Voters Across Nation Give Republicans Nod

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts Tuesday night became the first Negro ever elected to the Senate by popular vote. Gov. George Romney swept to a massive Republican re-election victory in Michigan.

Brooke defeated a Yankee Democrat on his way to his historic triumph, Romney showed his presidential possibilities by pulling other Michigan Republicans in with him. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller won re-election in New York, battling back three opponents. Actor Ronald Reagan—waited in the West. Reagan, a man with conservative credentials dating from the days of Barry Goldwater, led Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown as the early scattered votes arrived.

The National Broadcasting Co. said Reagan had won. Brooke foiled white backlash, in a state where Negroes are but a tiny fraction of the electorate, and topped Endiscott Peabody, former governor, former All-American football player at Harvard.

In Maryland, Republican Spiro T. Agnew bested the backlash, too, topping George M. Mahoney for the governorship. Democrat Mahoney campaigned under a banner of opposition to open-housing laws.

But resistance to the pace of Negro rights advances cut both ways.

In Alabama, Lurleen Wallace easily kept the governorship in her husband's name. Barred by the state constitution from another term, Gov. George C. Wallace made his wife his proxy—and her easy victory could propel him into another third-party presidential move.

Democrats were certain to control Congress, but the Republicans showed a net gain of at least two in the Senate and probably around 30 in the House.

In governors' races the GOP seemed likely to show a net gain of four.

The Republicans captured Southern governorships—their first since the era of Reconstruction—and a Democrat captured the governorship of Kansas by ousting a Republican incumbent.

Charles H. Percy, 47-year-old Republican and former industrialist, was elected U.S. Senator from Illinois Tuesday night.

Sense on China And
The Post-Dispatch

On the very day that Red China's nuclear missile burstling accurately from point A to point B, and hinted darkly about the possible use of nuclear arms in Vietnam, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch published an editorial entitled "Sense on China." It is a most potent point from a recent publication of a national-policy panel of the United Nations Association. The panel came to the following conclusions:

1) Peking should be offered a seat on the Security Council, and if she refuses, further consideration of her seating should be deferred, thus placing the onus of isolationism on her.

2) A seat is admitted, she will be increasingly exposed to the force of international opinion, and in dread fear of offending will moderate her policies, and, at any rate, the "current social turmoil" now sweeping through the Communist areas and other reason to admit Peking, to provide (fresh, timely encouragement to those moderate forces which still remain in China.

The points are interesting. Point one, for instance, is interesting because it is superfluous. Peking has already said about as much as she is going to say. She doesn't want a UN seat, so there is no real reason to ask. Unless, of course, we feel that the Peking regime is a regime of Ira who may be, in the future, what they mean. If the Peking the UN an admission that it is in a state of "prevarication" as the principle upon which Peking formulates policy, then this point may be said to have some merit, I suppose.

Point two is interesting be-cause it is silly. It is silly to think that Peking, with substantially change policies which have brought her to the very threshold of becoming a world nuclear power any-way. It is ridiculous to assume that the tacit implication of "sanction" of those policies by the world-at-large (which would be the only way to view a reversal of UN policy) will precipitate a change. It is interesting to note, by the way, that this argument flatly asserts that Chinese policies are frightful need of changing. Genocide is, after all, a UN-no-no.

The third point is a point which is a truly ingenious one for it asserts that current internal policy of the Peking is directed to exterminating all moderating influences, and that consequently the only way to save the Moderates is to embrace the exterminators, Hmmm. I seem to recall a great deal of wailing and gnashing of editorial teeth on the part of the Post-Dispatch over the extremist wing of the Republican Party is trying to destroy the moderate wing. I do not re-call, however, that the Post-Dispatch was silenced by naming Robert Welch the Republican national chair-man. An accidental oversight, no doubt. Phil Weber

We Goofed

It has been called to our atten-tion that in our article of a week ago urging the es-tablishment of a speed-read-ing course we overlooked the introduction of such a course this last quarter. We apologize for the oversight, congratulate those responsible for the de-velopment of the program, and en-courage students to avail themselves of this excellent educational opportunity and wish Dr. Birger and his staff the best of luck in their project.

