Anti-Hate Crusader Speaks Today

Gordon Hall, self-appointed crusader against "hate- mongers," will speak at Freshman Convocation at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. today in Shryock Auditorium. At 42, Hall is a 20-year veteran of the anti-hate group. This is his third appearance at SIU. Last year he devoted the majority of his talk to the John Birch Society and left-wing groups on the other side of the spectrum.

Hall has been called a one-man FBI, a conspirator, a fascist, a crank and a dedicated patriot. He estimates that more than eight million Americans belong to various extremist groups. His goal is to prevent organizations from gaining membership, he seeks this through exposure of their inner workings and activities.

Hall has been subjected to threats to his family, belongings and burglary.

Mayor's Bid for Liaison Welcomed

By Margaret Perez

Margaret Hickey, chairman of President Johnson's Citizen Council on the Status of Women, has called for an end to the "cold war between the sexes."

"Miss Hickey spoke to reporters prior to her participation in a seminar Wednesday at University College with 62 SIU men and women on "The Many Lives of Today's College Women."

"We need a new pattern of cooperation to replace the old battle of the sexes," said Miss Hickey. "I think we need a general partnership of men and women and a better understanding by men of women."

Vending Machines, Pay Phone Tell Tale
Of Three 'Free-Slugging' SIU Students

By Frank Measeramith

The whole thing started with the browsing of a magazine article which stated only "one out of every 10,000 persons who cheats pay telephones is ever caught."

The student holding the magazine stopped skimming the pages and focused his attention on the article. He discovered the story gave the exact size, weight, thickness and diameter of slugs that would operate vending machines and pay telephones.

The student called over his two friends and pointed to the article. He disarmed the other two with his knowledge of what is right and wrong. They became interested in the novelty of cheating a pay machine with slugs.

It was not an original idea; slugs have been found in the coin boxes of vending machines for years. But it was the first time the three had ever thought of really trying to cheat the devices with slugs.

There is a factory in my home town that turns out slugs like this as a waste material," one student said.

Another, still reading the magazine, said, "Yeah, it's even listed in this story as one of the few factories that makes trailers that don't have to be altered to fit coin machines."

The following weekend the student went home and bought a quantity of the slugs. The next day, the student experimented with the slugs.

"Check the hall and see if anyone's coming. It's okay," one of the students said.

The slug dropped into the machine with a familiar clink. A cup dropped into position and a soft drink filler was inserted into the container. One student looked at the other, and each smiled broadly. Success on the first attempt.

The experimenting continued with the vending machines, and soon the Automatic Retailers Association (vending machine distributors) of Carbondale began to notice an increase of slugs found in their equipment on the SIU campus.

But Students Hedge Reaction
Until Effectiveness Shown

Most students feel Mayor D. Blanney Miller's proposal that SIU students should sit on the Carbondale City Council an advisory board be a good idea.

Many students, however, expressed reservations about the actual accomplishments of such a committee.

Alan S. Hershmovic, governor's representative from Chicago, said the proposal sounds like a good idea, "as long as the students weren't going to become a dummy group for the Carbondale Council."

"This is a step towards better relations in the University community," he said.

Our Best Chance Yet for Rapport

Mayor D. Blaney Miller's suggestion that a committee of SIU students sit in on Carbondale City Council meetings is an excellent idea. The hope is made in better faith than has been the case in the past. The Sigma Delta Chi "Face the Campus" press conference last week demonstrated this.

The Carbondale Student Senate has already suggested such action and Carbondale student body president George Paluch has agreed to extend its bylaws to provide a commissioner and a Campus-Community Committee whose general duties fall in this category. Action on this will be made at the Student Senate meeting.

We urge Paluch and the senate to exercise care in naming the committee members. To overlook the group of members of one group would severely limit its chances for helping campus-community relations.

This means the committee should not consist of three action-enemy members. It should be made up of a majority of Greeks, Independents, motorcycle advocates, or any other group.

