Constituencies urge vote on athletics fees

By Randy Roguski
Staff Writer

Athletics directors and campus constituency groups seem to disagree on what the future of DI/intercollegiate athletics should be, but most agree that proposals for permanent cuts in athletics fees should be vetoed by students.

Those feelings are pressed into action by administrators of the athletics department, who report completed in December by the president's blue ribbon commission, that the temporary fee should be extended for at least one more year to avoid a deficit in the athletics budget.

The temporary fee, imposed last June to avoid a budget deficit this year, will be abolished if the Board of Trustees does not act before then to extend it.

Consistent with commission recommendations, elimination of some Sayers' evaluation as an alternative to the financial dilemma athletics program.

Sayers urges the elimination of the fee, which was proposed to balance the budget when it should be increased.

The GSC was the most emphatic in its reaction to the prospect of student referendum on athletics fee issues.

Simon condemns education cutbacks

By Mike Anton
Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon said Tuesday that cutbacks in federal grant and loan programs for students and those who administer them would have a "severe impact" on colleges and students nationwide, as many as 2.2 million students could be denied aid.

Simon, Democratic representative for the Illinois 24th District, also said that support for a tuition tax credit plan in Illinois, which would allow students to attend private and parochial schools, would be supported by Education Secretary Terrel H. Bell - represents philosophical differences in education and is a "poor substitute" that "helps those most who need it least."

Simon said cuts in the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant being considered by the administration would lower the maximum BEOG award to $1,260 a year, down from $1,312. He said the cuts in BEOG funding, along with the speculated elimination of all interest subsidies on the Guaranteed Student Loan Program, could cause a significant drop in college enrollment nationwide.

"What you would end up with is roughly 2.5 million students who are now receiving some form of financial aid who would be denied that," Simon said.

"Probably a good deal of them wouldn't be able to continue their college education or even cut into it and stay in the place. That's not where we should be going in education."

Lower enrollment, added to an already serious drop in enrollment over the next 15 years, would mean serious financial problems for colleges that would in turn lower the quality of education, Simon said.

Rock: Role in Senate takeover maynull Thompson programs

By the Associated Press

The worst winter storm of the season swept into Illinois on Sunday, lasting the northwest and central parts of the state with heavy snow and gusting winds.

Southern Illinois, which is in the direct path of the storm, is expected to receive from one to three inches of snow accumulation by Wednesday morning, while temperatures are expected to drop into the low-to-mid 20s.

Near-bizzard conditions were forecast Tuesday night in some northern sections as temperatures were expected to plummet to around zero while winds gust up to 40 mph.

Accumulations up to 6 inches in the Chicago metropolitan area and from four to seven inches in the northern and central areas were forecast.

The storm forced scattered school closings, cancellations and delays of flights at airports across the state and made driving treacherous, snarling rush hour traffic throughout Illinois.

Many traffic accidents were blamed on the weather, including one involving a school bus and a snowplow in the village of Elwood south of Joliet.

Elwood Police Chief Walter B. King said the bus carrying 39 students to Joliet East High School skidded at an intersection and collided with the plow. Three students suffered minor injuries and were treated at St. Joseph Hospital in Joliet and released.

The two vehicles received only minor damage and neither driver was ticketed, King said.

State and local roads throughout the state were covered in snow and snow-covered in spots.

"We haven't been able to keep track of all the fender-benders the snow has caused," said Douglas P. Eanes, a dispatcher for the Du Page County sheriff's office.

In Chicago, the police department instituted its emergency traffic plan, calling for all drivers involved in minor accidents to drive to the nearest police station to report them instead of summoning police to the scenes of the accidents. A parking ban was also in effect on arterial streets in the city.

Meigs Field on Chicago's Lakefront canceled all arrivals because of low cloud cover.
Farmers’ demands for union rejected by Poland high court

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland’s highest court rejected private farmers’ demands for an independent union Tuesday and recommended they form an association instead. Polish newspapers reported without comment the government shakeup naming Defense Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski, an army general considered a moderate, as Polish premier.

The Sejm, Poland’s Parliament, was expected to meet Wednesday to approve the appointment of Jaruzelski, designated to replace Premier Jozef Piekłowski at a party Central Committee meeting Monday night. It was the fifth government shakeup since August.

Jaruzelski, a 37-year-old four-star general, has a reputation as an effective commander and is widely believed to have counseled against a use of force to end last summer’s nationwide strikes. Jaruzelski is said to be a close ally to Polish party chief Stanislaw Kania.

A spokesman in Warsaw, the southeastern city and headquarters of Rural Solidarity, had no immediate comment on the Supreme Court ruling. The group had threatened a food boycott if their demand for registration of an independent farmers’ union failed.

