Southern's Duke rules in Memphis

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Steve Duke seldom gets a chance to show people how good he used to be in high school.

Duke, a senior from Pikesville, Md., captured the high school all-around gymnastics crown during his senior year of 1968.

But presently he's a parallel bars specialist for Bill Meade's Saluki squad. Duke got a chance to work another event Tuesday evening as Southern downed Memphis State, 162.55-143.15, at the Tennessee school.

Meade elected to take a smaller group to Memphis and thus three regulars — Dave Oliphant on pommel horse and Jack Laurie and Dan Bruring on still rings — were absent from the meet.

Duke replaced the ring specialists and responded with an 8.55 routine which was good enough for third place in the meet. In addition, he finished behind teammate Gary Morava on parallel bars with an 8.90 score.

"This was only the second time that I've gotten a chance to work the rings since performing at Southern," said Duke.

The two event performances of Duke could be a good sign for the rest of the team since the Maryland native has had on and off nights. That is, until last weekend.

"Mr. Biesterfeldt (assistant coach Jack) was wondering why I wasn't putting it all together at the meets," Duke said. "He asked me if I wanted to take some tranquilizing pills to calm me down. I told him I'd wait to see how I did the next meet."

The two meets in Chicago produced 8.80 and 9.05 marks from Duke and the team, as a result, was able to lift its parallel bars total score above the 27 point range for the first time last Saturday against Chicago Circle.

The win over the Tigers Tuesday night found Morava capturing the all-around for the seventh time in eight dual-meets while SIU was racking up its seventh win in eight tries. Morava won five of the six events, finishing runnerup to Ed Hembd on the pommel horse. Morava's 9.50 score on the vaulting was the meet high mark.

When you're No. 2, you normally try harder. But in the Illinois collegiate track picture, when you're No. 3, 10 or 18, you try your darndest.

With the outcast doing their darndest, the domination of the Illinois Intercollegiate by the state's two track superpowers—University of Illinois and SIU—may be coming to an end.

Since the state meet was initiated four years ago, SIU has won the indoor meet once (1970) and the outdoor meet twice (1969 and '71). In the other years, Illinois traded its No. 2 spot with SIU for team honors. Neither team has won the team title—indoors or outdoors—two years in a row.

"It's possible that Eastern Illinois, Northwestern, or Illinois State could edge one of us (SIU or U of I) this time," said SIU coach Lew Hartzog about the meet's fourth annual indoor gathering in Champaign on Saturday.

"Each year the other colleges get stronger in competition," he said. "This of course was the idea when we started the meet. We thought it would improve track and field in Illinois a great deal."

It has. Northwestern University will enter a full team in the meet for the first time, and Illinois has the best team in the history of the school, including three years as NCAA champions.

Illinois State not only is expected to make a strong showing in the state meet, the Redbirds are favored to take the Midwestern Conference championship from the Salukis this season.

Even Northern—which suffers along on snow and ice without a field house—may also be up there with the points on Saturday.

Even if another school doesn't drop the Illini or Salukis out of their 1-2 positions, Hartzog expects the normal 150-160 point range of the winning team to be cut since "Eastern, Northwestern, ISU and University of Oklahoma, a team that finished second to national champ Iowa State in last year's Big Eight race.

Winter Olympics see women outshine men

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — That old Maurice Chevalier favorite, "Thank Heavens For Little Girls," has been adopted as the theme song of officials at the U.S. Olympic delegation.

The 90 men on the American team haven't collected a single medal to take home from Sapporo so far—and they may not get any.

The women's teams have 27 members and already they have one gold and two bronze medals, with more in prospect. Dianne Holm, 20, of Northbrook, won the women's 1,500 meter speed skating, and will be trying for more medals in the 1,000 meter Friday and 3,000 meter Saturday.

Janet Lynn, 18, of Rockford, won her bronze medal in the women's figure skating. Susan Corrook, 20, of Keetchum, Ida., took third place in women's downhill.

Anne Henning, 16, of Northbrook, is a favorite in the women's 500 meter speed skating Thursday.

American men figure skaters were almost guaranteed an unwanted kind of distinction. Ken Shelley and John Misha Petukovich ended so far behind in compulsory figures Wednesday that there was no rationally conceivable chance that one of them could capture a medal in free skating Friday. It would be the first time since 1936 that the United States men were denied an Olympic figure skating medal of any kind.

American men also were so far behind that they had no prayer of a medal in the giant slalom Thursday after Bob Cochran of Richmond, Vt., finished 19th. Hank Kashiwa of Old Forge, N.Y., 28th. Rick Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., 36th and David Currier of Madison, N.H., failed to finish the first run Wednesday.

Controversial infielder dies

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Veteran major league infielder Chico Ruiz died in a highway accident early Wednesday.

