SIU to answer sex discrimination charges

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU has until Friday to submit a response to sex discrimination charges made by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) in the Marita Canam-Amoros case.

When the case came before the National Labor Relations Board in December, legal counsel said the response would be filed within a few days. Counsel for the student union in Washington, D.C., and the HEW general counsel in Chicago.

President Warren W. Brandt said Tuesday, "We're going to present evidence indicating that we're not guilty of the sex discrimination charges." He said the complaint was "contrary to the evidence presented to the board of review." He added that the file contained "a notice of proposed ineligibility" during a meeting with HEW officials in Washington, D.C., Jan. 16.

HEW could lose $3 million in federal funds as a result of its failure to settle the case. Brandt said he does not expect the federal funds to be stopped.

Huffman said the hearing will be heard at the HEW hearing clerk in Washington, D.C., and the HEW general counsel in Chicago.

The evidence will then be reviewed by an administrative hearing officer 30 days after the University's response to the charges, he said. The hearing officer could request additional time if needed, Huffman added.

The hearing officer will then submit his findings to a three-person HEW panel, Huffman explained, which will conduct its own review of the case sometime this spring or summer.

HEW administrative appeal will submit its findings to the secretary of HEW. After review by the HEW secretary, final recommendations will be sent to the secretary of labor who will decide whether SIU should lose its federal funding.

Huffman and Brandt said the case may not continue to the final levels if SIU and the federal government can agree on a settlement.

"A decision at any point of the process could be a final decision of both parties that the University and the federal government agree to it," Brandt said. Brandt said the entire process will take "a number of months," possibly as long as two years.

Huffman declined to comment how much money SIU is offering for a settlement of the case, but said the University "felt the government was asking for too much." In a memo Brandt sent to SIU faculty and staff last week about the Canam-Amoros case, he said that the Department of Labor is unwilling to approve SIU's latest offer for settlement of the case. SIU's latest offer is "significantly above" the amount requested by HEW in 1973 for settlement of the case, the memo said.

Canam-Amoros filed a complaint with HEW in 1971 charging that she was denied equal pay, a research award or teaching assignment in the summer of 1971, was denied charges in her sabatical leave and that her resignation from the School of Engineering and Technology was used to deprive her of SIU employment—albeit because of her sex.

Canam-Amoros also filed a complaint with the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission. A hearing on that case is expected this spring.

New Diggle executive assistant named

By Mike Springton
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Douglas Cooper, a design major specializing in urban design, was named an executive assistant to the student president Tuesday.

Cooper replaces John Harlot, who requested the six-month break for academic reasons.

A member of the Carbondale Community Development Corporation Steering Committee, Cooper said he became interested in government when he realized most urban design planning decisions are political decisions. "I felt some of my ideas as a potential urban planner could come through if I became involved in student government," Cooper, a junior, said.

Student President Doug Diggle said of Cooper's appointment, "Doug is very interested in working up here. He's willing to spend the time and is bright enough to pick up on the criteria we have here.

Bobbi Tally, Diggle's other executive assistant, said that Cooper's unsuccessful bid for a Student Senate seat in a 1972-November's election first brought him to the attention of Student Government.

"I was very impressed with his campaign for the Student Senate and by the way he presented himself and some of the issues. He was very concerned with student welfare and felt that he would be willing to put the time in for working with students," Tally said.

Cooper will probably be working on the student attorney program, Student-to-Student program and the Association of Illinois Student Governments as well as any of his own projects, Tally said.

Cooper said he intended to remain active on the Community Development Steering Committee.

"I'd like to work for student involvement in city affairs," Cooper said. "I should set the precedent by being on the committee myself."
Diggle enrolled as undergrad, remains student president

Doug Diggle has enrolled as an undeclared major in chemistry sciences for spring semester, which will allow him to finish out his term as student president.

Diggle had been placed on academic suspension for the first 10 semester hours while handling his executive duties. "I think we've ironed out a lot of the internal problems where I was handling too much," said Diggle. "This is a trend that will continue in the last election because we have a lot of work to do."

Controversy had surrounded Diggle's duties as student president because of the lack of provision in the SIU Student Government Constitution stating that a student president has to be enrolled as a student.
Faculty Senate endorses redefinition plan

By Kathleen Takeda
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Faculty Senate Tuesday endorsed a proposal to change the titles of certain administrative units, which has been suggested by professional people employed by the University. The recommendations by administrators are to be presented to the SIU Board of Trustees for action at its Feb. 6 meeting in Carbondale.

The current SIU Code of Policy restricts the adjunct title to individuals who are not employees of the University.

President Warren W. Brandt told the senate that other public universities in the state are considering the proposal that may result in the renaming of the Saluki Stadium at its former location on Champaign Street.

