SIU, Fresno State to Meet Tonight

★ 400 Expected At Housing Convention

Four hundred delegates from 70 schools in 30 states will be on campus March 24-26 for the national conference of the National Association of College and University Residence Halls (NACURH).

The theme of the conference, which is being held at SIU for the first time, is "Education in Action." Last year's conference was held at Washington State University.

The purpose of the conference is to provide a means of direct personal communication of thought on research topics that include such things as residence hall government structure and social and educational programming.

Research topics to be discussed include "Goals of a Residence Hall Organization" and "The Rehabilitation Student in the Residence Hall."

Facilities at University Park will be used during the three-day conference. Delegates will be housed in Neely Hall.

Special guest speakers are Frederick Rudolph of Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., and Elizabeth Greenleaf, director of residence hall programming at Indiana University.

The NACURH conference will be one of the largest student-planned conferences to be held on the SIU campus, according to Marilyn Maibes, Neely Hall resident fellow and national conference chairman.

Buses Will Leave At 4 for Game

Buses to the Evansville basketball tournament will leave the University Center at 4 p.m. today.

Students interested in making the trip must sign up by noon in Room H of the University Center.

Price of the trip is $1, which does not include a game ticket.

The buses are sponsored by the student government.

Question Facing the SIU Freshman Coed Is When, Whether, How or Not to Drink

By Evelyn Augustin
First of a Series

Like most freshmen, Cathy and Margie were anxious to be accepted by their new acquaintances at college. For this reason they never refused an invitation to a party; at the parties they tried to keep up with the rest of the crowd and never refused a drink.

As the year progressed, so did their social life. But while Cathy became habitually intoxicated, Margie drank less so she could try to take care of Cathy, who was unable to control the amount of liquor she consumed.

Toward the end of spring quarter, Margie quit drinking entirely, but Cathy's problem became so acute that constant warnings from her resident fellow and the women's dean were to no avail and she was asked to withdraw from school.

The story of Cathy and Margie is hypothetical, but according to interviews with coeds, they could represent any of a number of women on campus.

Most of the coeds inter-

Salukis Travel Title Trail; Tourney Tests National Poll

The test of whether Southern really is the No. 1 small college team in the country begins at 8 o'clock tonight when the Salukis meet Fresno (Calif.) State in the first round of the NCAA finals.

The Salukis enter the tournament with an Associated Press rating slightly under North Dakota's.

Both teams are in the tourney's lower bracket and will meet Thursday night in the semifinals if they both win today. North Dakota, which won its regional by clipping Valparaiso 112-82, ranked second in the AP poll during the season. The Salukis finished third in that poll.

The No. 1 team in the AP list at season's end was Cheyney State, which was knocked off in the regional finals by Long Island University. Long Island is now in the upper bracket.

Tonight's Saluki opponent, Fresno State, advanced to the nationals by topping Nevada, 127-78, a regional scoring record. Southern beat Nevada 99-45 in December.

The Bulldogs are paced by big Lonnie Hughey. The 6-7 center has a trail of six school records behind him and is averaging 19 points and 16 rebounds a game.

He is joined up front by 6-4 Randy Thompson and 6-2 Bob Jensen. The two forwards are averaging 12 and 10 points a game, respectively. The guards are 6-2 Bobby Blanchard and six-foot Jim Waldron, both averaging 12 points.

Fresno State's record stands at 21-7, compared to the Salukis' 20-6 mark.

In the other lower bracket contest, North Dakota takes on Abilene Christian at 2:30 p.m. today.

The Sioux are led by Little All America center Phil Jackson. The 6-8 pivot scored a school record of 44 points in the Valparaiso game. His seasonal average is 22 points.

Abilene Christian won the Southern Conference over Lamar Tech and brings a 21-6 record into today's game. The Wildcats are led by 6-8 Charles Cleek, a third-team All America.

Long Island and Akron University will open the tourney when they meet in an upper bracket game at 12:30 p.m. today. Long Island whipped the nation's top team, previously viewed agreed that freshman women usually drink just to be "in" with the older students regardless of whether they really enjoy the taste of liquor.

A junior living off campus explained, "When I was a freshman I drank a lot more than I do now; then I felt like I was older by drinking with the older students, so I never refused a drink at a party. I always tried to keep up with everyone else.

"Now I drink because I like the taste of liquor but I usually drink just enough to be sociable. Sometimes when I'm in a group of people, though, I drink more to become 'high' and to get into a happy mood."

A senior living on campus agrees with a freshman's motives for drinking.

"I went out to drink when

SIU Program Designed to Bring Students, Art Into Daily Contact

SIU's program to bring students into daily contact with the arts is now underway.

As an initial step, a number of distinguished art works are now being displayed in Morris Library.

Among them are two bronze statues done by Antoine Bourdelle, a French sculptor. They are the "Portrait of Ingres", which has been placed in the informal reading room on the main floor, and the "Tragic Mask", a sculpture of Beethoven, situated in the informal lounge on the second floor.

Various other reading rooms are being used as display areas of prints by artists such as Picasso, Nori Azuma and Lautrec.

In addition, a display of American primitive art, including some wood carvings by the late Fred Meyer of Christopher, Ill., has been arranged on the third floor of the library near the American Heritage Room.

A number of other works of art are also on display at the Edwardsville campus.

Charles M. Pulley, University architect, is director of the program. He is assisted by Mrs. Katherine Kuh, New York art consultant and writer for Saturday Review, who has been engaged to select the items to be displayed and to negotiate their purchase.

