9 Salukis Picked For All-Star Team

By Daily Egyptian

Five underclassmen and four veterans make up the second annual Daily Egyptian All-Star Sports Team.

Selections were based on individual performances during the school year.

The team was selected by Daily Egyptian sports writers. Selections were based on individual performances during the season and on each individual's worth to his team. Selections were made in football, basketball, gymnastics, track, baseball, tennis and golf.

The balloting was the closest in basketball, swimming and track. As a result, honorable mentions were given to George Mallard and Joe Ramsey in basketball, Kimo Miles in swimming and Gary Carr in track.

The voting was also closely related to the average family income reported was $3,000 a year, according to studies cited, an average achievement test score for fourth grade students was 3.5; in schools where family income averaged $9,000 or more a year, the average score was 4.8. The SIU conference, following the theme of its annual conference, “The Great Society Challenges Correctional Education,” was sponsored by the American Correctional Association for the study of crime, delinquency and corrections in cooperation with the University extension division and the Correctional Education Association.

Myrt E. Alexander, former SIU faculty member, is president of Baldwin-Wallace College. He heads the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

Saluki Golfers Lag In NCAA Tourney

At the halfway point Tuesday in the 72-hole NCAA college division golf tournament at Springfield, Mo., defending champion SIU was in third place with a score of 597.

Southern, who had been in second place after the first 18 holes the day before, was overaken after the second 18 holes by Lincoln University of Jefferson City, Mo. Lincoln has a 36-hole total of 591.

Both teams are well behind Saluki, although both had poor rounds on the second day.

Muehleman and Phelps both turned in a 76 for a 36-hole total of 146.

Poverty Program Seeks Counselors

A program entitled "The Citadel," which is associated with the War on Poverty program, is open to persons who have at least a bachelor's degree in counseling, psychology, sociology, education or other fields of social science.

Two openings are for persons to take part in a training program for counseling in Youth Opportunity Centers. They will begin an eight-week training period July 6.

Timothy Bowers, of the Illinois Employment Service at Normal, said that the training period would be followed by on-the-job training in some metropolitan area.

He said that those employed would begin at salaries of about $6,000.

Those interested should contact the Placement Service for applications or should call the Illinois Employment Service.

Professors and U.S. Policy

In much the same sense that a little learning is a dangerous thing, a little academic debate on public policy can be extremely harmful. As our country was recently treated to recently goes a good deal more danger than is often supposed. Not that we have heard the last of it by any means. The good professors have already caught their breath before they were allowed to catch the world’s “beach-drums” at which to belabor government officials. The technique, if they have their way, will become a permanent fixture of the American system. Already, former Secretary of State George Bundy is being groomed for this “public duty” to make up for his enforced absence from the last round.

In short, the Inter-University Faculty of Vietnam threatens to become something of a permanent pain in the neck. And it will be supported in this ambition by a good many people who continue to follow the “right” of a completely unfounded and unresponsive group to call public officials to public accounts on the most sensitive on-going issues.

In some countries, to be sure, government officials take part in this public debate. But in such parliaments the opposition representatives are few and the government, responsible to popular executives, Professors, of course, have responsibilities, too. But no one so far as I know has accounted the orators who rose with such self-righteous fervor to denounce the government for its “mistakes” recently.

There was, indeed, nothing whatever in common between a parliamentary debate and this performance. The consecutive statements were not merely not very healthy; they were a series of partisan banter, unresponsive to each other and somehow out of line with anything that seems to be the right thing to say. The professors’ questions and struggling answers are real enough; they are real because of our policies in Southeast Asia.

Nor can the Inter-University Faculty take part in the future. Because what this group demands is nothing less than the criminal inquiry or a “sound” policy in Vietnam or anywhere else. What it seeks for itself is a privileged and institutionalized position as the supposed intellectual godfathers of government. Again, coming from a small group of dissident professors, it is an absurd sort of presumptuous nonsense.