Poland’s 3.5 million private farmers own 75 percent of the nation’s land and produce about 80 percent of its food, unlike the socialized agricultural systems in other Soviet bloc countries.

Reagan says 7 social programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, trying to win support for deep cuts in social spending, has decided to leave untouched seven federal programs for the elderly and the poor, the White House announced Tuesday.

The president’s budget cutters hope the move may blunt some of the political uproar sure to result from special interest groups and lobbyists when Reagan sends his “hit list” of spending cuts to Capitol Hill on Feb. 18.

All of the programs will be fully funded in fiscal 1982 at the level envisioned by the Carter administration, said White House press secretary James Brady. He said the programs were not among the 30 percent cuts that the administration would like to make.

The exempt areas include all but two of the government’s basic “entitlement programs,” which guarantee people benefits if they meet the requirements set by law and regulation.

In all, Budget Director David Stockman and Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, in conjunction with other Cabinet members, have completed more than 50 percent of the cuts that the president is expected to announce before going on to the Congress, Brady said.

Board of Trustees to discuss athletics, tuition hike reports

By Randy Regnault
Staff Writer

Notice of a proposed tuition increase for the SIU system and postponement of the submission of a report on SIU-C intercollegiate athletics are scheduled for the Board of Trustees meeting Thursday in Edwardsville.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education has recommended a 10-percent tuition increase for all state schools, which would generate $10.2 million statewide.

The recommended increase would raise tuition at SIU-C to about $600 per year. However, administrators have said that tuition could be increased more if Gov. James R. Thompson provides higher education with significantly less than the $64.1 million requested by the IBHE for public universities next year.

Although the proposed tuition increase will be presented to the board Thursday, the board will not vote on the increase until its March meeting.

The exact amount of the proposed tuition increase has not yet been determined. But the board expects to arrive at an exact figure before the March meeting, provided Thompson proposes his fiscal 1982 budget by then.

The board will probably vote to delay submission of an intercollegiate athletics report, which is already two months later than originally expected. Consideration of the report would be delayed until the board's March meeting.

The report, completed in December by the president's commission on intercollegiate athletics, is expected to be delayed to allow President Albert Somit and campus constituency groups time to evaluate it.

F-Senate blasts research controls

By Bill Turley
Staff Writer

The Faculty Senate voted Tuesday to send a letter strongly opposing A-21, a circular issued by the federal Office of Management and Budget ordering stricter accounting of federal research money, to the OMB and to local congressmen.

In other action, John Guyon, acting vice president for academic affairs and research, told the senate that budgetary constraints between 1974 to 1976 forced the adoption of the present 4-month sabbatical leave policy. He suggested to the senate that to find the funds to fund six-month sabbaticals faculty want from either funds from existing personnel lines or reserve lines usually saved for graduate students, summer session monies, any salary increase money the state might give and the fallout fund. Guyon said the fallout was too unstable a source to rely on.

Marvin Kleinau, senate president, said after the meeting that there was fallback money every year and it was enough to fund the longer sabbaticals.

Athlete fee increase is due for retirement

WHEN THE COMMISSION on Intercollegiate Athletics recently completed an extensive report on the type of athletics programs that should be offered, the final sentence stood out:

"University must limit itself to an intercollegiate athletics program which it can afford." It is a powerful statement, so obvious, so self-evident, that it is difficult to have it ignored in the report.

But those words needed to be said and they need to be said now. When people refuse to face reality, it is time to restate the obvious. Repetel, SILU-C is living far beyond its means when it concerns the expenditure of public funds. Universities must limit itself to an athletics program, and the students can afford it.

And students cannot afford (and do not want to pay) the $90 per-year, $30 per semester, student athletics fee. It is time to end what has become a sort of interest which went into effect last June and return to a $20 per semester fee.

THE CASE FOR A lowered fee is persuasive. Times are tough. The Illinois Board of Higher Education has asked for the month that students for a support fee increase. Re-gan administration is making noises about severely cutting state support for educational institutions. In such a climate of offering, it is immoral to ask hard-pressed students to pay $60 a year for a luxury like athletics.

SILU-C has the right to be concerned about the future of Intercollegiate Athletics. When he gives his evaluation of the commission's report (the report made 94 recommendations), there should be a recommendation that the $10 fee increase be allowed to expire in June. The University Board of Trustees, appointed by embarrassing us. Repeat, the University convince quickly.

