Athletics Report Nears Final Test

By John Epperheimer

Three major advisory groups have completed their recommendations on the future of intercollegiate athletics, and the fourth and most important group may be considering the question soon.

The Graduate Council and the Faculty Council have voted against the Report of the Athletics Study Commission, a special group which surveyed the future of intercollegiate athletics at Southern. The Commission's report listed alternate means of upgrading the athletics program.

The Student Senate unanimously recommended that student activity fees be increased $3.50 to provide 270 NCAA scholarships and upgrade athletics.

The University Council, top advisory group to President Morris and the Board of Trustees, will probably consider the matter soon.

No date has been set for the meeting, it is understood. But Morris will return from a world trip on Feb. 1 and the Board of Trustees is due to act on the matter of athletics at its meeting Feb. 19.

The Intercollegiate Athletics Committee, a standing group composed of student, faculty and staff which advises the University administration and the athletics director, has voted unanimously in support of the Study Commission report.

Robert MacVicar, acting president, could call a meeting of the University Council in Morris' absence, but it is not clear whether he will do so. He was not on campus Thursday. Also out of town was Roland Keene, secretary to the University Council.

The Board of Trustees has agitated at its last two meetings for athletics recommendations from the administration. MacVicar had promised action by February and said he would solicit opinions from the advisory groups mentioned above.

'Change in Detail'

Several Purposes Seen in Ruling

The latest proposal for housing for underclassmen which was presented to the Student Senate by Wilbur Moulton, dean of students, Wednesday, hopefully would serve several purposes.

The plan would provide more supervision for younger students, make more apartments available for upper-class, graduate and married students, and help alleviate some of the financial hardship of the conventional dormitory units which constitute part of the housing surplus, Moulton said.

According to Moulton, the plan is not to attempt chasing upperclassmen out of these dorms and leave them with under-class residents. "The ideal situation is to have all class levels represented in these dorms," he said.

There are no restrictions for graduate and married students and the new plan would not change this.

Moulton calls the change, should it be approved by SIU President Delyte W. Morris, one of detail rather than policy.

Gus says the proposed overpass will be located so far south that students won't just walk to campus; they'll migrate.

Tracks-Highway Underpass Would Scrub Bridge Plan

Plans for the often-delayed overpass over Rt. 51 and the Illinois Central tracks apparently are being scrapped in favor of an underpass.

John Rendleman, vice president for business affairs, and John Lonergan, associate University architect, confirmed Thursday that plans are proceeding for the underpass, to be located south of the University power plant.

Lonergan said the access road to the underpass on the west side of Rt. 51 would be an extension of a service drive which runs in front of the tennis courts northeast of the Arena.

He added that the underpass would have several advantages over an overpass. It could be constructed sooner and less expensively and is not as difficult from an engineering point of view, he said.

Lonergan said the Illinois Central evidently will do much of the work for the underpass, which will combine pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

Cost of the underpass would probably be $75,000 to $100,000 as opposed to a cost of $340,000 for the overpass, Lonergan said.

The underpass could reduce vehicle traffic on Grand Avenue, currently a bottleneck where it enters campus, to as little as 10 per cent of its current volume, Lonergan estimated.

Both Lonergan and Rendleman declined to list any dates for contract-letting or beginning of construction.

Lonergan said much preliminary work, such as soil testing and boring, has been done.

Emphasis in Negro Areas

Keene to Count on Laws

By Inez Rencher

"I can't gear this town on negative thinking," stated Carbondale Mayor David Keene in relating his prospects for resolving some of the city's problems in the Negro community.

Mayor Keene said he believes the salvation of the city lies in the younger people.

"Older people want to stand still, but nothing's in the past; everything's in the future," he said.

Several steps have been outlined among the mayor's plans for improving the predominantly Negro northeast section of town.

"I lean toward the northeast because the problems are more severe there," explained Keene.

He said the bad streets in that section of town will be fixed and sidewalks will be built. The city has received $70,000 for the Neighborhood Youth Corps to furnish jobs for underprivileged youths.

Jobs are also being assured about 50 Negro men who register weekly at the Laborers Local 227 Hall, he said. In addition, an open occupancy law has been passed and loans are being offered to help the northeast residents improve their houses.

"I'm a believer in legislation first and morality second," the mayor said. He qualified the statement by pointing to evidences of national change initiated by federal laws in areas where human conscience and morals have failed.

Aware that men from the Negro community have been discouraged by continually registering for jobs and receiving no results, Keene said a group has been authorized to make sure the men continue to register. Businesses also must adhere to the federal law against discriminatory hiring practices, he added.

"These are the men who are going to improve that neighborhood. By May 4 we plan to have jobs for these men--not at $1.50 an hour, but at $3.60 an hour," he stated.

Mayor Keene also said he plans for new public housing both in the northwest and northeast sections of Carbondale. The northeast residents protested concentrating public housing in that area last year for fear of perpetuating the ghetto situation. To avoid this the mayor said the housing will be dispersed throughout the northeast section instead of being densely concentrated in any one spot.