Bev Crenley, student senate pro tem, in writing the proposal which he plans to submit to President Warren Brandt said: "The names were selected in 1969 and closed because of financial reasons. The SIU Foundation is paying $35,000 per year to buy the land on a 10-year lease which is presently not in use. In the past, the plan was to use the property for parking and recreation, but Crenley said: "A 10-year lease is not the same as a 10-year lease."

A recommendation made by Crenley suggested that the property be used for the sale of residential and commercial purposes. The property is located on 11th Street near the former University of Illinois Hospital. The property is now divided into two different areas.

A report by the Burnside Community Development Board would be presented to the city council Feb. 2 at the city council chambers.

The Student Trustee (STT), grant program was established to provide a grant program to "Late Day". The STT program provides students who have been previously involved in student activities with an opportunity to receive grants for academic purposes. The grant program provides a maximum of $5,000 per semester. Students who receive grants from STT are not eligible to receive grants from the Student Government Association. The grant program is designed to provide financial assistance to the students who are in need of financial aid.

Council reviews development budget

By Terri Bradford
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A $13 million ceiling on the construction budget for fiscal year 1987-88 was reviewed by the Carbondale City Council this week. The budget was approved by the city council on Tuesday.

The budget includes $10 million for the new SIU Student Center and $3 million for the new SIU Medical Center. It was approved by the city council on Tuesday.

Several recommendations were made by the city council. The city council recommended that the student center be built on the site of the former SIU Hospital. The budget includes $2 million for the SIU Hospital and $3 million for the new SIU Medical Center.

Other recommendations include the establishment of a community college, the construction of a new academic building, and the establishment of a new residence hall.

Black expression in short supply

By Adolph Napoleon

As a recent entry into SIU's black student population, I immediately noticed the lack of black students on the staffs of the black newspapers. They are the exotics of the community, because they are the only newspapers that are written about the needs of the black community.

very powerful instrument of communication and thought instilled as black and white students at SIU.

The Daily Egyptian consistently exposes its readers to a certain thought pattern, and once we are accustomed to that pattern, we become close to it or assimilate the ideas or ideals of that source.

In our case, understimulation or underexpression must occur in this matter of editorial page and staff development. The Daily Egyptian staff is composed of the students who are the exotics of the community.

Many black students at SIU undergo needless burdens because of our lack of expression of them in a respected manner. When I speak of a respected manner, I refer in this case to the newspaper, not one or two students.

The people are trying to express our satisfaction or dissatisfaction to read the Daily Egyptian regularly. When no input is placed in it concerning the black populace, people in authority assume we are not interested enough in ourselves to express concern.

Presently, the only thing that is expressed is written by the Daily Egyptian, and that is only that which is written by stu...
Rape series pointed discrimination problem

To the Daily Egyptian:

I for one would like to thank both the Daily Egyptian and Jerie Jayne for a recent series of articles dealing with the rape crisis on the campus of the University of Illinois at Jacksonville circuit court. These articles encourage us to see that rape is not something that they did in the whole represent a fine effort of reporting and pointed out two problems, one local, i.e., the absence of adesropriate civil rights protection against rape, and the other prosecution from the Jackson State College's Attorney's Office.

George Weidman of the University's Attorney's Office, Mr. Howard, Mr. Ripple and company, have lost sight of their responsibility as embodied in this principle. Law and order and enforcement have much to do with jurisprudence, the study of what is right and what is just. But the Jackson County prosecutors of-office has retreated from the area of jurisprudence into an arrogant and self-assertive irresponsibility. Aristotle described it best when he wrote: "He who bids the law rule may be deemed to God and reason rule, but he who bids man rule adds an element of the beast." And the victim in this case was a woman who deserves fair bearing from the hands of the court and at the hands of society; for it society has given the female the protects postgraduate which treats women as sub-human objects and causes such sexual crimes as rape.

If the stores were flooded with books advocating the physical debasement or violence of Jewish there would be an outcry about it be it in the New York uring minorities and using them as objects of pleasure or abuse. But the loot of the rape place.
If stores were selling books advocating any sort of segregation or apartheid we would feel reduced. We are not in the mood of being willing to their basic rights because pornography is amongst us in a flood and is designed to offend, make violence against other human beings who do not fit into any "acceptable category"—they just happen to be woman, just objects.

A woman reading Playboy magazine should feel like civilization has come of age. Aristotle in his sexcapade宣扬 pornography. The smut merchants are inflicting upon women a new type of slavery which attempts to hide behind the Bill of Rights while at the same time denying to female human beings the equal protection of the law.
Profiteering in pornography is no less reprehensible than profiteering in drugs or war and the sextists pigs who are responsible for it are a free women's greatest enemy. Women must become more conscious of the fact that they have equal rights.
They must stand up and demand that they be protected in order to crush the smut peddling business and put an end to this latest profiteering of the sexist swine who are involved in it.