SILU-C would require a considerable amount of courage and boldness on Somnit's part. The commission strongly recommended that a student referendum be held to determine if the fee increase be made permanent without student approval (as the Intercollegiate Athletics Committee has recommended), the fact is that a student referendum is almost impossible.

SILU-C STUDENTS voted the fee increase down in a non-binding referendum held last spring. A second referendum probably would also be down the same road, and the fee increase.

The main objection to holding a referendum, however, is that there is no guarantee that the $10 fee would be renewed for the next year (fiscal 1982). Indeed, the commission's report acknowledges this fact and recommends an extension.

A better course for Somnit to follow would be to acknowledge that this month that students support fee increase and that men's and women's athletics must be cut back. If such an announcement is made, student reaction is that the Spring on the shape of the crus that must be made. Students would vote on which sports should be eliminated, choosing from sports fan who wanted to start a "Ban Joe—Banner Night" campaign. Naturally, because with the hard times that coach is going through, needs support and confidence to do his job— not richule and bumbling.

All through these hard times, Joe Gottfried has taken defeat with class and dignity. Not once have you heard Coach Gottfried blame the officials or his team. But you could sense that that team has to work harder and cut down on mistakes; he hasn't blamed anyone.

Journey's sound decays to all-time low

I want to respond wholeheartedly to Randy Lynch's recent review of Journey's new album. Their sound has decayed to an all new low. My friends, if you have not heard of the mid-70's to great albums like Journey's "Look into the Future" and "Depart." Those were great rock and roll albums. The instrumentals quality of these albums was a hit of a lot higher than their "Steve Perry Era" albums.

In those days, Journey was not afraid to improve in instrumentally and lyrically. I am happy that someone else feels that good rock bands are being lost to greed. - Tom Beck, Jr., Junior, Radio-Television

Joe takes defeat with dignity

As a student at SILU, I am extremely disappointed with all the pot shots being taken at the men's basketball team and coach.

Recently, a letter was published from a so-called "专栏 " which claimed that the team was bad. The coach was running the team like a Spring on the shape of the crus that must be made. Students would vote on which sports should be eliminated, choosing from sports fan who wanted to start a "Ban Joe—Banner Night" campaign. Social service agencies vie for slice of city taxpayers' pie

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

Representatives of 11 social service agencies requested more than $225,000 from the Carbondale taxpayers for fiscal 1981-82 Monday night during the first City Council public hearing on the new budget.

The requests came from agencies that serve numerous target populations in Carbondale ranging from youth to women to senior citizens. Most group representatives who addressed the public hearing spoke of tightening budgets because of inflation and lack of outside funding availability and heard the council reply that it faces similar difficulties.

The requests for the largest amounts of money came from the Attucks Community Service Board, $63,151; the Carbondale Park District, $50,000; and the Carbondale Senior Citizens Council, $48,750.

Milton Maxwell, speaking for the Attucks Board, told the council that his organization had changed their original request of $72,854 because of changes in proposed salary and fringe benefit rates for employees and savings in other miscellaneous budget items. Maxwell said the Attucks Board hopes to be adding their last request for city support this year, because they have been given "a better than 50 percent chance" of receiving a $150,000 grant from the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs for next year.

If the council approves the requested amount, $88,312 will go to support the Board's Social Service program and $39,813 would be spent on the Youth Program at the Eunice C. Hayes Center, Maxwell said.

The Park District asked for the grant from the city so that they could divert funds from the Lemon Turley Park development into other projects being planned or in progress, according to Park District Director George Bladehead.

The Senior Citizens' Center requested $52,311 to continue their services to the 1,253 senior citizens they are presently serving in Carbondale. Their written proposal to the council showed a proposed total budget for 1981-82 of $290,578, made up from federal and local government grants and private donations.

Synergy, Inc. asked the council to allocate $17,317 to replace funding programs that have supported them in the past, but are due to expire this year. Thomas Paprocki, Synergy's director, told the council that their request this year was the first time in their 13 year history of providing drug counseling, crisis intervention and referral programs that they have had to approach the city for funding support. Paprocki told the council that because some Synergy funding programs are due to expire this year, "without city funds, the program will be unable to continue."

Anita Lentzink, president of Carbondale Community Education, Inc. asked the council to provide $15,906 for their budget so that they could continue to offer services to the public.

Federal funding cuts prompt concern over budget ceilings

By Melvyn Cook
Staff Writer

Members of the City Council expressed concern Monday night about what they said might be high city budget ceilings for what could be a "get-by" year, due to possible reductions in federal funds available to the city.

Councilman Charles Watkins said he was aware that the city has already been making budget cuts while at the same time trying to maintain adequate levels of services and staff. However, he added, "the kind of savings I know that I see $2 to $3 in me in terms of there being a potential that we should be doing in lowering these ceilings."