Socrates, His Disciple Engage in a Dialogue

Soc.: Do you want to get what you’ve been after all this time, philosopher?
Dis.: What’s that?
Soc.: Your goals. Do you want to achieve them?
Dis.: I guess so.
Soc.: Well, what’s that you have to do. You’ve got to extend democracy beyond the borders of the world. You’ve got to stop crying, “Man, what’s a living?” and start asking “How can I make a contribution to the family of Man and to the common good of all the generations? What can I do for all our grandchildren that hasn’t been born yet? How can I be most efficiently and most rapidly contributing to the human life so that every last person who has the privilege of profitability and has some consulting voice in mass management will have a not a mere living!”
Dis.: I don’t think you got something else there!
Soc.: Of course. We have to start asking answerable questions and struggling with the self-righteous answers. The more specific you can get the goal, the greater will be the accomplishment, and eventually, for example, if we stop crying, “Man, how can I avoid the twin devils of Individualism and Socialism?” Or worse yet—the boogeymen called “Imperialism” (by the Redes) or “Communism” (by the Deadheads). Ask a specific, pointed question that a business man can persuade this week to convert his firm to a firm of a partnership enterprise, organized on cooperative principles, educational, financial, to produce only the highest quality of goods or services, paying only dividends as its return on investment at least an hour of work every day, in good seasons and bad, with all workers sharing in the profits and planning the management on general policies. Only in this way can we make the statement of the problem even more specific, and hence a geographical boundary, or naming some names, for which we have a better.
Dis.: I believe I’ll try it. It may make me the rem of my life; it’s a big project.
Soc.: I agree. Yet it’s worth it. What is the world’s most serious issues, besides-business.

Granted Forestry Department

$4,500 has been given to the Department of Forestry by the American Science Foundation.

John Andresen, department chairman, said the grant is to be used to buy desk calculators for undergraduate students. SIU will match the grant and the total will be $9,000 for the equipment.

This is one phase of the Forestry Department's recent expansion program, according to Andresen.

The forestry facilities are being enlarged in the south wing of the Agriculture Building, which will include remodeling present classrooms and laboratories to form several staff offices, three staff research laboratories, a graduate student room and four classroom laboratories.

Science Fraternity Sought for Southern

SIU is attempting to secure a chapter of Sigma Xi, national scientific research fraternity.

Maurice Ogur, chairman of the Department of Microbiology and president of the petitioning group, hopes to get authorization for the new chapter at the annual meeting of the national organization. Some 70 members of the faculty engaged in scientific research are members of the national fraternity, having been elected at other educational institutions, Ogur said. It is this group which is to form the local chapter and is petitioning for national recognition.

Ogur has recently succeeded William Clark Ashby, associate professor of botany, as president of the local chapter.

Other new officers elected for the coming year are Mrs. Florence Foote, associate professor of physiology, vice president; Ernest A. Kurmes, assistant professor of forestry, re-elected secretary; and Joseph P. Vavra, associate professor of plant industry, treasurer.

Reviewer Praises SIU Press Book

A "Crosscurrents" book published by the University Press is given top critical acclaim in a recent edition of "Saturday Review" magazine.

The book, written by Sigfried Monkel of the University of Colorado, was published in March. Reviewer Joseph P. Bauke, a member of the Columbia University German Department, says the book, "Rainer Maria Rilke: The Poetic Instinct," is "the boat introduction to Rilke in English."

Bauke's review is featured in a special "Saturday Review" section on university publications.

SIU Foundation Gets Two Gifts of Art Work

Two works of art were presented this week to SIU's permanent art collection through the SIU Foundation, Kenneth R. Miller, executive director of the foundation, said.

One is a painting by Harvey S. Harris, associate professor of art, contributed by Harris himself. The other is a framed print, entitled "Fanesse," by the great Jean Miro, which is the gift of the Pan-Hellenic Council.

The foundation recently received a gift of $200 from Robert W. MacVicar, vice president for academic affairs, and Mrs. MacVicar. The money will be used as awards for outstanding work done by students in the Department of Art.