Need capital punishment

To the Daily Egyptian:

On Nov. 5, Margaret Ann Burns was robbed of about $55 and murdered. About a week later Clarence G. Whitehurst, who was arrested and charged with two counts of murder and burglary. He went to court and was given bail. While there belly bargaining, his attorney and the state's attorney agreed to drop one count of murder and the burglary charge and plead guilty to one count of murder.
He was sentenced to 14 to 25 years in Menard State Penitentiary. He can be up for parole in five years.
I find it hard to believe that the two women who attempted to kill the President were sentenced to life in prison. I assume that the President is someone special but we are all human beings and created equal. What aggravates me is that Mr. and Mrs. Burns, myself and every taxpayer is going to support him until he gets out. He gets three meals a day, a bed, clean clothes and sheets and 24 hour guards. It is the taxpayers around $10,000 a year to keep a man in jail. This is the price we pay for abolishing capital punishment.

Harrington should be given the word of God and then he should be given the gas chamber or the electric chair.

If we don't come up with capital punishment and a hard capital punishment, murders are going to continue to rise even faster with money tighter and more unemployment.

Meditation can provide tool to experience higher ideals

To the Daily Egyptian:

In order to understand H. B. Koplowitz's view of meditation as stated in the Daily Egyptian Jan. 22.
I feel that I must first of all state that I do not only want to withdraw from "reality." And I'm sure that some people who meditate use it for exactly that purpose, and they are entitled to do so. But we are looking at Koplowitz from the inside.
Gandhi said an airplane may seem like leaving the earth, but did you ever notice that when you're in an airplane, you can see more of the earth than when you're on the ground, and there's self-evidence of how things fit together. Maybe you thought your house was much closer to counter with such a clear view of ourselves to a true experience of unity, which we've built our language on, like the "I"
and the "we." As the whole layout, you can see clearly where everything is in relation to you. And the plane gives us a different perspective with one human being, which is very necessary in a sense. But what happen's is that man has so many bumpers on him by the tine he was 13, he forgets how to enjoy an incredible art, so good that even he himself doesn't understand.

We all have to come to a feeling of unity with each other. We are, in every way, a valuable and important relationship to each other and that we all belong here together. Meditation can show you that common bond. The philosophy of human beings is the philosophy of love, the love of each other. When we go beyond our limited world of details, we want to understand each other then we remember that love. Many people think that beyond our own personality there is nothingness, but what we must understand is that no one has really expensive experience of love to have...love. When we become objective about ourselves, and independent of others' views, of us, then we can begin to understand and love our own self. We can give more of ourselves because we begin to see that we don't have a finite amount of love in our pwackets.

Mediation and window of thought or thoughts...it's a tangible experience you can have. We can try to remember to take it out quotes and concepts we've heard or read, but we can never practically use them at the crucial moments. That's the difference between philosophical knowing and inner experience of those high ideals, so it is very practical in the sense that it can tune you into the streets.

Uninvolved students let world's problems pass by

To the Daily Egyptian:

The six years between 1968 and 1972 were the most explosive years the United States had ever had to face. Not since the Civil War had this country been so divided on its approach to the future.

Many of us "old timers" remember when the University was the primary location to express dissent, our worries, our political policies on the

Today, this campus, along with the hundreds of other American Universities, is all but silent and uninvolving. The college student today, for the most part, seems quite content to look back at the conscious, political people of his older brothers and sisters had shown only a few years ago, and seem quite content with their氰anisms, and letting the "world go by."

The world, however, will not go away and disappear. The world will continue to exist. It will remain with us because we are that world. We cannot close our eyes and hope to see the problems just blow away. Just because we are not seeing them, we may blow away with it.

Can we sit idly by and watch the people of Northern Ireland, Cuba, and Viet Nam suffer from their race being unite... or eighteen? We can...we may blow away with it.

Did we sit idly by and watch the people of Northern Ireland, Cuba, and Viet Nam suffer from their race being unite... or eighteen? We can...we may blow away with it.

Where is that voice now, to call for the Cuban withdrawn?!

The most serious of all the civil conflicts today lies in the Middle East. The Lebanese war may lead, not only to another Arab-Israeli war, if the Syrian Army, and as a result, Israeli Army, enter the Lebanese conflict, but may engage again in the same international in battle, and the outcome of that clash could be devastating...

I believe the liberty, freedom and democracy we have been fighting for has almost been lost. But if all people would be worth the paper our Constitution is written on, if we,
the American people, don't rally once again to wage an all-out effort for world peace. For our own sake, and the sake of our children, we can't close our eyes and wait. If we allow the world to blow up, what will we have left?

American, Soviet, or Chinese sponsored force is no answer to the "three super powers" in the means to the means to calm alliances. Catholic, Protestant, Christian, Moslem, and Jewish religious leaders in the one God they'll need to wage peace and obtain the answers.

As an American, I only have the right to address the people of this country, but if we are not able to the rest of the human race to sit down and discuss, instead doing our own, how far away can we be from the final battle?

