'Death of a Princess' will air on WSIU-TV despite protests

By Ken Mac Garrigle
Staff Writer

WSIU-TV will broadcast the controversial film "Death of a Princess" at 7 p.m. Monday despite some local protests of the film's potential effect on international relations. Eugene Dybvig, acting chairman of the Radio-TV Department, said Sunday.

Dybvig said he has received several phone calls from individuals who urged him not to run the film.

The callers voiced concern that WSIU should not air the program because it may have international repercussions and affect already shaky American relations in the Mideast. Dybvig said

The program will be prefaced by a "warning" to audiences that the film should not be interpreted as an actual documentary, but rather as a scripted dramatization based on one person's interpretation, he said.

At the end of the program PBS has agreed to run a half-hour discussion explaining the difference between the Saudi view and the view depicted in the film, he said.

The film follows director Antony Thomas through the Middle East as he pieces together the life of the princess, a granddaughter of the elder brother of the Saudi king. She was executed at the age of 19 in 1977 for having an adulterous affair with a commoner.

At each turn, as he talks to people who knew the princess. Thomas is confounded by conflicting accounts of how she lived and died.

This much, he says, is reasonably certain: The princess, whose arranged marriage to a royal cousin was never consummated, contacted a young man after she saw him playing a guitar on television. They became lovers and tried to flee the country together. But they were captured at the airport, and a few days later they were taken in a convoy to a parking lot. There, in front of several hundred Arabs and at least one Englishman, the woman was shot and the man beheaded.

Thomas also says he is convinced of the accuracy of reports of sexual intrigue inside the palaces where princesses live together in isolated luxury.

Less certain, however, is whether the princess was fairly tried. Under Islamic law, a woman can be convicted of adultery only if she confesses three times or if four men witness the sex act.

In the program, an Islamic lawyer argues she was never tried at all but instead killed by her grandfather's bodyguards. It was the law of the tribe, he said, not the law of Islam.

Dybvig said PBS might run a closed circuit feed of "Death of a Princess" on Monday afternoon so stations could judge for themselves if they wanted to run it that night. Dybvig said he decided to run "Princess" even before seeing the program.

"That is our plan at the present time," he said. Seven PBS stations have decided to black out the show, in which actors portray all the characters.

The movie enraged the Saudi government when it was aired in England last month, and the Saudis expelled the British ambassador to their country.

Mobil Oil has run ads in major newspapers saying the film "raises some very serious issues." The ads asked PBS to "review its decision to run the film."

Dybvig said, "Mobil Oil company was saying that this dramatization is in fact a fairy tale," so that, they said, what is depicted is a figment of somebody's imagination.

"You must recognize also that Mobil Oil is a very good friend of Public Broadcasting," he added.

Dybvig said he does not anticipate any protest at the local level after the show has run. Any protest would come only at a very high level, he said.

The program, produced by WGBH in Boston and ATV England, is being shown despite a request from Warren Christopher, acting secretary of state, to "give appropriate consideration to the sensitive religious and cultural issues involved."

City to discuss Halloween '80

By Mary Ann McNulty
Staff Writer

Will there be a Halloween 1980 celebration in Carbondale?

Although the Carbondale City Council can't change the calendar, the council is scheduled to decide Monday night whether to permit another Halloween celebration in the city.

Two city committees charged with recommending policies on Halloween 1980 are also scheduled to present reports at the meeting. After last year's city- and University-approved Carnivale '79, City Manager Carroll Fry appointed an eight-member administrative staff committee to recommend actions for Halloween 1980.

In March, the City Council asked the Liquor Advisory Board to discuss the matter and prepare a report. At the time, Councilman Charles Watkins warned that if some type of plan was not developed, he wanted fair notice given, "that there is not going to be the type of party going on in downtown Carbondale that happened last year."

Assistant City Manager Scott Ratter, Code Enforcement Director John Yow, Emergency Services and Disaster Agency Coordinator Randy Jackson, Assistant City Attorney Betsy Byrnes, Assistant Superintendent of Streets Wayne Wheelers, Fire Chief Charles McCaughan, Chief of Police Ed Hogan and City Clerk Janet Vaught made up the administrative staff Halloween Study Committee. They cited many problems, including "inconvenience to the public, violations of several state laws and city ordinances, serious threat to the physical safety and welfare of the participants and the very real possibility of a major disaster" with Carnivale '79.

The Halloween Study Committee decided, "University students will want to have some kind of Halloween party in the downtown regardless of what steps are taken by the city and University."

The committee also decided that declaring an alternate site for the party seemed doomed to fail since the Arena parking lot is the only place large enough and close enough to campus to hold such a party. The Arena is on state property, however, and Illinois laws prohibit the sale or consumption of liquor there.

SIUC Director of Security Virgil Trummer, his assistant Bob Harris, Vice President for Campus Services Clarence "Doc" Dougherty, Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Swinburne, his assist. Tom Busch, President of Towne Central Don Carsrud and the Executive Director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce Ron Steele were called in by the committee to discuss possible solutions to the "Halloween problem."

