CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UP) — Black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela became a free man Sunday after 27 years in prison and told a violence-scarred桴民 that South Africa’s blacks must not yet abandon the armed struggle to end white domination.

But the silver-haired symbol of the fight against apartheid also offered an olive branch to whites on his first day of freedom in almost three decades, saying there was room in a democratic South Africa for all races.

Reviewing the past, said, may still be necessary, but he said he hoped freedom for South Africa’s oppressed majority could be achieved ultimately through negotiation.

Mandela, standing under the shadow of the green, yellow and black flag of the once-banned African National Congress, shouted, “Amandla! — Power!” and gave a clenched-fist salute to a throng in Cape Town estimated at tens of thousands.

“I greet you all in the name of peace, democracy and freedom for all,” Mandela began his address.

“Today, the majority of South Africans, black and white, recognize that apartheid has no future. Our march to freedom is irresistible.

Mandela’s first taste of freedom was marred by clashes between police and his supporters at the rally. Police fired blood and tear gas at blacks who, they said, had attacked them with bottles and smashed shop windows and looted stores.

AP staff union to file petition for spring vote

By Brian Gross

The SIU-C administrative/professional staff union wants a spring vote to determine if it wants Illinois Education Association-National Education Association representation.

The union will file a petition to the Illinois Education Labor Relations Board to direct a new vote. The decision has not been made by AP staff leaders on an exact date of when the petition will be filed, David Vitoff, IEA-NEA organizer, said.

After the petition is filed, the Labor Board will verify signatures and a minimum 30-day posting period will precede the vote.

In a November 1988 vote, the SIU-C AP staff narrowly voted against representation. Of the 225 AP staff votes, 104 — 46.3 percent — were voted for a union. Fifty percent was needed to represent.

"They’re voting for collective bargaining as a tool to improve their working situation,” Vitoff said. "The major focus is accountable, to check the trend at SIU-C towards more and more centralization of decision-making. With bargaining, AP staff will have a binding voice in the way resources are allocated. Bargaining will allow AP staff to hold the employer accountable just as they are held accountable.

Vitoff said the union’s chief concerns include the onerous/kable salary plan, the insecurity of term contracts, a need for arbitration in grievance procedures and fair and consistent application of existing policies. The SIU-C AP staff want a second election because nothing has changed here, and the issues of concern remain the same, he said.

The SIU-C AP staff could follow in the steps of its counterparts at the University of Illinois, which voted against representation. The SIU-E AP staff voted for IEA-NEA representation in February 1988.

"Seeing what the Edwardsville AP staff has been able to achieve," Vitoff said, "SIU-C AP staff will have all the evidence they need to know collective bargaining is in order."

Local groups commemorate Mandela’s release from prison

By Fernando Fellu-Mogg

The release of Nelson Mandela added significance to the annual Black and African American Mass celebrated Sunday at the Newman Center, 715 S. Washington, to celebrate a mass that combats greed, music, and songs and prayers of a traditional African Catholic mass.

The Rev. Steve Edler, official of the ceremony, said one of the main significant parts of the celebration was the opportunity for Catholics to experience the festive mood of an African-American mass.

"Most Catholics are not used to the motion," Edler said. "Our traditional mass is more of a low key event."

"This is what makes our Church so great," he said. "We can celebrate in so many ways."

The mass began with a call to worship sung by the Voices of Inspiration Choir, followed by an introduction by Gloria Pumpant, a student who is from Ghana, who called for a better and freer world, and invited worshippers to rejoice at the release of Mandela, to which the crowd replied with enthusiasm.

The passionate and powerful rhythm of the Voices of Inspiration Choir provided the electrifying atmosphere of African-American mass, singer. We’ve Come This Far By Faith. Lift Ev’ry Voice and Sing, and Tate and Sing.

The ceremony also included pieces from traditional African masses and in various African languages, including a Bible reading by one of SIU-C’s African students and an African Creed.

African worship songs were sung.

Judicial Board throws out LEAD complaint

By Richard Hund

The Undergraduate Student Government’s Judicial Board of Governance dismissed a complaint Thursday filed by a registered student organization.

Leadership, Education and Development’s complaint against four Student Development administrators for not addressing a "lack of clarity," Michael Jonsher, justice of the ad hoc committee, said.

Jonsher said, "If (the complaint) addressed more of a clear-cut judicial matter, we could hear it."

LEAD President Ken Boyle, who will submit a rewritten complaint by Tuesday, said the appeals process is "too much red tape."

The appeals process is rigged to favor administrators, fav0r students, he said. "Students have to jump through hoops to file their complaints."

The complaint states Student Development administrators did not allow LEAD to be democratic.

Boyle said Deborah Walton, administrative assistant of the Center of Student Involvement, told him the people who could and could not join the group.

"Administrators shouldn’t be allowed to say who can’t be involved based on (personal) beliefs," Boyle said.

Walton could not be reached for comment.

The complaint also states that Student Development bought a computer with LEAD funds for "OSD administrative use."

Boyle said OSD "creates RSOs to keep tabs of our funds to implement their own programs."

In the complaint, Boyle said OSD kept financial records of this computer from being released.

The complaint also said that OSD deceived state Legislature, which funds OSD, and tax payers by using student fees for personal use.

"I guess they (OSD) think there’s a precipitation of deserving students enough money," Boyle said, "so they have to go to another source (for extra revenue)."

The complaint was filed against Director of OSD Nancy Hunter-Pelt. Graduate Assistant of LEAD Paul Adalikwu, Associate Director, and Harriet Wilson Barlow and Walton.

Mahan, Shipley pace Dawgs' sweep of Jays

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

The Salukis countered Creighton's "Fabulous Five" with the "Fabulous Five." Teamwork was the key for the Salukis as the five men headed coach Rich Herrin put the floor on the area when given time proved to be the right combination in downing the Bluejays 84-76 at the Arena Saturday.

The Salukis have the best overall record in the conference at 19-3 while Creighton dropped to 17-8. In the Missouri Valley Conference, the Dawgs are only percentage points behind Illinois State, Tulsa and Creighton, all with 6-3 records.

