Fee increase plan reviewed

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A proposed $5 per semester increase in Student Center fees has been sent to campus constituencies for input, Clarence Dougherty, director of the Student Center, said Wednesday.

The increase is needed to help offset rising costs of operating the Student Center, Dougherty said.

The Student Center fee varies with the number of class hours students have, he explained. Presently, full-time students pay $15 per semester. Students taking fewer than 12 hours pay proportionately less.

If approved by the SIU Board of Trustees, the fee will be increased to $20 per term for full-time students. The board is expected to act on the recommendation at its March meeting, Dougherty said. The increase, if approved, would be effective fall term, 1975, Dougherty said.

Because of increased costs of utilities, salaries and other operational costs, Dougherty has projected that the Student Center will need approximately $200,000 to continue present operations.

He said it is impossible to raise prices sufficiently to offset the rising costs without affecting sales.

Dougherty said the transition from the quarter system to semesters hurt the Student Center because it eliminated one peak business period. He cited the fact that fewer textbooks are bought on the semester system, resulting in less revenue.

Under the Student Center fee plan now in effect, if a student drops below 12 hours a portion of the fee is refunded and the center loses more revenue, Dougherty said. Under the quarter system, refunds were given only when students dropped out of school.

Decreases in SIU enrollment also affect the amount of money in the Student Center fee account, Dougherty said. The minimum Student Center fee is $10.

SIU has the lowest Student Center fee of any state-supported institution in Illinois, Dougherty said. He said Northern Illinois charges students $20 per semester, while Illinois State University charges the highest fee in the state, $38 per semester.

Area employment outlook gloomy

Gary Marx
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Area employment services report a gloomy story for job seekers with the unemployment rate at 5.4 per cent and rising in Jackson County compared to the Illinois rate of 5.0 in December.

"It's been one of the worst phases of unemployment I've ever seen," says Russel Reeves, manager of the Jackson County Division of Unemployment Compensation. "And I've been here since 1949."

Reeves said the January figures are not available but he does not think the unemployment rate decreased.

"We've been getting claimants from practically all the area employers," he said. "And very few of the claimants report finding other work."

Richard Morris, manager of the Carbondale Illinois State Employment Service, said the number of applicants is much greater than the number of available jobs.

The number of applicants has "very definitely" increased in the past couple of months, he said. "We're averaging about 80 people per day (applying for jobs) and I guarantee that is a lot of people."

The federal government has helped ease the unemployment situation in Carbondale by providing funds to create jobs. Money is allocated to the states which then channel the funds to local areas which need it most.

Jackson County received $123,187 in fiscal years 1974 and 1975 under Title II of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) which created 17 new jobs in public service.

Scott Ratter, personnel director for Carbondale, said Tuesday all 17 of the jobs will be filled by the end of this week.

Title VI, an amendment to CETA just coming into effect, will provide Jackson County with $67,533 to fill public service jobs.

"These are jobs which could not be filled by the county or the municipalities because of budget restraints," Loren Van Horn, regional manager of the Illinois State Employment Service, explained.

Van Horn said these jobs will be funded for one year only but most probably will become permanent positions.

"The idea is to absorb the individual into the payroll, after we get over this hard time," he said. "The maximum pay for these positions will be $10,000 and the individual will receive all the fringe benefits given to regular employees in comparable positions except retirement."

All applicants for these jobs must go through the local employment service, he added.

"This will take about a week," he said.

Other provisions of CETA provide for the subsidizing of employers who offer on-the-job training for unskilled, unemployed persons who qualify through the employment service.

"Here we work with the individual to acquaint him with a skill," Van Horn explained. "Or we work with people who might be skilled but the skill is not marketable at this time."

Auto industry workers returning to this area from Detroit are examples of unmarketable skilled workers, he explained.

Gus says he can't afford the time it will take to get $5 more use out of the Student Center.

Clark's roommate says rooms definitely indicated struggle

By Mark Kazowski and Bruce Hackel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

The apartment where 22-year-old SIU coed Theresa M. Clark was found stabbed to death Monday definitely showed signs a struggle occurred before she was killed, one of the two persons who discovered her body said Wednesday.

Tom Morrell, a School of Technical Careers sophomore in automotive technology, disclosed that he and Ms. Clark's roommate, Mary Kelly, found the body when they returned to Apartment No. 20 at the Ambassador Apartments on East Danny St. Monday morning.

"The apartment was all messed up and you could tell there had been a struggle," Morrell said.

Ms. Clark's nude body was found floating in the bathtub with multiple stab wounds in front and back. A trail of blood from the living room to the bathroom indicated the body had been dragged to the bathtub.

Police are also continuing investigation into the death of Cary Lee Reischauer, a 79-year-old widow, of 617 N. Allin St. Her body, tied and gagged, was found by her sister, Grace Corzine, about 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

Jackson County Coroner Don Ragsdale said Mrs. Reischauer died from "asphyxiation—smothering from the gag."

Ragsdale said Mrs. Reischauer's house had been ransacked, and Ms. (Continued on page 3)

Survey results help political reassessment

Credibility key to better communication

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

If surveyed opinions of 61 SIU political science students are representative of SIU students in general, the two major U.S. political parties have a long way to go in relating to college students.

That's the contention of David Kenney, professor of political science at SIU, who presented results of the survey taken of his students at a hearing held by a state task force of the Republican party in Carbondale Tuesday night. Seventeen area citizens told how they think the GOP should get itself out of its post-election doldrums.

The hearing, attended by about 50 persons, was the fourth of a series being held throughout the state in an attempt to reassess the party's goals and principles. Several task force members, including Jane Rader of Cobden, conducted the Carbondale hearing. The force is comprised of high level state Republicans.

In the survey, Kenney said that for the parties to communicate more effectively with college students, the students said the parties should send more speakers to the campuses, improve their credibility and address the issues more clearly.

Of the students he surveyed, Kenney said none of them termed the Republican party as being liberal, 14 described it as being middle-of-the-road and 47 called it conservative.