The committee recommended two alternatives:

—"Take any and all steps that are necessary to prohibit a Halloween party in the future." With this alternative, bars would close at 2 a.m., the city and University police would have to be augmented by the State Police and a formal change in city policy dealing with street closings would be adopted.

—"The second alternative would take several immediate, short-term steps aimed at winding down the party and propose other long-term steps aimed at eventually eliminating the party."

Under this recommendation, the City Council would not approve ordinances to close the street or extend the 2 a.m. bar closings, and would prohibit the sale of beer and wine in glass bottles for a period of four to seven days before Halloween. The city would also ask the university to plan "on-campus activities to coincide with the 2 a.m. bar closing time. The University would also be asked not be scheduled any large events that would draw non-Carbondale residents to the city on that weekend," the report states.

The LAB sent its "suggestions," including the establishment of a planning committee consisting of members from the Liquor Advisory Board, the city administration, Towne Central, the Undergraduate Student Organization, the SIUC administration and the Liquor Commission, to the council.

Although the six-member citizens group discussed Halloween, the board agreed on a problem of "Halloween is not really that of a liquor licensing or liquor sales, but that of crowd control."

"The board did not feel that specific recommendations for Halloween were within its scope of expertise as a lay board or an advisory board," stated the report.

Greg Saddler, student representative to the LAB, said, "I really feel this is outside our area. It's really about crowd control, not about liquor as far as procedural measures or licensing of it goes. There is not one thing we really feel strongly about, except banning glass."

Saddler said he hoped that the City Council and the LAB see this year's planning as a first step. "To see what the results and effects are," and not as an end to the problem.

Gus Bode

Gus says the City Council should go out of town for Halloween and stack up on aspirin for when they get back.

KKK rallies against Cuban refugees

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — About 40 robed Ku Klux Klansmen led a crowd of 250 people in a rally against the influx of Cuban refugees into the United States.

"The majority of American have got to make a stand," David Duke, a KKK grand dragon from Louisiana, said Saturday. "A lot of Americans are opposed to this massive invasion."

The refugees will have a "tremendous effect on taxes, welfare roles and crime," he said.

"It's not a question of hating anyone. You can't solve the problem of Cuban liberty by taking in the refugees," Duke said.

Islamic party leading in Iran election

By The Associated Press

The Islamic Republican Party and its hardline clerical allies have won a majority in the runoff round of the Iranian parliamentary election, Tehran Radio said Sunday. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini appeared to be tightening controls over the military and the press.

The Iranian revolutionary leader has said the new Parliament will decide the fate of the American hostages. Many Islamic Republicans say the captives should go on trial as spies if deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, in exile in Egypt, is not returned to Iran to face charges of murder and corruption.

A Beirut-based newsletter reported Sunday that Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh expressed fears to Arab leaders that a long economic blockade by the West could force Tehran to turn to Moscow for help.

Congress plans food stamp expansion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress plans to move swiftly this week to preserve — and bolster — the food stamp program, which helps feed 21 million Americans.

A Senate-House conference committee was scheduled to convene Monday to consider a two-year, $6.5 billion expansion of the program. The administration says the boost is necessary to meet rising food costs and increased unemployment, which makes more people eligible for stamps.

Ready for action on the House floor, meanwhile, is a $3 billion appropriation to fund the expansion for the balance of the current fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has said the available money for food stamps this fiscal year, about $6.2 billion, will be exhausted by June 1 and he will have to suspend the program unless an expansion package is signed into law by Thursday.

Balloon nears transcontinental goal

BOSTON (AP) — The Kitty Hawk balloon, lofting along effortlessly at more than 60 mph, was far off course over southern Canada on Sunday yet near its goal of completing the first non-stop, transcontinental balloon flight.

The pilots, Maxie Anderson, 45, and his son, Kris, 23, both of Albuquerque, N.M., said they were debating whether to set the 20-story balloon down before nightfall or run the risk of being well out to sea by daybreak, said Jim Mitchell at the balloon's tracking station in Bedford, Mass.

At 1 p.m. EDT, the balloon crossed over Ottawa at 27,000 feet, heading in an east-northeast direction toward Montreal and the St. Lawrence Seaway, Mitchell said.

The Kitty Hawk lifted off at 12:30 a.m. PDT, Thursday, in San Francisco, headed for Kitty Hawk, N.C. But winds blew the balloon off course and over Canada. San Francisco is 2,417 miles in a straight line from Ottawa.

"We're projecting the balloon to fly on a path just south of Quebec and just north of Presque Isle, Maine," Mitchell said. "There's a good chance they will set down near Presque Isle."

Presque Isle is where the elder Anderson and two other pilots lifted off in August 1978.

Judge denies Berger request for community service option

By Diana Penner
Staff Writer

Circuit Judge George Ors has denied a motion to allow Joyce Berger to perform community service instead of serving time in jail for the slaying of her ex-husband.

Ors denied the defense motion Friday after a one-hour hearing at the Williamson County Courthouse in Marion.

