Paycheck delay

By Leslie Colp
Staff Writer

Without an approved Illinois budget, the University asked employees Thursday to continue working even though their paychecks may be delayed.

At the Board of Trustees meeting in Edwardsville, SIU Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said, "Our current plan... is to continue operating as normally as possible during this period of uncertainty."

"We ask that employees continue to work expecting, but not absolutely certain, that they will get paid for their efforts. We cannot, of course, pay employees should they choose not to work."

Michael Heath, SIUC director of payroll and disbursements, said about 1,200 Civil Service employees at SIUC and the School of Medicine in Springfield are scheduled to be paid Tuesday. But the payment of nearly $1.1 million will be delayed if a budget proposal is not passed.

Rick Davis, spokesman for State Comptroller Dawn Clark Netsch, said the SIUC Civil Service employees are among 10,300 state employees scheduled to be paid early next week. The total payroll for that period is $11.8 million.

"You folks are in trouble," Davis said. "If it doesn't happen (by today), it means a payless payday."

SIU, state officials don't anticipate closing universities

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

University and state officials were unaware as of late Thursday if Gov. Jim Edgar would request state university boards including SIU to suspend operations until the fiscal year 1992 budget dispute is resolved.

Ross Hodel, deputy director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, said the governor has not indicated that he will ask the state's four governing boards voluntarily to close down their universities.

"There has been nothing specific from the governor and none of the four governing boards are prepared to make a statement at this time (that they are suspending operations)," he said.

Although the governor has no jurisdiction to order state universities to suspend operations along with other non-essential state operations, he can request that the schools accept a policy to close down.

A spokesman for the Comptroller's Office, however, said the possibility the governor would ask the universities to suspend operations is very slim.

The SIU Board of Trustees is the governing body that could give an order suspending operations at its campuses in Carbondale, Edwardsville, Alton and Springfield.

SIU Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said the board only can speculate if an executive

Pettit still captain of 'Good Ship SIU'

By John Patterson
Staff Writer

Despite media reports and rumors, SIU Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit remains in his position.

"I guess there are all kinds of rumors going around," Pettit said.

A Board of Trustees Executive Council meeting Wednesday night designed to discuss the issue of appointment and dismissal of board members resulted in no action.

Trustees approve 1993 funding request

Wednesday night reports ran on both a local television and radio station that Pettit was going to be removed from the chancellorship. The action never came, leaving Pettit wondering where the news stations got their information.

He said it takes time to develop reliable sources and know who is a credible source in University functions.

"So far as I know they didn't check (the information)," Pettit said.

The chancellor goes under annual review at the next board meeting in September.

Board chairman A.D. VanMeter would not comment on whether Pettit would still be chancellor after the next meeting.

Pettit said he is happy being chancellor, but left plans for the future unanswered.

"I'm as comfortable as one can be in a job like this," he said. "But it's not a lifetime appointment and it shouldn't be."

Although the plethora of rumors about Pettit has been widespread, the budget and funding for SIU remains at the top of University officials' agendas.

Summer creates day-care shortage

By Christiann Baxter
Staff Writer

No school brightens the summer days of many grade-schoolers, but storm clouds hover for parents seeking full-time child care.

Carbondale has 10 day-care centers. Four of the centers accept school-age children. The others don't operate in summer or accept only infants and 3- or 4-year-olds.

"It's a big problem," said SIUC's director of nontraditional student services, Mary Helen Gasser. "Often times it means they have to leave their children home alone."

Tom Teague, spokesman for the Department of Child and Family Services, said economics heightens a lack of school-age child care.

"It's just not profitable to have a slot open for three months if they can have it year-round," he said.

Child care specialist Michelle Sanders of Child Care Resource and Referral in Carterville said regulations reduce the number of children a program can take if age groups are mixed. Reduced numbers of children mean less profit.

Four day-care centers in Carbondale care for school-age children. City of Carbondale Child Care Services accepts children ages six weeks to 13 years. Kids Korner takes kindergartners to fourth graders. Rainbow's End is for the children of SIUC's faculty, staff and students; it accepts infants to 10-year-olds. Puka Pre School has a program for 5- to 8-year-olds.

Alan Schmidt, who has a 7-year-old son in Kids Korner, said he had a problem finding day-care.

"We were on a waiting list for six months," he said.

Janet Bowe's 6-year-old daughter is at City of Carbondale Child Care Services.

"I tried to get in at SIU," Bowe said. "But they weren't available during the hours I needed."

The added cost of having a child in day-care during the summer is another problem, Gasser said.

City of Carbondale Child Care Services costs $67.60 a week for school-age children. Kids Korner costs $74.50 a week. Rainbow's End bases its fees on financial status. Full-time care at Puka is $75 a week.

Salukis compete in prairie games

By Rob Neff
Staff Writer

Saluki athletes will begin competition in their perspective events Friday at the Prairie State Games in Champaign.

SIUC women's basketball player Endia Joiner was scheduled to play Thursday in the first game of the tournament at the Games, but a class conflict kept her in Carbondale.

Joiner, a mechanical engineering major, was on two AAU National Championship teams and played for the 1988 title winning Memphis Celtics, averaging 19.8 points, 15 rebounds and four assists.

The Southern Region open women's basketball team is scheduled to play the North Shore Region's team at 11 a.m. Friday at Parkland College in Champaign.

