Vote scheduled on tuition hike, athletics fee

By Mike Anton
Staff Writer

Proposals to increase tuition for the SIU system by 13 percent next year and retain the University’s $30 per semester athletics fee are expected to be voted on at the board of trustees at its March meeting Thursday at the Student Center.

The board also is expected to act on a proposal that would allow student fees to be used for activities that would increase tuition for students next year.

However, Somit has said he opposes a proposal that would allow student fees to be used for activities that would increase tuition for students next year.

Although Somit has said he opposes a proposal that would allow student fees to be used for activities that would increase tuition for students next year, he said he would support a proposal that would allow student fees to be used for activities that would increase tuition for students next year.

Because of the tight budget proposed by the UIHE, next year, Somit said he would not implement the policy even if the board approves it.

Reagan heckled by Canadians prior to meeting with Trudeau

OTTAWA (AP) — Jeered by Canadian demonstrators, President Reagan met Tuesday with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau on problems that come between two historically friendly and interdependent neighbors.

Reagan took the protests in stride, but they annoyed his host. Trudeau professed to love hecklers but appeared for his countrymen to show better manners during Reagan’s 25-minute introductory chat in Trudeau’s oak-paneled office on Parliament Hill. Then they walked in their aids for a discussion of El Salvador, East-West relations and the potential impact of Reagan’s economic program on the United States’ closest and largest trading partner.

White House Press Secretary James S. Brady said Reagan and Trudeau did “56 percent of the talking.”

Brady quoted Reagan as referring to the meeting with Trudeau’s aid, “I say we have not said yes and we have not said no, but we would be interested in consultation with allies.”

Brady said.

He said Reagan told Trudeau he would be “reasonably interested” if we would be able to negotiate a reduction in nuclear arms.

After the meeting, Reagan, Trudeau and their aids left for lunch at the residence. When the two leaders walked back, hundreds of protesters started chanting loudly, “Yankee go home!”

About 1,000 demonstrators lined the street and waved signs as the motorcade whisked by.

Outside, protesters burned an American flag in front of the Parliament. Minister Seabrook broke out during the demonstration, and at least 20 people were reported arrested.

Defense budget increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan’s answer to the classic either-or question on government spending is a reconciling of both.

Not that he’s against the budget. He just doesn’t think the choice is all that clear-cut. Reagan, in fact, advocates a richer, more balanced foreign policy for America. And he would lower, not raise, federal taxes even as he sought a military buildup.

But he would cut out $2.3 billion in food stamps for thousands of Americans and, in effect, use that money as a down payment on a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, a new generation of submarine and new tanks for the U.S. Navy.

And he would cut back the student loan program and use that $700 million or so to speed up purchases of new tanks.

Reagan proposes spending $188.8 billion on defense, roughly 27 percent of the $909 billion budget. In fiscal 1982 and 1981, then-President Carter allocated a roughly steady 24 percent.

To make room for those increases, Reagan is calling for major cuts in social programs — $44 billion in fiscal 1983 as a start.

Under Reagan’s multiyear approach, government spending would take up 30.6 percent of the budget in fiscal 1983, 32.2 percent in fiscal 1984, 34 percent in fiscal 1985 and 37.6 percent in fiscal 1986.

Tom Busch, assistant to the vice president for student affairs, was named assistant to President Albert Somit Tuesday.

Somit selected Busch, an SIU-C Graduate, from among four finalists whom he interviewed last week. Busch will begin the job April 1.

We had four superb candidates,” Somit said. “It was a very difficult choice, but he shared the others by a hair in backround, breadth of experience and knowledge of the University.”

Richard Millman, Somit’s current assistant, said. “It’s unfortunate that we couldn’t appoint four persons. Any of them could have done a good job.”

Busch is ill and unavailable for comment Tuesday. He was named a finalist from a field of 25 candidates considered in a three-month-long search. The search committee, chaired by Millman, reviewed the candidates’ applications.

Busch, a former SIU-C student, graduated in 1971 and has worked for the University for the past 10 years. Millman said.

Millman will leave SIU-C after this month to head the Mathematics and Computer Science Department at Michigan Technological University. He said Busch will begin this week preparing himself to become Somit’s assistant.

Busch will be responsible for screening Somit’s calls, working with constituency groups, handling grievances, and coordinating presidential committees.

Military exercises set in wake of Poland strike

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Soviet Union and Poland Tuesday announced that joint Warsaw Pact military exercises will begin in Poland later this month. The announcement followed a one-day strike in Lodz, the first major work stoppage in 10 years against which this Communist nation bent by economic and labor troubles.

The Polish news agency PAP said the exercises would take place in Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union in the second half of March. Some Western observers said the exercises were expected at this time of the year, but US State Department officials last week expressed concern about reports of such.

The announcement said the aims of the exercises was to "coordinate and improve cooperation of senior staffs of fraternal armies and navies during joint military operations." The exercises were also announced in Moscow. Wednesday, workers held a large area of the Baltic coast between Stettin on the East German border and Kolobrzeg, 96 miles to the east, were closed to commerce ships earlier this month, indicating that malicious exercises may be conducted there.