Mayor Jane Fischer agreed, saying that the council should direct the administration's actions in attempting to lower the budget projections, possibly by averaging out the cuts over several years.

"The concept here is to make the cuts next year. That carries with it a certain amount of wishful thinking because things could be worse next year," Fischer said.

Watkins said that instead of the council keeping to past practices of approving budget ceilings which became "essentially the budget," it should make it clear that "the ceilings are going to be looked at as ceilings and not as minimums."

"The ceilings are not going to be the kind of prognosis that they may have been in the past," he said.

Capitol Finance Director Paul Sorenson suggested that the committee be reviewed every three months during the year for possible cutting at that time. He pointed out, however, that the council's contingency fund is provided through the amount saved between the original budget ceilings and the actual finalized budget.

Public Works Director Bill Boyd added that while funds for day-to-day operations could be cut fairly easily, the quarterly review system would allow for financial recovery on large item expenditures such as the railroad relocation and the water waste improvement projects "where most of the savings would be.

Allowing for the probable cutting of federal matching project funds by President Reagan, to proceed at only 'half speed' by cutting funds right away would "limit the ability to spend," while it is still possible, he said.

GSC expected to take vote on library addition

By Carol Knowles
Staff Writer

The Graduate Student Council is expected to vote on resolution that would allow the addition to Morris Library and a new set of student trustee grants at its meeting 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

A resolution, approving a $1 million addition to the library was tabled by the council at its last meeting. It was said that new legislation was expected to be introduced to provide $16.4 million for student trustee grants, thus allowing new members of the GSC and the library affairs committee, urging the administration to investigate ways to secure an endowment fund and $1 million for library addition to the library.

A set of new student trustee guidelines must be approved by a two-thirds margin by both the GSC and the Undergraduate Student Organization. The guidelines, if approved, will be implemented in the election of a student representative to the Board of Trustees.

Committee members also are expected to be heard by the council. The student work and financial aid committee is seeking feedback from students on the future of cancellation waivers. Administrators on the Billing and Receivables System task force have considered eliminating the waivers.

The council's plans to vote on approval of over $1 million of GSC funds for student activities—a film festival, a conference in the Student Center and a "Women in Development" and workshop in the Theater Department. Funding requests over $250 can be recommended only by the fee allocation board and must be approved by the full council.

No reasons given for federal trips

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government spent nearly $2.2 billion for travel by employees of 23 departments and agencies in 1979, but no reason was listed on travel forms submitted for more than a quarter of these trips, according to a survey released Monday.

The General Services Administration reported finding that the departments and agencies authorized 16.4 million trips at taxpayer expense in fiscal 1979.

Madame Butterfly

IN ENGLISH

Saturday, February 21st 8:00 p.m.

A prologue, opening the opera, that will allow you to reflect on the situation of women, subtly suggesting that if you think this "opera" means heavy women's rights and overwrought sopranos, shouting "suffragettes" and "feminists" you couldn't understand, then the Goldovsky Grand Opera Company (America's oldest touring opera company) has already given you what "opera" is: living, breathing, theater set by set, no "opera" ever was before.

The bittersweet tale of Madame Butterfly and her American lover, presented by a company of 50 with a live orchestra, elaborate scenery and costumes. If you will see only one opera in your life, this is it.

S-Senate to consider approval of fee allocation commissioner

By David Murphy, Staff Writer

Approval of a new fee allocation commissioner, formation of two new committees, and a possible funding request will be the main topics of business when the Undergraduate Student Organization Senate meets at the Student Center Wednesday night.

The senate will vote on whether to approve Greg Larson as the new head of the fee allocation committee. If approved, Larson will replace James Beason, who resigned from the post last semester by USO President Paul Matalonis because of policy differences.

Larson, a West Side senator, was re-elected for the position two weeks ago by Matalonis. The nomination was unanimously approved by the Campus Internal Affairs Senate, which must review any presidential nomination.

The fee allocations committee controls distribution of USO funds to officially recognized student organizations.

Larson has been a student for six years as a commuter, and was in charge of the committee which organized Carbondale's first downtown event in September.

"He has shown he has the ability to handle difficult jobs," Matalonis said. "I think he has excellent qualifications for the job."

The senate will also vote on a proposal to form a new committee to sample student opinion. If the proposal is approved, the committee will conduct random surveys of student opinion on controversial issues. The results would then be used to help senators reach decisions which accurately represent student opinion, Matalonis said.

