"I'M BURNING UP." Cambria fireman Jim Kiefer screamed when a battery, engulfed in the flames of a fire Kiefer was fighting in Carterville Thursday morning, exploded in a splash of acid. Kiefer was sprayed with water by fellow firemen after he ran from the burning building at 109 S. Division in Carterville. He received minor facial burns. The fire destroyed the Sound Track Stereo store and severely damaged a neighboring business.

Murphysboro bus service to link 3 towns

By Diana Penner
Staff Writer

A Murphysboro-based bus service that will include stops at the SIU-C campus is scheduled to begin in about two months.

The Murphysboro City Council earlier this week approved the plan that will link the Murphysboro-Carbondale-Chester area. Earl Bryant and Raymond Graff of Murphysboro said they plan to begin the service in 45 to 60 days.

Graff said Thursday that two or three buses with 15- to 25-passenger capacities will be purchased for the service.

Although the definite bus routes have not yet been established, Graff said a bus will go from Murphysboro to the SIU-C campus and the University Mall, east of Carbondale.

Other routes will connect Murphysboro and the Menard Correctional Center in Chester and factories in the Murphysboro-Carbondale area.

Graff said the service is primarily aimed at factory workers and Menard employees and at those who wish to shop at the Mall, but will also be open to SIU-C students.

The fare for the bus trips will probably be 75 cents within Murphysboro city limits and $1 or $1.25 for trips from Murphysboro to Carbondale and Chester. Passengers will probably pay as they board the bus, Graff said.

The times of the trips will probably be scheduled around the work shifts of SIU-C and factory workers and employees of Menard.

Graff is the civil defense director in Jackson County and Bryant is a correctional officer at Menard.

Students voice reactions to draft sign-up renewal

By Andrew Zinner
Staff Writer

President Carter's announcement to renew registration for the draft that would require 18- to 26-year-old men—and possibly women—to sign up at local Selective Service offices, has been met with mixed reactions both from students and members of Congress.

Four SIU students interviewed Thursday said they favored Carter's "get tough" policy toward the Soviet Union. Bob Fisher, a senior in agricultural economics, said he would register and would fight in a war if drafted.

"We can't let Russia just rampage around the world, and we can't turn our backs on friends," the Springfield native said.

Jerry Grogan, a junior in construction management, said he would register and would go to war "if I had a reason."

"I'd fight if the Iranian hostages were killed, or if the Soviets tried to expand further," Grogan said.

Beth Thompson of Mount Vernon said she favored draft registration, even for women.

"We need to at least get ready just in case war is necessary," said the senior in elementary education. "I'm not ready to get drafted now, but I'd fight if it happened."

A senior in marketing, Joe Nelligan of Evergreen Park, said he does not want to fight, but would do so for the protection of the country.

"I don't want to see the Soviets take over the world's oil supply, which is our lifeline," he said. "I don't want to run, and we've got to make a strong stand," Nelligan emphasized.

Two other students interviewed were against the plan to renew draft registration. John Patrick, a junior in experimental psychology, said he wouldn't register, and would not go to war "even if it happened in the United States. I am against war," he said.

Judge to answer trustees soon

By Paula Donner Walter
Staff Writer

A decision on an appeal filed by the SIU Board of Trustees in the Open Meetings Act lawsuit should be reached within the next month, but the board's attorney does not expect the case to reach the trial stage for six months or more.

John Feirich, the board's attorney in the suit, said Thursday that he expects a decision soon on the appeal of the inclusion of an SIU-E faculty group in the suit. The appeal is being reviewed in the 5th District Illinois Appellate Court in Mount Vernon.

"I expect a decision within the next month or so, because there's nothing the lawyers are doing at this point to delay the case. However, it will be a matter of six months or more after that before the case will go to trial," he said.

The SIU-E Faculty Organization for Collective Bargaining was granted a request to intervene in the suit by Judge James Williamson in December. The FOCB is asking that the board's decision to centralize the University's system of governance under a chancellor be overturned.

Williamson said in December that he granted the FOCB's motion to intervene because he thought it might not be adequately represented by the state's attorney.

The suit was originally filed in June by the Madison County State's Attorney's Office, charging the board with violating the Open Meetings Act by holding executive sessions to discuss the centralized governance system. The original suit asks only that the board be required to keep transcripts or tape recordings of all executive sessions for inspection by the state's attorney.

Feirich said the delay of the trial date will be due to "a lot more brief filing and depositions to take because this involves a novel point of law."

Feirich said he does not expect either party to appeal the pending decision to the Illinois Supreme Court because "it wouldn't fall into the automatic appeals area, and I frankly cannot see why the Supreme Court would grant leave."

He said further delay in the suit is possible this summer if the Madison County State's Attorney, Nicholas Byron, is an active participant in the trial. (Up until now Byron's assistant, Michael Thompson, has argued the case in court.)

"Byron will be running for reelection and if the trial gets anywhere close to late summer, he could stall while he does his campaigning bit," Feirich said.

Gus Bode

Gus says lawyers and trustees know better than anybody that if you delay a decision long enough, the need for it probably will go away.