200th Book Published

The University Press will publish its 200th book March 21, "The White Peacock" by D. H. Lawrence.

I.I.T. Professor To Speak Here

Edward T. Hall, professor of anthropology at the Illinois Institute of Technology, will discuss "The Language of Space" at 8 p.m. Friday in Ballroom C of the University Center.

Hall is the author of "The Silent Language," and "The Hidden Dimension."

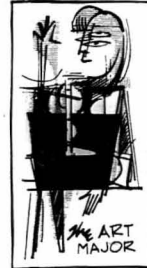

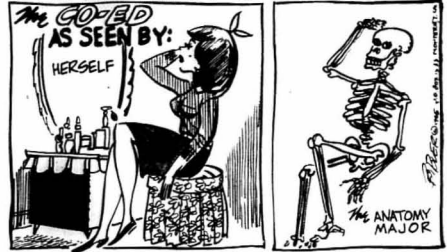

The lecture is sponsored by the Department of Anthropology.

Evansville Tournament Week Includes College Talent Show

An NCAA Intercollegiate Talent Show is planned for Thursday and Friday afternoons in Evansville, with acts from the schools competing in the college division basketball tournament.

Open to both single and group acts, the talent show is sponsored by the Evansville Community Center in conjunction with the Evansville Chamber of Commerce and Evansville College.

Students interested in entering the show should register before noon Thursday either by calling the Community Center at Harrison 4-6481, extension 307, or by stopping in person at the center, located in the Old Coliseum Building at Court and Market Streets.

No entry fee will be charged, but acts must take their own accompaniment, except for pianos and a public address system, which will be provided.

The preliminaries of the talent show are scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Community Center and the finals are set for 3 p.m. Friday in Great Hall of Evansville College.

Trophies will be awarded to single, small group and large group acts.

There will be no admission charge to the shows, to which all students and faculty members are invited.

Other activities during the tournament are an open house at the Old Coliseum Thursday afternoon and a dance Thursday night from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. The "Corvettes" will provide the music.

There will be a 25-cent admission charge for the dance, but no special dress is required.

Students thinking is all wrong- university should resist change

by allen gillenham

Lately, a number of letters have appeared in KA which bitterly criticize our university's policies. Some students still seem to hold to the misconception that young people will generally behave like mature, responsible adults if they are respected and treated as such. This is not the case. Many of our senior citizens in important directoral positions (whose judgement must be sounder than today's arrogant, agnostic adolescents) have decided that curfews will keep the state's insatiable sons from the world's wanton wenches and keep the innocent away from all of the night's tempting evils so that they may remain innocent. These phlegmatic public officials prescribe these laws to lengthen the puberty of the nation's youth for their own good.

Of late, particularly since the Viet Nam situation has grown more threatening to them, 18 and 19 year olds think they should be able to purchase intoxicating liquors. This is against all of our traditions. I recall a 20 year old juvenile soldier who had already been in the Air Force for three years being fined two hundred dollars for purchasing liquor in our home county. We cannot change these ways.

If we would allow veterans to legally drink before they reached 21, soon we'd be letting everyone drink. If we let our 17 year old servicemen roam the streets after 11 p.m. soon all 17 year olds would be loose. Before long we would have a moral chaos like that of many European countries (where any teenager with money may have drink any time he pleases and does not bother anyone by his amoral actions).

People may claim it is the illegality that tempts our youth to drink. This is not true. I have seen teenagers drinking, laughing and dancing in European taverns; they seemed to be having a lot of fun doing these things. Why doubt that our youth will do the same.

If it were legal for a minor to purchase liquor and legal for a student to have a bottle in a university dorm, then there would be nothing wrong with his doing so. This is against all our values. The university dorms have never permitted such privacy. I recall a 30 year-old man spending a night in jail here for sneaking a bottle of beer into his room and drinking it.

We have always been plagued with cruel, conniving cutthroats who command constant change. These malevolent misfits would crush our culture, tatter all tradition and end the war in Viet Nam. It has been social rebels such as Ron Hirschbein who have been responsible for common labor claiming that they have rights. Perhaps our university cannot stop these renegades from undermining our social ways and means, but it can rigidly resist.

Training for next year's editorial positions is available to anyone wishing to apply. Persons having experience in newspaper work, in particular, KA, will have an added advantage in applying for the paying positions.

On studying in the cafeteria

Lately there have been a number of letters appearing in both KA and the Daily Egyptian concerning the University Center and, in particular, the cafeteria. One of the letters was about students that sit around the cafeteria for long periods and talk or study. If the basic problem is ignored, this seems a valid criticism.

If one looks at the supposed number of the University Center and its relation to the lives of the students, the problem becomes evident. Presently the center is partially completed and is supposed to be adequate for 7,000 students. According to the information publication that is published on the center--when and if the center is completed it will suffice for 15,000 students. There are 17,000 students now and a projected 19,000 next year.

This cleavage is clearer yet when one considers the capacity of the cafeteria--which is 500. This does not represent 500 students however. It includes the administration, faculty, staff, and visitors. The University Center (jokingly referred to as the STUDENT Union on occasion) is supposed to be the one building on campus for the students to spend their spare time. The cafeteria is the only place in the center where the students can do this over a cup of coffee. (The Magnolia Lounge with the astounding capacity of 80 is off-limits for drinks.)

The problem is quite obvious to all but the blind. The center is completely obsolete. Instead of completing the center, however, the University Publications is moving onto the second floor. They will be in good company though--they will have advisement and sectioning to keep them warm.