Mrs. Berger, of Murphysboro, "as convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the Aug. 8, 1979, shooting of her ex-husband, former Murphysboro Police Chief Tobias Berger."

She was sentenced April 11 to four years probation and ordered to spend Saturdays in Jackson County Jail from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for 18 months.

Charles Grace and David Watt, Mrs. Berger's defense attorneys, argued that the portion of the sentence calling for the jail time presents a "real danger to the psychological, emotional and physical well-being of the defendant."

The attorneys argued that modifying the sentence to have Mrs. Berger engage in public service, using her training as a licensed practical nurse, would benefit both the community and Mrs. Berger more than the jail time.

Jackson County State's Attorney William Schwartz argued against the motion. Schwartz said it was necessary for the court to stick to its original sentence to impress upon Mrs. Berger the seriousness of the crime. He said the state had originally called for the maximum sentence of seven years, and felt the court should at least uphold the "extremely mild sentence" of Saturdays in jail.

In upholding the sentence, Ors told Mrs. Berger that at the time of the sentencing, he would have sentenced her to three years imprisonment if it were not for the fact that she has several children dependent on her. He said even though Mrs. Berger still does not feel she did anything wrong, she must realize that under the law, her actions were illegal.

"When you take a fellow person's life, you have to pay for it. You're going to have to pay for what you did," Ors said.

Mrs. Berger has five sons between the ages of nine and 18.

Dr. Anthony Weisenberger, a Carbondale psychiatrist, testified that he feels, as a result of a consultation with Mrs. Berger on May 5, she would incur severe emotional harm if the jail sentence were imposed. He said that although Mrs. Berger knows her husband is dead, she feels he is still alive "in another way" and is "getting even" through the jail time imposed on her.

Edith Spees, a marriage counselor and an expert in the study of family violence, testified that Mrs. Berger is in a "very fragile condition."

After the sentencing, Mrs. Berger "lost a great deal of her ability to cope with ordinary things. It is not possible for her to pull herself out of a deep depression," Spees testified.

Mark Berkowitz, Mrs. Berger's probation officer, said several organizations, including Styrest Nursing Home in Carbondale and Roosevelt Square, a mental health facility, had indicated they would be willing to use Mrs. Berger in a public service capacity.

Other organizations said they would not take Mrs. Berger because of the nature of the case, Berkowitz testified.

Mrs. Berger was originally charged with murder but was found guilty of the lesser offense of voluntary manslaughter by a 12-member jury. Her attorneys had tried to show that she acted in self-defense.

Education is key to blacks' success

By Cherise Mayberry
Student Writer

Education is one of the key survival tools for blacks in the 1980s. Blacks without an education do not have the background to succeed. For blacks without money or connections, education is all they have to make it.

So many black youths are unable to read, write and calculate. More than 16 percent out of the black high-school population in the United States dropped out in 1979. Out of those who do graduate high school, many choose to work instead of going on to college.

A college education increases the chances of employment. The black male between the ages of 16 and 24 is the most unemployable person in the United States. Over 40 percent cannot find jobs. The more education blacks have, the better their chances are for success.

Even if a black youth makes it to college, he must struggle to graduate. Although the level of black enrollment in colleges has risen in the United States over a 10-year period to 10 percent from 6 percent in 1968, the rate of blacks dropping out of college is increasing also.

At SIU, black students seem to be going through a revolving door. There are about 1,677 black students out of a total 19,536 undergraduates. Every semester fewer and fewer return. Why are black students dropping out of SIU? Yvonne Jenkins, a counselor at special supportive services, says the Number one reason for blacks leaving is the insensitivity of the University towards blacks. "When the black students get here, the University expects them to fall right in. Practically nothing is geared towards blacks," she said.

Other reasons cited include financial, academic, environmental and emotional problems. "You must take into consideration that black kids grow up fast. While other children were learning how to live, black children were learning how to survive," Jenkins said.

"When black freshmen get down here, they have to deal with racism in the classroom as well as in the dorm. They often do not know how to approach a white instructor. It is also often the case that white instructors will be reluctant to deal with black students for fear they might say something to offend them," Jenkins said.

Black people need to get motivated. During the 1960s the civil rights movement made significant gains.

It is time for blacks to make an impact on the 1980s. Education is a key tool for this impact.

Without it, blacks don't have much of a chance.

IPIRG innovative, dedicated

I am outraged also. Mr. Boyle has a comment on the recent article concerning IPIRG and the student tenant union. It would seem that an institution of higher learning would be dedicated to the dissemination of accurate information. I was under the impression that IPIRG was concerned with a voluntary fee, not a mandatory refundable. The article seemed misdirected.

Where did the idea of waiting in line for a $1 refund get pinned to the IPIRG voluntary fee I've always had problems with abstract thought? Mr. Alexander, I say that your vision of the fee allocation board being stable is bunk. I question the reliability of the decision-making process—how do you draw the line? I haven't seen you knocking on my door or calling me to remind me of the USO elections and referendum—IPIRG did.