Quake hits Northern California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An earthquake strong enough to crack buildings and sidewalks rocked Northern California for more than 20 seconds over hundreds of miles Thursday, swaying tall buildings and injuring several dozen persons.

The quake, recorded at 11 a.m. PST, measured 5.5 on the Richter scale according to the Berkeley Seismographic Station and was centered on the Calaveras fault near Livermore, 50 miles southeast of San Francisco. Most of those injured were in Livermore, including a man who toppled from a ladder in his apartment.

News Roundup

Mitchell Rogovin, recommended to the government that future nuclear power plants be located 10 miles or more away from population centers. It said some existing plants too close to cities might have to be shut down.

Rogovin said the NRC "has provided neither leadership nor management" in the area of safety programs for nuclear plants.

Draft opponents vow to rally public

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of President Carter's plan to register draft-age youths vowed Thursday to "picket, teach-in, protest and demonstrate" in every major city, but acknowledged they will have a hard time stopping the program.

As student groups and others mapped campaigns to rally public opinion against registration, several members of Congress denounced Carter's action and promised to try to block it.

One idea being examined is an attempt to deny the administration the money it would need to take the Selective Service System out of mothballs, where it has been since 1975.

Carter seeks sale of military equipment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is prepared to sell certain military support equipment to China, but has no plans to sell arms or weapons systems to that country, Pentagon officials said Thursday.

"There are no plans to sell arms to China," Nicholas Platt, a deputy assistant secretary of defense, told reporters at the Pentagon.

Aide denies rumor Ted's quitting race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy abruptly scrapped plans Thursday for a weekend presidential campaign trip to New England and aides announced he will deliver a "major policy address" in Washington on Monday.

Campaign officials flatly denied that the Massachusetts senator was preparing to abandon his sagging campaign for the White House. "He just ain't," press secretary Tom Southwick said.

Senate stymies

Olympics decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter won swift House approval Thursday for his stand on the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow, but his hope for speedy action by the full Congress was stymied by the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

By a 38-12 margin, the House adopted a resolution urging the U.S. Olympic Committee to honor Carter's request that the Games be postponed, moved or canceled.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last year's accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant came within "30 to 60 minutes" of a meltdown that would have required evacuation of thousands of people in the area, a special investigating team reported Thursday.

Fine for late registration may ease last-minute rush

Nick Sortal

Editorial Page Editor

The old saying "If you want to dance, you have to pay the band" aptly sums up the reasoning behind a $15 fine for late registration that has been proposed.

The fining policy, suggested by the Office of Academic Affairs and Research, will take effect in spring semester 1981, if approved. The penalty was proposed as a way to dissuade students from delaying their registration until cancellations for nonpayment of tuition and fees cause more desirable class sections to open during the first week of classes.

ANYONE WHO NEEDS to use that method to "beat the system" deserves to shell out $15. There is little reason other than pure laziness for a student to register late. (Of course, there should be some exceptions, such as foreign students, but "normal" students generally have ample opportunity to register.) And there should be even less reason should the proposed payment of tuition and fees via an installment plan be available the same semester that the fining policy has been proposed to take effect.

And since the fine will not be imposed on anyone who is merely adding or dropping classes, all a person who is unhappy with his or her schedule needs to do is sign up for the best classes available, and then add the desired ones once the class becomes open again.

THE PROPOSED fining policy should be a big factor in cutting down lines at registration. The fining policy, along with the changing of the deadline for payment of tuition and fees that was implemented this spring, are both good steps in reducing the hassle students have had to face in Woody Hall the past few years. "The deadline for tuition and fees payment is now 10 days before the first day of school rather than the Friday before classes begin. More than 500 students were able to re-register the week before classes began rather than the first week of school due to the new deadline."

Opponents of the proposal say the fee is "more red tape, another burden for the students to bear." But in this case, the red tape will help the students by penalizing those few who abuse the system. Sometimes strict rules are needed to run a university of 23,000 students.

AND AS ANYONE who has been in Woody Hall can tell you, that place is hectic, with students adding classes, dropping classes, and registering. Any way to cut down on the mess there should be welcomed rather than shot down. Fining those who could have taken care of their business on time is one of the best ways to cut some of the lines.

Soviet invasion: Blessing in disguise

George F. Will

secretly pushed from power by some sort of semi-coup run by hawks (unnamed). When we have "proved them wrong," the hawks will turn power back to the moderates. The absence of evidence for this thrilling tale is beside the point. People believe things like this because, evidently, they can't bear to believe that the Soviet Union isn't "normally" run by "moderates."

The postulated existence of mysterious Soviet hawks, who periodically look the "moderates" in a Kremlin closet, "explains" what Percy considers a radical departure from the policies of the 1970s. Notice his charge that the invasion "reversed the policy of a decade."

"Reversed?" That suggests that the 1970s were a decade of acceptable, even accommodating, Soviet behavior. Actually, in the 1970s those who Percy calls "moderates" financed an unprecedented arms buildup while the United States rested on its oars. Those "moderates" incited and financed the destruction of South Vietnam, the Yom Kippur war, an international plague of terrorism, and the deployment of Cuban and other proxies hither and yon.