"When I leave this office, people won't be able to recognize the northeast part of town," Keene declared.

The mayor attacked the negative effect of the "Uncle Tom" and the Negro who tries to "go along with 'whitey,'" as well as the whites who openly and forcefully discriminate against the Negro.

He said he believes the Negro precinct committeeman who in effect used his people will soon disappear.

"I point out that they (Negro men) have to move ahead. They do believe me, but they also realize that I make mistakes. They have to quit trying to fool 'whitey,' 'Whitey' needs some pushing along," Keene said.

He added, however, that he does not believe burning the town will solve the problems, but would instead enlarge them. Head on confrontation in this "struggle for human rights" is what is needed, Keene said.

"I want people to stand for their rights," he said. "Everyone is welcome at city hall."

New Apartment Buildings

New University Housing Lauded

SIU has been lauded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, for its pace-setting approach to college housing.

SIU is now building additional student housing with a new source of financing—HUD's below-market interest rate mortgage insurance program for rental housing for low and moderate-income families.

University officials expect the project, located at the southwest corner of campus, to open new economic development for Carbondale. Nearby, a 40-acre plot of what was once farm land is being considered for development and expansion by SIU and the community at large.

SIU has been working to meet the housing needs of its Carbondale campus student body which has grown from 3,000 in 1948 to more than 19,000 in 1967.

With this rising demand for housing, SIU has looked to the FHA below-market interest rate program for help.

The release said SIU is one of the top dozen universities across the nation which cater to the needs of handicapped students. "At no additional costs, the university will offer 20 dwellings for paraplegic students. Ground floor units, larger doors, grab-bar supports, and showers will be provided to meet their special needs," it said.

Two and three-bedroom apartments are being built to house larger families and provide greater privacy under Phase III. These facilities are being constructed with FHA mortgage insurance financing, the release said.

'Three Blind Men'

Determining which function of SIU is paramount seems to be drawing reactions similar to the descriptions of an elephant by three blind men in the fable.

Students seem to believe SIU is primarily an educational institution. Voters and governmental officials seem to believe the main justification of SIU comes from its facility to serve the community.

Members of some groups believe that a university serves best through its facilities for research as opposed to its educational function.

Wilbur Moulton, Dean of Students, has taken special care when addressing the individual publics of the University to stress that the institution's purpose is threefold: service, research and education. This order is not necessarily his.

When addressing the homeowners at a meeting last summer quarter he carefully outlined this purpose, stressing the University's responsibility toward research and education.

When speaking to students last quarter at a "bitch in," Moulton reiterated this three-fold purpose but accented the functions of service and research.

"Monday night Moulton addressed the SIU chapter of the American Association of University Professors and emphasized the research and education functions.

This is not to say he is inconsistent in his understanding of the purpose of SIU. It does mean that with each "public" the dean addresses it has been necessary to remind each group that its primary concern, whichever of the three, must be approached with due consideration for the other two aspects of the University's purpose.

Faculty members, especially the members of the local chapter of the AAUP, have shown through their endorsements of such proposals as a Student-Faculty Judicial Commission that they are considering student problems seriously.

The Carbondale homeowners, Chamber of Commerce and Carbondale Police Department have shown more and more their concern with student problems.

But, students seem absorbed with themselves and seem to be giving little time to attempting to understand the complexity of the situation in which the administration finds itself.

Instead of a "bitch in," why doesn't someone organize a "think in" which will permit an evening of discussion by students of the problems of the administration in its attempt to fulfill its three-fold purpose?

How much dialogue have you heard among students concerning the service and research functions of the University?

Perhaps concentration on functions, other than education, would help students better understand the role of the administration and the faculty.

In turn, the students' role in achieving the University's objectives should come into sharper focus.

Just What De Gaulle Ordered

Now it is up to President de Gaulle to be magnanimous. One expects from him no less than a proclamation of gratitude to President Johnson.

Perhaps De Gaulle had some justice in his complaint that, because of the fountain-flow of American investment, Europe was becoming nothing more than an industrial colony of the United States. Maybe he had reason to feel that France and the rest of the continent were threatened with disappearance under a cloud of modernization and technology imported from this side of the Atlantic.

That has all been changed. The threat has been dissolved. The President of France can relax.

President Johnson is putting a heavy bind on the extension of American investment in Europe. He is going to strive to keep our citizens on this side of the ocean where, as President de Gaulle intimates, they best belong. We are doing this to adjust our balance of payments, which has concerned the ruler in Paris no end.

Now that his dearest criticisms have been heeded in Washington, that greatness of heart and sentiment for which the President of France is noted should be exercised. He should applaud us.

Broadcasting and Public Interest

By Robert M. Hutchins
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

About 45 years ago E. M. Herr, chairman of the Westinghouse Corp., came to a meeting looking very tired. I asked him what the trouble was. He said he had been in Washington for several days talking with business and government leaders about the future of radio.

I asked whether anything had been decided.