After establishing a 40-38 lead at halftime, the Salukis rallied every time Creighton made a run. The Bluejays pulled within 54-50 and the Salukis led off eight straight points. The Bluejays eventually regained the lead, the only time in the second half, 60-63 with 6:02 left after outgunning the Dawgs 13-2.

Saluki Forward Rick Shipley then scored the Dawgs' next five points — two free throws and a 3-pointer — and Creighton could not pull any closer than two points the rest of the way.

"Our defense won it for us," head coach Rich Herrin said. "Every game we win, that puts us a little further up the line. We think our defense is what beats them. Ten days ago in Omaha (83-72 SIU win), and we feel the same today."

Point guard Sterling Mahan and Shipley, both juniors, countered Creighton's "Fabulous Five," of seniors Bob Harstad and Chad Gallagher (game-high 33 points, 14 rebounds and 4 points), with solid performances of their own. Mahan and Shipley combined for 40 points (6-7 from 3-point range, 11 rebounds, six assists, three steals and three blocks.) Neither player committed a turnover.

Mahan hit the cycle by connecting on a two point basket, four point play and four point play with seven minutes remaining in the first half. Mahan launched a 3-pointer and as fast as the shot dropped through the net, Mahan sank the fourth point of the sequence from the foul line.

Both players admitted they were confident and relaxing going into the game, but knew it was the team

IBF will recognize 'Buster' as champ

East Orange, N.J. (UPI) — The International Boxing Federation will recognize James "Buster" Douglas as the new heavyweight champion of the world, a organization president Robert W. Lee said Sunday.

"We can't penalize a fighter for following the dictates of a referee," Lee said. "Therefore, Douglas, who won the title in the ring, should be recognized by all persons as world heavyweight champion."

The IBF was not in attendance at the Tokyo Dome for Sunday's fight, according to Lee, because the Japan Boxing Association does not recognize the IBF.

"We went over there two years ago for the Tyson-Tony Tubbs fight and the Japan Boxing Association tried their best to humiliate us," Lee said. "We weren't going to let it happen again."

In fact, Lee was in Osaka, Japan, less than two weeks ago to supervise two IBF inter-continental championship fights but came home immediately following those bouts instead of extending his stay to watch Tyson's defense.

With regard to the protest Tyson is making about the count count by referee Octavio Meyran, following Tyson's eighth-round knockdown of Douglas, Lee said, "There is a mechanism under our rules to file a grievance — it's called Rule 22. It means a hearing will be convened and appropriate action taken."

Several writers of the media relay team did a great job of coming out and starting the meet with a win, but we continued in downing the SWIMMING and diving coach

Doug Ingram said.

The Saluki men's basketball team would love to turn the tables on the Creighton Bluejays and they are two-thirds of the way there.

The Blue Jays defeated the Salukis three times last season. The following 'Bluejays' are 79-77 victory over the Dawgs in the championship game of the Missouri Valley Conference tournament.

Entering the season, Creighton had defeated SIU-C five consecutive games. But what a difference a year can make.

After an 84-76 victory over Creighton Saturday at the Arena, the Salukis completed a two-game regular season sweep of the defending conference effort that pulled it out in the end. "Everybody is complementing each other on the court," Mahan said. "It was a team effort. It feels good. They beat us last year — three times — and this year we got 'em twice."

Shipley agreed.

"It was the most physical game I think we've played all year," Shipley said. "We came out on top because we played a good, balanced game all over the floor."

The Saluki defensive effort put the clamps on Creighton, allowing 30 percent shooting from the field. The Bluejays hit 40 percent shooting from the floor.

The Salukis harassed the Bluejays every time they forced the ball into the middle. The Dawgs combined for seven blocked shots and eight steals in forcing 17 Creighton turnovers.

Bluejay head Tony Barone decidedly acknowledged the Salukis' effort.

"I thought they showed great poise in the second half when we cut the lead," Barone said. "I thought they deserved to win."

"You win championships on defense and they did a good job," Barone said. "They've done a good job of taking care of the game with under a minute to play but could not capitalize."

Senior guard Freddie McSwain (18 points, 5 rebounds and 5 assists) caugh a football pass from Shipley and was foiled on his drive to the basket. He went to the foul line with 45 seconds to play medley and a third in the 100-yard butterfly.

"Iowa was a great squad and certainly deserving of their 8th-place ranking," Ingram said.
Thousands demand ouster of Communist party bosses

MOSCOW (UPI) — Thousands of protesters demanded the resignation of regional Communist Party bosses Sunday in Ulyanovsk, birthplace of Vladimir I. Lenin, the founder of both the party and Soviet state, the Tass news agency said.

The rally in Lenin's hometown was the latest in a growing wave of demonstrations that have forced the resignation of party bosses in Tyumen, Cherkizov and Volgograd.

U.S. to send Romania $80 million for food

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — Secretary of State James Baker promised Romania $80 million in humanitarian aid Sunday but linked it to future U.S. economic assistance in a bid for free elections and prosperity toward a free-market economy. Baker said the United States is authorizing an immediate food package for all of Romania, including 75,000 tons of grain and 7,500 tons of butter.

The food will be either given outright to needy Romanians or will be paid for in Romanian currency, with the proceeds then available for investment projects.

Indian troops kill two Pakistanis, wound six

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Indian troops fired Sunday on Pakistani demonstrators who ran across the cease-fire line dividing the disputed region of Kashmir, killing at least two and wounding six in the incident, police said.

A woman and a girl were killed and six Indians and Pakistani border forces exchanged fire for about 30 minutes across the line following the incident, the police said.

Renewed that Iran's Rushdie in hiding

LONDON (UP) — One year since Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declared Salman Rushdie must die for writing "The Satanic Verses," renewed fear of Islamic assassination keeps the author in hiding and fuels a debate on how to reconcile creative freedom with religious sensibilities.

Iran's new spiritual leader, Ayatollah Khamenei, on Friday released the execution order. The order declares that the Indian-born writer must die for writing the book that has offended many Moslems for its fictional portrayal of a character they say is a blasphemous rendition of Mohammed, Islam's founder.

