Miners stop coal delivery; SIU plans to remain open

SIU, which relies on coal from Illinois mines for its heating and cooling, will not be able to operate as usual next fall because of lack of coal. He said the University has taken conservation measures to prevent such a shutdown.

Southern Illinois UMW locals voted to stop coal delivery to schools, hospitals and public institutions. More than 20 presidents of UMW locals shared their vote to stop deliveries, which had been allowed earlier in the strike.

Tom Engram, supervisor of campus utilities, reported a 90-day supply of coal stockpiled for the University Dec. 7. Following that timetable and discounting semester break, the campus could be without coal by April 5. The resolution passed by the union would allow coal deliveries only to private homes, with a two-ton limit.

The union charged that some coal deliveries earmarked for public institutions had been transferred to power plants.

About 20 local presidents also agreed to send a telegram to Washington calling for the American coal industry to support the MRF. An examination of a tentative agreement by the union's bargaining council is expected to resume on Jan. 23.

The bargaining council met with the local presidents Tuesday to review the proposed pact, but rescinded the negotiations after Illinois UMW President Kenneth Dawes moved to adjourn the meetings until the council could review the exact language of the agreement.

Press reports have indicated that even if the bargaining council should agree in the pact, the ratification process would take 10 days and normal coal resumption would take nearly a month after ratification of the contract.

MRF may lease facilities to cut debt

By Steve Kropia

SIU-Edwardsville may turn to leasing its unused facilities to outside promoters to save its financially ailing Mississippi River Festival (MRF). SIU-E President Kenneth Shaw told the Board of Trustees Thursday that he has instructed a newly formed MRF ad hoc committee to investigate plan that because two other alternatives appear unlikely.

The other plans for reorganizing the event include merging the event with the Edwardsville Groves \"in-house\" booking arrangement, but the University has no responsibility for funding the cultural arts segment of the programming.

Tom Engram, MRF's director, said the Board of Trustees should consider advertising to SIU-E to hire a talent booking agency to organize the event at the University's expense.

Shaw said the Board of Trustees should consider advertising to SIU-E to hire a talent booking agency to organize the event at the University's expense.

Shaw said he added, however, that renting the facilities to an outside group seems the most likely arrangement.

Shaw told the board in an earlier report that the festival could no longer be supported solely by box-office receipts and that the university would no longer solicit private contributions.

Last month, the SIU-E Faculty Senate approved a resolution calling for the University to assume responsibility for future arts funding for a three-year experimental period, Shaw said.

Shortly after that, the SIU-E Student Senate approved this concept, but the resolution passed "without a vote, will likely to be strike up more of a balance there."

Shaw has asked the MRF community to make its initial recommendations on or before March 1. Results, Shaw, other committee members Annette Grbe, coordinator of the SIU-E Information Center, five students with three student alternates, two faculty members and two Edwardsville residents.

The Edwardsville residents, Sue Hepler and Russell C. Solomon, Jr. are both members of the MRF, Inc., Board of Directors.

Shaw has also appointed a 15-member Task Force on Cultural Arts Programming to "make recommendations with certain conditions imposed by SIU-E."

The University would also voice its concern toward maintaining an \"effective balance\" between cultural programs and contemporary musical groups, Shaw said.

"In the past, we've had too much family entertainment," he said. "We'd like to strike up more of a balance there."

Board approves campus housing air conditioning

By Pam Bailey

Staff Writer

Air conditioning for the University Triads, Thompson Point and Southern Hills Apartments was given the go-ahead Tuesday when the Board of Trustees hired two firms to handle the preliminary architectural and engineering operations.

The project, which will cost $5.2 million, is expected to be completed near the end of 1979. The project should assist in the University hiring a talent agency to organize the event is also uncertain. Shaw said.

Shaw said an independent group were found to lease the University's facilities, no student fees or state funds will be needed to finance the project. Funding will be supplied by the sale of revenue bonds, scheduled to be put on the market in March.

The trustees hope the installation of air conditioning will improve the environment of all University housing facilities and increase opportunities for continuing education, conferences and other specialized events during the warmer months of the year.

Rino Bianchi, director of facilities planning, said the project will be divided into two geographical segments.

Ralph Hahn and Associates of Springfield will handle the architectural and engineering work for 12 residence halls on Thompson Point and four buildings in Small Group Housing.

Robert G. Burkhardt and Associates of Chicago will handle installations in the three-story "triums" Allen, Boomer and Wright Halls in University Park and in the 72-unit apartment Southern Hills complex.

Burkhardt and Associates will be paid $154,700. Building for the construction contract is expected to begin in September.

Senator names federal judge FBI director

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. Appeals Court Judge William H. Webster was named Friday to serve the year term as director of the FBI.

Webster, confirmed by voice vote, will succeed E. Henry Loebe in the intelligence post.

Learning of his confirmation at his St. Louis office, Webster said he was surprised that the vote was so soon with the Senate engaged in an extended debate over the Panama Canal treaty.

"You're really catching me without a prepared statement," he told a reporter. "I feel really good...I'm very gratified."

During his confirmation hearing last month, Webster pledged to ensure that the nation's chief law enforcement agency would obey the law.

"The bureau is not above the law," he told the Senate Judiciary Committee. "I accept that 100 percent."
Emeritus status awarded to architect

By Pam Bailey
Staff Writer

When Charles Pulley, assistant professor in comprehensive planning and design, retired on March 1, he will leave a visible stamp on the University that will last long after he leaves.

As the University architect for 21 years and the advisory architect for the Board of Trustees for the past six years, Pulley has had his hand in the conception of nearly every building on campus.

In recognition of his 27 years of service to the University, the Board of Trustees Thursday rewarded Pulley with a resolution allowing him to retain his rank although he will have officially retired.

In a formal resolution adopted unanimously, the board commended Pulley for his role in drafting a series of master plans that led to the "dynamic development of a teachers college campus... into a comprehensive university campus."

Pulley came to SIC in 1951, the University had an enrollment of about 3,000 and consisted of a scattering of nine or ten buildings.

Pulley was still under construction and the Student Center was housed in an old wooden barracks. The maintenance campus dormitories was Anthony Hall, now the administrative offices.

"Students lived in basements, coal bins, any place they could find," recalled Pulley.

As SICU's chief architect, Pulley supervised construction of University buildings from the awarding of contracts to installing the last pane of glass.

During the next two decades, Pulley presided over the construction of 106 major buildings, residence halls and apartment units.

In 1971 Pulley became advisory architect for the Board of Trustees. He reviewed the final plans for construction submitted by both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses, leaving the actual supervision to the individual University architects.

In 1976, Pulley won the Association of University Architects' distinguished service award—the fifth such citation awarded in the organization's 23-year history.

Pulley insists there is a theme tying the scattered buildings of the SICU campus into one physical entity.

Pulley's view of campus.