U.S. Troop Commitment Called Move to Deny Viet Cong Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Wednesday that discretionary authority for U.S. ground forces to fight alongside Vietnamese troops was given to avoid a situation that easily could enable the Communist Viet Cong to gain great advantage. In a statement read by the presidential press secretary, George E. Reedy, the White House once again defined the combat mission of U.S. ground forces there has been no change in the U.S. role in Viet Nam. Both Friday a military spokesman in Saigon said U.S. forces have a dual role: "To be stationed at important places and add to the defense, and to participate in battle in what we call combat support of the government forces when it becomes necessary." This statement passed almost unnoticed. On Saturday the State Department responding to a request, defined the U.S. policy of conducting an aggressive defense of installations. This concept did not tie down U.S. forces to the immediate base area. There was no mention of combat support for Viet Nam forces until Tuesday, State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said this authority had been given to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, chief of the U.S. Military Assistance Command in Saigon. McCloskey said the authority had been granted recently. The White House said there have been no new orders given recently to Westmoreland. "The primary mission of these troops is to secure and safeguard important military installations like the air base at Da Nang. They have the associated mission of active patrolling and securing action in and near the areas thus safeguarded," the statement said. "If help is requested by appropriate Vietnamese commanders, Gen. Westmoreland also has authority within the assigned mission to employ these troops in support of Vietnamese forces faced with aggressive attack when other effective reserves are not available and when in his judgment the general military situation urgently requires it." If the U.S. military commander did not have this discretionary authority, the White House said, "a situation might easily arise in which heavy loss of life might occur and great advantage might be won by the Viet Cong because of delays in communications."

Stock Market Dips Sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavy selling battered the stock market Wednesday and threw it for another sharp loss. The mood of the recent declines, based more on a cautious drying-up of bids rather than active selling, changed radically as stocks were unloaded on a more emotional basis. Volume made a big leap to 7.1 million shares from Tuesday's subaverage 4.6 million.

The Dow Jones industrial average sank 9.21 to 879.84. A rumor that President Kennedy had suffered a heart attack triggered a short-lived wave of selling around the noon hour when volume was 1.8 million shares for the 60 minutes. The rumor was promptly denied by the President's personal physician and stocks rallied vigorously above their lows. The recovery almost erased the loss. Selling snowballed in the final hour.

The decline followed Tuesday's sharp drop which was the sharpest since the assassination of President Kennedy, but Wednesday's heavy trading gave it more widespread importance.

House Bill Raises U.S. Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed 228-164 Wednesday a bill raising the ceiling on the national debt to $328 billion for the year beginning July 1. The figure is a billion dollars lower than the Treasury asked, but still well above estimates of the high point of the debt during the period. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee told the House the debt stood at $317.3 billion May 30 and is estimated to reach $319 billion by June 30.

Eisenhower Rallies GOP Behind Bliss

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower urged a Republican audience Wednesday night to rally behind national chairman Ray C. Bliss, to vigorously challenge "lopsided control."

Bliss returned to the state where he led Republicans for 16 years. He called for hard work as the only way to rebuild the party from a crushing defeat in the 1964 presidential campaign.

In a talk for an hour-long television program linking $100-a-plate dinners in eight major Ohio cities, Eisenhower called on all Republicans to back Bliss "as he seeks to fulfill his pledge of reorganizing, of reuniting, of re-energizing the party from the bottom to the top."

Eisenhower and Bliss shared a platform in Cleveland before an estimated 3,000 Republicans and thousands of others at eight other dinners watched on closed-circuit television, while the program was beamed to Ohio and surrounding states by a dozen commercial television stations.

Yugoslav Consul Shot in Germany

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Two mystery gunmen shot and wounded a Yugoslav diplomat Wednesday as he sat in a car by a Bavarian lake with a Yugoslav waitress who works in West Germany.

West German police questioned the waitress and a group of Yugoslav exiles living in southern Germany.

A spokesman for the Yugoslav consulate general in Munich said the shooting apparently had political implications. It came at a time when President Tito of Yugoslavia was visiting in Communist East Germany.

The victim was Andrija Klarica, 35, consul for Yugoslavia in Munich. He is married and the father of a 4-year-old child. He was shot through the lung but a hospital at the lakeside city of Meersburg said his condition, at first critical, had improved after an operation.