Ruling on foreign searches may affect Noriega

WASHTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court is expected to rule on whether the U.S. Constitution protects from "unreasonable" search and seizures extends to foreign countries — a ruling with implications for the CIA's efforts.

The case before the court involves a Mexican man facing narcotics trafficking charges whose home in Mexico was searched by U.S. agents. No one's lawyers say they're challenging the seizure of the documents by U.S. soldiers. But the existing U.S. indictment in Miami was brought before the Panama invasion and prosecutors say they believe they have a strong case against Noriega even without the documents.

Coast Guard says oil spill cleanup going well

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Calm weather Sunday helped crews in the round-the-clock cleanup of the nearly 400,000 gallons of oil that spilled off Orange County, with about 66 percent of the light crude already dispersed or stopped up. By Sunday a total 91,476 gallons of oil — 23 percent of the total spill — had been skimmed off the surface of the water by the Coast Guard officials said 172,720 gallons of the spill — had evaporated or was naturally dispersed in the Pacific Ocean. About 131,087 gallons remained to be recovered.

Condom use by drug smugglers increases

MIAMI (UPI) — Customs agents in Miami have seen a six-fold increase in a single week in the smuggling of contraceptives into the United States by swallowing the drug into the United States by swallowing it in balloons or condoms, agents said Sunday. In fiscal 1988, agents covered about 23 pounds of cocaine from swallows. In 1989, they recovered 136 pounds of cocaine from 84 swallows, authorities said. From the start of fiscal 1990 in October through early February, 86 pounds of cocaine has been detected in 55 swallows, Customs agents in Miami said.

Benzene discovery haunts Perrier production

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — A bottle top in France is believed to have caused the benzene contamination that led to a voluntary recall of all Perrier water in the United States and Canada, the manufacturer said Sunday. Perrier has halted nationwide production of the naturally carbonated mineral water until the problem has been isolated and resolved, said Ronald V. Davis, president of the bottler's U.S. arm, Perrier Group of America.

Students get chance to shine in comedy show

By Jeanne Bickler
Entertainment Editor

SUU-C students can take a joke.
And other SUU-C students can give a joke, as 23 campus comics told to an enthusiastic crowd
Thursday night at the U.S. College
Comedy Competition in the Student Center.
The host of the competition, nationally known comic Peter Berman, warmed up the crowd with over an hour of his own material. He introduced the first comedian and away they went.
The competition, sponsored by Certs and the Student Programming Council's Expensive Arts, brought some of SUU-C's best student comedians to the stage.
But the best of the best, Seth Henrikson, walked away with the prize, an opening spot for The Second City Touring Company
when they come to Shrybeck Auditorium Feb. 22.

HENRIKSON, a freshman majoring in cinema and photography, had the crowd hanging on his every word as he launched into his act, "Danger Seekers."
"Danger Seekers" was Berman's mock action-adventure show starring a sword swallower and a large man who hangs himself from a bridge with barbed wire.
Henrikson said the idea for the show was entirely new.
"In high school I joined the speech team," he said. "I did something similar to (Danger Seekers) for that, but I changed it a little." The finished product went through a lot of changes, but not a lot of practice, before it was ready for the comedy competition.

Professionals are encouraged to attend this teleconference.

A Review
"I didn't know about the three minute limit, and had worked up something about 16 minutes long," Henrikson said.
"I had to cut a lot." When he hit the stage, Henrikson said he thought, "Maybe I should have practiced." Apparently, the crowd couldn't tell that he hadn't.

Henrikson won a chance to compete in the national comedy competition in Daytona Beach, Fla. in March. But winning wasn't the main reason he gets up on stage.
"I'm really excited about opening for Second City," he said.
"That's pretty much the reason I entered the contest."

From the beginning to the deadline, the crowd was extremely responsive. Although it was a large group, when someone was on the crowd, there was a sound in the room. Except laughter.

BERMAN COMMENTED
on the exceptional crowd many times, saying SUU-C had the greatest turnout and attitude of any of the schools he has been on in the tour.
It was this crowd response that really spurred on comedian Joel Brumley, a senior in speech communication. Brumley, clearly a favorite with the crowd, was the only musical act. He sang a song called "Florida Aid" to the tune of "Tobacco Road" by the Nashville Tenns.
"It's an autobiographical song," Brumley said. "Because I do get a lot of financial aid."

LIKE HENRIKSON, Brumley
did not agonize over this piece for any length of time.
"I wrote 'Financial Aid' the night before the contest," he said.
"It came real easy. But I did change the ending of the song on the way to the contest."

Admitting that the first three lines of the song were "popped off" from the Nashville Tens, Brumley said the rest is all his own.
These lines are classic Brumley.

"Signed up, financial aid. I got it more, row I got it made." Brumley sang. Judging from the cheers of the crowd, there were others who understood Brumley's fortune.

AMY BURT, another entry from the speech communication department, was one of two women to enter the contest. She told of the trials and tribulations of a former cheerleader.
She gave examples of situations in which a cheer is the most appropriate response.
While bouncing around the stage, Burt suggested cheering as a method of calling guests to dinner and preventing creeps from asking her to dance.
Although the low number of women participants was disappointing, the two female performers were excellent, both presenting an incredible stage presence.

KENDALL DOLLY, the other female comedian, stated her goal to have her own television talk show.
She was hysterical, and seemed completely at home in front of the crowd.
At one point, Dolly asked someone in the crowd to take a picture of her on stage because "her moth-her was never going to believe this."
Baseball lockout: gigantic gyp for fans

BASEBALL'S SPRING training is scheduled to begin Thursday. Scheduled is the key word here. Until the club owners and the players' union reach a contractual agreement on baseball labor practices, there will be a lockout and, quite possibly, no baseball season.

AN ASSOCIATED Press reporter put it best when he said "After years of preparation, months of talking and weeks of threatening, baseball once again reaches its final days with a lockout." Once again, the game of baseball has been obscured by the financial and legal quagmire that professional sports in this country have generated.