Misguided decision

To the Daily Egyptian:

Saturday's Daily Egyptian brought to my attention
the fact that the University's new parking garage will cost the University a fee for a cost of $800,000.
Perhaps because I have not paid sufficient attention to the details of this issue, or perhaps because I had not previously realized the high probability that building the garage was a misguided decision.

While it is too late to undo the error (if it is an error), it may be worthwhile to examine it in order to avoid repeating it.

The parking spaces provided by the garage cost $2,350 each to construct. Assuming a 6 per cent interest rate and a 40-year life for the garage, such an expense is defensible only if the expected revenue per space is higher than $2,350 + .06=$2,482.

The maintenance costs per space, plus the per space land rent, the University imputes to this land. If a 30-year life is expected on the garage then the maintenance and rent costs, it follows that any parking sticker fee less than $146 per year represents a net loss for the University and it is assumed that during the life of the garage, part which buys garage stickers, if stickers are sold to the University and not to the public, then if stickers were sold on the basis of two stickers per available space, the University would have to pay $74 per year to escape the subsidy label.

I urge those who are setting rules for the use of this garage to set charges for its use to cover its costs, or define the wisdom of levying parking taxes on one group for the benefit of another group. If we do one or the other, it follows that the garage was a mistake and we should build another.

About 5,000 tickets are available for the concert as the Arena is planning on using a Force-9 set up. Ticket prices have not been formed yet but Joel Preston, publicity promotion specialist for the Arena, said everyone wishing to attend the tryouts should contact Gary Drake at the Arena Manager's office.

Preston said he is "expecting quite a lot of interest for this show because it is a good crossover concert. We think it will appeal to both the students on campus and in community residences."

Their tour is being conducted in conjunction with the release of their fifth album, "Head On," four weeks ago. B.T.O. is also known for their albums called "Bachman-Turner Overdrive," "II, "Not Fragile," and "Four Wheel Drive.

Byrne said he is "categorically opposed to binding arbitrations." The constitutional right of local control is taken away by binding arbitration, Byrne said. "I would rather see a strike," he said.

Segregation will be a problem in Illinois, Byrne said. At present, there are many Illinois schools that are not within the proper distributions of blacks to whites required by law, he said. Another problem is that "more board members are getting on to represent vested interest groups, not all school children. Because of this school board qualities in some areas has deteriorated," Byrne said.

Byrne also warned against forgetting that "unions exist for the vested interests of their members."

"There is a problem with administration," giving up as most of their powers in return for no wage demands. In the long run, administrators would be better off if they didn't trade off some of their power for bucks," he said.

On the whole "a school gets the kind of union it deserves," Byrne said.

Fads such as team teaching are okay occurring in Byrne, but they should complement the standard ways of teaching, not replace them.

Byrne described opportunities in the education field as good. He told of the dissatisfaction that many education professionals can receive from their work. Getting jobs in the education field isn't that easy; however, Byrne admitted.

At Leyden High School District 212, where Byrne has been superintendent since 1966, "there were over 3,000 applicants for jobs last year from which 21 were hired," Byrne said.

Some problems Byrne sees for school administrators in the future are binding arbitration, forced integration, and school board control by best interest groups.

Women's rights, the problem of health, the war are the topics of a lecture Monday night in Davis Auditorium by David F. Byrne, president-elect of the Illinois Association of School Administrators.

About 130 students, faculty and administrators attended the 7:30 p.m. lecture which was followed by a 20-minute question-and-answer period.

In his 45-minute lecture which was laced with humorous anecdotes, Byrne came out for unions against binding arbitration and for such "fads" as team teaching, with reservations.

"Unions are part of the democracy feedback process," Byrne said. "There seems to be a growing maturity of union membership moving toward the "we" concept."

Some problems Byrne sees for school administrators in the future are binding arbitration, forced integration, and school board control by best interest groups.

Byrne also warned against forgetting that "unions exist for the vested interests of their members."

"There is a problem with administration," giving up as most of their powers in return for no wage demands. In the long run, administrators would be better off if they didn't trade off some of their power for bucks," he said.

On the whole "a school gets the kind of union it deserves," Byrne said.

Fads such as team teaching are okay occurring in Byrne, but they should complement the standard ways of teaching, not replace them.

Byrne described opportunities in the education field as good. He told of the dissatisfaction that many education professionals can receive from their work. Getting jobs in the education field isn't that easy; however, Byrne admitted.

At Leyden High School District 212, where Byrne has been superintendent since 1966, "there were over 3,000 applicants for jobs last year from which 21 were hired," Byrne said.

Some problems Byrne sees for school administrators in the future are binding arbitration, forced integration, and school board control by best interest groups.

Here's what Billboard said when they chose Carole King's Thoroughbred album for the Spotlight (1/24): "When Carole King sets to work on an album the result is generally as this set turns out-a superbly executed effort combining listenable songs with one of the most distinct and best performances in pop. King is the obvious focal point. Singing is stronger but at the same time more melodic. A King LP is always an event."