Eight other SIUC athletes in the Games are scheduled to begin competing Friday in track and field and in swimming.

Janel Patrick, a senior in fashion merchandising from El Paso, Texas, said she isn't sure what to expect.

"This is my first year," she said. "I'm from Texas, so I really don't know what to think about the Games."

Her questions about the Games will be answered at 1 p.m. when she joins the other Saluki members of the Southern Region women's swimming team: Julie Adams, Cindy Owens and Debbie Guttridge. The Salukis will be going for the gold in individual and relay events.

Jeff Williams, SIUC's only representative on the men's regional swimming team, also begins competing at 1 p.m. Friday. He will begin competition in the 200-meter freestyle race.

Williams said he is hoping for strong competition at the Games.

"There's only one heat of each event," he said. "I hope it'll be fast."

Three Salukis, Darren Barber, Bernard Henry and Brian Miller, also will compete in the track and field competition in Champaign.

SIGA tourney to draw top field of 116 players

By John Sommerhof
Staff Writer

A field of top amateur golfers will battle for the championship this weekend in an elite Southern Illinois amateur golf tournament.

Bob Tierney, president of the Southern Illinois Golf Association, said the SIGA Championship Tournament is the No. 1 point tournament for amateur players to earn points toward SIGA Amateur Player of the Year.

"There have not been any SIGA tournaments this year that come even close to the level of play that will be at this tournament," Tierney said.

This will be the 67th annual championship by the organization, which formed in 1922 and now has 24 member country clubs.

Bob Tierney, president of the SIGA, said the goal of the SIGA is to provide quality and fair tournaments for the country club members.

Dick Henely, executive secretary for SIGA, said the Southern Illinois association is patterned after the Professional Golfers Association handicap system.

Henely said in order for a course to be a member of the SIGA it must coordinate play with the same handicap system SIGA has formed.

The SIGA sponsors more than 100 tournaments from May to December throughout Southern Illinois.

Haas said 161 golfers will play in the championship.

Steve Heckel, the head pro at the Crab Orchard Golf Club, said the tournament is and outstanding amateur tournament and the Crab Orchard course usually turns out the highest winning scores in the SIGA tournaments.

1981 winner leads Open

Bradley battles elements for early No. 1 position

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) — Pat Bradley birdied the opening two holes and then hung on in the wind and heat Thursday to shoot a 2-under 69 and take a one-shot lead among the early finishers in the 46th U.S. Women's Open.

Bradley, winner of this tournament 10 years ago and leading money winner this year on the LPGA Tour, suffered from a headache brought on by the heat but still grabbed a one-stroke advantage over Laurel Kean with a quarter of the field having finished the opening round.

Betsy King, meanwhile, began with a struggle in her bid to become the first player to win the Women's Open three straight years. King was 2- over after two holes, bogeying two of the easiest holes on the Colonial Country Club course.

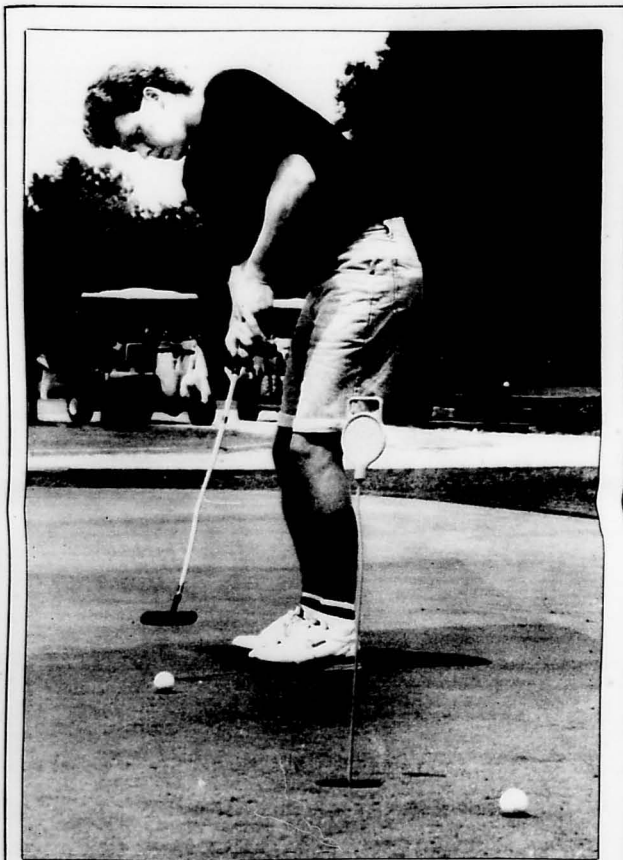

Among those with good early starts were Missie McGeorge, who was 2- under through five, and Cheryl Stacy, who eagled the par-4 second and was 2- under through three.

Bradley and Kean, meanwhile, were the only earlier finishers to break par on a day in which temperatures were forecast to reach 98 degrees. In addition to the heat, winds gusted to more than 20 miles per hour.

Alice Ritzman, the first player to tee off in the opening round, and Sally Little each posted a 1-over 72 while Hollis Stacy and Amy Benz were among those at 73. Jan Stephenson, recovering from a recent miscarriage and playing in the Open only because it is on her home course, shot a 76.