"Faner Hall is a strong statement. It ties the old with the new. Rather than building an imperious Chinese Wall, we built a wall with openings so that one can see the woods through one side and the high rises through the other," explained Pulley.

But the parts of campus he is the proudest of are Cobden Hall and Campus Lake. While Pulley gives most of the credit for what he calls SICU's "greatest architectural achievement," Deloye Morris, providing room for amplification of this statement, has been one of his highest priorities.

After March 1, Pulley, 64, plans to "raise a garden, do some fishing, see some sights around the University, he still has very definite plans for time he has left to give." He fully backs the planned golf course and clubhouse and hopes to see further added to the George Halas Building, a completely remodeled Davies Gymnasium, underground expansion of the campus railway system and elimination of architectural barriers to handicapped students.

Area's educators told tax increase impossible

By Ron Kochler
Staff Writer

Limited budgets, declining enrollments, increased operating expenses and voters and legislators who fear tax increases like the plague were the problems discussed in an attempt to sway the placing the FBI and CIA under new charters with specific guidelines and restrictions on investigations and civil penalties for violations. But its authors immediately acknowledged disagreement and said the draft proposal will be criticized both as too restrictive and too permissive.

Escaped Nazi war criminal dies of cancer

ST. TAU, West Germany (AP) — Convicted Nazi war criminal Herbert Kappler, whose escape from a German prison last year damaged the man homeland caused a furor last August, died Thursday of stomach cancer in a Berlin hospital.

He had been sentenced to 35 years in prison for the Auschwitz concentration camp killings of 315 persons in reprisal for the ambush killing of 22 German soldiers by Italian patriots on a Rome street on March 24, 1944, a date observed now in Italy as a national day of mourning. He was the Gestapo chief of Rome at the time.

He died at the home of his wife, Anneliese, 55, who had helped him escape.

House defeats consumer bill

By Mark Peterson
Student Writer

A bill calling for establishment of an Agency for Constructive Prevention (ACP) was soundly defeated in the House Ways and Means Committee over support from the Carter administration.

Congressional observers viewed the defeat as a victory for business groups, who were embroiled in a dispute with consumer advocates seeking passage of the bill.

Proponents of the bill have argued that the ACP would be effective in representing consumers on issues such as price-regulated natural gas price increases, decision on airline mergers, and the enforcement of airline safety standards.

Although the ACP would have had no regulatory powers, opponents warned the agency would have sought regulatory decisions it opposed and blocked legislation.

Local organizations such as the Illinois Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) and the Kane County Council of Community Action have been actively supporting the bill, but are restricted in their resources.

Opposition to the bill has been spearheaded by the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Several PIRG and Kane County Council of Community Action officials have been actively supporting the bill, but are restricted in their resources.

letters and calling our Illinois congressman," he said. The chamber of Commerce can afford to send diminishing support for the agency in and testify before congressional committees.

After the 227-181 vote defeated the bill, the Chamber of Commerce issued a statement saying "the vote shows how simply don't want higher taxes and more bureaucracy red tape to people.

Representative Paul Simon (D-Ill.) voted in favor of the bill because he said the Chamber of Commerce should actually have cut bureaucratic red tape by combining about 20 smaller agencies into one. Ralph Nadar, who worked hard for the passage of the bill, said, "the corrupting influence of big business has never been more clear than in the last few days.""Nader said that he felt big business' "more reasonable" and said they would still support the bill, supported by a 2-1 public vote, was defeated.

The bill was introduced in the House by Rep. Jack Brock (Dem.-Texas). Brock is chairman of the House Commerce Operations Committee which attempted to push the legislation through the lower chamber.

A spokesman for Brock said that any consideration of a similar bill is most at this time. The vote reflected a continuing trend of opposition to the "1971 panic" in the House.

The bill has been passed by the Senate, but the legislation has never reached final passage in Congress.

Number of reported crimes on downswing in Carbondale

By John Jenkins
Staff Writer

Reported crime in Carbondale is on the downswing.

The number of reported crimes dropped from 2,210 in 1976 to 1,713 in 1977, records show.

The figures don't include unreported crimes or crimes that were handled by the University Police, Tom McNamara, a Carmel for the Carbondale police said.

McNamara said more rape probably occurred in 1977. The number of reported robberies remained about the same being reported both years. However, the number of aggravated assaults reported fell.

The crimes of burglary, theft and assault to theft showed the biggest reduction in 1977.

The number of burglaries reported dropped from 308 in 1976 to 244 in 1977. The cold weather of last winter and the success of the house watch program were credited for the decline.

The largest single group of crimes and those that showed the largest reduction was theft. The number of these crimes fell from 1,633 to 1,277 in 1977.

Auto thefts were down from 59 to 43 reported in 1977.
Rowe wins second term as chairman; SIU graduate elected vice-chairman

By Ed Lemparents

William Norwood, the only SIU graduate on the Board of Trustees, was unanimously elected vice chairman Thursday.

A trustee since 1974, Norwood is a senior pilot for United Airlines.

Norwood, who will be 42 Tuesday, succeeded Elliott Jr. of Carmi as vice chairman.

Elliott, who asked the board not to re-elect him, nominated Norwood. Elliott has also served four consecutive one-year terms as chairman.

Harris Rowe, insurance executive from Carbondale, was unanimously elected to a second term as chairman.

Rowe, 54, a board member since 1971, was elected chairman of insurance.

Also unanimously elected was Margaret Blackshear, 37, to a fourth term as secretary of the board.

Blackshear, an assistant to the president of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, is a member of Trustee Kalbemeier of Rock Island and Wayne Heberger of Belleville.

As chairman, Rowe automatically serves as the third member of the committee. The executive committee is empowered to conduct routine business during recesses and to act on emergency matters which require immediate action by the board.

In other committee elections, Eliott was re-elected to serve on the state Civil Service Merit Board.

WASHINGTOX (AP) — President Carter called upon Congress to provide a record $1.2 billion to new aid to college students, including $250 grants to at least two million students, with gross incomes between $16,000 and $25,000.

The proposed increase, which would provide the opportunity for a college education for financial reasons alone, would be in addition to existing programs, said the president, who declared as he unveiled an aid package designed to provide more federal aid to low-income and middle-income families.

In addition to making two million students from middle-income families eligible for direct federal grants, the proposal would also provide subsidized loans to students with family incomes as high as $45,000 before taxes, and expand federal-subsidized work-study programs.

The extra money would be available for the school year beginning this fall, if Congress pays its bills. An estimated $2.4 billion in uncollected student aid payments in fiscal 1979 to 1.2 billion, an increase of $1 billion.

Carter said more than 5 million college students could get federal aid in the school year starting in the fall of 1979, at least the double of the two million.

Carter proposed that Congress extend $250 college credit to students with family incomes between $25,000 and $35,000, and provide additional aid for students from families in the $35,000 to $45,000 income range.