He was talking in his parked car to Dara Rogic, 38, when the attack came. She rolled out of the car to escape the volley of shots, but Klarica slumped over the wheel, bleeding.

Space Pioneer Adds to Gemini Laurels

ABOARD THE WASP (AP) — America's two Gemini astronauts received a congratulatory message Wednesday from the first man ever in space, Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin.

Gagarin's pioneering space flight was one orbit long to acting, probably in July. The subcommittee gave only slight consideration to a substitute bill proposed by Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., co-author of the Landrum-Griffin Act. The substitute was rejected by voice vote.

Combat Engineers Land in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — About 2,500 U.S. combat engineers landed Wednesday at a bay northeast of Saigon to build a base capable of handling any massive American commitment to the Vietnamese war.

The landing at Cam Ranh Bay, 190 miles northeast of Saigon, came a day after the State Department declared U.S. troops would enter combat against the Viet Cong when requested.

There was bloody fighting elsewhere as the engineers came ashore. Two U.S. advisers were killed at Gia Bay, 50 miles northeast of Saigon when Communist guerrillas overran a training center. And 138 Vietnamese troops were killed or missing there and in fighting north of Saigon.

'Sorry, Honey, Our Date’s Off Tonight'

By Karen Carr

A petite 18-year-old was all "coiled up," ready for her date at 7:30. The telephone rang at 7. "Listen, Diane, I won't be able to make it tonight. I've been stolen away by Arabs," said the date and hung up.

Many different excuses are given to coeds when SIU males break a date. The girls interviewed said that sometimes they were sure that their would-be dates spoke the truth. But occasionally...

"Well,..."

"He said he was sick, and I knew he was," said Jane M.

"I know he was," said Jodi B., junior, was once told, "I can't make our date tonight; I got drafted."

Susan F., recalled an excuse given to her by a past steady. "He said for once he thought he'd go to a stag party, but it turned out to be a coed affair."

One girl was told, "I have to babysit with my little sister and can't make our date Saturday night." Vivian C., said it wouldn't have been so bad except that she knew he didn't have any sisters!

One excuse given to Yvonne W., was, "I'm sick as a dog."

"But he was as healthy as a horse an hour before," said Yvonne.

Three lucky girls interviewed stated that they had never had a date broken. "There's time, though. All three are freshmen."

Hello, Bill, Sally Doesn't Feel Too Well Tonight.

By Joe Cook

SIU coeds are very proficient when it comes to breaking dates, but a random survey taken among the guys showed that most coeds are very unimaginative in their excuses.

Most of the excuses deal with death or illnesses in the family.

Don LaRoche, a freshman from Chicago, is one male student to encounter this excuse. "This girl, it seems, had to go home to Chicago to see her grandmother who had just taken ill."

Bill Herklotz, a senior from Rockford, was a victim of a similar excuse except it was a little more dramatic.

It seems that this girl had to leave suddenly because her father had just died. Herklotz found out later that her father was still quite alive.

Another excuse coeds like to use is that someone is coming to visit them.

In the case of Tom Nudd, a junior from Chicago, her parents were coming down, while a girl told Tom Nighswander, a sophomore from Mattoon, that her boyfriend was coming down. Jack Schultz, a freshman from Harvey, got an excuse that the girl had to babysit. He saw the same girl an hour later in the bowling alley with a male baby who was a little older than she.

Ken wheat, a sophomore from Benton, got an unusual excuse once. It seems the girl told him her father wouldn't let her go with him to see the show.

Said, "I didn't question her good judgement since the Chapman Report was playing. A person who wished to remain anonymous said a girl gave him an excuse he had never heard before."

She told him that she had to break the date because her sister's fiance was down for the weekend and she felt compelled to show him a good time.

Harley B. Logston Is Named Southern Player of the Year

Harley B. Logston, Litchfield, Ill., was honored as the "Southern Player of the Year" by the Southern Players, a student theatrical company at the SIU, at the group's annual banquet.

Other awards included best actor, best actress, and best backstage hand, which went to Jerry D. Powell, Carbondale; Lynn Leonard, Mt. Vernon, Ill.; and Marjorie A. Watson, Hillsboro, respectively.