A vote on a resolution to establish a new academic affairs committee will also be taken at Wednesday's meeting. The committee would consist of senators from each of SIU-C's ten campus academic divisions, and would be concerned with "streamlining" the problems which occur in the academic realm and looking for ways to improve the quality of education at SIU-C, according to the resolution.

Sheriff's dual role leads to conflict with gun, pen

by J.N. Schmidt
Associated Press Writer

GOLOconda (AP) - In Pope County, where almost outnumber people and trees most certainly do, the sheriff is caught between two obligations and the pen in his dual role as chief law enforcement officer and editor of the weekly newspaper.

Sheriff Rodney Brenner has been the editor and publisher of the Herald Enterprise for 25 years, sheriff for two. Before that he was county coroner — a job which in some Illinois counties is more powerful than most sheriffs. He is also chairman of the Southwest Illinois Community College Board and has been a board member for 15 years. There's also the Lusk Creek Conservancy District which lists him as a prime mover in plans to build a marina on the Ohio River which it owns close to town.

The sheriff's office is a few blocks away, behind the courthouse in this Southern Illinois rural town of 1,000, but Brenner is just steps from the newspaper office which is in a recently completed addition to his house. The business moved when Brenner "got tired of fighting the old lead printing equipment downtown" and converted the operation to offset.

Brenner, his wife and a part-time employee handle the writing, editing and paste-up chores for the pages, which are then taken to a nearby city for printing, one day a week.

Since he has put on the sheriff's hat, the previously convicted jail has been refurbished with the addition of three new cells, all being built by CETA workers and instructors in the prison system. "That's me, both jobs," he grins.

But the Iroquois County native who graduated from the University of Illinois with journalism degree in 1939, is careful to avoid conflicts of interest.

Acid rain effects will be the topic of 'Forum' lecture

"Acid rain and the Politics of Acid Rain" is the topic of a Forum 31 Plus lecture to be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Mothers Room of Student Center. Admission is free.

SIUC Pollution Control Director John Ostro will talk about the cause, effects and implications of the acid rain controversy.

Acid rain is increased acidity of rain or snow caused by sulfur and nitrogen oxides from the burning of fossil fuels. Some scientists point to widespread killing of fish, crops and forests as possible results of acid rain damage as results of acid rain.

The lecture is sponsored by the Student Programming Council Expressive Arts Committee.

New power plant to use State coal

Lawyers’ personalities clash during Harris murder trial

By Eileen Putnam
Associated Press Writer

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — Each day the lanky young prosecutor wheels his evidence cart into the 13th floor courtroom, he is faced with the task of making Joe Harris, an elegantly trial, 57-year-old former headmistress, look like a murderer.

The job for Mrs. Harris’ defense attorney is to explain why she has no memory of shooting Scarsdale Diet doctor Herman Tarnower anywhere but accidentally in his hand.

“We don’t always see ourselves as others see us,” defense lawyer Joel Aurnou told the jury during jury selection. “A little guy, 5 feet-6 inches tall, balding, who looks nice, could be a very nasty aggressive lawyer.”

Having thus described himself, the former judge from White Plains furthered his image with a half-chewed cigar, wrinkled suit and a tie emblazoned with the scales of justice.

His adversary, Assistant District Attorney George Bolen, countered with a clean-cut, boy-next-door look, wearing tennis racket ties with button-down collars.

Aurnou, 47, is just the sort of adversary who could get on Bolen’s nerves.

In fact when the 34-year-old assistant district attorney was picked to try the Harris case, those familiar with his work wondered if he could survive Aurnou’s tactics without throwing one of his celebrated temper tantrums.

During the trial, Bolen once caught himself screaming at a juror. At other times, angry with the judge’s rulings, Bolen flopped in his chair in stony silence until asked if he cared to respond.

When one of Aurnou’s tedious questions had jury members nodding off, Bolen — who likes to adopt an air of the earnest prosecutor seeking swift justice and on the lookout for defense smokecreens — leaped up.

Aurnou stunned court observers when he wept with Mrs. Harris at her recitation of her suicidal depression.

He shocked the audience again when he tried to counter a pathologist’s testimony that it was “anatomically possible” Tarnower could have sustained one wound while trying to ward off an attack.

“Isn’t it also ‘anatomically possible’ he could have sustained it while sitting on the toilet?” Aurnou asked.

Spectators groaned. Bolen rolled his eyes.

Aurnou size chewing on a pen with his feet propped on the defense table while Bolen paces the courtroom with a dead-pan delivery and broadcaster voice that disarms witnesses.
Grant to fund training in use of art to teach the handicapped

By University News Service

Arts for the Handicapped, a national committee affiliated with the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, has awarded SIU-C about $17,000 in funding to conduct an in-service training program in the arts for specialists who work with the handicapped.