Nor should Paluch or vice president John Paul Davie be members of the committee. Their very identities as campus leaders would introduce student political overtones which have no place in such a committee. A "political" committee would be taken with a grain of salt, and rightly so.

But, properly conceived and properly appointed, the Campus-Community committee can be the first step toward an equitable Carbondale-SIU relationship.

Viet Nam: Really "Our Last Colonial War?"

There is a question I must ask myself about the war in Viet Nam. Many of the people I have talked to say: "Well we're there, we've been there for years, now we're there forever." But now that we're there, don't we have to stay? Don't we have to stop?

SIU Glee Club
To Open Latin Studies Forum

The University Glee Club, directed by Robert W. Kinsbury, will present a concert of Latin American music at 8 p.m. today in Morris Library Auditorium.

"Problems of Institutionalism in Loyalties in the Changing Contemporary Periphery," a lecture by Luis A. Baran, professor of philosophy at SIU, will be the general theme of the meeting. Institutionalism is one of the critically important problems of cooperation between the United States and Latin America, according to Albert W. Boldt, chairman of the program committee, and director of the Latin American Institute.

Merrill Rippey of Ball State University will present a co-teaching session. The meeting is expected to bring together about 75 prominent specialists in the field, including Professor Harry Loworzitz of Washington University, David Ramney of St. Louis University, and John R. Hildebrand of Texas Technological College.

MANHATTAN WITHOUT COLOR—New York skyscrapers and apartment buildings, without their usual brilliance,look lifeless during the blackout Tuesday. Lights went out during the evening rush hour, trapping masses of people in elevator cars and subway. In foreground is the Hudson River, with ships lighted by their own power systems.

Electricity Failure Causes Look Into Man, Machine, Technology

By Saul Pett
NEW YORK (AP) — One fouled-up switch, Or a single failure in a wire connection, Or indigestion in a fool-proof computer, Or any one of a hundred tiny things gone wrong.

And upward of 30 million people in seven highly developed American states are thrown into black confusion in the year 1965 when men orbit the earth and their spacecraft explore the moon. Rarely has modern man appeared so vulnerable to his own technical achievements. Rarely has modern society appeared so knotted by its own interrelated complexities.

The thing they told us couldn’t happen happened Tuesday night and all the giants of automation and all the electronic brains of the computers were helpless to stop the power failure that spread through the Northeast.
Trapped Passengers Play Games in Car

NEW YORK (AP) — Consolidated Edison Co., which serves electricity to New York City and some of the metropolitan area, said in a statement Wednesday that the blackout appeared to have been caused by a massive loss of generating capacity somewhere on the interconnected electrical system to the north of our territory.

"This threw so much load on the remaining facilities of the combined electric companies in the Northeast that they were unable to meet the load and the entire electrical system collapsed, losing its synchronism," the company said.

There was a generalness to the people during the emergency; sharing the ordeal had a mellowing effect. In one stalled subway train, George Markoff, a business executive, led his fellow passengers in games — charades, 20 questions, spelling games. Another scattered episodes:

— In Rochester, N.Y., police cordoned off a 20-block area against possible disorder — the area of racial rioting during the summer of 1964. There was none.

— In Walpole, Mass., about 300 state prison inmates smashed furniture and ripped off call block doors before guards quieted them.

In New York City, the ordeal reached into every person's life.

— A jury sat by candlelight and reached its verdict.

— Canadian violinist Yehudi Menuhin Bress performed as scheduled, for an audience of 50; and the show went on at Theater East, before an audience of seven.

— Along the Avenue of the Americas some people set fire to trash baskets for light and warmth.

— More than 500 fire alarms, some of them false, were sounded.

The great metropolis was a strangely beautiful city. A full moon and starlit skies painted the darkened skyscrapers with a dreamy glow. Cardiis shed light from restaurant windows.

"For the first time," said a woman after a visit to St. Patrick's Cathedral, "I've seen the stars in New York City."