Marie takes sixth stage in Tour race

LE HAVRE, France (UPI) — French rider Thierry Marie took over the lead of the Tour de France Thursday after a spectacular solo breakaway over 145 miles of the 161-mile sixth stage.

Marie's unofficial time of 6 hours, 38 minutes and 27 seconds gave him a victory margin of a minute and 53 seconds.

Marie had held the yellow jersey after winning Saturday's prologue and lost the lead to LeMond before it was taken by Sorensen.

The race will conclude July 28.

Olympic shadows: U.S. Olympic Festival to make move from second place finish to Olympics

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — At many of the same venues and before many of the same discriminating eyes, the 11th U.S. Olympic Festival will try to emerge from the shadows of the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics.

The Summer Games seven years ago were the most successful in Olympic history, generating a huge profit and shining a bright light on the city. That legacy haunts the Olympic Festival, a 10-day event which begins in earnest Friday night with opening ceremonies at Dodger Stadium.

"Some people will compare it because it has the word 'Olympic' in it," festival director Elizabeth Primrose-Smith said of the event bringing together more than 3,000 American athletes in 36 Olympic or Pan American sports. "People automatically confuse the events. It happened in Minneapolis, it happened in Colorado Springs, it happened in Oklahoma City.

"There are no foreign athletes at all. It's a glow, a flavor of the 1984 Olympics. But nothing can top the high. There was just too much work, just too much money."

The 1984 Olympics had a half-billion dollar budget. The U.S. Olympic Festival budget is $15 million.

"The two key things is it a good experience for the athletes — do they perform well and do they have a good time?" Primrose-Smith said. "It's really important to support the athletic talent. And then if we can break even (financially). That is what the festivals are designed to do. They're not to turn a profit."

Ticket sales have lagged but organizers say that is typical of a

Southern California public with a diverse pull on its recreation dollars. Among the venues used both in 1984 and in this event are the Forum, Dodger Stadium and UCLA's Pauley Pavilion. Fans can see everything from basketball and boxing to bowling, badminton and roller skating.

Some sports will send their best athletes while others will save theirs for the Pan American Games in Cuba next month or other important meets.

Among those expected to headline in the U.S. Olympic Festival are boxers Eric Griffin and Oscar de la Hoya; track performers Greg Foster, Mike Powell and Dave Johnson; figure skaters Todd Eldredge, Natasha Kuchiki and Todd Sand; basketball players Cherokee Parks and Kellie Bennett; and synchronized swimming twins

Karen and Sarah Josephson.

The list of former U.S. Olympic Festival performers includes Michael Jordan, Evander Holyfield and Mary Lou Retton. The games are held in non-Olympic years.

An economic study commissioned by the festival estimated the games will bring an estimated $60 million to the local economy.

"We've shown what we can do before and we're going to do it again," Mayor Tom Bradley said.

The opening ceremonies, to be produced by Radio City Music Hall Productions, is based on the theme "The Olympic Tradition Continues in Los Angeles."

Whether the torch run will stretch seven years remains to be seen.

ESPN will air 30 hours, of which only nine will be live.

Ammunition dump explodes, injures 50 soldiers in Florida

MACDILL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (UPI) — A fire triggered a series of explosions at an ammunition dump in Doha, Kuwait Thursday, injuring at least 50 U.S. soldiers and damaging dozens of military vehicles, the U.S. Central Command said. No fatalities had been reported and the extent of injuries to soldiers remained unknown Thursday afternoon, the Central Command said. Some 35 to 40 military vehicles were damaged to varying degrees as a result of the fire and secondary explosions.

Investigators search for cause of plane crash

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Federal investigators picked through the debris of a twin-engine commuter plane Thursday, seeking clues in the crash that killed 13 people and leveled two homes. A team from the National Transportation Safety Board recovered the cockpit voice recorder from the charred hulk of the L'Express Airlines plane shortly after 8:30 a.m. as investigators sifted through the rubble of two brick bungalows flattened in Wednesday night's crash.

Two men killed in fight between Serbs, Croats

OSIJEK, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Two men were killed in fighting Thursday between rebel Serbs and Croatian police in Croatia, the breakup republic, despite federal troops deployed to prevent violence, officials said. The death toll rose to at least 94 in Croatia in the past three months. The fighting broke out in Osijek early Thursday when Croatian police exchanged fire with a Serb barricaded in his house with his mother, Judge Radoslav Arambasic said.

Aid for Soviet Union not considered by nations

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister John Major said Thursday the Group of Seven leading industrial nations will not consider granting financial assistance to the Soviet Union at Monday's London summit. The prime minister told a news conference the 17th G-7 summit would mark the beginning of "a new process of cooperation and dialogue" between the leading industrialized nations and the Soviet Union. Gorbachev meets with the G-7 leaders Wednesday after their summit.

Final negotiations launched for summit, treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet officials launched final negotiations Thursday on arcane and vexing disputes delaying a strategic arms treaty and a superpower summit. Secretary of State James Baker said he and his counterpart, Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh, who arrived here Wednesday, would explore a more "simplified approach" to three central components of the highly technical treaty that have stalled approval and a summit.

Democrat 'message' on tax falls short as talks continue

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — An effort to humiliate Republican Gov. Jim Edgar by voting down GOP-sponsored tax legislation fizzled in the Illinois General Assembly Thursday, as the Legislature's Democratic majority failed to muster enough votes to carry out the plan. Democratic leaders had vowed to defeat the bill to show Edgar there was no legislative support for a cap on local property tax increases, a key GOP bargaining chip in talks aimed at slicing $1.9 billion from the state's proposed fiscal 1992 budget. But the Senate never called the bill and the House fell one vote short of moving the proposal to a floor vote.