Meanwhile, Neues Deutschland, the official Communist East German press, and the Czechoslovakian newspaper Okto warned against political exploitation of labor troubles in Poland. Neues Deutschland said some forces were trying to use the "difficult situation in Poland for counter-revolutionary and anti-German ends."

The paper quoted East German Foreign Minister Oskar Fischer as saying the situation in Poland has "all friends of the Polish people filled with concern." Fischer, in Poland, met Tuesday with local Premier Gwun, Jaruzelski and Communist Party leader Slawomir Kania.

Lottus union leaders said the state affecting 1,300 factories and work places and up to 90,000 workers a "simultaneous stoppage" of the two largest cities, protests government refusal to allow those who want to take part to do so freely at a state hospital.

Five workers, four of them union organizers, won reinstatement to their jobs at the state hospital during talks Monday night, eliminating the initial cause of the strike. But the Interior Ministry refused to agree to a new union demand that its organizers be allowed to operate freely among civilian workers at the facility and the talks deadlocked.

Bombing threat still exists

Hijackers modify demands

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Hijackers holding more than 100 hostages on a Pakistani airliner scaled down their demands Tuesday by suggesting they threatened to blow up the plane and its passengers.

Pakistani and Koson officials said negotiators had obtained an auxiliary runway here surrounded by Syrian police cars.

The three heavily armed skyjackers set fire to a Pakistani airliner on Wednesday (4 a.m. EST) for Pakistan's military government to release the prisoners officially. But Syria's chief negotiator, Brig. Gen. Mohammed Khalid, said the hijackers scaled down their demands, reducing them from 12 to 6, in hopes of expediting activities they want freed in Pakistan from 92 to 45.

The general told reporters at Damascus airport that he was hopeful a compromise would be reached and the ordeal of the captives would be over.

Khalid said the Pakistan government also made "new proposals to keep the negotiations with the hijackers alive in order to seize the advantage the 92 hostages now in their hands and seven more than President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq's authoritarian military regime originally offered to the hijackers."

Pakistan's defense ministry secretary-general, M. Rahim Khan, said Wednesday that an expand of "no union demand was prepared to arrange with the hijackers a 'release of political prisoners and hostages.'"

This agreement to a new concession. Seven days of negotiations in Kabul, the requests insisted that the hostages be freed first.

Rahim Khan said Pakistan has agreed to free 15 of the original 92 prisoners demanded by the hijackers — members of a Pakistan dissident group named after ex-President Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto, who was hanged in 1979. But he said the number might rise should charges involving 31 others prove not serious.

Key Senate committees would have seven Democrats and four Republican members, Sen. Richard A. Walsh, R-Blooming Grove, proposed that Democrats hold only a one-vote edge in controlling the Senate, so they also should have only one more member than Republicans on committees.

Liddy plans to open security firm

CHICAGO (AP) — G. Gordon Liddy, who helped mastermind the ill-fated break-in of the Democratic National Committee's headquarters at Watergate, was planning to open a national security consulting firm in Chicago, it was announced Tuesday.

Liddy said he had selected Chicago as headquarters "because of its perfect location for a national concern, and because I was fortunate enough to be in several prominent Chicago area security experts as officers of the corporation."

In 1973, Liddy had resigned and sentenced to 36 years in prison for his involvement in the Watergate incident.

Expansion planned for O'Hare

CHICAGO (AP) — Plans for a $1 billion expansion of O'Hare International Airport call for making it the world's most compact airport, the Chicago Tribune reported Tuesday.

City and state officials on a consulting firm are considering an expansion that would make the airport so compact that passengers could walk to flight connections rather than relying on automated transit systems that are subject to breakdowns, the newspaper said.

Officials there are having not reached agreement on all aspects of the plan, but it is expected to be finished later this year, the newspaper said.

Four railroad barrier plans turned down by City Council

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

If you’re going to dig a ditch two miles long, 10 feet wide and 23 feet deep, you should take some time to do a few important things before falling into it.

Four alternative methods of keeping people, cars and trash from falling into the Railroad Relocation Project’s track depression were presented to the City Council Monday night and the council rejected all four, saying they believed the approach of the proposals was wrong.

“None of these alternatives are acceptable. They will create an urban design problem of major proportions and visual problems where they don’t exist now,” Mayor Hans Fischer said.

The railroad track depression, capstone of the $14 million relocation project, will submerge all rail traffic through the city below street level and relieve traffic congestion. The tracks will be needed for pedestrian and vehicle safety, as well as to prevent track acceleration in the depression.

Instead of the four proposals, Fischer and the council urged Project Director Eldon Cornwell to consult architects and consultants in the field of urban design and come up with new proposals to protect the retaining walls and six bridges that will surround the tracks.

Fischer said, “You are approaching the problem in a strange way. You’re offering solutions to a problem that hasn’t been defined yet. It seems to me you should bring up a set of criteria to the council, and tell the designer what the criteria are, rather than trust the problems are there.

“As it is now, the trains are only a problem when they are coming through town, but these are not the only problems.”

