Democrats dominant on primary ballot

By John Racine
Staff Writer

Democrats on Tuesday's primary ballot outnumber Republicans by at least a 2-1 ratio in state and national races.

Four Democrats are in the race for the U.S. Senate while only two Republicans seek the seat, one of whom is incumbent Sen. Charles Percy.

State Comptroller Roland Burris, state Senate President Philip Rock, Hinsdale attorney Alex Seith and U.S. Rep. Paul Simon are all contending for the Democratic party nod.

On the Republican ballot, U.S. Rep. Tom Corcoran of Ottawa is challenging Percy, a veteran of three terms.

All the candidates say they would approve acid rain legislation as long as it would not hurt Illinois industries or cost coal mining jobs.

Corcoran is the only one to back President Reagan's call for "peace through strength." Even Percy, a moderate, that money should be spent more wisely, especially on defense.

Corcoran urges more careful spending on student aid while the Democrats back increased funding for education. Percy believes the government should center its efforts on revamping the student loan program — which is a $6 billion revolving fund.

Jobs are a priority with all the candidates. All five have often attacked Percy for not bringing tax dollars to Illinois.

Burris believes that tax incentives for small businesses will make jobs more abundant. He also believes that more defense contracts for Illinois would mean 10,000 new jobs.

The Democrats favor a mutual, verifiable freeze on production and testing of nuclear arms. Percy favors the build-down proposal, which would eliminate two older missiles for each new one built. Again, Corcoran backs the president's call for "peace through strength."

Jobs are the big issue in the race for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Rep. Paul Simon's seat.

Both state Sen. Ken Buzbee, of Makanda, and former U.S. Rep. Ken Gray, of West Frankfort, agree that jobs are needed but differ on methods of how to bring them to the region.

Gray, who enjoys the reputation of being the "prince of pork," believes that federal projects would cure Southern Illinois' economic woes. Buzbee thinks that an atmosphere of economic stability has to be established so that small businesses would prosper and create permanent jobs.

Both favor acid rain legislation that will not hurt the state industries or cost coal mining jobs.

Both favor smarter spending of tax dollars, especially for defense, and oppose the MX missile and the B-1 bomber.

Gray backs the build-down and also supports a mutual, verifiable nuclear freeze. Buzbee supports the freeze.

Williamson County State's Attorney Randy Patchett is opposed for the Republican party nomination in the race for Simon's seat.

Since Buzbee is vacating his seat in the General Assembly, four Democrats and one Republican have thrown in their hats in the state Senate race.

State Rep. Ralph Dunn, of Du Quoin, is opposed in the Republican primary, while Murphysboro Mayor Sydney Appleton, Randolph County Coroner Gary McClure, Union County farmer P.L. Parr and former Makanda Mayor Bill Wheelley seek the Democratic party backing.

All agree that Southern Illinois needs more jobs and that proposed acid rain legislation would hurt the industry and cost jobs. They would also like to see more funding for SIU-C, the region's No. 1 employer.

Parr believes that the government should set minimum commodity prices for farm products while McClure and Dunn would aid farmers with research.

Hart rips Mondale on foreign policies

CHICAGO (AP) — Gary Hart, facing a tight election in Tuesday's Illinois primary, said Monday that Walter F. Mondale's record on Vietnam, Lebanon and Central America indicates a willingness to use American military forces overseas where they are not needed.

Barnstorming across the Midwest, Hart said Mondale was too cautious and too late in calling for the withdrawal of troops from Lebanon and opposing the U.S. invasion of Grenada.

More recently, Hart quoted the former vice president as saying American troops should remain in Honduras until negotiations take place with the leftist government in Nicaragua.

"That suggests that in Lebanon and Central America (Mondale) may believe there is a military solution for fundamentally non-military problems," Hart said during a television interview as the campaign day began in Chicago.

Hart echoed the same theme as he sped across the state, stopping in St. Louis, where local television stations reach Southern Illinois, and in Champaign where the Colorado senator addressed students at the University of Illinois.

In Chicago, Mondale was asked about Hart's comments.

"The lesson from Vietnam is not that we should forgo use of force at all times," he said, adding that "power should be used as a last resort, not a first resort."

Student found hanged in Jackson County Jail

By Jeff Wilkinson
Staff Writer

An SIU-C student was found hanged in a cell in the Jackson County jail Sunday after being arrested for disorderly conduct.

Michael J. Strandell, 22, of Route 5, Carbondale, was found dead by Jackson County deputies. Police labeled the hanging an apparent suicide.

An autopsy revealed Strandell, a Wilmette native and a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, died of strangulation. He had apparently torn the cloth bedding in his cell and used it to hang himself.

Police said Strandell, a freshman in architectural technology, was arrested at Jackson County Courthouse after he became abusive while protesting the arrest of fellow TKE member, Steven Mowatt. Mowatt and Strandell were stopped at about 4:20 a.m. Sunday for making an illegal U-turn in DeSoto. Mowatt was then arrested for driving with a revoked license.

Strandell appeared at the courthouse to make an appeal for Mowatt's release, became abusive and was arrested for disorderly conduct, police said.

TKE President Mark Styninger said the two had been at DuMaroc's nightclub, north of DeSoto, and had been drinking prior to the two arrests.

Styninger expressed surprise over the apparent suicide and said that Strandell was active in the fraternity, good-looking and athletic.

Simon says downstate turnout should carry primary for him

By John Racine
Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon said Monday he expects to pick up half the votes cast in Southern Illinois in Tuesday's primary and believes those votes will win him the Democratic nod for the U.S. Senate.

Simon was welcomed at Williamson County Airport by a group of about 50 supporters, including several candidates for state, local and national offices.

Simon, who has served 10 years as congressman from the 22nd District, said at press conference that he expects to draw at least 50 percent of the downstate vote, and 25 percent in Chicago and suburban balloting.

"I am hoping for a big turnout downstate and snow and ice in Chicago," Simon joked.

Simon said he has seen many different polls and each shows him with a different lead over Hinsdale attorney Alex Seith. But Simon was quick to point out that one cannot always trust polls.

"One shows me ahead of Seith by 3 percent while another shows me leading by 15 points," he said. Simon said that it is not just polls that count, "it's also the feeling you get from people."

Simon said it would be unrealistic to believe that state Comptroller Roland Burris, one of his three primary opponents, will not have some effect on the race.

Burris, who is black, is expected to pick up votes in black precincts in Chicago and across the state.

The State Board of Elections has estimated that 2.7 million voters will turn out for the primary. Of that figure, 1.4 million are expected to vote in the Democratic race.

Tax indexing was recently the centerpiece of debate in the senate race but Simon said that issue has given way to argument over deregulation of natural gas prices. He opposes tax-indexing and favors deregulation of natural gas prices.

Simon said it was good to be back home and "to see some friendly faces and even some friendly reporters."

Simon's wife, Jeanne, said, "It's good to go someplace where we don't have to explain where Makanda is."

Simon added, "We even go some places where we have to explain where Carbondale is." For most of the past four weeks Simon has been canvassing northern Illinois, talking to crowds that were unfamiliar with his name and stands. He said he has enjoyed campaigning but said that the work has been hard on him physically.

He said it has been a hard-fought campaign since he announced his candidacy July 18, 1983 in the Student Center.

Simon said he will sleep late Tuesday, and then vote at the Makanda Fire Department at about 9:30 a.m. before departing at noon for Chicago to await election returns.

Simon also took the opportunity to repeat his stands and priorities. He said economic development was important to all of the state but especially to Southern Illinois. That includes increasing exports while decreasing imports, he said.

He also called for a good educational system and common sense in dealing with the arms race.

Simon used the analogy of taking a child to the toy store. You cannot buy everything, he said, adding that the same principle applies to buying weapons.

Court asked to decide on fund

By Anne Flaszka
Staff Writer

The University is asking the Jackson County Circuit Court to decide what to do with the $9,677 remaining in the Mark Hemphill fund.

SIU-C and the SIU Foundation on March 14 filed jointly for a "declaratory judgement" on the case — but the attorney representing Mark Hemphill's father, Obra, said he will fight any effort to have the motion decided by a judge alone.