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., one of Percy's colleagues on the Foreign Relations Committee and, until recently, the very model of the moderate-determinist, now says: "The economic sanctions against the Soviet Union should remain in place as long as Soviet troops remain in Afghanistan. Biden, 37, will not live to see the troops withdrawn, and I'll bet he changes his mind."

The Soviet crushing of Czechoslovakia in 1968 provoked Western outrage that was as brief as it was intense. By March 1969, U.S. allies were pressing for U.S. acceptance of what the Soviets wanted and soon got: a European Security Conference. It ratified the real meaning of Yalta: Soviet domination of Eastern Europe.

It won't be long now—May, I'd guess—before the Soviet "moderates" escape from the closet. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will rejoice in the escape and will say that it means the United States now should: "normalize" relations, increase grain sales and other trade, expand cultural exchanges, make a symbolic withdrawal of U.S. forces from somewhere (perhaps from the Indian Ocean), and ratify SALT II.

What reason will be given for doing all this? Need you ask? We must strengthen the "moderates" in the Kremlin.

(c) 1980, The Washington Post Company.

WASHINGTON—Looking on the bright side (as has been said, hope is a lousy guide by a good companion), perhaps those people are right who say the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan was a "blessing in disguise." Their theory is that Afghanistan will be, for the Soviets, "a Vietnam."

To believe that, you only need to believe two implausible things. First, that the Afghan resistance (with us supplying it something, maybe) will be a fighting force comparable to what the North Vietnamese army was supplied by the Soviets. Second, that Soviet power will be used as foolishly as U.S. power was used in Vietnam.

Looking on the bright side (doing so is silly, but why should the State Department have all the fun?), the invasion has provoked some revealing talk. For example, French officials are reported to have said that "Russia has stepped outside the territorial bonds of the Yalta Pact."

Perhaps it is Gallic drollery to say that Yalta put "bonds" on Russia. Yalta was an eraly cause of postwar disillusionment. (Harry Hopkins on Yalta: "We really believed in our hearts that this was the dawn of the new day we had all been praying for and talking about for so many years.") Now Yalta has popped up again, a ghost at the funeral of the latest illusion, detente.

Of course for some people, one illusion is indestructible. It is that the Soviet Union's most disturbing acts of domestic brutality and international violence are aberrational, not true expressions of the Soviet state. For example, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., recently said on Meet the Press that "our first priority must go toward proving to the Kremlin that whoever it was—the hawks that ventured forth into Afghanistan—were dead wrong, that they had reversed the policy of a decade and that we have got to prove them wrong and have the moderates come back in power."

Evidently, the assumption is that "moderates" (unnamed, but presumably including Brezhnev) normally run the Soviet Union, but have been suddenly and

Elderly have place in classroom

One need not be a sociologist or a social epidemiologist studying the profile of our student body to observe that one group of individuals in any significant numbers is missing. No, it is not the racial minorities, the handicapped the veteran or the international students. This missing group is the elderly.

America, including the southern Illinois region, is greying. According to recent biostatistical data, between 10 and 12 percent of our total population is 65 years old and older. But a scant few appear to be attending this University.

This raises the question: If schools like Fordham University, Hunter College, Clemson, U.S.C. and Ohio State University, to name a few, have active programs, each often engaging hundreds of the elderly in the surrounding communities in academic pursuits, then why don't we at Southern?

I then recommend that efforts be made, by an interested University group, to assess the situation and answer a few of the basic questions: — 1.

Whether the elderly would be interested in attending Southern if given ample opportunity; — 2. What courses they would be interested in studying; — 3. Determine the barriers to school attendance, such as money for tuition or transportation; and — 4. examine how these barriers can be removed or alleviated through cooperative efforts of the University and the community.

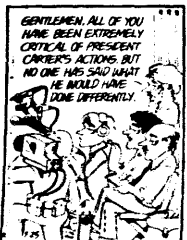

John Dewey has told us quite succinctly that education is not preparation for life, but is life. And education, just like life, does not end at age 25 with a B.S. or masters degree. Nor must life end with retirement.

We have a big and very beautiful campus with an excellent faculty and academic community. If we have not open our doors to the elderly — let us examine how we may do so.

Our efforts in this present trend of the elderly entering the college classroom may be more than just a civic-minded or altruistic energy expenditure if we, looking to tomorrow, borrow from Pogo who says,

"We have seen the elderly, and they are us." — T.R. Syrewicz Doctoral Student, Health Education.

Lawyers try to solve sewage woes

By Mary Ann McNulty
Staff Writer

Attorneys for Egon Kamarasy, owner and developer of a controversial sewerage system at the Union Hills subdivision, and 28 homeowners at Union Hills will spend the next two months trying to develop a plan to keep the sewer system operating and still meet previous court orders that prohibit the sewage from polluting Cedar Lake.

Judge Bill Green last week extended a temporary injunction, which prohibits Kamarasy from shutting off the Lake Lilac Sewage System, until a hearing for a permanent injunction is held March 24. Green said he granted the continuance under the stipulation that the parties agree to try to solve the situation out of court. The hearing had been originally scheduled for last Thursday.

John Clemons, attorney for the homeowners, said that to prevent any pollution of any creeks or to Cedar Lake, Kamarasy and the homeowners will split the cost of hiring a sewage disposal company to pump the sewage from the lagoon and haul it away.