Legislative overtime wasting state funds

IT HAS NOW BEEN 12 days since the Illinois Legislature exceeded the time limit given to compose a state budget. Each passing day costs tax payers $13,629.

This figure is accounted for in the $77 a day each legislator receives to cover living expenses while staying in the Springfield area.

Although legislators argue this is a minor cost, picking up their tab is going to become harder each day the General Assembly exceeds the June 30 deadline.

So far the tab has reached $163,548 and this figure has potential to grow with legislators showing no signs of reaching an agreement soon.

Of course, when legislators are working with an estimated $1.9 billion budget deficit, $164,000 does not seem significant. As Rep. Larry W. Hicks, D-Mount Vernon, put it, this amount is simply a "miniscule cost of government."

However, in a year when the state is in such financial straits, it is interesting to see how far this money would have gone if it had been put to other uses.

HERE IS A WISH LIST that $164,000 could have bought for the SIUC campus:

For $164,000, SIUC could lease and renovate a building to house the campus day care center, Rainbow's End, which would meet all safety standards. Right now the program faces losing its infant and child care program in the fall if an appropriate building is not located.

SIUC could use the $164,000 to attract more minorities and outstanding students to campus by offering tuition waivers. This figure would be equivalent to 99 full tuition waivers.

The money could be used to increase safety on campus by purchasing more emergency call boxes. Recently SIUC purchased three of these boxes. With $164,000 the University could purchase 81 boxes.

Morris Library could put this money to many uses. This sum would purchase 4,000 books or 38,000 hours of student help.

THESE ARE ONLY a few ideas of how the money could have been used at the SIUC campus. Every other state university and agency could come up with mile-long wish lists of how this money could have been spent.

But taking the time to make such lists will not be necessary because these funds already have been used to meet the cost of running over the legislative time budget.

It is "comforting," though, to know the funds were put to the good use of keeping legislators in Springfield so they can accomplish important state business.

For many legislators, business includes playing golf, watching movies and going to bars to fill the time while waiting for legislative leaders to end their bickering.

It's time for compromise. It's time for a budget to be formed. The state cannot afford for the Legislature to play around any longer.

Making wish lists are fun but with the budget off to this kind of a start, wishes are all they will ever be.

Excommunication easy way out

The abortion battle is getting rougher and rougher.

Politicians have been threatened with excommunication and hell by their church leaders because they didn't follow the church's line.

But now a politician has been excommunicated by a church to which he doesn't even belong.

This happened to Gov. Buddy Roemer of Louisiana, who vetoed several strict anti-abortion bills.

The Orthodox Catholic Church of his state has thrown him out, even though he is a Methodist.

Roemer sounded puzzled when told of the excommunication. He admitted not knowing much about the Orthodox Catholic Church.

It does seem unusual for a church to excommunicate somebody who isn't a member. So we phoned Rev. Lee McColloster, the vicar general of the Louisiana Diocese and asked him how he could excommunicate someone who isn't a member of his church. He said:

"All priests trace their authority straight to the Apostles. That gives every Orthodox or Roman priest authority over things spiritual."

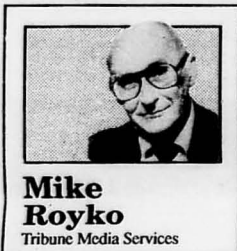

And you have that authority? "Yes. My pedigree goes all the way back to the Apostles. I have apostolic succession. All priests have it."

What does this mean for Gov. Roemer's soul?

"What it means for Roemer's soul is he has severed himself from the body of Christ. Which means it would be very difficult for him to get into heaven."

Have you thought about excommunicating other public figures?

"We've given that deep thought.

Ted Kennedy and Mario Cuomo came to mind. But both are Roman Catholics. They are in the jurisdiction of our sister church. At the present time, we don't think it's appropriate to cross into their jurisdiction."

But Buddy Roemer is a Methodist.

"Methodists don't have apostolic succession and therefore don't have authority every Orthodox and Roman priest has."

I can see why Buddy Roemer didn't like being excommunicated. Of course, being a practical politician, he wouldn't like being thrown out of the Elks, the Moose or the Odd Fellows, either.

Because I am not a theologian, I sought out Dr. I.M. Kookie, who is known as one of the world's leading experts on lots of stuff. I asked him if it is common for churches to excommunicate people who aren't members.

"Oh, sure, it's been going on for centuries. But it could be a lot worse."

What's worse?

"Read your history books. Going way back, when some big-time holy man decided you weren't thinking right, he might have you strung up or burned or put on the rack and stretched from 5-2 to 6-8.

"Why, in this century, millions of people got gassed because they weren't the right religion. Religious people are still blowing each other up in Ireland. Different kinds of Muslims are after each other's scalps in the Middle East.

"This Buddy Roemer got off easy."

But doesn't this mean that anybody who isn't an Orthodox Catholic can be excommunicated?

"Sure. But don't forget, if I want to, I can excommunicate that priest in Louisiana."

True. I had forgotten Dr. Kookie is also the Prophet Kookie in the Church of Asylumism.