The problems of space in an expanding university such as ours are clear and are generally recognized by students. In this case however, I feel that the administration is blatantly shirking its duties and responsibilities to the students. A quote from the information publication on the University Center illustrates this point: "... the University Center will serve as a laboratory of citizenship where students may prepare to meet their social and cultural responsibility and to assume leadership in our democracy."

While I wouldn't suggest (yet) that one-tenth (1700) of the student body try sitting in the cafeteria for a couple of hours one day, I would hope that those concerned contact Mr. Dougherty, Director of the University Center, or Dean Prusok, Dean of Student Affairs and voice their dissatisfaction.

A manifesto concerning SINS

by david mc clain

IT BECOMES FAIRLY OBVIOUS TO ANYONE WHO wishes to SEE what he reads that catchy initials are a must in order to produce desired IMAGES. You need only consider SNICK, WHO, WASP, VISTA, etc. and certain visions become conjured UP--which is exactly what was intended in the first place.

Recently on this modern university campus a RAM was created and, so I am told, died a sudden and sullen death. This demise left thousands of students making their ten-minute dashes without any representation whatsoever. Yet, take heart over-worked, disorganized note-takers. A movement is beginning which promises to erase all your woes. One which will give you a new birth of freedom, a sense of belonging. And most important of all, it will give you YOU!

The clocks and artistic ROCKS of Southern Illinois University have been selected as the WOMB of this unique young voice. For behold, SINS has arrived in Little Egypt!

NOW YOU UNDOUBTEDLY ask, what is SINS anyway? These four initials stand SIMPLY for Southern Illinois Nudist Society. Its stirring mottos are, "Back To The Apple" and "An Apple A Day Keeps Adam Away!" And is this not what we all want?

Please consider the genius and POSSIBILITIES of this movement. Oh, they are unlimited. For example:

1. Dating regulations will become obsolete.

(They would be governed by temperature rather than the Office of Student Affairs.)

2. Carbondale merchants will REDUCE prices. (Z.&G.'s would surely have a huge inventory.)

3. True self-expression at last!

(That is self-explanatory.)

And in the social idea, SINS will provide the first REAL equality of man (and WOMAN). Naturally, it will be a smooth, fluid organization. The president, Chief SIN'er, will be elected along with the other usual officers. A magazine is being planned, and it will provide a triple fold-out featuring a pretty co-ed SIN each month. Meetings will be conducted around Lake-On-Campus thus providing ample opportunity for LAPPING up sunshine. In every way, SINS is for YOU!

Yes, there will be THOSE WHO oppose this radical concept. These few will gather together around malt liquors and mutter protests. They will seek to preserve the CLUB'ed and RAT-HOLE'd status quo. Pay them no heed. These wretched fossils are merely slobering in their brew.

For YOU who seek the ultimate...

For you who NEED a cause...

For you who simply want to get your KICKS...

If this is you then your prayer has been answered. If you want to be a SIN'er, SINS wants YOU! Get your application now from the Baptist Student Union or Newman Center. UNITE!

SWRF- a legend in its own time

by t.a.d.

As once again a quarter nears its end, the students begin to receive those inevitable IBM cards assessing the fees for their next quarter's enrollment. The old-timers will remember the days of $60 solicitations while the thoughtful will reflect on the causes of their persistent growth. One of the most recent and certainly most abortive additions is the now-legendary Student Welfare and Recreation Fee.

Issuing, presumably, from the student body, which approved its establishment in a referendum two years ago, the fee was originally to be allocated to the improvement of medical services and the construction of a co-recreation building on the Carbondale Campus. The addition of the fee was to be gradual, from $2 to $12 over a three year period. The Board of Trustees acting, ostensibly in the students' interest, endorsed the increase and provided for the creation of accounts on each campus to contain its revenues.

At this point, however, the similarity between the students' wishes (as expressed in the referendum) and the Board's designs (as expressed in their actions) ends quite sharply. The full impact of a $15 fee increase was dropped on the students in one quarter. The monies from the Carbondale account are being transferred to the Edwardsville campus to assist in the completion of their University Center Ballroom Auditorium. The medical service and the co-rec building (the need for which was the very purpose for the creation of the fund) remains, at this point, neglected.

While I do not propose to engage myself in a debate on the merits of the one-university concept (which are, nevertheless, questionable), I consider its application in this instance arbitrary and unwarranted. I simply cannot see any justification for charging Carbondale students $15 a quarter to build an auditorium in Edwardsville which most of them will never see.

If the administration had planned from the outset to establish and allocate the fund independent of the student's voice, why was a referendum held? If, on the other hand, their purposes in awaiting the poll were as noble as they maintain, why were its results disregarded in the unilateral formation of this policy? Could this be yet another instance in the ever-growing list of attempts to placate students by requesting their opinions, then forging on irrespective of their wishes to make policy by fiat and dictate action at whim? If this be so, are not the students the worse for the deception?

Owed to the bursar

As any college student should know It helps a lot to have some dough. With this in mind I hoped to go To the Bursar's office check-cashing window.

It makes no difference of course to me, If student activities pays its fee, Or if the Bursar foots the bill; All I want is a little capital.

I jumped to the window completely spent But with a check from the U.S. Government. So I hastily took out my card ident. And soon I knew, I'd pay my rent.

I placed my check in front of she, But to my surprise she said, "Sorry." "We cannot cash this check, you see; We cash them only from parents to thee."

"Oh, no!" cried I. "Be the government such a wreck, That from it you cannot cash a stupid check? You must cash this check for me Or I'll be evicted, and hastily!"