He replied: "Just one thing. We decided there must never be any advertising on the air."

About 10 years later the University of Chicago Roundtable, "the oldest educational program on the air," was suddenly shifted from its traditional time to 11:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Since it was hard to believe that many listeners would stay up that late for a panel of professors, I registered a strong protest with NBC.

I was told that a soft-drink company had bought the time just after the Roundtable's traditional hour and that it had insisted that the Roundtable be moved away. The company felt that it was entitled not merely to its own time, but also to dictate who was on the earlier time. The audience assembled for the Roundtable was not of the size and the quality the soft-drink company wanted in its neighborhood.

The phrase in which this decision was summarized was a memorable one. I was told that the Roundtable was not "a good adjacency."

Within 10 years the advertisers controlled the air.

So much so that later, when the Ford Foundation decided it ought to do something about television, it was taken for granted that commercial television was the mainstream. The foundation put its emphasis, until it learned better, not on educational stations, but on trying to improve commercial broadcasting.

The result was the show named Omnibus. It was controlled by the foundation staff, not by the advertisers. They bought spots for their advertising as they would in a magazine.

Omnibus was what is called a "critical success," which means it was a financial failure. The theory on which the Ford Foundation had begun it was proved to be mistaken. Omnibus demonstrated that nothing can be done to improve commercial television. The Ford Foundation gave up and turned its attention to setting up educational stations and financing a programming center for them.

Radio and television are two of the greatest inventions in the history of the world. They are probably the most important influences in our lives today. How can we give up on them?

It is now assumed that the sole duty of the electronic media is to make a profit for the commercial interests involved. It is assumed that the public interest need not be served by commercial broadcasters.

But they all obtained their licenses by claiming their activities were required by the public interest, convenience and necessity.

They are never called on to show, when applying for renewal of their

To the Editor:

The solution to the seating problem in the University Center cafeteria can be partly solved by the "eaters" and "sitters" themselves without having to resort to any rule barring the "sitters."

First, check your coat outside the cafeteria in the check room. It's free. Why not take advantage of it? Many people using the cafeteria during the rush hours take up two places, one for themselves and one for their coat and books. The check room is sometimes a little swamped with patrons, but a three-minute wait there will free the seat next to you for 20 minutes.

Second, take your own tray out with you. There are, of course, people in the cafeteria to do this for you, but they may not get to your place for 10 minutes after you leave. Taking your own tray out immediately clears that space for the next man.

Next time you are in the cafeteria during the rush, notice the number of places taken up by books, coats, and trays, and not by people eating or just "sitting."

license, that they have actually served the public interest, convenience and necessity. A simple comparison of their claims and their performance would have a devastating effect.

I am all in favor of what is now called public broadcasting. But I am suspicious of the enthusiasm the commercial broadcasters show for it.

I think the commercial broadcasters believe that public broadcasting will relieve them of the last shred of public responsibility.

All schemes of regulation have failed. Successive chairmen of the Federal Communications Commission have had a day or two in the limelight and left no trace behind. The FCC is in effect controlled by the industry it is supposed to regulate.

Let us by all means have public broadcasting. But let us keep on demanding that the commercial broadcasters operate in the public interest.

Workers Need Pay Backer

To the Editor:

In the past, student workers have failed to receive their paychecks on time due to failure of the employers to report hours properly or to processing in other departments.

The policy of the Student Work Office has been to claim no error on their part. Although they admit another department has made an error, the Work Office claims that nothing can be done by them or anyone else to get the students' money to them before the next paycheck is due.

As a result, many students are forced to look elsewhere to meet their immediate expenses.

We (the undersigned) do not feel this is fair to the student worker. We request that some method be made possible by which students in this situation may receive their pay as soon as possible.

Editors Note: According to William French, coordinator of on-campus work, students in this situation are eligible to take out short-term loans through the University. Loans may be made for upwards of $15 and must be paid back in 30 days. There is no interest on these loans.

Fair Is Fair

To the Editor:

So the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) is getting up a committee to review disciplinary decisions of the Dean of Students.

I suggest that the Dean of Students get up a committee to review the grades given by any faculty member who sits on such a committee of AAUP. Fair is fair!

In Communist State

Leader Plays Russian Roulette

By Antero Pietila

To head a Communist state is often like playing Russian roulette; you can never be sure of anything and, consequently, survivors in the game are rare.

For some "the moment of truth" may spell jail; for others like Nikita Khrushchev it means pastoral retirement. One of the best players in this game of survival has been Czechoslovak President Antonin Novotny, but now even this hardcore Communist has been stripped of his power as the leader of the party.

This separation of the functions of chief of state and that of party leader is a step other Eastern European Communist nations have already taken. That Novotny was allowed to retain the presidency (he has led the party since 1953 and held the presidency since 1957) was of some surprise. Many believed that the struggle between the Czechs and the Slovaks and the party would eventually lead to the ousting of this man, who personifies the Stalinist era, from all his offices.