F-Senate backs salary catch-up plan

By Bill Turley
Staff Writer

The Faculty Senate supported a resolution Tuesday calling for a catch-up salary increase for faculty and administrators on a flat percentage basis regardless of seniority and also reaffirmed a 1971 resolution on selective retention and admission policies.

The approved salary resolution included a proposal that the higher raises be made across the board at 6 percent or $100 per month, whichever is greater, with the remainder of the funds to be used for merit increases.

The resolution originally included a clause that catch-up increases should be only for those with three years seniority, but it was stricken so that there would be no discrimination against new faculty.

The senate reaffirmed its 4-year-old resolution on selective retention policies in the wake of a debate over the College of Business and Administration’s proposal to institute such a policy.

The plan would require a student to maintain at least a G.P.A. of 2.0 or five of seven “foundation classes.” Donald Vaughn, assistant dean of the Business College of Business, said, “If the student didn’t maintain the average, he would be removed from the academic unit.

Vaughn told the senate that the regulation is meant to “reduce the pressure a bit” on overcrowding in the school’s classes.

John Guyon, acting vice president for academic affairs, said he thought it was “a little cavalier” to do that to a student, thereby pushing him into the general academic program.

In other action, Paul Morrill, professor of higher education, was confirmed as representative to the search committee for vice president for financial affairs.

Two others were reported to the senate as having been appointed to Guyon’s ad hoc committee on sabbatical leave. They are DuWayne Englert, professor of zoology, William Eaton, associate professor of educational leadership, William George, professor of zoology, Jerome Handler, professor of anthropology, and Patricia Carroll, associate professor of linguistics.

Convicted armed robber sentenced to jail term

By Scott Canon

A Murphysboro man was sentenced on two counts of armed robbery, five of burglary and six of theft Tuesday afternoon.

Dennis Griffin, 19, was sentenced to 12 and eight years detention with the Illinois Department of Corrections for robberies and four years with the theft and 30 months probation for burglary. Griffin’s fines totaled $400 in addition to court costs.

Circuit Judge Richard Richmond sentenced Griffin in the prison terms to be served concurrently Michael C. Carr, assistant Jacksonville County state’s attorney, prosecuted the case.

One of the armed robbery convictions stemmed from the holdup of the Han-Dee-Mart in De Soto on Nov. 17. Griffin used a 22 caliber Sentinel revolver he had stolen from Irving Adams, a Carbondale resident and former lawyer for SHU-C Griffin and his two brothers, Bruce and Bobby, were arrested by De Soto Police with gun, a leather wallet, and a carton of cigarettes papers in their possession Griffin received a 12 year sentence and was fined $250 and court costs for the first conviction.

Another conviction resulted from a holdup of the Mack’s Convenience Food Store in Murphysboro. Griffin robbed Mack’s $250 and was sentenced to eight years imprisonment.

Griffin was given the burglary convictions for stealing the gun and some stereo equipment from Adams’ residence and for stealing tools, a citizen’s band radio and a tape recorder from the W.R. Grace Greenwood Co. in Murphysboro.

He was sentenced to four years imprisonment, 30 months probation and fined $200 and court costs for the burglaries.

Relocating poll booths
a Thompson-style move

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR., in an example for other Republican office holders with their attempted coup of the Illinois Senate earlier this year, it would seem that way after hearing statements from two precinct workers in Shuf-flebarger's precincts for the April election.
Shufflebarger's workers, who are Republicans, say he is absolutely in their precincts for the April election.

The ethics of Shufflebarger's move was challenged immediately after the proposal was revealed after it was found that the tentative relocation of Precinct 21 was actually in another precinct. Shufflebarger withheld his request for this move but held firm on four other changes.

Mechanics of the vote, a Thompson-style move is unethical and should be considered by the Illinois Supreme Court. The Thompson move would be unethical.

IT IS TO BE HOPED that the board will realize what Shufflebarger is trying to pull off.

The vote changes obviously are being proposed to make it more difficult for students to vote. Of the four polling places recommended for relocation are heavily populated by students. The students in a Precinct 21 and 25 would be far away from the centers of the population.

When students are being asked to move ballots, they must be asked to move as students, not as citizens. The vote on the Thompson Student Center Board seems to be in clear violation of the law.

BUT SHUFFLEBARGER has good reason in the eyes of many Republicans: to attempt this ploy. Keeping ballots out of the hands of students is as possible as it is an advantage for the GOP. In the past, when students have voted in area elections they have consistently voted Democratic. Although they are not on the chopping block, Board and victories in the township races would extend their presence.

Whether the board approves the changes or not, Shufflebarger's workers were challenged the students to vote. In trying to make it difficult for students to vote, they also argue that student apathy is usually more powerful than their desire to get to the polls in line.

Past elections indicate that student interest in local elections is low. To be sure, students who have been registered and who have voted for two reasons: to show Shufflebarger that his Thompson-style move is unethical and to show that they have a voice.

I just camped out for two days at the arena to buy Eric Clapton tickets. I sure hope the people who are trying to abolish the ticket list turn out during the week of the two-day party. If they do, my gang will not be in a more fair or organized method of selling tickets than having a ticket list, it is a fair method that they realize they are wrong.

