McFarlane refutes North's testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former national security adviser Robert McFarlane adviser Robert McFarlane contradicted key elements in six days of emotional testimony by Lt. Col. Oliver North, challenging the Marine's repeated assertion that he kept his superiors fully informed of his activities in the Iran-Contra affair.

North, 43, concluded his extraordinary appearance before the select House and before the select House and Senate committees in-vestigating the scandal with a wealth of support from the American public and the criticism of the panel leadership for his actions in engineering the far-flung operations engineering the far-flung operations.

North, fired Nov. 25, 1986, from the National Security Council, repeatedly testified that every act he performed in selling arms to Iran and diverting profits for the Contra rebels in Nicaragua was approved by his superiors, either by McFarlane or his successor, Rear Adm. John Poindexter. Poindexter is scheduled to Rear Adm. John Poindexter is scheduled to begin testifying today and likely will be asked one of the most critical questions of the affair: Did President Reagan know about the diversion scheme? Reagan has said time and time again he knew nothing of the plan.

Monday, McFarlane, who in May was the panel's second witness, requested a return engagement to dispute North's engagement to dispute North's recollections that he always recollections that he always told his bosses about his dealings with the Contras. North, McFarlane said, "did report to me from time to time on a few, but certainly not all"

However, McFarlane said under questioning he thought the contradictions could just be an honest difference of opinion because "I don't think Colonel North would ever make a deliberate mistatement on line I don't make a deliberate misstatement or a lie. I don't believe that. That leaves only the possibilities of differing interpretations between us and I think that must account for these disagreements.

"They are certainly not ones that are malicious, I am sure, on his part, and don't derogate from what were his motives that were entirely patriotic," he said. "I believe that he is a thoroughly honest man of integrity and would not deliberately mislead me, ever." ever

When he appeared before the When he appeared before the committees in May, Mc-Farlane said he suspected North was getting substantial advice from CIA Director William Casey. Tuesday, McFarlane agreed with the assessment of Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., who said a likely explanation for North's belief that all his actions were authorized in detail was his close, almost familiar. close, almost familiar, association with Casey.

Summer enrollment sets record high

Summer enrollment has set a record high of 11,856 students.
This is an increase of 3.9 percent in comparison to last summer, said B. Kirby Browning, director of ad-missions and records. Total enrollment reflects an in-crease of 445 students.

Enrollment in off-campus programs, which includes students in military base programs in the United States and abroad, accounts for most of the enrollment increase. Total off-campus enrollment is 3,537, an in-crease of 375 students from last summer. On-campus enrollment is 8,319, an in-crease of 70 students.

The summer increase was xpected because of higner enrollment last fall and spring semesters, Browning said. The last time summer enrollment figures were comparable to 1987 figures was in 1983, when 11,634 students were enrolled.

There are 8,260 dergraduates enrolled this summer, along with 3,299 graduate, 118 law and 179 School of Medicine students.

S. Illinois declared unlikely waste dump site

If you can take it in, you can carry it out

IT'S A PITY when a good cause goes unnoticed. It's a disgrace when a good cause is noticed but its messages go unheeded

That's what has happened to the messages presented Saturday by four student groups that got together to clean the Lake Kinkaid Spillway.

- Students for Pollution Control, the Student Chapter of the Wildlife Society, Students for Environmental Concern and the Southern Illinois Native Plant Society — wanted to promote environmental awareness and personal responsibility in cleaning the Sure these are noble and worthwhile messages. But when someone cleans someone else's mess, the latter point becomes moot. And that's what the point of the clean up may turn out to be.

IT WAS NICE for the groups to clean the Spillway — it sure needed it. But one day's cleaning won't make much of a dent into the pollution problem at the Spillway and other Southern Illinois recreation spots.

If that problem is to be arrested, the people who use these facilities will have to learn how to clean their own messes. They can't make a mess, sit back and wait for someone to clean it up for them.

It's really not that hard to keep the Spillway, or any other outdoor facility, clean. People need only take out what was brought in.

This means carrying out all empty beer cans and tabs, paper and trash. Those who bring coolers have a portable trashcan, and those who didn't bring coolers can bring along a trash bag or two. It isn't much of a hardship, but it sure does cause some problems.

THE PR' BLEMS LIE in human nature — people basically ar lazy. It's a lot easier to throw a beer can in the water than to carry it to a trash can. But no one can give the excuse that it's harder to carry the trash out than it is to carry it in. A 5-pound cooler filled with 10 pounds of ice and 20 cans of beer is much harder to carry than a 5pound cooler filled with 20 empty cans.