It is believed that his position was saved only by the personal intervention of Leonid Brezhnev, chief of the Soviet Communist party, who paid a visit to Prague before the decisive meeting of the Central Committee.

Novotny's 'Crime'

Mr. Novotny's main "crime" seems to have been his mismanagement of the conflict during the summer with the Czech writers. Economic reasons as well as the fierce demonstration Prague students staged in November apparently also had some effect.

Although Czechoslovakia has not experienced anything like the "Warsaw Spring" Poland had in 1956, the past years have been a time of liberalization.

Cultural life is flourishing, especially the film. Whereas the Poles in the 1950s chose to make their most famous movies about the past war ("Canal," "Ashes and Diamonds"), the Czechs have successfully covered other aspects of life, too.

There is "The Shop on Main Street," a tragi-comedy of two people in the overlapping shadows of David's star and Nazi swastika (scheduled for Savant showing at SIU on March 2), but equally good movies have been made about life in the new socialist society. "The Love of a Blonde," for instance, contains much social criticism under its funny surface story of middle-aged married men in reserve exercises and their adventures with factory girls.

Mnacko Ousted

Some intellectuals were intoxicated by the breezes of liberalization, and the Mid-east war last June proved to be a crucial event as many writers openly sympathized with Israel against the party line. Ladislav Mnacko even went so far as to travel to Israel and was hastily ousted from the party and stripped of his citizenship.

What the consequences of the nomination of Alexander Dubcek as the party leader are remains to be seen. Many people hope that he would clearly steer Czechoslovakia away from the Stalinist past. But some say that although Dubcek acknowledges his nationalistic Slovak feeling, he keeps it within a Marxist-Leninist context and identifies himself vigorously with Mr. Novotny's counter-attacks on the intellectuals.

At the same time that the Hradcany Castle, one of the landmarks of Prague, was the site of hectic meetings, Fidel Castro in this Hemisphere was facing a troublesome year.

For years he has tried to build following for his movement in the Communist world in spite of the fact that he started as "humanist," reigned Cuba for more than two years before proclaiming himself "socialist" and then waited still more years before deciding to renominate his party to the Partido Comunista de Cuba.

Many hardcore Communists still have doubts about Castro's ideology, but they admit that he at least says he is a Communist and has surpassed the Soviet Union in collectivization of agriculture.

He has renounced Moscow's doctrine that there is more than one way to power and is training guerrillas for worldwide consumption. Many Palestinian Arabs, for instance, have entered those training camps after the Mideast war.

He has also tried to widen his influence to noncommunist leftist elements and has not confined himself to Latin America but has educated Algerians, Tanzanians and Congolese. He has staged many big conferences and only last week Havana witnessed the presence of such eminent British personalities as Sir Herbert Read, Graham Greene and Alan Sillitoe, who is planning to write a film script about Che Guevara. The occasion: a conference on Colonialism and Neocolonialism in the Cultural Development of Peoples.

Castro began by denouncing the Soviet Union but now he criticizes Mao Tse-tung, too. Still, he is handicapped by his economic dependence upon the Soviet Union and its Eastern European allies.

The 'Third Force'

Writing in "New Politics" about what he called the "Third Force" in world Communism, Rutgers Professor Robert J. Alexander concluded: "It would seem obvious that Castro and his associates are operating on the theory that the Soviet Union needs them more than they need it. Just how far the Soviet leadership share this view is anyone's guess. A complete outsider might surmise that there is some limit beyond which they will not continue to receive the more or less constant attacks by Castro without retaliating against him."

He seems to have met that limit now as he has declared that this year will be economically gloomy in Cuba. He failed to say that this is mostly because the Russians are not ready to subsidize his country's economy unconditionally any longer, but that was easy to read between the lines of his text.

Aid Offered to Chronic Overweight Students

A course to aid chronically overweight students will be introduced into the men's physical education curriculum beginning spring quarter, ac-ording to Ronald G. Knowlton, assistant professor of men's physical education.

The new course, GSE 105, will offer one hour of credit and will be available to all male students whose needs parallel the course objectives.

The new course will teach diet control and the implications of obesity in a person's health. The mechanics of the course will include exercise, laboratory measurement, and lectures by physicians and dietitians. There will be no use of crash diets or artificial stimulants, but rather a steady weight reduction over a period.

Knowlton stated that he assisted in such a course last year at the University of Illinois. The results of the course were encouraging with students losing 30-40 lbs. each over a 16-week period.

Knowlton stated that not more than 20 students would be admitted to the course which would be open primarily to those students who have a real weight problem.

Interested students should attend an organizational meeting at 4 p.m. today in room 127 of the SIU Arena. Students not able to attend the meeting should contact Knowlton at 3-2575 prior to registering for the course.

Four Artists Shown at Mitchell

After "pop" and "op" art—what?

SIU Mitchell Gallery is currently exhibiting a collection of 12 large paintings by four California artists who indicate a trend emerging from pop and op art, according to Evert Johnson, curator of galleries. The show will run through Jan. 27.