Clemons said that while the case is pending, Judge Green wanted to make sure the lake wasn't being polluted.

William Broom III, attorney for Kamarasy, said hauling the sewage outflow costs about $60 per trip. According to Broom, the number of times the lagoon has to be pumped each week depends on how much it rains.

The Lake Lilac Lagoon has been the subject of three years of law suits between the Environmental Protection Agency, the City of Carbondale and Kamarasy.

The lagoon, which was constructed before the city built Cedar Lake as a main source of water for Carbondale, drains into the Rocky Branch Creek, a Cedar Lake watershed. Because the sewage drains into Carbondale's water supply, the lagoon is in violation of Illinois EPA standards.

Kamarasy, an assistant professor in political science at SIU-C, was ordered by Judge Green to stop polluting Cedar Lake in 1977. Green fined Kamarasy $3,000 for contempt of court in August. In November, he was fined another $773 for failing to comply with the order to stop polluting the main water source.

In October, Kamarasy notified the 14 homeowners who use the sewerage system that he would be forced to shut the system off in November, unless a remedy to the situation was reached.

Division 1-A standing set for vote

By Robin Saponar
Staff Writer

The divisional status of SIU-C's intercollegiate athletics program will be brought to a vote before the entire student body on Feb. 20 in a special election recently approved by the Undergraduate Student Organization.

The Student Senate passed a bill calling for the special election at its Wednesday night meeting. The athletics question will ask students whether SIU-C should remain in NCAA Division 1-A or drop to Division 2-A status.

A second question on the ballot will ask students whether they approve of a new constitution, yet to be written, for the USO.

For a school to receive Division 1-A standing, it must have an average of 17,000 in attendance at home football games or must have 12 varsity sports.

Introducing the bill to the senate, Student President Pete Alexander said, "This is a general document letting students feel that they have a voice."

About the constitution question, Alexander said, "The new constitution is one simple document that says what we want it to say, in a much shorter form."

He said the recently approved $12 athletics fee increase would not be mentioned.

Graduate Student Council President Gary Brown said that at the GSC meeting next Wednesday night, he'll "share with them what the USO has done and ask if they want to join."

"We'd get together with the administration so there would be totally non-biased wording on the questions, if the GSC decides to join."

Radner funny, but not hilarious

By Karen Gullo
Staff Writer

If you've never heard of Lisa Loopner, Emily Litella, Candy Slice or Roseanne Roseannadanna then you're missing one of comedy's zaniest comedienne—Gilda Radner. "Live From New York" is her first solo album and it contains all of her best personality skits from "Saturday Night Live."

But my guess is that you've already seen Candy Slice burp on stage and Roseanne Roseannadanna give the gruesome details of lancing Geraldo Rivera's boils on the show. And listening to this album isn't nearly as entertaining as seeing Radner portray all those crazy characters on stage.

The album is the sound track of Radner's stage show and her performance is hilarious. Judging from the audience reaction. But the visual antics—Lisa Loopner's crossed-eyes behind large horn-rimmed glasses, Candy Slice's punk-tough stance and Roseanne Roseannadanna's head-scratching are such a big part of Radner's act that the sound track is laughable but not hilarious.

Videos of comedy, films, jazz planned for spring semester

By Carrie Sweney
Staff Writer

The Student Programming Council Video Committee has planned for SIU-C students a semester of comedy, films, jazz, new wave and rock 'n' roll. Paul Ranstrom, committee chair said.

Rock fans are in for a treat from Jan. 28 to 31 when a film on the Kings will be shown in the Student Center Video Lounge. Taped in England by the BBC, the film will be shown at 7, 8, and 9 p.m.

From Feb. 4 to 7, the comic strip Doonesbury transforms into live animation in a film presentation to be shown in the second floor lounge area of the

A Music Review

"Live From New York" is worth listening to because Radner has energy, imagination and an amazing way of poking fun at everything from show business to substitute teachers. The funniest parts of the album are when Radner shows us how absurd and typical the current music trends and fads are. She mocks the language of the "now generation" and makes fun of our heroes. Radner's identities are real people whose characteristics are exaggerated to reveal how ridiculous they really are.

The first side starts out with a rather silly tune called "Let's Talk Dirty To The Animals." Much of Radner's material is full of potty-mouthed obscenities and this tune contains some amusing but juvenile phrases.

The next skit is "The Audition," in which Radner portrays a young woman auditioning for a show with a song and dance routine called "I Love To Be Unhappy."

After "The Audition" we meet Rhonda Weiss and the Rhondettes, a washed-up, early 60s group of four Jewish girls from New York who sing about the unfair banning of saccharin by the Food and Drug Administration. This skit is really funny; Rhonda Weiss is the Jewish Diana Ross, angrily denouncing the FDA for taking away the only thing that keeps her thin enough so the line of her underpants won't show.

Side two starts off with Candy Slice and the Slicers, an obvious mockery of Patti you-know-who. Even punk-rock enthusiasts will get a kick out of Candy's "If You Look Close" which is a really blatant sneer at "rock and roll's newest slave." Better than "If You Look Close" is "Gimme Mick," in which Candy sings praises of the shallow life of Mick Jagger.