The last chance remaining I did swiftly, And wrote to Pa to "please send fifty." Thus soon again at the window did I arrive, but this times it's "Sorry Charlie, the limits's twenty-five."

Ralph, the Masked Avenger

Administration should realize oppression only incites rebellion

by alex trachten

For several years there has been a running verbal battle between student activities, on the part of the student body as a whole, and the administration. Moreover, they all stem from the attitude held by that administration that it must regulate the life of the student in the same way that the parent normally regulates it, a policy often called in loco parentis.

First, the administration has established a housing rule demanding that women living in university housing be in at certain hours, varying from 10:30 p.m. throughout the week to 3:00 a.m. during homecoming. The administration apparently assumes that this obvious attempt to regulate morals can be effective and that it has the right to so manipulate the moral standards of SIU coeds.

Another attempt to dictate morals is the no-visitation policy for most of the on-campus dormitories. In the few dorms where this policy has been partially lifted, there have been no serious infractions. The university virtually stifles the student's academic freedom with its oppressive general studies program. That the program is now under study is ample proof of its failures, but those who entered under the 96-hour system must still complete those courses.

Also, the university has used extra-legal coercion to prevent undergraduate students from driving automobiles. Almost everyone agrees that the ban on cars is not legal in a strict sense. Most base their arguments against cars on terms of the increased traffic problems in Carbondale, but even this contention seems flimsy on examination of the traffic problems of other growing cities.

However, the most abhorrent implementation of raw authority is the practice of double punishment. Anytime a student commits a crime he pays twice, once to the state and once to the university. This happens in spite of one of the most basic guarantees of the constitution, outlawing double jeopardy. Of course, no one can expect the university to harbor felons but, as misdemeanors are by nature and definition less serious offenses, state, county or city punishment should be enough.

Thus, the administration, in instance after instance, thwarts student freedom. It can afford to do so because it sells a commodity—the diploma—for which there are more "buyers" than it can possibly service. For every disgruntled student who goes elsewhere in search of freedom, there is another waiting to get into a school—any school. In addition to this, most of the students at SIU are here because, for financial or academic reasons, they cannot get into another school.

History has shown that the more oppressive authorities become the more resentful and rebellious those subjected to the authority become, even on college campuses. Surely the lesson of Berkeley should be enough to convince the administration that oppression can only cause rebellion. last year's Rational Action Movement could easily become a more serious rebellion if some of the repressive measures are not lifted immediately.

what if Columbus sailed east- from the U.S.?

With congress now in session and all of the political hocus-pocus going on in the form of filibusters, budget debates, investigating committee reports and hearings, one begins to reflect on how complicated and confusing our system of government really is. Russell Baker, writing in the New York Times, brought this out when he toyed with the idea of what would happen if Christopher Columbus was forced to cope with this bureaucracy before beginning his voyage:

When Christopher Columbus turned up at the White House saying that the world was round and seeking money to finance a three-ship voyage eastward into the uncharted Atlantic, he was warmly received. The following January the President asked congress for a $40 billion earth-exploration program, which was quickly dubbed EEP.

For six months the FBI denied Columbus a security clearance on testimony of his neighbors who said he was a "crack-pot round-worlder." When clearance finally came through, he found his project had been scrapped in favor of a six-stage, eleven-year program to begin with the launching of unmanned photographic vessels and end with a fifty-ship fleet, hopefully to put the first American on the Indies.

"All I ever wanted," Columbus sighed, "were three little ships—the Nina Bird, the Pinta Bird and the LBJ." Congressional opposition was intense. When Boston got the contract for the coveted EEP launching center, Florida had to be mollified with a billion-dollar contract for an EEP sail-making center. The fo'c'sle-reliability program went to Alabama, and the contract for the simulated-ocean proving grounds were won by Nevada where the government built a vast desert-locked lake, complete with simulated sea monsters and giant wave-making machinery. Congressmen whose states were not cut in on EEP gravy said Columbus was forced to discover more countries to give foreign aid.

Finally EEP's first manned ship was launched, with the entire nation watching on television. Old timers still remember the disappointment when the voyage safety director was ordered to push the destruction button. Too late it was discovered that Columbus had forgotten to integrate his crew, so the second voyage never got away from the dock.

The maritime unions struck when they learned that Columbus had once navigated a scab tugboat during a harbor strike. In the investigation which followed, Columbus admitted he had accepted a vicuna coat from the tycoon who won the contract for EEP's simulated ocean.

Columbus is now an embittered pizzaria owner. "Someday, in some simple land beyond the Atlantic," he says, "someone will go to a queen and borrow three small ships and sail west and discover this place. I'm glad it won't be me."

Jobless Rate Drops to 13-Year Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson reported Tuesday the lowest unemployment rate in 13 years and ordered a close watch for labor shortages that could force up wages and prices and crimp the nation's zooming economy.

"We are determined to do whatever is necessary to keep the economy expanding and avoid inflationary bottlenecks," Johnson said in a message to Congress on manpower policy.

The Labor Department said the number of jobless Americans dropped 100,000 in February to 3.15 million—or 3.7 per cent of the 74. million civilian labor forces.

The jobless rate usually goes up in February.

The size of the drop in the unemployment rate from 4 per cent in January surprised even the statistical experts of the Bureau of Labor Statistics who compute the figures.

It was the first time in nearly nine years that the rate has been below 4 per cent.

Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the bureau credited the jobless drop and the 300,000 rise in employment to a total of 71.6 million to the continuing long-term boom in the economy.

Record high manufacturing employment of 18.4 million, exceeding the all-out production at the height of World War II, led the employment upswing but there were also sizable gains in wholesale and retail trade, service industries and government jobs.

Harold Goldstein, assistant commissioner of the bureau, said booming production of consumer goods was the main factor, although the manufacture of war goods for Viet Nam was responsible "to some extent."

Ross said the drop in unemployment was not due to increased drafting of young men for military service.

The long worrisome teenage jobless rate dropped from 12 to 11 per cent, the lowest since 1957.

Ross said he will soon follow through on Johnson's instructions to provide the fullest possible information on existing, or threatened, labor shortages.

Although a number of spot labor shortages have been reported in certain industries in recent months, both Johnson and Ross said there was no over-all shortage of workers.

The problem, they said, is matching the unemployed with job openings by training the unskilled, providing better job opportunities for Negroes whose unemployment rate is still double the white rate, utilizing the mentally retarded and handicapped for certain work, and encouraging retired workers to return to the labor force.

Johnson Says DeGaulle's Plan Would Affect West's Alliance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is consulting with its partners in the Atlantic alliance on French President Charles de Gaulle's plans to reshape NATO, the White House said Tuesday.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers disclosed that President Johnson has "communicated with other members" of the alliance the contents of the latest exchange on Monday between De Gaulle and the U.S. chief executive.

the contents of the letters, saying the time is not appropriate. Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department's spokesman, told newsmen that Johnson's answer was a "preliminary reply, relatively brief."

The problems de Gaulle has raised "affect the alliance as a whole," McCloskey said—and this is the essence of Washington's position, other officials stressed.

The French president's letter was what one source described as a rhetorical re-writing of what De Gaulle told his Feb. 21 news conference. It was a "declaration of intent" as the source put it, to renounce the North Atlantic Treaty in April 1969—the date the treaty first allows its members to withdraw from the alliance.

High Officials Go For Public Plunge

PALOMARES BEACH, Spain (AP)—Two high officials, American and Spanish, took a public plunge Tuesday in the chill, 58-degree Mediterranean to try to convince everyone the waters are not radioactive from the U.S. nuclear bomber crash here last Jan. 17.

U.S. Ambassador Angier Biddle Duke, 50, and Spain's minister of information and tourism, Manuel Fraga Iribarne, 44, demonstrated in a 3 1/2-minute swim their belief that the sea is uncontaminated.

Fraga and Duke donned swimming trunks in a tent in Camp Wilson, center of the long search for a missing U.S. H-bomb, for their shallow-water dip before assembled news and television cameras.

The air temperature was in the upper 60s and the usual cutting wind was low. But the water was cold.

The hunt went on by land and sea for a still missing H-bomb, one of four spilled from a U.S. B52 bomber after a high-altitude collision with a jet tanker.

Drug Agency Bans Sale of Cough Drops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government moved Tuesday to halt the future sale of all nonprescription antibiotic lozenges—those cough drops sold to fight the pain and infections of a sore throat.

The Food and Drug Administration, in its most sweeping drug removal order ever, said it found that the lozenges—and some other antibiotic preparations also banned—are not effective, as their labels claim.

An FDA spokesman said the order applies to at least 250 products sold under some 500 trade names by more than 70 manufacturers. They bring an estimated $25 million in sales annually at retail counters.

For some products, the order is effective immediately, and there is no appeal except through the courts. Manufacturers of the others have 30 days to raise any valid objection and ask for a public hearing by the FDA.

However, since no question of danger is involved, an FDA spokesman said drugstores and manufacturers of the antibiotic lozenges and preparation may use up stocks on hand which already have FDA approval.

No recall of the product is planned, the spokesman said.

No list of the products affected was available, but the spokesman said "Secreters" is one of the market leaders. The FDA order said some of the lozenges and other antibiotic preparations found to lack substantial evidence of effectiveness have been in use for up to 15 years.

The possibility of crackdowns on other products was raised by FDA Commissioner James L. Goddard.

Authoritative sources commented the swift answer meant, on one hand, that the administration was not caught flatfooted by the French president's letter in which he in effect requested renegotiation of the bilateral agreement under which American forces are stationed in France.

It meant, on the other hand, that the United States did not want to create a false impression that it could go along with De Gaulle's philosophy on the future of the alliance.

De Gaulle's letter to Johnson was received Monday afternoon in Paris. A reply was given in Washington the same evening.

Moyers declined to discuss

4 Marion Rioters Appear at Hearing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Circuit Judge Creel Douglass denied a motion Tuesday to quash an indictment charging four convicts with murdering three Menard Prison guards during a riot Nov. 23.

The convicts appeared at a pretrial hearing on various motions, including one requesting a separate trial for each of them.

Judge Douglass will hear arguments on that request today.

The convicts are Alonzo Jones, formerly of Manchester, Tenn., and sentenced from Coles County, Ill., for theft; William E. Bassett of Fairfield, sentenced for forgery; John W. Stamps of Granite City, serving a term for murder; and Robert Lee Brown of Chicago, sentenced for robbery.

Try to Topple Sukarno?

Anti-Red Indonesians Sack Foreign Office

SINGAPORE (AP) — Anti-Communist Indonesian students swarmed through the Foreign Ministry in Jakarta, threw out chairs, desks and files and destroyed them in a bonfire, reports reaching Singapore said Tuesday. Pro-Communist demonstrations attacked the U.S. Embassy, smashed windows and burned three cars.

In the midst of the upsurge of violence, President Sukarno assailed the anti-Communist students.

The Jakarta radio quoted him as saying in a speech: "These wild students do not understand what they are doing. They are trying to overthrow me. I do not want to be overthrown. I will fight and crush any attempts to topple me."

The attack on the U.S. Embassy was staged by pro-Communists, pro-Sukarno students of the PNL student organization.

Sources here said from 200 to 300 students stoned the embassy. Some students crawled over the embassy fence throwing rocks and gasoline bombs. Troops arrived at the embassy and dispersed the students.

Reliable sources, in constant touch with developments in Indonesia, said thousands of anti-Communist students from the outlawed Kami organization and the high school organization Kapi staged the demonstration at the Foreign Ministry offices.

Freed Spy Has a Complaint: Courts Aren't Fair in U.S.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — George John Gessner, sentenced to life in prison for giving nuclear weapons secrets to Russia, walked out of the federal penitentiary a free man Tuesday saying that in this country "a man tends to get justice in proportion to the thickness of his wallet."

The government dismissed charges against him because it lacks sufficient evidence—outside his confession—to try Gessner again. The conviction and sentence, handed down in federal court June 4, 1964, was nullified last year by the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on the ground that the confession was not voluntary.

Gessner, now 29, was an Army nuclear weapons specialist at Ft. Bliss, Tex., when he went absent without leave Dec. 6, 1960. Between that time and his arrest March 23, 1961, the government said, he visited the Russian embassy at least twice.

"In no other country could such a man go walking free," said Newell George, the United States attorney for Kansas, when he made the dismissal motion Tuesday. "He would probably have been executed by now in many other countries."

Gessner seemed angry when he left the federal penitentiary less than two hours after the order was signed.

China May Intervene, If Provoked, Asia Expert Tells Fulbright Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — An academic expert told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday that Communist China might intervene in the Vietnamese war if the government of North Viet Nam appeared in danger.

A. Doak Barnett of Columbia University said he doubts that foreseeable buildups in American troop strength in South Viet Nam would provoke Red Chinese intervention.

Four Planes Lost In Record Raids

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. planes raked North Viet Nam with a record assault of several hundred sorties in the 24-hour period ended at dawn Tuesday, an American spokesman announced. Four planes were lost in widespread raids.

Pilots said they blasted a surface - to - air missile site 80 miles south of Hanoi and set off mushrooming explosions and smoke clouds rising to 4,000 feet at the Son La oil storage area, 130 miles west of the Red Capital.

Roads, railways, ferries and bridges, from the southern panhandle to the Red River Valley northwest of Hanoi, were among other targets in 53 missions flown by U.S. Air Force and Navy pilots.

Air operations south of the border included a strike by U.S. B52s from Guam at what was described as a Viet Cong military headquarters 35 miles northeast of Saigon. The spokesman said three regiments had been spotted in that sector of Binh Duong Province since Jan. 1. There was no immediate assessment of the results of the raid.

But at the same time, he counseled against escalation of the conflict. "We not only should not escalate," he said, "but should de-escalate."

"It would be dangerous error to conclude that Communist China would not risk major war if it genuinely felt that its vital interests were threatened," Barnett said.

Congress got divided counsel on Red China from Barnett, acting director of Columbia's East Asian Institute, and former Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson.

While Barnett called for U.S. recognition of the Communist regime, Robertson said such a step would "greatly magnify our own problem of resisting Communist expansion."

Barnett's testimony began a Senate inquiry which Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said is designed to educate Congress and the nation about Red China.

Robertson, who served under the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee that Red China is keeping North Viet Nam away from the conference table and blocking all efforts to find peace in Southeast Asia.

"The Communists apparently feel that if they hold out long enough, the concessions - to our divisions, self - criticisms and impatience will be made on our side," Robertson said.

And he said American recognition of the Peking regime would "bring prestige and power to a regime that threatens every principle of which America gives allegiance—it would increase its capacity for making war at a time it is planning war."

Future SIU Professor Bids for Irish Presidency

An Irishman who will be an artist in residence and visiting professor of journalism here next term is seeking the nomination for the presidency of Ireland.

He is Eoin O'Mahoney, barrister, journalist, commentator and artist.

O'Mahoney, a leading expert in genealogy, has been featured for years on Radio Eriemann as a commentator on Irish families.

He visited the SIU campus last fall while on a two-month tour of the United States. Since his return to Ireland he has been broadcasting a number of interviews he taped with Irish-by one of his Irish contemporaries as "an Irishman who looks like Hemingway, sounds like a fog horn and thinks like a medieval scholar on a holiday in the space age."

O'Mahoney's lively sense of humor has already started to show through in his campaign for the presidency of Ireland.

In a recent public speech he told his audience that if he were elected president it would be of the 32 counties of Ireland "but being a lazy goof-for-nothing I don't think there is much I can do about it if my jurisdiction is refused in six of the counties." He added that if allowed he was prepared to live in Belfast, in Northern Ireland.

He also told his audience that he did not recognize the right of the English to legislate over part of Ireland.

While on campus O'Mahoney will be working with the Rare Books Room staff at Morris Library on its extensive Irish collection.

Revised Interior Proposals Studied For New Building

Final approval of the administration is being sought for revised interior designs for the new classroom and office building on Grand Avenue, adjacent to Lawson Hall.

The exterior of the building has been completed for several months. The change in interior design involves a provision of more office space in relationship to classrooms, according to Charles M. Pulley, University architect.

If the plan is approved, interior work will be finished later this year, Pulley said.

In other campus construction projects, Pulley said pouring of foundation concrete is under way for the two Brush Towers 17-story residence halls and ground should be broken for the $4 million family housing project on Reservoir Road should begin by June.

