City tables 'bong law,' awaits state law

By Andrew Zinner
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council agreed Monday to hold off on adopting a drug paraphernalia ordinance because the state may beat it to the punch.

A bill banning the sale of drug paraphernalia has been overly adopted by both houses of the General Assembly and is now on Gov. James R. Thompson's desk, waiting for final approval. The legislation is sponsored by Sen. John Mailland, R-4th District.

A longtime paraphernalia foe, a long time letter representative of the Palestinian peace represented that the Reagan administration follows the policy that guerrillas do not succeed soon. That has prohibited negotiations as Israel - growing impatient troops with the lack of progress in battered Moslem enclave in things.

"We are fighting for that, to force the United States to recognize us," said Han al-Habib, political adviser. "I am sure that if there were direct talks between the PLO and American through the (U.S. presidential envoy) Philip Habib it would be a very important step for the PLO and the PLO would be ready to be more flexible and to rethink a lot of things."

Arafat's plan was disclosed as a slow-growing movement with the lack of progress in negotiations to evacuate the PLO's grips in Lebanon and in their groups up to the edge of the battered Palestinian enclave in west Beirut. Israeli defense minister Ariel Sharon warned, "We will never make the PLO and the tools" and out the PLO if negotiations to evacuate the guerrillas fail.

In Washington, Secretary of State designate George Shultz says that the Reagan adminstration follows the policy that has prohibited negotiations between the United States and the PLO since 1974.

Shultz, questioned at his Senate confirmation hearing, said "representatives of the Palestinian people should be represented in the Middle East peace process."

But he said the Reagan adminstration will not deal with the PLO unless it first recognizes Israel's right to exist and accepts United Nations resolutions 242 and 338. The resolutions outline a Middle East peace plan under which Israel would swap territories it captured in 1967 for Arab recognition and secure borders.

In Paris on Tuesday, a member of the PLO's National Council, Issam Sartawi, said the PLO had formally recognized Israel's right to exist within its borders and endorsed the Soviet Middle East peace plan that called for secure boundaries for Israel.

Sartawi, who said he spoke on behalf of the PLO leadership, told a French foreign affairs group that the United States evacuated the PLO on that basis.

The PLO has never, however, clearly recognized Israel's right to exist, and it has never accepted the sovereignty which speak of the Palestinians as "refugees," and not as a national group with a right to self-determination.

Habib has been following the negotiations closely and he said dealing with the PLO only through intermediaries that he feels it ends up to the PLO itself to negotiate the evacuation. The PLO has never accepted the U.S. proposals and President Bush was forced to fire out of the PLO that day.

Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, surrounded by an overwhelming Israeli force, is seeking United States recognition for his Palestine Liberation Organization as his price for leaving Lebanon, Lebanese and Palestinian sources said Tuesday.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said Arafat would seek United States recognition for his Palestine price for leaving Lebanon. "We are fighting for that, to force the United States to recognize us," said Han al-Habib, political adviser. Nuclear test said to indicate readiness of Chinese weapons

PEKING (AP) — China exploded a simulated tactical nuclear weapon last month in a big military exercise, indicating it is trying to outdo the real thing to defend its borders, Western military analysts said Tuesday.

The analysts said the exercise, against a simulated Soviet invasion, signaled a shift to a new, active defense strategy to replace the old "people's war" of using nuclear weapons as mass destruction. It has not been reported previously.

At the Chinese exploded their first stategic bomb in 1964 but insist it would use nuclear weapons only in defense.

The Chinese Defense Ministry had no immediate comment.

Exercising using nuclear devices against specific military targets or as "terror weapons" was "too low" medically, and would not exceed the dollar magnitude the NRC's contention that the 'atomic bomb' exploded deep in the heart of the 'enemy.'"

It was not known what kind of device was used to simulate the small nuclear blast. The analysts said it apparently had been dropped from a plane in a demonstration of how an atomic weapon could be used to stop an invading enemy before the Chinese launched a counterattack.

The news agency also published photographs of rockets, helicopters, jets and tanks attacking the "enemy."

The Chinese Defense Ministry had no immediate comment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon spokesman Henry Catto said Tuesday that he has seen reports of "only tens of thousands" of troops concentrated along the Iran-Iraq border, and he voiced concern about the possibility of a major flare-up at the frontier.

Catto's remarks at a briefing came amid reported reports from the Persian Gulf area that Iran was massing troops for a drive into Iraq. The two countries have been at war since September 1980.

The Iraqis began the war by trying to seize a vital waterway and other disputed Iranian territory. Recently, Iran has gained the momentum in the war.

