Spending plan diminishes University budget 3 percent

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

The University administration is trying to figure out where to pare its budget to comply with a 3 percent cut in state institution spending plans ordered by Gov. James Thompson.

Donald Wilson, University system financial officer, said the governor's edict will cost the system about $5 million from its fiscal year 1987 operations budget, with roughly $3 million of that coming from the Carbondale campus.

Wilson said the 3 percent reduction trims the governor's suggested 8 percent budget increase for the system down to about 5.4 percent.

He said the percentages translated into dollars mean Thompson's original proposition of $204.5 million for the SIU System is knocked down to about $199.7 million, with nearly $141.5 million of that going to SIU-C.

The increases were figured on the system's fiscal 1986 budget base, which came to about $189.5 million.

Thompson's new state spending plan, announced Friday, came after the Illinois Legislature already approved a system budget plan for fiscal 1987, which began July 1.

Richard Kolhauser, deputy director of the state's Bureau of the Budget, said the reduction measure will save the state about $353 million.

Wilson said the cut would come out of the system's operating budget. He explained that the operating budget is essentially the money that keeps the system running.

That budget, Wilson explained, consists of wages for University personnel plus support costs for materials and equipment.

University President Albert Somit said he was not sure when the new budget figures would be available, but he said compliance with the directive will probably mean reductions in salary increases and new program funds.

He said at least 1 percent of the reduction will be taken out of the money reserved for salary increases, whereas "most of the money will come from new program allocations."

"There could be serious reductions in this area," Somit added. He said he could not elaborate on the possible reductions but "it is likely we can cover the loss in just the two areas."

The system prepared a budget request for fiscal 1987 that included the 6.5 percent salary increase suggested by Thompson in February. Somit said that at the Board of Trustees meeting in Alton Thursday, he thought only 1 percent of a budget cut could be absorbed through the salary increase funds.

Wilson said the 3 percent cut would come "from the governor's original funding level."

He said the system budget was reduced by 1 percent from the governor's proposal by the State Senate to about $203 million, making the actual system budget cut after the governor's announcement only 2 percent.

Michael Williams, director of the University's Budget Office, said all of his personnel were re-figuring budget numbers that had already been calculated, set into type and sent to the Legislature. He said he also had no definite idea when the new calculations would be completed.

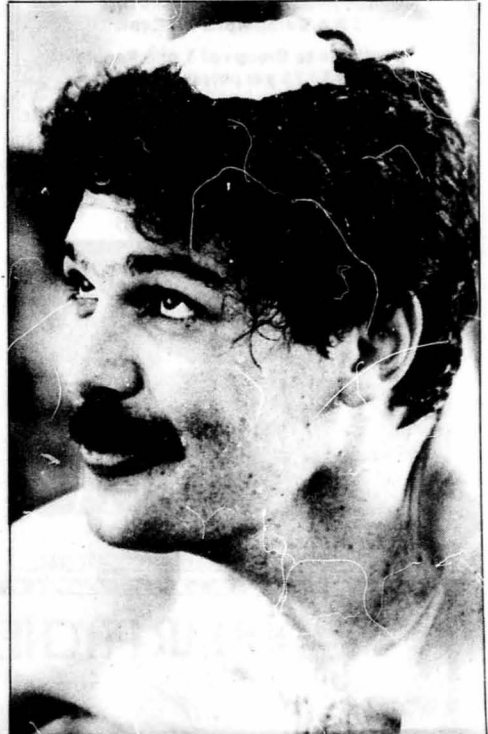

Somit said he hoped the new figures would be tabulated and off to Springfield Tuesday.

Somit also said that refiguring the budget would delay employee pay raises that were supposed to appear on paychecks beginning Aug. 1. He could not specify when the pay raises would appear.

Susan Rehwaldt, assistant to the president, said that regardless of the delay, the raises would be retroactive to July 1.

Somit said each percentage point reduction in the budget translates roughly into a $1 million spending loss for the University.

Neither John Baker, University planning and budgeting director, nor Charles Hindersman, vice president for financial affairs, were available Monday for comment.

Students with outstanding short-term loans to get billed

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The Bursar's Office will be sending bills to students who have outstanding short-term loans beginning this month.

Previously, students who took out short-term loans were not billed. To find out how much they owed, students had to request the information from the Bursar's Office.

Robert Brewer, assistant bursar in charge of accounts receivable, said the changes were made "to improve the accounting of the loans themselves" and to "improve the method of informing students of their outstanding balance."

Billing for short term loans will be separate from the bursar bill.

Brent Patton, accounts receivable accountant, said the 1.5 percent service charge on the bursar bill for tuition, fees and other damages does not apply to a short-term loan.

Since tuition and housing charges would be given priority over a short-term loan on the regular bursar bill, Brewer said, this would not be an efficient method for billing.

The Bursar's Office requests that students who owe on a short-term loan send two checks — one for the regular bursar bill and one for the short-term loan.

The identification number for a short-term loan billing will be the student's social security number preceded by a three. The identification number for regular bursar billing is the social security number preceded by a zero.

"This is to make sure the money is applied to the proper account," Brewer said.

Brewer also said students should identify on the check what the payment is for — bursar bill or short-term loan.

"We want to alert students that if they do have a short-term loan outstanding, they will be receiving two bills," Brewer said.

If students have any problems with or questions about the new billing procedure, Brewer said, they should contact Sheila Echols, accounts receivable accountant, at 453-2221, extension 24.