H.E.L.P. Try To

For far too long both students and townspeople have suffered at the hands of the merchants who, recognizing the oligopolistic nature of their relationship to a vast consumer public, have had no qualms about milking it to their every advantage. The recent tide of price increases felt across the nation has no-where had a greater impact than in Carbondale. While it seems some token increase might be justified in light of the increased demand resulting from last year's short-ages, such an increase as we have witnessed most certainly cannot.

We deplore the attempt on the part of some merchants to employ the general price in-crease the country has wit-neesed as an excuse to raise prices beyond the level the circumstances require. We commend the ladies of HELP (Housewives Effort to Lower Prices) for their approach to the problem and encourage the students and faculty of SIU to aid them in their action. The problem is common to all our welfare. Perhaps about time we try to solve it.

Mr. David Wilson—who has recently acquired for himself the synonymic distinction of becoming the only professional anarchist in history to resign in frustration from a governing organization because, "We were an inept, power- less, non-productive body"—spent much of last week upon these pages a gay, Dionysian dance against the draft, bellowing abusively blossoms of rhetoric happily down upon the uncontestable fact that an educated citizenry is what makes a democracy free. Firing Bunker Hill, David Wilson's subjec­ tory is not all, surely. For once this army of literati has galumphed itselfeducated about the countryside, verbal text-book in hand, and smashed one another free, who, pray tell, does Wilson suspect keeps them free? The Great Pumpkin?

Not exactly. Looking closely, one can see Wilson's articles a colorful, double-edged sword in which he imagines a democracy to be defended—a picture which consists of millions of what he above educated citizens rallies, shoveling through the pages of the colors, once Paul Revere galloped out of the night with his effect that the Russians have occupied New York City. May we hope that Mr. David Wilson suggested last week, that this is the effect that the Russians may the way to appreciate the full beauty of his quaht sys tem of national defense based on the Green Mountain Boys and the Minute­ men, perhaps, but I am horri­bly paranoid: the night I read Wilson's article, I dreamed that I was armed and turned the Green Mountain Boys and the Minute­ men over to David Wilson and Robert DeFugh. The new Student Guidebook, just released, reminds one and all that "attending the University is a privilege, not a right." This is founded on the assumption that the administration's persistent policy of "exerting control" is making it subservient in some cases to the whim and demand of the University.

President Morris graciously acknowledged that students have the right to "express your views to yourselves and to me, and I where to live, but he states categorically that he can't do go to Southern.

Nowhere in the new Guidebook has the Administration indicated by what power it has been granted through the housing of students; control over their ownership and use of the property itself; or over their living quarters. Mr. Morris has pointed out that such a possibility is not without recent precedent. Further, he stressed the fact that although he would actually own the office, his steady hand would still guide the ship of state. In this way, we promise that city policy will continue to be the same old Filler.

Extremists in the Pursuit of Peace

Once upon a midnight blackened, when the rains outside had silenced the chattering going on outside my door. And the thundering grew distant, and the lightning lit my door. Terror gripped the whiteness of my heart. "It's mine!" I swore. "Birches was not outside my door!"

Now you may ask me (and quite rightly) how I knew that not that night. Gathering of unseen rabbles which had massed before my door.

Was composed of those professing anti-communist faith, anti-racist faith, anti-fascist faith.

Right-wing, neo-Nazi nationals, who had been banned by Now I know how was SoNE committee, no pickets sent by C.O.R. they had barred them outside my door.

One there were no placards urging Nationalist Chile's U.N. purging, two of the patriotic voices chanted to "End the War"

Three: no pacifists deprived of their rights.

The Raving Or

"Extremists in no Voice, Charlie. Imanded U.N. troops forthwith to be banished from West Africa, to kill Rhodesia's underbanned bid to gain the right to vote."

Nor was there any voice heard crying, "Ban the Bomb!" or "No war is a war!" Four: no sage studied slavery. A moral act than bravery.

"Agrarian reform was an attempt to get outside mora mora law."

"Surely they're insane," I muttered. "There's nothing to fear and hate are slurred." Five: "Agrarian reform was an attempt to get outside mora law."

And bravely stepping into the darkness I performed my legal charge.

"Nasty on you all!" I swore.

"Extremists now lurk around me, everywhere I go they found me!"

"That's not where I am from!" I bellowed at the woodwork, from the cracks all around.