As far as I am concerned, any organization that can petition, pass a referendum and meet its constituency face-to-face is an innovative group dedicated to the community of higher education and the true American spirit—a primo democracy. Here is a group that places responsibility on the student and protects minority groups.

Pete, I'll be looking forward to your full-page response in the DE, or maybe a special Focus issue. "Cheap shots by a lame duck" — Michael Bingham, Senior, Food and Nutrition

Let students decide

To Pete Alexander in regards to the May 5 article about the referendum on the Illinois Public Interest Research Group and the student tenant union. Pete Alexander mentions that the student tenant union shouldn't go through student government because the funding level wouldn't be as high or as stable.

Yet, Pete Alexander mentions "Recognized student organizations like IPIRG should go through USO for funding." Well Pete, can you tell me why the student tenant union should have a separate funding yet, IPIRG should go through USO for funding? Not to mention that in the past year USO did not even allocate funds for IPIRG. Furthermore, wouldn't having the individual students decide on whether they want to pay a fee through the negative check-off fee be a more democratic process than having a select few from USO decide on how much money an organization should get?

To be quite blunt, Pete, I really can't see your rationale behind your statement. Please try to clarify it, if you possibly can. — Karl Banach, Sophomore, Geography

Guidelines make no sense

The trouble with this University is that it does not seem to know what research is. SIU once had an opportunity to do some really outstanding work with the Department of Design. The administration was too short sighted to recognize this and kept the department on such a meager budget that many promising students dropped out in discouragement.

Richard Archer has demonstrated over and over again that he is a brilliant researcher in solving present and future energy problems using the simplest and cheapest materials that are available.

To have been refused tenure because of his lack of research shows that decisions for tenure are made by some guidelines which make no sense at all. May Mr. Archer go on to a long and brilliant career away from the madhouse SIU has become. — Janet C. Gordon, Carbondale

Assistance needed

I would like to take a moment out to publicly thank the Creative Arts Auxiliary that staged the Children's Theater of the Deaf "Return to Broadway" performance. This exhilarating event left me focusing my attention not only on the magic of the moment, but also centered my appreciation toward the vast theatrical contributions of the hearing impaired.

I would like to encourage other persons to assist in the support of this traveling troupe by sending donations to the Center On Deafness, 600 Waukegan Road, Glenview, Ill., 60025. Lisa Battaglia, Graduate, Health Education

Athletic equality lacking

This letter is in reference to the front page article in the May 8 DE concerning the Men's Athletics recruitment budgets. The story states that the men's recruitment budgets were slashed to half of what they were last year from $107,325 to $54,075.

How many people realized what the coaches of women's sports receive for recruitment? The total recruitment budget for Women's Athletics this year is $4,500. Women's Athletics also has eleven varsity sports housed in SIU's luxurious Davies Gym.

The men's basketball coach alone received $13,000 this year for recruitment, the women's basketball coach received $400. Anything spent beyond the $400 comes out of the coach's own pocket.

It's a shame people don't realize all of the inequities between the two departments. Recruitment is just one of many. For example only four of the head coaches for women's sports are on full-time salary while the other six coaches are on half-time salary doing more than a full-time job—there are no paid assistant coaches or graduate assistants in Women's Athletics.

All eleven of the women's sports at SIU have varsity status and represent SIU just as well, if not better, than the men's sports. The women athletes and their coaches deserve fair and equitable treatment but have a long way to go before attaining it. — Vicki Ament and Betty Nix, Secretaries, Women's Intercollegiate Athletics

Z.Z. Top sound tight, driving

By Rod Smith
Staff Writer

Only four years ago, a three-piece rock and blues band from Texas broke attendance records for a concert tour. Behind the success of two platinum albums, they were a major headlining rock act after years of being just a backup group. But Z.Z. Top, "that little band from Texas," hasn't been in the music spotlight the past few years. After the release of "Tejas" four years ago, the band went into hibernation, a semi-retirement. No concerts. No albums.

But when Z.Z. Top invaded the Arena Friday as part of its first tour in four years, it became obvious to the crowd of 6,000 that the group hasn't lost any of the energy and tight, driving sound in concert it first displayed on "Fandango," a live album.

Z.Z. Top plays its brand of power blues the way loud music is meant to be played—clean and hard with no frills. The band's stage set-up is simple, nothing but guitars and amplifiers, with plenty of room to jump around.

Lead guitarist Billy Gibbons and bass player Dusty Hill took the stage, each sporting two-foot long beards. They broke into the opening strands of the Isaac Hayes tune, "I Thank You," the first song on "Deguella," the band's recent recording, which provided the bulk of the evening's material.

Gibbons, in black derby and suit, was the band's focus point. At times, he demonstrated an intense, bottleneck style guitar that showed his southwestern blues influences. This was apparent on the band's blues standards, "Waiting For the Bus," and "Jesus Just Left Chicago."

More often, Gibbons was jumping around on the stage, utilizing every Chuck Berry and Peter Townshend leap, skip and strum he could. Hill, in black beret and vest, played his electric bass as if it were a lead guitar, trying to keep pace with Gibbons.