How much effort would it take for the Arena Events Coordinator to put up an official ticket list and call a roll of a couple of times? I'm sure the police and fire department would agree with this idea, not to mention the students and ticket buyers. Ticket lists have always worked in the past as well as the system. But if the folks in charge still believe people should camp out for tickets, they'll know who is good and who is bad. -T.B.

Student Wellness Center offers alcohol education with ‘game’

By Paul Lawrence
Student Writer

Can you name three ways to drink without getting drunk?

STU’s Alcohol Education Project, run through the Student Wellness Resource Center, aims to provide information to students about alcohol-related topics. The 17 hall rap series, called “Alcohol Game,” offers similar programs as a way to provide alcohol information to students “in an informal environment,” said Nancy Logan, alcohol educator for the project.

Logan said the programs are available to off-campus and on-campus residence halls on request. The programs are aimed at students in the halls, usually younger, the “barefoot” population, Logan said, and winning team members collect information about “inexperienced drinkers,” to be told.

Students at the rap are often skeptical at first, Logan said. They think the project is promulgating drinking, when its purpose is to provide information on responsible drinking.

“AEP is offering hall raps on nine different alcohol-related topics this semester,” Logan said. “The team will discuss the ‘Alcohol Game’ and ‘Doing the Bars.’”

In the “Alcohol Game” teams of students try to answer correctly the questions of a facilitator, Correct 10 answers earn points for a team.

The “Doing the Bars” rap provides its information in a discussion format. Logan said this rap tries to get the students “to look at their own motivations for going to the bars, and lose the way when they’re there,” said Logan.

“Ultimately the people in alcohol-related topics are often ended up as a discussion of role roles, Logan said. The rap is often the first time that both sides talk together about what they like and dislike about the behavior of their peers in bars.”

Logan said AEP usually does two hall raps a week at a bar. Word-of-mouth has made the rap more popular, Logan said.

Last semester the project did 17 hall raps which 561 people attended, compared to the 29 raps which were attended the entire previous year.

When the number of requests for programs varies from week to week from a trickle to a flood, Logan said the project handles all of them.

“We’ve never had to turn down someone because we’re too busy,” she said.

Suit filed against bar, bouncer

A lawsuit has been filed against Second Chance, a Carbondale bar, 213 East Main St., and one of its bouncers for allegedly injuring one of its patrons.

James Hensgen, 26, Carbondale, is suing Second Chance and its bouncer for more than $50,000. Hensgen alleges in the suit that Kain, a doorman at the bar, “violently attacked and assaulted” him “without provocation.”

The suit also claims that Hensgen suffered permanent injuries, causing him to lose his job, from an alleged scuffle that took place when Kain supposedly forced Hensgen to leave the bar on Aug. 17, 1979.

In the suit Hensgen holds the bar responsible for “failing to provide a safe environment” to perform his duties.

The suit also charges that Second Chance failed to properly investigate its bouncers before hiring them and didn’t fire Kain after “knowing of his violent disposition.”

City opposes reduction of Home Rule powers

By Melody Cook
Staff Writer

Although it lost ground when the state legislature pre-empted Home Rule powers and changed the legal drinking age to 21, Carbondale is watching closely for any further reduction in its powers.

The City Council agreed Monday night to oppose Illinois House of Representatives Bill 99, which would void a current city ordinance and take away Carbondale’s right to create and give powers to a Board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

This council has taken a stance in the past to oppose in general, house bills that preempt Home Rule powers.

Acting City Manager Scott Ritter told the council a resolution has been prepared for formal council approval next Monday authorizing the city to declare opposition to the bill. Copies of the resolution will be sent to state representatives. City Attorney George Kiriksdak said.

“We like to have our own authority to establish our own board,” he said.

Kiriksdak said that the bill would erode the city’s Home Rule powers, similar to when the drinking age was raised to 21.

John Clemmons, Jackson county state’s attorney, prosecuted the case in which Graves was found guilty of selling two grams and 89 grams of cocaine.

Man’s suspension revoked

The court suspension of a Carbondale man, who was on court suspension for a resisting a peace officer conviction, was revoked Tuesday after the man was convicted for a committed aggravated battery against a policeman.

Michael W. Smith, 30, of Belar Mobile Homes trailer 21, was sentenced to detention in the Illinois Department of Corrections for one year by Circuit Judge Richard Richmond.

The aggravated battery conviction stemmed from an incident where Smith, Jeff Bowman, a Carbondale policeman,

Thompson urges death penalty for brutal child abuse

PEORIA — Gov. James R. Thompson said Tuesday he supports the death penalty for the most serious and brutal cases of child abuse in Illinois.

"I've been a strong proponent of the death penalty," Thompson told reporters, "I think it is appropriate for heinous offenses and I think killing a child is a heinous offense.

It was a strong proponent Thompson's first public statement in support of the death penalty in cases of abused and battered children since the Jan. 10 beating death of 3-year-old Alan Madden in Quincy.