It's also a lot easier carrying a cooler down a hill than up one. And it's a lot easier to carry it anywhere when there aren't beer tabs and bottle caps posing a threat to bare

Maybe those who find cleaning their messes a hardship should go where they won't have to worry much about it, like their backyards, and leave the rest of Southern Illinois clean

Building scaled in Greenpeace stunt

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Two members of Greenpeace scaled 150 feet up a side of the state Capitol Tuesday, hung out a banner protesting pollution of the Niagara River and vowed to remain perched atop the building for 24 hours.

The two men, Steve Loper, 32, and Richard Harvey, 21, both of Chicago, climbed up the side of the five-story, redgabled building using ropes at about 9:30 a.m.

Both are experienced climbers, said Eileen Price, a spokeswoman for the national environmental group

The two unveiled a 30- by 40-oot banner that declared; 'Niagara: Still Toxic After All These years. Why Gov.
Cuomo." It was signed "Greenpeace" in green letters. The banner could be seen clearly across the 1,000-foot plaza where state employees walk to work

Price said the stunt protested the presence of toxic chemicals in the Niagara River, which is used by Canadians and Americans as a drinking water source.

"It's (the river) been listed as one of the 42 most toxic spots in North America," she said. "Companies along the said. "Companies along the Niagara dump chemical waste into the river," Price said. She said Greenpeace wants companies to stop producing chemicals that pollute the river and the Great Lakes.

"We need to begin implementing source reduction," Price said.

She said Loper and Harvey plan to remain atop the building for 24 hours unless inclement weather forces inclement them down

Thompson vows to slash 'phony budget'

CHICAGO (UPI)—An angry Gov. James R. Thompson vowed Tuesday to slash $ 390 million from what he called a "phony budget" sent to him by the Legislature in the wake of lawmakers' refusal to approve a tay ipcrease. a tax increase.

about $390 million because the Legislature has provided a budget that is not based in reality," Thompson said during his first Chicago news conference since the defeat of "The budget the Legislature sent me was a phony budget," he said. "They know it. I know it. The people of Illinois know it. Since they didn't do their

However, lawmakers have said Thompson failed to make the case for his tax increase proposals and that the Legislature sent him spending proposals requiring less than $250 million worth of cuts.

Thompson said money for education, one of his budget priorities, will have to be slashed since public aid funds are protected by law and cannot be reduced.

Program planned

Housing for honors possible

By Teresa Nix

Frederick Williams, newly appointed University Honors Program director, said he thinks there should be a residence hall for honor ctudente. students.

He said the hall would help students gain identities as scholars in the honors program and "there needs to be something here for the something here for the Williams, associate s, an asso of classics, professor of classics, will begin his three-year term Aug. 6. He succeeds Kenneth K. an associate professor of English, who was named program head in June 1986. Collins will return teaching full-time.

Williams said his most important goal is "to continue the good work already done" by past acting directors.

"The job is a good opportunity to take the reins and facilitate the teaching of others," he said. "I have a responsibility to do that, for others have done it for me."

Williams came to SIU-C in 3.1. He will continue to teach part-time.

The honors program, which will offer 11 courses in the fall, is expanding, he said, because of focus, direction and at-tention received recently from the University community.
Williams also plans to work on increasing the number and variety of courses offered for university honor students. There is a need for more depth in the courses offered, he said.

Williams received in 1976 his doctorate in classics from Cornell University, where he was associated with the honors program. He said it was a program comparable to SIU-C's, but that he considers Cornell's program more student-oriented

Cornell's was a "small, but well known" honors program, he commented, adding that SIU-C could model a residence hall after Cornell's Tellurid

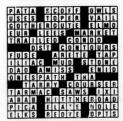

The hall could have a small library for University scholars to use to study and socialize, he suggested, adding that 25 to 40 room spaces could be allotted room spaces could be anotted for advanced students. Williams said he is in-vestigating the possibility that such a facility could be sponsored by an individual donor or a state legislator.

Theft reported

Matthew Mockler told SIU-C police Monday that his bicycle, valued at $250, was taken from a bicycle rack Friday near the south end of Faner Hall.

Creativity standard concept for 'theater-in-progress'

By Mary Caudle

For many people, theater has always meant Shakespearean or other "established" plays that have been the same time-after-time, year-after-year, and probably don't seem to speak to their daily lives.

The Playwrights Workshop, which has produced student-written plays since it began in the 1960s proves that theater doesn't have to be repetetive. dull or outdated. Rather, the yearly Playwrights Workshop productions allow the audience to experience something completely new and share in the excitement of "theater-in-progress."

"The truth is, in most theater productions, the actors theater productions, the actors are doing things a certain way because that's the way it's always been done," said Bill Kinkaid, the director of one of this year's productions. "Now it's never been done. It's fascinating."