His church believes man is descended from people who were shipped here in spaceships from a distant, highly advanced, peaceful planet. They were dumped here because they had displayed anti-social tendencies, such as becoming politicians, warriors, lawyers and claiming God spoke to them. In that planet's language, the word "earth" meant "loony bin."

"So if he excommunicates me," said the Prophet Kookie, "I'll just excommunicate him right back."

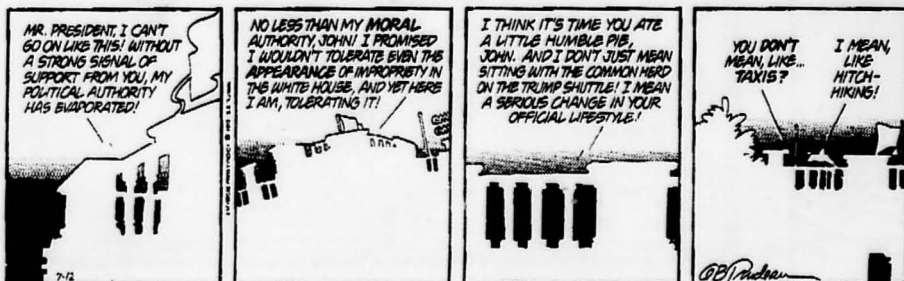

But what does excommunication mean in the Church of Asylumism?

"It's very serious. We believe someday the spaceships are going to come back and look around to see who has straightened out their act and is qualified to go back to the home planet and settle down to the good life."

So? "If I excommunicate him, he don't get a seat on the ship."

The General Assembly missed a noon Thursday deadline to guarantee payroll checks. Davis said if a budget is approved in the next few days, Netchs is prepared to have her staff work over the weekend.

Heath said the nearly 1,900 student workers at SIUC also will be affected without an approved budget.

Students are scheduled to be paid

July 19 for the pay period of June 23 to July 6.

Checks will be issued for hours worked before the fiscal year ended on June 30, Heath said. But the rest depends on an approved budget.

The total summer payroll for SIUC student workers is about $300,000 for each two-week pay period.

"There is no doubt state employees will get paid eventually," Davis said. "We're not working for free. But until we have a budget, our hands are tied."

Pettit said that during the last few days, University officials have been examining the budget situation from every angle to develop options. "I don't know who knows what's going on," he said.

John Patterson and United Press International contributed to this report.

order from Edgar would include a request for the board to suspend operations at the University.

"Although a furlough of up to five days has been discussed, the specifics of the governor's possible order to code departments and request to universities has not been revealed," he said.

Karen Grueter, a spokeswoman for the governor, said Edgard had not named by Thursday any state services whose operations would be suspended should a shutdown of the government become necessary.

Meanwhile SIU officials are preparing for a possible shutdown, a move Pettit said could have serious and negative long-term consequences for students, faculty and the University. "I need not tell you that the suspension of normal university activities during the middle of summer session would have enormous academic, legal, policy, fiscal and logistical implications for us," he said.

Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said it is not necessary to shut down the universities to solve the budget crisis.

"We are going to get this thing resolved within the next few days or early next week," he said. "There's no necessity to ask the University to close."

Illinois is one of six states still struggling to pass a budget after the fiscal year 1992 deadline.

Georgia, Maine, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and Connecticut legislatures are at battle cutting expenses and adopting spending plans.

Gov. Zell Miller of Georgia passed a measure Wednesday to freeze new programs and ordered a one-day-a-month furlough for all state workers.

Chuck Reece, spokesman for Miller, said although Georgia never considered asking universities to suspend operations, the universities did not escape the stringent measures passed Wednesday.

All university employees in Georgia also will be required to take a furlough one day a month.

John Patterson contributed to this report.

AMNESTY, from Page 1

Amnesty International chapter. She said the branch has just finished a letter-writing campaign.

"Our chapter just finished a campaign for a prisoner of conscience in Chad," Winters said. "Ratou, a member of a minority ethnic group, was taken prisoner by the Habre regime. The government tried to wipe out his entire ethnic group. The information is spotty, but apparently just before the Habre government fell, there was a mass execution."

Winters said most of AIUSA's endeavors are more successful.

Amnesty International USA delivered to the White House Wednesday more than 40,000 petitions calling for President George Bush to employ a single human rights standard.

AIUSA organized the petition drive in conjunction with the release of its annual report. The petitions are geared to get the U.S. government to be more consistent in its stance on human rights.

Toni Moore, deputy regional director of the Midwest for AIUSA, said the United States is hypocritical in its stance on human rights.

"We believe that the United States has turned a blind eye to human rights violations in some countries," she said.

Moore said when the United States has economic interests in a country, the government ignores AIUSA's evidence of rights atrocities. But when the proof is against a U.S. political enemy, the government uses the information in a sort of smear campaign, she said.

"Iraq is a good example," Moore said. "We have been reporting the human rights violations there for years and we were ignored. When the government wanted to do something in Iraq, however, they started looking at our report and using it."

John Foster, chairman of the political science department, said the problem is an old one.

"Foreign policy has always been driven by national interests rather than by moral standards," Foster said. "We are inclined to gloss over our allies' human rights violations."

Foster used the Soviet Union as an example. He said the Soviets were allies with the United States during World War II, despite the use of political prisons. The matter was ignored until the Cold War.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, is a member of the Foreign Relations committee. He said a single human rights policy could not be used.