U.S. Officer Directs Operation; Advisory Role Under Change

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A flotilla of 12 destroyers, escort and minesweepers and two or possibly three guerrilla fighting units were en route early Wednesday to re-supply the Viet Cong under heavy enemy fire to move baskets for light and warmth.

A war correspondent reported seeing a woman after a visit to St. Patrick's Cathedral.

U.S. Officer Directs Operation; Advisory Role Under Change

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Army officer directs operation; advisory role under change.

Gregory Will Run For Chicago Mayor

CHICAGO (AP) — Comedian Dick Gregory said Wednesday he will run for mayor of Chicago next year as an independent Democrat.

Craving national attention, however, in the past he always pointed that the struggle is fundamentally a Vietnamese war.

The Marines hit the beach from landing craft of the U.S. 7th Fleet, expecting to engage two or possibly three guerrilla companies that intelligence agents reported were in the area.

Initial results, however, were slight. The Marines killed one Viet Cong and rounded up a number of suspects.

Not until next week will American authorities release figures on U.S. losses in the major battle Monday between paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and Communist troops in Zone D.

The cycles are an entirely different concept of a vehicle. Joseph Zalewski, assistant dean of student affairs, noted as he expressed the belief that training is needed for the operation of this vehicle before a person is allowed to operate it.

The officers expressed interest in an idea proposed by Bill Colp, owner of Honda of Carbondale, who is trying to organize area cycle dealers to provide a training area for cycle riders.

Also noted at the meeting was the apparent lack of acceptance by cyclists of the reflective vest intended to increase visibility. It was suggested that perhaps a reflective helmet would be a better solution.

A student traffic court to handle the numerous complaints received by the Student Affairs Office and other agencies concerning vehicle operation on the campus was the consensus of the group.

Such a plan, it was pointed out, would augment undermanned local law enforcement agencies, in enforcing traffic laws in the campus community.

Football Scholarship Controversy
Centers Around Activity Fees

By Jeffery Raffle

Why has McAndrew Stadium been such a dismal place this season? The answer is obvious—the SIU football team has had a bad season. But there are those who insist on knowing why, and for every one, there are at least three drugstore quarterbacks with an answer.

Perhaps the most authoritative explanation comes from the coaching staff, whose members say that it’s largely the fault of poor recruiting due to inadequate scholarships. The prestige tie to the University in the long run, the University ought to pay for the athletes. They go towards building athletic prestige, The real incentive ought to be the education offered by the school.

Recent, Northern Illinois University put through a $20 a year student fee for athletics. Northern will use the money for 115 NCAA scholarships and a new stadium. This seems to have given impetus to long-sought action here. Last week, the Carbondale Campus Senate voted to increase the student fee for athletics fund $2 per student from the regular activity fee.

How does this increase compare? Do students like the suggestions for more athletic funding? George J. DiIorioardi, a graduate student in marketing, said, “I feel that a $2 increase would be entirely adequate.”

A classmate, a freshman, said, “I favor an increase, Two dollars wouldn’t be out of line. Personally I would be willing to pay five or six dollars, but some people might get hurt by this much.”

Anthony F. Hodson, a freshman, said, “I would be willing to give five or six dollars if it all went into scholar­ship program.”

John Jordan, a sophomore in industrial education, said, “Five dollars a quarter is a fair increase.”

Many coaches feel that SIU’s athletic program requires more money from students. They insist that a healthy increase would be great for student athletes.

First, better players could be obtained and SIU might start winning. Second, better competition could be scheduled and gates would vastly improve, easing some of the financial load on students.

The basic question boils down to this: How important is the athletic program to the students of SIU? The answer is that football really captures the spirit of college life. It would be worth four more dollars to me.”
Southern Seeks to Bounce Back Against Ball Cardinals Bring Unsullied Slate Into Game, Seek Saluki Pelt

An undefeated and untied season record and the prestige of defeating the largest school on their football schedule are in store for the Cardinals of Ball State University if they win their Saturday game with SIU.