Ruiz, 33, was driving home alone when his car left Interstate 15 and hit a sign pole.

Before the Cincinnati Reds called him to the majors in 1964, he led four minor leagues in stolen bases. He was scheduled to report Feb. 20 to the Kansas City Royals.

Ruiz, a native of Santo Domingo, Cuba, whose given name was Hiraldo Sablon, played for Cincinnati as a utility infielder until the National League club traded him to the California Angels in November 1969 along with Alex Johnson for pitchers Jim McGlothin, Vern Geisbert and Pedro Borbon.

The Los Angeles Times reported Johnson accused Ruiz, once a close friend, of pulling a gun on him last June 13 when the two were alone in the Angels' clubhouse. Dick Walsh, then general manager of the American League team, told a three-man arbitration panel hearing a grievance case filed by Johnson that the gun incident did occur, according to the Chicago Sun-Times.

Walsh later denied that "the Johnson-Ruiz gun incident took place as alleged by Alex Johnson."

even Northern are all capable of scoring over 100 points."

With the other teams nudging up, the Salukis don't expect to be taking the onslaught sitting down, according to Hartzog.

"If our kids compete as well as they did last weekend (in a close loss to Kansas), we will be in the thick of things," he said. "Yesterday's (Tuesday) level of snow didn't help our chances at all, however."

Weather conditions have hampered the Salukis in their practices because of the lack of an indoor facility. Last year Southern went to the state meet in Champaign and finished second to Illinois, 164-133. But with the Illini practice advantage removed in the spring, the Salukis defeated the Illini outdoors in the spring score—165-132½. SIU also topped Illinois in a dual meet in McAndrew Stadium last year.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by Steve Shafer

Did you know that when basketball first started, there were NO foul shots at all?...The original rule said that when a player committed a foul, the other team automatically got one point without a foul shot being taken. Maybe it might be a good idea to go back to that old, little-known rule.

That would cut down on time-consuming foul shots, and make the game move even faster.

Do you have any idea how many miles a player runs during a basketball game?...It's been estimated that the average regular in the National Basketball Association runs about 5½ miles up and down the court in each game!

Can you guess which team in the history of the National Basketball Association won the most games and scored the most points in one season?...That honor goes to the 1966-67 Philadelphia 76ers, who won 68 games that season (losing only 13) and averaging 125 points per game...No other team has ever topped that.

I bet you didn't know that college graduates have a longer life expectancy — lower death rate and are living five years longer on the average than non-college men. The lower death rate of college men makes possible broader benefits and greater cash values in college life policies. This certainly makes good sense, doesn't it?

Wintry profile

'Coach of year' doesn't find baseball outlook 'awarding'

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

When Richard "Itchy" Jones departed for Miami in early January, he figured that it would be just another NCAA baseball coaches convention.

The Adirondack Bat Company had different ideas, though. They presented the SIU head baseball coach with an award and designated Jones as "the greatest contributor to collegiate baseball" during the 1971 season. The third-year coach was selected by the other coaches present at the annual convention.

Frosh at Bradley tonight

The Saluki basketball freshmen will try to win their first road game and break a two-game losing string when they encounter Bradley University's frosh Thursday night.

SIU will have quite a job cut out for them in trying to raise their record above its 5-4 present level because:

- 1.) The Salukis haven't played since last Wednesday in a pickup game with the Martin Oilers.
- 2.) Bradley holds an impressive 8-2 record with losses to Louisville (93-77) and St. Louis (92-85), both on the road.
- 3.) It is very hard for visitors to win in the Bradley field house. The Young

NIU tops Redbirds, 99-85

NORMAL, (AP) — Northern Illinois University jumped to an early lead Wednesday and never was challenged in downing Illinois State 99-85 in college basketball.

At the four-minute mark of the first half, Northern held a 14-4 advantage and increased that to 19-5 one minute later.

Northern held a 54-44 half-time lead and maintained a 10 to 14 point lead

"The only thing that helped me make that contribution," the modest Jones said, "was the fact that we finished second while putting on a good show at Omaha."

The "second" which Jones was referring to was the runnerup spot to Southern California in the 1971 College World Series in Omaha, Neb. Eight schools met in the first week of June to decide the championship.

Southern succumbed to the Trojan squad, 7-2, in the final game after earlier defeating USC in the double-elimination tourney.

Braves haven't lost there in over a year.

4.) Five Bradley players are averaging in double figures: 6-foot-9 center Mark Dohner (25.9), Rob Myer (16.5), Roger Coulter (15.3), Tom Less (13) and John Carroll (10.1).

The one-week layoff for Southern may not hurt because the Braves also haven't seen action since the middle of last week. In its last game Bradley squeezed by Lincolnland Junior College, 79-77, in overtime.