Hemphill was paralyzed from the neck down in an SIU-C football game on Oct. 6, 1979. He died of an apparently unrelated heart infection on Nov. 26, 1982.

Chris Holthaus, attorney for the Hemphill estate, said late Monday that he had not yet seen documentation of the motion, but added that "I am not going to permit a judge only to decide this case."

Shari Rhode, chief trial attorney for the University, said

Monday that the Foundation would either have to follow the order of the court or appeal further.

"We would probably accept the judgement of the court," she said. "All we're trying to do is determine what our legal position is."

University officials and Stan McAnally, SIU Foundation president, have said that the money which was collected after Hemphill's injury was intended to pay for extensive medical and rehabilitation expenses not covered by the late Hemphill's insurance, and that the fund was never set up to go to Hemphill personally.

In January, McAnally said that the remaining money could be used as a fund to pay medical expenses for athletes who are injured in the future.

Holthaus disagreed with this, and said the fund was set up specifically for Hemphill and that the money was "given by people who felt for Mark."

Holthaus said he has tried to contact the foundation through letters and telephone calls, but that he has received no response.

McAnally said the motion for a declaratory judgement was necessary to resolve the issue. Keeping the money in the fund as it now stands "would not be the right thing to do," he said. Rhode said that the University co-filed with the foundation because "the University gathered the money."

"Both parties have an interest in this," she said. "And all those involved would like to see it resolved soon."

McAnally said the decision to file came in late February, through correspondence and conference calls between members of the foundation's executive committee.

A total of $27,685 was collected for the fund between Aug. 11, 1980 and Dec. 31, 1983, McAnally said in January

Meese confirmation in question

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker said Monday a new probe of White House counselor Edwin Meese "doesn't help" his chances of being confirmed attorney general, while one Democrat said "it would take a miracle" to save Meese's nomination.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said President Reagan still supports Meese, his top policy adviser, and "wishes he will be confirmed" after the probe. He said he thought Reagan was willing to wait months for Meese's confirmation if necessary.

Lebanese factions near pact

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Lebanese Christian and Moslem leaders appeared near agreement early Tuesday on a new power-sharing plan, but one called it "vague" and another meeting was scheduled.

Walid Jumblatt, chief of the Druse militia, announced the emerging compromise just before delegation leaders began meeting late Monday in formal talks.

There had been suggestions the week-long national reconciliation conference would end with an agreement at the meeting.

White House gate-crasher foiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A motorist who attempted to drive onto the White House grounds was arrested Monday night after trying to ram her car into a closed gate, the U.S. Park Police said.

The incident occurred on the day that tougher security measures took effect at the White House, requiring most visitors to pass through metal detectors that check for weapons.

Hart student aid position under fire

By John Racine
Staff Writer

Gary Hart's campaign chief in the 22nd District accused supporters of Walter Mondale Monday of distributing misleading information about the Democratic presidential contender's stands on student financial aid issues.

Lloyd Haims said that distribution of such information the day before the Tuesday primary is not uncharacteristic of Mondale's student campaigns. He accused the group of being desperate.

"They want to cut down Hart. I don't blame them for taking this cheap shot," he said.

Regina Dunbar, coordinator of Students for Mondale, which paid for the 500 copies of a three-point comparison, stood by the information. She said it was obtained from the national campaign headquarters.

"We are stating our issues," she said. "If they had done the same I probably would have felt the same way."

A spokeswoman for the Colorado senator's office in Washington said the stated position was "a total misrepresentation of the vote."

Dunbar denies that the comparison was ambiguous. Both camps reveal similar stories on votes on the issues, but workers for the Hart campaign said the comparison failed to reveal why the 46-year-old presidential contender voted the way he did.

The three issues involved are:

— Student Loans. The comparison said that Hart voted to reduce guaranteed student loans and voted to charge students interest on

Parr calls McClure ad a 'desperation move'

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

State Senate candidate P.L. Parr said Monday that he did vote in the 1982 Democratic primary election, calling claims by his opponent, Gary McClure, that he didn't vote a "desperation move by a dying campaign."

McClure's assertion was made in an advertisement, which ran in Sunday's Southern Illinoisan, paid for by his campaign.

"The ad contains a calculated and totally false statement cleverly designed to damage my credibility at the 11th hour of this campaign," said Parr, who called McClure's actions were "unethical and reprehensible."

McClure, Randolph County coroner, said Monday that "somebody eyeballed" Parr's voting record last fall and discovered that his name didn't appear on the computer print-out listing voters in the 1982 primary. McClure would not say who checked the records.

"We're talking about setting the record straight, but we're not saying a mistake didn't happen either," McClure said. He added that the records he copied are "supposed to be the official precinct records."

Parr said his voter's registration card was lost when he moved to a different precinct. On Monday, Parr disclosed an application to vote, initiated by an election judge at the Stokes precinct in Union County, which certifies that Parr received a Democratic ballot.

Parr said he signed the certificate before he entered the ballot booth. He said he was able to locate a copy of the application on Sunday with the help of Union County Clerk Fred Blaylock.

McClure said, however, that he would pursue the issue after Tuesday's primary to find out whether Parr may have forged the voting application.

Saying that McClure is "obviously not fit to be a senator," Parr said he hopes McClure does pursue it.

"The way these allegations have backfired on him has made integrity a big issue and will help our campaign — especially in Jackson County," said Parr.

Blaylock said that a mistake could have occurred if the voting judge didn't note on the registration card that Parr actually voted. The computers and the signature poll books show Parr did vote, he said. The ad has been changed and now contains a disclaimer. "According to our copy of the official precinct record."

Another newspaper ad paid for by McClure's campaign also contains a mistake. That ad quotes Ann Greeley, president of the Graduate and Professional Student Council, as saying she supported McClure.

The ad, published in the Daily Egyptian on Friday, March 6, ran by a mistake made by the Daily Egyptian.

Greeley said, however, that the ad was drafted before she was contacted by McClure's campaign. She said she had not endorsed the candidate either personally or as GPSC president.

"It was not my quote and it was used without my permission," she said Monday.

Jim Romanowski, a member of McClure's campaign, said he didn't know who wrote the copy.

Mondale favored by Dixon, Hartigan

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

Saying that the "foot soldiers" in the Democratic party support Walter Mondale, U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon and state Attorney General Neil Hartigan agreed on Monday that the former vice president will win handsomely in Tuesday's Illinois primary.

Dixon, D-Belleville, one of the first senators to endorse Mondale, said he would stake his reputation on Mondale, who he claims will provide leadership and a strong voice for the Democratic party.

The stakes are high in the Illinois primary, where 6 million voters are registered. Of 194 delegates to be sent to the Democratic National Convention, 171 will be chosen Tuesday.

"Illinois made a difference with John Kennedy," said Dixon at a press conference at the Southern Illinois Airport. "A good win here will make Walter Mondale a candidate for the Democratic party in November."

Saying "spring training" was over, Hartigan stressed the important difference Mondale has over his leading opponent, Sen. Gary Hart.

"We can either have a person we know very well, who doesn't need briefing papers, who can pick up the difference," said Hartigan. "Or we can have Mondale's leading opponent."

Dixon said Mondale's "classic differences" lie in his efforts to save International Harvester in Moline, Caterpillar in Peoria and the Chrysler plant in Belvidere.

Dixon said Hart talks about "a what's new that's not so new," and that the great presidents of this country had grassroots support and could articulate their stands on issues. He said Mondale can create new jobs and give Illinois a better share of federal dollars.

The senator said Mondale's "sunder" stands on issues, not the image either candidate projects, makes him more electable than Hart.

"The issues will be the important quality," said Dixon, who added that Mondale is not "any less attractive" than Hart.

Dixon said Mondale feels that all 50 states should participate in solving the acid rain problem.

loans while they are still in college.

The Hart supporters are at issue with the latter statement. Carolyn Kamlet, an aide to Hart on education issues, said that in 1980 the senator voted in favor of incurring interest on student loans while the borrower is still in college, although that person would not have to pay until after leaving school.

Hart's office said that the move on the Metzzenbaum

Amendment was made to save $3.1 billion over 5 years.

Work Study Programs. The comparison said that Hart voted to eliminate federal institution subsidies, such as the Federal Work Study program.