The president already proposed $250 million in extra student aid last month. The entire $1.6 billion package of $1 billion would cost $2.4 billion in financial aid for students in fiscal 1979 to 1.2 billion, an increase of $1 billion.

Carter said more than 5 million college students could get federal aid in the school year starting in the fall of 1979, at least double of the two million.

Illinois residents have become weary actomed tu political doublespeak from their governors, especially in election years.
But Gov. Thompson's recent remarks on higher education bear little resemblance to reality that his words bring to mind the Dutch admition in "Alice in Won· derland": "Take care of the sense and the sounds will take care of themselves."

Speaking to the Board of Higher Education (BHE) Tuesday. Gov. Thompson defended his $30 million cut in higher education's budget by saying, "I think that figure represents a committment to good­-sized higher education in Illinois." That sounds good, but it makes no sense.
Illinois ranks 42d in the nation in the amount it spends on higher education per $1,000 of personal income in the state.

The 1979 BHE budget proposal of $975.4 million did not reflect the real needs of higher education. but rather what the board thought it could wrangle from the governor and the legislature. Gov. Thompson's "committment" to higher education was to wring more juice out of an already squeezed higher education budget.

Responding to criticism that dwindling state support for higher education is jeopardizing the state's future, Gov. Thompson flatly denied that doublespeak to BHE members: "I don't think there's a chance that higher education ever will capture the share of state resources it once enjoyed."

Again, the remarks sound good, but they make no sense. Words like "reappraise" and "enjoy" suggest that higher education's previous share of state revenues—which has steadily dwindled since 1965—somehow represents ill-gotten gains lavishly spent on indulgent projects. Nothing could be further from the truth.

A report by the American Association of University Professors indicates Illinois college teachers who are below the level of professor rank and near the bottom of the vast in salaries when compared to the nation's universities of similar size, enrollment growth and scope of graduate programs.

Gov. Thompson's "commitment" to higher education—and that of his predecessors—means Illinois students pay higher tuition, fees, room and board than do students at most major universities in the country.

Gov. Thompson's "commitment" to higher education has placed SIU's School of Law in jeopardy. The American Bar Association (BHE) was told to readmit probation unless construction of a law school building is begun next year. That project is ranked near the bottom half of building priorities by the BHE—its fate depends on how drastically Gov.
Thompson cuts the BHE capital spending projects budgets.

Gov. Thompson's "commitment" to higher education means that the Illinois State Scholarship Commission—which awar­ds scholastships to needy students—will almost certainly not be fully funded this year.

Gov. Thompson's "commitment" to higher education means that a college education is in danger of becoming the luxury of a privileged few.
As college costs rise and states cut support for education dwindles, the financial burden falls increasingly to students. Higher tuition coupled with less than full scholarships in some cases means higher education is in danger of becoming just that—out of reach for many students.

Gov. Thompson also told BHE members that politics should play no part in what he called the "tuition business." Like his other comments, that statement is calculated to take care of sounds at the expense of sense.

That doublespeak bemoaning politics is a political statement and not the sounds of political animal campaigning for political oflice.

In the first place, higher education is not a "business" like real estate or auto manufacturing. It is a state-operated system of state­ funded universities intended primarily to develop state residents. What state uni­ vities generate in tuition charges for tutoring is not political with political consequences. That political decision determines who can afford a college education—and at what sacrifice—and who cannot.

It may be politically expedient for the governor to wish to saddle someone else with making the tough political decisions that arise when fiscal year and election year coincide.
But it makes no sense. The political process is the vehicle that carries the state function of higher education to its citizens. Higher education is not "running" very well because politicians have abdicated their responsibilities to support the state university system.

The governor should begin to focus on the sense of his remarks, not the sounds. Admittedly, higher education is no Wonderland by any stretch of the most vivid imagination. But higher education is a being handed senseless jab­ berwocky. What is needed is not political doublespeak, but political responsibility and increased support for higher education.

Hold your breath: Here comes the Great Air Crisis

By Arthur Hoppe

I wasn't surprised to hear on the radio the other day that if the present trend continues, America will run out of air by the year 2003.

At first, I was thinking of the freeway at a ravine 65, hoping not to be run down from behind by more courageous drivers and wondering whether whatever happened to The Great Energy Crisis.

Remember when we kept our speedometers at 55, our thermostats at 65 and unscrewed the light bulbs in our refrigerators? Ah, how noble sacrificing we all were in those exciting days. How much more important were our leaders, how much more united were our Nation. No, there's nothing like a crisis to uplift our spirits and bring us all together.

So I was delighted to hear the announcer say that due to the increase in population, the demography of our forests, the destruction of the ozone layer, the growing industrial consumption of oxygen and the ever-increasing pollution of our lakes, the American would undoubtedly breathe his last on

Senate hired fees at expense of students

At the expense of the student body, the administration has gotten its way again. The $1.95 fee increase was successfully railroaded through an "emergency" Senate meeting Thursday night.

Emergency Senate meetings have to be held with a minimum quorum of 40 senators. Sue Stu, a junior, was present all night, 26 minutes notice. Those in favor of the increase prepared the agenda and presented the speech. Those who opposed represented the special interest groups that stood to gain from an increase. They naturally favored it. Even then the rushed meeting we could not even hold a referendum to inform students and judge their opinions.

The final result came from Student President Dennis Adamack. In his testimony he informed us that Senate members who voted against the increase should consider themselves irresponsible. Considering the importance of the matter, I don't feel that now is the time for talks and shouting. I feel that now is the time to let your student president know how you feel. You may do this by seeing him in his office on the third floor of the Student Center.

If you are tired of someone else spending more of your money and if you want to fight against more increases for next year, now is the time to do something about it.

Koloc concert review failed to tell readers about good warm-up act

Semi-compliments go out to Dave Erickson for his intriguing review on the Bonnie Koloc concert at Shyrock Saturday night. It was "semi," because it was obvious that the music artist in describing Koloc's mood as "less-than-firey". I hope this comment did not mean Bonnie was not playing up enough to the crowd.

She starred in her personal mood which displayed her act as it was at that night. Not short of very entertaining. I'm sure Dave would agree.

Secondly, and most importantly, Erickson did not bother to find space in his copy to tell us all who Koloc's warm-up act was. The male folk singer introduction by SAGC official Chuck White was so quick that most of the 9300 folks missed it. By the end of this mystery singer's act most of us wanted to know who he was. His Gordon Lightfoot similarities were evident and enjoyable. His guitar was soothing.

His name is Dave Laser, who as White tells me, is from Chicago and was a fill-in for a singer. We should be so lucky at the Emerson. Lake and Palmer concert.

'Short People' reveals complexity of white Americans

I would like to take this opportunity to give the first and final response to the "flagellant" column especially to the disc jockey who briefly talked about the Japanese traditional occasion of "bean throwing" or "tatehata". This ceremony, which dates back to the time when, "they [Japanese people] are sort of short" as he introduced the notorious song called "Short People."