The last skit is my favorite. The darling of broadcast journalism, Roseanne Roseannadanna, gives advice to the graduating class at Columbia School of Journalism. According to Roseanne, moving around in your seat at a job interview can cause fart-like sounds which may cost you the job, but don't give up and sit still.

Student Center.

A "new wave disco" will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on Feb. 8 in the Video Lounge. A live performance by Poison Squirrels is slated to follow at 9 p.m. The group is sponsored by SPC Consort and Video Committees and is part of a total event dubbed, "Catch-It."

A filmed performance of jazz artist Chick Corea is scheduled to run from Feb. 18 to 21. Also taped in England, the video is a collection of the contemporary pianist's most popular pieces.

The story of Mohammed Ali, "Skill, Brains and Guts," will be shown at 7, 8, and 9 p.m. from Feb. 25 to 28 in the Video Lounge.

New Morris Library Circulation Policies,

Effective February 1, 1980

Grace Period for Overdue Library Materials

January 28-31, 1980

Following a period of extensive study and review, new circulation policies for Morris Library have been written. These policies, which incorporate compromises based upon recommendations from both faculty and student constituency groups on campus, were officially approved by Acting President Lesar on December 3, 1979.

The new policies will become effective on February 1, 1980. Preparatory to their implementation, there will be a GRACE PERIOD from Monday through Thursday, January 28-31, 1980. During this period overdue library materials may be returned without payment of fines. The no-fine grace period applies to all SIU-C students, faculty, civil service and administrative/professional staff, and courtesy card holders.

THE FOLLOWING LIBRARY MATERIALS ARE NOT INCLUDED IN THE GRACE PERIOD:

- Recalled Items
- Reserve Room Items
- Items charged out overnight only or by special permission
- Materials from the SIU-C Law Library or Learning Resource Service

All overdue materials not returned by 12 midnight, January 31, 1980, will remain subject to overdue charges in line with the new circulation policies. These policies appear in the January 24, 1980, issue of the Daily Egyptian, and printed copies are also available in Morris Library.

Thanks and appreciation are expressed to representatives from constituency groups, faculty members, students, the Library Affairs Advisory Committee, the ad hoc Morris Library Circulation Policies Committee, and members of the University administration who have contributed to these policy changes.

Coffeeshouse program offers chance to view acts cheaply

By Craig DeVrieze
Staff Writer

What the Student Programming Committee's International Coffeeshouse offers is the opportunity to see talented performers inexpensively in pleasant, intimate surroundings, says Tom Trentlage, SPC chairman of Student Center Activities.

International Coffeeshouses will be presented bi-monthly this semester in the Old Main Room of the Student Center. Music and a variety of international coffees are available for a price that ranges from 50 cents to $2. And Trentlage feels that the sedate atmosphere of the Old Main Room is a perfect one for musical entertainment.

"That's the primary focus of the Coffeeshouse—to provide the environment in that room," Trentlage said. "We feel it's an opportunity to expose people to music in an atmosphere different from concerts and bars."

The Coffeeshouse draws its talent primarily from young musicians who haven't yet succeeded to concert halls but are too good to be consistently playing bars. Trentlage said that in scheduling the shows he attempts to book a variety of musical styles.

"I guess our focus would be on non-traditional types of music," he said. "Non-traditional in the sense that it's not what you're likely to hear around town." He pointed to last semester's Coffeeshouse line-up, which featured such diverse acts as a mouth-harpist, a classical pianist and a progressive soul-jazz band.

The first two concerts scheduled for spring semester will feature blue-grass band Buck's Stove and Range Company and folk singer Erin Isaac.

Buck's Stove and Range Company, a group of four musicians from southern Indiana, will play at 9 p.m. February 8 as part of the Student Center's Spring Open House "Catch It." The band has been together since 1972 and recently recorded its first album, "North on the Highway." Buck's Stove flavors its act with folk and jazz as well as blue-grass.

Erin Isaac will appear February 14 in a special Valentine's Day Coffeeshouse. A Batavia, Illinois native, Isaac has been compared favorably to Joan Baez and Joni Mitchell. She has played with Steve Goodman, Leo Kotke and Steve Martin, and has just finished recording her first album.

In addition to the regular Coffeeshouses, the Student Center Activities Committee will sponsor bi-monthly open-mike nights for local talent.

"We feel there are plenty of people around here who could viably do a Coffeeshouse by themselves," he said.

James Cunningham and the Acme Dance Company will close out the Center Stage offerings on May 2. The company uses costuming and unusual dance techniques to try to create a dream world where fantasy and reality mix. The first Center Stage production this year will be two musical dramas performed by the Majorie Lawrence Opera Theatre on Feb. 5 in the Student Center.

Center Stage offers drama, music

By Charity Gould
Staff Writer

Center Stage Series offerings for spring semester include a variety of entertainment beginning with two one-act musical dramas.

"Rita" and "Hello Out There" will be performed by the Majorie Lawrence Opera Theatre on Feb. 5 at 8 p.m. Admission price is $1 for students, $2 for the general public.