You'd best not miss this one, folks, 'cause you'll regret losing this rare opportunity to see the Carole King. And now you can charge your tickets with BankAmerica.

Poet pleases Shryock crowd

Mary L. Beach
Daily Egyptian Entertainment Editor

"Poetry is life distilled," said Pulitzer Prize-winning poet and novelist Gwendolyn Brooks as she began her hour long presentation of her poetry and prose.

Brooks read and commented on her own and other's material at Shryock Auditorium Monday evening.

Brooks began each of her 19 selections with an introduction including a brief history and explanation why she wrote each piece. Her material included four pieces by other authors, the reading of her children's book "The Tiger Who Wore White Gloves," a chapter of her novel called "The Birth" from "Maud Martha" and 13 pieces of her own poetry.

Each of her poems was greeted by applause from the 790 member audience. The audience also gave her a standing ovation following her performance. She used her contralto voice to add effect to her already flowing poetry, speaking softly for effect and louder for meaning.

In several of her poems, such as the "Ballad of Pearl May Lee," she repeats works in both the chorus and throughout the poem for additional emphasis.

Members of the Board of Education of Carbondale Elementary School District 95 have reaffirmed that they will decide who will be the district’s new superintendent.

The board held a special meeting Monday night to discuss procedures for selecting a new superintendent to replace Lawrence Martin, superintendent of schools, who will resign when his contract expires June 30.

The board unanimously passed a resolution reaffirming its operating procedure for selecting a new superintendent. Part of the operating procedure, adopted Nov. 18, requires all inquiries and suggestions concerning the selection process to be directed in writing to Donald Tindall, president of the school board.

Tindall said all suggestions from the community would be considered by him and that he would present community proposals to the board.

Members of the board expressed concern that by allowing a committee of community members to aid in the selection of a superintendent, the board would expose itself to pressures from special interest groups.

Board member Charles Reno, giving a speech from a recent Association of Illinois School Boards convention, said, “Even if you have representation from vested interest groups as the screening committee, you don’t widen the involvement base much. In fact, most such committees represent merely the more vocal members of the group.”

Reno said members of the board were the most qualified to select a superintendent because the board is made up of people selected by a popular vote.

“Students to perform opera concert

A concert of opera arias modeled after the annual Metropolitan Opera Auditions will be held 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium. Seventeen student vocalists will sing under the sponsorship of IU’s Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater.

This preview recital requires that each vocalist have five arias prepared, one of which he chooses to sing during the first half of the concert. Following an intermission, each participant will sing a second aria chosen by a panel of judges.

The panel is composed of a faculty member, student, community members, dean of the graduate school Thomas O. Mitchell, graduate student Terrence Barron and area musician Nancy Gillespie of Murphysboro.

SGAC hot line tells events

Dia 530-5506.

A group of rings a hurried but cordial voice will answer with information about upcoming entertainment events on the SIU campus.

The voice is part of Student Government Activities Council’s (SGAC) new hot line service which began on Jan. 19. Students dialing the hot line will then hear a recorded message, about 90 seconds long, giving activity information.

Karen Pevey, chairwoman of SGAC, said the hot line has been in the planning stages since August, 1973.

The service was put into effect this semester to lessen SGAC’s dependence on other advertising sources.

Vvpey said the SGAC service will also carry activity information about other organizations sponsored by other campus organizations. Time permitting, the hot line will carry information about upcoming events for the Expanded Cinema Group, Southern Illinois Film Society, Arena, Conventions and Celebrity Series.

“We (SGAC) feel that opening up the hot line to other campus organizations will give the service a larger appeal, making it more effective,” said Vvpey.

“We’re going under the assumption that each organization appeals to a limited group of callers,” Vvpey said. “By integrating all the organizations, a caller seeking inforamtion about an event will automatically hear about an upcoming SGAC and Celebrity Series event, and vice versa.”

Vvpey stressed the service’s informational aims. “Our ultimate goal is to inform as many people as possible about the choices of programs open to them.”

Full-term Glorp 'born' to senior for $2,000

By Jim May

Student Writer

A half-hour movie film or 1,200 feet of celluloid is all Don Wregie, cinema and photography senior, will wind up with after working every day for over nine months and spending $2,000.

Wregie, 21, has been working from the time he wakes up to the time he goes to bed on his film, "The Glorp." It's a spoof on 1950's science-fiction films," said Wregie. "It's a parody of the old sci-fi flicks which had very bad acting, phony looking monsters, eerie music, bad plots, teenagers, scientists and as many cliches as possible.

"The Glorp is a giant mass of sugary sweetness, a dessert that envelopes or kills naked women," said Wregie. The monster is never seen in the movie, only its buttery residue is shown.

"Pure science fiction has a level of probability," added Wregie, "but the Glorp has no probability.

His half-hour black and white movie is being produced for his C & P 455 and 456 film production classes. Wregie has completed the film this semester. Wregie said he will enter it into as many film festivals with a student category as he can afford with the lab fees. The film itself is mostly for film stock and laboratory fees.