"The United States has an obligation to push for human rights everywhere," Simon said. "The United States cannot tolerate human rights abuses in South Africa or anywhere around the globe. However, different countries find themselves in different situations. Therefore, we cannot have a single uniform standard."

John G. Healey, executive director of AIUSA, said governments must take the first step to ending human rights violations.

"There will be no end to the perpetual cycle of human rights violations worldwide until governments are ready to make the commitment to upholding a single human rights standard at home or abroad, regardless of foreign relations or political expediency," he said. "We have learned too often human rights become the casualty of selective moral outrage."

Moore said the main weapon of AIUSA is the letter.

"Primarily we write to government officials to ask or sometimes order them to honor human rights," she said. "We also hold vigils or protests if we think the action warrants it."

AIUSA has 400,000 members; the SIUC chapter has 60.

BOARD, from Page 1

At the state level, the problems of a nonexistent budget for higher education continues, but there was good news at the meeting.

Federal funding is up with SIUC receiving funding through the House of Representatives and the SIU School of Medicine looking to get a hefty share of $91 million worth of Department of Defense research. "There is a silver lining in Washington to the cloud in Springfield," Pettit said.

The board also approved a budget request for fiscal year 1993.

The request is for a 19.7 percent increase over the hoped for 1992 budget that the University is waiting to get, Pettit said.

SIU will ask for slightly more than $285 million in state appropriations for FY 1993. The budget request is nearly $47 million more than operating totals proposed for this year.

The budget includes a 15 percent pay raise for University faculty, staff and civil service employees. It has been two years since members received pay increases on the level recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

76-year-old nursing home resident charged with murder of roommate

MARKHAM (UPI) — A 76-year-old nursing home resident Thursday faced a first-degree murder charge in the bludgeoning death of one of his roommates.

Johnny Patterson, a resident of the Countryside Plaza Nursing Centre in Dolton, was being held without bond in the death of Willie Collins, 61. Collins, who was beaten to death with the steel handle from a wheelchair, was found dead in his bed early Tuesday.

"This was a blatant attack on a defenseless man who was lying in bed," Cook County Assistant State's Attorney Bernie Venezia said.

Venezia said Patterson has a criminal history dating back 60 years, including a conviction for aggravated battery in a 1985 knife attack on three people at a West Chicago nursing home. All survived. Venezia said Patterson confessed to Tuesday's attack.

"Why would they put a man like that in a place with my father?" asked Renee Collins-Garland. "Why didn't they relay any information on this man?"

Collins-Garland said her father, living at the home for a month, had been suffering from cancer.

A spokeswoman for the Illinois Department of Public Health said it was unclear whether nursing home operators knew of Patterson's criminal past.

Collins and Patterson shared their room with two other men.

Official: Dead ducks could be stunt of animal hater, cult

LANSING (UPI) — A federal wildlife official Thursday said the decapitation of a mother duck and three of her ducklings on the grounds of Thornton Fractional South High School could be the work of a satanic cult.

John Brooks, an official with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, said he cannot fathom the purpose of the duck slayings.

"It could be a satanic cult or an initiation to a club or maybe just someone who doesn't like animals," Brooks said. "This has never happened before that I can remember."

Thornton Fractional South Principal James Spivey said the mother mallard had been nesting on school grounds for six years.

Student welds thesis exhibit; artwork mimics interspection

Annette Holder
Entertainment Editor

Works of art are being created by a metalsmithing student.

David Huffman, graduate student in metalsmithing from Detroit, will be showing his Master's thesis at a reception tonight at the University Museum.

He learned blacksmithing as an apprentice before coming to SIUC. He worked at a tourist park practicing and selling his craft before coming to SIUC.

"I used to do traditional work," Huffman said. "But then I discovered I could use my blacksmith skills to make sculpture."

The title of his Master's exhibit is "Ritual Process Integration." Huffman said the title describes how creating his art was a personal process for him and a chance to learn about himself.

"We compartmentalize work and play," Huffman said. "To get a sense of identity, we need to make it whole. Art mimics this internal process."

His favorite piece is "Chimera: Flight," made of cast aluminum, because it is still interesting to him. He described it as a very involved piece that took more than 200 hours to make.

He created the colorful sculpture "Providence and Fosterage," a lighter piece that took less time, after "Chimera: Flight." Huffman said it was an experiment in another direction with which he had fun.

"It was lighter, faster, a freeing up," he said. "This is a new path that will probably influence the way I work."

Huffman said his artwork reflects one of the best fine arts schools in the country. His artwork can be purchased for $125 to $2,100.

Ben Meeker, assistant curator for the University Museum, said Huffman's exhibit is unique because he uses a film for his thesis statement. Kevin Penrod, cinema and photography student from Murphysboro, will be taping the thesis statement.

The reception is from 6 to 8 tonight.

Satellite glitch at planetarium; eclipse gazers see TV show

CHICAGO (UPI) — Some 1,000 spectators who expected to watch a satellite feed of the total eclipse from Hawaii Thursday instead were treated to game shows and other daytime TV fare, a spokeswoman at the Adler Planetarium said.

The planetarium planned to display the rare celestial event on three projection television screens but a glitch in the satellite transmission supplied more mundane programming.