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, a top priority next year with the upgrading of the telephone hotline and computer systems for reporting child abuse.

"I can think of nothing more heinous as a governor, as a citizen, as a parent," he said, "as the most important part is that we can add more money, more people and more hotlines and we have an increase in the number of cases uncovered.

The Governor was in Peoria to visit the staff of the Caterpillar Tractor Co. and made his comments during a news conference.

Last Thursday, Gregory Coler, director of the Department of Children and Family Services, publicly stated his support for the death penalty in certain child abuse cases. Coler said the death penalty would add the murder of a child to the list of capital crimes, such as the murder of a police officer, corrections officer or kidnapping victim.

At least two bills have been introduced in the Illinois General Assembly calling for the death penalty in abuse cases, but neither Thompson nor Coler would specifically state support for a particular measure under consideration.

Thompson has said he anticipates an increase of some 95 percent in the number of child abuse calls received by the state on its toll-free hotline this year, in a small part due to the widespread publicity of the Madden case.

The department expects that the increase in the number of calls to level out the following year.

A resolution opposing the proposed 13 percent tuition increase is expected to be considered by the Graduate Student Council at its meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Missoula Room of the Student Center.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education requested the 13 percent tuition increase for next year, but because funding requested by the Board of Trustees was not met, the board plans to ask for a 12 percent increase at its meeting Thursday, to make up the state funding difference.

The council plans to take a stance on the proposed tuition increase for next year.

Gov. James Thompson has proposed an 8 percent increase with a 2 percent cash up plan.

Nominations for GSC president, vice president and student positions on the Graduate Council are expected to be accepted Wednesday. Any graduate student can make nominations or be nominated for the student positions, but only voting members of the GSC will elect the representatives.

The election will be held April 15.

The council is expected to vote against a proposed holiday schedule for next year that would eliminate Lincoln's Birthday as a University holiday. The schedule is one of two being considered by the administration.

The Coalition of Progressive Social Scientists is expected to present a resolution opposing U.S. economic and military support in El Salvador for endorsement by the council.

Art faculty shows wide variety of mediums, styles in exhibit

By Brenda Wilgenhuhn
Staff Writer

If you've ever wondered how creative an art professor can be, stop and take a look at the faculty exhibit in the University Museum at Fafer Hall. You might be pleasantly surprised.

The faculty exhibit, to be shown until March 30, is an annual event. According to Sheila Stewart, coordinator of the exhibit, this year's exhibit contains about 45 pieces created by the School of Art faculty.

"It is one of the newest faculty shows we've had," Stewart said. She added that almost every faculty member who works in a studio contributed to this year's exhibit.

As a result, several kinds of art are displayed. Each artist has his own style and personality that is reflected in his work. The traditional fine arts are exhibited as sculpture, painting, and three-dimensional work. There are paintings, screen prints, textiles, ceramics, and fiber works.

Many of the 21 artists who are displaying their work have exhibitions throughout the United States and Europe. Faculty contributing to the exhibit are: Thomas J. Walsh, Sylvia R. Greenfield, Brent Rington, Herbert L. Fink, Edward H. Shih, Michael S. Yanghood, Harris Diller, Lawrence A. Bernstein, Dan D. Woodward, Joan M. Luntluth, Robert L. Paulson, Lee Littlefield, Patricia Beebe, Benjamin T. Miller, Alden M. Addington, Milton F. Sullivan, Michael C. Fromy, Richard W. Mawdsley, Joel B. Pederson, Michael O. Onken, and Bill H. Hoyen.

One of the best-known artists in the area is Fink, professor of art, whose works have been displayed in several exhibits in the United States and Europe. Fink has four pieces displayed in this exhibit: one watercolor, one wash, one wash and oil, and two pencil drawings. Fink's specialty is people's houses, which are placed in a stroke of a brush or pencil. Mawdsley, assistant professor of art, has his "Medusa" on display. The piece made of sterling silver and lapis lazuli, took Mawdsley about 18 months to finish, but he admitted that he was not sending it to several other projects as well. Mawdsley said that under normal circumstances, it is probably a four-year piece.

Mawdsley said he used standard silversmithing techniques to make the piece, but added some things of his own like "repoussé," a technique taught to him by a Japanese metalsmith. He said the piece was inspired by anatomical drawings and medical illustrations.

One art graduate said that Mawdsley's "Medusa" is probably the most precise and intricate of the exhibit.

Onken, assistant professor of art, has his gouache opaque watercolor paintings in the exhibit. He said all the paintings are based on traditional literature and use a traditional style. The materials used are similar to the materials of the ancient Indian and Persian miniatures. He said the paintings took a very long time, but it varied from painting to painting.

Littlefield, assistant professor of art, has begun a new phase of his artistic career, with his "Glen's Piece," a three-dimensional work which was inspired by a friend who died in a farm accident. Littlefield said the piece is a big step for him to go from canvas to three dimensions. In the future, Littlefield plans to work at threedimensional pieces as well as his painting. Littlefield said a carved piece will be constructed. He has already applied for a cooperative grant from the National Endowment of the Arts. He said that the piece will take about $18,200 to build.