The Hart campaign did not provide a response to that issue.

Title I funding. The comparison said that Hart opposed increases for Title I programs in 1976. His office does not deny that.

Get out and vote

THIS YEAR'S primary season in Southern Illinois has been less than dramatic.

None of the candidates for U.S. Senate, the 22nd District Congressional, 117th District State House or 58th District State Senate seats have exactly set pulses racing or produced visionary images of a new order, like a Roosevelt or Kennedy.

But no one said democracy always had to be fun. And while none of the candidates are likely to send voters scurrying breathlessly to the polls, choosing nominees for these posts is an important task.

Controversial issues such as higher education funding, acid rain, federal budget deficits and nuclear disarmament are vital enough to make up for an apparent lack of charisma among the candidates themselves.

SOME OF THE men chosen in Illinois' primary Tuesday will be picked next November to wrestle with these and other problems. This election is the first step in selecting candidates who are most fit to meet these issues.

This year, a concerted effort was made on campus to register members of the University community to vote. The participants in the voter registration drive did their job. Now it's time for you to do yours.

Listed below are our picks for the various offices being contested in the election Tuesday. You may not agree with our choices, but get out and vote anyway. It's free, quick and painless.

Spend-thrift Simon is out of touch with times

Congressman Paul Simon is popular in Southern Illinois. However, many of his constituents question his sense of priorities. Two of the many areas of major concern that I question: his lack of concern for unborn babies and his open wallet for education.

Paul Simon is opposed to the Human Life Amendment and he opposed legislation that would have legally defined human life as beginning with conception. It is a real tragedy that he supports the massacre of millions of unborn babies.

To add to this tragedy, Simon wants Medicaid to pay for the abortions. This increases the budget and deficits and provides an open invitation for women and girls to have free abortions every time they have an unplanned pregnancy. This certainly doesn't teach responsibility for birth control or family planning.

Furthermore, in 1982 an amendment was proposed to bar the National Institutes of Health and National Research Institutes from conducting or supporting "research or experimentation in the United States or abroad on a living human fetus or infant, whether before or after induced abortion, unless such research or experimentation is done for the purpose of insuring the survival of that fetus or infant." Paul Simon voted against this amendment. Need I say more on this topic and Paul Simon's lack of concern?

The other topic of focus is the pro-education views of Simon. His pro-education legislation would not be so bad if it was working, but it's not. Many students are supportive of Simon because he is sympathetic to their needs.

Simon consistently wants to increase the amount of federal funds for student grants and loans. The idea in theory is okay, but this program often falls prey to abuses of the funds. First-hand observations have shown that students all too often abuse this money and use it on alcohol, vacations, stereos and the like.

Other students will take advantage of the loans and grants, only to drop out of school or get by just enough academically wise to graduate. Minimum academic standards should be set to help stop this abuse.

Another crime with student loans is that many students never pay the money back. All of these acts discredit the student loan program which leads to increased cutbacks and hurts those who truly need the money and strive their best to excel.

Furthermore, with all the money Simon likes to spend on education, student scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Tests continue to decline.

Each year the report card for the public school systems and the professional development of teachers grows worse. More and more money is being spent on education and the results are unsatisfactory.

Paul Simon is a spendthrift. He is a typical liberal Democrat when it comes to spending. The budget deficits are at a critical stage where we must take action to reduce the deficits. The first and foremost way is to stop spending.

It is clear that Paul Simon's old-fashioned liberalism is out-of-date and America simply cannot afford Paul Simon and others like him. —Cathy Dystin, Senior, Public Relations

Hart's independent leadership is best

We are supporting the candidacy of U.S. Sen. Gary Hart for president. We believe Hart is the candidate with the best chance of defeating President Reagan and all the candidates, Democrats and Republicans, is the best-equipped to govern.

Democratic Party leaders endorsed Walter Mondale because they thought he was the candidate most likely to beat Reagan. However, recent polls show Hart doing much better than Mondale against Reagan. Keep in mind that until a few weeks ago, many voters hadn't heard of Hart. Did the "experts" think Mondale would win because he has more campaign money than Hart? Hart managed to win several early contests while being outspent more than ten to one.

A Mondale spokesman in Springfield said that Hart's victory in New Hampshire came from independents rather than Democrats. There is nothing wrong with that! Independents, Republicans and those who didn't vote in 1980 will decide this election.

By recognizing that the American people do not classify themselves as liberal or conservative, Hart has established an appeal beyond the traditional Democratic Party. He is well-equipped to govern because he is not indebted to special interests. He accepts no political action committee money.

Hart's solutions for the economy, the military, energy and disarmament are better than those of any other candidate.

His new ideas include providing funds to retrain workers for new jobs and support for an energy plan which shifts dependency from imported oil toward renewable fuels and domestic fuels, such as coal.

For many of us, Gary Hart showed he is not just a politician but a leader when he took two weeks off the campaign to filibuster against the MX missile. All the Democratic presidential candidates oppose the MX. Gary Hart took action. We encourage your support. —Michael Butta, Sophomore, Independent Study

Mondale the man with real substance

Be not deceived, fellow students, for it is Walter Mondale who owns the best record on issues of concern to students.

And I ought to know: I served as Lincoln Fellow to the House Post-Secondary Education Subcommittee in the summer of 1982, when Reagan's "New Federalism" attempted to cut over $3 billion in federal assistance to students.

Mondale's record on education is the best by far of the Democratic candidates. Mondale advocates a $4.5 billion Fund for Excellence in Education; this federal money would be spent by local communities in ways the local people see fit.

Walter Mondale understands the need for good teachers, and is willing to invest over $1 billion for a new Education Corps. He alone has proposed a progressive program to bolster American science, research and scholarship by investing an additional $1 billion per year for graduate education.

Walter Mondale calls for increasing the Pell Grant allocations to cover every student who needs one. Overall, Mondale's education strategy represents an $11 billion federal investment in education, much more than any of his opponents.

Let's be realistic: Walter Mondale owns the best record on education, civil rights and peace-building (as opposed to bomb-building) of any of the candidates in the race.

Mondale authored the Open Housing Act of 1968; Mondale wrote the Title I Amendment, which provided federal dollars for Head Start and other programs to aid the disadvantaged. Walter Mondale voted for the Civil Rights and Voting Rights Acts of the 1960s; no one equals Mondale's record in these areas.

Finally, Walter Mondale understands the critical importance of building bridges of understanding for world peace. Again, judge him by his record; Mondale voted against the Vietnam War and for arms control agreements while in the Senate. Mondale supports foreign language instruction and ratifying SALT II. He has been a long supporter of the bilateral, verifiable nuclear freeze.

The issue for students across America to consider is this: Will we vote for a man of proven substance who knows how to govern, or will we throw away our votes again on this year's media creation. I believe that students are bright enough to know the difference. —Stephen Katsinas, Doctoral Student, Higher Education

Mondale has merit, not just image

Our country has many problems that need to be solved. They cannot be solved by claiming new or old ideas, but rather, by making one's ideas work. That is why I support Walter Mondale for president.

I know where Mondale stands on the issues. His campaign focuses on the working man and woman and not on images. He has the experience and qualifications to know what needs to be changed and the strength to make it happen.

Mondale served four years as attorney general in Minnesota, 12 years as a U.S. senator, and four years as vice president. This total of 20 years of elected government service is more than any other active presidential candidate.

Mondale has been unjustly criticized for his support of special interest groups. The groups that endorsed him represent workers — in fact, several million workers. I don't understand why the other Democratic candidates are harshly criticizing these interest groups. The candidates are attacking groups that they will need if nominated. These groups have traditionally been loyal to the Democratic Party; to attack them will only hurt the party in November.

Also, the other candidates have openly solicited their endorsements. I cannot imagine Hart or Jackson refusing the endorsement and influence of the AFL-CIO, the United Mine Workers, the National Organization of Women or the national education groups if they were offered to them as they were to Mondale. Their undue criticism seems to be sour grapes.

Ideas, images, interest groups, etc. are not the issues in this campaign. Experience and who can be the best president are the issues. Mondale carries with him the values and policies of the traditional Democrat.