SO THEN "will they cooperate and play ball?" becomes the operative question. The players say "yes," but only if certain conditions are met.

They claim the owners haven't addressed such problems as collusion (the illegal effort of management to join together to fix the salaries of free agent players at prices lower than their estimated worth), roster sizes, player benefits and arbitration.

THE PLAYERS also have problems with the concept of cost certainty—a system for controlling the growth of player salaries.

The owners, on the other hand, have said the only way they will sign an agreement is if they can get some guarantee of wage control and economically feasible budgets that will allow them to profit from this multi-billion dollar industry.

THE OWNERS are proposing radical changes in the financial structure of the game. They want to give players less money up front, preferring to offer them stock instead of contracts. They also want management of the club owners to perform a service to the American people, who in turn pay the players wages won't add up to what one makes in a year, minus endorsements. And so the verbal barrage between player management and owner management goes.

HOWEVER, in the process of the 20-some-odd arbitration talks that have been held on the subject, one very important party has been left out: the fans.

LEGALIZATION will give us the world of both worlds: millions of new drug users and a thriving criminal black market.

Police said one youth was killed by police in a "looting incident," and one local radio station said a sec-tod "looting" also was killed. Estimates by medical officials on the number of wounded ranged from 35 to 100.

Mandela had not arrived at the scene where the shooting took place, but two-time U.S. presidential candidate Jesse Jackson and African National Congress President Oliver Tambo were in the area.

Mandela was released from Victor Verster prison 50 miles northeast of Cape Town Sunday, opening a new chapter in South African political history and ending 27 years and seven months of confinement for advocating the violent overthrow of the white minority government.

Within hours of his release, Mandela, 77, reaffirmed the very same stance that led to his imprisonment on sabotage and treason charges in 1964.

Before the crowd in downtown Cape Town, Mandela praised the recently legalized ANC, the South African Communist Party, anti-apartheid organizations and his family for their support during his "lonely" imprisonment.

In his speech, delivered in clear and forceful tones from the steps of Cape Town City Hall, Mandela praised President Frederik de

Klerk, who he said had gone further than any other white South African leader to meeting the demands of the black majority.

Husband, wife display art at Carbondale gallery

Artwork includes handcrafted bowls, iron accessories
By Trudy Sargeant
Staff Writer

The Associated Artist Gallery, 213 S. Illinois Ave., is showing a collection of handcrafted wooden bowls and iron works. Works are made by the husband and wife team of Rolene Elliott-Francis and Tim Francis.

Mrs. Francis' interest in iron goes back to when she went to school to learn the horse shoeing trade.

The show, which runs through March 3, marks the first time the Francis' have presented their work together.

Mrs. Francis, who works in iron, said her interest in iron work goes back to the time she went to school with the intent to work on shoeing horses.

"I tried going to school for a couple of years," Francis said. "But it was safer to work with the metal (without the horses)."

Francis said her work is very organic and simple in nature. At the gallery, she has several lamps and tables that follow this theme.

"Most of the pieces are functional (serve some purpose)," Francis said. "Things that are practical are the easiest thing for me to work with and change into a form."

Tim Francis, who makes wooden bowls, said the process of making the bowls is similar to throwing a clay pot.

"They blow my mind. I couldn't believe they could have been turned by hand," Francis said. "I play around with it and began to experiment with different shapes."

"I thought of putting it on display at the Associated Artist Gallery."

"The bowls are all done on a hand-made lathe," Mr. Francis said. "(A lathe) turns the block of wood horizontally, instead of vertically — like on a potters wheel."

Francis said he works on bowls that can be as thin as an eighth of an inch thick.

"I use local materials," Francis said. "A standard bowl usually takes me about two to three hours from start to finish."

Francis said the hand-turned bowls have been gaining attention from art galleries across the nation.

"They have been popular along the West Coast," Francis said. "The bowls have a certain mystique for people. The fact that they are all one piece and hollow makes people think about how they were made."

The Associated Artist Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Six Batavia were

of Owens.

"They cut through the bars and the fence and away they went," said Owens.
Department of Corrections spokesman Nic Howell said there was "no real hiccup" to their escape once they were free of their cells in the maximum-security facility housing about 1,400 inmates.

Some were in adjoining cells in the west cellhouse segregation unit. They cut their way out of their cells. Then they knocked out a window and cut a bar over that window. They dropped to the ground and they had to scale a 6-foot-fence," he said.

It was not immediately known what the prisoners used to cut through the bars.
The escape was discovered through a routine bed check, Howell said. The six were discovered missing at 4:55 a.m., Owens said.
Police issued a nationwide alert for the six. Three of them were convicted of murder and considered "extremely dangerous," said Owens.

Police were searching for James F. Allen, 40, Chicago, a 5-foot-8, 116-pound black male with black hair and brown eyes convicted of three murders; Dave Rodriguez, 21, Chicago, a 5-foot-8, 180-pound male with a dark complexion, black hair, brown eyes, and a goatee convicted of murder; and Daniel Johnson, 24, of Bureau, Ill., a 5-foot-9, 138-pound white male with brown hair and eyes convicted of murder.

Police also were searching for Tommy Munoz, 22, Chicago, a 5-foot-4, 125-pound black male with brown eyes and hair convicted of narcotics and witness intimidations; Terry W. Colburn, 21, Fulton, Mo., a 5-foot-4, 133-pound white male with brown hair, a moustache and green eyes convicted of burglary; and Ron Blunt, 25, of Wyoming, Ill., a 5-foot-9, 150-pound white male with dark hair and beard convicted of murder.

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The producers of a new video documentary scheduled to air Monday on the 80th presidential family of Abraham Lincoln are attempting to shed new light on his relations with his commercial wife, Mary.

The film, scheduled to air on some public television stations around the country in connection with the observance of Abraham Lincoln’s birthday Monday, is designed to give a unique view of the years the Lincolns lived in Springfield in the only home they ever owned.