In my attic I have fought them, in my inlaw I have fought them.

And I'm sure if there is one fight I could find them, "They've bored my door!"

Picked them behind the door and the sacred bust of Lippman "We can torment you no more."
Students to Attend Chicago Meeting

About 10 seniors and juniors in journalism will attend the Industrial Editorial Association's luncheon meeting Nov. 16 in Chicago.

James L. C. Ford, professor of journalism and head of the magazine sequence, will accompany the group. They will visit the editorial offices of several magazines, and will stay overnight in Skokie, as guests of the Standard Rate and Data Service. The group will also meet with Walter Botthof, chairman of the board, and Carroll Swan, editor of Media/Scope, a standard Rate and Data Service publication.

A tour of the Standard Rate and Data plant is also planned.
Angel Flight recently initiated 40 new members.

In order to become Angel Flight members, the pledges went through two auditions and personal interviews. They were chosen on the basis of their charm, poise, appearance and scholarship.

Angel Flight consists of two groups. The Angellettes, which is the singing group and the Angellettes, the dancing group. The SIU Angel Flight is the only one in the United States that is organized in this way. The purpose of the group is to promote the interest of the college man in the Air Force ROTC program.

The organization’s performance on campus and throughout the United States, and through various service programs, helps them fulfill this purpose.

Those initiated as Angellettes are Toni Benston, Marie Berry, Pam Bridwell, Sherry Browning, Mary Denehart, Marjorie Freeman, Linda Grealish, Marsha Hopkins, Sherry Hudson, Kathy McCormick, Sandra Pearson, Jeanne Rust, Janice Seibert, Judy Smith and Linda Whitehouse.

Faculty Committee Proposes Student Vote on School Policy

"Students should be involved in significant ways in the overall policy decisions regarding educational practices," states the first objective in a report that will be made to the SIU chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

The meeting has been set for 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Student Christian Foundation.

The report is a result of the undertakings of the Student Involvement Commission, of which Don Ihde, assistant professor in philosophy, is chairman.

The committee, which is a segment of the local AACP, also will present three resolutions that are concerned with this objective.

They are:

SIU Librarian Elected

Harold H. Rath, special services librarian at SIU, will represent the Illinois Library Association at a national meeting of library associations at Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, Wednesday to Friday.

Rath was named president-elect of the ILA at its October meeting. He will assume office in the fall of 1967. Rath is currently vice president.

Gemini Pilots Faced
With One Day Delay

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—With frustrating sud­denness, Gemini 12's two eager pilots Tuesday suffered a one-day delay, until Thurs­day, to allow time to space for a bold, four-day voyage 38 times around the world.

Quickly and without warning, troubleshooted an electrical system on the mighty Titan 2 rocket tabled to propel Navy Capt. John W. Young and Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Al­drin into space.

LBJ Backs
Crime Fight,
Signs 3 Bills

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson signed into law Tuesday three "crusade against crime" bills which he said would help "bring new dimensions to law enforcement and adminis­tration of justice."

Johnson signed the measures at a hotel near here, standing beside him and crooking each signa­ture was acting Atty. Gen., Ramsey Clark, who flew to Texas the morning to confer with the President.

These were the three new laws:

—The Narcotics Addict Rehabilitation Act, under which, Johnson said, "recognizes that treating addicts as criminals neither curtails their dangerous nor prevents crime."

—Under the new law, many addicts will receive medical treatment instead of prison sentences.

—A measure creating a 12-member bipartisan commission to recommend a code of crim­inal justice structures and a general over­haul of the federal system of criminal justice.

—A measure extending until 1973 the $250 million program of grants to local agencies and nonprofit organizations to try experimental approaches in the law enforcement field.

Erhard Agrees to Support
Successor Chosen by Party

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard agreed Tuesday night after a sharp parliamentary setback to let his Christian Demo­cratic successor and said he would support any one of four men for his job.

The full membership of the party was to meet today to select the candidate whom President Heinrich Luebcke will nominate to Parliament to try to end the crisis precipitated by the breakdown of Er­hard's ruling coalition late last month.

Erhard, 69 and head of the Western German government for the past three years, agreed support any one of these four men as his successors:

—Rainer Barzel, 42, Christian Democratic leader in the Bundestag
—Eugene Gerstenmaier, 60, president of the Bundestag
—Kurt—Georg Kiesinger, 62, prime minister of the State of Baden-Wuerttemberg
—Gerhard Schroeder, 54, West German foreign minis­ter

Schroeder is regarded as Erhard's personal choice as successor.

Erhard also agreed to head a three-member commission to negotiate with other two major parties in the Bundestag to try to form a majority gov­ernment.

The chancellor's decision was announced by a spokes­man a few hours after a majority in the Bundestag urged Erhard— the man considered responsi­ble for West Germany's eco­nomic recovery miracle—to ask for a formal vote of confidence.

He refused, saying, "I de­cline to take part in a show­trial."

But he repeated that he would not stand in the way of anyone who could create a ma­jority in the Bundestag.

The current government crisis erupted Oct. 27 when the Free Democrats broke with Erhard, and his parliamentary majority vanished.
Common Bible Urged As Step Toward Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In a major Christian unity move, the Vatican announced Tuesday that Pope Paul VI has authorized the Roman Catholic Church to work with other Christians for a common Bible.

An American priest from Boston, the Rev. Walter M. Abbott, was named to direct the project for the Church.

Father Abbott, 45, long a leader in the ecumenical—unity movement, called the common Bible project basic to the efforts to bring separated Christians together.

"Without a common Bible," he said in a comment on his appointment, "there will be no unity."

The Vatican Ecumenical Council, in what was a victory for progressive bishops of the Catholic Church had endorsed the concept of a Bible that could be used by all Christians.

The pope’s action implemented the decision and gave over-all responsibility for the effort to the Vatican Christian unity secretary, Father Abbott was appointed assistant to the secretary, Augustin Cardinal Bea, for the direction of the common Bible project.

Columbia University Offers Students ‘Bar’ Training

NEW YORK (AP)—If the bartender you go to looks awfully young, it may be because he learned that mark at Columbia University.

He probably has been giving two hours every Thursday night or Saturday morning to sit in a lecture hall and absorb all the tricks of drink mixing—not for his own consumption, but to help pay his tuition.

The course in tending bar has been taught for several years as part of the universi’s student employment program.

It’s so popular that this year, with an enrollment of 100, the university had to set up two weekly sessions.

The students spend two hours listening to Joseph Reilly, long-time bar manager at the Barclay Hotel, and a teetotaler—explain the fine points of turning vodka or brandy into a white-snow, egg white into a white-snow, joke, a white-snow into a white-snow.

When they’ve learned how to mix scores of drinks, and the right glasses to pour them in, the students may join a student bartending agency and go out on parties—at $2.50 an hour.

A Columbia student bar-tender made the drinks for Jane Fonda’s birthday party, and the bars at publishers parties for Elia Kazan, Arnold Schulman and others were manned by Columbia youths.

Many United Nations Officials have shown the student agency for bartenders for their more informal gatherings.

One of the most experienced of the young drink-mixers in Alnis Grant of Cleveland, who took the course as a freshman and is now a junior, Young Grant says that, besides the money, he likes the crowd and become a real connoisseur.

But Grant has soothing words for the parents of the young bartenders.

"The temptation to drink on the job is slight," he says. "You’re too busy mixing ‘em at the time, too tired after to care."

Harvard Tells McNamara It’s ‘Appalled’

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Harvard College formally apologized Tuesday to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamar for the "discourteous and unruly confrontation" Monday by anti-war demonstrators.

McNamara’s path was blocked by some 400 demonstrators as he left the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Institute of Politics. He was jeered and heckled when he tried to answer questions about the Viet Nam war.

Dean John U. Munroe of Harvard wrote to McNamara:

"Such rudeness and physical confrontation have no place in the university world, and we are appalled that it should happen here at Harvard."

"We appreciate very much your willingness to take time during your visit to talk with undergraduates, and we are much disturbed by the unpleasant finale in the streets."

McNamara’s car was blocked by some 100 students.

The secretary sought to talk with the jeering and heckling crowd, but the demonstrators set up such a din he could not make himself heard.

Meeting Called Today

Senate to Organize SIU ‘Free School’

A free school will be organized by the student government at 7:30 p.m. today in Room D of the University Center.

In a free school the students determine the course curriculum and the educational process. It is modeled after the Free University of New York, according to Charles Bauman, one of the organizers.

The school is to be run by the students with faculty invited to participate as resource persons.

At tonight’s meeting classes will be described and meeting places and times announced.

The following courses are already planned:

1. The Other America: dealing with the poor, based on Michael Harrington’s “The Other America.” The course will include trips, films and speakers as well as student research.
2. University Citizenship: dealing with Don Ihde’s concept of University citizenship.
3. International Folk Dancing: to be started by George Boessell of Forest Hall.

Folk Music, USA: including workshops and studies of blues, folk-rock and folk music past and present.

Anthropology Seminar: to be arranged with an anthropologist graduate student.

Philosophy Colloquium: with several undergraduate philosophy majors presenting their special interest in philosophy. To be arranged with Jerry Blair.

U.S. World Involvement: studying of United States foreign involvement from Latin America to Africa to Viet Nam. To be arranged with several foreign students.

The Woman’s Roles in America: to be led by some SIU women.

Poetry: readings, study of selected poets, and writing.

To be arranged with Larry Jassett.

A History of the Civil Rights movement; to be arranged with the help of the Department of History.

Social change; different approaches to social change. To be arranged with Ray Lemzi.

Current Events Seminar: a weekly presentation of current topics. Speakers, films and discussions to be arranged with Charles Bauman.

Other courses in literature, student-film-making, environment and man, experimental math, the “new” technology and economic analysis have also been suggested. These and other courses will be offered if there are students to reach and attend them.

Lauchner to Speak

Julian H. Lauchner, dean of the School of Technology, will speak on engineering at a meeting of the Saline County Alumni Club at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in Muddy, Ill.

We set out to ruin some ball bearings and failed successfully

The Bell System has many small, automatic telephone offices around the country. The equipment in them could operate unattended for ten years or so, but for a problem.

The many electric motors in those offices needed lubrication at least once a year. Heat from the motors dried up the bearing oils, thus entailing costly annual maintenance.

To stamp out this problem, many tests were conducted at Bell Telephone Laboratories. Lubricant engineer George H. Kitchen decided to do a basic experiment that would provide a motor with the worst possible conditions. He deliberately set out to ruin some ball bearings by smearing them with an icky gunk called molybdenum disulfide (MoS₂).

Swock! This solid lubricant, used a certain way, actually increased the life expectancy of the ball bearings by a factor of ten! Now the motors can run for at least a decade without lubrication.

We’ve learned from our “failures.” Our aim: investigate everything.

The only experiment that can really be said to “fail” is the one that is never tried.
SIU's Latin American Institute Helps Poor Abroad

By Lockhart Hines

In an age of increasing awareness of domestic problems, SIU's Latin American Institute is participating in the battle against economic difficulties abroad.

Charles Ekker, assistant director of the institute, said the primary effort in alleviating many of the problems in Latin America is directed at increasing the economic potential of each individual.

"By proper use of human intellectual and physical energy, combined with natural resources and tools, productivity can be increased in many economically depressed areas," Ekker said.

How is this to be done? Ekker explained that each individual trained at SIU has more opportunity to use his training directly abroad than he does in the U.S., because trained personnel are so scarce in underdeveloped areas.

"When a person works abroad," Ekker said, "the advantages are mutual. He learns the language and gets a first-hand look at the social conditions. When he returns to the U.S., he has much greater value to a company which may be interested in foreign markets."

"The host country also benefits," Ekker said. "The need in many Latin-American areas is not for advanced equipment and sophisticated agricultural methods, but for training of resources that are already there."

The Latin American Institute is stimulating interest in its program by showing the direct relationship between North and South America.

Ekker used a farm equipment company as an example to illustrate the economic tie. "This company sells large amounts of equipment to Latin America. If we send trained personnel abroad to increase production of a crop, this increase will in time create a demand for tractors and other equipment."

The Latin American Institute is promoting this kind of relationship as a major part of its efforts to alleviate economic problems that beset many of the U.S.'s southern neighbors.

"To justify our existence as an advanced nation, we must coordinate our efforts to increase productivity everywhere," Ekker said.

JOURNALISM STUDENTS TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Three journalism students plan to attend the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, in Pittsburgh, Pa.

They are Laurel E. Werth, a senior; John W. Eppersheimer, a junior, and John M. Goodrich III, a senior.