For the record, I am 5 feet 10 inches tall. But even people who know that song would feel deep, unfounded, illusional if he or she were associated with it. You might say: "Take it easy. It's only a song." But don't. That lies beneath the joke tells more reality than the joke itself: white Americans' subconscious superiority complex over other ethnic groups.

I call it the "we're-the-best" syndrome of white America. These people believe that their music is in a typical symptom of this "crude" syndrome. The disease seems to have become so serious that even the radio station hired an incurable patient as a disc jockey.

There is no telling what kind of prescription the best psychiatrist would give to the patient. No doubt he would advise him to stop perpetrating the symptoms of his speech and behavior. I hope all the patients quickly recognize the syndrome before a song called "Tall People" is composed—and associated with white Americans.

What has happened to good old 'American honesty in students'

What has happened to American honesty? Recently a window in Wright 111 was broken. Did the person[s] who broke it own up to it? You guessed it—the answer is NO! They would rather let their "fellow neighbors" chip in a fraction of the repair cost. After all, are they a few poorer neighbors to them? And what about the person who know who really broke it? Why, he or she was only guilty of being a "least Thermal" person. But alas, it is not the University.

A few dollars now is nothing, but after a while it becomes expensive. Wait until THEN their wallets start to feel a little lighter. Think about it.

Ever since he parted ways with Carly Simon, Jim Schwall’s bands have gone through a myriad of changes but his tight, energetic mixture of rock and blues (with a dash of country and folk influences) has sold well sufficiently with his current band that they’re committing it to wax.

The Jim Schwall Band is planning to cut an album during the Easter week in FT. Lauderdale, Florida. ‘It’ll be just like in ‘Where the Boys Are,’” Schwall said. ‘We’ll be out on the beach looking for Annette Funicello, maybe we’ll get her to sing harmonies.’

A previous plan to record was scuttled by Schwall because the record company wanted him to use a New York producer. “I like to keep things more free-form than most producers allow,” Schwall said adding that the album will be produced by the band. “mostly, I’ve never done it before. Jerry Roberts, the band’s sound man, will also be on band to help out on things like the vocals,” Schwall says he has trouble doing when it’s his own voice he’s mixing.

The band usually begins working up a new song by playing it on acoustic guitars at post-engagement get-togethers.

“Steve and Mark are guitar players,” Schwall said of the Duluth quartet, who sings as well as plays rhythm guitar, and Mark Dawson who plays bass. “I guess I’m one too,” Schwall plays lead and slide on a Sunrise electric and Gibson acoustic guitar when the band performs, as well as singing lead and occasionally picking up an electric mandolin.

Drummer Woody Sims, whose been on the one constant besides Schwall through three years of personnel changes, completes the quartet.

“When you have four pieces, every piece counts,” Schwall said. That, besides the airyness of these four particular musicians combined, accounts for the band’s tightness.

“We haven’t rehearsed hard to this point. It’s just happened from playing a lot together. Between us, we’ve got 80 years of experience making our living playing in bands,” Schwall said.

The band plans to have several guest musicians sit in on the album, which will all be original material, mostly Schwall’s, with two or three songs by Gubbranden.

“We’re trying to figure out a way to get Greta down there,” Schwall said, Greta being Greta Mitchell, the harmonica player from Carbondale’s Shal City Rumble Band. “I haven’t heard a harmonica player like Greta. I’ve never heard anybody.”

In addition, Schwall’s wife Cherie will sing high harmonies and they might use a pedal steel guitar player from a band called Cartus Jams.

After this weekend’s gig they’ll be at Silverbell Friday and Saturday, the band plans to return to Wisconsin, where Schwall owns a farm by Boscobel.

Theater trilogy boasts single theme; braggart embodies comedy, tragedy

By Mike Gauin
Staff Writer

"Comedy at the Braggart's Expense" makes for an entertaining evening of entertainment; and that's a fact! This Center Stage M.F.A. Production takes the audience through a trilogy of dramatic presentations, each of which has a common theme; the braggart is both a tragic and comic figure.

Directed by D.H. Kartalas, graduate student in Theater, the production opens with the play a narrator mounting the stage and reading the audience about the theme of the braggart.

The narrator appears before and after each segment, serving as a sort of emcee in which the play, or plot, is contained. Naturally, the narrator has a tendency to brag, and the lighting crew aid in that he leaves the stage before long.

A Review

Moments later, the lights come up on a two simple props that transform the stage into a little bistro. At the table sits the "war" braggart about his heroics as well the truce he has hopefully gone through. The classic act of bragging has now taken itself through what I've gone through tumbles from Ruzante's lips like a shopping record.

One thing leads to another, and Ruzante's D.H. Kartalas war tales cause his wife, Guza, who has been cheating on him since he left, to wish that he had never come or had his ears plugged.

This, she believes, would be the way that she was a real hero. In the end, Guza and Guza, and give a spirited, sassy performance.

After a 10-minute intermission, we pick up on the braggart as he is in see the town hall recruiting office of Little Pufflington, a small country village in England in 1917. This excerpt is from a play called "A Day with Dad" by George Bernard Shaw.

The English accents used by the actors, as well as the performance area's rambunctious atmosphere, create an audio problem in this scene. It was difficult to catch the dialogue, while the actor's physical movements as this excerpt were not as blurred or grass as in the first piece.

"Same Time" is a star affair

Kathryn Crosby and Tony Russo will star in the comedy "Same Time, Next Year" at 8 p.m. Feb. 18 at Shryock Auditorium.

The play, by Bernard Slade, traces the characters of George and Doris, who meet once a year at the same time and same place to have an affair over a 36-year period. Both George and Doris are married and spend most of their once-a-year meetings giving each other stories about their married lives.

However, neither character has the slightest idea of who the other person is (even when they really want to), so both continue to meet and try to make it a failed date and the audience sees them in five-year intervals.

Kathryn Crosby has toured with her sister Mary Fyngre in the comedy "The Latest Mrs. Adams," and has appeared in numerous shows, movies pictures and teaching programs.

Tony Russo toured with Kathryn Crosby in "The Latest Mrs. Adams," and has been featured in television credits in "Medical Center," "The Lou Grant Show," and "The Young and Restless."

For the Celebrity Series performance are on sale at the Central Ticket Office as the Student Center (center for $6.95 and $6 for the package, $5 for the package of students or children of high school age or younger.

But the best was yet to come!

The final segment showed the braggart as the Reverend Marvin Harvey Jarvis entering St. Peter's office in Heaven.

Here, Jarvis, portrayed by Gary Wilson, meets a little man, around 5', who looks at though he's a 1,000 years old, and has a nose like Johnny Durante.

This old man just happens to be God, as conceived by Dean Karnazas. Incidentally, God smokes a cigar in this play.