"Everybody sees Lincoln as the great emancipator in the Civil War, but we forget he lived 16 normal years on earth and led a normal life," said a young, ambitious, middle-class professional," said J. Michael Lennon, executive producer of the documentary and a professor at Saginaw State University.

The film, which covers the years of 1844 to 1860, is called "The Lincolns of Springfield, Illinois." It contains the few pictures of the president’s youngest son and his wife available from the time period.

It also includes contemporary drawings of the family and friends in the city of Springfield and uses a reconstructed plantation house as a backdrop. It highlights

New video focuses on Lincoln’s life at home

The letters Lincoln wrote to his wife during his frequent business trips at the time.

"You get a very evocative sense of what their home was like — the children, domestic problems and challenges," Lennon said. "You see the vivid colors, the restored furnishings, the restored wallpapers. It ends with Lincoln’s farewell speech in Springfield."

The film also focuses on the life of Mary Todd Lincoln during a time that she was a mother with a husband who was working long hours. It disputes some earlier writings about the volatility of her personality.

Lincoln’s law partner, William Herndon, authored one of the first histories of Lincoln, and he described the former president’s home life as terrible because of his wife.

Benjamin Thomas’ biography, "Abraham Lincoln," said Mary Todd Lincoln was "witty and warm-hearted and could be unusually charming when she chose, but she was willful and demanding, too." Thomas said her "hair-tinger temper sometimes caused her to lash out in cutting sarcasm."

"Surely, she was volatile, but she was funny," he said."

Area code change now complete

CHICAGO (UPI) — Illinois Bell employees Sunday put the finishing touches on converting the company’s 151 offices statewide to accommodate a new 708 area code, covering much of the suburban Chicago area.

The Chicago Loop offices with highly sophisticated equipment and a West Chicago office handling telecommunications traffic for Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory at Batavia were the last to be changed.

The changes leave only that area within the Chicago city limits in the 312 area code.

"We are really not experiencing any increase in trouble reports or repair reports," said spokesman Helen Shumate. "We have heard a heavier-than-normal calling volume to the operator," she said, "but we had a 14 percent higher than normal a Sunday. Like Sundays are the switch operators usually took place, we questioned most often dealt with dialing instructions."

Monday is the first business day in the new system that puts all of Dr. Page and Lake, virtually all of Kane and portions of Cook, Will, McHenry and Kendall counties in 708.

"We expect calling volume to be tighter than an average Monday because of the holiday and some of the federal offices will be closed," said spokeswoman Jane St. Pierre.

Amnesty International is a worldwide movement of people working to protect the rights of humans who are unjustly imprisoned for their political beliefs, religion, sex, ethnic origin or language.

Amnesty assigns local chapters to write letters to the governments of prisoners of conscience to investigate their political, social and physical conditions.

An active group of SIU-C students, faculty and some Carbondale residents are writing to a prisoner in Chad named Bada, an Arabic prisoners of conscience by Amnesty, an international human rights group. They have been investigating his case for two years.

The Carbondale chapter's objective is to determine whether Bada qualifies to be recognized as a prisoner of conscience by Amnesty. The local chapter is writing to the Chad government to determine his legal status. They also are checking to see if Bada has adequate medical care and contact with his family.

To be recognized as a prisoner of conscience by Amnesty, an individual must not have used violence in a stand for their cause.

Bada was arrested without a charge, said Jim Carl, group coordinator for the local Amnesty group. They have been trying to find out why. The only information available is that Bada, and about 50 people from his ethnic group, Hadjerai, were arrested under the suspicion that they were opposing the government of President Hissene Habre.

The local group wants to find out where he is now and if he runs the risk of being killed. There is a possibility he might belong in a secret detention center. They also are working for a fair and prompt trial for Bada, Carl said, but they need more information.

Carl said this particular case with Bada has been frustrating because they do not know much about him, but it is still interesting to investigate.

Carl said one of Amnesty's accomplishments is that they are forcing human rights as a public issue and trying to change public consciousness.

"The stuff I do as a part of this group here would not get me killed in some of these countries we are working in for subversive activity," said Carl.

Winters said she got involved because it is non-violent political action that works for individuals in political danger. She said government doesn't like Amnesty because it embarrasses them for unjustified behavior.

"You really feel as if you are getting somewhere," Winters said. "Each investigative case is an individual, and it's not abstract.

Kiri Hivfeldt, sophomore in political science, said she has been involved for three years with Amnesty because she grew up all over the world, and the world is important to her in terms of human rights. Students need more of a world view, and it should be our duty to uphold what democracy is supposed to stand for, she said.

"It's more like it's something that you can't speak out against their government in supposed democratic countries, without being put in jeopardy of being thrown in prison," Hivfeldt said.

The local Amnesty group also has worked with Korean students who were thrown in jail for distributing leaflets which opposed government policies. Winters said she and the students were thrown in jail for doing so.

The local chapter of Amnesty was established in 1977 and has 12 to 15 core members and 30 members who attend frequently, Carl said.

Amnesty International has more than 500,000 members and supporters in more than 150 countries. In order to safeguard impartiality, groups do not work for prisoners of conscience held within their own countries. They rely commonly on donations from supporters worldwide, which enables them to be independent of all governments, political factions, ideologies, economic interests and religious creeds.

Carl said Amnesty tries to achieve a geographical and political balance by concentrating on different prisoners from as many different countries and political viewpoints.

We've managed to pick them all off [accused governments]," Carl said. Students for Amnesty International have regular monthly meetings. Anyone interested is welcome. For details, contact Winters at 536-5571.

In December, the SIUC-IEA/NEA Faculty Association sent a letter to Vice President for Academic Affairs Benjamin Shepherd regarding recent developments in the search for a new Dean for the College of Communications and Fine Arts. Below are some excerpts from that letter. We believe that decisions made by Vice President Shepherd during the search process have set and may set dangerous precedents for this campus. Please take the time to read and thoughtfully address the issues raised below.

Dear Dr. Shepherd:

We are deeply troubled by recent decisions by your office regarding the search for a new Dean in the College of Communications and Fine Arts. Our concerns are what we understand to be the course of events and the problems that we perceive with the procedures and precedents established. We ask that you respond with a clarification of any misunderstandings that we may have and the procedural basis for your decisions.