In contrast, 24 labeled the Democratic party as being liberal, 31 called it middle-of-the-road and six said they think it is conservative in its basic philosophies.

Kenney suggested the Republican party "make students feel it is more concerned with their needs." He said he thinks the survey is "very representative" of SIU students, saying their attitudes were shaped by high school and home experiences before they came to Carbondale.

In response to one of the task force members, Kenney said it would be worth the effort for prominent Republicans to speak at SIU. He told the group that President Gerald Ford received the most votes as the likely Republican candidate for the 1976 presidential race, with Vice President Nelson Rockefeller second and Sen. Charles Percy third.

Stanley Fraser, unsuccessful candidate for Jackson County Clerk in the November election, also testified. He cited the image of the Republican party as the biggest obstacle which it must overcome.

"Every Republican candidate (in the November elections) had to live down the tarnished image of being Republican," Fraser said. "If the image of the GOP can be turned around, precinct committeemen could be found, money would be easier to come by, and candidates would be easier to find," he explained.

Fraser said if candidates are screened before an executive committee instead of before the entire county Republican

Central Committee, "potentially embarrassing problems could be eliminated."

Maxene Fernstrom, coordinator of the hearings, said that when all the hearings have been conducted, the task force will submit recommendations to the state Republican party.

Final hearing set for $8.1 million

By Mary Whitler
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Citizens Community Development Steering Committee will present final recommendations for using $8.1 million in federal funds to the city council at a public hearing Feb. 17, Donald Monty, assistant to the community development director, said Wednesday.

The recommendations required the approval of the department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). April 15 is the last day to submit applications for the funds to HUD, Monty said. However, the plans must be ready by March 1 for review by local regional planning agencies.

If the plans are approved, Carbondale will receive the funds over a three-year period. The city will receive $2.9 million the first year, $2.7 million the second year, and $2.5 million the following year, Monty said.

HUD has 75 days to reject the proposal, which means that Carbondale will know if it has the grant by June 30. Monty said Carbondale could begin the programs on July 1, 1975 with the funds being transferred to Carbondale as they are needed.

However, the $8.1 million figure represents less money than Carbondale had been receiving through HUD's Model Cities and Urban Renewal grants, Monty said.

The $8.1 million figure is "the old money in a different form and less of it. We are going to be doing less in the future than we have in the past," Monty said.

When HUD terminated its categorical programs, including Model Cities and Urban Renewal, they pooled all the funds and decided how much each community was entitled, Monty said.

On the average, Carbondale received $2.9 million in grants from HUD over the past five years. The $8.1 million figure is based on gradually lowering that level, over the next three years by $200,000 a year.

Community Development Steering Committee was appointed by Mayor Neal Eckert and received the approval of the council. Monty said the group has been working since October. The 29 active members represent "a very wide cross-section of the community," Monty said.

The committee has been working with a list of needs which the council formally approved on Dec. 23.

The resolution recognizes 15 critical community development needs in Carbondale. They are a need to:

- increase jobs and job opportunities,
- develop city-wide drainage plans and storm sewers,
- eliminate standard sewer housing,
- improve sanitary sewers,
- continue and strengthen health delivery system.

—develop both industrially and commercially,

—improve streets and maintenance,

—study adaptation of existing housing facilities for use by the elderly and handicapped,

—expanded code enforcement,

—increase number of standard housing units,

—provide physical improvements to attract industrial development,

—continue and expand comprehensive child care programs,

—provide educational programs on money and housing management, and —develop additional public facilities including city hall and an east side fire station.

Monty said the committee will have "some real hard choices to make about which programs to fund and which not to fund."

News Roundup

Washington plagued by bomb threats

WASHINGTON (AP)—The departments of Interior and Treasury were evacuated and several other federal installations searched Wednesday because of further bomb threats in the wake of an explosion at the State Department and an attempted bombing in Oakland, Calif.

An anonymous male caller told the Associated Press at midday that bombs would go off at the Smithsonian Institution, the Department of Agriculture and at Interior before the day was out. The Treasury Department received a separate call which warned "the Treasury will up in smoke in half an hour."

The man left it doubtful whether he was part of the same group, the Weather Underground, which took credit for the bombing at the State Department and the planting of a device in Oakland which was found and destroyed by demolition experts as it ticked away.

Those actions were represented as protests of continued U.S. support of the war in Southeast Asia.

Soviets cancel wheat deal

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet Union has canceled the purchase of 100,000 tons of wheat purchased from two American firms last October and is negotiating to cancel another 100,000 tons, industry observers said Wednesday.

Neither the firms, Cook Industries of Memphis, Tenn., or Continental Grain Co., based in New York City, would confirm or deny the reports.

The report came just two days after it was learned that mainland China had canceled an order for more than 22.4 million tons of American wheat.

GM to close seven plants

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors said Wednesday it is shutting seven car assembly plants for a week beginning Monday and temporarily laying off 15,505 production workers.

Cutbacks at three of the plants are in line with plans the automaker announced in December to sharply curtail first-quarter output because of declining sales, a company spokesman said.

He said the other four plants were not originally scheduled for downtime this quarter. Their closings are an indication of even more extensive reductions in January-March output, he said.

Cosmonauts to tour Canaveral

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet cosmonauts preparing for a joint U.S.-Russian space mission in July will pay their first visit to Cape Canaveral, Fla., next week to inspect U.S. launch facilities.

Nine cosmonauts and 18 Russian space officials and technicians will be joined by 10 American astronauts for the Feb. 8-10 session. The group then flies to Houston's Johnson Space Center for three weeks of training.

The Florida visit won't be all work. Astronauts and cosmonauts will tour Disney World near Orlando on Feb. 9.

The weather

Thursday: Partly sunny and continued mild with highs in the mid 60s to upper 70s. Thursday night: Partly cloudy with a chance of showers and lows in the low 50s.

Friday: Mostly cloudy and continued mild with a chance of showers and highs in the low 70s.

Mills out of hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has been dismissed from Bethesda Naval Hospital where he was treated for nearly two months for alcoholism.