Perhaps the most obvious form of educational theater to be found at SIU-C, the Playwrights Workshop employs student playwrights.

ploys student playwrights, directors, designers and ac-tors, all collaborating on the end result.

This year's workshop will present three plays with a wide range of subjects, themes and moods, including both period "Everyday Rebellions," "Overbury" "Monasteries." All produc-tions will be held in the Laboratory Theater of the Communications Building.

Laboratory Theater of the Communications Building.
"Everyday Rebellions," written by Brian T. Carney and directed by Lawrence Knowles, will open the workshop Sunday. Described as "a fantastic journey through time and space," the often-comical story takes a collection of historical characters from Victorian England and contemporary America on a journey that never really happened, but could have. Taking place at different points in time from 1851 to the present, the cast includes Oscar Wilde, Horatio Alger, Teddy Roosevelt, Queen Victoria and her double. Performances of "Everyday Rebellions" are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. July 27.

"Overbury," written by Charissa Meneffee Cook and directed by Sherry S. Strain, will be the second production of the Playwrights Workshop. Scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday "Overbury," July Tuesday, 28,

"Overbury" revolves around a tale of political intrigue in 17th Century England, centering on King James I of England and his favorite, Robert Carr, the his favorite, Robert Carr, the Earl of Somerset.

"Monasteries," written by Tommy Westerfield and directed by Bill Kinkaid, will end this year's Playwrights Workshop. The story of a former novice who returns to a monastery with AIDS to seek sanctuary, the central theme revolves around the conflict between the institutional church and the spiritual values. church and the spiritual values church and the spiritual values it is supposed to represent. Runner-up in a national contest sponsored by the Julie Harris Beverly Hills Theater Guild earlier this year, "Monasteries" will debut at 2 p.m. July 21 and continue at 8 pm. July 21.

p.m. July 21 and continue at 8 p.m. July 26.
Kinkaid, director of "Monasterie." said that new plays pose diterent challenges for the director. "These works are in progress even more than the usual play in rehearsal. Throughout the whole process, the script might go through minor or even major script changes, depending on what happens in reharsal." Tickets for all performances are available for $2 at the Engineering women plan academic assistance class

Women In Engineering will hold a one-week program July 26 to 31 at SIU-C.

The program is designed to provide academically outs anding women with an opportunity to learn more about engineering as a profession and to learn more about the basic subjects presented at the college level.

It is divided into seven basic areas: general orientation, mathematics, engineering problems, talks and experiments, individual reasearch and computers. Counselors will be assigned to the participants.

The course fee is $75 and is limited to 15 students who have completed their sophmore or junior year of high school.

For information call Barbara Emil, coordinator, at the Division of Continuing Education, 536-7751.

Heavy duties engage coach as volleyball Fest director

By Steve Merritt Staff Writer

For the sixth consecutive year, Saluki volleyball coach Debbie Hunter will be involved with the U.S. Olympic Festival.

As one of two National Governing Body Directors for the sport of volleyball, Hunter has a list or responsibilities that reaches far and wide.

At least one current Saluki spiker, Nina Brackins, was recruited from contacts Hunter made at the Festival.

Coach, 3 students ioin Prairie field

By Darren Richardson

Don DeNoon, head coach of Don DeNoon, head coach of the Saluki women's track and field squad here, will coach three SIU-C athletes at the Prairie State Games in Champaign-Urbana.
DeNoon heads the open division of the women's track and field in the PSC assisted.

SIU-C athletes competing are senior Vivian Sinou in the 1500-meter run, junior Christiana Philippou in both the long jump and the 100 meter and the highly-touted incoming freshman Rosanne Vincent in the 400 and 800

SINOU'S BEST time in the SINOU'S BEST time in the 1500 is 4:28.4, while Phillipou's personal best is 19-5½ in the long jump and 12.2 seconds in the 100. Vincent has posted times of 55.1 in the 400 and 2:12 in the 800 2:12.1 in the 800.

"I fully expect Vivian Sinou to win the 1550," DeNoon said.
"Christiana Philippou has enough natural talent to get her through. She'll do well, but her finish depends on who shows up from other areas. Rosanne has had a stress fracture and hasn't really trained too strenuously this trained too strenuously this summer, but she's going to be the 5000-meter run. "Koster has a strong chance of winning the 5000," DeNoon said. "Jackson finished third in the national junior college shotput in 1987, so she'll be up there as well."

DeNoon said the track and field trials for the PSG were held the second weekend of June and conflicted with a lot of other meets. Therefore, he said, a lot of talent who might have tried out skipped the PSG trials since the trials were a one-day only event.