"The Glorp" dates back to 1969, when, the author, Chris Lee, wrote the story for a high school English class. Wregie, who is a close friend of Lee, said back then that it should be made into a movie with all the film techniques like sound, special effects, music and special effects.

It wasn't until 1972, when Wregie enrolled at SIU that the high school dream began forming into reality. Wregie was determined to produce the film in the quality he had in his mind since high school.

Wregie worked with Lee on the screenplay last summer. Lee added more humor and refined the script. The movie has 39 scenes and over 20 characters.

Wregie composed all the music and sound effects on an electronic synthesizer and Lee wrote the lyrics to the songs, including "Honeycom' on Mars." Wregie said, "I'm better at composing music than lyric writing." He added that he did not like his childhood training on the piano because his parents insisted he learn.

"I like to create music but not reading musical notes," said Wregie. "My instrument is the tape-recorder and with it and the synthesizer, I can record and re-record sound and music I enjoy."

Over 20 actors and actresses have been used in the film. Wregie said, "I can't imagine this job but they all like to act and they're great actors and actresses that are the most cooperative people I've worked with.

There are over 20 characters in the film but one actor plays all different parts. The main actors and actresses are: David Jacks, who plays General Wombatine, the war-hawk who wants to bomb the monster; John T. Allen, who plays Bayard, the bumbling scientist; Leslie Green, Bayard's assistant; Charles Roeh, Wombatine's assistant; Doni Trish, the oriental scientist who invents a machine capable of destroying the Glorp; and Rich Whitley, who plays the eight different news commentators.

Since acting in the movie, some of the actors and actresses have said it is a new experience for them. Jacks said, "In a theater production you're continually going off and up but in a film you're working from scene to scene. A closing scene may be shot followed by an opening scene and your sense of continuity is thrown off.

Green, a theater major, said, "Don liked the way I talked so he asked me to be in the movie. I never worked in a film only on stage, and I'm really enjoying it. I like theater but now I'm discovering film and I'm really grateful for the opportunity to be in the movie."

Roeh, a multi-media communications major, said she would like to see courses which would involve students with stage acting and film acting because they are different.

Frank Paine, instructor for the film course Wregie is producing the film for said, "The Glorp has the potential to be a real funny film." Paine said he will advise the students on how to make their films but is available if problems arise. At this level, the student should be making his own decisions without coming to me," said Paine.

Wregie said he had had little or no problem with actors. Two of the biggest production problems were when he received the wrong equipment and had to delay shooting and when the Daily Egyptian business manager chewed him out once for not having enough electrical outlet on the outside of the Communications Building.

So far 10 per cent of the film has been shot and all of the music and sound effects recorded. Wregie said, "I'm working on the surprise ending of the film because the whole thing will be completed sometime this semester.

Wregie added, "This film gives me the opportunity to use all of the knowledge I've accumulated since I was 15 and almost everything I've learned at SIU. It's the ultimate show-off for me. I can put my film experience, music experience, recorded music and animation skill to use. The film shows about everything I can do."

Triple murder hearings set

A hearing on two motions to produce evidence filed by defendants in last Halloween's triple slaying has been set for Friday in Jackson County Circuit Court.

Ronald Jenkins, one of three men charged with the murders, filed the motions Friday asking for police and medical records.

Jenkins, 29, no. 16, ambassador apartment, 600 South First Street, Luther Carter, 46, and Grady Bryant, 33, both of 314 N. Washington Ave., are charged with three counts of murder and one count of attempted murder in the slaying deaths of three men on Oct. 31.

In an affidavit Jenkins filed on behalf of the defendants, he asked that the Carbondale Police Department produce any and all criminal investigations against Lewis and the deceased, and that Lewis's physician provide a medical report stating the reason Lewis was unable to appear in court on Jan. 14 when his case was suspended.

The case is set for a jury trial in Murphysboro on Feb. 9.

Glenn gets a King-ly boost

By Dave Wieserek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Few people would dare compare the great Elgin Baylor with any other basketball player that has played or is playing the game now. Even for a player to be mentioned in the same breath with Baylor is somewhat of an accomplishment.

That's why it was more than just an off-handed remark by a coach who had just seen Saluki star Mike Glenn score 23 points against his team.

Glenn's shooting performance in SIU's 79-78 win over Tulsa last Saturday prompted Hurricane Coach Jim King to say, "Glenn has to be one of the greatest shooters in America."

Glenn's shooting is more than just to comment on the ability of basketball players. He is a veteran of 13 NBA seasons and in that time he has played with and against some of the greatest names in basketball. In 1967 he was elected to the All-Star team. King finished his professional playing career in 1973 with the Chicago Bulls. He also served as Dick Motta's assistant that last season.

Before going to Tulsa this year, King coached the Athletes in Action for two years.

It was a nice compliment for Glenn, but even more impressive was that King used Baylor in an analogy when discussing Glenn.