CHRONOLOGY:

In December of 1988, Dean Keith Sanders notified the University that he would be leaving... Your office immediately announced plans to begin a hurried search for a new Dean. The position description was formulated, the search committee constituted, and the search initiated during January and February 1989. The position was not actually listed in Illinois State journals until the beginning of March 1989 with an application deadline near the end of that same month leaving applicants a 3 or 4 week window of opportunity to submit materials.

The search committee was constituted of 19 members from within and outside of the College. It was chaired by a faculty member from... the College of Liberal Arts. The committee began its deliberations concerning the applications received... on March or beginning of April 1989. Three applicants were selected as finalists... The search committee voted to recommend the third candidate... You polled the Chairs and Directors of the College to ascertain their position. After this poll, you informed the search committee that the Chairs and Directors were not in support of any of the candidates and you therefore were cancelling the search with the understanding that it would be reopened this Fall (1989). Neither the vote of the Chairs and Directors nor the vote of the search committee have ever been made public.

The foregoing is a brief summary of events. There are a number of subtexts which trouble us:

1. There seems to be some question as to the constitution of the search committee and the fact that it was chaired by a faculty member from outside of the College.
2. Is the vote of the Chairs and Directors considered more important than the vote of the constituted search committee? Does this not obscure and confound the mission of the search committee?
3. Two of the Chairs and Directors who voted had been candidates for the job... Does this not constitute a clear conflict of interest on the part of the Chairs and Directors?

We wish to make it absolutely clear that we are not questioning the integrity of the search committee. From all that we have been able to discover, we believe that the committee acted with fairness and great energy in executing its task...

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS:

...Marvin Kleinau was selected to serve as acting Dean for FY90... Near the end of September and beginning of October the faculty, staff, and civil service employees of the College of Communication and Fine Arts were asked to vote as to whether or not they wished to open a search for Dean or retain Marvin Kleinau for one additional year in that position... At the October Faculty Senate meeting you announced that in a "straw poll" of the Chairs and Directors the vote had been 9 to 1 in favor of retaining Marvin Kleinau in his current position. You made no mention whatsoever of the faculty, staff, and civil service...

Again there are a number of issues related to this fall's activities that deeply trouble us:

1. Why was the search for Dean not started immediately after the conclusion of the spring's search?
2. We remind you that the Chairs and Directors and the search committee voted last Spring with the understanding that a new search would be started in time to ensure a good pool of candidates for this year's selection process.
3. It appears that different Departments in the College voted on different information and issues. Some Departments were told that Marvin Kleinau's title was to be changed from Acting Dean to Dean with a "gentlemen's agreement" that he would step down after one year in that title. Other Departments voted on the assumption that Professor Kleinau would remain in office with the title of acting Dean. This is a critical issue! It is a contractual matter and many faculty feel it should be treated as such. You avoided reference to this title change in your address to the Senate. Why was there inadequate and inconsistent information supplied to the various Departments?
4. We have recently been informed that a letter from you to the Chairs and Directors of the "committees" states that Marvin Kleinau's title was to be changed from Acting Dean, not Acting Dean, from July 1, 1990 to June 30, 1991. Is this not a violation of affirmative action and hiring procedures as defined by the University? The administrative appointment of a Dean would establish a precedent on this campus in serious violation of the spirit of collegiality and consultation (we all hope to foster)...
Mandela’s release not likely to ease sanctions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite apparent universal praise on all sides for the recent release of black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela, lawmakers apparently did not act immediately to ease sanctions against South Africa.

But Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs Herman Cohen said Tuesday he was reviewing its policy on South Africa, which would make a gesture in recognition of Mandela’s release after 27 years in prison for attempting to overthrow the white majority government.

It is an issue in which CBS’s "Face the Nation," Cohen said: "I think President Bush has sent a terrible signal of interest in the last few days... He said positive things but in the last days of February, therefore, we should review our policy. We’re doing that right now.

"I think we considered some sort of easing of the sanctions, but the world does not have a veto by former President Ronald Reagan, to be "important in this case."

But he acknowledged that any easing of the sanctions, however, would come from Mandela himself. In his first public appearance in almost a decade, the former South African president said: "To lift sanctions now would be the risk of aborting the process towards the complete eradication of apartheid.

In fact, while lawmakers were quick to laud the decision, announced Saturday by South African President Frederic de Klerk, to release Mandela from jail, many noted that the release alone would not end sanctions, or a variety of Congressional requirements for lifting the sanctions.

Reg. William Gray, D-Pa., said of the sanctions against South Africa, "This Week with David Brinkley" that "it's too early to determine" when or if the legal conditions for repeal of the sanctions will be met.

WASHINGTON — On the eve of a 23-country foreign ministers’ conference in Ottawa, the once-official agenda has dwindled to a secondary concern.

While diplomats will still grapple with the complexities of détente and the other intricacies of what’s known as the superpower role, their political masters will focus on a unified Germany, a conventional force of 500,000 and nuclearable for achieving both objectives.

THE 23 MINISTERS from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its 22 allies were gathered in Ottawa Monday for 2-1/2 days of discussions on the conference’s agenda meetings. But a meeting that was initially set to discuss a scheme to moderate the arms from low-flying aircraft is now the kickoff for a meeting on the deployment of such aircraft.

German unification, a quixotic dream a year ago and improbable even two months ago, is now seen as inevitable. Despite misgivings in Washington, even on both sides of the corridor, Kissinger has seen their conditional blessing to unification.

“IT’S HAPPENING on the ground with or without us, so if we’re going to be influential over it we’d best sign on now,” said a Bush administration official. Kissinger was out by his colleagues Monday will be Secretary of State James Baker and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

"See the memorial plates you on the buildings near streets where Nazis shot their victims, and listen to the stories of kids taken away from their mothers,“ said Kissinger, who spent five years in a German labor camp as a German.