He and St. Peter are playing a game of Scrabble as Jarvis enters the Peary Gates braggad about his earthly exploits.

The cycle is complete, and the cast leaves the audience with much to think about after discovering a personality that all of us have been confronted with at some time in our lives: the braggart.

The production continues at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Student Center, Ballroom D. Go and have a laugh at the Braggart at his expense.

Globetrotters to appear in March show at Arena

By Mike Ulrich
Staff Writer

The strands of “Sweet Georgia Brown” will whistle through the Arena and hands will begin to clap in tune, signifying the presence of those famous court jesters—The Harlem Globetrotters.

The Globetrotters will bring their act to the Arena at 7:30 p.m. March 9. They will play their traditional opponents, the New Jersey Nets, whom they have beaten 12,952 times and lost to only 322 times. The show will include a spectacular family half-time variety show.

Tickets are $4, $5 and $6.50 with a $1 discount for SIU students and children 12 and under. They will go on sale Feb. 16 at the SIU Arena Special Events Ticket Office, the Student Center Ticket Office and the J.C. Penney store in Carbondale.

The Globetrotters have been playing before worldwide audiences for 51 years. Last year they played before Queen Elizabeth II at her Silver Jubilee celebration and have had three audiences with the Pope. Famous ex-Trouters include Bill Chamberlain and Connie Hawkins. But the most famous Trotter of all is the “Clown Prince of Basketball”—the man with the half-court shot—Meadowlark Lemon. Lemon was an all-state basketball and football player at Wilmington, N.C. before going on to college at Florida A&M. Besides his hook shot, which he makes 75 percent of the time, Lemon is the master of humorous retreat-haunting and the paid of confetti tossed in the crowd like water.

One night one of the players just held onto the ball and dribbled as the rest of the team and the audience watched. With the fans cheering the dribbling exhibition, center Iman Jackson held the ball in one hand and launted the opposing center. Jackson then rolled the ball down his arm and passed to another player as the crowd continued to cheer.

Woman gets father's cornea

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A woman whose tall eyesight improved two years ago when she received a cornea transplanted from her head mother has gotten a second new corneaseepated by her father.

Eileen Billington, 27, of Dunmore, received the cornea on her right eye Sunday at Wills Eye Hospital.

The cornea — transparent tissue that forms the outer coat of the eyeball — was donated by her father, Joseph Menkeay, who died Saturday at a heart attack at age 51.

Two years ago, Billington received a cornea in her left eye, the most severely affected by a condition called keratoconus, which causes her er own corneas to begin changing shape and blur vision in her teen-age years. It had been located by her mother, who died of a brain aner.

Billington, a part-time hospital admissions worker, said she knew her improved vision a tied to her parents’ deaths has put her under an emotional strain.

"I laugh during the day and cry at night," she said Wednesday in a telephone interview from the hospital.

"I had tried to prepare myself," she said: "I knew my father was in the best of health until when something comes out of the hospital and tells you your father is dead... you just want to sit down and cry. But there's no time to cry.

Within 24 hours of her father's death, Billington said goodbye to her husband, Perry, and 5-year-old daughter and entered the hospital for the transplant.

Billington said that even before she knew she would need a transplant, her mother had expessed interest in being an eye donor. And her father, knowing of his heart condition, said he would do the same, she added.

Because doctors hesitated to operate on both of Billington's eyes at the same time, her mother's second cornea was given to another recipient.
Her father's second cornea also went to another person needing the surgery, hospital officials said.

Dr. Peter Laibson, the surgeon for both operations, said donations of corneas need not come from relatives, although a hospital spokesman said such donations were preferable.

Higher salaries for state officials, commission members recommend

CHICAGO (AP) — A special commission recommended pay raises of up to $25,000 a year for state officials that would make Illinois judges and legislators the highest paid in the nation.

The commission, appointed by Gov. James R. Thompson, also agreed on Wednesday to recommend that the legislature give "due consideration" of unspecified pay hikes to all other state employees, who number about 80,000.

The cost to the state of all the recommended pay raises is approved by the General Assembly was not immediately determined.

Under the committee's recommendations, the governor's salary would jump from $20,000 to $23,000 next year, second only to the $35,000 annual salary paid New York's governor.

The salary of state senators and representatives would increase from $20,000 a year to $30,000 a year. But former Gov. Samuel Shapiro, commission chairman, observed that for the sake of political expediency, the General Assembly may reduce that to $25,500 "and go out and tell the voters they're saving $5,425 each."

The 16 voting commission members rejected an amendment by Patrick Quinn, a spokesman for Coalition for Political Honesty and the lone consistent opponent of the big salary hikes. It would have required the legislators to vote on the salary increases by next November's elections.

Quinn, a lawyer at Northwestern University, also failed in attempts to tie any proposed legislative pay increase to meaningful ethics legislation.

"Michigan's legislators, who earn $24,000 a year, are now the highest paid in the nation," Quinn said.

College students earn money, sing Valentine carols

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — A group of students at Western Maryland College has come up with a novel way for you to greet your sweetheart on Valentine's Day.

For $1.00, they will send you a 10-line Valentine's Day card, the cards can be ' personalized with your own message. For an extra dollar, they will present your loved one with a red, white or yellow carnation.

"In an effort to raise money for a spring concert tour, the trip from the college's music department will be paying local small businesses, " says the Rev. HDMI D. Hynes, an assistant professor of music at the college, who is already taking 20 orders. "The orders have come from faculty members and students."

He said the trio, dressed in red Valentine outfits, will deliver the Valentine, even if the person is teaching class, shoveling snow or working, starting Friday and running through Valentine's Day.

State judges came out the biggest winners in the commission's recommendations.

Under the proposals, the salaries of Illinois Supreme Court justices would increase from $35,000 to $37,500 a year, the highest in the nation and $15,000 more than justices of the U.S. Supreme Court, according to Quinn.

Circuit Court judges would be raised from $22,500 to $25,000 a year and appellate judges from $35,000 to $37,500. Both recommended levels are higher than the salaries of federal district and appellate court justices.

Pay for associate judges in Illinois would go from $37,500 to $40,000 under the recommendations.

There was little discussion on the judicial salary recommendations. They passed on a 10-4 hand vote, a wide margin but the closest of any of the votes taken all day.

Lyndell Loseles, a former judge in Illinois, said the judicial salary proposals were "overdone" by at least $15,000 per man," said Stephen Gonczy, an engineering student also on the commission, said there are "serious problems in the courts and perhaps money could be spent in more productive ways."

Other recommendations included a salary of $55,000 for the lieutenant governor, comptroller and state treasurer, and $60,000 for the secretary of state and attorney general.

Salaries for state department heads were recommended at levels ranging from $35,000 to $45,000.