Financial aid students OKed for book credit

Beginning this fall, students who are on scholarships or receiving financial aid will be able to charge their books, said John Corker, director of the Student Center.

Corker said the Bursar's

Office will prepare a list of students who are receiving financial aid and give it to the University Bookstore. The program will be implemented on a trial basis, he added.

Students may charge books for the amount of money they have left after housing, tuition and fees charges are deducted. Corker said students may charge books beginning a week before school.

Swinburne said a book voucher system is needed because it will allow students who receive financial aid late in the semester to have their books when the semester starts.

Budget director sees higher deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Budget director James Miller forecast Monday the 1987 deficit will be at least $10 billion over the Gramm-Rudman limit and House Speaker Thomas O'Neill predicted Congress will cut spending to comply.

Miller, in a briefing for reporters, said the August projection of the fiscal 1987 deficit will be at least $10 billion — and perhaps as much as $20 billion — higher than the Gramm-Rudman requirement of $144 billion — enough to trigger a new round of cuts. Those cuts were supposed to be automatic this fall under Gramm-Rudman, but last week the Supreme Court threw out the mechanism, requiring Congress to make the cuts.

"The deficit looks worse, not better," Miller said. Economic growth in fiscal 1986 will not meet the 4 percent rate the administration expected, he added, though he said he expects it to pick up in fiscal 1987, which begins Oct. 1.

The Supreme Court also invalidated $11.7 billion in 1986 spending, forcing Congress to ratify those cuts as well. O'Neill predicted Congress would ratify the 1986 cuts and set to work on a procedure.

"We ought to go along with the earlier cuts made in the '86 budget," O'Neill said. "It's been completed and I don't think we ought to go back and undo it."

Senate GOP leader Robert Dole of Kansas said the Senate would "wait for the House" before moving on the March cuts.

Ratification of the fiscal 1986 spending cuts is all but given, but any additional cuts for fiscal 1987 are far less certain.

Black man seen as possible South African ambassador

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A black North Carolina businessman is being considered for the post of ambassador to South Africa as part of an overhaul of U.S. policy toward the white-minority government, anonymous administration and congressional sources said Monday. Robert Brown of High Point, N.C., was described by an administration official as a "bridge builder" with ties to both Republican conservatives and civil rights veterans Jesse Jackson, Coretta Scott King and Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young.

Democrats deal for 2nd judge nomination vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats threatened Monday to block President Reagan's Supreme Court nominations unless Republicans submit to a second vote on the controversial appointment of Daniel Manion to the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals. Democratic leader Robert Byrd and his chief deputy, Sen. Alan Cranston, urged Senate Republican leader Robert Dole to go ahead with a showdown on Manion but received no assurances of a vote before Congress adjourns in October. Without a vote, Manion would be automatically confirmed once the session ends.

Thatcher accepts invitation to visit Moscow

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher received a message from Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev on arms control Monday and accepted an invitation to visit Moscow. Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze delivered the message and extended the invitation during a meeting with Thatcher at 10 Downing Street that lasted 45 minutes longer than the originally planned 90 minutes.

Bombing in Madrid leaves 8 dead, 61 injured

MADRID (UPI) — A bomb planted in a van by suspected Basque separatists exploded early Monday, killing eight Civil Guard cadets on a passing bus and wounding at least 61 other people. Authorities believed the attack — the worst by suspected Basque terrorists since 1974, when 12 people were killed in a cafeteria near a police station — was in retaliation for France's expulsion of the Basque's reputed commander.

Israeli warplanes assail Palestinian targets

ATTAT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli warplanes attacked Palestinian military targets in Lebanon Monday for the second time in four days, killing at least four people and wounding 11, authorities said. The raids apparently were in retaliation for increased guerrilla attacks inside Israel. Security sources said four F-16 jets attacked the Palestinian positions in the villages of Bayssour, Aitah, Ainab and Shehman in the Druze-held Shouf mountains, 12 miles southeast of Beirut.

Vietnamese Communist Party elects leader

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — President Truong Chinh, a tough Marxist ideologue, Monday won "unanimous" election as Vietnamese Communist Party leader, replacing the late Le Duan in the most powerful position in the country, official Radio Hanoi reported. The election of the 79-year-old head of state combined the presidency and party leadership for the first time since the death of Ho Chi Minh in 1969 and appeared to indicate a desire for continuity among Vietnamese officials.

Tribune Co. to purchase Daily Press Incorporated

The two newspapers serve the Virginia Peninsula region with a total circulation of 104,000 daily and 112,000 on Sundays. The transaction also includes two cable television systems located in Newport News and Danville, Va.

Detective: survivor helped solve Speck case

CHICAGO (UPI) — If nurse Corazone Amuroso had not hidden under the bed as her eight roommates were taken out by one to be stabbed and strangled by Richard Speck, the case may never have been solved, Jack Wallenda, former detective said Monday on the 20th anniversary of the slayings. Speck, 43, who was convicted in 1967 of the eight murders and is now in Stateville Correctional Center in Joliet, is scheduled for a parole hearing next year.

Policies won't bind Du Quoin fair, officials say

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

State officials say they don't feel bound to policies of the past in operating the Du Quoin State Fair, set for Aug. 23 through Labor Day, now that it's under public ownership.

Among the changes they announced Friday is dropping the admission charge, offering live entertainment daily at no charge, adding more variety to what had become a mostly country-western lineup of night acts and reinstating "SIU Day."