"We were trying to get off the satellite the total eclipse from Hawaii but we were unable to get that feed," Adler spokeswoman Karol Cooper said.

"I know they were getting game shows and things like that.

"We were tuned in according to the instructions from the production company in Hawaii."

Cooper said about 1,000 people were in the planetarium for the show.

"I should have stayed home and watched it on TV," one disappointed spectator said.

The planetarium later obtained a tape of the total eclipse from a local television station. Another Adler spokeswoman said the Illinois part of the show went well.

Blackened sun attracts audience across globe

United Press International

The diminutive moon blacked out the massive sun in Hawaii and parts of Mexico Thursday in a spectacle that over the millennia has both stopped and started wars and changed the course of history.

Scientists gathered from around the world at observatories on Hawaii's Big Island to see the once-in-a-lifetime event, watching it through a timely hole in the dense clouds that earlier had shrouded the area.

The weather also cooperated on the Baja California Peninsula as the eclipse marched across the Pacific tropics.

In La Paz, on the eastern shore of Baja, the eclipse reached its total blackout at 11:50 a.m., bringing out the stars and prompting birds to sing their evening songs.

In Hawaii, the morning sky went dark about 7:30 a.m. local time as the moon took ever bigger bites out of the sun, leaving a smile of sunlight and ultimately covering the entire disk.

The corona of the sun, a gaseous ring flaming at more than 1 million degrees, peaked around the moon's outline, appearing as a radiant deep blue halo to the filtered lenses of cameras.

The sun over the city of Hilo was totally blocked by the moon for 4 minutes 7 seconds, its shadow acting like a celestial dimmer switch, casting a beam of darkness moving from the upper atmosphere to sea level at a speed of about 2,000 mph.

Just more than an hour later, the narrow Baja Peninsula began to darken as the eclipse cast shadows over seaside resorts in Cabo San Lucas and La Paz, Mexico, peaking in totality at 11:53 a.m. local time.

With the best views in tropical locations across the Pacific Ocean, tourists from around the world took advantage of the opportunity to witness the rare eclipse while vacationing in some of the finest resorts in Hawaii and Mexico and aboard cruise ships.

Forecasts of rain and clouds over the island of Hawaii and a blanket of fog and low clouds over the western beaches of Mexico threatened to dampen the long-awaited event, causing some vacationers to question spending money for flights and hotel rooms.

Ship decks offer open viewing of moon shadow

ABOARD THE S.S. CONSTITUTION (UPI) — The waters off Hawaii offered some of the best seats for Thursday's solar eclipse, with thousands held spellbound on the decks of cruise ships, private yachts and fishing boats.

"It just knocks your socks off," Apollo XII astronaut Dick Gordon gushed. "Four minutes seemed like 30 seconds."

Gordon — who first witnessed a solar eclipse on his way home from the moon in November 1969 — was on the bridge of the S.S. Constitution "just going crazy" as Capt. John Holmes sailed the ship into the "rath of totality."

"You can feel exclaimed NASA astronomer Pete Jackson of Annapolis, Md., who stood on deck as the moon's shadow swept across the vessel at 2,000 mph.

Mexican history records impacts of past eclipses

LA PAZ, Mexico (UPI) — Astronomers say the eclipse that swept from Hawaii to South America Thursday was one of the most spectacular in this century, but there is no way it will match the impact eclipses have had on Mexican history.

Historical records of eclipses in Mexico go back over 1,000 years. A partial eclipse in 1116 may have led the Aztecs to begin a journey that ended in the founding of Tenochtitlan, now Mexico City.

A total eclipse over the Valley of Mexico in April of 1325, much like the one that passed Mexico City Thursday, may have been a sign for the Aztecs to end their wandering and found their capital.

Digital producers to pay royalties for lost tape sales

United Press International

The recording and consumer electronics industries announced a landmark agreement Thursday ending a decade-long standoff over home recording on digital audio recorders.

The agreement calls for producers of digital tape recorders, which can copy digitally recorded music to produce near-perfect versions of songs, to pay royalties to the recording industry for sales lost to taping.

Those payments would be divided through a complex formula among record companies, songwriters, artists and publishers.

Bears Becker retires

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Bears offensive lineman Kurt Becker, a member of the team's 1985 Super Bowl championship, announced his retirement.

Becker, 32, has spent nine years in the NFL, eight with the Bears, since being drafted out of Michigan.

He was used primarily as a backup the last few years and underwent the fourth operation on his right knee during the off-season.

"I got out of it what I wanted," Becker said after quietly announcing his decision on Wednesday. "I came to a point in my career, and I had some decisions to make," he said.

Irish trainer finds pot of gold on turf

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (UPI) — P. Noel Hickey looks and sounds like a leprechaun, but the pot of gold he's discovered is not at the end of a rainbow — it's at the end of a turf course.

He was the leading trainer last year at Arlington International Racecourse and is near the top of the standings again this year. Through July 7, his horses had won 14 times in 48 starts.

Among them was the July 4 Stars and Stripes Handicap, a $100,000, Grade II event over the sod that was won by Blair's Cove.

Last year at Arlington, running only his own horses from his Irish Acres Farm in Ocala, Fla., Hickey saddled 49 winners in 189 starts at Arlington. Nationally, his charges won 74 times in 359 starts, earning more than $1 million for the second straight year. That's up from $434,000 just four years ago.