Drummer Frank Beard, ironically, the only band member without the look of Rip Van Winkle, couldn't be seen behind his massive drum set, but he laid down a powerful backbeat that gave Gibbons and Hill a reference point from which to improvise.

For the old Z.Z. Top fans, the group offered a collection of its earlier favorites in the nearly two-hour set like "Heard It On the X," "Nasty Dogs and Funky Kings," "Beer Drinkers and Hell Raisers," and the band's biggest hit "La Grange."

The band played nine of the

ten songs from "Deguella," including the FM single "Cheap Sunglasses," with the band wearing, of course, cheap plastic sunglasses.

An encore of two more new songs, "She Loves My Automobile," and "Hi-Fi Mama," featured a screen appearance from the "Lone Wolf Horns," a film of the band playing saxophones while dressed like beatniks. Although the music was only a tape, it helped add to the band's already full sound.

The departure from blues to brass was followed by a rousing and danceable version of "Jailhouse Rock," and the AM hit "Tush."

Z.Z. Top showed that it is a versatile band and one that is glad to be back on the music scene. After a four-year wait, the fans, many on their feet throughout the show, are glad the band is back, too.

Cocaine smuggling up despite lethal danger

MIAMI AP — Just back from a South American vacation, 17-year-old Scott Wirkus breezed through customs. Then he died an agonizing death from 200 grams of cocaine he had swallowed in tiny bags.

Wirkus was a victim of "body packing," authorities said. When he died, five years ago, the smuggling method was something of a novelty in medical circles, now the problem seems to be growing.

Until the end of 1979, only four such deaths had ever been recorded in Miami. This year alone, known deaths number four.

Two of the latest victims had swallowed cocaine-filled bags, and two had tried inserting containers in body cavities. The containers leaked. Similar deaths have been reported in New York and Atlanta.

The increase has prompted the Dade County Medical Examiner's office to warn travelers of dangers in the unorthodox smuggling technique.

"Naively, this method looks really good," said Dr. Ronald Wright, chief deputy medical examiner. "It works for diamonds. But diamonds are not poisonous. That's a big difference."

The smugglers think that condoms, balloons or other rubber sheaths will protect them from a deadly overdose until the drug passes through their digestive systems. They think wrong.

The plastic doesn't even have to break for the carrier to get a fatal overdose, explained Dr. Charles Wells, an assistant medical examiner.

"The membrane is semi-permeable," he said. "Water is going to diffuse in. It's going to dissolve some of the cocaine and the cocaine is going to start diffusing out. This diffusion will continue until the concentration on both sides of the membrane is equal."

A large enough dose of cocaine can kill by causing seizures, respiratory arrest and heart failure.

An airport hotel maid found

Wirkus on his bed in January 1975, bleeding from the nose and hemorrhaging internally, according to the autopsy report. Death was attributed to a cocaine overdose.

Stevenson Arms
wins off-campus
dorms competition

By Mimi Jarzemsky
Staff Writer

Stevenson Arms dormitory residents, competing in academics, athletics and service activities with residents of three other off-campus housing dorms, came in first place for the second time in two years, Pat McNeil, supervisor for University approved off-campus housing, said.

"Each of the residence halls, Stevenson Arms, the Baptist Student Center, Wilson Hall and 600 Freeman, competed for points in the areas of academics, athletics, social-recreational, cultural-educational and community service throughout the year," McNeil said.

The minimum amount of points a dorm could receive in the second annual competition was 100, she said, but all of the dorms passed that limit. In order to receive any points for an activity at least 10 percent of the dorm residents must participate in the activity, she said, and for every additional 10 percent who participate the dorm receives additional points.

Stevenson Arms took first place with a total of 310 points, the Baptist Student Center followed in second with 257, 600 Freeman tallied up 171 and Wilson Hall scored 128 points, she said.

Judging is based on an evaluation form the dorm submits to McNeil.

"They must submit the evaluation form no later than five days after the activity they worked on," she said. "I judge it and give it pointage."

Stevenson Arms received the most points (152) in the social-recreational competition, she said. The Baptist Student Center excelled in the other four areas and had the highest academic standing with a grade point average of 2.76, she said.

The Baptist Student Center received a certificate for excelling in the other four areas of competition. Wilson Hall received a certificate for most original activities in the social-recreational, cultural-educational and community service divisions and 600 Freeman received a certificate for most creative programming in the social-recreational division.

Three teachers named recipients of Outstanding Teacher Awards

By Steve Grant Staff Writer
Three SIU-C teachers have been named recipients of the Outstanding Teacher Awards, which carry a $1,000 cash bonus and are sponsored by the Amoco Foundation.

During spring commencement exercises Saturday at the Arena, recognition for the award will go to Paul Harre, assistant professor in the School of Technical Careers; John Voigt, professor of botany; and Gola Waters, associate professor of finance.