The site for the piece is equally important," Littlefield said. He is trying for a site in the immediate area, hopefully on U.S. Route 87. He said that he hopes to have "Glen's Piece" built where people will pass by it frequently.

"Landscape," by Wood, an associate professor of art, was done on the scene in graphite and pastel. Wood said he spends anywhere from 100 hours to six months on a drawing.

Critic calls TV 'pop-culture event'

By John Schrag

Television news has evolved into a "pop-culture event," according to journalist Powers, and while the popular ng of "Happy Talk" newscast has enabled TV news to survive, Powers is critical of its current state of development.

Powers, the 1973 Pulitzer Prize winner for critical writing, is serving as visiting professor at SIU-C until March 14. The former news reporter, columnist, author and media critic talked about the development of TV news during a public lecture Monday night at Lawson Hall.

Discussing the evolution of TV news, Powers said television's coverage of the turmoil of the 1960s moved TV news from its role as a public service to the stage where "Eye-witness newscasts" and "Action teams" brought the campus riots and Vietnam War into the living rooms of the American public.

This active new role of TV news drew sharp criticism from the general public and government officials, culminating in the famous 1969 speech by Vice President Spiro Agnew deploring the actions of the "tiny, enclosed fraternity of privileged men, elected by no one," who controlled the media.

Partiy because of such criticism, the TV news of the 1960s slowly evolved into the more acceptable pop-culture news of today, with its glamorous news sets, disco theme-songs and $8 million salaries, Powers said. The high-priced families of happy talk reporters and anchormen have created "characters who become more real to us than the news itself."

Powers told the audience of nearly 100 people.

Reagan studies allowing CIA to resume domestic spying

LANGLEY, Va. (AP)—A top official of the Central Intelligence Agency said Tuesday a "changing world" has prompted the Reagan administration to explore whether to rescind some limits on CIA spying within the United States.

The administration has launched an intensive study of legal and other barriers to intelligence operations to see if some can be removed by the summer to combat terrorism, a deputy CIA director said Wednesday.

The survey is known to include consideration of expanding authority for the CIA to break the physical surveillance and covert infiltration of American groups and businesses.

In a briefing at CIA headquarters in suburban Washington, Adm. Inman said terrorist activities have stepped up since 1978 when then-President Carter signed an executive order limiting the CIA's ability to conduct domestic investigations.

SIU-C projects gain attention with boom in DNA research

By Colleen Moore
Staff Writer

As scientific, political and business interests in DNA research continue to grow steadily on the national level, work underway at SIU-C may draw more than its share of scrutiny.

A University research group is cloning genes from legumes, particularly soybean plants, through the recombinant DNA process. The group is designed for an entirely different purpose.

And while the era of pop-culture TV news has made daily newscasts key players in the ratings game, thereby threatening their survival, Powers said the public should expect more from TV news.

"As we go about our happy-talk news, watching our action-reporters shopping with Reggie Jackson, we should remember that we are under serious assualt in this world," Powers said.

He noted that in East Germany and Sweden, the policy of free information has really been severely criticized and significantly limited. He also looks at a "gathering trend" in third-world nations to move towards a "new world information order..." in which Powers said amounts to government-controlled infomation.

Powers said freedom of information may also be threatened in the U.S. warned of a "gathering tide of fundamentalism" in this country that, although now mainly concerned with sex and violence on prime-time programming, could eventually expand its battleground to the area of free dissemination of news.

Powers, a former "Critic at Large" for WMAQ-TV in Chicago, said he thinks changes are underway towards a more in-depth, journalistic approach to TV news.

e Escaped injury Monday when a deflected by coins in his

Leon Finney, owner of a chain of barbecue restaurants, said he had driven to a South side bank when a man approached him and fired without warning.

Finney said the shot from the .44-caliber revolver struck him in the right thigh and hit some coins.

Finney said that while the robber was able to grab some money that fell from a deposit bag, he pulled out his own gun and fired four shots at his assailant.

An off-duty police officer chased and caught a suspect, cells apart and extracting DNA.

DNA is the chemical substance involved in the genetic transmission of characteristics from one generation to the next.

The researchers cut the plant's DNA with an enzyme, also called "chemical scissors," into many fragments. Rings of DNA are inserted into E. coli, a bacterium that exists in a human's intestinal tract, and are cut with the same enzyme.
Each DNA fragment, or gene, is fitted into a ring of DNA from E. coli and each new combination is called recombinant DNA.

The recombinant DNA is then put back into the bacterial E. coli. Each time the bacterial cell divides, a replica copy of the gene will be present for the next generation, and within hours thousands of clones will be produced.

Besides working with recombinant DNA, Sung is involved in the study of viruses and chromosomes.

Success in first grade linked to use of drugs in high school

CHICAGO: "AP\ AP - Children who are most successful as first grade pupils are more likely to use drugs such as alcohol and marijuana when they reach high school than their slower classmates, a long-term study suggests.