However, both University and fair officials said that exactly what specifies the fair will feature on Aug. 29, the day SIU-C will be in the spotlight, have yet to be ironed out, except for a concert by soul singer Germaine Jackson.

A MEETING between fair and University officials is set for Wednesday.

James Skilbeck, aide to Gov. James Thompson, said state officials decided to try some new policies, including doing away with the admission charge which had been as high as $3, on an experimental basis.

Mike Dubois, fair manager, said officials have wanted to do away with the admission charge at the state fair in Springfield for several years but have felt constrained by the policies of past years.

With the Du Quoin fair, which came under state ownership in March, Skilbeck said officials feel they have more "latitude and flexibility" to try new policies.

"WE'RE DOING this because we need to show people that the fair has come back," he said. Attendance figures reportedly declined during recent years when the fair was operated by the Jabr family.

Other new policies, set for the fair include lowering the parking charge to $1, organizing a parade through downtown Du Quoin the evening before the fair officially opens and offering dances featuring 1940s-style music nightly in a building that housed disco dances in past years.

Skilbeck said the changes aren't permanent. Officials plan to assess their success when they plan for later fairs, he said.

In addition to nightly shows which will include such acts as the Beach Boys, Kris Kristofferson and Willie Nelson, free live entertainment will be offered daily under two large beer tents.

BOTH AFTERNOONS of the first weekend the fair will feature truck and tractor pulls. During weekday afternoons, harness racing with pari-mutuel betting is set for the one-mile grandstand track.

The main event of the fair, the World Trotting Derby, is slated for Saturday, Aug. 30. The purse for the race is $520,000.

Car races are featured the final two afternoons of the fair.

In addition to free admission and a drop in the parking fee from $2 to $1, Skilbeck said ticket prices for the night shows are lower than in the past.

HE SAID officials are not planning the fair with the intention of raking in a high profit. "The state of Illinois is not in the business of making money at either the Du Quoin or the Illinois state fairs," he said. "It's a way to showcase what's good about Illinois."

Fair planners do expect to break even, Skilbeck said, and are "maintaining fiscal responsibility" in their plans.

Dubois said tickets to the night shows will not be available until late July because of problems installing a computerized sales system.

When tickets do go on sale, they will be available at the fairgrounds and by mail.

Ford is guest of honor for Patchett event; Gray sees red

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

Former President Gerald Ford's planned visit to Southern Illinois Tuesday to endorse Randy Patchett has raised the ire of a former colleague — Rep. Ken Gray.

Ford will be the guest of honor at a $100-a-person fundraising event for Patchett at the home of Miki Cooper, Republican state chairwoman, in Harrisburg.

Patchett is Gray's Republican opponent in the November election for U.S. representative from the 22nd District.

Gray said Monday he worked with Ford when both were congressmen, even helping him spend $20 million in funding through the House Public Works Committee, which Gray chaired, for a federal building in Grand Rapids, Mich., that was later named "The Gerald R. Ford Building."

Gray also said he convinced other Democrats on the committee to support Ford when he was seeking confirmation to become vice president.

"My opinion is that politics are more important than friendship to Ford," he said.

Gray said he expects Ford to criticize some of the votes he's cast, especially his decision not to vote in favor of a $100 million aid package for rebels trying to overthrow the Nicaraguan government.

"I'm not against his visit," he said. "I'm just put out that he's down there shooting me full of holes, but when he wanted something he thought I was a pretty good fellow."

Patchett said he has known Ford since the former president did some similar campaign stumping for him in 1984, when he and Gray were vying for the same representative post.

He said Ford is visiting Southern Illinois because he "has seen fit to endorse my candidacy over Kenry Gray's."

Gray charged that Ford was being paid to campaign for Patchett by the Republican National Committee. He said when Ford campaigned for Patchett and nine other Republican candidates in 1984, the committee allegedly donated $100,000 to the Gerald R. Ford Foundation.

But Patchett said, "Nobody's paid Ford to come here that I'm aware of."

Pinochet shows North Carolinian

SENATOR JESSE HELMS of North Carolina has been running his mouth again, showing foreign governments just how the "ugly American" myth got started.

Fresh from his harsh condemnation of the Mexican government, which Helms called crooked from top to bottom, he has moved on to South America, where he questioned the U.S. State Department's handling of human rights violations in Chile.

Helms has all but called for the resignation of U.S. Ambassador to Chile Harry Barnes. Appalled by recent police activities designed to curb anti-government activities, Barnes attended the funeral of 19-year-old Rojas de Negri this weekend in Santiago.

DE NEGRI WAS ON A six-week visit to Chile when he was assailed by Chilean troops in a poor Santiago neighborhood. He had been taking photographs of the area that day, according to his family, when he came upon a group of young people preparing to mount a barricade of burning tires across a neighborhood street. The protest marked the beginning of a 48-hour general strike against the Pinochet government.

Witnesses at the site said government troops doused de Negri and his companion, 18-year-old Carmen Quintana Arancibia, with a flammable substance, then set the two afire. They were later found wandering along a nearby road, burned from head to toe.

HELMS LATER SAID The ambassador reported the burnings of the two young people to the State Department in such a manner as "to produce criticism of the Chilean regime." Such criticism was warranted, and Helms should have been the first to congratulate Barnes on his action, instead of calling for his resignation and accusing him of being a communist sympathizer.

Hardly an advocate of civil rights for this or any other country, Helms accused Barnes of having "planted the American flag in the midst of a communist activity" by attending the youth's funeral.