Vatican will reveal assets to experts

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Holy See took the unusual step Tuesday of calling in three international experts to examine the Vatican bank's dealings with an Italian bank that is the center of a major financial scandal.

The action apparently was taken to blunt harsh criticism from the Italian government and press of Vatican involvement with Banco Ambrosiano, Italy's largest private bank.

It follows the mysterious death of the Banco Ambrosiano presidente, Roberto Calvi, and allegations that he persuaded the Vatican bank to guarantee $1.4 billion in questionable loans — for which the Vatican may be held responsible.

Federal mortgage loans go unused

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Millions of dollars worth of federal mortgage loans intended to help moderate-income people buy homes in urban areas are going unused, Federal Home Administration officials say.

They said the lowest interest rates that have made even the discount loans, at 13.5 percent interest, too expensive for many.

Only 13 percent of the $6.3 million in discount mortgage money available in Maine had been obligated through June 30, three quarters of the federal government's fiscal year, said Basil Wentworth, the Farmers Home Administration's housing division chief.

New Chicago archbishop plans visit

CHICAGO (AP) — Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin, Chicago's new Roman Catholic leader, is scheduled to arrive Wednesday from Cincinnati for a two-day visit to his new archdiocese.

The visit will be mainly a private one, said an archdiocesan spokesman. The archbishop will visit the chancery office and seek a nursing home for his 77-year-old mother, Maria, who now resides in a Cincinnati nursing home, said spokesman Bernard Hanlon.

The 54-year-old archbishop, who headed the Cincinnati archdiocese since 1970, was named to the Chicago post last Saturday by Pope John Paul.

Com Ed may be fined $100,000

CHICAGO (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission on Tuesday proposed a $100,000 fine against Commonwealth Edison Co. after an employee of the Zion nuclear power station informed police about radiation exceeding the agency's limit.

The NRC fine cited two alleged violations stemming from the March 2 incident — overexposure and the utility's failure to make a proper evaluation of the radiation exceeding the limit.

Officials said the amount of radiation the worker was exposed to is too low to have caused any medically observable cancer, but a Commonwealth Edison spokesman said the utility probably would protest the amount of the fine and the NRC's contention that the company didn't properly assess radiation hazards.

"That's not true in our opinion," said John Calvi, an Edison spokesman, who added that the utility was "a little surprised adverse (Chernobyl) magnitude (of the fine)."

"The area was surveyed before the employee went in."

Police call kidnapping 'fiction'

A large-scale manhunt was called off late this morning in northern Jackson County after police investigators and a woman's family said that a woman's story of being kidnapped from a Carbondale gas station is apparently "unfounded." It has yet to be determined if charges will be filed regarding the "fictional" report by Brigitte Holt, a junior anthropology majoring in anthropology, is a sophomore.

"We've gone on, but the only way to learn is to get out and do it.

said, "I want to get experience in anthropology, and the school is good to have on your record," said Holt.

Carbondale will be site of hearing to discuss block grant fund cuts

A task force on block grant implementation appointed last year by the governor, which has scheduled a public hearing in Carbondale Aug. 10 from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The hearing, one of eight from around the state, is meant to get public opinions on how the state should allocate block grants for human services and federal funds.

Not everyone is on board. The hearing has been set yet, according to Tom Berkshire, a Thompson assistant and liaison between the governor's office and the task force.

Berkshire said the task force recently released a 60-page preliminary report dealing with options the state may choose in deciding how block grants are allocated.

The task force was set up to make recommendations to the governor. Berkshire said the governor may or may not agree to recommendations made by the task force.

Sen. Kenneth V. Busbee, D-25th District and chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he had no comment about the governor getting advice as long as it's only advice.

Busbee said he plans to be at the Carbondale hearing. Berkshire said the hearings were public and that the task force would invite service representatives to participate.

He said the task force was "only a step" in determining where the Carbondale hearing would be.

Berkshire said the public hearings are actually part of two parts, starting with a video presentation. He said the task force also was planning 25 educational forums around the state to coincide with the hearings.

Bublee said the Legislature recently acted to appoint its own advisory committee made up of educators and private individuals.

He said the measure is still on Thompson's desk.

"I see it as overlapping, but not taking the place of our public hearings," he said.

Welfare of patients is dominant issue in Bowen, Dixon closings

It is a sad day when mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed children must be moved out of state institutions to make way for convicts. A society where this becomes a necessity— at least that's how the idea was sold — needs some soul searching.

The closure of A.L. Bowen Center in Harrisburg, the Dixon Center in Dixon and the Adler Developmental Center in Champion is the incident. What will happen to the residents is the concern.