The Democratic Party has always believed in helping people help themselves and in giving everyone an equal chance in our society. Mondale can continue these values in the tradition of great men like Roosevelt, Kennedy and Humphrey. The basic values of those men are never outdated and should be the goal of every American. Your support and vote for Walter Mondale will keep the spirit of these men alive. —Patrick C. Brumley, Graduate Student, Public Affairs.

Merchants, city try to tone up economic muscle of the Strip

By Terry Leveck
Staff Writer

City officials and merchants in Carbondale have been trying to improve the economic and environmental condition of "the Strip" since the 1960s. Many ideas have been debated. Closing off traffic on Illinois Avenue and creating an office and shopping park, erecting a new City Hall building, a new train depot and a hotel-convention center and parking garage complex. But few have become reality.

The new train depot and the Federal Building are the extent of the success of downtown renewal plans. The convention center and parking garage project became a bureaucratic nightmare for the city and the merchants located at the site because of the uncertainty of federal legislation on bonds needed to fund the project, law suits against the city's land acquisition methods and investor Stan Hoye's loss of interest in the project.

Both the mayor and City Manager Bill Dixon indicated that definite plans should materialize within six months.

UNTIL PLANS are finalized, the two city blocks between Elm and Marroe streets and Illinois and University avenues will stand practically dormant. Phoenix Cycles, which has not yet found a relocation site, and McNeill's Jewelers are the only businesses that remain there. Several business owners who did move in anticipation of the go-ahead of the convention center are still waiting for the city to buy their land.

But the convention center site is only one part of South Illinois Avenue that is scrambling for economic success. Since 1982, clothing and jewelry stores such as Blum's, Olfactory, David's and Fashion Square, have gone out of business and been replaced by a TV repair shop, a video arcade and a doughnut shop.

Just recently, Zwick's shoes and Kay's Campus have closed their doors permanently because of lack of business.

JOHN MILLS, chairman of the Liquor Advisory Board, requested in February that the board conduct a special meeting to consider changing the ordinance restricting the issuance of liquor licenses. The discussion was delayed until later in March. But neither the mayor and city manager nor city merchants think issuing more liquor licenses is an answer to the problem.

Westberg said she would like to see a mix of offices and small retail stores, some student-oriented and some to attract the community at large.

Westberg said the key to stimulating investors on Illinois Avenue is the success of the conference center.

"People have to have a reason to come downtown," she said.

Although the fate of the buildings that formerly housed Kay's Campus and Zwick's is in limbo, another building standing vacant should start to take shape soon too.

FRANK BLEYER moved the Trophy Shop, formerly on 600 S. Illinois Ave., into Bleyer's Sport Mart, 133 S. Illinois Ave. Bleyer said the old building is being renovated in preparation to open another retail store. He didn't specify the type of store because plans are not yet final.

John Karagiannis, manager of Jim's Pub, which hasn't been open for business since a small fire occurred on Halloween weekend, said the business will be moved to a building he owns at 717 S. University Ave.

Campus Cycle manager Somchai Thipkositkun will manage Jim's Pub at its new location under Campus Cycle. Thipkositkun bought the kitchen equipment from Karagiannis, and Karagiannis gave him the liquor license to operate the business.

A name has not yet been decided, but plans for an addition that will provide access from Mill Street to the new establishment have been completed, and construction will begin in mid-April. The 2,300-square-foot restaurant and bar, which is now vacant space, should be ready for business in July.

THIPKOSITHKUN said he is directing the business to "the people who have no place to go" on the Strip — the graduate students and professors. He said he wants to draw a lunch crowd by offering unique foods with an international scope, and stay open late on the weekends by serving food and coffee after serving liquor is prohibited.

Das Fass tavern has been closed since 1978, when proprietor Herb Vogel sold the establishment to a Champaign-based company that later went bankrupt. When Vogel regained possession of the building in late 1980, the Carbondale Liquor Control Commission denied him a liquor license, based on the ordinance passed earlier that year banning issuance of further licenses on the Strip.

James Cleland, owner of Southern Illinois Gem Company, bought the building when he thought the city was going to purchase his building for the convention center. The city postponed land acquisition plans when the conference center was put on hold, but Cleland said he's planning to move into the Das Fass building sometime in June.

CLELAND SAID tentative plans for the building would divide the structure into four stores, which would be accessible through a foyer entrance.

He wouldn't speculate on what might move into the other three stores, but said he hopes to get other art- or craft-oriented stores.

James Winfree, owner of Gastby's and The Great Escape, plans to expand Gastby's into the space formerly occupied by a T-shirt shop. Gusto's, which moved to 103 W. College St.

Winfree, who bought The Great Escape after it closed its doors for lack of business, will keep that establishment open until the building he recently acquired at 603 S. Illinois, formerly occupied by John Dough's, is ready for business as a liquor store.

Winfree said everything is still in the planning stage and was not ready to release dates of completion for the expansion or the liquor store.

John Zakhar, who managed John Dough's, said he was trying to relocate in Carbondale before spring break, but now has a sign posted that he's moved to Carterville. A doughnut shop employee said he was going to open near the marina on Crab Orchard Lake off Rt. 13 east of Carbondale.

Tuck plant workers end strike

By Phil Milano
Staff Writer

Relations between employees of Tuck Industries in Carbondale and company officials were "getting back to normal" Monday, one week after workers ended an eight-day strike and returned to their jobs, according to plant manager Matt Maier.

Members of Laborers International Union Local 994, AFL-CIO, voted 276-105 on March 10 to end the strike, according to Maier.

The nearly 500 Tuck employees had voted 3-1 on March 2 to strike after talks concerning a three-year wage contract failed to produce an agreement.

"I wish it hadn't happened this way, and I'm glad it's over," Maier said. "It's always bad when a company has a strike. Of course, in any kind of strike there are going to be some hard feelings (between workers and management) for a while."

According to Maier, the amount of money offered in the new three-year contract was not different from the initial contract offered. The new contract calls for a 45-cent-per-hour raise the first year, a 30-cent-per-hour raise the second year and an additional 25 cents the third year.

The new contract calls for workers to receive a 30-minute unpaid lunch, whereas the old contract called for the company to pay for a 15-minute lunch. The new agreement also eliminates mandatory Saturday work, which the company had previously sought during the company's busy months of September, October and November. Workers will, however, be required to work every other Saturday, Maier said.

Tuck employees will not receive compensation for the time they were on strike, Maier said. He said the new contract became effective on March 12 and was not retroactive.

Maier would not comment on the amount of money the company had lost as a result of the strike. He said the company had suffered damages resulting from about 18 fires on company trucks being slashed.

Local 994 President Ron Mitchell could not be reached for comment Monday.

Oliveira indicted on murder charge

The man charged with murder in the stabbing death of SIU-C Professor Sion Raveed was indicted by a Jackson County grand jury March 9, exactly two years after Raveed's body was found on the floor of his Carbondale apartment.

Michael Oliveira, 24, a Geneseo native, pleaded not guilty to the two-count indictment in Jackson County circuit court last Thursday and his trial was scheduled for 10 a.m., June 4. Oliveira's bond was set at $500,000 and he is being held in Jackson County jail.

One of Oliveira's teachers described him as being "an exceptionally busy" student who frequently missed classes.

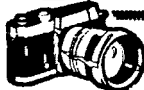

"We didn't see a great deal of Michael," he said, "but he was not withdrawn or lacking in purpose."

Clergy, educators debate school prayer

By Dean Jones
Staff Writer

Now the subject of debate in the Senate, the proposed constitutional amendment that would return government sponsored prayer to the public schools is also the topic of considerable discussion off Capitol Hill.

With the Reagan administration strongly in favor of its passage, and the National Council of Churches solidly opposed, the proposed amendment, according to Republican leaders, has its best chance of passage since the mid-'70s.

It is, at the least, a controversy marked by strongly held opinions on both sides.

"The House and Senate both open their meetings with prayer. How much more should children follow their example?" asked Pastor Joe Cohen of the Maranatha Christian Church, a non-denominational church.

"My sentiment is that our nation was founded on certain principles," he said. "To deny a child the right to pray is an encroachment of the state upon the rights of individual people to express themselves in free worship.

"They should have the right to have the opportunity to pray," Cohen said.

Theodore Gill, director of University Christian Ministries, believes that while "the traditional sense of American liberty entitles everyone to their own opinion," that doesn't give them the right "to shove that opinion down someone's throat.

"I think that's what prayer in school does," he said. "I oppose prayer in the school, whether you call it voluntary or not."

Gill said that although it is true that meetings in Congress are opened with prayer, no one is required to be there. Children are legally required to go to school, he said, and peer pressure acts to limit their choices.

"Even when they call it voluntary, psychologically it's not much of a choice," Gill said.

"My understanding of democracy is that it's not only rule by the majority, but protection of the rights of the minority.

Don Strickland, Jackson County school superintendent, believes there isn't any need for the amendment because "prayer has never been taken out of school. Every child has the right to pray, that right has never been taken away.

"I'm not opposed to prayer in school," he said. "To me the real issue is the introduction of prescribed prayer into public schools. I don't favor the introduction of prescribed prayer.

"We would be better off to retain the right that already exists for each child to pray according to his conscience," Strickland said.

The Rev. Wyatt George, of the Evangelical Presbyterian Church of Carbondale, said of the amendment, "I think there is more symbolism in the gesture than anything else," but that he would favor it "with a modest amount of enthusiasm."

"The issue is ultimately liberty and religious freedom," he said. "To argue that there should be no prayer in school on the basis of the separation of church and state is ridiculous."

George said that in the two decades since the Supreme Court banned prayer in the classroom, the culture has changed so dramatically that "it will be extremely difficult to return prayer and have it be understood."

Burriss says cuts won't hurt defense

By John Racine
Staff Writer

State Comptroller Roland Burriss, a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, said that $33 billion in proposed defense spending could be trimmed from the 1985 budget and the United States would still maintain a strong national defense.

Burriss, Illinois' chief bookkeeper since 1979, said that weapons like the MX missile, the B-1 bomber and F-18 fighter planes could be eliminated and the country's defense system would not be impaired.

Burriss, surrounded by local supporters and a few of his former classmates, met with news media at the Southern Illinois Airport last week during a "fly-around" the state.

A native of Centralia, Burriss said the 1985 budget calls for $313 billion in defense spending, up from $265 billion the previous year.

Burriss said that if elected he would work in the opposite direction from what the president has been for the past three years. He said he would support upgrading education and reinstating funding for some of the programs that have been cut back.

He also predicted that there would be a change in the presidency in 1984 and said he wanted to be a part of the new generation of legislators who would be elected.

He also called for the creation of a new position — chief fiscal officer — which would be similar to the job of a comptroller. Creating such a position, he said, would save $25 billion to $50 billion a year.

Burriss said that the government now has an auditor general who reviews expenditures after they are paid, whereas the chief fiscal officer would review items before they were paid.

That position would hold a term in the area of ten years, he said, and might be appointed by the president or the Congress. Such an appointment would give that person independence from governmental agencies, he said.

While blasting the Reagan administration for increasing defense spending, Burriss said an additional 10,000 jobs could be created in Illinois through defense contracting.

Illinois produces 40 percent of the nation's nuts and bolts, he said, and if the federal government stopped buying 80 percent of the nuts and bolts used in the country from foreign countries, 25,000 jobs could be created.

When asked if the Hart campaign would affect his race against his three primary opponents on Tuesday, Burriss responded: "My race, I think, will have an impact on Hart. I'm gonna bring out the people, and he had better hope that they'll be supporting him."

Lloyd Haims, Hart's 22nd District campaign coordinator, said that Burriss will have an effect on his candidate's showing in the Illinois primary.

Paul Simon FOR SENATE

March 20, 1984

Dear Friends:

For the past 10 years it has been my privilege to represent you, the people of Southern Illinois, in the Congress.

It has particularly been a pleasure to stand with my many faculty, staff and student friends at Southern Illinois University in the fight to extend access to educational opportunity to everyone who wants it.

Jackson County has been the home of my family as well as the place of residence for you, my many friends, who have given me the consistently strongest support of any voting area in Southern Illinois. It has been a great honor and high privilege to serve you.

Today I need your help.

Today I need your vote to bring to the Senate a voice for full and fair funding for higher education, so that poorer people are not denied a college education.

Today I need your vote and the vote of your friends to bring to the Senate a spokesman for building bridges of understanding and peace, including foreign language instruction and support for the bilateral nuclear freeze.

And today I need your help to bring an advocate to the Senate who will speak on your behalf to turn the hands of 600,000 unemployed fellow Illinoisans from uselessness to usefulness, so that they too can contribute gainfully towards building a better America.

Again, it has been a privilege to serve you in the House of Representatives. And with your support today we can do even more for the SIU community and the people of Southern Illinois.

Sincerely,

Paul Simon
U.S. Congressman

Authorized and paid for by Simon for Senate, Patrick J. Head, Treasurer.  571

We Endorse

PAUL SIMON

Dear Friends:

We strongly endorse Paul Simon for today's Democratic Senate race because we feel Paul represents the kind of voice we need in the United States Senate: thoughtful, intelligent, and compassionate.

Paul Simon understands the critical role education plays in providing equal opportunity and promoting global understanding. As chair of the important Sub-Committee on Higher Education, Paul led the fight against the Reagan Administration's attempt to end the Guaranteed Student Loan, College-Work-Study, and Pell Grant Programs. These programs together benefit thousands of SIU-C students.

Paul Simon knows that we can't build a better society with a lesser educated people, and he has been the outstanding leader in Congress in the fight for access to educational opportunities.

Paul has worked to promote global understanding through foreign language instruction and exchanges. His Foreign Language Study bill, which passed the House, allocates $50 million for this important national need. We cannot build a more peaceful world if we can't understand those with whom we would negotiate.

Paul Simon also chaired the Task Force on Merit Pay, is a co-sponsor of the bilateral, verifiable Nuclear Freeze, and has been a strong supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Paul's concern for minorities goes beyond election year plugs: in 1970 he went to Cairo to get members of the black and white communities to talk to each other. Last year, he chaired Congressional hearings on Hispanics in Higher Education in Los Angeles, Puerto Rico, and Chicago.

In short, Paul Simon's record of support for education is the finest in the House and would make an important and immediate difference in the Senate.

Too often the choice has been between "media creations," candidates whose records we know little about, and the lesser of two evils. Paul Simon has a 30-year commitment of support to education. Throughout his career he has made the hard choices when the hard choices must be made; he has stood with education.

We urge SIU-C students, staff, and faculty to seize this historic opportunity to send to the Senate a man who stands simply for integrity and honesty, a man who will make a difference for all of us: Paul Simon.

Gray, Buzbee disagree on jobs

By John Racine
Staff Writer

HARRISBURG — Former U.S. Rep. Ken Gray said he was proud to be called the "Prince of Pork" and that he wanted to bring more public works money to Southern Illinois.

State Sen. Ken Buzbee said he would seek viable federal projects for the area but that lasting economic development and jobs must begin with private enterprise.

The two opponents in the Democratic primary for the 22nd District U.S. House seat faced each other in a 90-minute debate, sponsored by the League of Women Voters, last week at Southeastern Illinois.

About half the 150 seats in the auditorium were occupied, and many in the crowd wore red, white and blue "Return Ken Gray to Congress" buttons. Gray resigned the seat in 1974 because of poor health and moved to Florida.

The issues discussed were the same as they have been throughout the campaign—jobs, economic development, federal projects, cuts in defense spending and experience.

Gray assured the crowd that he would return to the Public Works Committee if sent back to Congress. Gray cited the Marion Federal Penitentiary, highways, lakes and other "pork barrels" which he said he helped obtain and that have permanently and positively changed the face of the region.

"They were not welfare projects, they were people projects," he said of the projects he takes credit for bringing to the area during a 20-year tenure in Congress.

Gray chided Buzbee, a 12-year veteran of the state Senate, for having what he termed a negative attitude about bringing federal funds back to Southern Illinois.

"Any mule can kick a barn down. It takes a carpenter to build one," Gray said.

Buzbee, of Makanda, said that he was going to go after federal projects but that sound economic development starts with private enterprise. Jobs will stay in the region, he said, only if they are based on private enterprise, not government construction projects in which jobs disappear when the work ends.

Buzbee said Southern Illinois would be better served, for example, by a crash research program to remove sulfur from coal before it is burned, instead of using scrubbers, as Gray has proposed. Buzbee said scrubbers are an expensive and short-term solution whose costs are added to consumers' utility bills.

"If we come up with a way to remove the sulfur from Illinois coal before it is burned," he said, "the world will beat a path to our door."

Buzbee vowed to work for a secure and viable Social Security system and Medicare program. Gray said the deductible for Medicare should be cut and that the burden of paying for such programs should be taken off the backs of the poor.

Buzbee said the burden of funding education should be the state's, but added that the federal government should help with special education programs. Computers need to be introduced at every level, he said.

Gray said that education was a "fine vehicle" but accused Buzbee, who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations II Committee, of not providing the gas.

Gray said he favors food over bullets in foreign policy and aid. He said the United States is neglecting its resources and is not being a good neighbor by meddling in other countries' business.

Buzbee said that the nation needs a strong foreign policy, not "gun boat diplomacy" like the Reagan administration has had.

Central America Week set

By Chris Ogbondah
Staff Writer

U.S. policy in Central America will be examined during National Central America Week, which begins Wednesday on the campus. A spokesperson for the Central American Week Organizing Committee, John Michaels, said purpose of the week is to educate people in Southern Illinois about the impact of U.S. policy and actions in Central America.

Activities of the week, in commemoration of the murder of Archbishop Romero, will begin with a workshop on Central America scheduled at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Newman Center.

"There is a general lack of knowledge of what is going on in the area. Many of us feel that what is coming out in news is a distortion and misinformation," Michaels said. "There is a lot going on there and it is interesting to look at the history of the region."

Michaels said the U.S. is pursuing a policy of military solutions to the political and economic problems in Central America.

"Generally, we think that there are other possibilities for solution other than military," he said.

Michaels said that most of the aid to Central America goes into military training and hardware. Money from the U.S., he said, should be used in building schools and hospitals, educating people and organizing small-scale businesses.

He said a Marxist or socialist country is not necessarily aligned with the Soviet Union.

"If these countries go to the Soviet Union for economic aid," he said, "it is because they asked the U.S. and were denied. These countries have to look for trade and support elsewhere if we are cutting them off."

A videotape on Central America will be shown at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Thebes Room. The themes are "America in Transition," "Nicaragua: Up From the Ashes" and "Seeds of Liberty: Maryknoll Missionaries in El Salvador."

Other activities for the week include lectures by two SIU-C professors — Robert Gold of the History Department and William Garner of the Political Science Department. Gold will speak on "Background Information on Central America" at the Wesley Foundation at 6:30 p.m. Friday. Garner will speak on "U.S. National Interest in Central America" at the Thebes Room at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Men netters come back empty-handed from trip

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

The SIU-C men's tennis team went to Florida for spring break with an 0-7 record. The Salukis returned with tans, but their record has paled even more than before after absorbing six losses.

The Salukis' 0-13 start is their worst-ever record. In SIU-C Coach Dick LeFevre's 27 years at the helm of the Salukis, his worst record was 11-17 in 1978. His best year was 17-1 in 1970. Overall, he is 332-221.

"If we had the team I thought we were going to have when I made the schedule," LeFevre said, "I think we'd be maybe 5-9 right now."

The Saluki schedule has not been what one would call easy. They have faced teams such as Illinois (twice), Indiana, Florida, South Florida and Georgia. The others, Vanderbilt, Nebraska and Furman are only semi-tough. When LeFevre made the schedule, he had Rollie Oliquino playing No. 2 singles, and Oliquino and Per Wadmark playing No. 1 doubles. Oliquino's torn cruciate ligament in his right knee has sidelined him for a year. Without Oliquino, the Salukis are 3-10 at No. 2 singles and also 3-10 at No. 1 doubles.

Scott Krueger has been idle at No. 5 singles and No. 3 doubles. He was in LeFevre's plans for the season. At No. 5, the Salukis are 1-12 this year. At No. 3 doubles, they are 3-10.

At No. 6 singles, the Salukis are 0-13.

"When we lose to five and six singles and three doubles every match," LeFevre said, "that's three points of nine down the drain for us. I'm not mocking the players at five and six and three doubles because they're doing the best job they can. But they are young, probably the youngest in the nation. With experience, they will get better.

"I think it's good that they are playing such high-caliber teams such as Georgia. They will gain good experience from this that will improve their tennis game in the future. It's unfortunate what has happened to our team has happened, but all we can do is continue to play. With this experience we've gained this season, we'll have a good shot at second in the Missouri Valley next month."

In Florida, the Salukis were beaten by Florida (9-0), South Florida (4-3), Mississippi State (7-2), Mississippi (6-3), Furman (5-4) and Georgia (6-1).

After losing 13 straight, LeFevre is still encouraged with some individual play. For one, he liked Wadmark and Nilsson's play at No. 1 doubles. The pair won three of six matches in Florida after losing their first seven to begin the season.

Wadmark, 2-11, won two of six matches at No. 1 singles. Nilsson won his first match of the year at No. 3 singles. He is 1-6 at No. 3 and 0-6 at No. 2.

Gabriel Coch is still the winningest Saluki, carrying a 6-7 record, 3-3 at No. 3 and 3-4 at No. 2. Chris Visconti, 3-10, won two of six matches at No. 4 singles. At No. 2 doubles, Coch and Visconti are 4-9.

At No. 5 singles, Paul Rasch, 1-10, was 0-6 on the trip, while Steve Quanon and Roeland deKort are 0-9 and 0-7 at No. 6 singles, respectively.

At No. 3 doubles, Rasch and Quanon are 1-4, Rasch and deKort are 2-4 and Quanon and deKort are 0-2.

were mental. We still need a take-charge person out there, though."

SIU-C's PITCHING staff yielded 5.78 earned runs per game, but Jones was delighted that "almost every pitcher had some good innings."

Freshman Lee Meyer, who faced Lewis and Fordham, posted a 2-0 record and a 1.62 ERA while striking out 12 — the highest on the team.

Paul Saikia pitched in two games and posted a win over Georgetown. In 12 innings, Saikia fanned 12 and allowed four earned runs.

Mark Wooden, who Jones would like to use in short relief, was impressive. He was 0-1 with a 3.12 ERA in five games. Against Miami last Saturday, Wooden was forced to start since Jones was running out of rested pitchers. He pitched hitless ball until the fifth inning.

Wooden gave way to Jay Bellissimo, who had pitched well in a losing cause against Miami just three days earlier. But Bellissimo was not as effective this time. He walked four of the first six batters he faced and gave up six runs in one inning.

Jones saw enough good signs to warrant optimism for the rest of the season.

"We're going to be a good ballclub if we get leadership and get aggressive," Jones said.

McCausland finishes 18th; Salukis open outdoor season

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's track team opened the outdoor season on a successful note last week, after Rhonda McCausland placed 18th of 20 in the shot put at the NCAA indoor national meet March 9-10 at Syracuse, N.Y.

McCausland was just the second Saluki to compete at the second NCAA indoor national meet. Her best throw, McCausland's second of three tosses in the preliminary round, was for 47 feet, 2 inches. She needed to finish in the top eight to qualify for the finals.

"I wasn't happy with what I did," said McCausland, whose best throw this year was 49-9.25. "I felt like I should have done better but there is nothing I can do about it now. I was having some problems with my technique that day."

The Salukis turned in solid performances in a five-team meet at Florida A&M March 14 and a dual meet against Troy State March 17. No team scores were kept but the Salukis dominated the meets according to Coach Don DeNoon.

"It was nice to have warm weather to compete in and it got the adrenalin flowing," DeNoon said. "It is almost like two different meets comparing the indoor and outdoor seasons."

At Florida A&M, SIU-C tied the host school with four first-place finishes.

McCausland broke her school outdoor record of 42-8.5 with a throw of 43-7. She also won the discus with a 144-5 throw.

Blackman set an SIU-C record in the 400-meter dash with a 54.52 time. It was the first time Blackman had run the 400 for the Salukis.

Davis, the lone senior on the team, won the 800-meter run with a 2:14.07 time.

Second-place finishes were turned in by Karen Cooper in the 400-meter hurdles (63.04) and Sally Zack in the 1,500-meter run (4:49.96).

Against Troy State, SIU-C was led by two first-place finishes each from Blackman, Zack, and McCausland as the Salukis won 13 out of 16 events.

Blackman broke her SIU-C record in the 100-meter dash with an 11.92 time, and also won the 200-meter dash in 24.18. She anchored the Salukis 4x100-meter and 4x400-meter relay teams, which also finished first.

Zack won the 3,000-meter run in 10:44.62 time and the 5,000 meters in 18:09.6.

McCausland shattered her school record in the shot put for the second consecutive time with a 46-11 throw and won the discus with a 146-11 toss.

Other winners for the Salukis were Karen Cooper in the 400-meter hurdles, Debra Davis in the 400-meter dash, Tammy Talbert in the 800-meter run, Kathryn Doelling in the 1500-meter run, and Jennifer Bartley in the long jump.

GYMNASTICS from Page 20

Classic, Steele scored 36.35, her first-ever 36-point mark. A week later, Steele scored 36.30 to win all-around honors in SIU-C's tri-meet victory over Illinois State and Indiana.

Although SIU-C won the Saluki Quad on March 4 to raise its record to 5-11, Steele failed to hit the 36-point barrier.

Then she got hot, and so did the Salukis.

At the Gateway Invitational on March 10, Steele scored 36.30 to finish second in all-around competition as SIU-C won the meet. Wednesday against Iowa State, Steele scored a 36.35 to win all-around honors as SIU-C won 175.25 to 173.90.

And Friday against Missouri, Steele hit the 35-point barrier again with a 36.50, but she had to settle for second in the all-around race, behind teammate Michelle Spillman (37.25). SIU-C downed Missouri 182.50 to 178.20, avenging a season-opening embarrassing fourth-place finish at Missouri.

The Salukis' 182.50 raised the squad's season average to 180.5875, placing SIU-C third in the Central Region final standings. Only the top six teams in the Central Region qualify for the regionals, which will be held at Missouri Saturday.

Ranked ahead of SIU-C in the Central Region are Indiana State (181.30) and Alabama (181.20). Missouri finished No. 4 (178.075), while Illinois (177.737) and Illinois State (177.725) also qualified for the regional meet.

Spillman, in a bit of a slump after failing to crack what was almost an easy 36-point mark twice in a row, raised her season average to 37.5357 after the Missouri meet. Steele is carrying a 36.375 average.

SWIMMING from Page 20

Larsen and Ratcliffe finished eighth in a school-record time of 3:25.8.

The 200 free relay team of Royalty, Ratcliffe, Sue Wittry and Larsen finished eighth with a time of 1:34.55.

Other Saluki competed in individual events, but did not place in scoring position. Only the top-12 places scored points. Westfall finished 13th in the 200 fly and 14th in the 1,650 free, Carlton 14th in the 500 free and 20th in the 1,650 free, Airaksinen 14th in the 100 fly and 24th in the 200 free, Royalty 23rd in the 100 fly and 27th in the 50 free, and Linda Bell 27th in the 200 IM.

Hill said that he was satisfied with the seventh place finish, but with a little more preparation his team could have been fifth or sixth.

"I feel as a coach I might have prepared my team a little more," Hill said. "I think I might have spent too much time recruiting and not enough coaching.

"I decided before the NCAA's to spend more time coaching and less time recruiting next season, but you'll see us right back in the top-10 next year."

running out of gas by the fourth game.

"She was not as strong in terms of velocity but she pitched intelligently," Brechtelsbauer said. "She mixes her pitches well, she knows how to read batters. She nibbles at the corners and she used her drop ball well. We had a lot of ground balls.

"Eileen is much the same pitcher but she doesn't have the experience Sunny has. Neither pitcher has a great deal of velocity."

Except for Lindsey, who had eight of the team's 22 hits during the week, the SIU-C bats were silent. The Salukis were swinging aggressively though, especially Lindsey, who had several first-pitch hits.

Men's winning streak snapped

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

There was some good news and some bad news for the SIUC men's gymnastics team over spring break.

To start with the bad, the Salukis were downed by Penn State March 9 at the Arena 278.10 to 277.40.

The loss to third-ranked Penn State was the Salukis' second loss in 14 decisions this season, and broke the Salukis' 12-meet winning streak.

The meet came down to the last man on the last routine — John Levy's high bar performance. Levy needed a 9.45 for the Saluki win. Instead, he scored only a 8.7, his worst high bar score of the year. So much for the bad news.

The good news started March 12 at Baton Rouge, La. The Salukis easily dismantled Louisiana State 276.40 to 273.30 to up their record to 13-2. Gregg Upperman won the rings with a personal high 9.65. Levy placed second on the high bar with a 9.6, while Herb Voss took second on the pommel horse with a 9.4.

The Salukis then traveled

March 13 to Houston, where they finished their dual meet season at 14-2 by dumping Houston Baptist 278.25 to 270.10. The Salukis won or tied for first in every event in the meet, including Levy's personal-best all-around mark 56.15. Levy tied for first with HBU's John Sweeney. Levy tied teammate Kevin Mazeika on the high bar with an even-winning 9.65. Levy tied Upperman's 9.65 first-place rings performance. Levy was a solo winner on the pommel horse (9.4). Brendan Price won two events, the vault (9.6) and the parallel bars (9.55). Lawrence Williamson won the floor exercise with a 9.6.

"The meet against Penn State was a good, tough meet," Saluki Coach Bill Meade said. "It was nip and tuck all the way for both of us. The little mistakes here and there is what cost us the meet, not only Levy's performance on the high bar, but Brendan's vault (9.05) and Upperman's floor routine (8.90)."

"This has been our problem all year and that's why we can't hit that 280 mark I've been boasting about. Now we have to get our act together by the time we get to Champaign this weekend. If everyone on the team does what they're capable of doing, we could get that 280." This weekend, the Salukis will compete in the Illinois Open. This meet is not only important to the Salukis, who would like to place first, but the meet will be viewed by the NCAA Midwest Region judges who will decide which teams will make it to the NCAA finals April 12 at Los Angeles.

The Salukis' average is at 277.73. Team averages are compiled through the team's five best meets, three away and two at home.

SIUC's highest home scores have been 279.35 against Iowa State and 278.45 against Nebraska. The Salukis' highest away scores have been 278.25 at Houston, 276.40 at Baton Rouge and 276.20 at Terre Haute, Ind. Meade would like to see his Salukis drop the 276.20 with a score of 277.55 or better this weekend. That score would raise the Salukis' average to the 278 mark. A 278 average and a 14-2 record probably would ensure the Salukis a spot in the NCAA's Top 10.

Kansas City downs White Sox 3-2

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Lynn Jones stroked a 10th-inning single that scored John Wathan from third base as the Kansas City Royals defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in an exhibition game Monday.

Steve Balboni led off the 10th with a single off loser Guy Hoffman. Wathan came on as a pinch runner, advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt and went to third on checked-swing single to left by Orlando Sanchez.

Rookie Tony Ferreira pitched the 10th inning to gain the victory.

Spring trip pleases, puzzles Jones

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

Coral Gables, Fla. — A 5-5 spring trip to Florida, highlighted by what Salukis Coach Itchy Jones called "an overall better pitching performance down there from any staff we've had," left the Saluki baseball team a little sore and in need of a lot of spunk.

"We need to be more aggressive," Jones said. "I'm not sure all of our players approach the game with the intensity necessary to be successful. The games down there left me wondering if we're intense and excited about playing baseball."

The Salukis returned from sun-drenched Florida to soggy Southern Illinois after playing 500 ball on the campus of Miami University. The wet grounds at Abe Martin Field have already forced the postponement of Tuesday's doubleheader with Kentucky and will probably wash out Wednesday's game with Greenville.

At Coral Gables, SIU-C defeated Lewis University (twice), Rutgers, Georgetown and Fordham. The Salukis car: s up short in contests with Miami (three times), South Carolina and Montclair State. "I was disappointed that we didn't beat the tougher baseball teams," Jones said.

IN EACH OF the games with the 1982 national champion Miami Hurricanes (17-12 this year), the Salukis led early but lost, 4-3, 10-7 and 11-6.

In the 10-7 loss, SIU-C erupted for its seven runs in the first inning, but starting pitcher Rich Koch gave up four runs in one frame before Dennis Dreyer surrendered four in one and two-thirds innings.

South Carolina, nationally ranked with a 9-2 mark going into its game with SIU-C, defeated Gary Bockhorn and the Salukis by a 12-6 score. The Salukis, who scored in the first inning in eight of their games, staked Bockhorn to a 3-0 first-inning lead. But the Gamecocks scored twice in the second, third and fifth innings, and three times in the sixth and seventh. "Gary wasn't sharp," said Jones of the sophomore who injured his throwing hand three weeks ago and subsequently fell behind in his preseason throwing.

The other SIU-C loss came to Montclair State, a NAIA school, by a 5-0 score. John Scott was the losing pitcher for SIU-C.

Scott, along with catcher Steve Boyd, sustained injuries. Scott has soreness near the rotator cuff area and Boyd suffered a severe contusion above his knee in a collision with Miami catcher Julio Solis. Both will be out of action for at least a week.

BOYD WAS A bright spot in the SIU-C hitting department. He led the Salukis with a .381 batting average, nearly 100 points higher than his average a year ago.

The Salukis' hitting star, though, was sophomore Robert Jones. Jones batted .270, but slammed a four home runs, two doubles, one triple and had 18

RBI. Itchy Jones was most impressed, though, by a walk that Jones coaxed after falling behind 0-2 in the count.

"He looked better at the plate that time up than any other," Jones said. "He showed confidence, patience and maturity. That's a good sign."

The Salukis batted 2-3 as a team, but Jones said the fact that every batter showed signs of being a good hitter was impressive.

(Leadoff hitter Mike) Gellinger proved he can get on base. (Scott) Bridges and Jones hit with power, and Blumhorst hit the ball hard," Jones said of his one, three, four and five hitters in the batting order.

Gellinger hit .286, Bridges .289 and Blumhorst a deceiving .195. Blumhorst hit several balls hard that went for outs. Freshman center-fielder Steve Finley, batting No. 2 in the lineup, hit .308 in 39 at-bats, and led SIU-C in runs scored (14) and stolen bases (five).

BLUMHORST WAS expected to play third base but saw action at first — his spot last year — after Greg Severin's shoulder injury forced him to a designated hitter's role. Severin batted .200, but Jones said the juco transfer from Nevada-Las Vegas is making major adjustments on his swing.

Freshman Terry Jones filled the hole at third base and responded with a .242 average and a home run after a slow start.

"He'll have to play himself out of the lineup," Jones said, "but we'll be using other people."

One of Jones' biggest concerns going into Florida was the play of his reshuffled infield, but he came away satisfied, especially with shortstop Jay Burch.

"He did an excellent job," Jones said. "He needs to relax and play with more confidence, but he was the best shortstop, with the strongest arm, that we saw in Miami."

"I was impressed with the infield. The mistakes it made

Women finish seventh at NCAA

By Scott Rich
Staff Writer

Two months ago, the SIU-C women's swimming team was ranked seventh in the nation. Last weekend, the Salukis finished in a tie for seventh place (with Alabama) at the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships at Indianapolis, Ind.

When the final scores were tallied in the NCAA meet, SIU-C and the national rankings had held their own. The Salukis scored 107 points, and improved upon last year's No. 9 NCAA finish.

Texas, which finished third last year, nabbed the Division I crown. The Longhorns scored 392 points to outdistance the 56-team field. Stanford, the defending NCAA champion, was second (324 points), while Florida took third (313). Southern California fourth (232), North Carolina fifth (208) and Auburn sixth (111).

SIU-C Coach Tim Hill was a little disappointed with his team's No. 7 finish, but he said "the team has really improved."

"Overall I'm pleased with the way the team performed," Hill said. "We have a close group of swimmers and they really pulled together and rooted for each other."

The Salukis placed all five of their relay teams in top-12 scoring positions, and had four women make All-American honors in individual events.

All-American breaststroker Amanda Martin turned in the best performance for the Salukis, finishing sixth in the 200 breast with a time of 2:19.30. Martin was eighth in the 100 breast at 1:04.10.

Pam Ratcliffe was 11th in the 100 breast and 200 individual medley, qualifying her for All-American honors for the fourth straight season.

Janie Coontz also made All-American honors by placing seventh in the 1,650 freestyle with a time of 16:25.72 and 10th in the 500 free at 4:49.83.

Wendy Irick made the All-

American squad by placing 10th in the 400 IM with a school-record time of 4:23.68. Irick was 17th in the 200 back at 2:05.53.

Ten Saluki women made All-American honors in the relay event.

Irick, Martin, Rene Royalty and Ratcliffe turned in the best performance of the Saluki relays by placing fifth in the 200 medley with a time of 1:44.92, a SIU-C school record.

The 800 free and 400 medley relay teams finished sixth, both with school-record times. Armi Airaksinen, Roxanne Carlton, Stacy Westfall and Coontz turned in a 7:23.01 in the 800 free relay, while Irick, Martin, Airaksinen and Ratcliffe finished at 3:49.35 in the 400 medley relay.

Irick swam a school-record 100 back relay-split during the 400 medley with a time of 58.51, a U.S. Senior National qualifying time.

Lori Steele, after a disappointing early season, has started scoring well as the Salukis won nine of 12 meets to finish 11-11.

as Saluki coach.

The team's rise has also coincided with the rise of sophomore Lori Steele. After a disappointing freshman year, Vogel thought that this would be the season when Steele would show the form that could make her a consistent 36-point scorer, a barrier that she did not reach last year.

Instead she had problems. Steele could not get through her uneven parallel bar routine, and she was mired in the 34- to 35-point range.

Lack of offense hurt Salukis as team went 1-5 on spring trip

By Dan Devine
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's softball team had too much competition and not enough offense during its spring trip last week at Norman, Okla.

The Salukis scored just five runs and managed only one victory in six games while playing formidable opposition including powerhouse Oklahoma, Texas Tech (ranked No. 7 in the nation) and two-time defending national champion Texas A&M.

For the most part the team battled hard, losing by a single run to Texas A&M and two runs to Oklahoma. Except for a 7-0 loss to Texas Tech and a 9-0 drubbing from New Mexico, the Salukis had a chance to win every game.

SIU-C Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said she was encouraged by her team's performance against what she labeled the "hardest part of our schedule." It was SIU-C's fourth spring trip to Norman.

"It's a better team than we've had out there," Brechtelsbauer said. "I saw some good things, better than we've seen in previous years."

The two brightest spots were shortstop Tonya Lindsey and pitcher Sunny Clark. Lindsey had eight hits in 16 at-bats, and Clark kept the Salukis close in all her games while recording the only win — a 4-3 victory over Baylor.

The Salukis started their week March 13 by losing 2-0 to Oklahoma, and getting just one hit, a fifth-inning single by Cindy Knight. They were also shut out later in the day, 7-0 to Texas Tech. Eileen Maloney got the first of her two losses.

Clark was back on the mound the next day against Baylor as first-baseman Nancy McAuley drove in two runs to power the 4-3 win.

Clark went nine innings the next day in the first round of the Sooner Invitational, eventually losing 2-1 to Iowa State. SIU-C got its run in the fourth inning on back-to-back doubles by Lindsey and center-fielder Pam Flens.

Clark also went the distance the next day, scattering eight hits but losing 1-0. Lindsey had two more hits but made a throwing error in the seventh to give the Aggies the winning run.

Later in the day, Maloney lost 9-0 to New Mexico, a game Brechtelsbauer said "we would all like to forget." SIU-C made five errors and finished the week with 13 miscues in six games.

Maloney and Clark, who pitched four straight days, are as deep as the Saluki staff gets. SIU-C was left with only two pitchers when freshman Deanne Styx abruptly quit the team midway through the fall season. Brechtelsbauer said "only time will tell" if the Salukis can flourish with such a thin staff. They had five pitchers for most of last season. Brechtelsbauer said Clark was