The artists are Thomas Bang, Richard Kliks, Karl Benjamin and Seymour Boardman.

The 12 large paintings are on loan by the Los Angeles Gallery for a touring exhibit being circulated by the Western Association of Art Museums.

"The paintings are generally dependent on geometric abstraction," Johnson said, "with definite and highly simplified patterns of strong color relationships, hard edge forms, flat patterns devoid of texture or brush strokes, and a rather insistent rhythmic repetition."

The Mitchell Gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon Saturdays. Admission is free.

Farm Group Plans Boycott

CORNING, Iowa (AP) — The National Farmers Organization, pledging "no price, no production," launched Thursday another campaign to boost agricultural prices by withholding farm products from market.

Initial target is grain, to be followed at later dates by so-called withholding actions on meat, milk and other farm commodities.

President Oren Lee Staley said the action "is designed to shut down the American agricultural plant until our members get a fair price for their products."

The militant farm group, sometimes called "the angry young men of agriculture," said it is urging its members in 30 states to stop selling grain as the beginning step.

The NFO conducted six previous withholding actions, major ones on livestock in 1962 and 1964 and on milk last March. The boycotts resulted in some violence.

Tons of milk were dumped in fields and streets as part of the milk action.

The NFO claimed some success in each action but processors discounted the claims.

Staley said previous actions have forced processors to recognize the NFO as bargaining agent for its members and resulted in some increase in prices.

"The prices have always been higher after an action than they were before," he said.

Although the NFO claims it has members in 30 states, the actual membership number is kept secret.

New Defense Pact Sought in Mideast

LONDON (AP)—Five Middle Eastern oil states were reported urgently pondering a new defense pact Thursday night after hearing of Britain's provisional decision to quit her Persian Gulf bases by 1971.

Senior diplomats said the highly secret moves, initiated by Iran, have Britain's support.

The Iranians are even bringing such hostile neighbors as Iraq and Bahrain into the picture. They hope to head off another fierce power contest in the strategic area. Other countries involved, according to the informants, are Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

Already Iran has won Russian backing—$110 million worth of arms aid—for an over-all $800-million program to re-equip and modernize her armed forces.

A Foreign Office minister, Coronwy Roberts, returned Friday from the Gulf region, where he has been warning local monarchs and sheiks to expect an early announcement of Britain's withdrawal.

This is due in Parliament next Tuesday as part of a massive package of spending cuts designed, once and for all, to restore Britain's solvency.

Other British retrenchments will include a total military pullout from Malaysia and Singapore by 1971 and a cut, or cancellation, of the order of 50 American F-111 swing-wing strike bombers.

Possibilities of modifying all, or some, of these decisions were under discussion in Washington by Foreign Secretary George Brown and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

All Future First Class Mail Will Go Airmail Says O'Brien

POSTMASTER GEN. O'BRIEN

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Post Office Department announced plans Thursday to abandon its separate airmail service and transport all first-class letter mail by plane.

The new 6-cent rate for first-class postage will remain unchanged.

Postmaster Gen. Lawrence F. O'Brien, in announcing the plan at a news conference, said the department already is carrying most letters by air, but only an airmail stamp at the new 10-cent rate—currently guarantees letters a place on the plane.

The Post Office plans to ask Congress in 1969 to formally eliminate the airmail rate and create a new single-class priority service under which all letters destined for distant points would travel by plane.

First-class mail accounts for about 56 per cent of all letters, and O'Brien said 40 per cent of this is going far enough to be airlifted. The remainder is destined for nearby points.

The plan would virtually eliminate the railroad as carriers of first-class mail—and the industry may use the announcement as a basis for another round of proposals to discontinue more passenger trains.

O'Brien said, however, that the railroads "will remain a vital link in our over-all transportation pattern, particularly in the movement of containers, parcel post and other bulk mail."

The Post Office expects to pay the railroads about $270 million this year for carrying mail, and O'Brien said the department's move toward an all-air first-class system would not affect this revenue.

O'Brien said "very, very little" first-class mail currently is being handled by the railroads and "we have what closely approximates a total airlift service now."

The department expects to pay the airlines this year about $150 million for transporting mail. O'Brien said that although airmail revenue now totals about $114 million he believes that the revenue loss which would result from eliminating the higher priced airmail service will be limited because of improved handling.

Romney Warns of More Racial Violence

LANSING, Mich. (AP) —Warning that Michigan and the nation face growing danger of more racial violence next summer, Gov. George Romney Thursday called on state lawmakers to provide for "greater justice and better law enforcement."

"There are citizens organized, trained and armed for violence, riots and civil guerrilla warfare," Romney, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said in his annual state of the state message.

"They are using the latest methods and means developed in Cuba, China and Southeast Asia" and are "steadily enlisting and securing more recruits," he said.

"On the other hand, there are those who are arming at an alarming rate to protect themselves and to take the law into their own hands," Romney added.

The governor said eliminating racial discrimination and human injustice by peaceful and orderly changes is the key issue in the nation's cities today.