Southern, with a dismal 1-7 record, will play away with the Cardinals, who have a bright 8-0 record.

Ball State has already wrapped up the Indiana Collegiate Conference crown by defeating St. Joseph's (Ind.) College last weekend 42-19.

Coach Don Shroyer says the Salukis will face a tough opponent Saturday in Muncie.

FRANK HOUK

home of Ball State, The Cardinals have been averaging a frightening 240 yards per game on the ground.

An advocate of a strong running game, Coach Ray Louchen of Ball State has watched his boys score on long and spectacular offensive plays.

Cardinal right half Jim Todd ran 59 yards to score from the scrimmage line, and left half Dean Howard made 53 and 47-yard pass receptions for touchdowns in their Oct. 23 game with Butler.

Louchen has cause to be apprehensive when discussing Saluki quarterback Jim Hara, who holds most of SIU's aerial records.

But Hara was injured in the Northern Michigan game Saturday, but he will probably return to the lineup.

Doug Mougey is Hart's backup.

Four Salukis are out for the rest of the season with injuries. They are defensive backans Don Jones and Jim Condill and lineemen Isaac Brigham and Jerry Moore.

Hart will be up against Cardinal quarterback Frank Paluch during the interview.

Students with questions may call Paluch during the interview.

STEVE PISKULA

St. Joseph's game, with 213 yards rushing and 340 passing.

Power runner for Ball State is fullback Dave Bovina, who had gained 297 yards rushing, previous to the St. Joseph's game.

The Cardinals' defense does not balance their ground-gaining offense leaders. Guard Steve Piskula was named as the most valuable lineman in last year's Indiana Collegiate Conference championship but he is the only outstanding performer.

The center position of the Cardinal's line is weak, because graduation took men from this spot.

Saturday's game will be the last for Ball State, and its 9,000-seat stadium should be filled for the bout with the Salukis. Game time is 2 p.m.

Southern will be playing its next to last game, and will have a chance to equal last year's 8-6 mark. This will be the first meeting of the football teams of the two schools.

and his men had been figuring out a method to track down the unknown persons using the slugs.

With the assistance of Harold Howe, director comcmercial manager of General Telephone, a plan was outlined.

Operators handling calls from pay telephones on cam-bus were instructed to keep a close log on all long-distance telephone calls. It's normal practice for a long-distance call to be logged as to the location to which it is placed, the denomination of coins used, the amount of coins used and the time of the call.

Then the coin boxes of pay telephones on campus were emptied, the number of slugs found in the receptacles was written down.

It was discovered that by checking the number of slugs found in the telephones with the company records for those telephones, the slugs could be related to individual calls.

For example, one telephone located in a relatively isolated location had 14 slugs in the coin box. The operator had several long-distance calls recorded. For one, the operator was using coins valued at $1.40, and the record showed that 14 dimes had been used for payment of the call.

The officer went to work
checking the calls at both ends.
Finally, the frequency of tele-call by the calls the students busted to pinpoints who was making the calls.

Presidential Adviser Predicts
Draft for Both Men, Women

Miss Hickey has been instrumental in encouraging industry and government to give full recognition to achievements and problems of working women. She has recently been interested in the specific problems of career developments of college women.

"Many college women have a narrow outlook of where their education can take them," said Miss Hickey. "In to-day's society a woman needs a different type of education with patterns of career development in much broader fields."

Miss Hickey, who visited the University of California recently, said she believes that college women do not have to let their career training become stagnant when they marry. "Wait until the children are grown," Miss Hickey erected.

"When a woman in 40 she has at least 30 years of activity and service ahead of her. The education will never go to waste," Miss Hickey declared. "Either after a woman retires, she is always a citizen and she should never stop functioning as a good woman."

The whole concept of women in society is ever-changing, according to the veteran presidential adviser. "I trul-ly believe now that some day there will be a universal draft, for both men and women," Miss Hickey said.