"Lake with Elgin," he began, "we knew he was going to go right. Every time he went in his right, he was going to shoot the ball. We knew that—but we couldn't do anything to stop him.

"We knew he (Glenn) was going to shoot, but we couldn't do anything about it. We thought we had him out for enough once and he still made it. He was out in front of you wasn't he," King said, smiling wryly at Paul Lambert, who was also sitting in the press lounge.

King was referring to the shot Glenn took late in the game from beyond the top of the key. Lambert was sitting at the opposite end of the floor at the time.

It was high praise that Glenn was adorned with, and coming from King, you could be sure it was not all chatter.

Besides giving Glenn's ego a boost, King also made a comment that can only encourage Saluki fans about the outcome of this basketball season.

"I guess I have to say West Texas is in the driver's seat now, but in 10 days it might be SIU," he said. "They're in good position now."

One of the reasons SIU is in good position with its 6-1 Missouri Valley record, is because the Salukis were able to beat Tulsa at Tulsa. It was SIU's young team beating Tulsa's older and more experienced squad.

"The maturing process shows when you go on the road," King said.

IM cage season begins second half

By Rick Korch
Student Writer

The second half of the men's intramural basketball season began last weekend, and will continue until the end of February when the single-elimination playoffs are scheduled to start.

Last year's champs, the Little Men II, are not entered in this year's league, so the championship will be up for grabs. To be eligible for the playoffs, a team must have a 500 record.

FCA to sponsor basketball games

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is sponsoring a group of basketball games starting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in Bowen Gym at the Carbondale Community High School.

In the feature game, the faculty of CCHS will go up against the members of the Murphy Hs faculty. Tipoff time for the game is 7:30 p.m.

That game will be preceded by games between Junior League teams.

SIU finishes fifth at own invitational

Western Illinois University captured the Saluki Invitational meet Saturday with 86 points as SIU finished with 34. The SIU finish was in the men’s meet and ninth place. SIU ended the weekend’s competition first and second two respectively.

Roland post Kinect 18-12, 15-2 in the championship match.

The SIU men’s doubles team of M. Fatmi Che Salleh-Rusal Salikan was second.

SIU gymnasts place third at triangular

While the men and elite women gymnasts both scored impressive home triumphs over the weekend, the women’s advanced team did not fare so well on the road. SIU placed third in a triangular meet at Macomb Saturday night with 69.40 points. Western Illinois won the contest with 92.30 points and Iowa placed second with 72.90 total.

Bright spots in the match were a fourth-place finish by Cindy Strum in the vaulting with a 7.70 score and a fifth on the uneven bars by Marianne Peterson. Strum also finished seventh in both the floor exercise and on the balance beam to take sixth-place in the all-around competition.

Two Saluki women won first prizes in consolation rounds. Janet Rudenow was first in the E division, consolation round, and Kathy Less claimed top spot in the H division. Second in team scores were Eastern Illinois (78) and Illinois State University was third (72).

Olympian Schoterman aiding SIU weight men

At 6-foot-1, 280 pounds he said he would prefer to play at running back but would play any position. "If I get that football thing, I'll throw everything out the window and bank on that.

Schoterman is a supporter of government sponsorship of athletes training for the Olympics. "Why haven't we gotten something as far as being able to just train" he asked. "The sacrifices the guys have to go through for the Olympic team is just incredible."

He told stories of athletes who take less paying jobs that allow them time to work out and compete, and marriages that were broken up because an athlete spent so much time training and competing.

"We're not preparing our athletes for the Olympic games—we're preparing them for the turnstiles," he said. "They have to be able to walk the halls and have the audience rather than how well the athlete does.

Schoterman's road to being one of the top performers in the country in the hammer throw has been a long one, but he has had solid ground work.

When he was in high school, he had help from his neighbor was Al Oerter, the only man to win the same event in four consecutive Olympics, Oerter threw the discus.

Now he is concentrating on teaching the track and football teams what he has learned.

"I'm trying to give the guys some short cuts I learned through the years," he said.

Schoterman is a firm believer in self-discipline in a sport. "To be great in college or anything, you have to live the sport," he said.

"You have to live your thing to the fullest. You have to make it first, not second. You have to do it every day of the week."

"With the regularity of the program, you can't help but have good results," Schoterman said.

Schoterman suggested freshmen shot putter John Marks and Stan Poduski could have bright futures at SIU.

"Potentially, I could see either of them breaking the NCAA record by the time they're seniors if they keep with the program," Schoterman said.

"I don't see them running off the Olympic trials with weight training," Schoterman said.

"I think picking the team and being at the right place at the right time is important," said Schoterman.

"If I can't get a tryout, then I'll go back to the games. That will be the last time for the Olympics."

Weak cage start fails

By Scott Burnside

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

A 29-point loss is enough to send any basketball coach into a Bob Knight tem-der tantrum. However if you’re Mo Weiss, coach of the SIU women’s basketball team, a little more optimism is the answer. Weiss called Union University, a 29-point winner over SIU Friday, one of the best women’s teams in the country. She said she wasn’t all ashamed over the loss. SIU’s record is 1-3.

“We came out with a 14-point lead, but couldn’t hold it. They started to get it in their big girl and they started to catch up. They had several people who could score,” Weiss said.

“The other team just played better. Union had played 17 games at that time. They’re just so much more experienced.” Before the Union game, SIU had only played once—a 50-point breeze over Southeast Missouri State Universi ty.

Memphis State beat SIU by 13 points Saturday. Weiss said the game was a case where SIU was down at the beginning and could never catch up.

“We’re the only team I’ve seen this year that looked like an NCAA caliber team. For the women, since Grandview Community College is due in for the SIU home opener at Davies Gym Wednesday night. Grandview, located in Des Moines, was cited by Sports Illustrated as one of the top women’s teams in the country. Weiss said Grandview is tall and they play basketball all year. “Anytime you have a women’s team out of Iowa, they’re going to be good,” she explained.

According to Weiss, one of the team’s weak points is “that we’ve been allowing the other teams too many shots.” Union shot an excellent 50 percent from the field against SIU.

“I’m not worried about us scoring, but I think it’s extremely important for us to keep up our defense and confidence,” she said. After all, the Union and Grandview women will be two of the toughest teams we’ll face this year.” Weiss isn’t worried about pose-wise is forward Jan Winkler.

Although only 5-foot-6, Winkler has been extremely productive. Against Union, Winkler tallied 16 points and against Memphis she scored 14 points and grabbed an equal amount of rebounds. Winkler has been the tallest player on the floor and looks to the senior for floor leadership.

A forward, Winkler said she has to compensate for her lack of height by outmaneuvering opposing players. “Driving is one of my strongest assets. I have to get good positions.”

Recently tabbed for varsity duty is 5-10 Denise Kelly. Because of her exploits in the past two games Weiss has moved Kelly up from the 3-4 junior varsity squad.

Against the Union JV team Kelly scored 25 points and accounted for 25 rebounds. Her performance against Memplas State was slightly lower.

Wednesday’s game against Grandview is slated to start at 8 p.m. There will be no junior varsity game.

NBA rookie Joe C. “Rocketeering” to fame

By Dave Wiercerek

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"Joe C." and the big white numbers "50" are still visible on back of his red

Traveling uniform that he wears for the Houston Rockets of the National Basketball Association.

For anyone who does not know the significance of the letters "Joe C." they are the letters of the name Joe C. Meriweather, former All-

America center for the Salukis.

I had an opportunity to visit with Meriweather when the Rockets were in Chicago for a game with the Bulls the first week of January.

Affable and the son of an assistant coach at SIU, the 6-6-foot-11 Phenix City, Ala., native was a bit over his two hour limit. Only Houston. He reportedly signed a contract for more than $1 million.

The money and his new profession haven’t changed the big guy at all, from what I could tell. He’s been cooperative with the press and even a little shy at times.

This night, as we sat among the other

Rockets in the locker room, Meriweather was to give a little more than I had expected. He was almost sheepish. I could barely hear his voice.

"Don’t take too long," demanded a joking Ed Ratliff.

Someone else wanted to know why Meriweather, a backup rookie center, was getting so much attention. "My younger brother and George Offman," and Gary Falay from WSUI were also there.

"Joe hired them," Ratliff informed everyone. "It’s the embarrassment of Meriweather.

"I don’t have any complaints so far," Joe C. said. "It’s been early NBA experiences." "We have a pretty good team. We’re not looking to go forward to the playoffs.

Meriweather has been logging 15 to 20 minutes in games and is a backup for center Kevin Kun-nert. Meriweather also plays forward, occasionally.

Many people thought that the lean

Meriweather would not be able to handle the bulk of the NBA centers night after night and that he would be more adept at forward. A 29-point per performance against Kareem Abdul-

Jabbar early in the year dispelled most of those thoughts. He also held Jabbar below his scoring average.

Meriweather is averaging 10 points per game.

Five pounds have been added to his light frame, and Meriweather says he now weighs about 215 pounds. It hasn’t hurt his quickness any.

"My game is using my quickness," he said. "I’m not trying to pick up any new look

Weight gain and quickness make the Salukis' most talented athlete a better team player, but he has his eye on a professional football career.

"I’m trying to get a tryout right now with a couple football teams," he said. He came close to making the Cincinnati Bengals in the National Football League and also tried out with the Chicago Fire of the defunct World Football League.

"It’s a good thing I didn’t make it," he said with a laugh about his chance with the Chicago team.

I’d like to play something professionally and make my living at it. I enjoy it so damn much.

At 26, Schetman said he would have to look for financial security soon at something he enjoys. For him, that would not include "making $30,000 flipp steaks" as he did at his last job as manager of a steak house in Arizona.