The program is designed to introduce participants to some of the forms of art that can be used to teach the handicapped. The workshops will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the Saturdays of March 28, April 4, April 11, May 2 and May 9 on the SIU-C campus. The program will be designed to teach the arts are effective in stimulating handicapped persons to learn and to help them gain confidence, self-expression, communication and social participation.

The SIU-C program was one of 10 chosen for funding from more than 450 applications nationwide, according to Catherine F. McHugh, project director.

The College of Communications and Fine Arts, College of Education, Division of Continuing Education and Touch of Nature Environmental Center will conduct a series of five workshops during the spring semester and a five-day practicum at the Touch of Nature site near Giant City State Park during summer session.

The workshops and practicum will consist of two daily seminars with the program staff and four days of practical experience teaching handicapped children and adolescents.

The program will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the Saturdays of March 28, April 4, April 11, May 2 and May 9 on the SIU-C campus. Media blitz to attack homosexuals

S. Francisco (AP) - A coalition of fundamentalist groups, calling San Francisco the "Sodom and Gomorrah" of the nation, says it will spend $3 million on a nationwide campaign attacking homosexuals.

The coalition said it will buy advertisements to build anti-gay feeling in the community and urge homosexuals to give up their lifestyle.

"I agree with capital punishment, and I believe homosexuality is one of those that could be coupled with murder and other sins," said Dean Wycoff, a spokesman for the Santa Clara Moral Majority, one of the groups involved in the campaign.

Wycoff called San Francisco, where homosexuals are estimated at 15 percent of the population of 675,000, "the Sodom and Gomorrah of the United States and the abort of this perverted movement."

Homosexuals here have complained in recent months of an increase in violence against them, including an attack by people gay activists refer to as "homophobics," and some expressed concern that the planned crusade will heighten tensions.

Alcohol Education Project
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. James R. Thompson promised Tuesday that he would "scram and fight like hell" to save the proposed $450 million Perry County coal gasification plant if President Reagan again signs it out for extinction.

But Thompson also said that if all of the already promised synthetic fuel plants in the nation are eliminated as part of Reagan's move to balance the billion-dollar federal budget, he would ultimately support elimination of the Perry County project as well.

Thompson, speaking to reporters on the lawn of the White House, said he urged the president at a luncheon earlier to back the principle of finishing synthetic fuels, mass transit and other projects that are already underway and to focus his budget reductions on new proposals.

He planned to proceed from that luncheon to the Department of Transportation to ask Secretary Drew Lewis not to cut money for the Chicago Transit Authority and two high-visibility Illinois highway projects.

Thompson was among a number of governors who had hoped to win and received MONEY

Other requests to the council include $6,000 for the Jackson County Housing Authority so they can install recreational facilities at their Lake Heights family housing development, $1,000 for the Carbondale Library Board to purchase a microfilm printer and reader, and $4,100 for the SIU-C Undergraduate Student Government Board to help fund the Carbondale Clean-Up Day 1981.

Suit charges city sidewalk is cause of fall

The City of Carbondale has been hit with a personal damages suit, calling for a settlement of over $15,000 filed by Dorrell Thompson, a former resident now residing in East St. Louis.

The suit charge that Thompson, who was hit by a hole in a sidewalk on the 400 block of W. Main Street caused Thompson to "stumble, trip and fall" on June 16, 1980.

Filed Friday, the suit blames the city for "severe and permanent injuries sustained to the plaintiff's chin, head, neck, right ear, right eye, right hand, right side of face and right leg." It alleges Thompson, who lived at Evergreen Terrace at the time, has spent a large amount of money in medical expenses as a result of the fall.

The city's legal office declined to comment on the fact of the suit, saying only that it would refer the suit to its insurance agency, Laclede & Decker.

Boy, searcher reported missing in California park

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — The search for a 4-year-old boy missing for three days near the cold, fog-shrouded summit of Palomar Mountain was expanded Tuesday after a volunteer searcher also was reported lost.

A 79-year-old family party stumped through rocky, brush-covered terrain at the 6,000-foot level looking for Jim Beveridge, who disappeared Saturday. He had been hiking in the San Diego police Capt. Eric Esler, a family friend, said that Beveridge was last seen Sunday while helping in the search.

The foggy day was so heavy that the searchers, unable to see 10 feet away, linked hands as they walked. But by midday Tuesday, clouds, wind-driven rain, howling winds and the coldest weather so far this winter was improving.