Charles C. Clayton, faculty adviser of the SIU chapter, will also attend the convention, which starts on Wednesday and lasts until Saturday.
The Southern Illinois University Press has announced the forthcoming publication of the complete papers of the 18th president of the United States, according to Vernon Sternberg, director of the press.

The publication, "The Papers of Ulysses S. Grant," will begin on April 27, 1967, the 145th anniversary of Grant's birth.

The work will begin with volume one, covering the pre-war years from 1837 to 1861, and is scheduled to be completed in 15 volumes, over a period of 10 years.

The new work will fill one of the most regrettable barren spots in American historical publishing by including the text of all available Grant letters, according to Sternberg.

"In spite of Grant's outstanding influence on the growth of his country and the mirroring of his own life in many of the triumphs and failures, and the virtues and faults of 19th century America, there has been a conspicuously absence of any adequate compilation of his correspondence," said Sternberg.

Only two small volumes of personal letters of the military leader and statesman have been published, Sternberg said, and these were not only of dubious editorship but have been out of print for more than a century.

The Grant papers are being prepared by the Ulysses S. Grant Association, executive director, and editor of the volume is John Y. Simon, associate professor of history at SIU Sternberg said.

The editors of the edition have, according to Sternberg "followed the most exacting editorial standards in order to meet academic scholarly demands, and research on the project is carried out with all the advantages that excellent modern technical and human facilities offer."

With help from the National Historical Publications Commission, the project's editors hope the published Grant papers will be as complete as they can in every respect, Sternberg continued. "To meet this aim, it will be necessary either to print or to not in reference every single Grant document, and even the most routine papers will be meticulously noted with a list of their dates, occasion and present location."

Current plans call for the 15 volumes to be published in chronological series, each series covering a period of Grant's life, said Sternberg.
SIDELINE REPAIRS—Eddie Richards (22) receives medication for an elbow injury suffered against Ball State Saturday and will be replaced by junior Tom Wirth, according to Rainsberger.

As Basketball Looms Ahead

Basketball season is less than a month away now and Coach Jack Hartman is optimistic about the progress made in practice thus far. But he adds that there is a lot of work to be done before the Dec. 5 opener with State College of Iowa in the Arena.

Walt Frazier has recovered from a foot injury suffered early in practice and has returned to the team. Frazier has missed several practice sessions, but his foot has responded well and he appears to be at full strength, according to Hartman.

Aside from two minor injuries, the Salukis are in good condition physically. Bobby Jackson suffered a broken nose and his practice and Jay Westcott caught an elbow in the eye.

Hartman said, "The team has done a good job on what they have covered thus far. Defensively we have come a long way in early practices. The offense is solid and more balanced than last year.

"We should be able to score from all positions equally well this year, whereas last year we got most of our scoring from the guards. Things are going real well. The boys have been working very hard."

"Ralph Johnson, at center, Clarence Smith, at forward, and Frazier at guard have looked real solid," he added.

By Tom Wood

Saluki end Tom Massey is out for the season and Coach Rainsberger is replacing the third freshman in three weeks into his starting offensive line.

Sam Holden will be starting a tight end against Ball State Saturday and regular tight end John Ference will be moved into Massey's spot next week.

Massey suffered a serious ankle sprain against Ball State Michigan. Fullback Hill Williams also injured his ankle and will probably miss the Ball State contest. Williams will be replaced by junior Tom Wirth, according to Rainsberger.

Still Work to Be Done

Hartman Cites Team Balance As Basketball Looms Ahead

JACKSON suffered a broken elbow. Craig Whinston, knee; Roger Kubas, wrist; and Doug Mogeuy, elbow and groin.

Hartman said he would be working Tim Kelley and Bobby Allen, in addition to Mogeuy, at quarterback during practice sessions this week and will probably miss the offense.

"The Salukis fared better over to Northern Michigan seven times last week and penetrated the 50-yard line only twice the entire game. Rainsberger drew similar comments between this week's rival Ball State and Northern Michigan."

"They are similar in that both are big and strong and hit very hard. Ball State also has a strong running game," he said.

"They do, however, throw the pass well, using it to keep the opponent off balance," he said.