Dental clinic gets emergencies

By Verdy Lebowich
Staff Writer

The student emergency dental service provides care for 45 students and 66 patients by appointment the first 2 weekdays of the month. The service is free to the students. "We are operating on a patient quota," said Dominic Citadino, dental health advisor for the program. "We are operating on the program for more than two weeks in advance. We keep track of the emergency clinic and not a comprehensive dental program," said Citadino.

Students can receive emergency treatment by walking in or calling 549-5541. The clinic is operating at the School of Technical Careers (STC) in Carverton at Building F1, Room 118.

The program, approved by the student referendum last spring, has been budgeted for $89,000. The clinic provides emergency dental care, including filling replacements, fixing loose crowns and relief of pain from cavities.

Citadino said, "The program is new and it is hard to evaluate its strengths or weaknesses. We are operating a good service for the amount of time we have been open." He added that the clinic is also providing information on mouth care, braces, cavities and crowns.

"The clinic is increasing the dental intelligence of students. We have lots of students coming in that don't know how to care for their teeth," said Citadino.

The clinic is operated with one dental assistant, student worker and receptionist clerk. The clinic is waiting for additional instruments, medication and cabinets.

Citadino is evaluating the program on a monthly basis. The program will also be evaluated by a 12-member committee of students and professionals.

Costly repairs expected

Panel: Highways deteriorating

WASHINGTON (AP) — The interstate highway network is wearing out faster than anyone expected, and it will take nearly $19 billion for repair and rehabilitation through 1995, the chairman of a congressional watchdog panel said.

The gloomy assessment was delivered by Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Tampa, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee's oversight subcommittee.

"The finest part of our road network, the interstate system, is wearing out faster than anyone expected," Gibbons said.

"This is the system that was designed for a life expectancy of 20 years. Yet, according to a General Accounting Office report issued last year, the interstate is wearing out 50 percent faster than it can be replaced," he said.

The GAO is the investigative and auditing arm of Congress.

Gibbons also said that a more recent study by the Federal Highway Administration shows that more than 8,000 miles of interstate are in need of repair through 1995. Gibbons said that was one-fifth of the 38,000 miles open to traffic—need resurfacing, restones. "...Just to clear out this backlog would cost an estimated $2.6 billion, not taking inflation into account," he said.

Black history quiz

Black history quiz to make students aware of heritage

Students at SIU will get a chance Wednesday to show what they know about the achievements and development of blacks in America.

The Black Affairs Council will sponsor a black history quiz competition in which black students may show off a history of black people in general, according to Anita Randolph, council coordinator.

The competition starts at 7 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms and is aimed at several Black History Month activities scheduled at SIU.

The quiz will match teams in a game of black history, according to Ed Burns, council member. Winners will receive prizes.

The next Black History Month event, a fashion show featuring winter and spring clothing, will be held at 7 p.m. Feb. 12.

Other events scheduled include a speech by author-artist Nabil Mahboubi on Feb. 22. Mahboubi is publisher and editor of Chicago's Third World Press and director of the Institute of Positive Education.

Writer Sam Greenstein, who produced the book and film "The Spoon Who Sat By The Door," will discuss that work on Feb. 25. The council will present a special screening of the movie.

A format "Red, Black and Green Ball" will highlight the celebration on Feb. 26. Tentative plans call for a "Red, Black and Green Ball" to be performed by Crystal Critics.

Grants to be distributed

The last 69 Student Senate bills for fall and spring semesters will be distributed from 3 to 5 p.m. on Tuesday in the Student Center Missouri Room.

Students who submitted applications for fall semester need not reapply, according to Millicent Martin, coordinator.

SGAC debt may mean fee hike

By Dan Constable
Student Writer

The Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) is trying to improve its budget limitations if a proposed $1.95 fee hike is approved by the Board of Trustees.

The increase, which would raise the student activity fee from $8.25 to $7.35, is needed to offset new regulations and a new copyright law, according to Josh Grier, SGAC chairperson.

Grier said the fee committee was allocated $1,650 for this year and has $2,625 remaining.

"The fiscal problems in the various committee are not due to fiscal management, but oil is a "precious and valuable resource that must be conserved," Amuzegar told The Associated Press in an interview.

"Price hikes also will provide incentive for students to search for alternative sources of energy," he said.

Amuzegar said further delay in increases will only make today's oil shock inevitable in the coming decade.

The depletion of Iranian and other Middle East oil reserves means that "by the mid-1980s, prices will have to be doubled or tripled," he said.

"Now there are some consumers and producers who are not going to be satisfied with prices and will demand higher prices," Grier added.

The proposed increase says that a person's average monthly utility bill would increase by a dollar or more.

If the fee increase is approved, Grier predicts that significant improvements in SGAC's programming will be possible.

"We never will be able to keep a fee increase low and expand the committees that have been underfunded in the past," Grier said.

Grier also said that he would be in favor of using some of the fee increase for the construction of an outdoor stage.

Incentive to conserve

Oil price to increase next year

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Prime Minister Jamshid Amuzegar predicted Thursday that world oil prices would remain frozen through the end of 1978, but that gradual, annual increases should be expected beginning next year.

"Phased increases during the coming decade will help improve on the mind of consumers, especially the "gas guzzlers," he said.

"The price hike will also provide incentive for the investment in alternate energy sources," he said.

"Somehow consumers and producers must get together to discuss this matter and seek alternative sources of energy. It is in the interest of both groups to look far into the future and not just at one government's term of office," he said.

Amuzegar said Congressional opponents of President Carter's energy conservation program did not sufficiently appreciate the precariousness of oil reserves and the devastating effect the drying up of Middle East oil has on Western Europe and Japan.

"If we have a price hike, I would pay more attention to the Carter bill if they realize that should Western Europe now be deprived of oil, any super power can walk over the continent without firing a shot," Amuzegar said.

"If Japan succumbed to some controversial ideology because of the lack of access to energy, would the United States be able to live in isolation?" he asked.

Iran's current reserves of 67 billion barrels are being depleted by 2 billion barrels a year and, at that pace, will dry up completely in 35 years, he said. Iran isn't using a half million barrels a day and domestic consumption is more than 10 percent a year, he added.

"In 10 years, exports will begin declining because we will be using so much of our production ourselves," he said. "We will see a crisis in 1985. At that time, we will have to consider this," he said.

Amuzegar, who served as oil minister before being named prime minister in a cabinet shuffle last August, said there were two main factors dictating a year-long oil price freeze.

"There is still a glut on the market...and not much demand," he said.

"The economic recovery of Western Europe has not been satisfactory and leaves a lot to be desired. The lack of recovery has produced a 10 to 15 million unemployment. Any increase of oil prices will further damage efforts toward recovery and add to the number of unemployed," he said.

Renewed Western recovery then would backfire on oil producers and the rest of the Third World within six months to a year, Amuzegar said. He did not elaborate. Such a situation could be expected to spur a decline in Western oil imports and reduce revenue for oil exporters.

Jury finds police chief guilty in arson incident

MONTICELLO (AP) — Benton Police Chief Howard Wienke said Thursday he will appeal his conviction on charges of conspiracy, solicitation to commit arson and obstruction of justice.

A Circuit Court jury of nine men and three women deliberated about 13 hours before convicting Wienke on three of the four charges against him.

He was convicted in connection with a fire July 23 at Nichols Trading Post in Bement.

Wienke was found innocent of six other charges, including one of solicitation to commit murder, one of assault on a battery, and others connected with a second fire at the Bement fire station on September 20.

The jury deliberated until 1:45 a.m. Thursday on the nine charges. Prosecutors said Wienke could face a maximum 30-year prison term. Sentencing is not expected for several weeks.

Wienke, 47, was indicted by a Piatt County grand jury in November in connection with the two fires.

Robert Nichols, owner of the Trading Post, received second-degree burns in the fire at his store. The indictment accused Wienke of plotting to have Nichols killed in the blaze.

Two Bement men, Michael Todd Hisson, 22, and William Isbell, 26, pleaded guilty to arson charges in connection with the case.

Hisson testified last week that Wienke planned both fires and showed him how to make and deposit a fire bomb.

City to install pipeline

By Ed Longoria

Student Writer

The City of Carbondale will be permitted to install a new water line on University property, the Board of Public Utilities decided Thursday.

The water line, to be paid for by the city, is designed to improve the city’s firefighting capabilities, and to permit expansion on the southwest side of Carbondale.

The line will be located on the University property on the south side of College Avenue, behind Tower Road and Bramwood Drive.

The line will run through two tracts of land currently used by the Department of Agriculture for crop production.

The agreement calls for temporary city access to a detriment of land for installation of the water line.

The city will retain permanent access to 30 feet of the corridor for maintenance of the line.

School of Agriculture officials have voiced some concern, but city plans and the line to be begun during months that won’t disrupt cultivation of crops.

But Gilbert Kroenig, dean of the School of Agriculture, told the board that the amount would cover the loss of access.

The plan also calls for the installation of taps on the line to provide for University use.

License plate deadline expires on Wednesday

Car owners who have found it too cold to put on their new license plates must do so before Wednesday.

It’s then that a 15-day extension of the license plate deadline expires. The previous deadline was Jan. 1.

The Secretary of State’s Office in Springfield says the extension to Feb. 15 was granted because sub-zero temperatures throughout Illinois made it impossible for persons to get outside and replace their plates.

In Carbondale, plates may be purchased at the First National Bank, Trust Co., and at the University Bank, 1500 W. Main.

Meanwhile, Gov. James Thompson has vetoed part of Illinois’ new multi-year license plate legislation. Beginning next year, vehicles in the state will be able to purchase five-year plates, renewable each following year by a sticker.

Thompson changed the bill so that the Secretary of State could require renewal stickers be put on both the front and back plates. The Illinois General Assembly now can accept or reject Thompson’s change.

Jobs on Campus

The following jobs for student workers have been listed by the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

- To be eligible, a student must be enrolled full-time and have a current ACT Family Financial Statement on file with the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance. Applications should be made in person at the Student Work Office, Woody Hall B. Third floor.

Vogel leery of gymasts’ meet

By Steve Course

Women’s gymnastics Coach Herb Vogel is very concerned about his team’s meet with Southwest Missouri at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Arena. "We have to win this meet in order to remain in the national picture," he said.

The Bears are a perennial powerhouse and are known for producing all-arounders. "I think it can handle, especially in the last two years," Vogel said.

The dual meet recorded during home meets have been very impressive 13-12 going into this season. But there are 12-10 losses during the last two years against the Bears.

"The Bears have always given us concern, both in the past and now," Vogel said. "They are always well-prepared. Our ‘green machine’ will have to prove its identity."

The Bears, currently ranked three nationally, have the country’s top-ranked gymnast, a 4.24 senior. Vogel has known at least 11 gymnasts from the Southwest Missouri program over his career, and has also represented the United States in China and Japan. "She is a former US Gymnastics Federation national champion in vaulting and the uneven bars."

Other well-known gymnasts that Vogel is well aware of include Anita Lenox of Minnesota, and Sue Schneider of Couch, who were both twice in the 1976 and split with the Salukis last season.

The Salukis dropped their meet with the Bears at Springfield Mo. 146-135.70, before winning in the Arena later in the year, 140.89-138.80. Southwest Missouri may be the top team in the nation this year," Vogel said. "Only Penn State and the Salukis have comparable personnel—that is personified with national and international competition."

Admission is $5 for all Saluki students with a current fee statement and $10 for high school students and adults.

The Salukis are coming off a strong performance in a victory over Eastern Illinois State. But Vogel did notice a large weak spot in the team’s overall performance. "We must undergo drastic improvement in our balance beam exercises, if we are to make any kind of ‘onus’ bid for the national title," Vogel explained after watching each of his gymnasts fall off the beam in the SIU meet.

The Salukis have also become injury stricken of late. In their Jan. 21 meet with Northwestern, their top four exercise performer, Patty Ovst, sprained an ankle and it is unknown when she will be able to compete again.

Ellen Barrett, who also sustained a sprained ankle when she landed from her vault in the Northwestern meet, seemed to have aggravated the injury in the SIU meet. Barrett still attempted to continue in the meet, but the injury severely hampered her performance.

Barrett should be ready to perform on Friday, Jan. 28.

Illinois gym coach recruits abroad

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—A lucky thing happened to University of Illinois gymnastics coach Yos Hayasaka on the way to South Africa. He recruited one of the top high school performers in the United States.

The recruit, Carl Antoniolli, has the highest overall score for six events of all college freshmen in the U.S.

Hayasaka is counting on Antoniolli and teammate Steve Yasukawa to lead the Illini to victory in the Big Ten meet here March 10-11, and to new Illini records in No. 1 in the conference.

"We had to think that big one before I left the country," said Hayasaka, who broke up his trip to South Africa last year to see Antoniolli in Brentwood, N.V.

"We met two years ago in the Midwest Open. I knew he was a lot better than the high school gymnasts in Illinois that year. It was extremely important to sign him before the four weeks I was gone, and to sign him. I felt he was the best prospect in the east."

Antoniolli performed for a gymn in Brentwood his last two years of high school.

"I got to travel more that way, and the competition was better. I wanted to develop as much as possible," said Antoniolli, who broke Mount of practicing from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. six days a week at school.

"Carl has given us a big lift," said Hayasaka. "He’s already in the top 15 nationally.

"Carl is very strong and creative in his options." Valley Standings

Trackmen slowed by flu bug, team to compete in triangular

By George Czajka
Staff Writer

The flu bug couldn’t have hit the indoor track team at a better time. Just AFTER the Illinois Intercollegiates.

Even Coach Lew Hartzog and his assistant, Bill Webb have been bitten. So the coaches have decided to rest the team in Friday’s meet against Eastern and SIU-Edwardsville at Charleston.