Night-time temperatures have remained near freezing. "The day that goes, the pain gets harder to take," said Terry Bratley, a friend of the missing boy's father, San Diego police Sgt. Larry Beveridge.

John Meister, SU director of pollution control, will give a lecture entitled "Acid Rain and the Politics of Acid Rain" at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Missouri Room. The lecture is sponsored by the SPCC and admission is free.

The Student Wellness Resource Center will hold an introductory class in wholesome bread baking from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Students will be able to make a loaf of bread at the session. For registration call 527-7700.

Apek Eshoo, the national honorary broadcasting society, will sell carnations from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday in the Student Center lobby. The carnations will be $1.50 each.

Southern Counties Action Movement will sponsor a dance at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the County Seat Restaurant, 5370 South Pacific Highway. Three local bluegrass bands will perform. Door donation is $1.50. Proceeds from the event will be used in opposing the proposed CIPS sewage hike and in other efforts toward utility rate reform.

The Department of Rehabilitation Institution will present a lecture entitled "Role Strain in the Rehabilitation Counseling Program: Counselor Perception" at 2 p.m. Friday in Lawson 101. The lecture will be given by David Hollinsworth of the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. Admission is free.

Rita Frye, second-year student in dental laboratory technology at the School of Technical Careers, has been awarded $600 by the Colonial Dental Studio of Davenport, Iowa. The award is given to outstanding students selected by STC faculty.

Dan Haider of the Mid-American Bank of Carbondale, has been named general chairman of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce's 11th annual yard sale and auction. The event will be held at the SIU Arena in the fall.

Cubs have high hopes for ex-Card Durham

CHICAGO (UPI)—Leon Durham's .255 major league batting average is overshadowing what pleased the rightfield bleachers at Wrigley Field. Durham believed.

"When he hit the blast last July, everyone thought he was wearing a Cardinal uniform and was considered one of the top young Redbird prospects. Today Durham is a member of the Chicago Cubs and the team is counting on him to help bring the 13-year old National League's Eastern Division.

"I remember the home run, wouldn't I?" said the first one I hit in the majors," recalled the 23-year-old Durham. "I watched it a little. It must have been an omen, considering I was involved in the trade."

"The trade" is the deal that sent former Cy Young Award winner Bruce Sutter to St. Louis in exchange for third baseman Ken Reitz, minor leaguer Ty Waller and Durham.

"It makes me feel good knowing they traded a guy like Sutter for me. More motivation, if you know what I mean," Durham said.

Cubs general manager Bob Kennedy, who has been critical of the sliding away the premier reliever in the league, pointed to Durham as the key to the future.

"He was the one player we wanted," Kennedy said. "If the reports on him are true, he can be the finest Manager since Amalfitano."

Beg your pardon.

The scheduling for three upcoming wrestling events was incorrectly reported in Monday's Daily Egyptian. The correct times and dates are as follows: SIU-C will host Indiana State at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Arena. SIU-C will host Eastern Illinois at 7 p.m. Friday at the Arena, and SIU-C will host Louisiana State at 7 p.m. Saturday night at the Arena.

"We changed Jimmy's (Musek) set around so he could get through it a little easier," Meade said. "Darrell (Wagstaff) just needed a couple of good walks to get a little confidence. Herb (Vose) has a little more confidence now and he's thinking more now and covering his mistakes better."

Babcock also won the rings event with a 9.56 score but his teammate Tom Slomski was only .10 behind him with a 9.46 for second place.

Babcock tied for first place with the Cougar's Kinjo with a 9.35 on parallel bars. Warren Bradlity took third with an 8.60. The Salukis outpointed the Cougars 46.25 to 43.50 in the high bar event for the dual meet victory. Babcock won the event with a 9.60 while Brantley and Kinjo tied for second with 9.35 scores.

"We have a good high bar team and both of us were still in the meet up to then," Meade said."

Cagers’ late push dooms Indiana St.

By Dave Kane
Sports Editor

Maybe the winter chill that blew into Carbondale Tuesday had a numbing effect on the Saluki women’s basketball team. SIU-C took its time in beating up before finally scoring Indiana State, 62-54, Tuesday night at the Arena.

SIU-C improved its record to 12-15, while the Salamanders lost their seventh straight game and dropped to 11-14. The outcome was in doubt until five minutes remained. After ISU’s Cathy Joint hit a jump shot to put the Saluki lead to 76-68, the Salukis were outscored, 22-6.

“Our team finally decided it wanted to play basketball tonight,” said Saluki assistant coach Jennifer Bednar. “We didn’t have any practice on Sunday and only a half hour’s work yesterday, so we’ve been out of things for awhile.