The government of Chile, set in place by a military junta, has been controlled by President Augusto Pinochet Ugarte since the overthrow of Marxist President Salvador Allende in 1973.

SINCE THAT TIME, CHILE has lived under a state of constant repression and terror. The Pinochet government denies civil rights to many Chilean citizens in order to "exterminate Marxism." Since May of this year, Chilean police and soldiers have arrested 17,000 people. This belies the statement made by Pinochet that "nowhere is there more democracy practiced than here."

Helms, in Chile on yet another of his "fact-finding tours" funded by American taxpayers, is doing nothing but adding to the confusion there. The only facts Helms has found were supplied by the Pinochet government, a regime that even the Reagan administration has given up on as nothing more than a fascist dictatorship.

Save the country further embarrassment, Jesse, and go back to North Carolina. At least there you can't get into trouble. Not too much, anyway.

Soviet boot grinds Afghans into the dust

While we reflect on our freedoms this fourth of July, another country is engaged in a battle of death to retain theirs. While we think ourselves safe around our barbecues in our backyard, the Soviet Union, like some heinous serial killer, is murdering one country after another. Their latest, and still struggling, victim is Afghanistan.

We are lulled into believing the Soviets want peace as they draw the noose tighter around the neck of freedom, slowly and strategically choking it.

The world, notably the American left, can muster criticism against South Africa, the justified bombing of Libya, and the cause of anti-Soviet and Cuban liberation movements, yet remain strangely quiet in condemning the Soviets for their invasion of Afghanistan.

Are the leftists moral cowards, or are they unwittingly gagged into silence by the KGB? Are they blind to the genocide? One third of the Afghan people have been murdered and made refugees, as entire villages have been napalmed and gassed out of existence.

"Butterfly bombs," as the Soviets refer to them, are left for children to pick up, play with and die. Soviet policy now dictates hunting down and killing American journalists inside Afghanistan.

We need a serious response to this kind of aggression instead of silly grain and Olympic embargos.

Write your congressman for military and economic aid to all anti-Soviet liberation movements. — Jeff Thomason, Murphysboro.

Are good ideas still worth it?

By Keith Tuxhorn
Carbondale City Council member

Viewpoint

HERE ARE A FEW comments from one City Council member regarding the July 9 DE editorial and Viewpoint about the convention center and Big Ditch projects, respectively.

Your mention of an impasse between the city and the University over the proposed bus system is certainly news to me. I didn't even know discussions had started, and I don't recall any progress reports coming to the council from any of the city staff.

I'd hope that any bus line proposal would include routes to Marion and Murphysboro. The cost for public transportation can be staggering, and serving a larger population will, of course, give a system a better chance for regularly running in the black.

THE OCCUPANCY figures used by the local hotel owners were erroneous, to an extent. After several initially low occupancy years, rentals would rise back to the breakeven rate due to increased tourism. So the theory goes.

At any rate, the center is still a risky project, and will be more of one if we suck up to Crystal Development's plan. At the July 7 meeting, a Crystal representative could give no more certain answers than his group did last winter. Now we seem ready to accept them as developers, with the same questions still in place.

Almost as important is what Crystal's hotel will look like, if they become developers. Architect Wallace Palmer is known for designing big, bulky, garish-looking buildings. Some folks have called them: downright ugly. While the council has the power to reject any building designs for this project, it might not be fun trying to get Mr. Palmer to change his personal vision.

I FEEL THE COUNCIL is being stamped into a decision because of the threatened loss of bonding powers at the end of this year. A good, solid, well thought out idea and approach will endure any economic hardships. Maybe that approach will not include the Crystal folks. Maybe that approach won't include any conference center.

Oh — did anybody notice that two years, or even five years, ago, while local boy Stan Hoye was the focus of the project, there was no concern by other local hotel owners over occupancy rates? But as soon as the out-of-town developers get involved, the council received a local unfeasibility study. Isn't that an intriguing turn of events?

LIKE THE CONFERENCE center issue, if the Big Ditch had been put to a public vote, it would have been dead years ago. Unfortunately, the city and all other locally-funded bodies are legally bound to keep project funding together from their end. Only a federal funding failure will release local bodies of their obligation. Washington must give the go-ahead for funding by Sept. 30 or the ditch project will be effectively cancelled.

Eldon Gosnell's projections that there will be a 50 percent traffic increase over the tracks by the year 2005 doesn't take into account the very slow population increase in this area, nor does it consider how much SIU-C might shrink, given the decreases in grant money and constant tuition increases.

A $17,000 CUT IN community agency funding is absurd in light of $1.6 million for the ditch, especially when you look at how many more people are helped with each dollar invested in service agencies. The Big Ditch project would generate a lot of cash, too — if it ever were to happen.

But just to prove to you how financially responsible the city is, let me tell you what happened to me. I wished to subscribe to a magazine put out by the National League of Cities called "Public Innovations Abroad," thinking perhaps I could get some good problem-solving ideas.

NOT BEING A wealthy man, and specifically because I wanted it to aid my council work, I asked the city to pay the subscription cost. I received a note this week telling me the rest of the City Council decided we couldn't afford it, and that money was "too tight" around the city.

The subscription cost was $48. This is the amount our city manager makes for about two hours of work. This is about three hundred-thousandths of one percent of what we propose to spend on the Big Ditch.

I guess good ideas aren't worth much anymore, especially in the eyes of our City Council.

NASA delays shuttle flight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NASA head James Fletcher told President Reagan Monday the first shuttle flight with redesigned booster rockets will be delayed until early 1988 because corrective action is taking longer than expected.