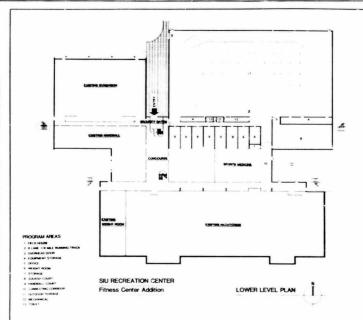

"I THINK the idea of the "I THINK the idea of the Prairie Games is just great," DeNoon said, "but basically we're going to see some athletes showing up who were in good shape back in June but haven't really trained recently." DeNoon said the Prairie Comme had some kinks that.

Games had some kinks that needed smoothing out. "I got my request for transportation in the mail July 11, and the form said to return it by July 10. On the outside, it looks like an extremely well-organized event, but a lot of things haven't been ironed out.

MAYBE 10 years from nov it might be a well-enough oiled machine to get things done at the time they need to be done," DeNoon said. "There's a lot of hard-working volunteers doing what they can with what they've got, but the resources are limited at this time."

DeNoon said in the Chicago Denoon said in the Chicago area, interested in the PSG is much more intense than in Southern Illinois, partly because of The Chicago Tribune serving millions of people and getting the word out. "WE HAVE a lot of fractionalization down here," DeNoon said. "Nothing really brought the Prairie State Games to the attention of athletes to make it a very big deal. It's not a very big deal down here. Maybe in the future word of mouth will boost interest in the Prairie State Games."

The St. Louis firm of Hastings and Chivetta was given the Fitness Center contract.

Architects awarded contract

By Greg Huber Staff Writer

The start of the $6.2 million Fitness Center addition project moved closer to realization upon approval of the architects chosen to do the work.

In an interview at his office Tuesday, Bill McMinn, coordinator of the Recreation Center, con-firmed that the St. Louis architectural firm of Hastings and Chivetta was awarded the job.

One reason the firm was chosen was because of its track record in building similar sports recreationsimilar sports recreation-type buildings. The Hastings and Chivetta resume in-

Washington University in St. Louis, St. Louis University, Louis, St. Louis University, the University of Nebraska, Loyola University in New Orleans and more, as well as the newly completed Show-Me Center, a multi-purpose sports facility at Southeast Missouri State in Cape Girardeau, McMinn said.

Hastings and Chivetta also were awarded the contract for the expansion of existing medical facilities in the Recreation Center. McMinn said aspects of the new program will focus on more diversified approaches to sports health awareness in the fields of nutritional analysis and fitness assessment. McMinn said that although funds for the new center would come from student fees, students would probably not be assessed a fee until completion of the project, but that students could expect a $5 fee increase earlier to pay for the new medical equipment needed to upgrade the medical program.

Although a date hasn't been set for the official groundbreaking, McMinn said work is expected to begin either this fall or in the spring of 1988. Once work has started, the project is expected to take from 14 to 16 months.

2 Saluki cagers picked for Olympic Festival

Dana Fitzpatrick and Cathy

Dana Fitzpatrick and Cathy Kampwerth, both juniors-to-be on the SIU-C women's basketbail team, were selected to play for the North squad at the U.S. Olympic Festival, July 13-26 in Chapel Hill, N.C. The pair of Saluki hoopsters won spots on the USOF roster by standing out in a crowd of 241 other players at the regional tryouts in Champaign-Urbana, May 1-3. Saluki head coach Cindy Scott said both put on impressive showings. showings. Scott said. "She shot the ball selected.

"It isn't often you get one player selected, let alone two," the 10-year Saluki coach continued. "It's just another step up for our basketball program."

Last season, Fitzpatrick led SIU-C in minutes played, starting every game but one from her off-guard position. The 5-foot-8 St. Louis native hit double-figures in 18 of SIU-C's 31 games and averaged 10 per contest, canning season-highs contest canning season-highs of 22 points against Northern Iowa and Louisiana Tech.

Kampwerth, a 6-foot-4 center, started just three games but saw action in 30 of SIU-C's games. She became a factor late last season whon injuries sidelined All-American candidate Bridgett Bonds and sharp-shooting Bonds and sharp-shooting forward Ann Kattreh, two allconference selections and SIU-C's top two players. With a 6 point and 3.8

rebounds during the 10-game span, collecting 11 blocked shots and scoring in double figures six times.

Both Kampwerth and Fitz-atrick played roles in helping SIU-C to accomplish feats like an 18-game winning streak, a perfect 20-0 mark in Gateway Conference play and a second straight NCAA appearance. A national ranking at seasons end and wins over four nationally-ranked teams were also highlights of a dramatic season.