The Bowen Center has already closed and its residents have been transported to private homes and turned over to the state. They, or at least some of them, will be better off. The Bowen facility was overcrowded and in need of some major improvements. Any patient coming in for the first time will receive equivalent care and attention at Anna's the primary concern.

It took years to develop an excellent program of vocational and individual care. The fact that they may come up to par, but in the time that it takes for them to reestablish a place in society, some may get lost. However, the extra care and attention should be their only worry. Adjustments will likely be difficult for them.

On the other hand humanitarian interests must be balanced with economic realities. In the long run, the budget pinched that closed Bowen, Dixon and Adler may well have salutary effects. It may be that the current and future administrators of private facilities for local communities to take more responsibility for the unfortunate in their midst instead of conveniently shunting them to state institutions.

With less money to work with, existing centers may well grow to be more efficient, and perhaps even more dedicated. In the final analysis, it is not expensive modern facilities but the human attendant with a heart who brings about the greatest good. Simply laying a plate of food before a person is not enough. More people need to get personally involved as volunteers and other interested individuals.

However, humanitarian concern over the welfare of the children must still be the dominant issue. Governor Thompson and whoever follows him must hold to the promises that proper care for the children will not be compromised.

Israel actions in Lebanon don't serve U.S. interests

Morris J. Amitay, the former executive director of the American Israeli Public Affairs Committee in New York, wrote in The New York Times on June 24, 1967, that "the American people will come to the face of the fact that Israel did service to American foreign policy interests in the Middle East." Well, Mr. Amitay, in order to try to persuade the nation to rally around "as you put it, why didn't you elaborate in detail in which way they served to serve the nation in the American foreign policy in the Middle East? Are you ready to dispute the political analysts who are saying that Israel's creation in 1948 was one of the main reasons involved in opening the door to the Middle East? Were the interests of Israel served by the war in 1967 or were they the interests of the United States? Did Israel's actions in Lebanon serve U.S. values?

Source Israeli's massacres and destructions in Lebanon are not pleasing to U.S. interests by making them support a government that is not willing to accept the damages? Israel's brutality in Lebanon through the use of tactical nuclear weapons is not pleasing to the public which bloodshed are turning many moderate Arabs into radicals. In this is how Israel's actions harm U.S. interests?

The American people can also have a truth story behind the creation of Israel, and might consider the tragic events behind the Zionist propaganda in this country all these years, they are after all a fair-minded people who one day are going to be sick and tired of seeing Israel's bills and supporting Israel with billions of dollars when they are the lack of any elementary humanitarian traits. — N. Barak, Graduate, Political Science

DE shouldn't censor Wright cartoons

I'd like to defend the DE's publication of the cartoons by Wright of the Miami News, showing Sant's contemplation of a Christian, Mr. Benjamin Andrews. In his July 13 letter, he was offended by it and found it to be a "sin" on Christianity. I am also a Christian and found it amusing as well as serious. Wright points to a very unpleasant human trait — self-righteousness, which he can isolate in the group "Christianity." He should just as easily find this trait in many other groups as well as in my opinion, in varying degrees in most of us. I interpreted the cartoon as constructive criticism aimed at improving the human character. I believe we could eliminate much intolerance if people could set

In the most recent sequel to the controversy and aggression against the Palestinian people, the Americans-equipped Zionist army of Israel sits poised to strike Beirut, awaiting their chance to exterminate the PLO without regard for the half million civilians underfoot. And now, thanks to Haig's final contribution of diplomatic wisdom before packing his bags, the Reagan administration may finally have a chance to play "cowboys and Indians" with the Marines in southern Lebanon.

The solution to the Palestinian problem is not in the destruction of the PLO. The solution is in the recognition of the Palestinian people as an entity. The PLO has been defeated in the past and will not be defeated in the future. The Americans will not be able to solve the problem of the Palestinian people. The Americans will only be able to make the problem worse. The solution is in the recognition of the Palestinian people as an entity.

The injustice of the situation was perhaps best stated by George Bernard Shaw in his book Arab Awakening, in which he wrote, "No code of morals can justify the persecution of one people in an attempt to relieve the persecution of another. The cure for the evil of Jews from Germany is not to be sought in the evacuation of the Arabs from Palestine. The solution is to be no peace in Palestine until the British made the community recognized the rights of the Palestinian people. — Joanne Halliday, School of Law.

SIU-C senior is Miss Illinois

By Michele Imane
Staff Writer

Putting aside studies to pursue a dream, Miss Southern Illinois, Juleigh Jeffers, saw it become reality Saturday night when she was chosen Miss Illinois.