Hickey, an Irishman with a soft brogue, grew up running — both equine and human. His father trained horses, mostly around Cork, and Hickey sometimes exercised them.

When he wasn't riding, he was running on his own two legs, well enough to be offered a track scholarship to Villanova as a middle-distance runner. He turned down the offer.

It was only after he started working as a trainee at the Bank of Montreal that he began riding professionally, winning often at the old Blue Bonnets in Canada.

Hickey still tries to keep up at both kinds of tracks.

He attends every Olympics and passed up a track meet he was scheduled to attend in Cork to watch Blair's Cove and four other Irish Acres horses run at Arlington.

"I wanted to see that track meet," Hickey said. "I know a lot of the people. But things were looking too good here and I wanted to be around."

A leprechaun could expect no less.

Mansell returns to Grand Prix race

SILVERSTONE, England (UPI) — Britain's Nigel Mansell, the Formula One winner in France last week, this weekend returns for his home Grand Prix unwilling to say if it will be his last.

Usually in Formula One, drivers start getting questions about their futures when they're losing, not when they're winning. But the end of his contract with Williams

Renault after this season and his recent purchase of a Florida home have led to speculation he will move to Indy car racing.

Williams Engineering Commercial Director Sheridan Thynne Thursday confirmed the team was preparing to negotiate with Mansell, whose victory on the new Magny Cours circuit in France Sunday was the 17th of his Grand Prix career.

"I have been authorized by (team owner) Frank Williams to say that within four or five days of the British Grand Prix we will begin formal negotiations," Thynne said.

Mansell said his move to Clearwater, Fla., doesn't necessarily indicate a move away from Formula One.

Pro Bowler Spielman looking forward to 4-3 Detroit defense

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Chris Spielman, twice a Pro Bowler for Detroit without the defense of his dreams, relishes the chance to play middle linebacker in the 4-3 the Lions plan to use this season.

"I'm really looking forward to it," Spielman said. "It'll give me more of a chance to run around and a little more freedom. I think that's when I'm at my best."

Defensive coordinator Woody Widenhofer favors the Slant 4-3 defense he used when he coached with the Pittsburgh Steelers and plans to use more of it than the 3-4 defensive alignment the Lions have used in recent seasons.

"I think we have the talent suited for a 4-3 defense," Spielman said. "I can play the middle, Dennis Gibson and George Jamison can handle the outside positions and (Michael) Cofer can play the end and jui go after the quarterback, which is what he does so well."

Spielman doesn't think it will take a long period to adjust to the new defensive alignment.

"The biggest change is up front," he said. "The assignments for the linebackers and secondary won't be that much different."

Coach Wayne Fontes believes the Lions have improved themselves enough in the defensive line to be able to play four down linemen.

"We've added three good young linemen in the last two years, (Marc) Spindler, (Danny) Owens and (Kelvin) Pritchett," Fontes said.

Spindler missed most of last season after knee surgery but he has practiced with the team during its pre-training mini-camp.

"He's wearing a huge brace and we're working him back into the program slowly, but he's on go," Fontes said.

Defensive back Ray Crockett skipped Thursday morning's workout, joining running back Barry Sanders and Cofer among the missing. Cofer is in the option year of his contract and Sanders and Crockett want to renegotiate their pacts.

tough," Bradley said. "But it doesn't get any easier after that. I'm thrilled to have the score I have."

This is the 19th U.S. Women's Open for Bradley and her score Thursday was the lowest by two shots she has ever produced in the first round of the tournament.

In 1986, when Bradley won three major championships, she suffered from headaches throughout the season because of an undiagnosed thyroid condition.

"If this means I am going to win," Bradley said as she took two pills to relieve her headache, "that's that fine. I played a very solid round."

"I hit a lot of fairways and I hit a lot of greens and that is what you have to do in a U.S. Open.

"I met that challenge today," she said. Kean has finished no higher than third place in any tournament during her four years on the LPGA Tour, but her 1-under 70 put her in an unfamiliar spotlight.

"I was nervous as could be," said Kean, who was in the second threesome to tee off Thursday. "I was 2-over through five holes and I decided if I was going to do any good I was going to have to start shooting at the pins."

Kean played the last 12 holes in 3-under, including a 60-foot birdie putt at the par-4 18th.

"I'm not going to start predicting I'm going to win the tournament," Kean said. "But this is exciting."

SIGA, from Page 12

"I wouldn't be surprised if a par or 1-under-par wins the tournament," Heckel said.

Heckel said there are some very tough holes on the course which require very good accuracy.

Henely said he thinks 13 and 14 are the hardest holes on the golf course.

Hole 13 is a 390 yard, par-4 with a water hazard on the right and sand trap in front of the green.

Hole 14 is a 435 yard, par-4 dog leg right with a large sand trap on the back left side of the green.

"There are some very good players for this level of competition," Tierney said.

"We plan on having the player different each day and I'm sure there will be some outstanding shots throughout the tournament," he said.

Tierney said the man to watch in the tournament will be Marion native and University of Illinois golfer B.W. Bruce.

"Bruce has been tearing up these courses all summer and has beat a lot of the pros in the area," Tierney said.

Tee-off for the pro-amateur round is 1 p.m. on Friday at the Crab Orchard Golf Club.

The SIGA Amateur Championship tee-off is at 7:30 a.m. Saturday, and the same tee-off is set for Sunday.