The Arkansas Democrat left Monday, but did not appear on Capitol Hill Tuesday and could not be reached at his apartment in suburban Virginia or his home at Kensett, Ark.

A hospital spokesman refused to discuss the case other than to say Mills was dismissed Monday evening.

His physician, Dr. Michael Bohna, could not be reached.

Officials delay food stamp crackdown

By Jim Murphy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A planned crackdown by the federal government aimed at students receiving food stamps has been delayed "at least until March 1," an official of the Illinois Department of Public Aid said Wednesday.

The new limitation, if imposed, would cut off from food stamp eligibility any student 18 and over who is claimed as a dependent on his parent's income tax forms. The only exceptions would be for students who are self-supporting or who come from families eligible for the stamps.

Johnetta Jordan, a public information officer for the Department of Public Aid in Springfield, said the student-oriented rule will not go into effect until a new policy decision is decided on by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, sponsor of the food stamp program. She said this decision is unlikely until March 1.

"We're not enforcing the new rule," she said.

Under the guidelines established for the federal food stamp program, a student may be eligible to receive the stamps provided his adjusted monthly gross income does not exceed $194.

To arrive at the adjusted gross income, a student must first total all sources of current income, including job earnings, scholarship, loan money, financial assistance from parents and any other assets.

The next step involves making deductions for tuition, fees and other school-related expenses, taxes and medical bills. An applicant is allowed to make a deduction of 10 per cent for monthly earnings up to a maximum of $30.

By subtracting the deductions from the monthly gross income figure, a student has his adjusted monthly income. This figure will determine eligibility for food stamps.

Also, the adjusted figure will determine how much a person will get in savings from the food stamps. For instance, if a student's adjusted gross income is $194 per month, he can buy $46 worth of stamps for $36. If the income figure is $125, he pays $24 for $46 worth of stamps. The stamps can then be used as cash to buy food only.

For students who think they may be eligible for the stamps but who have never gone through the monthly filing ritual, Jordan recommends applicants go prepared to the local public aid office. This includes having wage stubs, utility receipts, and expense records that cover the previous month.

The local food stamp outlet for Carbondale is the Jackson County Public Aid Office, located at 608 N. Marion. For further information concerning food stamps, a student may call 457-2171.

Funds dwindling for Academic Excellence

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The amount of money left in former SIU President David Derge's Academic Excellence Program is dwindling, and so is the number of days before the deadline for proposals on how to spend it expires.

Students, faculty and other staff of SIU have until Feb. 14 to submit applications for funding of special projects under the program, in which about $85,000 remains, Dean Stuck, assistant provost, said Wednesday.

The program started in 1973 with $550,000, which the University received as a rebate for money spent on the University House before Chicago insurance magnate W. Clement Stone paid for its construction.

Until this year, the Academic Excellence Committee met twice a year to consider proposals for grants from the fund. But because of the smaller fund, Stuck said the committee may meet only once this year. It is comprised of representatives from all the colleges within SIU and is reappointed each year.

Stuck could not estimate the number of proposals his office has received, but added that most of them will probably come in the days just before the deadline. Stuck said that he has had "quite a bit" of requests for information on guidelines for the proposals.

Criteria for the proposals to be funded include:

—the idea must contribute to the quality of academic functions related to teaching, scholarship, research or service.

—the implementation of the proposal would have to take place within existing space of the University.

—funding recommendations have to be non-recurring.

—proposals normally funded by other means in the University are not eligible.

—no restrictions are placed on the number of persons submitting a proposal, and no restriction exists on the amount of proposals one person may submit.

Guidelines for the proposal include:

—the title page must include the name of the person submitting the proposal, his department, the title of the proposal, the date, and it must be addressed to the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost.

—the text must also include the title of the proposal and a synopsis of it.

—a statement of objectives and significance of it and the nature and design of the proposed project.

—the period of proposal.

—procedures used to evaluate results and a proposed budget and justification for the budget.

—space requirements for the project.

—a statement of why the project can't be funded by conventional means of the University.

Research center hopes to fill gap in training for coal technology

By Jim Murphy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Plans for an experimental coal research center at SIU are "moving briskly," according to Assistant Provost John Baker the man charged with getting the project off the drawing board and into operation.

Called a "Workshop for today" by Gov. Dan Walker last October, the coal research center would provide the training necessary to meet expanding manpower needs in coal research. When plans were announced, Walker said the coal center would "fill the alarming gap between current mining technology and the prospects of increased coal production in the future."

Baker said current hopes are to have a baccalaureate program in mining technology underway within the School of Engineering and Technology by next fall. He said a long range aim of the program at SIU is to provide a master's program in mining engineering.

"One of our first priorities is to work on academic programs. But we also want to develop a considerable research program."

The coal research program at SIU will have a two-pronged approach, according to Baker. "We want to take our energy needs into consideration while at the same time meeting environmental conditions."

A faculty advisory committee has recently been formed, said Baker, that will take over the planning and development of the coal research center. "They'll be busy compiling an inventory of resources and making recommendations on what programs to look into," he said.

"We ought to begin to see significant developments by next fall," he added. "There are already some coal research projects in the preliminary stages here on campus."

Baker said the formal opening of the coal research center may occur within the next month. "We're hoping for a facility in Parkinson Laboratory," he said, adding that considerable improvement is planned to upgrade the research laboratories in Parkinson.

Grandma's stove stolen

By H.B. Koplowitz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Grandma's stove is missing. "Grandma" Reggie Still, 30, an audit student, said the woodburning stove was removed from his van, parked behind Mr. Natural Food Store, 102 E. Jackson, sometime Tuesday night.

Still operates Grandma's Kitchen, a portable snack shop specializing in hot apple cider, sunshine cakes, and granola cookies, usually located between Morris Library and Lawson Hall.

Terri Clark's apartment showed signs of struggle

Clark's apartment was in a condition of disarray. Police do not believe the two slayings are related.

Kelly, a graduate student in home economics education, said she and Ms. Clark had lived together "on and off for the last four years." She and Ms. Clark had been living at Ambassador Apartments since the beginning of fall semester, she said.