"When we start flying again we want to make sure it really is safe," Fletcher said at a news conference four hours after his brief Oval Office meeting with the president.

"It is that high priority of safety that has caused that date to slip," he said.

A launch in early 1988 would represent a six-month setback from the most recent schedule and mean American astronauts will be grounded two years by the Challenger accident — at least three months longer than the setback resulting from the fatal

Apollo 1 launch pad fire in 1967.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration had been shooting for a July 1987 launch for the first post-Challenger shuttle flight.

Space agency sources said internal planning documents list the tentative launch date target for February 1988.

The sources said, however, that Marshall Space Flight Center booster rocket officials in Huntsville, Ala., have asked for an additional two-month schedule cushion, which could set the flight back to April 1988. A definite schedule will not be established until the booster rocket design process is farther along. A flaw in the booster was pinpointed as the cause of January's Challenger disaster.

The new NASA administrator, responding to an order from Reagan last month, gave the president a 50-page report detailing how the space agency is implementing the recommendations issued by the Rogers Commission report on the accident.

"Those of us at NASA, who have worked incessantly since that day in January when the Challenger and her crew, our friends, were lost, dedicate this report to those who will fly again into space in the future," the document said.

Fletcher later called the report "a roadmap to get back flying again."

Still unresolved is whether Reagan will approve a NASA plan to build a new shuttle to replace Challenger. Reagan's decision on that issue has been delayed more than two months by questions of how to cover the $2 billion-plus cost of the new ship.

Catholic church to review new, controversial advisor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special committee of Roman Catholic bishops has been named to investigate the appointment of a controversial Jesuit theologian to the sensitive post of doctrinal adviser to the hierarchy, church officials said Monday.

"At the General Secretary's request, a panel of bishops ... has been formed to examine the situation and advise the General Secretary," a spokesman for the Conference of Catholic Bishops said in a brief statement.

At issue is the appointment of the Rev. Michael J. Buckley, a Jesuit theologian and former rector of the Jesuit School of Theology in Berkeley, Calif., to serve as executive director of the bishops' committee on doctrine and its panel on pastoral research and practices.

Buckley was named to the post in May by the Rev. Daniel Hoye, general secretary of the bishops conference, but the nomination has been stalled under pressure from some members of the hierarchy reportedly concerned about Buckley's views on the ordination of women to the priesthood.

Buckley signed an appointment to Archbishop Jean Jadot, then the apostolic delegate to the U.S. church, expressing theological disagreement with a declaration by the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith that women cannot be ordained.

Female students say professors making advances

NEW YORK (UPI) — A growing number of female students say they have been sexually harassed by professors, but college administrators often are reluctant to acknowledge the problem, Glamour magazine reported Monday.

One in six female former psychology students who responded to a nationwide University of Missouri study last year reported having sex with her professor, very often her thesis adviser or her supervisor, the magazine said.

"Thirty-one percent of the women reported sexual advances from a professor while in graduate school," said psychologist Joseph Thorpe, who, with graduate student Robert Glasser, sent surveys to 1,047 women. The researchers received 464 responses.

"Some acknowledged the pass — others didn't, and 45 percent of the 31 percent said when they refused sexual propositions, they received some punitive action," Thorpe said.

Of those who had sex with professors, 28 percent said they felt coerced when it happened and, when they reflected on the incident, the number grew to 51 percent.

The article also cited a 1984 Indiana University national survey that found 25 percent of all female graduate students could expect sexual harassment from either a faculty member or an administrator during their college years.

In addition, a 1983 Harvard University student survey found 41 percent of female graduate students suffered some form of sexual harassment from a faculty member or administrator during their college years, the magazine said.

Mother protests textbook as violating her religion

GREENEVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A mother of four protested in the so-called "Scopes II" trial Monday, saying some textbooks in rural Tennessee schools teach evolution as a fact and list man's "closest relative" as a chimpanzee.

"God made the animals of a different flesh and man and woman of a different flesh. We did not descend from a common ancestor," Vicki Frost said in the start of testimony in the U.S. District Court trial.

Frost is the leader of a group of fundamentalist Christian parents and children suing Hawkins County school officials in a case that could have national implications like the "Scopes Monkey Trial" 61 years ago in Dayton, Tenn., 150 miles away.

Frost, who was arrested for trespassing several years ago for barging into her daughter's classroom, said a number of textbooks — the "Holt Basic Reader" in particular — violate her religious upbringing.

And the suit seeks alternative textbooks or the children of parents who object to the controversial books that Frost, 34, said contain "situational ethics" where children learn the same thing is right sometimes, but wrong in other situations.

She also said the books teach magic, the occult and fortunetelling.

The state of Tennessee finds itself in the reverse situation from the July 1925 Scopes trial, when it tried high school biology teacher John Scopes for violating a state law by teaching Darwin's theory of evolution.

S. Africa labor strike persists

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Black workers in Port Elizabeth Monday heeded a strike call to protest the detention of labor leaders under a state-of-emergency rule, virtually shutting down the city's industry, but it was largely ignored in other parts of the country.

The one-day protest strike, called by the Congress of South African Trade Unions, shut down factories in the south coast city of Port Elizabeth and left its streets virtually deserted, officials said.

But in other areas of the nation, labor and industry officials reported most black workers went to work in what appeared to be a defeat for the federation, known as Cosatu. The strike was illegal under South Africa's labor laws.