In addition, the study found that aggressive first-grade boys are more likely to use such drugs in high school than are other boys. Margaret Ensminger, a sociologist at Illinois Institute of Technology, said Tuesday:

"first graders in the Woodlawn community on the city's South Side were evaluated in the study. Twelve years later, 700 of the first-grade students were interviewed again at age 17.

Bin established for recycled paper

A newspaper collection bin has been placed in the parking lot behind the Communications Building as part of the Pollution Control Center's Reuse News recycling program, according to John Mosher, director of the center.

The bin marks the fourth collection point for the recycling program, said Mosher. The other three are located at the pedestrian overpass at Center Hall and in the Student Center.

Two more collection bins are being constructed, one for Faculty Hall and another that East Campus residents are building, Mosher said.

The Reuse News program, which sells about 150 tons of paper a year to brokers, is the only "consistently profitable" program in the president's budget, Mosher said. The program is self-sufficient and uses no state money, Mosher said.

Reducing federal role is aim of Reagan's revised budget

By Donald M. Robberg
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - (AP) - Despite all the numbers, the details and the fanfare, President Reagan's revised budget is a rather small and political document as any party platform and promises to keep Congress and the national governors to date of his view of the federal role in American society.

In a sense, the figures attached to the Reagan plan "alleviate the grievous economic plight of our people" and are almost as dramatic as the president's proposal to "move American back toward economic sanity" is the proposal for a three-year, 30-percent cut in tax rates. That plan is questioned by many in Congress, including Republicans, and is the portion of the Reagan program given the least chance for approval.

Budget cutting is an idea not far from the president's budget-cutting is an idea not far from the president's back to the 1960s. One member of the administration is the only Democrat in the administration that would like to see a tax cut in a major way.

But for most Democrats and some Republicans, budget-cutting is an idea nearly dictated by economic conditions. A view in sharp contrast to the Reagan belief that the federal role in the budget is the problem.

News Analysis

To anyone who followed Reagan's campaign speeches, the tilt toward defense spending is not surprising. But boosting defense and reducing the government's social role are political rather than economic plans.

The pure economics in the Reagan program to "move American back toward economic sanity" is the problem.

DePaul grooming itself for NCAA title chase

By The Associated Press

Ray Meyer has a little announcement for the 47 other teams in the NCAA basketball tournament—DePaul is ready to be No. 1.

And if that needs any explanation—look under the words "national championship."

"We're in a better position to say No. 1 this year than last year, " Meyer said in a telephone interview after learning the Blue Demons have regained the No. 1 position Tuesday in The Associated Press final college basketball poll for the 1980-81 season.

Last year, we went into the NCAA tournament ranked No. 1, but we just didn't know how to handle it. The hoopla, the press and all that," said Meyer, who is in his 25th year as coach of the Blue Demons. But Meyer isn't worried about that this year.

"After we got beat last year," Meyer said, "the players came up to me after the game and said it would never happen again.

And Meyer has every reason to believe them.

DePaul is currently riding a 14-game winning streak and is 27-1 this season—the only loss coming to Old Dominion.

"I don't worry about them this year," Meyer added. "They've matured. We're ready to play.

The Blue Demons, who held the top spot for six weeks earlier in the season, collected 55 of 61 first-place votes and 1,124 points out of a possible 1,220 in the balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Oregon State, which had held the No. 1 position the previous two weeks but was upset by Arizona State last Saturday, collected first-place votes and 1,153 points in falling into the No. 2 slot.

Arizona State, ranked fifth last week, jumped two spots and was right behind the Beavers with 1,073 points.

The other first-place vote went to defending national champion Louisville, which is No. 12 this week. The Cardinals share the nation's longest winning streak at 15 with Virginia Commonwealth.

Louisiana State and Virginia both fell a notch after being upset in post-season tournament play and held the No. 4 and 5 positions, respectively.

Rangers got 1,073 points, while the Cavaliers received 929 points.

North Carolina, the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament winner, jumped six spots and took the No. 6 slot with 905 points.

Notre Dame and Kentucky, ranked seventh last week, both lost ground. The Irish fell one spot to No. 7 with 784 points after losing to DePaul, while the Wildcats, upset by Vanderbilt, were eighth at 734.

Big Ten champion Indiana moved five slots to No. 9 with 609 points, while UCLA, No. 13 last week, rounded at the Top 10 with 577.

Wake Forest was No. 11, followed by Louisville, Iowa, Utah, Tennessee, Brigham Young, Wyoming, Maryland, Illinois and Arkansas. Last week's 12th spot was Wake Forest, North Carolina, UCLA, Indiana, Kansas, Illinois, Louisville, Brigham Young, Wyoming and Maryland.

Baseball team packs its bags for spring trip
By Dave Kane
Staff Writer

Florida. A retirement home enlaced by college students every spring, baseball shares the spotlight in the Sunshine State about this time of year. Also, the SIU-C team has made final travel arrangements for its annual spring trip to the University of Miami in Coral Gables, Fla.

The Salukis, who already have been rained out of their only scheduled games prior to the trip, are slated to play 10 games in Coral Gables starting Friday. They'll face Lewis University of Joliet at 1 p.m. Friday, and will take on the host team, Miami of Florida, at 7:10 p.m. Friday.