His specific proposals, open housing, tenants rights and riot-control legislation, drew applause from legislators and the state's top executive and judicial officers who crowded into the House chamber to hear the message.

Romney indicated he had drawn his conclusions from last summer's Detroit riots, his urban tour last fall and consultation with state police officials.

Almost immediately following his speech, Romney left for a seven-day campaign swing through New Hampshire, site of the nation's first presidential primary, March 12.

Romney's message also sought increased aid to education, a boost in the state's $1.25 per hour minimum wage, reorganization of the state's lower court system, stiffer controls over public employe bargaining and bond issues to help finance cost of protecting the state's natural resources.

Library Posts Fire Signs

Some 60 signs explaining fire escape procedures have been posted throughout Morris Library.

The need for explanation of evacuation procedures was demonstrated during a false alarm in the building Monday morning.

Harold J. Rath, special services librarian, reported that signs on all seven floors of the library state that a series of intermittent low pitch blasts calls for building evacuation.

According to Rath, one blast would indicate a fire report from the basement; two blasts would indicate fire on the main floor, and so on with eight blasts indicating fire on the seventh floor.

A short series of buzzes following the intermittent low pitch blasts would indicate location of the fire on a particular floor.

Persons on basement to third floors are instructed to use stairwells when making their exit while those on the upper floors are instructed to use elevators and stairwells.

Advocates 'Freeze-Wait-Reanimate' Method

Convo Speaker Calls Dying 'Obsolete'

Dying is obsolete and people who insist on dying today are old-fashioned, according to an advocate of freezing the newly dead who spoke at Freshman Convocation Thursday.

Robert C. W. Ettinger, author, high school physics teacher and leader of the "freeze-wait-reanimate" movement, stated there is substantial evidence that people frozen, even today, will some day revive. Ettinger said that many lower forms of life, as well as cells and tissues from the human body, have been frozen and revived.

Ettinger stated that several persons already have been frozen after clinical death. This freezing of human beings is legal in the United States.

Although we cannot bring the future to the patient, we can, at least, bring the patient to the future by freezing him in liquid nitrogen, Ettinger said.

Ettinger, who believes there is much evidence and reasoning behind this program, stressed the importance of its consideration. "I consider it the moral duty of everyone to consider this decision," he said. We cannot guarantee that those frozen will be revived, but we can guarantee that those who die and are not frozen will not be revived, he said.

"We speak not of renewing or restoring life, but of extending it," Ettinger said. In addition to extending life Ettinger believes this process relieves the family of grief and instills new hope in the patient.

Ettinger stressed the need for immediate action in this movement. If too many people decide to wait, the time for getting fully perfected methods will be delayed, he said. Although more help is appearing in this field, Ettinger said, we still need the assistance of additional scientists, physicians and undertakers.

According to Ettinger, the cost of the process if between $13,000 and $15,000. Because of its ultimate value, and because most people could finance it through insurance, it is relatively inexpensive, he said.

Student Use of Birth Control Pills Viewed

Clergy Urges Cautious Issue of Contraceptives

By Charles Springer

SIU clergymen urge doctors to consider each case individually and students to give serious consideration to the problems involved in the use and the distribution of birth control materials.

Clergy of the Baptist, Catholic, Lutheran and Methodist Churches interviewed were in accord with a statement issued recently by Health Service Director Walter Clarke who said that each applicant should be considered an individual case.

They called for consultations which would instruct students on the moral implications involved and in most cases whether two people involved in sexual activities are prepared for a full life together.

"Sexual relationships involve many levels of a person's humanity," said the Rev. M. Allen Line, Baptist Student Christian Foundation. "A couple contemplating sexual involvement should consider carefully the complexities of both their relationship to one another and to society as a whole. This is the only way, as I see it, that the far-reaching consequences of sexual involvement can be as satisfying as the contemplated involvement itself."

The Rev. Ronald Seibert of the Methodist Wesley Foundation said to distribute birth control pills like aspirin tablets would be "ridiculous." He said those advocating a new freedom of sexual conduct are avoiding all other responsibilities of relationships.

"Birth control devices should not be made readily available to anyone who requests them," the Rev. Mr. Seibert said. "The entire question should be discussed to determine the person's understanding of the purpose of pills. The participants should be prepared to share the fullness of their lives together."

The Rev. Mr. Line added that the University should have sufficiently-trained personnel to give counsel and advice to any student who needs it. Students requesting contraception devices and information would be expected to avail themselves of such assistance.

"Students who recognize their need for sufficient and adequate counsel should have counsel made readily available to them," the Rev. Mr. Line emphasized. "Then and only then should contraceptive devices and information be made available to any student."

The Rev. Raphael Mideke, a Catholic priest at the Newman Center, said the decision should be left to the individual student.

"It is not up to the University to make a policy that is completely out of its field," the priest said. "It is a question of private decisions and professionalism."

"Ultimately, college students as adults should be able to make decisions which affect their lives," he concluded.

"The Bible speaks of two people becoming one flesh," asserted the Rev. Reuben Barwald of the Lutheran Student Center, "but it spoke of intercourse as a symbol of ultimate commitment by two people."

"There is a need for the availability of birth control methods with an increasing population," the Rev. Mr. Barwald added. "But ultimately it becomes a matter of personal morality between the person requesting the devices and the doctor who has to make the decision."

Korea on Economic Surge, Foreign Grad Students Say

After seven years of economic chaos, Korea today has a rapidly growing economy and hopes to be self-supporting by 1970, according to Eun Ho Lee, graduate student in government.

Lee and Sun Jean Choe, also a graduate in government, addressed the 9639th Air Force Reserve Squadron Wednesday evening. Their topic was "Korea Today."

"The structure of government in Korea is the best one in the world," Lee said. "We selected the good points from the governments of the United States and Britain."

"We are greatly indebted to the U.S.," he said.

SIU Faculty Members

Attend Science Meet

Donald M. Miller, assistant professor of physiology, read a paper at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) in New York City Dec. 26-31.

Miller, who specializes in protoplasmic movement, presented a paper Dec. 29 on "Potentials Recorded for a Slime Mold Plasmodium."

Attending the meeting from SIU are Leslie Olah, professor of botany and William C. Ashby, associate professor of botany.

Under this democracy, the educational system of South Korea has also improved, said Lee. The system is "almost the same as in the U.S."

Every citizen is entitled to a free elementary education, he said. Presently, five million children 8 to 12 years old attend 5,130 elementary schools.

There are 1,200 "middle" schools, Lee said. These are three-year schools equivalent to American junior high schools. About 430,000 students are presently attending high school.

The 70 universities in Korea are four-year institutions except for the six-year medical and dental programs. These universities, the 61 junior colleges and 37 graduate schools, are attended by 140,000 students. There are also some vocational and technical schools.

About 5,300 Korean students are now studying in the United States, Lee said.

Program Change Simplified

"Ulcer Dept." reads a sign on the desk of H.W. Wohlwend, assistant registrar, for it is his job to face the perennial headache of program changes and registration that begins each quarter.

This quarter, a new procedure was begun that might remove that sign. In five days, 4,907 program changes were made and 1,046 students were registered under the new procedure, while under the old procedure, sectioning of changes and new students would continue until Thursday of this week.

Officials in the Registrar's Office are pleased with the new system and intend to use it spring quarter.

Wohlwend said that there were a few minor "bugs" in the new central registration system but he felt that the procedure spring quarter "will move even faster."

In preparation for the new procedure, advance registration was emphasized and graduate students were permitted to eliminate several steps in their registration.

Students were permitted to section themselves if class cards were available or they could wait until another student dropped out of a desired section. This was all done without the appointment cards used in the old system that led to long lines and long delays that irritated both students and instructors.

Wohlwend said, "High praise should also be directed to the student body for its patience in adjusting to the new procedure." He also credited the complete cooperation of SIU Arena personnel to the success of the new method.

LEW HARTZOG

Athletic Discord Still Unsettled

SIU track Coach Lew Hartzog has expressed sorrow at the recent reopening of the war between the NCAA and AAU. The NCAA said it would demand that every track and field event promoted by an outside source after Nov. 1 would have to carry NCAA certification.

"Any restriction on track and field competition hurts," Hartzog said. "I hate to see this battle not be settled." "Anything that hurts the kids and their participation hurts the sport," Hartzog continued. "I'd have to blame the AAU for all the troubles." The AAU has insisted that it can not accept joint sanctioning of open track and field events and has steadfastly refused to meet the college demands for certification.

"I feel that this will hurt the caliber of teams as much as 25 per cent or more,"

"The AAU's argument is that the remaining 75 per cent is theirs," Hartzog pointed out, "but this isn't so because all of the top men, such as Ralph Boston, Darrel Burselson, and others received their training in college."

The so-called moratorium on sanctioning non-NCAA track and field meets has been in effect since August, 1965. Since that time there has been a double sanction on meets sponsored by the AAU.

A special arbitration board was named by Vice President Hubert Humphrey, but so far no decision has been made from this committee.

"I feel that the Vice President's committee will have to make a set of rules that we (the NCAA and AAU) will have to live by," Hartzog said, "whether we like it or not."

Bargaining Talks Sought by Gordy

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—The National Football League Players Association elected John Gordy of the Detroit Lions as their president earlier this week and asked for a meeting with club owners within 10 days to discuss a collective bargaining agreement.

NODOZ ANNOUNCES THE EXAM PILL

(If you flunk, at least you'll be awake.)

Sure you've used NoDoz to help you stay awake the night before an exam.

But have you ever thought of taking NoDoz to make yourself a little sharper during the exam itself?

Well, maybe you should.

Let's say you're one of those guys who doesn't have to cram like mad the night before. (Even so, you're probably not getting your usual amount of sleep.)

And let's say the morning of the big exam, you find yourself heading for class, kind of drowsy and unwound and wondering if The Great Brain has deserted you in the night.

What do you do?

You panic, that's what you do.

Or, if you happened to read this ad, you walk coolly over to the water cooler and wash down a couple of NoDoz, the Exam Pill. And before long you're feeling more alert and with it again.

You see, NoDoz helps bring you up to your usual level of alertness, so you don't just sit there in a fog; it's got what it takes to help restore your perception, your recall, and even your ability to solve problems.

In fact, NoDoz contains the strongest stimulant for your mind that you can take without a prescription. Yet it's not habit forming.

Okay, but what about the guy who goes off all term and has to jam everything in the night before.

Are we saying NoDoz will keep him from flaming out?

Nope.

We're just saying he'll be alert and awake.

As he flunks.

Starts Jan. 14

Center Lanes Accepting Intramural Teams

The University Center Bowling Lanes are now accepting teams for intramural bowling starting the week of Jan. 14.

There will be a men's, three man, two girls, and two boys' coed leagues. The leagues will be conducted on a round robin basis with each team playing every other team, including a position round which matches the first and second place team, third and fourth place team, and so forth.

Six divisions are expected to participate with winners in each division to meet in a single elimination tournament.

for the overall championship.

The leagues will be operating on an 80 per cent from 190 handicap system whereby a point is awarded for each winning game plus a point for the high series.

Entry blanks are available at the Center Lanes.

A STRIKE PERHAPS—Erwin Cermak, a junior from Chicago majoring in management, shows the form that helps him carry a 160 bowling average. He'll be one of many to participate in the intramural bowling leagues this quarter.

'Small' Jackson Plays Big, SIU Wins, 63-62

By Charles Springer

OWENSBORO, Ky.—SIU's Bobby Jackson convinced Kentucky Wesleyan that big surprises come in small packages Wednesday night as he led his team to a 63-62 win over the Panthers.

Jackson, a six-foot senior, starting only the second game of his varsity career scored 20 points, grabbed five rebounds, and broke up countless plays.

The soft-spoken Jackson was spectacular from the field, making seven of seven attempts, and 6 of 8 from the free throw line for his total.

But that doesn't tell the whole story. With his team on top 61-60, and Wesleyan playing for one shot, with seven seconds left, Jackson blocked the attempt, stole the ball and was fouled.

He calmly walked to the free throw line, amidst the hubbub of 7,000 partisan Wesleyan fans, and sank two shots to ice the game for SIU 63-60.

The final total came when KWC called a timeout with four seconds left, to plan a three point effort. Dallas Thornton, chosen to make the attempt, was allowed to go unhindered and the final score told the story.

Not to be forgotten is Willie Griffin who sank a free throw with 44 seconds remaining to put the Salukis on top 61-60.

The Salukis trailed at 44-39 at the 13:05 mark. They broke up the Panthers' zone with a series of outside shots. Juarez Rosborough of Southern intercepted a KWC pass and hit Dick Garrett who put his team ahead 47-46 with 10:11 remaining.

Garrett shared scoring honors for SIU, also picking up 20 points.

Wesleyan jumped out to a lead in the early seconds on a 20-footer by Thornton. That was the last time his team led in the half. At that point, Jackson hit a free throw to put the Salukis on the scoreboard. On the next trip downcourt, he stole a pass and pushed through a 15-footer and SIU led 3-2—a preview of things to come.

Wesleyan coach Bob Daniels declared that Jackson was the difference in the game. He was also surprised at Jackson's adeptness from the field as he saw Jackson miss all three shots taken in the Oglethorpe game last Monday night.

Also at courtside was Evansville mentor Arad McCrutchin, who commented that Jackson was turning out to be a real scoring threat.

SIU's coach Jack Hartman was smiling following his team's win over the second-ranked team in the small college division. He declared "it was obviously the best showing SIU has made all season."

Thornton led both teams in scoring with 23. His teammate George Tinsley accumulated 21.

The win raised Southern's mark to 6-4, Wesleyan's mark fell to 7-3.

The Salukis next meet St. Cloud State Saturday night at the Arena.

Wesleyan Downs Frosh

The Kentucky Wesleyan Baby Panthers broke a tight contest with the Saluki yearlings in the final quarter and pulled out a 64-56 victory Wednesday night.

The Salukis had the lead at the half 31-29 but after a series of turnovers the host team went on top to stay 49-48 at 7:44.

The Baby Panthers went into a semi stall leading 59-50 with 4:11 left to play.

The Saluki yearlings broke the ball control game with numerous thefts and closed the gap to 59-56 with 1:54 on the clock. Kentucky's star center John Duncan, however, hit on a triple to ice the contest.

John Curtiss kept high game honors in netting 23 points for Wesleyan. Duncan and Bill Rosser managed 16 and 10 points respectively.

Roger Westbrook and Mike Hessick took scoring honors for the Salukis with 14 points each.

The loss was the third defeat for the Saluki yearlings in as many outings and left the Baby Panthers with a 5-2-1 slate; the tie being an unfinished game with the freshmen from Evansville.