The three Amoco winners will be the guests of acting SIU-C President Hiram Lesar at the president's annual commencement day luncheon at University House. Other luncheon guests will include winners of faculty and staff 25- and 30-year service awards: Frank Stanton, former president of CBS Inc., and United Nations Ambassador Donald McHenry.

Stanton and McHenry will receive honorary degrees during graduation ceremonies.

Nominations for the annual Amoco awards were made by SIU-C deans and department chairmen. The nominations were screened by a campus-wide committee formed by the vice president for academic affairs and research. The committee chose the three top winners.

Harre, a native of Nashville, Ill., joined the SIU-C faculty in 1972 as an instructor in STC's electronics technology courses. He was promoted to assistant professor and took over coordination of the program in 1976. He holds associate, bachelor's and master's degrees from SIU-C.

"I was pleasantly surprised when I received the telephone call. It gives me a deep sense of self-esteem when I consider all the other outstanding teachers on this campus," Harre said.

Harre said he will use his cash bonus to attend a convention and to provide for a better vacation for he and his family.

The 59-year-old Voigt has been a member of the SIU-C faculty since 1950 and currently serves as associate dean in the College of Science.

A native of Sullivan, Ind., Voigt has a bachelor's degree from Eastern Illinois University and master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Nebraska.

"I was so overwhelmed when I got the call. All I could do was reach for my handkerchief. I've spent the last 30 years of my life giving service to students and trying to help them get where they're going," Voigt said. "As I reflect back over those years, I wouldn't have it any other way."

Recognition as an Amoco Great Teacher is the second major teaching award for Waters. He was named the SIU-C Alumni Association's 1979 Great Teacher. A native of Kewanee, Waters also has been associate dean of the College of Business and Administration.

"I was gratified to find out that I had received this award. It is really an honor to be selected over the many outstanding teachers here at SIU-C," Waters said.

Professor says location snag in downstate tourism growth

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the May 1 supplement to the Daily Egyptian, Doug McEwen, associate professor of outdoor recreation, was misquoted by a student writer on his views of tourism in Southern Illinois. The following article is a clarification of McEwen's statements.

By Mimi Jarzemsky Staff Writer

The economy of Southern Illinois is not likely to get a big boost from tourism at the present time, although local developers continue to explore the opportunities, according to Doug McEwen, an associate professor of outdoor recreation. "This area doesn't have a great potential for growth because its location is not strategically located relative to population centers, and it does not have a uniqueness that would draw people outside of normal traffic patterns," McEwen said.

Travelers from St. Louis and Chicago have traditional destination points other than Southern Illinois, he said, adding that St. Louisans have a tendency to travel to southwest Missouri and Chicagoans often travel to Wisconsin and points north.

McEwen said Southern Illinois has an adequate number of campgrounds that are well-run and well-marked. Although there are no large resort complexes in the area, nothing has come of the proposals to develop those facilities, he said.

"Nationally or regionally, this area is not unique. The combination of location and scenic attraction doesn't lend itself to large volumes of tourism. If this area were located 30 minutes from Chicago it would be a different story," he said.

Many Southern Illinoisans who enjoy the beauty of the land fear commercialization of the region, he said.

"There's a classic conflict between local tourism, local culture and the influx of high tourism causing a disruption of local culture and patterns," he said. "There is a dislocation of the population in any region where tourism becomes a big industry."

Most of the profits from tourism go to large investors and not to the local economy, because commercial interests often override local interests, he said.

In the case of nationally significant outdoor features, such as national parks, McEwen said it is appropriate to have these interests override local concerns. But usually all attempts are made to accommodate the locals, he said.

But, "I don't see a potential problem between tourism and local views because I don't see tourism coming."

Although the last three winters have brought about an interest in developing the area for winter sports and possibly a ski resort, McEwen said the idea does not seem feasible.

"Based on traditional weather patterns, the development of a ski resort with artificial snow is ridiculous because of the large capital investments involved."

However, he said, local residents may benefit from the snow that does fall.

"Winter sports not requiring a large capital investment are possibilities depending on the winters we have," he said. "For example, Touch of Nature has been offering cross-country skiing clinics for the past two years."

He added there are individuals who are actively promoting tourism in this region to boost the local economy.

"Representative Paul Simon has proposed a study of a national recreation area on lands of the Shawnee National Forest, and other private and public organizations have, and still are, working actively to promote tourism," McEwen said. "Opinions differ as to the viability of such efforts. In my opinion, tourism doesn't offer a large input into the Southern Illinois economy at the present time."

Salary hikes keep police, city at impasse

By Leanne Waxman
Staff Writer

No new light was shed on contract disputes at a meeting late last week between the Carbondale Police Officer's Association and Carbondale City Manager Carroll Fry, according to the union's president.

CPOA President Joe Coughlin said negotiations were at an impasse after Fry recommended in the meeting that the union accept the city's salary increase proposals for a new two-year contract. Salary increases are the only issue keeping negotiations deadlocked.

"We're just asking the administration to meet us somewhere in the middle but they refuse Fry says. 'You just want more than your share.' We're fewer than a couple percentage points apart," Coughlin charged.