So, as frosh coach Paul Henry puts it, "We'll be looking for that first win on the road" against another very tough opponent.

throughout the Midwestern Conference contest.

Junior guard Billy Harris paced the winning attack, taking game scoring honors with 29 points, while teammates Jim Bradley and Jerry Zielinski each chipped in 21.

Doug Collins was high man in the losing effort with 28, while Illinois State sophomore center Ron de Vries hit the nets for 21 points and grabbed 20 rebounds.

"We played an average ballgame," Jones said, "and when you meet a team that's never lost in the finals, you've got to play a great game to win."

Besides his contribution award, Jones was also named the "District Four" coach of the year, an area encompassing six or seven Midwestern states.

The 1972 edition of the baseball Salukis is marked by graduation and the pro draft. Several key figures in the team's successful 1971 43-9 campaign are gone and some of the spots on the field must be replaced with underclassmen with little seasoning.

Nevertheless, Jones predicts another banner for his squad and places his major goal "to get Omaha and win it all this time."

Catcher Bob Sedik, outfielder Bob Blakely and pitcher Dave Langdon are former standouts on the diamond who have graduated. Both Sedik and Blakely hit above the .300 mark while Carbondale's Langdon, who is currently in the Cleveland Indian farm system, won 11 out of 12 contests last year.

Jim Dwyer, who would have been back for his fourth year in centerfield, decided to go pro by signing with the baseball St. Louis Cardinals.

It leaves this year's starting eight with three sophomores, one junior and four seniors. SIU's coach has set his infield with Dan Radison, Stan Mann, Duane Kuiper and Danny Thomas from third to first.

Mike Eden, .378 hitter last year, will switch from third base to left while Joe Wallis, Jack Liggert and Ken Kral will battle it out for the other two outfield vacancies.

Pitching, a question mark before the beginning of last year, is much improved with the addition of a couple of junior college transfers and several pitchers who were effective towards the end of the 1971 campaign. The staff is led by Steve Randall who compiled a 9-2 won-loss record after winning eight straight games.

Coach's bedtime tale

A bedtime fable of great interest to Paul Lambert:

Out in snow-covered Maryland, a young seven-footer pursued life glumly, yearning for the Land of Lincoln or someplace not far away.

Chicagoans might recognize the youngster: Mark Cartwright. He starred in the Central Suburban League two winters ago.

Until last week, Cartwright played basketball for Lefty Driesell at the University of Maryland. But so does Tom McMillen. And it's McMillen's presence that has put a frown on young Cartwright's puss.

McMillen rates among the nation's finest big men. He's up there with UCLA's Bobby Walton, maybe even Jim Chones of Marquette. At 6-11, McMillen was the heaviest recruited prep player ever.

And he's certainly been no collegiate level letdown, aiming the Terps towards the nation's Top 20. All of which has left Cartwright twiddling his toes on the bench.

The situation did not figure to improve. Like Cartwright, McMillen is a sophomore. Justifiably, Cartwright became discouraged and vanished from the College Park campus.

"He left school about a week ago and I don't know where he's at," said Rich Porac, former teammate and sophomore guard for the Terps. "He's unhappy about not playing and decided to transfer."

During a phone interview, Porac claimed the former prep All-American "wouldn't say where he's going to enroll. I don't know why."

That's easy. Cartwright doesn't know either, according to grandmother Thora Tiekemann, a nice old lady who answers the phone with squeaky voice.

"He hasn't decided where to go but has offers from several universities," Granny Tiekemann said from the family's Morton Grove home. "He'll be going to visit some universities with his father, then make a choice."

Cartwright wasn't available ("out with the boys," Granny said) but the little old lady did know her grandson visited Iowa State on Tuesday.

According to a Chicago newspaper, Cartwright prefers to remain in Illinois. "I don't know about that," Granny said.

SIU an obvious choice

The obvious choices are Northern Illinois at Champaign or Southern. Outside chances: Loyola and North-western. No chance at all: Illinois State. (My opinion, obviously.)

So why not Southern? It's no secret Lambert will search out a junior college forward to complement his potential-filled, but inexperienced freshman team.

Cartwright also played forward at Maryland and should be hard for any college coach to turn away.

Should Cartwright enroll here, say today for example, he'd become eligible January 10, 1973. That would leave him two and one-half seasons of collegiate playing time.

What do you do with 6-11 Joe Meriweather and Cartwright on the same team? Play both. What a defensive nightmare for opponents! Offensively, I'm sure a solution could be reached.

That assumes Lambert would like Cartwright in a Saluki uniform. Unfortunately, he could not be contacted Wednesday afternoon, having departed for Illinois State.

Still, Cartwright and Meriweather... um, good. A great bedtime tale for any coach.