Six Suspended In Testing Fraud

The names of six students who have been suspended from SIU because of involvement in the English qualification examination investigation were released Tuesday by the Office of Student Affairs.

Those suspended through summer quarter 1966 are Ronald M. Hoffman, Deerfield; Michael C. Brillely, Decatur; John C. Sala, West Frankfort; John L. Kienlen, Elgin; and James R. Johnson.

Richard Goodman, Albertson, N.Y., was suspended through the summer quarter of 1967 because of previous involvement in a testing fraud.

Ralph E. Prusok, associate dean of student affairs, said the leak in the testing system had been traced to a former employe of the Testing Service and that he too has been dealt with.

Women's Basketball Teams End Year With 20-7 Record

The Women's Recreation Association's basketball teams won their final six games of the season last weekend. The SIU girls were host to Southeast Missouri State College and Principia College Saturday.

Southern's No. 1 team defeated Southeast Missouri 42-38 and 30-6. Marilyn Harris scored 13 and 15 points to lead the scoring. The SIU No. 3 team defeated its Missouri opponents 21-14 and Principia 27-18.

Sue Langhorst and Lynn Hastie led the No. 3 team with 11 and 7 points respectively. The No. 4 team recorded the final two victories, 22-14 over Principia and 37-24 over Southeast Missouri State.

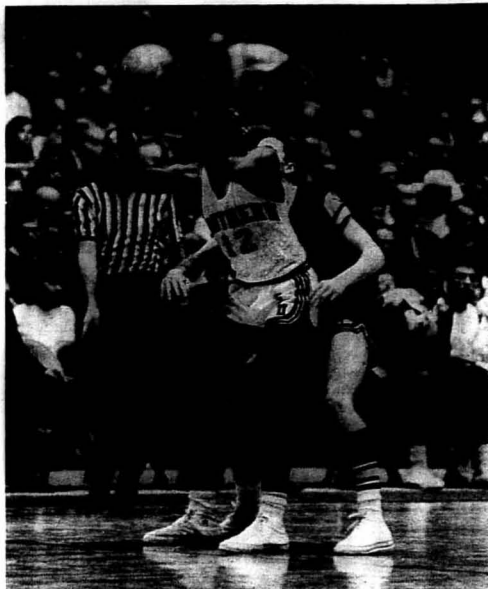

Merripat Schulte had 14 points, Jennifer Stanley 12, and Jeanette Saunders 8 points for the No. 4 team. The SIU girls closed out their season with a total of 20 victories and seven defeats.

The No. 4 team went through the season undefeated with a 5-0 record. The No. 1 team was 6-2, the No. 2 team 4-2 and the No. 3 team 5-3 for the season. The girls squared off with eight different opponents.

They defeated Southeast Missouri State four times and hold the same number of victories over Principia. Neither school could enter the victory column against Southern.

Southern compiled a 1-0 record against Blackburn College, 2-2 against Northern Illinois University, 2-0 against the University of Illinois, 1-2 against Eastern Illinois University, 1-2 against Illinois State University, and 5-1 against Western Illinois University.

Salukis' All-America Honors Reflect Hartman's Selection

Southern's Coach Jack Hartman once said he'd take his guard combination over any other pair in college basketball.

The Associated Press panel of sportswriters must have agreed. The 101-member panel named the Salukis' George McNeil as a first team Little All-America and extended honorable mention to Dave Lee.

McNeil has been the Salukis' leading scorer throughout the season and was voted to share the honor of most valuable player of the regional with Evansville's Larry Humes. The 6-2 senior captain is averaging 19 points a game as the Salukis head into the college division national finals today in Evansville.

Lee, the other captain, was named to the all-tournament team in the regional. The hustling six-footer from McLeansboro has been the sparkplug of Southern's highly regarded defense. Lee is the team's second leading scorer with an average of about 13 points.

Other members of the AP first team were Evansville's Humes, Don Carlos of Otterbein College, Phil Jackson of North Dakota, and Johnny Co-maux of Grambling.

Other Saluki opponents this season who are on the AP teams are Craig Knepe of State College of Iowa and Butch Wade of Indiana State.

SIU fans may get a chance to see Phil Jackson in action. If North Dakota and SIU win their quarterfinal games in the NCAA nationals today, they will meet Thursday night in the semifinals.

Microbiology Study Awarded Grant

Southern's undergraduate research participation program of microbiology has been awarded a National Science Foundation grant of $5,460.

Three students will be supported by the grant, which covers this summer term and the 1966-67 academic year.

The program is under the directorship of Dan O. McClary, associate professor of microbiology.

Engineering — Sales-Management OPPORTUNITY

We are looking for a young man who is deferred from service, to specialize in the engineering part of our business. This would include designing heating, cooling and pumping systems and handling of associated problems involving pressures, combustion, venting electrical controls, etc. etc.

He must also be able to handle sales and other parts of general management.

Exact knowledge in these fields is not necessary, only background and ability to learn.

This is an excellent opportunity to become a key man, and receive associated benefits in a growing firm.

P.S. Have a friend who qualifies? Send the information. If he is hired, you will receive a cash reward.

Do not call-send application to us.

Meade's Expedition Pays Off; Prize-Winning 'Tramps' Bagged

Gymnastics Coach Bill Meade decided to go hunting a few years ago and he, along with Southern, is now enjoying the fruits of his expedition.

Meade wasn't looking for any beast, but a particular kind of animal—one who could bounce and do a few tricks on the trampoline.

His venture exceeded his wildest expectations, for Meade landed not one, but three prize specimens. They are expected to help Southern win its second NCAA gymnastics championship.