Ralph Christopher Jones, Pithon, Ala., won first prize in the playwriting contest sponsored by the Southern Players. He accepted the $25 prize for his one-act play, "The Homecoming." Second prize of $15 went to Max C. Gloglely, Provo, Utah, for his play, "The Grief Scene." He was the first-place winner last year.

Honoray mention in the playwriting contest was given to John S. Welden, Morgantown, W. Va., for his "The Population Explosion."
Garbage and Dishes Strain Wedded Bliss

By Roland Gill

(Second in a Series)

The image the average college male holds of himself as being the great American lover may lose its effect in marriage among newly married students.

When the notebooks and texts take the joy out of the early morning kiss and the big yellow school buses in the evening—problems might rear their heads, says George R. Carpenter, director of home economics and head of the Home and Family Division of the School of Home Economics.

Community among newlyweds on the campus seems to be the biggest hurdle, Carpenter says. But other problems such as finances, grades and children also make the marriage student a difficult institution.

"The conflict in the college marriage," Carpenter says, "is not a conflict which persons take over the garbage." He explained that during the courtship and engagement the chivalrous male opens doors, pulls chairs and lights cigarettes for his fiancée, but after the vows are said, the chancellor becomes the head of the partnership.

"The young wife is not too well equipped for the demands of the marriage life," he said. "She is too involved in her school work to take over the managing of the household. The husband is not there to help her do the cooking. This is bad foundation for the marriage partnership agreement."

So the student who is engaged the chivalrous male appears to feel left out, Carpenter said, and they are alarmed when they discover that they are not as educated as they think after the first week of marriage with the new spouse, Carpenter said.

African Gets Syracuse Fellowship

Artisone Chambati of Salisbury, Rhode Island, who has been studying at SIU since the fall of 1963, and who last year was a troll fellow, has been selected to participate in an East African Studies Program at Syracuse University starting on June 25.

The program, sponsored by Syracuse's Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, is designed to promote understanding of East African affairs, faculty member from throughout the United States and African and African students studying here have been selected to take part.

Chambati, who has been studying in the United States since 1963 on a fellowship from the African-American Institute, plans to enroll next fall in the New School for Social Research at New York City.

Hoffman Aims at Gold Medal
In Maccabiah Olympics Judo

SIU's Ron Hoffman has been chosen to represent the United States in Judo at the Maccabiah Olympics in Israel Aug. 23 through Aug. 30.

The Maccabiah Olympics are second in size only to the Olympic games in which 55 nations will be competing. Hoffman has high hopes of bringing home a gold medal for the United States.

Hoffman has also been selected by the Judo Black Belt Federation of the U.S.A., to be a member of the 10-man U.S. judo team in fights Canada's choice team in Detroit on June 19 this year. While in Chicago this summer, Hoffman plans to train about eight hours a day, perfecting some of his throwing techniques, which will require approximately 1,000 "uchikomi," or practice throws, every day to become lightning fast.

Hoffman is also working on developing a surprise left side throw, which he learned while he was in Japan, and plans to use it on his opponents. It is a technique which few International Judo Federation men can block or counter.

Hoffman will spend some time training at a lodge located high in the Sierras with Ben Campbell, one of the foremost Judo men in the world. Two weeks before his departure for Israel, Hoffman will train with the rest of the U.S. judo contingent at Kutahz's Country Club in Monticello, N.Y.

Hoffman received his first-degree black belt in Judo at the age of 16. This won him the distinction of being the youngest black belt holder in the nation. He recently won the 195-pound division of the National Collegiate Judo Championship, and the Eastern Collegiate Grand-Championship.

He now holds a third-degree black belt, and is the winner of approximately 100 trophies for Judo. He trained in Japan twice, and also in France in 1961 when the World Judo Tournament took place there.

During a recent visit to Japan, Hoffman played an important role in compiling the new Judo handbook, "Fundamentals of Judo," in which he is pictured some 125 times, displaying effective Judo techniques.

In both 1964 and 1965, Hoffman was appointed by Gov. Otto Kerner as judo adviser to the state of Illinois.