In another apparent protest over emergency rule, thousands of black students boycotted the reopening of school after a mid-term recess following President Pieter Botha's imposition of strict rules to control campus political activity.

Botha declared state-of-emergency rule June 12, granting authorities sweeping powers of arrest and detention and placing severe restrictions on the domestic and foreign press in a bid to quell intensifying racial unrest.

More than 2,000 people, the overwhelming majority of them black, have been killed since a wave of violence over the white-minority government's policies of racial separation, known as apartheid.

Livengood states he is not interested in Wyoming job

By Steve Merritt
Assistant Sports Editor

Even though SIU-C Athletics Director Jim Livengood is one of four finalists for athletics director at Wyoming University, he's not ready to leave the job he just started at in November.

"I thought I made it clear on Nov. 11 (his first day on the job) that I was here to stay as long as the people would have me," Livengood said Monday afternoon. "I made my commitment and that commitment was to SIU."

Livengood said he was informed that he was a finalist, at Wyoming on Friday night around 10 p.m. and has been flooded with phone calls and questions ever since.

"I'm really surprised this thing has drawn this much attention," Livengood said. "I've talked to a lot of people here on campus who have already written me off as gone for Wyoming."

The University of Wyoming began a national search for an athletics director this summer, after Gary Cunningham resigned the position in May. A Wyoming spokesman said the university received more than 80 applications for the position.

Del Wight, a defensive coordinator for the Wyoming football team and a member of the athletics director search committee, said he nominated Livengood based on "Livengood's obvious abilities as an athletic administrator. Wight was defensive coordinator at Washington State while Livengood was an assistant athletic director there."

"Jim is a good administrator and has a good personality — that's why we'd like to have him," he said.

Wight said that Livengood

had indicated to him that he had no intention of leaving SIU-C and added that he was sure Livengood liked the Southern Illinois area.

"He likes it where he's at and he's in no hurry to leave," Wight said. "He assured me of that and we knew we were taking a gamble when we nominated him as a finalist."

Livengood, a native of Washington and a graduate of Brigham Young University, however, has accepted an invitation to visit the Wyoming campus on Wednesday and Thursday "as a courtesy gesture."

Livengood said he understood why it might be easy to jump to conclusions based on his accepting the invitation to visit Wyoming. But he said he was "surprised, shocked and hurt" that so many people thought he would accept the position if offered.

"I think it's a situation that's been all blown out of proportion," Livengood said. "I think I have a great job. I work with a great staff who are working hard to make things better and I think that we, as a group, are obtaining that objective — that's why we're all here — to make things better."

Livengood said he had not accomplished all the things he wanted to do for SIU-C athletics and that he would not consider another job until he was satisfied with his results at SIU-C. He added that he had been contacted on four occasions about similar athletics administration positions.

He said that visiting and getting to know the workings of other athletic departments could be beneficial to the operations of the SIU-C athletics department.

"From a standpoint of education about and knowledge of your profession, it always behooves you to get out and see how things are handled at other places," Livengood said. "Maybe they're doing something we haven't thought of — maybe the trip will turn up something that can help us here."

The Wyoming intercollegiate athletics program has 17 sports and an annual budget of about $5 million. The school competes at the NCAA Division I-A level in the Western Athletic Conference for men and the Big Country Conference for women's sports.

An athletics administrator at Wyoming said the athletics director position would pay between $60,000 and $65,000 a year.

In comparison, Livengood was appointed at a salary of $57,504. The SIU-C athletics budget is about $3.5 million for 20 intercollegiate sports, 10 each for men and women.

Malaysia downs United Nations in title game

By Steve Kouros
Sports Editor

Behind two goals by forward Syed Abdullah, the SIU-C Malaysian Student Association Team B defeated the United Nations 2-1 in the intramural soccer tournament championship game Sunday night.

The two-day, single elimination tournament was held at the intramural fields in front of Brush Towers.

Abdullah took advantage of a mental mistake by United Nations fullback Lorren Wilson to notch the game-winning goal for the Malaysians midway through the second half.

Wilson attempted to clear the ball from his defensive end but made an errant pass directly upfield to an alert Abdullah, who intercepted the ball. Abdullah's shot was initially stopped by Wilson, but Abdullah blasted the rebound past Wilson and goalie Chan Fod Weng from seven yards out for the game-winning goal.

"I was expecting him (Wilson) to hit it low," said Abdullah, describing his interception. "Normally as a forward you stand by the opposing goal in that situation."

Abdullah scored midway through the first half to give the Malaysians a 1-0 lead. After working a give-and-go with one of his teammates, Abdullah drilled a shot from 12 yards out to beat Weng.

But the United Nations team, looking sluggish because it was playing its third game within seven hours in the 90-degree heat, retaliated early in the second half with a goal by forward Kim Chye Lim on a penalty kick to tie the game at 1-1.

Lim helped set up his own goal by sending a long pass to teammate Sajjad Rajabali, who dribbled the ball deep into the Malaysian end before he was knocked down from behind by a Malaysian player, setting up the penalty kick.

Lim was chosen to shoot the penalty kick, and he was initially stopped on a brilliant save by Malaysian goalie Veeramani Ssraju. But Lim pounced on the rebound and slammed the ball past Ssraju to tie the game.

Later in the game, Lim missed a chance at putting the United Nations ahead when he failed to capitalize on a breakaway Rajabali drilled a pass to Lim, who, on the run, caught up with the ball. But with two Malaysian players bearing down on him from behind, Lim's hurried shot sailed over the Malaysian net.