"Ball State has tremendous size. Their defensive tackles are 268 and 255 pounds. Halfback Amos Van Pelt is their leading rusher and he weighs 225," Rainsberger said.

The Salukis face a real depth problem according to Rainsberger.

"We will have to bring up several freshmen to fill in as substitutes in both our offensive and defensive lines," he said.

Ball State brings a 0-1-1 record into Saturday's contest. The Cardinals have won the Indiana College Conference championship for the third consecutive year.

Bill Meade, head gymnastics coach at SIU, looks at the upcoming season optimistically.

Meade believes that this year’s team will be even better than last year’s, which won the NCAA crown.

This team is capable of winning the NCAA crown. The winner in the team that works the hardest, and we work harder than any team," he said.

The last time the SIU gymnastics team met defeat in a dual meet was in 1960. Since then, the Salukis have reeled off a string of 13 straight dual meet victories and have won the NCAA gymnastics crown twice, in 1964 and 1966.

Regarding this amazing winning streak, Meade says, "If we can get by our first three dual meets, then the season will be well along, and it will be then that we'll be in the thick of things."

Lettermen counted on to make that statement a reality are Mike Boiger, Jeff Hurl Dvorak, Hardie, Harrad, and Larry Lindey, Joe Polizzano, Tucker and Steve Whollock.

Newcomers who are expected to provide the depth Meade was talking about are Allen Alexander, Wayne Borkowski, Joe DuPree, Jim Con-eye, Gene Kelber, Skip Ray and Tom Seward.

The Salukis have been co-named co-captains of this year’s team replacing the graduated Tom Cook and Boiger.

The first meet for the Saluki gymnasts will be the intraquad meet on Nov. 21, 1970, at ISU. According to Meade says SIU fans will enjoy this meet more than they did the last dual SIU hosted the event because, "this season we will be in the thick of things."

Wolfe Earns Weekly Honor

Southern’s coaching staff named Linda Lackey the Saluki Player of the Week Tuesday.

Wolfe received the award for his play in Saturday’s Northern Michigan game.

Coach Ray D’Amato said, “Larry is probably the hardest worker on our team. He gives us a fine effort game after game. He has made a good adjustment to his new position.”

Wolfe was shifted to center and beginning of fall practice. He played part of the season with a fractured thumb.

Rainhaenger pointed out that there are special problems involved with a switch to center. Among these are how to block after snapping the ball, learning to snap for punts and field goals and punting and kickoffs.

Rainhaenger added that “Wolfe has developed a lot. He’s learning this unfamiliar position.”

Hart May Be Activated by Cardinals

By Mike Schwebel

Former SIU quarterback Jim Hart may be activated to be available for the St. Louis football Cardinals Sunday, according to a Cardinal spokesman.

The spokesman said that the decision has not yet been made by Coach Charley Winner. The Big Red, leaders in the Eastern Division of the NFL with a 7-1-1 record, were dealt a big blow Sunday by the loss of starting quarterback Charley Johnson, out for the regular season with a knee injury.

That leaves the Cards with only Terry Nofsinger at quarterback, and Nofsinger will have to fill the gap at the receiver spot.

Hart, the holder of a host of passing marks in his career at Southern, went into the St. Louis pre-season training camp in late July as a free agent and was later cut from the regular squad.

He remained, however, on the "taxi" squad, a group that practices with the regulars during the week but stays out of the picture on Sunday afternoons.

If activated, Hart would be on the bench next Sunday at Pittsburgh, ready to be called on if necessary.

The possibility of losing two quarterbacks in one season is not remote, as the Baltimore Colts showed last year near the end of the season.

As an alternative, St. Louis could conceivably pick up a quarterback on waivers, but there aren't many around at this stage of the game.

Hart was a passing sensation as a sophomore when he came up with the best year of his career.

The Morton Grove product fired 14 touchdown passes in 1963, one of his many all-time individual records.

Winner was impressed with Hart in training camp, but said that the transition from college to pro ball was hard to make for any player.

Another former Saluki with the Cardinals is defensive tackle Sam Silas who received a game ball Sunday following the Big Red's triumph over New York. The game ball is given for outstanding performances and the recipient is chosen by the team members.

Silas, who also started out as a free agent, has been with the Big Red since 1963. The 255-pounder last year was named All-Pro and participated in the Pro Bowl in January.