The Salukis open play on the 15th at 11 a.m. after that, the team will play one game per day through March 22. Other games will be played against Miami of Ohio, Bowling Green, and Miamie.

Jones said the major league exhibition season is meaningless to managers in terms of win-loss percentage, the 10-game exhibition season will serve several functions for Saluki coach Jerry Green. The Athletic director, who led the Salukis in 1981, said Green's visit would be good for the team's atmosphere.

"You don't have to worry about playing as well as possible," Jones said. "Sure we want to win all we can, but we have to know how we're going to be and who can come out of the bullpen when they're being used."

Defensive in the outfield will be one of Jones' primary concerns. Every outfilder is new, with second baseman turned right fielder P.J. Schranz one of the most interesting possibilities. Freshmen Mike Blumberg is expected to start in left field and junior college transfer Corey Zawadzki in center.

"Since the outfield's all new, it's been the most closely watched in practice," Jones said. "I hope they can get it together. They've practiced some at the stadium, so we know how the ball will bounce on the turf."

Jones said the infielders have had the most work on McAndrew Stadium's AstroTurf floor, but the pleasant temperatures in late February and early March this month have let the team play plenty of practice time at the Martin Field.

In spring training, everyone gets a chance, especially pitchers. Both Jones and Green plan on dividing pitching duties as evenly as possible. No starting rotation has been set, although right-handers Harold Brown, Jerry Halstead and Ken Kumpf along with left-handers Kerry Hardin and Tom Caulfield are listed as probable starters.

"We haven't sat down and said we'll start what game yet," Jones said. "There are so many pitchers, close to each other in terms of ability right now that it's hard to do."

We won't expect a starter to go out and throw 120 pitches his first day," Green added. "It's hard to say what the starting rotation will look like now.

As for the opposition, Miami of Florida has already played 20 games this season and is the No. 1 ranked team in the country. The Hurricanes recently swept a three-game series from Southern California.

"They swept three from USC, and even though USC isn't quite as tough as they usually are, they're not be at the bottom of the list," Jones said. "Miami will end up playing 60 games before the tournaments start."

Lloyd, the league's 10th leading all-time scorer with 1,656 points, and another year remaining, averaged 19.8 per game and was the fourth leading scorer in the MVC with an average of 16.7 per game.

Four Valley schools are going for NCAA and National Invitational Tournament play. Creighton will host Creighton Prep, and the NCAAs will be held at the Midwest Regional Thursday, with the winners playing Southern University in the Midwest Regional Friday.

In the NIT, Drake will face Milwaukee Thursday, while Tulsa has a yet unnamed opponent.

I'LL TAKE THAT--Creighton High School's Tim Coleman,14, reaches over Ray Harris of Pickeringville while teammate Tim Place, 22, locks onto the ball. Coleman scored 14 to help the No. 2 rated team in the country.

Saluki gymnast Brian Babcock will tour selected cities in the United States with the Romanian national team March 1-14.

Babcock will tour three Midwest cities starting March 11 in Cincinnati. The tour will continue March 12 in Indianapolis and conclude March 13 in Detroit. The Romanian team, which includes 1980 Olympic all-around women's champion Nadia Comaneci, started its tour March 8 in New York City.

The junior all-rounder will be touring with some of the sites in American gymnastics, also as former Olympic team member Kurt Thomas is a member of the team. Other gymnasts on the team are former Olympians Bart Conner of Oklahoma and Jim Hartung of Illinois. World Champions Nadia Comaneci, Jim Mikus and Scott Johnson all of Nebraska.

Babcock said while Comaneci and Thomas will be the featured gymnasts, other "up and coming" gymnasts will have a chance to show off their talents. He said he is excited about the exhibition and says there are advantages in competing in the Prep school completed.

"I'm really looking forward to it, especially meeting Nadia if I get the chance," Babcock said. "The main advantage is the exposure I will get. Mentally, just being able to compete with people like Nadia, Kurt Thomas, Bart Conner and Jim Hartung is an advantage."

"I plan on having a good meet," he added. "I don't plan on having a weekend like last weekend. It is neat because I will really get a chance to express myself. If I win, I will show how I look against a Kurt Thomas and the audience will see that."

Coach Bill Meade said he also thought the experience and exposure would be good for Babcock and is confident he will do a good job.

"Anytime an athlete gets a chance to compete with international people in front of a large crowd, he is going to do his best," Meade said.

Babcock, a Kansas native, had a 16-meet all-around unbeaten streak going until Saturday when Jeff Mitchell of Illinois edged him for first place by 1.5 points. He holds the school record in all-around competition of 37.10 which he set earlier this season in a meet against Northern Illinois at the Arena. He is a co-holder of the pommel horse record with a score of 9.75 and is also co-holder of the school record in rings with a 9.65 score. He holds the school record in the high bar with a score of 9.75.

Babcock said also he was excited about the tour because he would be competing with some of the country's top gymnasts. Babcock defeated Nebraska's Phil Caba and Hartung, two U.S. Olympians, in all-around competition earlier this season.
