Student president issue still undecided

By Bernard F. Whalen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The position of SIU student body president-posted the previous Wednesday with both Jon Taylor and Jim Peters eligible for office. The student government executive offices in the student center are currently being occupied by Taylor.

"It's not the administration's job to make decisions for student government," said President Thomas Busch, administrative assistant for student relations, on Wednesday.

Busch said the administration's present position is that former President George Camille was correct in declaring Taylor ineligible for election and naming former Vice President Jim Peters as president but that the conflicting claims of Taylor and Peters require arbitration.

"Including President's conclusion, I understand Peters to be president," Busch said.

The University administration's position Tuesday—as it was expressed in statements from presidential assistants for student affairs and student relations—was that Taylor was academically eligible for the office and he was recognized as president.

On Monday Camille claimed Taylor was ineligible at the time of the election and Peters, who was runner-up in the election, was therefore president. Camille informed George Mace, assistant to the president for student affairs, and the Office of Student Relations of his decision.

On Tuesday, Taylor released a letter from the registrar's office which verified his grade point average was being 3.101. The letter also said Taylor was in good standing with the University.

Busch said student government shouldn't get involved in the administration with the dispute. "It is an internal matter for student government," he said. "I don't think we have the right to enter in this matter."

Busch also said he doubts that the Board of Trustees will enter into the dispute.

Busch said the problem should be presented to an arbitration board for settlement.

"If the administration steps in," he said, "the student government will be castrated."

The administration's only role is to see that the facts are presented correctly, Busch said.

Several options were being considered Wednesday by Taylor, including the use of the Student Conduct Review Board or a mail referendum of the Student Senate.

A new Taylor is now occupying the executive offices, Peters said Tuesday he has the responsibility for the presidency and will take out of his home until Taylor leaves the executive offices.

Camille made his decision to recognize Peters as president on the Article III, Section 5-F of the student government constitution which states: "The President and Vice President shall require the faithful execution of all laws and can, whenever necessary, take action to ensure compliance with the Constitution and By-Laws."

Camille, who was president until the start of summer quarter at 5:30 p.m. Monday, decided to recognize Peters after a question was raised concerning Taylor's eligibility to run in the election. Camille claims Taylor was on academic probation at election time and therefore ineligible to take office.

Article III, Section 2-C of the constitution states that the president must have a 3.0 average at the time of the election and be in good standing with the University.

Camille claims Taylor had below a 3.0 average, but Taylor maintains he was in good standing with the University.

"Camille is doing nothing more than trying to pick the next student body president," Taylor said. "But this problem is between George and me."

SIU budget approved by state Senate

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Southern Illinois University's $130 million appropriation bill was approved without change and most higher education requests were approved Wednesday by the Illinois Senate appropriations committee Wednesday in the same form as they were passed in the House.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to cut the University of Illinois spending program for next year. The budgets moved to the Senate floor.

Sen. Jack Kuepner, R-Elmhurst, leader of a minority Republican task force on higher education budgets, attempted to remove a $1.02 million item for sabbatical leaves for 4 of 1 professors.

The leader of the Democratic majority, budget task force Sen. Thomas Hynes, D-Chicago, rejected the amendment and Kuepner's companion proposal to put about $41,000 of the amount back in the budget for student services.

Budgets moving to the Senate floor without change included those for SIU, the Board of Regents, the Board of Governors and public junior colleges.

The committee cut the proposed $1.5 million budget of the Board of Higher Education down to $794,000. In the cuts, only one grant for international cooperation was retained. This $50,000 item will continue support of the graduate program at Quad Cities.

In an expected move, the Democratic majority amended Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's proposal for $16 million for aid to common schools, raising it to the $811 million level. This amount was suggested by Michael Bakalis, state superintendent of public instruction.

Republicans made no objection to the amendment, and the bill moved unanimously to the Senate floor. Even if passed by the Senate in the amended form, the bill would have to get back to the Republican-controlled House for concurrence in the amendment.

Canut-Amoros case still unresolved after SIU, HEW meeting stalemates

By Sue Ball
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A regional official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Wednesday that a meeting between SIU and HEW and University officials has failed to resolve a discrimination case in the Marisa Canut-Amoros sex discrimination case.

Don Scott, a representative from HEW's Chicago headquarters, said no progress was made toward resolving the case of Ms. Canut-Amoros, a former professor of applied science in the School of Engineering and Technology.

Ms. Canut-Amoros said she has filed a complaint with the Illinois Employment Practices Commission.

Scott said he will return to SIU and continue investigations on four other discrimination cases July 3.

Legal Counsel T. Richard Mager and Jerry Lacey, director of the SIU Affirmative Action Program, represented the university which was held during break on June 13. Neither Mager nor Lacey attended the meeting. Mager attended the meeting.

The meeting offered the University an opportunity to present further evidence and attempt to reach settlement or remedies recommended by HEW. Scott said the SIU representatives presented no new evidence and took unclear positions.

"They disagree with our findings but are unable to tell us why they disagree," Scott said.