Negotiations for a new contract began last November, about five months earlier than negotiations ever began in the past to allow adequate time for a contract to be negotiated before the current contract expired on April 30. The existing contract will remain in effect until a new contract is negotiated.

The union rejected the city's final increase proposal last week. Although Coughlin said the union will not return to the bargaining table, a decision about whether to call in federal arbitrators has not yet been made.

Coughlin said advisory arbitration would probably be the next step. If federal arbitrators are called in to conduct negotiations, then both parties would agree on five members of the federal negotiating team.

The union failed to acquire binding arbitration power in July 1978, after the union lost a lawsuit to force the city into binding federal arbitration.

Neither Coughlin, Fry, nor read city negotiator Scott Ratter would reveal the disputed base pay percentages. But, Coughlin said the union rejected the city's final two-year proposal after a union increase proposal for the contract's second year was called "unreasonable" by the city.

Ratter is assistant city manager.

"They made a first year proposal that was below the president's wage guidelines. So, to sweeten the pot, they told us to make a proposal for the second year and if it was reasonable they would accept it. If we accepted the first year proposal, our proposal for the second year was within the president's guidelines and they rejected it," Coughlin explained in late April.

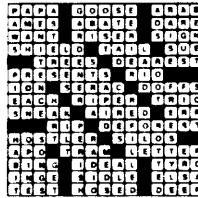

"Maybe things between the administration and the members would improve and maybe he police attitude would improve if our members felt like he city was working with us as a team. They just aren't treating us fairly," Coughlin said.

Salukis capture 4 of 5; complete regular season

By Mark Pabich
Staff Writer

The Saluki baseball team closed out its 1980 regular season this weekend, winning four of five games against David Lipscomb and Austin Peay to finish with a 30-14 record going into the Missouri Valley Conference playoffs May 15-18.

Win No. 30 came Sunday in the second game of a double-header against the Governors from Austin Peay Junior Harold Brown picked up his fifth win of the season in the 11-2 victory. The Salukis pounded out 11 hits behind Brown and junior Paul Evans, who relieved Brown in the sixth inning.

Senior Paul Ondo led the hitting attack, going 3-for-3, including a double and his fifth home run of the season. The Waukegan native has been on a hitting streak since returning to the lineup in center field.

Ondo, who earlier this season was hitting .230, a far cry from his current .348 average, said the difference in his hitting has been the amount of time he is playing.

"The big difference is that I'm playing every day and I'm getting the chance to hit day in and day out," Ondo said. "I've also changed the way I'm hitting the ball, which has helped."

"Back when I was only hitting .230, I said I would end the season going into the tournament around .350. I guess I'm pretty close."

The first game of Sunday's double-header didn't go quite as well for SIU, however. Junior Bob Schroeck suffered his third loss of the season, losing the game in the seventh inning, 2-0, in a heated pitcher's duel.

Austin Peay pitcher Greg Richards allowed just three Saluki hits in his shutout performance. Two of the hits belonged to Jim Adduci, who tripled in the sixth and doubled in the eighth.

The Governors' runs came in the eighth inning after Schroeck had only allowed two hits in the first seven innings. Four straight singles gave Austin Peay the win.

Saturday's single game with the Governors belonged to the Salukis, who rattled off 17 runs, giving freshman Dave Youngblood his first collegiate victory, 17-4.

Youngblood, who also plays for the SIU basketball team, said the victory was "super," but also added it was easy, "especially when your team scores that many runs behind you."

Youngblood struck out three and picked off a runner in his seven-inning performance. Freshman Tom Caulfield mopped up, striking out three in his two-inning stint.

Pitching, however, took a back seat to the Salukis' hitting. Adduci, who is hitting .434, went 4-for-4. Freshman Joe Richardson followed Adduci, going 4-for-4 also. Ondo finished the afternoon 3-for-3. Every Saluki reached base in the game, and all but one had at least one hit.

The Salukis' winning weekend began Friday with a double-header sweep against David Lipscomb, defending NAIA champions. Jerry Halstead won his fourth game of the season in the first game, 10-2. Halstead's only bad inning came in the first when the Carterville native gave up a home run.

SIU had some home runs of its own, too, however. Adduci ripped his 11th of the season in the second inning, giving the Salukis their final runs of the game.

The second game was bolstered by SIU's bats, also. Rob Clark recorded his third win of the year, 6-1, behind another Adduci home run and one by junior Gerry Miller, his 12th of the season.

SIU Coach Itchy Jones said the four-win weekend ended the regular season on a good note and should prepare his club for the Valley playoffs.

"We know what we're doing now and we know what we'll have to do the rest of the season," Jones said. "We need to work on a few things, but right now we're playing the kind of baseball we want to be playing going into post season."

Golfers finish third in season finale

One of the tougher golf courses in the Midwest, the best team in the Big Ten and a lack of depth forced SIU's women's golf team into a third-place finish at the Indiana State Invitational Friday and Saturday in Terre Haute, Ind.