"Rita" is a comic 19th century opera about a woman and her two reluctant matrimonial prospects who fight a duel with the loser getting the girl as bride.

The second opera is a drama of a down-on-his-luck gambler who wrongly lands in a Texas jail and falls in love with an innocent woman.

The plays are performed by SIU-C students under the direction of Dorothy Hendrick and Jack Dare, graduate students in opera production. The performances are under the supervision of Michael Blum, administrative director of the company.

On Feb. 8, "The Private Ear," a British comedy, will be performed. Admission is $2.50 for students and $3.50 for the public.

"The Private Ear" is the story of a socially disastrous evening in the life of Tchaik, a London office worker who lives in a world of his own. Tchaik tries to seduce Doreen, the girl of his dreams, but badly bungles the attempt.

The play will be performed by Etan Productions, a theatre company made up of Southern Illinois residents who attended SIU-C in the past ten years.

Blanc, 'ghost hunters' set to speak

By J-nell Olson
Staff Writer

Mel Blanc, the voice of several cartoon characters, Ed and Lorraine Warren, known as "America's ghost hunters," and Tom Jackson, an employment expert, are among the personalities slated to speak on campus this semester.

The three Special Event lectures represent only a portion of the entertainment planned by the Student Programming Council's Lectures Committee. In addition, there will be a free lecture every Wednesday at 3 p.m. as part of the Forum 30 Plus series.

"We want to give students what they want this semester and we encourage suggestions," said Lectures Chairwoman Debbie Quantock, who heads the eight-person committee.

The first major speaker will be Mel Blanc, the voice of Bugs Bunny, Tweety, Porky Pig, Barney Rubble, Daffy Duck and a variety of other cartoon characters. He will speak at 8 p.m. March 26 in Ballrooms A, B, C and D of the Student Center. Admission will be $3.

In honor of Blanc's visit, the Student Center will host a "Warner Brothers Day." Quantock said plans have yet to be completed but there will be trivia contests and tickets to Blanc's performance will be awarded.

In addition, Warner Brothers cartoons will be shown one hour before Blanc's lecture. His speech will include a slide presentation on the history of himself and his cartoon characters.

The second Special Event lecture will feature Ed and Lorraine Warren, who have investigated the supernatural for 30 years. They have worked in many publicized cases, including the West Point hauntings and the one upon which "The Amityville Horror" was based.

The Warrens have had two television shows out of Connecticut. "Ghost Hunting with Ed and Lorraine Warren" and "Seekers of the Supernatural." They will speak on "Haunted Houses and Ghosts" at 8 p.m. April 14. Admission will be $2.

The final major speaker will be Tom Jackson, an expert in the job market. He will present a free seminar titled "The Job Game" at 3 p.m. May 7. The seminar is a multi-media program course in job-finding techniques.

In addition, Jackson, who is the author of "The Hidden Job Market" and "28 Days to a Better Job," will lecture on "Guerrilla Tactics in the Job Market" at 8 p.m. Admission will be $2.

"This semester we're going to try to hit current issues both nationally and locally," Quantock said.

"Energy in the Future" is the lecture scheduled for 3 p.m.

Wednesday in the Ohio Room of the Student Center. Richard Archer, professor of design, will speak on alternative energy sources. Archer is a consultant to the Department of Energy, the National Science Foundation and the Mid-America Solar Energy Complex.

On Feb. 6. Allan Stuck, owner of a jewelry store on South Illinois Avenue, will speak on "Investing in Gold and Silver."

Other scheduled lectures are: "Cloning of Frogs and Mice" on Feb. 13, "Afghanistan and Russia" on Feb. 19 and "Education on the West Bank" on Feb. 27.

'One on One' a perfect combination

By Carrie Sweeney
Staff Writer

When a talented solo artist records an album the results are usually successful. On the other hand, when two talented artists combine their talents with the accompaniment of several well-known musicians, the results are phenomenal.

Such is the case with Bob James and Earl Klugh, who have synchronized their individual talents to produce a masterpiece of jazz called "One on One". There are no words to pull this music together, but there is no need. The music of James and Klugh mixes perfectly without them.

The most climactic display is found in the number "The Afterglow," which possesses strong acoustic guitar and piano melodies. Written by James, the music incorporates nearly every instrument available—acoustic and electric guitar, bass, percussion, violas, violins, cello and woodwinds. The collaboration gives "Afterglow" a full, rich jazz sound.

Klugh, a Detroit-based guitarist, best displays his contemporary artistry in the selection, "Love Lips." Backed by the expert percussion of Ralph MacDonald, who has an imaginative way of handling synthesized drums, Klugh changes the beat of the song halfway through and demonstrates the magical conclusion of jazz and soul transformed into one.

The conglomeration of

exquisite talents is most apparent in "Mallorca," which was written by James. Dominated by guitar and piano, this jazz number allows James and Klugh to individually display their creativity, and ends up sounding somewhat like dueling banjos—without the banjos.

"Winding River," which was written by James, truly emits the essence of contemporary jazz. Colorful, light combinations of guitar and piano, artfully mixed with the exact amount of percussion and woodwinds, result in a beautiful song, much like a winding river.