The Chicago HEW office upheld Ms. Canut-Amoros' sex discrimination complaint last March. Among Ms. Canut-Amoros' charges were denial of summer employment, inequality of pay and problems concerning her quest for sabbatical leave.

Scott said the Washington HEW office is being notified of last week's informal meeting with SIU representatives. An informal negotiations hearing will be held by HEW with national officials. If agreement is still not reached, a formal hearing will be held.

Scott said these measures fail, enforcement action concerning federal contracts awarded to SIU will be recommended. Scott said this could vary from withdrawal of present federal contracts.

Registration may drop by 1,700

Registration for summer quarter will reach its high today at the SIU Arena, and enrollment estimates by about 1,700 from last summer's figures.

Although registration will close today, Sharon Hooker, coordinator of new student activities and special programs, said that new student leaders will be available throughout the quarter to help incoming students and coordinate an information program for residence halls and at the Student Activities Office.

Henry Andrews, registration supervisor, said that only 9,000 to 9,500 students are expected for summer.

The 9,000 figure would be down 2,700 from last year's total of 11,200, he added.

All Education College programs accredited

The College of Education now has accreditation by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) for all teacher education programs currently offered to undergraduate and graduate students.

Word was received by President David R. Derge and Dean Elmer J. Clark from Rolf W. Larson, director of the national teacher education accrediting agency.

Accredited initially were the college's specialist and doctoral programs. The bachelor's and master's degree programs, approved by NCATE as a number of years ago, received reaccreditation.

The action followed a visit by a nine-member team from NCATE in November to evaluate degree programs in education. It was the first time the specialist and doctoral programs had been investigated and evaluated by this organization.

On May 15 the council considered the SIU request for reaccreditation of presently accredited programs to prepare elementary and secondary teachers and school psychologists and for initial accreditation of programs at the college's specialist and doctoral levels to prepare elementary and secondary teachers, school psychologists and school principal's supervisors, superintendents, guidance counselors and curriculums coordinators. The council arrived at the accreditation decisions at that time.

Totals at the end of spring quarter indicated 7,400 students registered for summer, including 400 incoming freshmen, Sue Ebert, assistant registrar, said. However, she said no definite enrollment count can be determined for about another two weeks. Ms. Hooker said that nearly 700 new students—freshmen and transfers—participate in orientation earlier in the week.

However, lower enrollment has resulted in fewer class closings. "Most classes are still open," said Andrews, "other than those that normally experience heavy traffic."

Andrews said that approximately 400 continuing students went through registration Wednesday morning and emphasized there were no lines.

Thursday is the deadline to register or make a program change except for late starting classes. An exception will be made to allow students with program conflicts to class cancellations the chance to change their programs next Tuesday.

More financial assistance possible for SIU students

By Ed Donnelly

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A six week extension on all state scholarship and grant applications, announced Wednesday by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, could give 2,000 more SIU students financial assistance, according to Raymond Dalaranetz, assistant director of the SIU Student Work and Financial Assistance Program.

financial eligibility for federal contracts. The HEW has the authority to recommend withdrawal of federal contracts to universities which violate its guidelines for nondiscrimination in employment practices.

Ms. Canut-Amoron said she has notified the SIU President's Office that she is available for negotiations concerning her case but said she has not been contacted.

She said her complaint with the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) charged President D. H. Derge with denying her reinstatement to SIU as recommended by HEW and also with denying her claim for employment at the University's delay in replying to her HEW recommendations.

Ms. Canut-Amoron said she has been notified by FEPC officials that the FEPC complaint would not interfere with the HEW action.

Ms. Canut-Amoron filed her FEPC complaint May 26 and discussed her case with an FEPC investigator six days later. The University was notified of her complaint June 7 but requested a one-month delay to prepare a reply. She said no University officials in

New Jersey guard

go on killing spree

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (AP) - A security guard armed with a sawed-off rifle went on a shooting spree in a crowded office building Wednesday. Six persons were killed and seven others wounded. Two other security guards were wounded. One man was shot and wounded in a first-floor corridor adjacent to the building after he leaped through a window to escape the gunfire.

Sgt. First Class Frank Jones said the alleged gunman, Edwin C. Grace, 25, of Brooklyn, N. Y., shot himself in the neck and head and was brought from the building along with other wounded persons before authorities realized who he was.

Cherry Hill Mayor John Holden said Grace was a Pinkerton guard for the New Jersey Detective Agency in nearby Williamstown. Holden said Grace had been living in the Cherry Hill area for about a year. He said police knew of no motive for the shootings.

Pinkerton Vice President William D. Lima said Grace was assigned to the Trenton office.

Grace was listed in critical condition at Cherry Hill Hospital. Doctor's said, "There is a good chance he'll pull through." Three of the victims also were critically injured.

The gun fired shortly after 3 p.m. in Heritage House, an office building on North Kings Highway.

Police said the gunman, armed with 22-caliber rifles, terrorized the building for several minutes, before he apparently made no attempt to shoot any women. All the victims were males.

Several young women in the GMA Co office escaped as the gunman ran along a first-floor corridor. One man was wounded slightly but escaped and notified police.

led to incoming freshman based on financial need and academic status, Dalaranetz said, and grants are usually awarded to continuing students on the basis of financial need.

Seventy percent of scholarship and grant recipients come from families with incomes below $12,000," he said.

The governor's announcement comes at a time when the Illinois State Scholarship Commission is assured of a $5 million allocation. This is a 30 percent increase over last year's budget, Dalaranetz said.

The governor's action also resulted from his own response to the assistance available, according to Dalaranetz.

"The biggest problem is that students don't apply," Dalaranetz said. "More than one in five of the enrollment meet the qualifications.

According to Gov. Ogilvie's statement, this "is the first time in the 14-year history of the state scholarship program that funds will be available for every single student who needs financial help.

"In the past, we've had to cut the scholarship amount and the number of applications, but now we can provide full tuition and have an excess of funds," Dalaranetz added.

Illinois high school graduates and college undergraduates can apply to the Illinois State Scholarship Commission for aid.

Applications are available at the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office in Washington, Illinois, and at 82 high schools. The deadline is August 15.

20th state ok's

women's rights

BOSTON (AP) - Massachusetts Wednesday became the 20th state in the United States to ratify an amendment to the U.S. Constitution granting equal rights to women.

The vote, approved overwhelmingly on a 26-7 roll call to accept the amendment, which prohibits any kind of discrimination on account of sex.

The Senate adopted the amendment Monday.

Thirty-eight states must ratify the proposal within seven years for it to become the 27th amendment to the Constitution.

The amendment, passed by Congress in March, was submitted for ratification by Massachusetts in April and was studied by the Legislative Research Council before the vote.

What is a parasite?

To the Daily Egyptian:

I read with keen interest the abortion defense plea in the Daily Egyptian written by Joanne Izbicki (May 30). Many of us believe it is time for a clarification and a nutriment and common exhibiting some degree of adoptive structured modifications. This is a good description of all of us at an earlier day in our existence. 2 A parasite is an organism which causes some degree of real damage to its host. In this case a bona-fide physician will prescribe and perform the abortion.

I believe the article evaded the point. Sexual intercourse is the biological process by which humanity reproduces. It just happens to be that way. All things being equal, the act of intercourse produces pregnancy—and none of us planned this biological arrangement. It is the way of all mammals. But, an individual's sexual freedom is another matter. Contraceptives are to be had—pills, coils, diaphragms, jellies, etc. If a woman does not want the natural result of a biological law, she can prevent this cause-and-effect relationship—and it is her prerogative to do so.

Every woman has her freedom today. She can have sexual activity when she pleases—even for an hour, on the hour—if she desires and has the time. This is her decision. I am not discussing a woman's right to a personal matter. I am saying, though, that her freedom ends when she deliberately refuses contraceptives and brings into existence another individual—by whatever name she calls him.

No one is saying that she must be a breeding machine! No one is saying she cannot engage in sexual freedom! I do say, however, that when an embroyic individual is on his way, he does have some rights, and one of them is escape from his planned killing! The fact that he is not cognizant of his rights, at this stage of his development, does not prevent society from protecting him. Here are the problem areas and the solutions:

1. If you want sexual freedom, take the pill or whatever.
2. If your health is actually endangered by pregnancy, have a bona-fide abortion by a legalized physician.
3. If you, through carelessnes, give birth to a parasite (your terminology), sign adoption papers and never use contraceptives.
4. Abortions, in the most promising situations, are health hazards. Why be so negligent about your own health?
5. Your freedom ends when his life begins!

Scrambled eggs

To the Daily Egyptian:

On June 7, 1972, a Malaysian student, Soon-teck Tan, wrote a very shocking letter. I read the letter in reply to mine (May 9) with great surprise—largely because of my previous statements I made. I also had to mention that I am neither a Vietnamese, as he assumed, nor is Chou my name.

It is my belief that aggression by all parties to the Vietnamese dispute ought to be condemned—not only one of them. It is an obvious fact that it is North Vietnam which has provided "good support to the South Vietnamese revolution" and served "as a strong basis for the struggle"—distinctions which they themselves claim from time to time. Furthermore, there are other parties which have supplied the weapons and ammunition to the North Vietnamese, while they are hiding behind shelters, supplying weapons, and washing hands, like Pontius Pilate, claiming innocence. I would like to refer Mr. Tan to the editorial in the Far Eastern Economic Review of May 6 for further elaboration.

I also suggest that Mr. Tan do some serious reading about the Geneva agreements, for example, Randale's very fine work. Of at least some crucial importance are the following facts: the accords were largely military cease-fire agreements between France and the Viet Minh although the legal government of Vietnam, as recognized by France at the time of Geneva and after, did not sign the agreements and publicly stated that it would not, at the Geneva Conference. As a student of international law and government, I find these and other facts surrounding the Geneva Conference fascinating in these times.

I further fail to see any connection between my letter and the question of which China will sit in the United Nations. This is an entirely extraneous issue.

Finally, I stand by my statement that patronizing attitudes and imposition of Western attitudes and desires on Asians is racist in nature no matter who the culprit is. There should be no distinction between "true" or 100 per cent racist (according to Mr. Tan's testimony) and "less-true" or only one per cent racist. All racism is wrong, by all persons, and cannot be excused for any reason. As an Asian I resent such actions and attitudes. I sincerely advise Mr. Tan to speculate this: "Is ONLY hard-boiled egg an egg? Is scrambled or sun-side-up egg NOT an egg?"

Not so clean

To the Daily Egyptian:

The children of the Unitarian Fellowship enjoyed a walk across the SIU campus Sunday June 4th. It is a beautiful campus. But when they came upon the litter around the band stand located near Woody Hall it was such an appalling sight they all pitched in to clean up the bottles and trash left there.

These young children wonder why college students who profess to want a better world for themselves cannot begin with keeping their own campus a place of beauty.

Where should SIU priorities lie?

By Arthur Hoppe

Chronicle Features

Ah, sweet June! To the flowering month when young men graduate from college, take a bride and go forth into the world. At least they used to.

But it is not true, as many middle-aged Americans think, that none of their offspring are graduating or getting married any more. Several young people do it every year.

A case history in point is that of young Irwin (name withheld). After only six years in and about SIU, Irwin seemed destined to have a cash career. HUD funds to finance the building of a hospital in the Lincoln Neonatal Intensive Care Unit had been approved, and the hospital could help meet the needs of not only the University, but also the community.

For a long time, Irwin had been offering only free birth control pills and abortion referral services to those interested in serving mankind instead of "making a buck" can be recruited. In fact, I am certain that SIU President David Derge would encourage this type of thinking, since he has stated on one occasion that "I would be proud to have any student for you, but what you can do for your University." If we go out and recruit or contract a doctor for $40,000, then we are not changing much, but we are aiding those who advocate the old, traditional "on a cash basis." The location of the health service facility is of utmost importance. The facility should not only be centrally located, but it should also be a part of the community. For example, I don't see why the hospital should have control of the health service facility; this is the only way we can make sure that the service will be available to all, whether or not they can pay. If, as I believe, the University has the right to have control and responsibility for the hospital, then isn't the hospital part of the University, too? So, the hospital should have control of the health service facility.

The effect on his impressionable young mind was obviously traumatic. For the first thing he did, after applying for welfare, was to ask his girlfriend, Ernestine, to marry him.

Ernestine was so shocked she blushed. "What kind of a girl are you, do you think I am?"

"But I love you, Ernestine," said Irwin, falling to one knee, and "I wish to spend the rest of my life with you."

"Don't you care about my reputation?" she sobbed.

"Our love is more powerful than silly social conventions. And besides," he added slyly, "we could be discreet."

So Ernestine, somewhat reluctantly, and Irwin were secretly married, exchanging vows to love, honor, cherish and never tell. He was always careful to introduce her as his mistress, a subtle but effective way of letting people know that she was under his "protection." Ernestine was equally careful never to wear her wedding ring except in the privacy of their bed. And, as both found a delicious pleasure in their clandestine relationship, they were happy.

Two weeks later, a heavenly angel, that is, until one day Irwin said casually, "What about having a baby?"

Ernestine laughed. "No worry about that, dear."

"No, I mean on purpose."

This time, she was horrified. "Why, our friends would never speak to us again. Think of the ecology! Think of overpopulation! Think of the future of the human race."

But after weeks of tears and arguments, Ernestine yielded. In her sixth month, she went "to visit an aunt in Dayton." Irwin made the same excuse for friends that she was having an abortion. When she returned with the child in her arms, they claimed it was an adopted Mongolian orphan, who happened to be an albino. And though some busboys talked, they held their heads high.

Saddled with a diploma, a wife and a child, there was but one final step for Irwin. And one night he returned home with a suit, a tie, a haircut and the defiant announcement that he'd taken a job.

It is a tribute to Ernestine's deep love that she did not ask him what he was doing, or where he was going. When she thought they were forced, by the sneers and snide innuendos of their outraged former friends, to move, and they now live happily ever after in a two-bedroom, split-level home, openly and courageously flaunting convention.

But there's no question the planning was the right thing to do. For it's always been true that any couple who can somehow survive the ordeals of marriage will live happily ever after.

Bond issue vote for new library postponed until plans completed

By Monroe Walker
And Ernie Schwoebel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

The bond referendum for a new library building in Carbondale has been postponed until April, 1973, according to Ralph McCoy, chairman of the public library board and administrator of SIU’s Morris Library.

McCoy said the board is waiting for legal papers and will ask the City Council to call the referendum next spring.

"Further work needs to be done on the architectural plans, and tax bills are late," he said. "We don't want to present the referendum at the same time people get their tax bills and we are also waiting to see what federal monies will be allotted to us."

He said that the federal government will allot up to 20 percent in funds toward total cost of the building.

"The total amount of the proposed bond issue depends on federal funds," McCoy noted.

Pianist to give senior recital

Alvey L. McMeen, pianist, will give his senior recital at 8 p.m. on June 30 in the Home Economics Auditorium.

Miss McMeen, a senior in the School of Music, will perform selections of Beethoven, Schumann, Poulenc and Gershwin.

Miss McMeen has been studying music at SIU for four years, and has been involved in the women's music sorority, Mu Phi Epsilon. She plans to enter graduate school.

Coming events in the School of Music include a concert by bassoonist William Waterhouse on July 10, a Student Composition Recital on July 26, and a Concert of Black Music on July 27. All concerts will be held at 8 p.m. in the Home Economics Auditorium.

and will amount to about $70.000 to $75,000," McCoy stated.

He added that the total cost of the new library building will be just under $1 million but "when you deduct the price of the lot and the sale of the present building plus the allotment of federal funds, this will cut the cost down considerably."

Carbondale's present library building is inadequate, McCoy said, the main problems being storage space and adequate seating area.

"We need a large building to replace the one we have now," he said. "Back in 1957, the building was just right, but right now it is not."

In 1956, Carbondale's population was around 11,000 while the total number of books numbered about 12,000, according to head librarian Zella A. Rath.

Five years later, city population had risen to 16,000 while the book level dropped to about 11,000.

Today, Carbondale has 22,800 tenants and 39,182 books.

Most of those volumes are located in the present building, near University and Walnut, but there are so many books some older selections have been sent to the Shawnee Public Library in Carterville, according to McCoy.

Ms. Rath said about 300 books have been sent away, stressing that the current building has a 25,000 book capacity, far below its inventory.

All told, the Carbondale Library has over 41,000 listings including some 1,600 paperbacks and 1,100 records.

Once money for a new building becomes available, construction will take about six to eight months, McCoy said.

Carbondale architect Hani Fischer, a city councilman, will design the building to be located at the northwest corner of University and Jackson Streets.

McCoy said the land cost $60,000 two years ago when it was purchased by the library. Payments were completed this year.

No bond plans have been drawn, but the building presumably would include about 10,000 square feet of finished space and 4,000 uncompleted square feet of space.

Only Neely Hall open for summer housing

Neely Hall is the only on-campus dormitory remaining open for housing during summer quarter according to Robert Maurath, assistant housing director.

The rest of University Park as well as Thompson Point will be closed to students. However, the Brush Towers area will be open for visiting freshmen and their families in a hotel-type arrangement when students come to Southern for pre-registration, Maurath said.

The only other dormitory open is the VTU building which houses 25 students attending VTU this summer.

Only 569 students have received housing assignments in Neely, according to Maurath, but this is not the final number.

Thirteen of the 16 residence halls are at least partially occupied, with the summer work program located on the 17th floor.

The dormitory is co-educational this summer, but no decision has been reached regarding occupancy policy for fall quarter.

Floors two through seven have been designated for male occupancy and 11 to 16 for women. Floors eight through 10 are closed because there is no need for additional space.

Mae Smith and Schneider Halls will be partially opened for registering freshmen at $5.50 per double room per night. Maurath said the University does not want to compete with local hotels, but will allow the rooms to students who verify their enrollment with an admission slip.

Two state delegates switch to McGovern

CHICAGO (AP) - Two Illinois Democratic delegates elected on a slate pledged to Sen. Edmund Muskie announced Wednesday they are switching their support to Sen. George McGovern.

James Schwartz and Natalie Foreman of the 9th Congressional District in Chicago said they will vote for the South Dakota senator's nomination on the first and succeeding ballots at the national convention in Miami Beach.

Their action brings to 22 the number of Illinois delegates supporting McGovern. Thirteen of these were elected on McGovern lates during the March 21 primary election and an Associated Press survey showed the other nine switched to McGovern after succeeding primary victories.

The Illinois primary was not binding on the delegates.

The latest count showed 55 delegates supporting Muskie, one for Humphrey and 92 uncommitted. Fifty-eight of the uncommitted delegates, including Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, are being challenged by a group generally favorable to McGovern.

Schwartz and Miss Foreman issued a statement saying they are supporting McGovern "so that he will not have to dilute the honorable commitments he has made to the American electorate and the millions of Democrats that have supported his candidacy."

McGovern captured 225 of the 348 delegates elected on Tuesday's New York primary and is on the threshold of wrapping up the nomination. He lacked a little more than 200 delegates of the 500 needed for a first ballot nomination in Miami Beach.

Schwartz said his action came after he tried unsuccessfully to get a group of about 30 "independent minded" delegates committed to Muskie "on a unified course of action. Failing that, we (Schwartz and Miss Foreman) felt obligated by conscience to do what we believe is right."

Schwartz said he will work on the convention floor to swing support toward the South Dakota senator. He said he had invited McGovern or someone from his staff to speak to a group of 30 delegates in an attempt for unity but that arrangements could not be made.

A $24,703 grant has been awarded by the National Institute of Health to Maurice Ogur, professor and chairman of the microbiology department at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. The award is the second such grant the NIH has given Ogur to support a three-year research study on “Yeast Mutants as Models for Human Metabolic Disorders,” an integral unit of the work of the Gene-Enzyme Laboratory which Ogur directs.

Troops to aid police at Miami conventions

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Federal troops will back up local police in maintaining order at the national political conventions this summer, but will stay out of sight unless trouble develops, officials said Wednesday.

The joint statement by Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst and Florida Gov. Bobbitt Askew said the move was based on indications “that additional resources may be necessary to insure the maintenance of peace, order and public safety.”

However, a spokesman for Askew said the deployment of troops was “just precautionary” and the military personnel wouldn’t even be seen unless things got out of control.

“There won’t be any soldiers walking the streets of Miami Beach,” said Don Pride, Askew’s press secretary.

Pride said the move did not signify any escalation of security preparations.

New mental health facilities to be located in Carbondale

By Robert W. Smith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
and
John Accola
Student Writer

New mental health facilities will be located in Carbondale "hopefully by September," according to Frank Wilkerson, administrator of the Southern Illinois Mental Health Clinic in Murphysboro.
The Alcohol and Drug Center in Murphysboro also will merge with the clinic, and the Perry County Community Health Clinic in DuQuoin will consolidate its administrative functions with the Murphysboro clinic, he said.

A study is now being made to determine if a methadone center should be located in Carbondale, he added.

The new facilities and consolidations are part of the clinic's efforts to expand and centralize the mental health services to Jackson County and to assist Perry County facilities, he said.
The new facilities for Carbondale will include an out-patient clinic and a day care center for persons over 17 who suffer from emotional or behavioral problems, he said.
Both will be located in one central location which has not yet been determined, he added.

Pfyllis Crane, office manager for the Murphysboro clinic, said the Carbondale out-patient clinic will offer more psychological and psychiatric services for Jackson County residents, as well as save some of the workload from the Murphysboro clinic.

"About half of the clients are from the Carbondale area, which sometimes makes transportation to and from the Murphysboro clinic a problem," she said.

The day care center will care for persons suffering from a mental problem and who do not need to be institutionalized, but are in need of professional psychological care during the day, she said.

"One coordinator, experienced in psychiatric treatment, will be responsible for both the out-patient clinic and the day care center, but there will be a heavy reliance on volunteers from SIU and the community," she said.

The administrative consolidation with the Perry County Community Health Clinic and the merging of the Alcohol and Drug Center "should stop duplication, save money, and afford better coordination," Wilkerson said.
The budget for this expansion and consolidation has not yet been determined, Wilkerson said. But the unofficial budget at this time is about $300,000, he added.

This includes approximately $25,000 for the new facilities in Carbondale, $16,000 for the Perry County Community Health Clinic, and $20,000 for the Alcohol and Drug Center and $134,000 for the Murphysboro clinic, he said.

"Funding for a drug treatment center, which would probably use methadone, is not included in this budget," he pointed out.

Wilkerson said that a drug center that makes methadone treatment available is badly needed in this area, but added that the current study will determine the extent of this need.

Mrs. Crane said a drug treatment center probably would be beneficial to the community, but pointed out that the use of methadone requires extensive regulation and control.

One of the biggest problems that would confront a drug center using methadone would be to get the community to accept it.

"For some people, the use of methadone does not represent a positive step toward rehabilitation, " she added.

She added that in some cases, administering methadone could lead people who are "hooked" to think such treatment is the only way to be cured or rehabilitated.

She said she and other members of the board are waiting to hear information concerning what a methadone treatment center would entail.

Money rated county's biggest health problem

By Gene Charleston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

 Although Jackson County has a venereal disease rate of nearly twice the national average, Health Administrator John B. Amadio thinks money is the biggest health problem facing the county.

"People want the best," he said, "but nobody wants to pay for it.

People still want to pay the same rates as the old-time horse-and-buggy general practitioners were paid, he added, but they want to get modern medical care for the price.

In addition to his feeling that unwillingness to spend enough money is the reason for good health care, Amadio said that many of the health problems faced by Jackson County result from ignorance or a lack of motivation.

Two of the problem areas worried by ignorance were tetanus and venereal disease, he said.

He pointed out that Jackson County has had three deaths from tetanus during the last four years. All three deaths were in the over-40 age group, those who are most subject to tetanus infection because they were born and grew up before the early childhood tetanus inoculation became standard medical practice.

The tetanus inoculation series is usually given at about five years of age, Amadio said, and consists of three shots with boosters every 10 years.

He said that many people get tetanus shots after suffering a serious and dirty cut are giving themselves a false sense of security, because the shots are almost entirely ineffective unless the person already had the initial three-shot series.

According to "Survey 400," an extensive health department survey of Jackson County, in 1962 only 1.5 per cent of persons over 40 had been completely inoculated against tetanus. In 1970 this number had risen to 4.5 per cent.

Amadio said that educational efforts by the health department had only brought in 12 to 14 people to get tetanus inoculations during the last year.

"Tetanus is really a minor problem, Amadio said, compared to venereal disease, but he called it an unnecessary one.

Much of the information is distributed through the 3,000 to 4,000 pamphlets "on every subject," given out every month by health department personnel.

The health department also is working closely with schools in the area to implement state laws requiring health education classes to be offered as part of the curriculum in elementary and high schools.

One of the health department's successes in recent years has been the elimination of rabies as a problem in Jackson County, Amadio said, although it remains a problem state-wide.

Jackson County has not had a case of rabies for two years, he said. Five years ago, Jackson County was averaging about 20 cases of rabies a year.

In 1971, Illinois was second only to California in the number of cases reported "by about three cases," Amadio said, with about 350 cases reported.

Amadio credited improved dog and wild animal control by health department and wildlife officials with improving the rabies situation.

Western Open begins

NORTHBROOK, ILL. (AP) - Lee Trevino's withdrawal and the absence of Jack Nicklaus heightened the odds in favor of Bruce Crampton making a successful defense of his title in the $150,000 Western Open golf tournament. The 72-hole event gets underway today on the 6,716-yard par 71 Sunset Ridge Country Club course on Chicago's suburban North Shore with Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player also among the missing.

Nicklaus is taking time off to rest following his victory Sunday in the United States Open played for Masters. As he won't play again until Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player also among the missing.

Trevino, who made a gallant attempt to defend his Open crown despite a recent attack of pneumonia and bronchitis, had planned to play in this odd event but withdrew because of exhaustion and the lingering effects of his illness.

That left Crampton, a curly-haired Australian veteran who finished second to Nicklaus in both the Open and the Masters, as the man to beat in this championship which is being played for the 6th time.

"I guess you could say I'm going for the second place grand slam," the 36-year-old Crampton said. "I haven't won this season but has an incredible record of finishing seventh or higher in 10 tournaments. I believe Nicklaus probably has the most outstanding record on the tour this season. He's been in position to win at least a half dozen times."

"I was playing very well for a long time, about three of four months early in the year. I was really playing about as well as I ever have in my life," Crampton said.

"I hope negotiations are coming to an end," said Hull, 33, who has had an outstanding 15-year career in the National Hockey League. "We're still negotiating with the Black Hawks, but it could be that I'll be living in Winnipeg.

"Hull nor Ben Hatskin, owner of the Jets, would talk about details of the contract offer, but no one has denied reports of a five-year deal giving Hull $1 million a year and a further $1.5 million over the life of the contract.

Woods, former Saluki looks towards Olympics

By Elliot Tompkin

George Woods weighs 210 pounds but he's not worried. Without all that bulk, the former Saluki probably wouldn't be one of America's most promising golfers.

Woods, 1968 Olympic silver medal winner doesn't want a silver again this year. He wants gold. And very likely there are only two people in his way—Randy Matson and Al Feuerbach.

It's a good bet that the three giants will give the United States a 1-3 sweep in golf. However, this summer, Masston, best known of the trio holds the world record with a put of 7 9/10. Woods had never beaten Matson. But he beat him twice, and thinks he can do it again.

Recently Woods has been working with weights in an attempt to become the strongest player in the field.

"I just get the basics down and then huff and puff and throw the thing," he joked.

The Chicago Black Hawks left winger, here on a cross-Canada promotional tour, has been pondering a fat offer by the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association.

"We're still negotiating with the Black Hawks, but it could be that I'll be living in Winnipeg," Hull said.

"I'm going for the right foot under me, the left foot down and the left shoulder squared. Once you get those three you can start applying, you're really in control of your stroke, your face, and from there it's just psych and competition.

"I'm not worried. Without all that bulk, the former Saluki probably wouldn't be one of America's most promising golfers."

Western Open begins

NORTHBROOK, ILL. (AP) — Lee Trevino's withdrawal and the absence of Jack Nicklaus heightened the odds in favor of Bruce Crampton making a successful defense of his title in the $150,000 Western Open golf tournament.

The 72-hole event gets underway today on the 6,716-yard par 71 Sunset Ridge Country Club course on Chicago's suburban North Shore with Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player also among the missing.

Nicklaus is taking time off to rest following his victory Sunday in the United States Open on windblown Pebble Beach which gave him two legs on the unprecedented pro Grand Slam. He won't play again until the 69th time.

Trevino, who made a gallant attempt to defend his Open crown despite a recent attack of pneumonia and bronchitis, had planned to play in this old event but withdrew because of exhaustion and the lingering effects of his illness.

That left Crampton, a curly-haired Australian veteran who finished second to Nicklaus in both the Open and the Masters, as the man to beat in this championship which is being played for the 6th time.

"I guess you could say I'm going for the second place grand slam," the 36-year-old Crampton said.

Crampton said that he has an incredible record of finishing seventh or higher in 10 tournaments this season.

Nicklaus probably had the most outstanding record on the tour this season. He's been in position to win at least a half-dozen times.

"I was playing very well for a long time, about three of four months early in the year. I was really playing about as well as I ever have in my life," Crampton said.

"Then it got away from me for awhile. But I think it's coming back now," he added.

Other standouts in the 147-man field include George Archer and Jerry Heard, each the winner of two titles and more than $100,000 this season; Tom Weiskopf, another $100,000 winner; veterans Billy Casper and Doug Sanders, both of whom recently snapped long slumps; Bobby Nichols, who usually plays well in this event, and England's Tony Jacklin.

The winner gets $30,000 and is the second alternate for the rich World Series of Golf. Since Nicklaus has won two of the qualifying spots for the World Series, the Canadian Open champion — the first alternate — is assured of a place in the four.

Mayhew cited

Juliette Mayhew has received the women's version of the Nissen Award, which goes annually to the top senior gymnast in the country.

Earlier, Tom Lindner, of SIU, was named the winner in the men's category.

According to SIU women's coach Herb Vogel criteria for the award are: maintain a high scholastic record; display good sportsmanship; and have an outstanding record of gymnastic accomplishments.

Miss Mayhew is a three-time all-America selection and is currently a member of the Canadian Olympic team. She was also a member of the Pan-American and Cup of America teams in 1971.

Woods, former Saluki looks towards Olympics

By Elliot Tompkin

George Woods weighs 210 pounds but he's not worried. Without all that bulk the former Saluki probably wouldn't be one of America's offensive shot putters.

Woods, 1968 Olympic silver medal winner doesn't want a silver again this year. He wants gold. And very likely there are only two people in his way — Ron Matson and Al Feuerbach.

It's a good bet that the three giants will give the United States a 1-2-3 sweep in Munich. Gold would probably go to either Matson, best known of the trio holds the world record with a put of 71 5/8ths.

Ask Woods about that mark and he'll probably growl: "That record is a disgrace; it's been on the books five years. The shot record used to go up two, three feet every year. Then Randy got one out there and it stayed there," Woods told the Associated Press.

Woods is confident that the record will fall this year. And guess who he thinks is the one to break the record — none other than George Woods.

The former Saluki probably wouldn't be taking part in the Olympics if he hadn't beaten Matson. But he beat him twice, and thinks he can do it again.

Recently Woods has been working with weights in an attempt to become one of the world's top shot putters.

Only a permanent wrist injury to his throwing hand — the right — limits his performance.

Feuerbach is the smallest of the group, standing only 6-1 and weighing a mere 240 pounds. But he recorded the farthest heave this year. 300 yards.

Smaller than Woods and 270-pound Matson, Feuerbach uses his size to gait added speed.

Matson and Woods rely on brute strength. Woods told Track and Field News, "I don't want to de-emphasize technique, but it's not a big thing with me. I rely a great deal on strength, level and snap.

"I work on the basics, like getting the right foot under me, the left foot down and the left shoulder squared. Once you get those three you can start applying, your weight, height, strength, your size, and from there it's just psych and compe-

Giants beat Cubs, 4-0

CHICAGO (AP) - Left-hander Bob Harth hurled a two-hitter enabling the San Francisco Giants to snap a seven-game Chicago Cubs winning streak 4-0, Wednesday.

Bryant, 44, yielded a game leadoff single by Jim Gentile, but then turned the screws on the Cubs as the Giants pounded them for nine hits, five walks and Billy Williams' two-out single in the eighth.

Hull ponders Canada offer

WINNEPEG, Man. (AP) — Bobby Hull brought his golf clubs to Winnipeg Tuesday and the guessing continued on whether he'll bring his hockey sticks here next winter.

The Chicago Black Hawks left winger, here on a cross-Canada promotional tour, has been pondering a fat offer by the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association.

"We're coming to an end," said Hull, 33, who has had an outstanding 15-year career in the National Hockey League. "We're still negotiating with the Black Hawks, but it could be that I'll be living in Win-

Frog season

The frog catching season began in Illinois June 45, according to William Harter, superintendent of the division of fisheries for the Illinois Department of Conservation.

The 77-day season will conclude on Aug. 31. The daily limit and possession limit for frogs is eight.

Harter warns prospective frog hunters that it is unlawful to take frogs by using firearms, gas guns or air guns.

Squirted hunting season dates have been announced by Jim Lockart, superinten-

Brigham hired

Isaac Brigham, former Saluki football coach during the 1960's, has been appointed SIU offensive line coach.

Brigham's appointment was apounced last Friday by the SIU Board of Trustees. He replaces Bob Mazie who left SIU after four years.

Brigham said there will be no major changes in the offensive line. Training techniques will be styled after the knowledge he gained while a professional ball player.

Harvey Weinberger, Hull's account-agent, said Tuesday, "He's had a firm offer from Chicago and I can say it is the biggest contract ever offered a professional athlete in the National Hockey League.

"But I can't say it quite matches this offer. The custom is that most new leagues can outbid the old."