Ohio State won the meet by a landslide with a 310-321 for a 631 total. Central Michigan was second, 350-350-700; SIU was third, 358-351-709; Ball State was fourth, 388-374-762; and host Indiana State was last, 393-387-780.

SIU Coach Mary Beth McGirr knew her team would have to deal with problems, but she had hoped her squad could finish second in its final meet of the year.

"We didn't play very good," McGirr said. "It was kind of a disappointment."

It had to be a disappointment for SIU's team, too, especially since all six members will be graduating after the season. There probably were several reasons the Salukis didn't fare well.

It could have been the blustery weather conditions, the difficulty of the Hulman Links course or the pressures of upcoming finals and thought of graduating. Whatever the problem, it showed in SIU's score at the 36-hole tournament.

"Golf was not in the forefront of their minds," McGirr said. "But at least Sandy Lemon had a good meet."

The Salukis had to contend with an Ohio State team that simply outclassed the other four schools, finishing 69 strokes ahead of its Central Michigan. The Buckeyes were out of SIU's league, McGirr said.

In Friday's first round, SIU was short-handed and played without Lori Sackman and Penny Porter because they were busy with school work. McGirr said. Since the Salukis lacked depth, they were not able to drop their two highest scorers and were forced to count Sue Fazio's 99 and Judy Dohmann's 94.

After the first round, Lemon was in third place, four strokes behind Ohio State's co-leaders, Cathy Cook and Judy Ellis, who broke the Hulman Links women's course record by shooting 75s. The old record of 78 was set by a golfer from Purdue. Before that, the record of 80 was set by Lemon.

Lemon shot an 81 Saturday for a 36-hole total of 160, eight strokes behind medalist Cook, who shot a 77 Saturday for a 152. Lemon also finished four strokes behind Ellis, who had a 156 after shooting an 81 Saturday.

in the third quarter with the Lakers leading, 67-61, and 5:50 on the clock. From there to the end of the period, Philadelphia outscored Los Angeles 20-9 and started the final period with an 81-76 lead.

Los Angeles, which won one more game during the regular season than the Eastern Conference champion 76ers, never did catch up, although it drew within one point at 85-84 with less than nine minutes remaining, and slashed it to 101-98 with 2:08 to play. The three-point margin was also the final difference.

By gaining a split in Philadelphia, the Western Conference champion Lakers regained the home-court advantage.

The 6-11½ Dawkins, who joined the NBA right out of high school four years ago, scored 26 points, while Cheeks, a second-year man from West Texas State, wound up with 18.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Little Maurice Cheeks and giant Darryl Dawkins scored 44 points between them and triggered a third-period rally that carried the Philadelphia 76ers to a 105-102 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Sunday and evened their National Basketball Association championship series at two games apiece.

10,000-meter run—first.
5,000-meter run—first.
3,000-meter run—first.
1,500-meter run—first.
SIU—third.

It just doesn't add up, but SIU's women's track team finished third at the Illinois AIAW track championships in Champaign Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Westernwinds from Western Illinois ran away with the state championship, but that didn't stop three SIU tracksters—Patty Plymire, Lindy Nelson and Cathy Chiarello—from winning all-state honors in four events.

Plymire won the honor for winning the 10,000-meter run. Nelson won it for finishing first in the 3,000- and 5,000-meter runs and Chiarello received the honor for winning the 1,500-meter run.

Western finished first with 217 points. Illinois was second, 119, and SIU was third, 108. Illinois State finished fourth, 98; Northwestern was fifth, 50; and Northern Illinois was a distant sixth, six.

Saluki Coach Claudia Blackman said she was pleased with her team's performance. She said that after looking at the other team's times going into the meet, she thought her team would finish fourth with about 60 points.

Individual achievements highlighted the meet for the Salukis.

Running into the teeth of a 20 mph wind Saturday, Nelson set a new IAAW record in the 3,000-meter run, 10:05.9. Nelson also won the 5,000-meter run earlier in the day in 17:32.9.

Chiarello also set a meet record in the 1,500-meter run. She ran the race in 4:39.4. Also scoring in the 1,500 was Noia Putman, who finished second in 4:49.7. Putman also finished third in the 3,000-meter run.

In addition to winning the 10,000-meter run, 38:10.5, Plymire was third in the 5,000. Also scoring points in the 10,000 were Becky Lolis and Dixie Ost. Both set personal bests in the race.

Cindy Clausen made a successful comeback from a two-week layoff due to stress fractures in both feet and finished second in the 800-meter run, 2:16.1. Chiarello finished third, 2:17.2.

As Blackman had expected, SIU's sprinters turned in their best state championship performances in three years. Pat Cole finished third in the 200-meter dash, 26.65, and sixth in the 400-meter dash, 1:00.6.

In the 400-meter hurdles, Karen LaPorte was fourth, 1:06.9, and Theresa Burgard was fifth, 1:06.4. LaPorte also finished fifth in the 100-meter hurdles, 15.0.

SIU finished fifth and sixth in the high jump. Amanda Daugherty and Penny Hoffman both jumped 5-3.