Kelly, in a telephone interview, said, "I haven't decided whether I'll be staying in school for the rest of the semester or not."

Morrell said Ms. Clark was the type who preferred staying home to going out to bars. He said once she had finished her required reading for classes, she enjoyed just sitting and Still said he was at Good Breads Bakery, located behind Mr. Natural, baking cookies and cakes for the following day. About 10 p.m. he said he heard noises in the alley but thought nothing about it. The next morning, however, when Still opened his van, the stove was gone.

Still said the stove cost only $12.36, but that potbelly stoves are hard to find. A friend has offered Still the use of another stove, so Grandma's apple cider should be hot again soon.

reading a book of her choice.

Ragsdale said, "There was no sign of sexual assault. There is a possibility, but no sign from the preliminary report."

"Further tests need to be run. It might be a week or two before we have a final report," Ragsdale said about Clark's autopsy.

Carbondale Police Chief George Kennedy said Wednesday there are no suspects yet in either case. He said he wouldn't speculate about possible suspects.

Kelly and Morrell said they were leaving for Bolingbrook, Ms. Clark's home town, Thursday morning, and would not be available for comment for at least a week.

We need it

Thanks to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE), the Student to Student (STS) scholarship program approved Dec. 5 by students in a referendum vote may be implemented at SIU beginning fall semester, 1975. Students overwhelmingly supported the program by a vote of 855-235, and all that is needed now is Board of Trustees approval.

The board must set a fixed fee to assess students who wish to take part. Those not wishing to contribute to the scholarship program can have their fee refunded. Then the total dollars collected by the University will be matched, dollar-for-dollar, by the funds.

We thank the IBHE for declining to discontinue the program, as had been suggested by the Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC) which oversees the program's administration. The ISSC had what we think are lame excuses for recommending the cessation of the STS program, currently underway at seven state schools—including SIU-E. Among other complaints, the commission stated most grants awarded under the STS program are already covered by the Federal Basic Opportunity Grant or other state grant programs. This is not entirely true because many applicants who might fail qualifications for these other monetary awards can still qualify for an STS grant.

According to John Hardt, executive assistant to Student Body President Dennis Sullivan, and the chief architect of SIU's grant program, the STS scholarship is designed for those very students who might not qualify for other granting programs but are, nevertheless, financially needy.

One of the biggest fears of the ISSC is that the program will grow too large state-wide and available funds will dry up eventually. Considering that ISSC's fiscal budget this year runs to a little over $84 million and that the IBHE recommended a $200,000 appropriation for the STS program, the scholarship commission's logic is weak and unrealistic.

If the program grows (SIU-C would become the eighth school in Illinois to offer STS grants), the ISSC could allocate the funds on a percentage basis, rather than dollar-for-dollar. Any amount would be greatly beneficial to students.

While the program is still alive, there are a few possible pitfalls. First, the legislature must approve the IBHE recommendation, and then Gov. Walker must sign the bill into law without vetoing the allocation.

The budget allocation for the STS should be approved. It would help supply financial aid to those students not qualifying or applying in time for the more traditional state and federal grants. The Board of Trustees should approve the program for SIU-C, as it has already been accomplished for our sister campus in Edwardsville, and assess a reasonable fee which most students will approve and voluntarily chip-in for. The STS program is a worthwhile venture and SIU needs it.

Ouch, student work cuts hurt

Mainly because of a 35 cent raise in the minimum wage in less than a year, SIU's Student Work office faces the possibility of cutting back student employees and the hours they can work. While we support the raises, we also realize the urgency in keeping student work at least at its present level, if not higher—and ask the vice-presidents to allocate additional money to fill the gap.

Director of Student Work and Financial Assistance Frank Adams told the Daily Egyptian that he asked for more money, channeling his request through Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Swinburne, to kill the possibility of cutbacks.

Adams said if the money is not received by June 30, cutbacks will be imposed. He added, however, that this kind of thing has happened in the past and the University has given money for student work whenever possible.

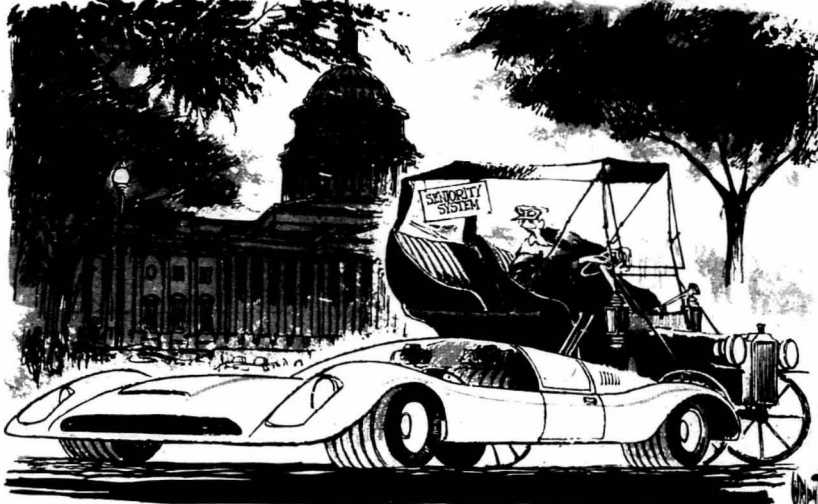

Students working at SIU (they were paid more than four million dollars last year) is essential to maintain or improve current enrollment figures. If students cannot find jobs to help finance their

"SAY WHO TOOK MY PARKING PLACE?"

There's gotta be

By Bob Springer

Doomsday prophets. They bore one to death. Not because what they might say is uninteresting, or even untrue; but because what they might say is so darn predictable. 1975, not even one month old, is already supplying globs of gloomy forebodings—the kind of stuff doomsday admonishers revel in—the kind of stuff they can point to with their scrawny, knobby fingers and say, "see, see."

Take, for instance, the 94th Congress' Democrats the past week in picking their majority-party chairman.

With 75 freshmen Democrats, many elected in the wake of Watergate and promised government reform, the rule of thumb last week was that the old rule of thumb—seniority—was out. Doomsday prophets whined ominous screechings and twisted up inside themselves with horrific excitement. "Oh my God," they pined. "What next?"

You see, to a confirmed doomsday prophet, everything that happens is just one more catastrophic indication of the inevitable end of all. Everything.

And when what happens appears on the surface to be a regression, a moving backwards to what was; why doomsday diviners reel up into tremulous little balls of twitchy energy and prepare to meet their maker sooner than even they had expected.

The Democratic earthquake on Capitol Hill gave our glum gladiators dreaded rapture. It began with a slight enough tremor—someone in the 24-member Democratic Policy and Steering Committee successfully asked for secret balloting of House committee chairmanship nominations.

Suddenly the old incumbents weren't getting the rubber-stamped approvals they had expected. Wright Patman, 81, chairman of Banking and Currency, went down the tubes. So did 73-year-old F. Edward Hebert of Armed Services. So did W.R. Poage, the 75-year-old boss of Agriculture.

Seniority no longer counted for anything but old age.

Reform? That's not reform—not to a doomsday prophet who has been around at all. The seniority system is reform. It came to the 61st Congress in 1910 when reformers threw out the system whereby autocratic House Speakers chose committee chairmen. That's reform.

This shake-up in the 94th is nothing more than a travesty to the past, a harkening back to the dark ages of American politics, doomsdayers squeal.

Of course what doomsday prophets fail to realize is the elemental fact that time does not run on a continuum. That may seem simple enough to understand for us, but prophets of impending chaos are convinced that time began at some point long ago and is going to end at some point very near in the future.

Ah, but doomsday prophets are such an incredulous brood.

$8.1 million: Where will it go?

By Dave Iyata
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In August, 1974, Carbondale received a promise from the federal government of $8.1 million in revenue sharing funds. On one condition are the dollars the city's: Washington must accept a comprehensive spending plan submitted by March 1, 1975.

One hopes that for the sake of the city coffers the plan now in preparation by the Citizens Community Development Steering Committee and city employees satisfies Washington. One prays that the plan will equitably distribute the dollars to the most crucial needs in Carbondale and play no favorites.

What lies behind the dollar sings and the ballyhoo? Since the announcement of the Housing and Community Development of 1974 and its gift of $8.1 million in revenue sharing dollars, a flurry has descended upon this community the likes of which Carbondale has never before seen. It is up to localities to decide where to spend the money, says the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Housing and Urban Development requires evidence that cities, in public meetings, give fair hearings to spending proposals by March 1975 with a completed three-year spending plan.

Eligible spending programs, according to HUD, may provide decent housing, suitable living environments and expanded economic opportunities for those of low and moderate incomes through the elimination of slums, blight and detrimental living conditions. HUD also accepts plans for conservation, expansion of housing opportunities, increased public services, improved use of land, increased neighborhood diversity and preservation of property with special values.

The language in HUD's official statement seems so crouched in vague generalities that practically any spending concept short of outrageous will probably qualify.

Tantalizing thoughts of free money danced before the eyes of the citizenry. Immediately spending schemes heated the air. To sort out the plans, and to equitably choose among the most practical and applicable suggestions, the city council established a 30-member citizens steering committee.

Rev. Charles Watkins, chairman of the committee, cautioned against high-flung optimism. He said that a good portion of the grant is predestined to replace funding of existing HUD programs.

If one scrutinizes the grant, one finds that over a three-year period the annual allocations progressively dwindle. Attach to this a proposed budget drawn up by HUD, and one further discovers that by 1980 yearly funding for Carbondale drops to approximately half its fiscal 1975 level.

This will come to pass should the city fail to find supplementary federal funding. Here the decisions of the citizens' committee play a major role; if its plan suitable impresses the federal government, additional grants to Carbondale may be forthcoming.

According to HUD, by March 1 the committee must submit to Washington a plan containing:

—A summary of a three-year plan identifying community development needs and objectives.

—Formulation of a program which includes "activities to meet community development needs and objectives" and indicates alternative sources of funds.

Will the city spend its windfall funds to improve or eliminate this building on the north-east side?

—A description of a program to eliminate or prevent slums, blight and deterioration and provide improved community facilities and public improvements.

—A housing assistance plan which accurately appraises a community's housing stock and assesses housing assistance needs of low income persons, specifies a "realistic annual goal" for the number of units or persons to be assisted, and indicates the general locations of proposed low income housing.

Prior to Congressional approval, Democratic representatives pointed out shortfalls of the housing Act. They maintained that the Act transferred jurisdiction over low-income housing programs from public housing authorities to private developers, failed to insure cities would actually spend grants on blight-elimination projects, expended eligibility too far up the economic scale and thus weighed against the poor and would gradually phase out funding to urban areas.

Nonetheless, the bill overwhelmingly passed Congress and was signed into law as one of Gerald Ford's first acts as President. Proper handling of the dollars is now up to hundreds of Carbondales scattered across the nation.—all the more reason why the citizens committee must devise a plan which guarantees satisfactory spending of the $8.1 million.

Even committee members have expressed reservations about the wide latitude allowed by the Act. In October, member Richard Hayes, a resident of Carbondale's northeast side, said, "I'm kind of hung up with it, but I'm willing to live with it, as we have lived with other looser federal definitions that have benefited lower income people." The consensus of the committee agreed.

Through the autumn the citizens' committee held open meetings at the city and neighborhood level, and drew in hundreds of proposals. It sagely accepted every idea put forth. In December, it presented to the city council a list of needs in critical, serious, important and less important categories.

Among the critical needs cited by the committee were jobs, sewers, street maintenance, housing, industrial and commercial development, expanded code enforcement, child care programs and public facilities.

The citizens' committee is now working with city personnel on a final spending plan to be presented to the council Feb. 17.

The crucial phase now arrives. The citizens' committee and city employees must work to draft a comprehensive plan for expenditures. The proposal they submit may directly affect every person in Carbondale for decades to come.

$8.1 million may fail to give the city the sweeping renewal many predicted last August. However, if spent wisely the funds may spark a train of events leading to the urban planner's dream — a city without slums, a city for the people.

Maybe a smile can do it

To the Daily Egyptian:

Well, it's happened again. Only this time it was right next door. My neighbor was apparently murdered. Was this killing one of lust, robbery, or one person trying to communicate with his or her fellow human beings? The police have said nothing. I'll remember her as a very quiet girl.

Can this useless killing of one college girl say something about today's society? Maybe, maybe not. But as I write this letter, I can't help but wonder about the people who sit at home watching "Play Misty for Me" and "The Boston Strangler" on television, yet demand that the Smother's Brothers show be censored.

As for myself, I'll try to look up, smile, and say "Hello" a little more often. Who knows, maybe in some crazy I'll help prevent a murder.

Lets not blame the senate

To the Daily Egyptian:

When the going gets tough, to get mad and take your toys home is not the way to change the game.

Jeff Jouett, former student editor, believes that since only a few students voted in the last student elections this is a mandate to get rid of student government. Maybe, since consistently less than half of the people vote in national, state, and local elections, most of these people don't want government. Or maybe it is merely elected government they dislike.

Mr. Jouett is confused. His anger is misdirected. He slings his caustic remarks at student government when the problem is not student government, but a lack of it.

Only a little reflection shows that an elected government is exactly and no more than what you make it. We are social and inter-dependent creatures, and since few of us would have it otherwise, we have to live together according to some kind of a system. That's what government means. And elected government means you can make it anything you want.

The real problem, of course, is apathy. I did not create it. You did not create it. The people who ran in the last election did not create it. And if you look around Mr. Jouett, you will see that apathy is not a phenomenon unique to SIU. A prevailing attitude comes not from the diabolical machinations of a few. These things have historical causes. If you want to point the finger of blame, you might start with economics, for instance.

It is mindless and juvenile to vent anger at the people who are involved in are not the problem. Venting anger at them will not solve the problem.

If you're going to get mad, know what you're getting mad at. Maybe then you can do something about it.

Letters to the Daily Egyptian

The Daily Egyptian welcomes expression of opinions from all members of the University community. Writers are requested to be concise and, in the event the subject has a time element, to bring letters to the Daily Egyptian newsroom as early in the day as possible. The editors reserve the right to condense letters to permit a larger variety of opinions, to correct minor typographical and grammatical errors, and to edit out material that is considered libelous or in bad taste. Letters should be typed, double-spaced, and accompanied by the full address and signature of the writer.

Columbia president scheduled to speak

Lawrence A. Cremin, president of Teacher's College at Columbia University, will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium.

The third annual education lecture honoring George S. Counts, late SIU professor, will be held Thursday night in the SIU Student Center Auditorium.

The title of Cremin's talk is "What is a College of Education?"

Counts came to SIU in 1962 as distinguished visiting professor of education from the faculty of Teacher's College, Columbia University, where he served for 29 years. He authored 31 books and many articles on education, political affairs and the Soviet Union.

Counts died in Belleville on Nov. 10, 1974.

Thursday evening's lecturer has written a history of the progressive education movement in the U.S.

SIU gets grant to research pond oxygen problem

The director of the SIU Fisheries Research Laboratory received a $30,000 grant from the National Marine Fisheries Service to continue research into oxygen depletion in fish production ponds.

Depletion of available oxygen is a major factor limiting the amount of fish produced for market in "fish farming" ponds, according to William M. Lewis, laboratory director and chairman of the department of zoology.

"The Transformation of the School." Cremin is presently at work on a comprehensive history of American education.

A 6 p.m. dinner preceding the lecture will honor Mrs. Lois Counts and Cremin.

Off-campus housing list obtainable

By Bob Niblack
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

If you're disillusioned after calling every number in the housing section of the newspaper's classified ads, the Off-Campus Housing Office at Washington Square could provide the opportunity you need.

A list of available houses, apartments and trailers located off campus is kept up-to-date, James Osberg, supervisor of the Off-Campus Housing Office said. Osberg said about 1,500 to 2,000 available facilities are listed.

Among the duties of Osberg is that of inspecting all University sophomore-approved housing. About 70 complexes are approved for sophomores, including apartments, rooming houses and residence halls, Osberg said. Osberg said he looks mainly for violations in housing codes, but the unkempt condition of a dwelling may be cause for a word of advice to the careless landlord.

The occupancy rate of off-campus housing has increased this year, Osberg said. He said the Lewis Park apartment complex, which usually has many vacancies, is almost full this semester.

Another job of the office is keeping track of freshmen and sophomores living in unapproved housing. Osberg said it's possible that up to 1,500 out of a listed 3,000 commuter students, who are freshmen or sophomores, could be living in the city without the knowledge of his office.

The annual inspections of the off-campus housing supervisor sometimes have surprising results, Osberg said he took an efficiency complex at 507 S. Ash off the list because of numerous violations of code standards. Monday morning the unoccupied building caught fire as it awaited renovation by one of the city's landlords.

More Med School Freshmen

There are 114 medical schools in this country. Last fall they accepted 14,763 first-year students, 5 percent more than they accepted in 1973. The number of first-year women rose from 20 percent to 22 percent, the number of blacks from 1023 in 1973 to 1106 in 1974, an increase of 8 percent.

Health Service offices may move to new home

By Mary E. Gardner
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The administrative offices and pharmacy of the Health Service will be moving to Small Group Housing, according to Sam McVay, Health Service director.

But certain as McVay may be of the move, the rest of SIU's administration is not.

"At this stage of the game it (expanding the health service) is being considered," President Warren W. Brandt said. But also under consideration, Brandt added, is "the improvement of Small Group Housing as student housing."

"No decision has been made at this time," Brandt said Tuesday.

Sources high in the administration have speculated that Brandt would like to keep Small Group Housing as student housing so that the University can offer campus housing to all students wanting it. Brandt declined Tuesday to either confirm or deny these reports.

"The president is looking into the entire remodeling bit at Small Group Housing," David Grobe, coordinator of Facilities Planning, said.

The remodeling of Small Group

Demand is great for graduates in law enforcement

Demand for trained personnel in criminal justice is high in both the law enforcement and corrections fields, according to a study conducted at SIU.

Illinois colleges and universities offering criminal justice education receive "good" or "very good" marks from a majority of spokesmen for 86 police and correctional agencies employing the graduates of these programs, said the study.

At the same time, a majority of the agency representatives said that students should have more direct experience in internships and supervised field work.

The survey, conducted for the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, was designed to find out the present occupations of graduates of these programs and to assess effects of their training on agencies where they now work.

The researchers found that 41 colleges in the state offer one or more programs in criminal justice, including 33 leading to a two-year associate degree, 16 to the bachelor's and seven to the master's.

Seventy per cent of the graduates with no previous professional experience found jobs in probation-parole or corrections, but of those who applied for law enforcement jobs, only 50 per cent were successful. However, 81 per cent of those who were already employed in law enforcement before enrolling in criminal justice courses continued in this field after graduation.

Housing would include changing some of the living quarters into administrative offices, Grobe said.

"The man (Brandt) wants some time to think about it," Grobe said. "The best date for the move I have been given is that the area will be available on the first of September," McVay said.

The space now occupied by the administrative offices at Health Service, on the second floor, will be converted to a gynecology clinic McVay said.

Moving the pharmacy across the street will make space for enlarging the waiting room and the lab and expansion of the doctors' offices, McVay said.

If the dental program goes into effect, McVay said, it will be located in the new building.

Of the move, Rino Bianchi, director of Facilities Planning, said, "that is the current plan." He said the architects are completing plans for remodeling the building. "This is not a big job," he said, but the move is still in the planning stage.

Building 112 will be shared by the Law School, Bianchi said.

Also under consideration for a move to Small Group Housing are the offices at Park Place. These offices include General Accounting, Purchasing, Disbursements, Methods and Procedures, Auxiliary Services, Internal Auditor, Payroll and the Budget Office.

Meet, game on tap

Saluki grapplers take to the Arena mats Thursday at 7:30 p.m. SIU will be hosting the Kansas State Wildcats.

Female members of the SIU Squids wheelchair basketball team will play the University of Illinois Ms. Kids at Pulliam Gym Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m.

IM's set

A team managers meeting for men interested in intramural indoor mini-soccer is set for Room 121 of the Arena Saturday at 10 a.m. Team rosters, available in Room 128, must be submitted at the meeting.

Next on the IM agenda is a swimming and diving meet for men and women not on the varsity swimming squads. The meet, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 8, includes team and individual competition for men and women.

Entry forms are available in both the men's and women's intramural offices, with deadline for filing set at 1 p.m. Friday, Feb. 7. Trophies will be awarded to all winners.

For further information, contact the men's IM office at 536-5521 or the women's IM office at 433-2296.

the halves," he said. When a guy is shooting and the clock goes off, you have to listen for the buzzer.

"Many times I am not aware of the score, however. I don't even know the players' names unless I work for a club for years, and then I learn a few."

For all the hassles and abuse heaped on a referee throughout a game, he is well rewarded. Besides the traveling expenses provided by conferences in varying amounts, most officials, including Rippelemeyer, make approximately $125 per game.

Bifocal or single vision contact lenses can be fitted now with the aid of a computer. Bifocal lens has no segment or line to distort the vision and looks like a single vision lens.

With the use of a PhotoElectric Keratometer called PEK Mark III a photograph of the eye is made. The photo, along with the prescription is sent to the Visual Data Center in Chicago where they are put into a computer. The computer calculates the structure, size, tear layer and the RX required.

The advantage of the lens is usually more comfort and longer initial wearing time.

Ref cites tough rules

By Dave Wiecek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer
Second of a two part series.

One of the hardest calls to make in college basketball, according to Ray Rippelmeyer Jr., an NCAA official and former SIU student, is the offensive or defensive charges.

Rippelmeyer explained, "Mainly, it is a judgement call, and it is always different from different angles. Most times both men are moving, so that makes it harder, too."

He said that the "rules people" have said in the past that the defensive man has been cheated and the guy with the ball has been given more leniency.

"Now, anytime the offensive man has the ball, he must be aware of a guy jumping out in front of him or positioning himself in front of the offensive man," the official said.

"The way this is ruled is the defensive man must have his feet on the floor before the offensive man makes any contact with him, otherwise it would be a foul on the defensive man."

This, also, is a judgement call, as are most fouls, but Rippelmeyer said there are some other guidelines that make the charging infraction a little easier.

"If the man with the ball fakes out the defensive man or in some way starts to get around the defender and gets his head and shoulder by him, the defensive man is required to pull back his leg to prevent trapping, holding or whatever he might do to contain the man," he said. "If he doesn't pull back, the defensive man is charged with the foul."

Simply put, the defensive man must keep the man he is guarding in front of him.

One theory or rule that is often misinterpreted is the so-called no harm, no foul rule. When asked about this, Rippelmeyer said it was a "tough question to answer."

"I try to call every game the same, whether it be high school or college," he remarked.

"There is a difference in the way a game must be called on different levels, and Rippelmeyer said the two levels are distinguished by the physical changes.

"In college," he related, "the players are bigger in size, quicker and have more ability to handle the ball. This has an effect on how the game is called."

"As a result, he said, there is more contact on the college level, and it is not called in every situation. An example that he pointed out was the legal "pick" or "screen".

He said, "The defensive man can run into a pick and hit the man hard enough to put him in the first row of bleachers, but if the defensive man stops after he hits the pick, no foul is called. However, should that man take another step or two in an effort to follow his man, then it's a foul."

He cited another call that sometimes fans are not aware of and usually think is a bad play when a foul isn't called.

"In college, if a man is dribbling downcourt and then picks up his dribble and causes the defensive man to run into him, it is not a foul on the defense, unless he caused the offensive man to travel or lose the ball."

Certainly, referees do not like to toot their whistles at violators of the rules, but it is their job and, believe it or not, some refs don't like to make certain calls.

"Having to call a technical foul on someone who did not raise their hand when called for a foul, I hated to make that call," expressed Rippelmeyer.

"Sometimes a guy just wouldn't raise his hand because he was mad at himself," he explained. "If he was not doing it to challenge your call, then it was something else. (That rule has since been dropped from the rule books.)

Another call he disliked and still does is calling a technical before the start of a game because someone dunked the ball during warm-ups. He said making the call would change the whole complexion of the game.

Referees have their own ideas, just like anyone else, on what the rules should be. Rippelmeyer is an advocate of the 30-second clock. The Big Eight conference now uses it for all conference games.

"The clock would be a good idea," Rippelmeyer suggested. "It gives the game more movement because you have to shoot more, and it makes for a better game. The Big Eight officials really like it."

Many referees claim to be unaware of the time left in the game and what the score is. This is not exactly the case with Rippelmeyer. The pitching coach described what

Georgia Gems sparkle in 91-61 win

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

For a half, it appeared the Salukis didn't know they were back home.

Halfway through the second stanza the Redbirds probably wished they, themselves, had stayed at home.

SIU, returning home for the first time in four weeks, took 20 minutes to get rolling, then steamrolled the offenseless Illinois State Redbirds after intermission enroute to a 91-61 revenge romp.

The Georgia Gems, Mike Glenn and Corky Abrams, sparkled simultaneously as they never had before in a second half that had to rank among the Saluki alltime great ones. The final count in the second half was 59-29, with Glenn sinking 16 and Abrams 15.

In all, Glenn matched a career high with 29 and Abrams set a personal record with 20.

The sudden turnaround came without center Joe C. Meriweather, who exited from the court with the Dogs up by just five, 46-41. But his replacement, Charlie Hughtlett, didn't let his mates down, and the other four starters perked up.

Abrams started it with a jumper from the lane, and Perry Hines followed with two free throws and a fadeaway 15-footer. Redbird center Cyrus Mann, who totally outplayed Meriweather for the second time this season, hit a 12-footer, but then the visitors didn't tally again for almost six minutes.

In that stretch, Glenn bagged three buckets, Ricci had four points, and Hines, Hughtlett and Abrams added a pair of points for the 62-43 lead.

The hot hand which SIU held for all but the last game of its road trip returned after intermission, throwing into disarray a Redbird defense that had seemed so superior in the first half. The Dogs hit 26 of 39 second half shots for an incredible .667 mark, completing their eighth game in the last 10 with a better than 50 per cent mark, this one 54 per cent.

The Salukis defense was equally as devastating.

"The key to the defense was that we didn't let the point man handle the ball a lot so he could make easy passes," Lambert said. "We decided to go out and pressure him, and that did it. "Of course, we did a better job of containing Whitlow and Hawkins," he added. "The second half, you couldn't ask for better basketball; it was just super. After the layoff (prior to Monday's game), we were lucky to get by that first half."

Glenn stole the show late in first half and continued after intermission to total 14 of 17 shots from the field. While he was totaling 29 points, Redbird guard Rick Whitlow was falling from his 51 last time to 15 on the second try.

"Mike is an extremely bright player," Lambert said. "He's learned what he can do, and he's not reluctant to do it. His game today was pretty hard to beat—good defense, seven assists, it was one of his better performances."

"Teams come up against us and they know what they have to do—shut off Meriweather and Glenn," he said, concerning Abram's performance. "If they do that, the other guys are going to score. I'd like to see Abrams score 20 points every time."

For the most part, the first half was as barren of excitement as summer workout. Both teams came out misfiring—when they managed to get off a shot—and the margin never exceeded four points.

Illinois State held the upper hand most of the way, with Mann dominating Meriweather throughout the first stanza. Mann, who held Meriweather to four second half points in the first encounter between the two teams, entered with five minutes expired this time and blanked him until intermission.

Meanwhile, the Redbird center was showing some offense of his own, scoring 10 points to lead the team scoring. That helped pick up the slack for Whitlow, who was held to eight in the first half.

"This is the first time he ever lost his temper," Lambert remarked, explaining Mann's dominance of the SIU center. "The most important thing is that Joe usually keeps his cool."

Meriweather almost squared off with Redbird Bubbles Hawkins in the first half.

Mann clearly dominated Meriweather throughout the battle, undoubtedly stunning seven pro scouts who had assembled to view the latter's talents. Mann finished with 22 points with a 50 per cent shooting mark, while Meriweather struggled to a total of eight. Neither blocked a shot.

The momentum started to swing toward the hosts in the final three minutes of the first half when Glenn crammed in a quick lesson on how to control a game. He canned four straight field goals and a free throw to push the Salukis into a brief 32-30 lead, before Whitlow hit a 20-footer with 10 seconds left for a 32-all halftime deadlock.

The Salukis lead was their first since an 11-9 margin gained on a Ricky Boynton drive just over six minutes into the game. That was one of three SIU leads

(the other, 9-7), until the second half charge.

Saturday the Salukis host West Texas State, whom they already victimized once this year. That, however, was by the slimmest of margins, 63-62.

Game time is 7:35 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Arena Ticket Office.

Bears draw blend in draft

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears tapped a blend of offensive and defensive players Wednesday as the National Football League's annual draft wound up in New York.

After Tuesday's opening seven-round session in which Chicago grabbed touted running back Walter Payton of Jackson State in the first round, the Bears made linebacker Joe Harris of Georgia Tech their eighth-round pick.

They took 6-5, 265-pound Roger Stillwell, Stanford defensive tackle, in the ninth round and guard Mike Julius of St. Thomas, a 242-pounder, in the 10th round.

The Bears had hoped to unveil the 5-10, 208-pound Payton at a press conference Wednesday, but their No. 1 pick stayed in Jackson, Miss., Tuesday night to concentrate on his school work.

Coach Bob Hill of Jackson State reported to Bear General Manager Jim Finks that Payton, the NCAA's career scoring leader with 464 points, changed his mind about flying to Chicago after a chance meeting at the airport with a school academic dean.