It appeared SIU-C was just getting the feel of things in the first half as numerous Saluki turnovers helped keep the Scoromores in the game. After spotting the Salukis a 28-18 lead, ISU came back to close the gap to 39-34 at halftime. The Salukis had 10 turnovers in the first half.

“We’d call time out and tell them what needed to be done,” Bednar said. “But there just wasn’t any response. There was a definite lack of intensity and concentration there.

But the efforts of three players helped keep SIU-C on top (other than a brief span midway through the second). Freshman guard Rosly Bartley, scoring off of fast breaks and hitting from the perimeter as well, scored a personnel-high 28 points. It was the highest single-game total of any Saluki this season. Another freshman, center Clar Warring, scored a career-high 20 points before fouling out late in the game.

Loisa Greer added 18 points and 18 rebounds. All three drew praise from Bednar.

The Salukis’ next game will be against Northern Illinois at 5 p.m. Saturday at the Arena.

Shockers, Braves fight for MVC lead

By Scott Stehmer
Associate Sports Editor

Most observers expected the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race to evolve into a two-team battle between Wichita State and Bradley, and that’s exactly what’s happening as the little cliff enters the home stretch.

Going into their showdown Thursday night at Wichita, the Shockers are 9-1 in Valley play and a game ahead of the Braves, 8-2. The Shockers pulled further away from the pack Monday night with an 81-65 win over SIU-C. Bradley was idle.

Tulsa and Creighton are next in the standings with 7-4 records, 7.5 games behind the Shockers. The Golden Hurricane, invincibles at 7-0 in the Valley, stumbled at West Texas State Thursday and at Texas State Monday, while the Bluejays lost at Bradley Saturday and also dropped a nonconference game at DePaul Monday.

Drake, 6-5, resides in fifth place after Monday night’s victory at Creighton State, while surging New Mexico State, 5-4, captured its fourth win in its last five games and moved into sixth following its upset decision over Tulsa.

Indiana State is in seventh place with a 2-9 record, while disappointing West Texas is in eighth, 1-10. As for the Salukis, well, you’re probably familiar with their story.

Wichita State’s schedule over the final six games appears slightly easier than Bradley’s. While the two teams still must play their home-and-home series, the Shockers also have contests with Tulsa and Creighton on the road and at the Arena. They will play at Indiana State, New Mexico State and Bradley.

The Braves, meanwhile, will travel to Tulsa after their game in Wichita. The Hurricanes are undefeated at home in Valley play. Bradley also will travel to Indiana State, and has games with the Shockers, SIU-C and West Texas, during the final two weekends in the MVC.

Scoring its highest point total of the season, the Saluki men’s gymnastics team broke out of a two-month slump by defeating Brigham Young University 196-181.27 Monday night at the Arena.

The Salukis had not been performing up to par since their victory at Ball State last weekend but snapped out of their lisp after some less than ideal conditions.

The meet pitted the Wichita State-SIU-C basketball game at the half exercise and vaulting events were held before the start and at the other four events followed the game. Coach Bill Mende said that didn’t bother the Salukis although it may have had an effect on BYU.

“It didn’t hurt our kids any but I think it hurt BYU because they were warming up,” Mende said. “It’s very easy to over-warm and tire yourself out so I was careful to keep our kids off the apparatus.

“We had a couple of bad ones back to back and we were looking to get it all back together,” he added. “We were ready for the 9.5 routine.”

Randy indeed. Brian Babcock won the all-around competition with 57.32 and remained unbeaten in dual meets. BYU swept the next three places as Masahiko Kinjo took second with 54.39 points, J.T. Fletcher took third with 51.40 points and Jim Volotka took fourth with 50.26 points. SIU-C’s Jim Muenz took fifth with 50.10 points and posted his best all-around score of the season in team duals to defeat John Ley and Kevin Massie with identical scores of 50.55.

Massie and Muenz are the only Salukis at the halfway point together at once,” Mende said. “Kevin did well on rings, parallel bars and his best on pommel horse. Ley did a real good job on rings and Jimmy also did a real good job on bars.”

The Salukis got help from everyone on the team as SIU-C took first and second place and was tied for third place in floor exercise. The Shockers won with a 9.50 followed by Randy Betts with 9.45. Bob Ranzi tied for third with the Cougar’s Greg Vigg with a 9.35 score.

“Randy executed an excellent vault and he needed that,” Mende said. “Athletes are a lot like diabetic in a way because they can control their insulin once in a while. This wouldn’t have come at a better time for him because the NCAA nationals are drawing near.”

Relaxation is the only Saluki to place in the pummel horse event with his first-place score of 8.6.