Jeffers, a 21-year-old senior in accounting at SIU-C, is now in Atlantic City preparing for the Miss America pageant, Sept. 6-11, in Atlantic City, N.J., said Wesley Jay Gibson, Jeffers’ boyfriend.

Jeffers, 5 feet 7 inches, 105 pounds, came to SIU-C last year after attending Wabash Junior College for two years, said Gibson. At Wabash she was chosen as Miss Wabash Valley in 1980.

County GOP caucus scheduled

The Republican Central Committee of Jackson County expects to draw 200 party members into the Jackson County Courthouse and Murphysboro’s Community Center Saturday for its first formal convention.

The central committee will fill vacant positions on the full ballot at the convention. Precinct positions and the superintendents of schools slot are still vacant, according to Bob Crim, member of the Jackson County Board, who will be keynote speaker Saturday night at the Community Center.

During three afternoon sessions, local candidates will be introduced, nominations made and a platform presented for adoption.

The open convention is scheduled from 2 to 5 p.m. at the courthouse and from 6 p.m. to midnight at the Community Center, 17 N. 14th St., in Murphysboro. Brenda Edgar, wife of Secretary of State Jim Edgar, will be the featured speaker.

Agriculture deans upgraded

Assistant deans for research and instruction in the School of Agriculture have had their positions upgraded and will now be called associate deans.

The changes are based on increased duties of the positions and in keeping with similar titles in other campus offices, said Gilbert H. Kroening, dean of the School of Agriculture.

William A. Doerr will serve as associate dean for instruction. He had been assistant dean for instruction since 1973.

James A. Tweedy will serve as associate dean for research. He succeeds D. Dixon Lee, who has returned to full-time teaching and research in the School of Agriculture’s department of animal industries.

Tweedy served as assistant research in 1974-75. He also has been associate vice president of academic affairs.

“Half of the Miss Illinois pageant is based on talent,” said Gibson. The Miss Illinois and Miss America pageants are talent pageants while the Miss U.S.A. pageant is a beauty pageant, Gibson said.

The other half of the Miss Illinois pageant is split among swimsuit competition, personal interview and evening gown competition.

Jeffers, whose hobbies include swimming, snow-skiing, and photography, is a presidential scholar at SIU-C, a national merit scholar; a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, a national honors business fraternity; and a member of the SIU-C Accounting Society. Gibson said.

He said they met while Jeffers was vice president of the National Honors Accounting Society, Beta Alpha Psi. He was president at that time in the spring of 1981.

Crimson rocks on
Belew's guitar and lyrics enliven 'Beat' album

By Cynthia Rector
Staff Writer

Album courtesy of Plaza Records

Anyone who went to school in Carbondale in the fall of '81 probably heard about a new the now Ring Krimson Cnband sly Struyk performance. The group was quite a hit, flattening SUC by choosing it as the first in only two campuses they visited on their tour.

At the time, the newly formed group had just finished their first album, "Discipline." Although obviously a tight collaborative effort, Crimson members say guitarist Robert Fripp provided the "magical hands" and their personalities, "common press, also contrast seems the members way." While Fripp, of course, is the band's core, the time, "new King Crimson was formed." The youth festival will be shown at 3:30 p.m. on Wednesdays through Aug. 12.

The second album, "The Discipline" is well as nearly as simple, the other two are "Black Hands." While "Two Hands" is about the life of a black youth in Oakland, Calif. Following the film, Karriem Shart'iti, coordinator of the Black Affairs Council, will speak. A SISU student, Shart'iti is a "talented person" and has been seen as an "oddball" by some. He says Dr. Marla Moody, assistant professor in the Social and Community Services Department.

The second film, "Poor Pay More," will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the center.

The youth festival will continue each week at 1-2 p.m. on Wednesdays through Aug. 11 at the center. The series on economic survival will continue each week at 7 p.m. on Thursdays through Aug. 12 at the center. Admission is free and open to the public.

Strategy the key to playing games

By Deen Kirk
Staff Writer

THE MENTION of strategic games might cause someone to think of games such as the historic battles at Gettysburg, Vicksburg or Guadalcanal.

But strategic games hold more than just re-creations of military events. No group knows this better than the Strategic Games Society, a SIU-C sponsored club.

The overall aim of the club is to "meet other people to game with," said Shaw Vineyard, an aviation technology major who has played strategic games for six years.

Club meetings also allow members to "get exposed to other games," he said.

AS THE name of the club implies, club members play strategic games — games that Vineyard said "can be anything from chess to checkers to this" pointing to Air War, a strategic game of aerial combat he was playing.

According to Jim Hanlon, a radiological health and safety major, Herrin physicist, 24-year-old of strategic games and one of the people who founded the club in October 1971, the connotation of strategic games is that they are generally military-type ones.

He also said that a player has "to strike a balance when deciding to play a strategic game. Some games that are easy to play may not be as realistic as persons would like them to be, while others are so realistic that they are complicated and hard to play.

Also, these complicated games usually take an excessive amount of time to play. But "most people can play 10 dorms to get new roofs

Ten campus dormitories at SIU-C will get new roofs this summer under contracts approved by the SIU Board of Trustees.

The $36,242 package includes roof replacements at three SIU dorms, 1200 South: Thompson Point residence halls and at the three University Park dorms: Street, halls — Allen, Bommer and Wright.

Marumur Roofing Co., Inc. of Marionville, won both contracts on low bids of $128,282 for Thompson Point and $119,960 for the triplets.

In other action at its meeting in Edwardsville Thursday, the board approved a $218,804 contract for E.T. Simonds Construction Co., of Carbondale, for repaving sections of campus drives hard hit by winter weather. Money will come from SIU-C's parking and traffic revenue fund.

To be repaired are the loop roads through Small Group Housing; the Oakman Avenue extension between Chaumette and Douglas Drive; and three 500-foot sections of Lincoln Drive.

Study rips stereotyping on kids' TV

By Norma Black
Associated Press Writer

Children's programming on commercial television is so one-sided in its depiction of white, male characters "that it can only be seen as a major barrier in the battle for recognition and respect for minorities in this country," a public-interest group study said Tuesday.

In fact, children's programs have fallen behind adult shows in the frequency with which they feature minority as well as female characters "and both groups are portrayed in a more stereotyped manner in children's programming than in prime-time programming," the study found.

The research unveiled here Tuesday by Action for Children's Television, a public-interest group based in Boston, was conducted by Dr. F. Earle Barcus, a professor of communications research at Boston University's School of Public Communication.

The study, "Representations of Life on Children's Television," was financed by the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corp. of New York and is based on a review of 38 hours of children's shows aired in the Boston area during January 1981.

Spokesmen for A3C, CBS and NBC declined to comment, saying they had not seen the report.

The study is in three sections, focusing on sex roles, minority portrayals and the view of family life offered by cartoons and other children's programs. And in each case, it finds much to fault.

Of the 1,145 characters who appeared in the 38 hours, Barcus reported only 42 were black and 47 belonged to other minority groups. Said the study, "This is an extremely worrisome finding." 2.7 percent of the characters in the sample were black; 3.1 percent were Hispanic and 9.8 percent were Asian.

Native Americans were represented solely by the character "Tonto" from the "Tarrant-Lone Ranger Adventure Hour," the study added.

Although blacks were more likely to be cast as heroes than villains, the study maintained "these examples of respect accorded to minority characters are offset by the infrequency of minority portrayals.

Peggy Chernen, founder and president of the group, said she found the study upsetting because "it shows a kind of implicit racism."

SIU may furnish mailing lists

By Rob Olson
Staff Writer

SIU-C is considering providing public officials and political candidates with a list of students' names and addresses for a "reasonable fee," but the proposal has been met with criticism by some members of the Graduate Student Council.

The proposal arose because SIU-C has received requests for the information from legislators and "those hoping to become legislators," Vice Chancellor James Brown said. He said that how much to charge for the lists will be up to the administrations at Carbondale and Edwardsville.

The proposal was met with heated discussion at the Graduate Student Council meeting last Wednesday. Some students were troubled by the possibility that the lists could eventually wind up in the hands of salespersons.

Roland Keim, assistant director of admissions and records, said that students who do not want their names or other information about themselves released can go to the admissions office in Woody Hall and fill out a form denying access to such information.

The GSC proposed a "positive check-off system" enabling students to decide during registration whether they want their names on those lists available to outside agencies.

Keim said he was concerned about such a procedure, saying it could adversely affect students. Prospective employers and other schools are among those who would not receive information a student chose to restrict, he said.

"That's why we want to make sure the student is very positive about his decision," Keim said.

"It seems to me that we should be guaranteed anonymity unless otherwise specified," said Fred Marx, graduate student in cinema and photography. "Instead of the other way around."

Laura Nelson, vice president of the GSC, said that releasing information on students is "a step in the wrong direction."

Those who request student information most frequently are faculty and graduate students doing research work, Keim said.

Keim estimates that between 200 and 300 students have filled out requests to restrict information.

This is a class?

hungry ticks lurk for lunch in foliage

by michele inman

"ticks are not only a problem of campers and outdoorsmen. They are found in or near any brushy or wooded areas on shrubs, trees, weeds and grass. And some present even a bigger problem - Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever."

the serious disease, which is a cause of much public concern, occurs when infected ticks bite humans, said Michele Jaclmik, public health educator for the Jackson County Health Department. But the disease is not widespread in this area.

"we have had one case so far this year in Jackson County," said Jaclmik. "we typically have one or two cases each year."

the severity of the disease varies among each individual's system of immunity, Jaclmik said. One can frequently contract the disease and not even be hospitalized while another may become severely ill.

Among children and older adults, the disease can cause death, she said.

though the disease was named after the rocky mountain region, Jaclmik said that most cases occur in the eastern seaboard area, such as the Carolinas and Virginia.

the primary problem of the disease is lack of information, she said. "it is a matter of the public understanding what the disease is and preventing it."

the odds of contracting the fever are rare, she said. "if you get a bite, you treat it like any other invasion to the body and you remove the tick. if you experience symptoms three to 10 days after the bite, go to the doctor."

the disease alarms the public unnecessarily, she said. "you must have common sense about things."

Symptoms of the disease are fever, muscle aches and nausea, according to a public service announcement of the Jackson County Health Department, and a rash appears on the hands, feet, arms, and legs about three days after symptoms begin.

there is no cure for the disease so the earlier the symptoms are treated, Jaclmik said, the less chance of having long-term effects such as brain and heart problems.

in the hospital, the condition is monitored, she said. unless the disease becomes fatal for the person, the initial symptoms will be overcome and, in most cases, there are no residual effects, she said.

but the person may take a long time to feel good again, she said, because the disease weakens a person.

not being aware of a tick bite is a large problem, said Jaclmik. "people are unaware of the bites because the tick drops off before they know it."

A common occurrence, according to Jaclmik, is a person, not being aware he or she was bitten, seeking medical care after experiencing serious symptoms.

"a lot of time is wasted looking for something other than rocky mountain spotted fever," said Jaclmik.

because there is no cure, prevention of the disease is important, so, it is a good idea to check clothes and body every three to four hours for ticks when in tick-infested areas, she said.

it takes four to six hours after the attachment of a tick to transmit fever, said Jaclmik.

the most common bit areas are in the back of the head at the nape of the neck and in back of the ears, she said. but don't become alarmed if a tick is seen.

Jukebox moving out; victim of video games

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was found a remote store was gathering people to eat or drink — in soda shops and pizza parlors, doped up on free beer. For a nickel, then a dime and now a quarter, the people could play if they wanted to pay.

These days may be over. Benet said the decline is due to declining profits, video games and even Muzak, the coin-operated music machine, or jukebox, may be soon a distant melody.

"There has been a tremendous decline in the number of places where jukeboxes were once located," says Leo Droste, executive vice-president of the Amusement and Music Operators Association.

"I can recall as a teen-ager you would worry about the jukebox in a drugstore and there would be a lot of girls playing it," he said. "You don't find that today. You find that if they do have music, it's background music."

Droste said that at the peak of the jukebox craze in the 1960's, there were 700,000 in the United States. By the early 1970's, the Chicago-based association estimates there were 450,000 boxy's, or 7,500 operators. In 1981, between 3,500 and 5,000 operators were running 300,000 jukeboxes, the association said.

So far this year, the Copyright Royalty Tribunal, a federal agency which sets copyright rates for song composers and publishers, has issued licenses for only 112,000 jukeboxes, a word from the southern julep jukebox or brothel. Association officials said some operators may not have renewed licenses for their boxes because of a higher licensing fee that went into effect earlier this year.

The jukebox manufacturing business has also been in decline. In the early 1970's, the association said four U.S. manufacturers — Seeberg, Rockola and Rowe — produced 70,000 jukeboxes a year.

A few companies are making jukeboxes in 1974. Seeberg manufactures four models, and Rowe is being made by Peerless Electronics. The total domestic jukebox output is down to 25,000 a year, and half of those are sold abroad.

In the late 20's or 30's, the jukebox alone has never been enough," said Manley Lawson Jr., vice-president of the Lawson Music Co. in Winter Haven, Fla., which owns a jukebox-only operation when Lawson's father started it in 1934. Now, Lawson said, jukeboxes account for only 30 percent of his business.

Video games are gobbling up many of the quarters that once went into jukeboxes. The jukebox may also taken victim in other sources of music such as disco and what distributor Peter R. Dore, in New York, calls "the illegal use of FM radio" piped in on stereo systems.