"I myself have seen the nubile of my country," he said, adding he "was influenced today by his grandfather Lucas. I may not live to see my grandchildren and I just want to please our grandchildren Monday will be Secretary of State James Baker and cultural diversity:

WARSAW (GLOBE) — Poles, devastated by German expansionism which sparked World War II, are paranoid about the prospect of a new, reunified and revitalized Germany.

Voyager to take last look at planets, sun

United Press International

Cameras aboard NASA's aging Voyager 1 probe will be turned on Tuesday for a final set of pictures of an historic family portrait showing seven of the solar system's nine planets, including distant Earth, in an unprecedented mosaic.

For Candy Hansen, the imaging expert in charge of the photo project at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., the "picture of the century" will be a stirring glimpse of humanity's home in a cosmos vast beyond imagining.

"It's going to be a trite, the old stuff about 'planet Earth,' and 'goosebump,"' she said in a telephone interview. "But to have something that graphically demonstrates this little tiny, tiny fragile body out there amongst its neighbors, I think is going to be a powerful statement."

Starting at 9:12 p.m. Tuesday, Voyager 1's cameras will begin taking pictures for the first time since the hardy robot sailed past Saturn 10 years ago.

Acting on computer commands radiated from Earth, Voyager 1, which will take 64 pictures of the solar system over a four-hour period. The images will be stored on tape until the end of March, when they will be beamed back to Earth. The first pictures will be released to the public in late April.

At Voyager's vast distance — 3.7 billion miles — only mighty Jupiter will appear a clear, discernable disk, with Earth showing up only as a brilliant star-like point of light.

"It was a little hard to formulate what we wanted to do," Hansen said. "People had different ideas of what they wanted this observation to be. Some wanted to see how far Voyager has been. The portrait of the solar system said get everything. We went for the get everything.

"Launched at 9:46 a.m. on Sept. 5, 1977, the nuclear-powered Voyager 1 sailed past Jupiter in March 1979, using the giant planet's gravity for a slingshot-like boost on to ringed Saturn in November 1980."

Unlike Voyager 2, which utilized repeated "gravity assist" flybys to visit Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune, Voyager 1 used Saturn's gravity to fling it up out of the plane of the solar system for an encounter with the moon Titan.

"It's a good old spacecraft," Hansen said with evident fondness.

Cosmonauts blast off; streak to space station

MOSCOW (UPI) - Cosmonauts Anatoli Solovyov and Alexander Balandin blasted off Sunday for the Mir space station on the 10th manned mission to the Soviet Union's giant orbiting complex.

Their silver-tipped, 184-foot Soyuz TM-9 rocket rumbled off the ground at the Baikonur Cosmodrome in the Soviet Central Asian republic of Kazakhstan at 9:16 a.m., the official Tass news agency said.

Flight commander Solovyov, making his second trip to the Mir, and engineer Balandin, on his first space journey and also trained to fly a Soviet space shuttle, were feeling well, Tass reported three hours into the mission. The Soyuz's onboard systems were working normally, it said.

The stage rocket carrying Solovyov, 47, and Balandin, 36, trailed an orange flame as it left the same desert launchway pad from which Yuri Gagarin became the first man to enter space on April 12, 1961.

Engineers fired the Soyuz earth Sunday with the liquid fuel — kerosene and liquid oxygen — that the Soviet craft does less harm to the Earth's ozone layer than the solid propellant used by the United States.

The spaceship was scheduled to dock with the Mir — which means "peace" in Russian — on Tuesday.

Police Blotter

Two men, at least one of whom was a college student, died as a result of a motorcycle accident early Sunday morning.

Carbondale police report that a motorcycle, carrying the two men, struck a curb at 400 N. University Ave. about 12:57 a.m. Names were being withheld pending identification of family members.

One man, identified as an SIU-C student by a hospital spokeswoman, was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale following the accident. The other man was taken to St. Louis University Medical Center where he died at 7:30 a.m. of multiple injuries.

Rooney says racist quotes 'made up'

NEW YORK (UPI) -- Congresswoman Carolyn B. "Andy" Rooney, under suspension from CBS for three months for making racist remarks, was quoted as saying a racist remark, said Sunday the subsequent publicity barrage made his "angry gay Jew" comments sound "like a plywood shack under a highway fire." In a syndicated column, Rooney, the resident humorist at "60 Minutes," again insisted he did not make the controversial comments attributed to him by a reporter for the Los Angeles Times.

"I don't deny the quote attributed to me, I say the quotation was made by a reporter who couldn't take notes," Rooney said.

The article in the Advocate quotes the commentator as saying, "Most people are born with intelligence, but blacks have watered down their genes because the less intelligent ones are the ones that have the most children. They drop out of school after early age to do drugs and get pregnant.

Rooney was suspended for three months by CBS News President David Burck.

In the column, Rooney said the remark was inspired by Sinatra's coming from an "angry gay organization" which had conducted an organized campaign against him. He also said he's made comments during a "60 Minutes" commentary which they called homophobic.

'Street news' sales help homeless

NEW YORK (UPI) -- Congregate Street News, based in a "shitty gay organization" which had conducted an organized campaign against him. He also said he's made comments during a "60 Minutes" commentary which they called homophobic.

Anthony DeCandido lost his job and home when a mugger dashed off his hand when his ear was pulled. He was making a fist.

Jim Carteron was on the streets three years before he was set on fire one night by nameless thugs.

But there are thousands of New Yorkers who live on subways, in alleyways, and city parks.

Now, they say, they make up to $20 a week as raving vendors for "Street News," the city's newest tabloid. All three say they have found permanent shelter for the first time in years.

"I can't see how anyone couldn't get off the streets selling Street News," said Blakemore, 36. "And the streets. I'm sure Andy Rooney doesn't give a damn about the homeless. When Street News came out, they didn't know what class I would have done.

The 75-cent newspaper, a sporadic publication that contains a sometimes uneven mix of brashly "hot off the press" with softer, honest, medicated poetry, and celebrity reminiscences cannot be mistaken for a dime-a-week newspaper.