James, who began to commercialize jazz in 1965 and succeeded, has worked with an almost all-black group of musicians to produce "One on One." There must be an old saying that music has no color or prejudices, for the sound this group of musicians makes displays a oneness of talents.

'Rachel' tells of Jewish oppression

By Ella Reilly
Staff Writer

The ghettos where the Jews in the 17th century were locked up at night; the bans on Jewish trade; the wearing of some kind of Jewish mark and other means of Jewish persecution over the centuries come alive in "The Books of Rachel," which spans the generations of a Jewish family from the Spanish Inquisition to the present.

The book, which is written by Joel Gross, is filled with the tales of six generations of Rachels, who courageously fought the Jewish repression of their times.

The moving story and graphic description of the torture and bravery of the first Rachel in Part One leaves one with expectations which are unmet in later chapters of the book.

Gross shows promise of becoming a great storyteller. The history and rich detail of the stories evoke clear and realistic pictures of the Spanish Inquisition in the late 1400s and the Jewish ghettos of Vienna in the 1600s, where all Jews were required to wear crimson hats. But the stories falter and are at times lost as Gross follows each Rachel's family line through five centuries.

The novel involves the story of a Jewish family spanning 500 years and their creation and control of the diamond industry.

In each generation of the family, there is a Rachel.

There are six Rachels whose stories are told: Rachel Coheno of Spain; Rachel Coheno of Vienna; Rachel Cohen of

A Book Review

Germany; Rachel Cohn of Jerusalem; Rachel Kane of England; and Rachel Kane of New York.

Rachel Coheno of Spain is a strong spirited woman who is tortured but refuses to betray her father and brother and then, kills the Inquisitor who was torturing her. She was burned at the stake for teaching Judaism to her cousin, a converted Christian.

As each of the Rachel's stories continue, they become less detailed and shallower, shadows of the first story. The tales are only partially told giving just brief glimpses into the lives of each Rachel.

There is only a short paragraph concerning the Holocaust and Rachel Kane of England's death. She had been missing and her father thought she died in a concentration camp. Eleven years later, a witness told her father that she died when she spit in the face of a soldier who was pushing an old woman on to a cattle car.

Women cagers to challenge Indiana

By Gayle Simpson
Staff Writer

"Good" does not sound like the right adjective for a team that has lost six of its last seven games, out that is the word Coach Cindy Scott used to describe her basketball squad.

"I think we have a good team if we just play our game and play smart," Scott said. "We've been playing hot and cold."

The Lady Salukis will need a "warm" night Saturday when Indiana's Lady Hoosiers invade the Arena. The game will begin at 5 p.m., preceding the men's match with Tulsa.

Indiana has a 13-9 record overall and is 4-1 in the Big Ten. It ended Northwestern's five-game winning streak with a 58-54 decision last Saturday night, one night after the Wildcats defeated the Salukis.

"It really doesn't bother me that Indiana beat Northwestern," Scott said. "This is a different game at a different time in a different place."

Statistically, SIU and Indiana are closely matched. Indiana has averaged 62 points per game, while the Salukis are averaging 51. In rebounding, SIU averages 33, IU 30.

The statistics which worry Scott are Saluki turnovers, 21 per game, and shooting percentage, which has dipped to 39 percent.

SIU plans to use a new offense Saturday night, Scott said.

"We've been working on the offense all season," Scott said. "By now they either know it or they don't. It's complex and requires a little more concentration. We'd like to have it down by state tournament time."

Scott said the new offense uses the inside shot more than the one the team has been using all season.

"When our point guard (Connie Erickson) is our leading scorer, something needs to be done," Scott said. "Connie leads the team in assists and steals, but we can't pressure her to do everything."

Indiana runs the fast break on offense and uses a man-to-man defense, according to Scott.

"We're going to have to control the tempo," Scott said. "We'll have to work to get the good shot and not let them put pressure on us."

Two Indiana players the Salukis hope to contain are 6-4 center Sue Hodges and freshman forward Melinda Sparkman. Against Northwestern, Hodges scored 20 points and grabbed nine rebounds, and Sparkman contributed 18 points.

Scott said last Friday's loss to Northwestern did not hurt the team's morale.

"We watched the film of the game and the girls saw their mistakes for themselves," Scott said. "They've looked good in practice and they've worked hard."

"It's hard for them sometimes because most of our girls are used to playing for schools with winning records," Scott continued.

Wayne Abrams needs student voting support

Wayne Abrams needs your vote.

Abrams isn't running for a political post; in fact, he's not exactly running for anything. But he does need your help to achieve some long-overdue recognition on the national collegiate sports scene.

The four-year Saluki star has been nominated along with 100 other college seniors, to play in the Pizza Hut Basketball Classic at Las Vegas, Nev. Players are nominated by officials in the Pizza Hut organization, but the decision as to who makes the team is left to the fans.

That's where everyone who has seen Abrams play during his four years can help. Ballots will be available at every Saluki home game and at any Pizza Hut throughout the remainder of the season until March 21.

But you shouldn't vote for Abrams simply because you recognize the name, or because he's from SIU. The 6-6 co-captain deserves your vote. Abrams' basketball resume glitters with awards and shines with impressive statistics.

Abrams has started 96 of 99 games since his freshman season. During that year, the "Rubber Band Man" helped lead the Salukis to an NCAA appearance in the Midwest regional.

In the three seasons that followed, Abrams emerged as SIU's leader both on and off the floor, and proved to be the Salukis' most durable player, a quality especially evident this season.

Abrams has only missed one game this season, despite playing with a injured leg and a scratched cornea that required him to play with safety glasses.

Saluki Head Coach Joe Gottfried describes Abrams as "the total player, every coach's dream."

"He's a very dedicated individual," Gottfried said. "Not a day went by last summer that he didn't do something related to basketball."

But just being a durable asset is far from Abrams' most valuable quality. Abrams is a top defensive and scoring machine.

With 10 games remaining in the season, Abrams already is eighth on the all-time Saluki scoring list with 1,252 points, narrowly trailing such performers as Mike Glenn, Joe Meriweather and Gary Wilson. His lifetime field goal percentage is a hot 46.75 percent. The Atlanta, Ga. native is averaging 16.3 points per game this season.

Abrams has pulled down 494 rebounds, a hefty total for someone playing the guard position. He has dished out a team-leading 53 assists this season.

Abrams' performance has earned him all-Missouri Valley Conference honors for the past two seasons and spots on various all-tournament teams. Pro scouts have labeled Abrams as NBA material, but all the statistics and praise don't do him total justice.

Statistics and pro reports don't list some of the things that make Wayne Abrams one of the country's premier basketball players.

Sacrifice. Abrams has played in the shadow of other stars, yet has managed to hold up his end of the spot light. He trains hard, all year. He has been awarded by the coaches for being the hardest worker in pre-season practice.

Unselfishness. Abrams leads the team in assists every season because he is a team player. Time and time again, Abrams has played the role of the coordinator instead of the star. An NBA scout said that Abrams "has never really shown everything he can do as an individual, it's obvious that he sacrifices himself for the team."

Crowd pleasing. Abrams is entertaining. His solo two- and three-minute stalls have excited Arena crowds for four seasons. His behind-the-back passing and attention-stopping slam dunks have made him a favorite in Southern Illinois and around the Valley.

In addition to his basketball talent, Abrams also has shown talent in the classroom. A business major, he has made the dean's list several times. He hopes to parlay his degree and love of macramé into a personal business venture some day.

A team player, a scorer, a leader, a showman, and certainly an all-star talent. Yes, Wayne Abrams deserves every vote Southern Illinois people can give him.

Saluki basketball Head Coach Joe Gottfried gives instructions to freshman Darnall Jones during a break in practice. SIU, 4-12 overall and 0-6 in Missouri Valley Conference play, has an important MVC game Saturday against Tulsa at the Arena. Tipoff is 7:35 p.m.

Badminton squad headed to WIU

By Rick Klatt
Staff Writer

Late Wednesday night, after the badminton team completed its daily preparation for the first of three successive invitational, this weekend's being at Western Illinois, Coach Paul Blair sat down at his desk and started discussing a similarity between this year's team and the 1978-79 squad.

"Last year we played just about the same schedule and competed just about how we have so far this season," Blair said. "We didn't win a lot in any of them, but overall, we improved individually in each. And look what we ended up doing — taking eighth in the nation."

"I guess what it all comes down to is putting it together at the right time," Blair added.

Through this point in the season, the Salukis have lost a dual meet to Eastern Illinois and finished fourth and sixth, respectively, in two invitational. The results are similar to the early-season fortunes of last year's team.

"To put it together," Blair said, will require the Salukis to improve every weekend until they host the IIAW state championship Feb. 15-16. After the WIU invitation, this weekend SIU will travel to EIU for its invitational and Illinois State for the Midwest Invitational.

Blair said also that only four members of the this year's team, Penny Porter, Cathy Skiera, Barb Morris and Fay Unea, have tournament experience. That fact, Blair said, will be a major factor in determining how well the Salukis do the remainder of the season.

Tankers to battle SWC champion

By David Kane
Staff Writer

If you like challenges, put yourself in Bob Steele's shoes. The Saluki men's swimming coach will have his hands full this weekend.

SIU starts a two-day road trip Friday when it visits the University of Oklahoma. The Sooners are coming off a 1-6 season and are in a rebuilding period under Coach Bob Connor.

Okay, maybe that's not the greatest task Steele has ever encountered. If things go as planned, the Salukis should be able to handle OU and improve their dual meet record to 2-0. But Saturday night is another story. Dallas, will be the place and Southern Methodist will provide the opposition. A member of the Southwest Conference, SMU has dominated the SWC for almost a quarter-century and appears to be as tough as ever.

But Steele thinks that the Mustangs can be had, depending on a few key factors. One is the performance of SMU's freshman standout Steve Lundquist, a swimmer Steele and every other coach in America tried to recruit last year.

"He's just fantastic," Steele said of the Mustang freshman. "Everybody wanted him last year and they (SMU) got him. He could be the difference between the two teams. I can't say much more about him except that he's big, strong, mean, tough and fast. We're not afraid of him, but he's great."

Lundquist, whose main events are the 100- and 200-yard breaststrokes, set a pair of American records in those events last year.