The United Nations advanced to the championship game by posting two victories earlier in the day, defeating the Socceros 2-0 in the quarterfinals and the SIU-C Malaysian Student Association Team A 2-1 in the semifinals. Because of rain Saturday, the United Nations-Socceros game was played on Sunday.

Rajabali, the United Nations' team captain, said playing three games within seven hours caught up with his team in the championship game.

"I wish we had more time,"

Rajabali said. "When you play one game in this heat, you're exhausted. When you play three games, you're completely out of stamina."

In contrast, the Malaysians had to play only two games Sunday because they got their quarterfinal game with Arab United in on Saturday. The Malaysians defeated Arab United 2-0 in the quarterfinals and Latin America 2-1 in the semifinals to advance to the championship game.

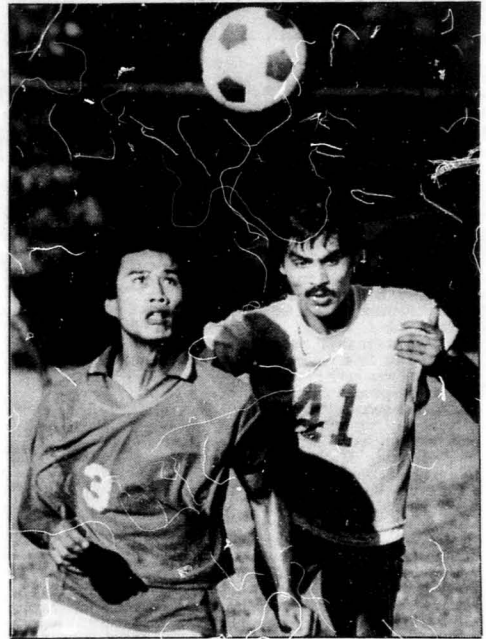

But Malaysian team captain Badrul Mohd Ludin said he didn't think his team had an advantage because it played one less game Sunday than the United Nations.

"We knew the other team (the United Nations) was good," Mohd Ludin said, "but we won the game because of our teamwork and our front line. We played very well."

In other quarterfinal games, the SIU-C Malaysian Student Association Team A blanked Geology 5-0 and Latin America defeated the Africans 4-1. In a preliminary game, Latin America eliminated Cyprus 3-0.

Intramural sports coordinator Buddy Goldammer was pleased with the tournament and said it was one of the best intramural tournaments he has seen.

"I was extremely pleased with the quality of play, the officiating, and the sportsmanship," Goldammer said. "The only negative thing was the rain Saturday, which forced us to move two games to Sunday and that made it tough on some of the teams."

Gooden won't reveal plans in matchup with Clemens

HOUSTON (UPI) — National League righthander Dwight Gooden played the party pooper at baseball's halfway bash, refusing to say he will duel fastball-to-fastball against Roger Clemens in Tuesday night's All Star Game at the Astrodome.

At a news conference confirming the dream matchup of two of baseball's hardest throwers, Gooden instead tipped his cap to Clemens.

"Every chance I get, I watch him on TV," Gooden said. A strikeout pitcher in his first two seasons, Gooden this year has aimed at more economical outs.

Not only can both pitchers throw in the 90s, but Clemens is a hometown boy.

The game is scheduled to start at 8:35 p.m. EDT, with the Astrodome expecting a sellout crowd of 45,000, including Vice President George Bush and his wife.

Mitchell might sign with Outlaws

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Running back Stump Mitchell, one of the few bright spots for the 5-11 St. Louis Cardinals last season, was expected Monday to join the Arizona Outlaws of the U.S. Football League.

However, the Outlaws said Monday morning that Mitchell had yet to sign the three-year contract agreed to Sunday night and had not arrived in Phoenix.

"They've reached an agreement in principle," said Chris McMurry, an Outlaws spokesman. "They're still ironing out the details."

The contract would pay Mitchell a total of about $1.5 million, said McMurry, adding that at least some of the money was guaranteed.

"He's supposed to get a $200,000 signing bonus," McMurry said.

Mitchell said, "I'm an Outlaw now."

"I hope everybody knows how much I wanted to stay with the Cardinals," he added. "I'm going to miss playing with talents like Roy Green and Otis Anderson, working with Neil Lomax."

Mitchell's agent, Harold Lewis, said the Cardinals still have a chance to retain Mitchell.

Versace inks final contract with Bradley

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Bradley basketball coach Dick Versace will not be rehired after the upcoming season because an NCAA investigation concluded, in part, that he misled investigators, the school president said Monday.

Versace left earlier Monday for a two-week trip to Italy and was unavailable for comment. Before leaving, he signed a one-year contract with the understanding that "he has been given his final contract," President Martin Abegg said at a news conference.

Bradley was banned from post-season play and its coaches barred from off-campus recruiting for one year following an NCAA investigation into the recruitment of Anthony Webster of Cairo. Webster played three years at Bradley before transferring in 1984 to Southern Illinois at Edwardsville.

The basketball program was also placed on probation for two years.

Stronger admissions policy likely in 1990, not '93

By David Smeets
Staff Writer

Despite a legislative bill that could knock the date back to 1993, the University will probably go with the Illinois Board of Higher Education's original 1990 deadline for instituting a stronger admissions policy.

The tentative action was discussed Thursday at the Board of Trustees' meeting of the Academic Matters Committee in Alton.

Albert Somit, SIU-Carbondale president and Earl Lazerson, SIU-Edwardsville president, said that the faculties at their campuses had already passed resolutions in favor of the stronger policy and the 1990 date.