Many operators said the main reason for the jukebox's decline is that it has become unprofitable. The association says a 1981 survey of operators found that the average jukebox made a profit of only $49.95 in 1980. One-third of the operators surveyed said the average jukebox made the average jukebox was making a profit of $50 or less in 1980. One-third of the operators surveyed said the average jukebox made less than the average profit of $50 or less in 1980.

Operators say costs of machines, research and service men's salaries are going up.

All-Star setting in gallant style

MONTREAL (AP) — In a festive, bilingual setting, baseball celebrated its 1962 All-Star Game Tuesday night, an annual convention of the game's greats, both present and past.

A year ago the game was played in a more somber setting following the end of a tumultuous seven-week strike. This time, the sport is in an upbeat mood with attendance flourishing and the bad tastes of the walkout all but gone.

Both the National and American League teams had 29-man rosters packed with the best talent in the minors, baseball invited a more somber mood with the All-Star setting.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau described the All-Stars, saying, "It's tough to be prime minister in a country where you know Gary Carter could be elected anytime."

Baseball, 25-year-old second baseman from Sacramento, was in the Los Angeles Dodgers' Double A farm system at San Antonio. Hrbek, 22, of Minneapolis, was taking the cuts in the Class A California League at Val Vista, a Minnesota Twins farm team.

Tuesday night, each was an All-Star, selected to play in baseball's 53rd annual midsummer classic, representing not only their leagues but also the rookie class of 1982.

"A year ago, I was in Double A ball when this game was being played, so I wasn't even thinking about being here a year later," said Sax, who replaced Davey Lopes at second base this season when the Dodgers broke up their infield of the past decade. "All I was hoping for was to make it to the big leagues."

Tulsa hires ex-Saluki coach

Former SIU-C assistant basketball coach Rob Spivery has been named assistant coach at Tulsa University.

According to Tulsa Sports Information Director Gil Swalla, Spivery will be head coach Nolan Richardson's top assistant. He will be replacing Andy Stoglin, who has accepted the head coaching job at Southern University at Baton Rouge, La.

The 33-year-old, Phenix City, Ala., native came to SIU-C in 1978 as an assistant to Joe Gottfried. He had previously worked under Gottfried for three years at Ashland College in Ohio. He had also played minor league baseball.

Spivery was named interim head coach for the Salukis after Gottfried was forced to resign in 1981. He was the Saluki mentor in the Missouri Valley Conference tournament that year, in which SIU-C lost in the first round to Wichita State 77-57.

The Salukis' record while Spivery was assistant coach was 31-50.

This past season, Spivery was an assistant coach at Rhode Island University, which had a record of 10-17.

Richardson said in a news release, "We received many impressive applicants, and among them I felt Rob best fit what I was looking for in a replacement for Coach Andy Stoglin."

"Rob is similar to Andy in many ways, particularly his style and ability to locate prospects and recruit them successfully. He has the proper contacts to get the University of Tulsa in the right doors."

Richardson said Spivery's familiarity with the MVC helped him land the job.

Richardson said he first met Spivery when he was coaching at Western Texas Community College.

"If I hadn't gotten the job at Tulsa, there's a good chance two of our players, Paul Pressey and Greg Stewart, would have gone with Rob to SIU-C."

Spivery said he was excited about his new job. He said he would be the recruiting coordinator for the Golden Hurricane. Tulsa won the NIT championship two years ago and advanced to the NCAA playoffs last season.

Spivery said he would also be doing some "on the floor" coaching, working mostly with the forwards.

Richardson said he was uncertain of the status of former SIU-C and John A. Logan center Vince Wiggins. Wiggins had signed a letter-of-intent to play for Spivery at Rhode Island in April.

He said Wiggins was having academic problems and was attending summer school near his home in Brooklyn, N.Y. Spivery said the letter that Wiggins had signed was not a binding one and that Wiggins was thinking about attending Long Island University.
Golf tourney held; IM is heating up

Hot and heavy not only describes the summertime weather conditions in Carbondale, it also describes the action at Intramurals begin to wind down.

On Monday, the 18-hole golf tournament was held at Midland Hills Golf Club. Bill Meade captured the championship with an 18-hole scratch score of 72. Tom Dunn was the champion in the "A" flight with a score of 79, while Kevin Brown was the "B" flight winner with a score of 97. Brown also picked up an award for the 17-year-old sixth hole. He came up 105 from the hole.

"There are a lot of prizes for first in the "C" flight, with Dale Black, David Williams and Shane Katsumata all finishing with scores of 107. Sue Fazio, the lone female entrant, scored a 94 to take the woman's title. Her score would have placed her sixth overall in the men's "A" division.