Paul Newman writes in a recent issue about his experiences while filming "Blaze," actress Lisa Bonet is credited with a piece about her bicipital upbringing, and Donn Osmond flashes out at records companies.

"We don't want it all to be about the downtown," said co-director Wendy Kolkin, a former ballerina.

"You're not supposed to buy it because you're not buying some homogenized guy. You're supposed to buy it because it's something you would want.

Salukis win at Iowa
By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

The Salukis women defeated last-place Northern Iowa but it wasn’t easy.
The Salukis, down by 11 points at one time in the first half, rallied late to defeat the pesky Panthers 75-61 Saturday at Cedar Falls, Iowa.
SU-C has won 11 of its last 12 games including five in a row. It improved to 10-3 in games including five in a row.
Northern Iowa fell to 1-10 in the conference and 3-16 overall.
The Salukis led the Panthers by just four points, 56-52, with six minutes remaining. But they went on a 13-0 run and led 69-52. The Salukis never trailed after this.
The last-place Panthers played the Salukis tough in the first half. They built a 24-13 lead at the 9:55 mark of the first half. But the Salukis outscored Northern Iowa 19-9 for the rest of the half and trailed 33-32 at the half.
Junior forward Amy Raders led the Salukis with 21 points, 6 rebounds and 4 steals.

Men’s track places 2nd
By Sean Hinnigan
Staff Writer

The men’s indoor track team finished second at the Eastern Illinois meet Saturday, in part because three key point-scoreters stayed behind.
Leonard Vance and Mike Kershaw had reserve duty and runner Erick Pegues contracted a throat ailment.
"It put a bit of a damper on us," coach Bill Cornell said.
Indiana State won the five-team meet with 86 points to the Salukis’ 72, Eastern’s 68, followed by Western with 39 and Akron with 6.
Cornell refused to blame the loss on the missing athletes, but clearly some points were lost, especially with Pegues out.
"We would have won the 400-meter and we lost the 4x400-meter relay for the first time this year," Cornell said. Pegues anchors the relay.
He said Vance would have taken points in the jumps and Kershaw would have placed in the 3,000 and 5,000-meter runs.
However, the legs did have six first-place finishes, two from Garrett Hines, who also finished second in the long jump. Hines took the blue ribbon in the 55-meter dash with a time of 6.41 and the 200-meter dash with 22.06 for a total of 16 points.
Gerald Owen took the mile with 4:33.52 and John Sisson won the 600-yard dash with a time of 1:12.66. It appeared Bernard Henry won the 800-meter run, but the photo finish was inconclusive.

East drills West 130-113 in 40th All-Star Game
MIAMI (UPI) — Robert Parish and Kevin McHale paced a Boston Celtics attack in the 40th All-Star Game Sunday, leading the East to a 130-113 triumph over the West.
The victory maintained the East’s dominance over the West, improving its series advantage to 26-14. Parish scored 14 points and grabbed 4 rebounds and McHale added 13 points and 8 rebounds.
Michael Jordan added 17 points and the East used a sturdy defense much of the game to hold off the West. The East enjoyed a 20-point bulge for most of the game.

Maule eliminated from tournament
SLU-C tennis standout Mickey Maule was eliminated from the consolation round of the Roland-Notre Indoor Collegiate Tennis Tournament Friday. Maule lost to Wake Forest’s Ameline 6-1, 6-3.
Ameline later advanced to win the consolation singles title Saturday.
Maule, a senior from Alcoa, is ranked 22nd in the country.
of their two victories over Creighton. If both teams won their first two games of the conference tournament, it would set the stage for a rematch of last year’s championship game.

Red-hot Saluki point guard Sterling Mahan, who had 20 points and 5 assists, finished the two victories over Creighton and wouldn’t mind playing them again in March.

"It feels good to beat them (Creighton) twice," Mahan said. "We will try to get them again in the tournament."

The Salukis have four of their next six games at the Arena. They are 8-1 at home this season.

Creighton has three of its next five on the road.

Creighton Coach Tony Barone said the Salukis are in a good position to win the Valley.

"I think Southern is clearly the favorite," Barone said. "They are home for our next six games and they are playing well. I like their intensity on defense."

Barone said this was a crushing loss for the Blue Jays.

"This was a tough loss for us — we’re devastated," Barone said. "We thought we could come here and win. And the way we lost it with the turnovers at the end." The Salukis appear to be in a nice position. But Coach Rich Herrin knows their is a tough road ahead.

"I don’t know about us being the favorite," Herrin said. "This was a very important victory and we are in a position to win it. But winning all six games will be tough."

But Creighton and the Salukis aren’t the only teams with hopes of winning the title. Creighton, Tulsa and Illinois State are in a three-way tie for the lead in the Valley with three games to play.

The Salukis (5-3) and Bradley (6-4) are tied for fourth, just one-half game out of first place.

Herrin said the Valley is up for grabs.

body’s race.

"You still have Tulsa, Creighton, Bradley — we’re all in there," Herrin said. "We have six games left. We’ll just have to take one at a time."

Junior forward Rick Shipley, who scored 20 points and was 4-4 from three-point range, said the Salukis’ fate is up to them.

"I think we put ourselves in a good position," Shipley said. "It’s up to us to finish the drive."

Despite the Salukis’ two victories over Creighton, Shipley said the defending champs will remain a force in the conference race.

“They have quality players throughout their bench,” Shipley said. “When one guy sits down, another guy comes in and does the job. And Bob Harstad is definitely one of the best players we’ve seen this season.”

"We feel good about the way the situation is," Mahan said.

Shipley and McSwain again mimicked their on-court chemistry as one situation on the Dawgs next two possessions but the Bluejays failed to turn the misses into points.

After McSwain’s second miss, Gallman committed a lane violation.

The possession started with McSwain taking the first and the second and an 80-74 Saluki lead. McSwain scored the Salukis’ final six points from the free-throw line.

The offensive keys for the Salukis were free-throw shooting and long-range bombing. The Dawgs converted 23 of 37 shots (62 percent) from the line and 9 of 13 (69 percent) from behind the 3-point line.