John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs, said Monday that the SIU-C administration will now ask the Faculty Senate to consider upholding the current policy plan, which the Faculty Senate passed in April 1985, or suggest a new plan.

"We are prepared to meet a guideline of that time" in 1990 Guyon said. "But the Faculty Senate will still take the matter under advisement, and it will probably do that in September."

According to the strengthened requirements, incoming college freshmen must have completed four years of English; three years of mathematics, science and social studies; and two years of electives in foreign language, art, music or vocational studies.

Ross Hodel, a spokesman for the IBHE, said the bill providing for the policy implementation date to be moved back, House Bill 2741, has already passed both houses of the Legislature, "but the governor probably will not act on the bill until mid-September."

Hodel said the 1993 date was proposed "at the request of vocational as well as elementary and secondary school superintendents, who requested more time to prepare programs for the students to meet the new admissions requirements."

He said the IBHE "thought that there was sufficient enough time to prepare, but the superintendents said the 1990 time frame created more demands on their faculties."

"The new admissions design promotes a shift from vocational and industrial programs to academic courses," Hodel said. "Most of the delay is because many of these schools must construct more elaborate science labs."

Hodel said the 1990 date was adopted in November 1985 after a 2-year study conducted by the IBHE.

He said the 1990 date was targeted "to give students who start high school in 1986 at least four years to meet the requirements."

Somit emphasized in an interview Monday that neither the University nor any other state higher education institution was bound to either the 1990 or 1993 target dates, and that the institutions could implement their own more stringent admissions standards at any time.

Somit said at the board meeting that he will ask the Faculty Senate to maintain support for the original 1990 timetable.

The Faculty Senate's 1985 resolution acknowledged possible exceptions requiring alternative admission guidelines for students who have not completed required courses.

That Hope defined as a 'different' band

By Mary Wisniewski
Staff Writer

"Different" was the most common audience response to That Hope, the Bloomington-based band that played to a crowd of 4,000 at the Sunset Concert Thursday on the steps of Shryock Auditorium.

"Pretty rough" and "really cool" were other responses to a band that refuses to be classified.

"We're not genre-oriented," said lead guitarist Edwin Pierce. "I guess you could call us psychedelic-funk-punk, but it may not be that way tomorrow," he added.

That Hope, which released an L.P. called "Eight-Dollar Hat" on the Karen label, is working on a new album tentatively titled "Beating the Dumb Guy." The band played in Carbondale two springs ago at the now-closed Airwaves.

That Hope is an interesting though not always pleasant listening experience. Singer Dean Carlson managed some amazing vocal imitations of falling bricks. And although Pierce occasionally played a decent lead out of a mostly rhythm repertoire, many of his solos sounded like misdirected experiments with feedback.

That Hope played a good variety of rock, including speeded-up versions of "Sunshine Superman" and "I Wanna Be a Star."

When they lacked in technical skill was almost made up in energy as Carlson and bassist George Ludwig bounded around their microphones like human pogo sticks.

Another interesting aspect of the concert was Carlson's between-song banter. Gathering steam as the concert progressed, Carlson told the audience he was "Iron Man" and they should all "get blasted."

Carlson said he has "no idea" what he says to the audience between songs. "I can't even see any of their faces," he said. "I just try to get them into it."

Overall, That Hope seemed a musical study of adolescence. The band members leaped about and fought for attention. They had an excess of energy and a lack of discipline.

They sang a song called "Big Sex" which, outside of the chorus, did not mention the title subject at all.

"I bet only a small percentage of that crowd knows what we're about," said Pierce. "We freak everyone out."

Whether or not the crowd "freaked out" may remain undetermined. But the crowd did dance to That Hope's strange brand of rock.

As R. J. Sussman, junior in university studies, said, That Hope "had a really good sense of the people. The more the crowd responded, the more they gave."

City, campus police keep eye on crowds

Although police are keeping a watchful eye on the crowds at the Sunset Concert Series, no serious problems have arisen at the events, city and campus police say.

Carbondale police began checking identification cards of concert-goers at Evergreen Park two weeks ago, after conflicts in the liquor codes adopted by the city and the Carbondale Park District were resolved.

Police reportedly confiscated alcoholic beverages from underage drinkers and warned that citations would be issued in the future.

The City Council in June declared the Sunset Concerts "city fair days," clearing the way for open consumption of liquor at Evergreen Park during the hours of the event.

A spokesman for the SIU-C Police Department said Monday no arrests or citations have been made for underage drinking at the concerts. Although alcohol is banned from the SIU-C campus, consumption of alcohol is widespread among concert-goers.

1986 SUMMER EXAM SCHEDULE

Because of the limited number of examination periods available, no departmental examination times are scheduled for the Summer. The following points are pertinent to the final examination schedule:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days listed on the first line of the class entry in the up-to-date Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule in the manner:

07:30 - 8:30 T TH
08:40 - 09:40 W F

The scheduled class time for the first line of the entry starts with "07" and the meeting days for that line are "T TH" only. Therefore the exam time is 8:00 - 9:50 a.m. Thursday, July 31, as is indicated on the attached Summer 1986 Final Examination Schedule.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

4. Students who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

1. One credit-hour course, and classes scheduled for meeting dates less than the full 8-week session have their examinations during the last regularly scheduled class period prior to the two formal exam days.

2. Other classes (those scheduled for the full 8-week session) should hold their final exams according to the following:
