The plan, designed by Edward P. Wonnacott, vice president of Chicago, features a civic center with a hotel, a restaurant for young people, an arts and crafts center, a new hotel and restaurant of the old train station. The city hall-civic center complex should help expand retail and should also attract private developers to build a new hotel across from it, designer said.

The proposed city hall-civic center would be the center point of the development plan. It would be located on the plot of land owned by Walnut Street, Illinois Avenue, Monroe Street and University Avenue.

Estimated cost for the complex is between $4.5 million and $4.9 million.

The plan also calls for three new parks to be built in the downtown area. The parks are expected to cost an estimated $35.000.

The new water treatment plant is proposed for the southeast corner of the City Reservoir. The new plant, which would allow the sale of all alcohol by the package or drink, was denied to Saluki Liquors because of its traditionally dry location.

Counclllman John Yow said the adverse impact on the surrounding area would include increased traffic in the developing residential area. The beer garden proposal for Checkers nightclub was denied because limited parking in the Lewis Park Mall area, said Councilman Keith Tushorn.

College athletes image changing

Scripps Howard News Service

Traditional ideas die hard, so perhaps the collegiate athlete will forever be chained to an unwanted varsity.

He's Joe Jock, strutting across campus — quickly past the library — carrying only a playbook. He attends Sports University, a haven of big wins and bigger money where games are king and knowledge is ... well, a bonus.

In the loop at some schools. But statistics point to another student-athlete, one who's basically no different than the general student body in terms of how many graduate and how long it takes them.

"There's a lot of stereotypical misconceptions out there," said Rick Taylor, University of Cincinnati athletic director. "But reality is far, far ahead of the misconception. The days of old mooooooooooore serious campus - quickJy past where gam~~~~s are forever gone."

Thompson still undecided about Nugget's position

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Georgetown basketball coach John Thompson said Tuesday he has yet to decide if he will accept an offer to become general manager of the Denver Nuggets.

Thompson, who has coached Georgetown for 18 years, said he will make his decision "as soon as possible," but no timetable has been set.

"If you think I am considering an offer, you are absolutely right," Thompson said at a news conference at Georgetown's McDonough Arena. "If you think I've made up my mind, you're absolutely incorrect."

He said the Denver job was "far more serious than any job that I've ever considered." He acknowledged that the offer included an opportunity to eventually own almost 4 percent of the franchise. The deal reportedly is worth $700,000 a year for four to five years.

"What I am attempting to do is go through the process of making a decision that is right for me," said Thompson, who has coached the Hoyas to 380 victories with 24 NCAA tournament appearances under his watch.

Study: Only 15 percent of students graduate in four years

Scripps Howard News Service

College athletes have four years of eligibility, but that doesn't mean they graduate in that time. And if they don't, they are not alone.

The National Institute of Independent Colleges and Universities recently released a study showing that only 15 percent of college athletes complete a bachelor's degree four years after enrolling.

"People want athletes to graduate in four years, but why should they be any different than anybody else?" asked Rick Taylor, University of Cincinnati athletic director.

Mickey Maule finished his SIL-C career in a blaze of glory. But he is now faced with the uncertainty of a professional career.

Maule will begin his professional basketball career July 2 when he plays his first game with the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale's 49-14 baseball.

"It's kind of a bittersweet thing for the four-year-old Mauie Maule Satellic system."

It will be the first run on a ladder that he hopes will eventually lead to the Grand Prix circuit. But Maule said he is determined to advance to the challengers' tournaments.

"I've never had a need to gamble. There are so many good players out there, right now," said Maule.

Maulie said he felt he had good preparation playing for SIL-C.

"The best thing about coach LeFevere's program was the tough scheduling," said Maule. "We also had a good bunch of guys all year long."

Maule led his teammates to the Missouri Valley Conference Championship this season. In doing so, the Dawgs broke Wichita State's string of 12 straight conference titles.

At year's end Maule's record stood at 30-12, and he was named one of the NCAA's Region 5 Senior Players and Male Athlete of the Year at SIL-C.

He ended his career by becoming only the third Saluki ever qualified for one of the four tournament slots in the NCAA. Maule's tournament held last May in Palm Springs.

"This is a great honor for Mickey and an exciting way for him to wind up his career at SIL-C," said tennis coach Dick LeFevere.

Unseeded entering the tournament, Maule only hoped for a good showing. Then he drew No. 11 seeded Trevor Kroneman of California State at Fullerton. But LeFevere knocked off Kroneman 7-5, 6-4 before being eliminated 6-2, 6-1 by Arizona State's John McEnroe, who is ranked 29th in the nation.

Maulie said he was happy just to be there playing.

Mauie is no stranger to big crowds. He grew up in New York and was featured in his first national tournament, owning his early start to his family's support. "I've always been driven without a lot a said," he said.

His older brother, Kevin, played for the University and owns a tennis club.

"I'm going to give it a good shot," said Maule, who will devote next year entirely to tennis.

South African Parliament approves reformist bill

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Parliament approved a major reformist bill Tuesday to abolish a 37-year-old law racially segregating trains, buses, toilets, libraries, swimming pools and other public amenities. The Discriminatory Legislation Regarding Public Amenities Repeal Bill, proposed in November by President Fritiek de Klerk, scraps all laws dealing with separate facilities for blacks and whites. It is scheduled to take effect in 15 months.

Romanian opposition newspaper reappears

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — The opposition newspaper Romania Libera returned to newstands Tuesday for the first time since last week's unrest but carried a disclaimer by press operators who said the owners "distort reality." Romania's largest opposition daily halted publication last Thursday after its offices were trashed by supporters of the ruling National Salvation Front. Afterward, non-editorial staff refused to return to work to protest Romania Libera's anti-government slant. The newspaper resumed operations late Monday.

Flag desecration amendment sent to House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A sharply divided House Judiciary Committee Tuesday sent a controversial amendment to ban flag desecration to the full House for a vote, perhaps this week, and opponents began predicting openly of its defeat. After six hours of arguing and two failed votes, the panel decided, 19-17, to send what could become the 27th Amendment to the Constitution to the House without any recommendation on its fate. Five Democrats joined 14 Republicans in supporting the amendment.

Florida police probe gunman's background

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Authorities Tuesday pieced together the troubled, often violent background of a gunman who attacked a loan office, killing eight people and wounding five before taking his own life.

Police and court files showed that James Edward Pooh, 42, had a history of arrests and violent behavior, including a felony conviction for aggravated assault in 1971. In March, a judge ordered an injunction barring the Jacksonville man from contacting his wife, who feared for her safety.

Prosecution says Barry used drugs, lied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal prosecutor told jurors Tuesday that Mayor Mariou Barry has been "smoking cocaine and smoking crack" for years all over D.C. and repeatedly lied to his constituents and a grand jury about it. Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Roberts said Barry had hidden drugs in the cuffs of his pants and even came up with a nickname — M.B. Specials — for the cocaine-laced cigarettes he made. Barry's attorney, R. Kenneth Mundy, counseled by telling jurors that he will prove that Barry was entrapped.

SHADYSIDE, Ohio (UPI) — Seven boats combed the Ohio River and other crews worked isolated areas of two creek beds Tuesday in a search for 13 people still unaccounted for from Thursday night's flash floods. The bodies of two of the victims have been recovered and those still missing are feared dead. "They're going to continue on indefinitely, until we feel we have done everything," Shadyside Fire Chief Mark Boda said. Nearby 1,000 Ohio National Guardmen, state and local officials and volunteers have been working on the cleanup effort and providing help to displaced families since the floods.

DALLAS (UPI) — A federal judge ruled that representatives of an East German Lutheran church must be allowed to inventory a cache of medieval artwork allegedly taken by an American Army officer during World War II. U.S. District Judge Sidney A. Fiacre heard arguments on the telephone Monday and ruled that the artworks could not be moved from their present home in a bank in the small town of Whittieright. The church lawyer's motion came in a lawsuit the Lutheran Church in Quedlinburg, East Germany, filed Monday, demanding return of the artworks.

Playhouse prepares for performances

By Anne Ryman
Staff Writer

The McLeod Theater curtain will stay up when the sun goes down as performers can polish their acts for the three Summer Playhouse shows.

The first production, "Camelot," celebrates its 30th anniversary this year. The well-known musical version of the legend of King Arthur is based on T.H. White's popular novel, "The Once and Future King."

Arthur is idealist. After his wedding to Guinevere, he begins consolidating the famous Knights of the Round Table. One of them is the flamboyant Lancelot, who falls in love with Guinevere at first sight. The medieval tale deals with the strained relations between these three people.

Camelot features the popular tunes "If Ever I Would Leave You," "Camelot," and "How to Handle a Woman."

The second play, "The Odd Couple," is a female version of the story by Neil Simon. Oscar and Felix are the traditional Odd Couple, but this story has a twist. Simon brings together two ugly and different women for this variation. Oscar and Felix become the female counterparts of Olive and Florence. The females share the same misfortunes as the male Odd Couple.

"The Pajama Game," a musical comedy by George Abbott and Richard Bissell is based on the misfortunes of the pajama factory. While many of this year's performers are SIU-C students, several are from outside SIU-C.

Summer Playhouse is different from productions during the school year. In the summer, a performer can work full time without outside pressures, Mike Hanes, director of the orchestra, said.

Christian Moe, director of "The Odd Couple" agrees. "It is almost entirely a professional situation. Performers are not concerned with course work. They work on the production 12 hours a day. This demands total commitment and time and energy," Moe said.

This format represents a change in the structure of the Summer Playhouse. In the past, participation had been mainly for academic credit. There has been a conscious effort to move toward professionalism which means better experience for performers and staff, Mike Morris, director of "Camelot," said.

SIU-C student recovering from transplant

By Amy Cooper
Staff Writer

Transplant patient, Diane Levin, is new and improved but taking things slow. Mrs. Levin, an SIU-C graduate student in psychology, is recovering after undergoing a heart-lung transplant June 4, at the University of Minnesota Hospital in Minneapolis.

"She's a whole new person just about," said Mrs. Levin's husband, Eric.

Mrs. Levin, 33, was born with Eisenmenger's syndrome, a condition in which a hole in the heart wall separates the left and right chambers of the heart causing one side of the heart to enlarge and putting high pressure in the lungs.

"It's a very serious heart defect," Levin said. Without a transplant, it's a death sentence, he said.

A week after the transplant Mrs. Levin was moved out of the high-risk care unit into the progressive care unit, a step down in intensive care. But she still faces another battle. One of the new lungs has a fungal infection. Treatment for the infection takes a long time because the antibiotics can mess up the kidneys, said Levin.

"It's a lot trickier to transplant lungs. The heart just goes along for the ride," Levin said.

Advertising majors asset to SIU image

TURNING MARKETABLE ideas into gold requires a special feel for the buying habits of the American public. Student members of this school of Journalism’s chapter of the American Advertising Federation must have the Midas touch.

For the second time in six years, SIU-C’s AAF students have been named No. 2 in the nation at the National Student Advertising Competition.

WORK ALREADY has begun on next year’s challenge to devise an advertising campaign for American Airlines.

In the meantime, however, this year’s winners are rightfully basking in the glory of their second-place national ranking, announced earlier this month in St. Louis.

This year, more than 130 journalism schools around the nation entered the competition at regional levels. SIU-C’s team was one of only 57 that made it to the national finals.

The team’s objective was to find a niche in the magazine market that is unversed, Johan Yssel, AAF student adviser, said.

After six months of market research, the AAF students decided to select single parents as their target group. According to the contest rules, the magazine had to have a circulation potential of 750,000 readers by the year 1993.

A 12-PAGE PROTOTYPE of Single Parent magazine was designed for the contest. It included an article on “How to Talk to Your Daughters” just for dads and a monthly “Single Parent Profile.”

The SIU-C team also devised an advertising campaign to promote its new magazine via billboards in urban areas and direct mail in rural areas.

For their months of market research, their ingenuity and the positive image they have reflected upon SIU-C, the Daily Egyptian congratulates these advertising students on their national acclaim.

Trump’s troubles tricky

Scipps Howard News Service

It was only a few weeks ago that Donald Trump announced he planned to sue any news organization that dared imply he was running out of cash. So please permit this brief indulgence.

DONALD TRUMP IS RUNNING OUT OF CASH.

The Germans, those wordsmiths to the world, already have the perfect word to describe the public reaction to Trump’s erupting financial woes: wirtschaftswende, which describes the “enjoyment taken from another person’s troubles.”

In a way, Trump’s troubles had always been a figure of fun. His autobiography (subtitled “The Art of the Deal”) sold in the millions but was roundly slated by the critics for its platitude and egomania.

Flag protection not the best solution

Several arguments have been advanced by both sides on the flag-burning issue, but I think the controversy boils down to two distinct positions:

1) The U.S. flag is the strongest symbol we have of our nation’s freedom and heritage and should be protected against desecration; and

2) the First Amendment of Rights would undermine the very freedom that the U.S. flag represents.

In my opinion, both sides are right. But, as is often the case on multiple choice tests with more than one correct answer, one must choose the best answer to receive credit.

Obviously, any American worth his or her salt respects the flag and all it stands for. We compile when we see film footage on the evening news of misguided, radical cretins torching the flag we love so dearly. Can’t something be done to stop them, we ask? can’t a law be passed to end this reprehensible behavior?

A law was passed, as most of us know, but even with the conservative tilt of the current Supreme Court, five of the justices still had the foresight to realize by upholding a law that restricts even the most offensive freedom of expression, a dangerous precedent would be set for further infringement upon the Bill of Rights. What is most frightening here—and virtually untouched by the minority opinion—is that the 5-4 vote to preserve the Bill of Rights was as close as possible without changing the outcome of the final ruling.

How would the thugs and vandals who burned our flag feel if the Court had held the flag-burning law Constitutional? Would they have cried about rights and liberties and freedoms being denied? Probably. But had the Court upheld the law, a truly subtle but powerful irony would have succeeded in making America—the country we love and they apparently hate—less free land for all of us.

No matter how much we love and respect the flag, if you’re a truly patriotic American, you love what it stands for even more. Therefore we should be thankful for the Court’s decision.

In this age of drug-testing (what about the Bill of Right’s supposed protection against self-incrimination?), music censorship, bikin-banning on Florida’s public beaches—yes, it will be no surprise if our country, angry at flag-burners and hating America just because it by whatever means possible, ratifies an amendment against flag-desecration.

If such an amendment is passed, those of us who love America and the flag will still love America and the flag, even though the freedom that the flag represents will be infinitely diminished.

But, if after all the super-charged “patriotic” speeches and demagoguery in this election year, the amendment fails, we can still hoist our flags just as easily, knowing that even though a handful of malcontents have burned Old Glory, it’s no way anymore that the freedom of the American flag represents.

Teachers deserve better than society offers

By Brian Dickinson

Providence Journal

With the school year finished, it is time to shelve textbooks and watch students scatter to the four winds. It’s a winds-downing time, and for no one more than teachers. Most of them have to gear up for back again in a few weeks.

Teachers as a group, in fact, tend to get a bum rap in our society. The best teachers I know work fiercely hard. Most are dedicated; some are brilliant. In fourth grade I had a teacher named Iris Berry who could go full steam all day—long division, Abraham Lincoln, Hawaii volcanoes, spelling bees—and never lose her temper. She had a knack for making it fun to memorize multiplication tables, and at recess she would then come outside and umpire our softball games.

Teachers hold the key to what makes schools tick, although from a quick scan of the literature on “school reform” you might not know it. People who work at improving American schools tend to focus on budgets, drop-outs, tests, testing, administration, curriculum requirements, legislative indignation—almost everything except the person who makes all the difference for a student: The teacher.

When it comes to ranking various occupations, American’s don’t seem to hold teaching in high esteem; and most salary scales reflect this.

Teachers as a group deserve better.
Boom cars could be muffled

SPRINGFIELD, U.P. — Boom cars, the rolling stereo on wheels that are becoming the bane of stoops, sidewalks, front porches and even schools, was enough muffled under legislation the Illinois General Assembly sent to Gov. James R. Thompson Tuesday. If signed, it would move the bill on a 97-12 vote over the objections of opponents who said local authorities need to handle such loud car stereo.

"There's no reason for this bill," said Rep. Ralph Barger, R-

Edgar releases plans to fight drugs

CHICAGO (UPI) — The state would create a death penalty for drug kingpins and test prison inmates and young offenders in juvenile detention facilities for drugs under a drug plan released Tuesday by Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

The Republican candidate for governor also wants those convicted of drug offenses to face minimum sentences of 1,000 fines, 100 hours of community service or both, to begin the sentence from granting court supervision to those convicted of narcotics violations.

Efforts to intensify the drug war are "politically popular in an election year but it is questionable whether Edgar would be able to push the plans through the Democratically-controlled Legislature if he is elected," Edgar said later at a news conference in Springfield.

"One of the major things putting people in prison is drugs, whether it's a drug-related crime or a drug-driven crime. The testing we call for here... and the increase in parole denial both are geared to keep people who have prison from going back to prison," Edgar said.

Do we accept the Cheney thesis? It hasn't moved from what Bush proposed in January. My guess is the answer to that is no," Aspin said.

Aspin characterized the reaction of Democrats in the budget talks to Cheney's presentation as "skepticl."

Fight between McDonald's, environmentalists continues

By Michael Mansur
Kansas City Star

The myth of "Archie McPuff" is dead. But the fight between McDonald's Corp. and environmental groups continues.

For months environmentalists have rallied against a purported proposal by the fast-food giant to put up incinerators at all of its restaurants. McDonald's actually was only studying the idea as a way of eliminating its massive amount of daily garbage. Environmentalists, already lobbying against the heavy use of polystyrene products by McDonald's, called the plan a nightmare. Rumors circulated in environmental groups which urged the recent federal prohibition against smoking on airlines be extended to buses.

A spokesman for the American Bus Association also noted eight states (California, Idaho, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah and Washington) already ban smoking on buses, and many regional and commuter bus companies have prohibited smoking.

Action on Smoking or Health spokesperson Adriene Mueller said the bus rule will be easier on smokers than the airline ban.

"Buses stop every hour or two, so smokers will have ample opportunity to have an occasional cigarette," she said.

No opposition to the ICC cigarette regulation is planned by the Tobacco Institute, the tobacco industry's lobbying organization, despite its position that the ICC should stay out of the smoking controversy and allow individual bus companies to set their own policies.

"It's always been our feeling that seas in the rear of the bus near the toilet aren't choice seats," said Tobacco Institute vice president Walter Merriman.

A final vote on the issue is expected this fall.

Approval of the ban would leave only one form of public transportation that still allows smoking in certain areas: Amtrak.

Amtrak permits smoking in some of its bar cars and in at least one car on every train. Smoking also is allowed in private sleeping compartments.

Two University professors win Sturgis Memorial Awards

By Theresa Livingston

Staff Writer

Two senior University faculty members have been named as the recipients of the 1990 Lindell W. Sturgis Memorial Awards. The awards are presented annually to individuals who have made meritorious contributions to the University, through service to the student body, and to the community. The awards are presented to senior faculty members by the Foundation for Students of the University's Clinical Center, who are leaders of the First United Methodist Church Board for the Student Center.

Graham is the past president of the University's Phi Kappa Phi honor society, the Illinois College Personnel Association and the American College Personnel Association.

Kenney is the only second person in the history of the University to receive the Sturgis professional achievement award, which honors outstanding professional accomplishments.

"It's a great honor to receive this award," Kenney said. "I appreciate it very keenly."

The award's only previous recipient, Rev. Dr. Kenneth, won it in 1984 for his work as director of the Office of Regional Research and Service.

"Dave Kenney is an outstanding citizen of the SIU and Carbondale communities," John S. Jackson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Kenney's nominator for the award, said. "He quickly comes to mind as a person who exemplifies the qualifications that the Sturgis (awards) stands for."

Kenney said his most profound influence on public policy came when he was an elected delegate to the 1969-70 Illinois Constitutional Convention.

"The delegates spent nine months and went through many drafts of a proposed updated constitution before a version was submitted to the Illinois voters in September, 1970. The updated document was ratified in a December, 1970, referendum."

Kenney had a "significant hand in writing the state constitution under which we currently live," Jackson wrote in his letter to Kenney. Jackson said Kenney is a good example of someone who has left academia to serve in public office, and returned to teaching after the course of his service with some unique and very valuable added insights.

As a public official, Kenney served on Gov. James R. Thompson's cabinet longer than any other individual, holding the title of the director of the State Department of Conservation from 1977 to 1984. Kenney also directed the Illinois Historical Preservation Agency from 1974 to 1985 and is a noted nonpartisan and environmentalist.

In 1989, Illinois Secretary of State Jim Edgar appointed Kenney to the Illinois Archives Advisory Board.

Kenney community service included service on the Carbondale Library Board from 1974 to 1977 and chairing the 1987 Carbondale Centennial Commission which commemorated the 200th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution.

A past president of the Carbondale Lions Club, Kenney currently serves on that organization's board of directors. He also is past president and member of the board of directors for the University's Alumni Association.

"Kenney's work as an author has brought him recognition. Kenney's book on Illinois government is "still the leading work in its field," according to Jackson.

Kenney is also the author of "A Political Passage," a biography of former Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton. Stratton was governor of Illinois form 1953 to 1961.

Kenney said he plans to use the award's prize money to take a long awaited trip to the Grand Canyon. "I'm going to put it (the money) in the bank and, come next May, I'm going to ride a mule to the bottom of the Grand Canyon and back up again," he said. "I can't wait."
The former director of the FDA, retired�

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The former director of the Food and Drug Administration's generic drug division faces 17 years in prison on two counts of perjury for allegedly lying to government investigators about his contact with pharmaceutical manufacturers.

The two federal grand juries indicted Seife, the latest round of charges in the 2-year-old investigation of the FDA and the generic drug industry, named Marvin Seife, 66, now of San Antonio, Texas, who retired as director of the agency's generic division after 37 years of service.

Seife is the highest-ranking FDA official to be indicted in the ongoing investigation and the last to be charged in the corruption phase of the probe, U.S. Attorney Backeridge-Wilso said. If convicted of both counts, Seife faces up to 10 years in prison and up to $500,000 in fines.

Prosecutors expect to spend the next year working against the agency's chief executive, who has not been charged. One federal prosecutor said:

Seife, who held his position for 17 years and was responsible for reviewing applications from pharmaceutical manufacturers seeking approval to market generic drugs, told investigators he had not discussed agency business or career meals with FDA applicants, prosecutors said.

NOTICE FROM THE FINANCIAL AID OFFICE

ALL UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS MUST COMPLY WITH THE FOLLOWING SATISFACTORY PROGRESS POLICY IN ORDER TO RECEIVE FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS POLICY FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS AT SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY AT CARBONDALE

The Federal Government, the States, and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale have invested large sums of money in order to provide financially needy students the opportunity to attain a post-secondary education. Financial aid recipients are responsible for using the funds provided in an acceptable manner. Therefore, a student who wishes to benefit from the receipt of financial aid funds must maintain "satisfactory progress" as defined in this policy.

AUTHORITY

The Higher Education Act of 1965 as amended and the final regulations set forth by the Department of Education in 34 CFR 668 require that institutions of higher education establish reasonable standards of "satisfactory progress". A student who does not meet these standards is not eligible to receive federally funded financial aid. Southern Illinois University at Carbondale shall make these standards applicable to all state and institutional aid programs for the purpose of maintaining a consistent and reasonable financial aid policy.

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS STANDARDS

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale requires that a student be making "satisfactory progress" toward a degree if he or she wishes to receive financial aid funds. A student is making "satisfactory progress" toward a degree if he/she successfully meeting two basic academic standards. First, a student must complete a reasonable number of credit hours toward a degree each academic year. Second, a student must maintain a scholastic standing, derived from grades, that allows for continued enrollment at the University under current academic guidelines. The following parameters will be used to define these two basic academic standards:

1) Maximum time to graduate: A full-time, eligible student is expected to complete a degree in six academic years (12 semesters). A half-time, eligible student is expected to complete a degree in twelve academic years (24 semesters). In order to be sure that a student is progressing toward that goal, each student's progress will be measured annually after Spring Semester to determine the progress made for the last academic year of attendance. Each term of at least half-time attendance shall be included in the annual review whether or not the student received financial aid for the term. The following chart will serve as a model to determine if each student is meeting this requirement of satisfactory progress.

2) Grades: A student must maintain in compliance with the University's policy concerning scholastic standing, grades, and grade point average as defined under the topic "Grading, Scholastic Regulations, and Credit" in the current Undergraduate Catalog. A student who is on Scholastic Suspension is not maintaining "satisfactory progress". A student who is scholastically suspended may be readmitted under Scholastic Probation status by the appropriate academic dean and remain eligible for financial aid. Each student's scholastic standing will be monitored after each semester or term of attendance.

A student who does not meet both of the standards set forth above and who cannot show "mitigating circumstances" is not maintaining "satisfactory progress" toward a degree and is no longer eligible to receive financial aid funds. (See Appeals)

Nothing in this policy shall be construed as a reduction of external requirements by other federal, state, public, or private agencies when they award or control financial aid. Examples of such agencies are: Veterans Administration, Vocational Rehabilitation, and the NCAA.

DEFINITIONS

Credit hours completed shall be defined as the total number of academic credit hours for which a student receives any grade other than a failing grade. Incompletes, withdrawals, audits, and remedial courses which do not count toward a degree shall not be considered as credit hours completed. Credit hours received for repeated courses shall be counted only once.

Eligible students shall be defined as those students who are admitted to the University in a degree-seeking classification. All other students are not eligible for financial aid.

Full-time attendance for undergraduates shall be defined as enrollment in twelve (12) hours or more per semester.

Half-time attendance for undergraduates shall be defined as enrollment in six (6) or more hours, but less than twelve (12) hours per semester.

Undergraduate shall be defined as a student who is a freshman, sophomore, junior, senior or a senior with a bachelors degree seeking a second bachelors.

NOTIFICATION OF TERMINATION

It shall be the responsibility of the Financial Aid Office to publish this policy and to notify by letter any student who is no longer eligible to receive financial aid funds. Said notice shall be addressed to the student's most current permanent address on file with the University. IT SHALL BE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE STUDENT TO INFORM THE UNIVERSITY OF A CORRECT PERMANENT ADDRESS AT ALL TIMES.

REINSTATEMENT

Students will have their eligibility to receive financial aid reinstated when they have reached the level of satisfactory progress required of them by this policy. They may achieve this status by the completion of incomplete grades, correction of incorrect grades, and by earning sufficiently more than the required number of completed hours for a term or terms of attendance without the benefit of financial aid.

APEALS

Any student who cannot meet the grades requirement, or the cumulative credit hours completion requirement shall have an opportunity to appeal in writing to explain "mitigating circumstances". The appeal should be sent to the Financial Aid Office within 15 days of the notice of termination. The Financial Aid Office will review the "mitigating circumstances" documented in the appeal and provide a written decision within 20 days after receipt of the appeal.

last month within four years. How long does it take to get a degree? The answer is never a concern of Pete Gillen. "I don't think it's really that important if it takes the young man four and a half or five years," said Gillen. "We're more interested in how long it takes to get an athlete to graduate in four years." Paul Ryan Murphy, Cincinnati football coach, "I think five years is most realistic for a kid to graduate. I think if the school has the proper priorities then that's a realistic time.

Administrators and coaches point out that athletes run into restraints that the general student body doesn't encounter. Practice, games and traveling can be a heavy burden, causing missed class time that needs to be made up. Summer classes can also be a help. "What some people look at as privileges really are obligations," said Jeff Fogelson, Xavier athletic director. "They're obligations that an institution has to a student-athlete because we're expecting that kid to come and play and practice and represent the school.

With only 15 percent of the grains. Each athlete graduating in four years, the time-length of a scholarship becomes an issue. Presently, it varies at schools, some providing a fifth year of scholarship time for athletes to complete school.

The NCAA is studying proposals to make the student-athlete's fifth year of scholarship to an athlete who has completed his eligibility and not been expelled against a school's allowed scholarship total.

"But you have to take a look at how hard the athlete worked in that four-year period," said R.C. Sisboro, former University athletic director. "Did he kind of coast through or did he really try to graduate? It's not a simple call."