In the three-on-three basketball action, Hot Stuff continues to lead the men's "A" division with a 40-30 record. Several and Animals are tied for second with 3-1 records, but Animals beat Beef by 19-15 in their last meeting.

11 new members selected to IAAC

Final revisions for the 1982-83 men's athletics budget should be completed by the middle of the month, according to Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Sibumage.

After completion, the budget will be considered by the intercollegiate Athletics Advisory Committee for final approval. The IAAC is an advisory committee comprised of members from various organizations at SIU. The function of the committee is to advise the administration on issues dealing with athletics.

According to Jean Paratore, assistant director of athletics and student affairs, the 19-member committee is not open to faculty and staff. Paratore said members of the Faculty Senate—Ruth Bauer, Thomas Brooks, Reena Dillon, Lawrence Maltin and Shelly Boulous—have all been named to serve on the committee. A sixth member from the Faculty Senate is expected to be named late Tuesday.

Paratore said she hopes the remaining eight members will be selected in time for next week's meeting.

Swinburne said the actual figures for fiscal year 1982 will be released Thursday. As soon as the figures are finalized, he will review the budget request for fiscal year 1983, the overall figures will also be made available. Swinburne also said figures for the overall sports would not be made, and the individual coaches had a chance to look them over.

The men's "B" division is led by Bobie Dinkham's 4-0, while Twango Too owns a 3-0 record.

Joyce Craven, director of Intramurals, said that the records won't matter much when the playoffs begin next week. All the teams will go into this weekend's action playoffs with clean slates.

Underpted teams dominate the men's 12-inch softball tournament. Six teams—Spankiers I, Forteclias, Zoo Team, NWT, Bushmen and Pad-Rangers—have either a 3-0 or 4-0 record.

In the co-rec division, Kish Kades are undefeated at 4-0 to lead the league.

An intense rivalry is developing between the only women's softball teams. Get Down On It and Sisters in Law each have 2-1 records.

The men's 16-inch softball tournament is led by the 3-0 marks of Spankiers, in Crowd and The Players.

The Swallows lead the men's co-rec 16-inch division with a 4-0 record, followed by Hogans Heroes at 3-0.

Some of the divisions have been decided in the tennis and racquetball tournaments. Susan Puteck took the women's singles, and NPSA finished first in mixed doubles.

Rodgers admits to cocaine use

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George Rogers of the New Orleans Saints admitted Tuesday that he used cocaine last season — when he was named Rookie of the Year and led the National Football League in rushing — but promised "it will never happen again."

Rogers, who set a rookie record with 1,774 yards for the Saints last season, said he underwent testing and treatment for drug abuse last week at a Florida clinic.

"I am sorry for what I did," the 1981 Heisman Trophy winner from Sou"h Carolina said at a press conference. "I made a mistake, and I have to live up to that. I made a mistake and it will never happen again."

Rogers, his attorney Ed Holler and Saints Coach Bum Phillips would not answer any questions regarding the drug scandal surrounding the team and the NFL.

U.S. District Judge Veronica Raddix issued a gag order date Paris at Arlington Park.

L'Aig Filt finished third in the seven-starting race for fillies and males.

Green List, ridden by Gerlad Galligano, paid $17.00, $6.40 and $3.40. The winner, over Bellsom Over, Mrs. Joe W. Brown of New Orleans, was clocked in 1:39.1. Moa the 6-5 favorite, returned $2.60 and $3.40. L'Aig Filt paid $2.80.

Green List wins at Arlington

CHICAGO (AP) — Green List produced the best baseball excitement at Arlington Park on Moa late in the stretch to score a one-length victory Tuesday in the $10,000 Daily Digest at Arlington Park.

L'Aig Filt finished third in the seven-starting race for fillies and males.

"I've raised six of my own and 3,300 of other people's," Phillips said. "I'm treating him like one of my own."

He said he hoped Rogers would not renege on his promise to stay clear of cocaine.

"If it happens once, shame on you. If it happens twice, shame on me," Phillips said.

In other football news, Quarterback Vince Evans and middle linebacker Lee Kunz have signed contracts for the 1982-83 season, a spokesperson for the National Football League's Bears announced Tuesday.

In keeping with the club policy, terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Evans, a sixth-round pick from Southern California in 1977, has started the last 26 games for the Bears, during which he accrued for 31 touchdowns, 21 by passing and 10 running.

Kunz, a sixth-round draft choice from Nebraska in 1979, started the first seven games of 1981 for Chicago.