Hutch Dvorak was the first catch, then Frank Schmitz and later Dale Hardt. These three have teamed up to make Southern's trampoline team the best in the country.

The Salukis have completely dominated that event finishing first, second and third in every dual meet. On several occasions, Southern's fourth man, Brent Williams, has combined to give SIU the top four places.

To prove it just isn't the mediocrity of the opposition, Schmitz, Hardt and Dvorak are all ranked in the top 10 in the national gymnastics averages.

Schmitz leads the way with a 9.52 average, while Hardt is fifth at 9.35 and Dvorak eighth at 9.0.

Meade started on his expedition three years ago. Hugh after an absence of two years. The results were immediately felt.

HUTCH DVORAK

Although not fielding a team as strong as the year before, the trampolining trio of Schmitz, Dvorak and Williams were instrumental in keeping Southern's unbeaten record in tact.

This year the event is still stronger, mainly because of the arrival of sophomore Dale Hardt, a former Illinois high school champion.

Hardt has worked his way up to the No. 2 spot on the team behind Schmitz. Dvorak is close behind in third, followed by Williams in fourth.

Under the new scoring system, only the top three scores count. Meade is hoping for three of the gymnasts to average 9.3 or better next month in the finals at Penn State.

DALE HARDT

And what about the event after this year?

It could even be more devastating next year, with Schmitz, Dvorak and Hardt all returning.

In addition Meade has picked up transfer students Stan Zdunek and Joe Dupree, the latter from Iowa State, and freshman John Mills.

IM Bowling Title Won by 'Wicked' Five

The Wicked Quintet won the intramural bowling league championship recently by defeating the Batmen two games to one in a league playoff. The Wicked Quintet took the final two games of the series after dropping the opener.

The Batmen rolled a higher total than the victors 2734 to 2694. They scored 970 of those points in the first game and were defeated 910-897 and 876-867 in the final games. John E. Corrigan had the individual high average in the league, 192. Thomas W. Lenart posted the high single game, 266.

The two finalists were survivors of the league's 36 team rolloff.

Hurley is Author Of Drama Article

Paul J. Hurley, assistant professor of English, is the author of an article in the February issue of Modern Drama. The article is entitled "Suddenly Last Summer" as a Morality Play."

In the article Hurley contends that Tennessee Williams has been misinterpreted because he deals with sex and violence. Hurley states that Williams must be seen as a symbolic playwright because of his use of sexual corruption to portray moral corruption.

Girls May Drink to Join 'In' Group

I was underage because everyone else was, but now I drink only when I really want to. Most freshmen do feel older by drinking."

Another coed feels that underage students who aren't familiar with the "adverse affects of alcohol" have the biggest problem with deciding when to drink and how much to drink.

"I have definitely decided not to drink, so I am never bothered at a party when others try to persuade me to do so. I simply refuse. However, students who haven't yet decided whether they should drink frequently and heavily are easily persuaded to drink a lot to be like the crowd."

The women living in dormitories agree with University regulations that even students of legal age should not be allowed to keep liquor in their rooms, for that "would be a bad influence and a temptation to the younger students."

Two women feel that persons 21 or older should not be punished for coming into the dorm intoxicated as long as they do not disturb others.

They agreed, however, that any underage student who entered the dorm in the same condition should be reprimanded and warned of future punishment if she habitually returned to the dorm intoxicated.

Most of the women felt that when underage students are caught attempting to buy liquor at a Carbondale bar, it is unfair for the students to be fined by the city and also to be punished by the University.

One suggested that "if a student is apprehended by the city police, then the city should take action, and the University should only take action if the student is causing trouble on campus."

Another coed said that "the owner of the bar should be charged by the Carbondale police, who should turn the students over to the University. Most parents probably feel that the University should act as parents to the students and therefore should handle all disciplinary action."

A graduate student, formerly a resident fellow in University housing, summed up the various aspects of campus drinking.

"I think that freshman and sophomore women drink to experiment, to see if they're going to like liquor, while juniors and seniors are the ones who drink to be accepted by their peers.

"The younger students are trying to decide which group they would like to have as friends, but the upperclassmen have already decided," she explained.

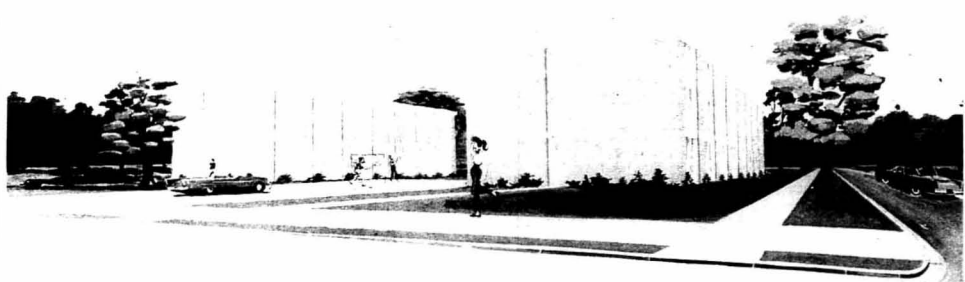

"When I was a resident fellow, we didn't reprimand anyone for coming into the dorm intoxicated if she went to her room without bothering anyone.

"If a person disturbed others, though, and destroyed property, she was sent before the judicial board. She was punished for destroying property, however, not for coming in intoxicated.

"When students are caught trying to buy liquor, I think the University has a responsibility to take corrective measures even if the Carbondale police also take action. The student shouldn't take all the blame, though, because many bars serve minors to keep a good business going."