“We’re going to rest the guys as much as we can, and we want to do it as painlessly as possible,” Hartzog said. Hartzog realized the possibility of a loss. The Salukis won the Intercollegiates last week with 180 points, while Eastern and SIU-Edwardsville won’t be pushovers. They came in third behind Illinois and scored 81 points.

“Even like a loss,” Hartzog said, “they don’t want to be No. 3 in the state anymore. They did better than their score indicated.”

Hartzog will especially rest Mike Kee, Paul Craig, Tim Johnson, Scott Dorsey, Jim O’Hare, Jerry George, Kevin Sloan and Mike House. They have been invited to compete in the Mason-Dixon Games at Freedom Hall in Louisville, Ky. Saturday.

Johnson will compete in the pole vault, Kee in the 60-yard dash. Craig will run the 3,000-yard dash and four of the other five will run in the distance medley relay.

Matthew Moloney to test ISU in home meet

By Jim Smarr
Head Coach

The Saluki wrestlers “I attempt to end a six match losing streak when they compete against the Illinois Fighting Illini at 4 p.m. dual match Saturday at the Arena.

Revenge will also be on the minds of Saluki’s wrestlers, who lost 20-6 in last year’s meet at Normal. Coach Jim Smarr feels the Redbirds might be better than last year.

“They have a lot of people back and might be improved,” Smarr noted. “Their strength peaks up at 184 pounds and runs through 190 pounds.”

The Salukis, 5-1 in dual matches, last tasted victory Jan. 14 when they defeated Notre Dame, 27-12. ISU’s top is uneven-4 due to injuries to several wrestlers. The probable Saluki loss-up follows.

John Gross, 15-4, or John Delagrange, 12-4, will wrestle at 115 pounds. Either Gross or Bill Rannen, 12-14-3, will likely wrestle ISU’s Jim Gibson at 125 pounds. Rannen or Jon Starr, 9-1-2, will test Ralph Carter at 138 pounds.

Paul Hibbs, 20-4, is scheduled to face John Tice at 142 pounds. At 152 pounds, Dale Eggert, 15-10, will wrestle Redbird John Price. Tony Zintak, 18-11, will wrestle for SIU at 148 pounds is recovering from his shoulder.

Ted Jones, 4-13, at 177 pounds. Two Vizi, 13-14 at 180 pounds; and Ken Karowski, 6-15-1 at heavyweight will be SIU’s other wrestlers.

Long said the Redbirds’ best wrestler may be John Price, who wrestled at 190 pounds. Long said Day has wrestled in several international meets.

The nine-year ISU coach said Eggert, Hibbs, Vizi and Jones have all showed improvement in recent matches.

“Those guys are coming along. They are making their opponents wrestle their style,” Long said. “If the other fellows keep their pace up they will make their matches run in their direction they’ll be all right.”

Moloney also have a shot in the 3-meter diving events.

The meet will begin Friday with the featured events being the 50 and 300 freestyles and the 300 individual medley. The 400 medley relay will also be included in Friday’suple.

Saluki swimmers expect tough time during invitational

There are many different types of groups that appear at Saluki basketball games to cheer on SIU. Everybody knows about the great job that the cheerleaders, pom pom squad and band do in stirring up the school's athletes as well as the fans. But there is a new group of Saluki roosters who few fans knew about—and this group would like to keep it that way.

The name of the group is "The Unknown Comic." "We want to be there when the fans get down or the team gets down so we can get their spirits back up and get everybody involved in the game," said the spokesman of the club, while still waving a bag over his head.

The idea of wearing a bag over your head came to the club from the television hit, "The Gong Show." "We got the idea from watching the releases pictures of the Gong Show," the spokesman said. "We had a few drinks and watched one of the show's pictures and then the idea for the bags which gave us the idea. We grabbed a couple of the bags and we started.".

"After that game, we decided to get shirts for the upcoming games, buy the bags, and get a little better organized."

The group made its first major show at the SIU basketball game against the Missouri State Bears last night. Seven of the eight members of the club managed to take a night off from studying to do their bit in the Arena.

The seven of them were dressed in red undershirts with SIU in large white letters on the front and "The Unknown Comic" in small block letters on the back of the shirts. While they spent most of the night jumping in the stands, they found out that SIU fans were much tougher to yelling at than 4-year olds.

"We were clapping and telling the people inside the arena to do more stuff. The people didn't care about our encouragement, they were too busy yelling at each other," the spokesman said of the club's first appearance.

The crowd was still looking for their first female member.

"The fans were especially interested in attending home baseball and football games depending on the amount of support they received."

"We will be the team in the future summer to unveil our new summer line of mid-face bags," the spokesman said.

By Steve Conran
Staff Writer

Next game we will unveil the Unknown Fan Club's mascot," said the spokesman. "And at halftime we're going to be having a brand new game that will have the saying of the game on it.

"No last name can become an Unknown Fan. There are a few requirements of those wanting to join. You have to be at least 12 years old. You have to be an extrovert and not afraid to show your spirit. You can't be a claustrophobic."

"Anybody interested in joining the club will have an excellent chance this Saturday."

Salukis to face survival test in Valley tilt with Shockers

By Bud Vanderstracht
Sports Editor

The setting is the same and the battle is the same, but the stakes have changed considerably.

When the New Mexico State Aggies came to town two weeks ago to battle the Salukis, first place in the Missouri Valley Conference was the prize. The Aggies won the prize that night and have stayed on top in the conference race since then.

The title has not yet been conceded to the Aggies, but survival is what the Salukis will be seeking Saturday when the Western Kentucky State Shockers invade the Arena for a 7:35 game.

The Shockers are 7-4 in the Valley and are now two games behind New Mexico State, which was 9-2 going into a Thursday night home game with West Texas State.

The Shockers were a disappointing 4-15 in the league prior to Thursday night's contest at Creighton.

SIU's chances to move up in the standings were not aided Wednesday when Al Grant was ruled ineligible for Saturday night's game with the Shockers. Grant was ruled ineligible because of a broken bone in his hand that had not healed appreciably. His finger was placed back in a cast and he will be examined again Tuesday prior to the Salukis' road trip to West Texas State and a home game against Creighton.

"The distance festivities will be monopolized by SIU," Steele added. "It's a good group of Shockers, too. But we have a good group of our own. Chris Phillips has all been working hard. Parker is about back to normal and Gadeken has been working hard and doing a good job lately.

"While also has Tom McCabe in the 50 freestyle," Steele said. "McBain will be in the 100 back last year."

Steele said that the swimmers were going to do their best to shave for the meet, so they won't be going all out to make sure that they are to the best of their abilities. He said, however, that a number of swimmers could qualify despite not shaving in the meet.

"I think that our relays, at least the boys' ones, will do very well. The medley relay will be a little tough. We need faster back and breaststrokes beginning by next week."
