USO cabinet OKs activity fee raise; senate still to vote

By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

The executive cabinet of the Undergraduate Student Organization approved a plan to increase the Student Activity Fee by at least $1.75 Monday. The Student Senate is scheduled to vote on the proposal on Nov. 16.

The increase would take the form of a new fee for the Students' Legal Assistance program while the activity would remain at its current level of $8.55 per semester.

The Students' Legal Assistance fee of $1.75 is presently taken from the activity fund before it is divided between the Graduate and Professional Student Council and the USO.

The USO cabinet is still considering an increase in the Students' Legal Assistance fee, according to USO President Bruce Joseph. The cabinet is waiting for more information on the Students' Legal Assistance program before making its decision, he said.

The plan would also change the procedure for allocating funds to the Student Programming Council. SPC funds are presently allocated by the USO through its fee allocations procedure from the Student Organization Activity Fund.

Graduate students do not currently pay into the SPC fund because money for the fund is allocated from USO money. However, the new plan would call for graduate students to pay into the fund because activity fund money would be allocated to SPC before it is distributed to the GPSC and the USO.

President Albert Somit makes a point while speaking to the SIU-C Women's Caucus.

Somit talks to group about women's issues

By Jennifer Phillips
Staff Writer

Women constitute about 36 percent of the SIU-C undergraduate student population, but this low percentage can be increased, President Albert Somit said Wednesday.

Somit spoke to the SIU-C Women's Caucus on a number of issues, ranging from the salary differential between female and male faculty members to the use of money from unfilled positions for salary increases and increasing the number of women students.

Stepped-up recruiting efforts, scholarship awards to good students and more contact between female faculty members and potential students are three strategies which must be used to attract more women to SIU-C, Somit said.

"I have talked to admissions about the problem and asked them why the number is low," he said. "There are certain answers I have received."

The three most sizeable schools — engineering, business and technical careers — are predominately attended by males, he explained.

"Women have been slower in getting into these fields."

Also, 31 percent of the University's student population comes from the 30 lower-income counties in Illinois, he said, "and, in such situations, the male more often goes to college than the female. So, demography and location are two important factors."

Somit said it's possible that SIU-C's "party-school image," which the administration feels is unjustified, could also deter young women from attending if their parents express concern over their well-being.

One caucus member told Somit that a lot of older, re-entry women concentrate on STC programs but don't finish their studies. This needs to be changed, she said.

Somit agreed, noting that 42 percent of the new admissions this fall were women, but many didn't show up.

Another issue addressed by Somit was salary differential between male and female faculty members.

Caucus members said that, according to a survey in a higher education publication, women faculty in public doctorate-granting institutions earn 85 percent of what their male counterparts earn.

Although the differential at SIU-C is smaller

Electric rates spur dorm rate increase

By Belinda Edmondson
Staff Writer

On-campus housing rates will increase 3.6 percent next fall, Sam Rinella, director of University Housing, said Wednesday.

The cost of a room in an undergraduate residence hall will increase $40 a semester to $2,304 a year, Rinella said.

The price of a 2- or 3-bedroom apartment at Evergreen Terrace will increase $15 to $261 a month, while at Southern Hills a 2- or 3-bedroom apartment will cost $284 — an increase of $16 a month.

An efficiency apartment at Southern Hills will cost an additional $10 per month.

Rinella said the biggest reason for the increase is a recent 34 percent increase in electricity rates.

"The increases will cover basic expenses incurred in the operation of housing utilities," he said.

The fall increase will be the first housing increase in two years, since no increase was effected last year.

"We didn't have an increase last year since we saw no need for one," he said.

Rinella said the housing rate wasn't increased last year — as it usually is to keep up with inflation — because last year was the first year in some time that inflation was down to a single-digit number.

Rinella said he expects another housing increase to occur in the fall of 1985.

Reagan calls for end of trade disputes

TOKYO (AP) — President Reagan, welcomed by Emperor Hirohito and flag-waving school children, cautioned his hosts Wednesday that failure to settle trade disputes between the United States and Japan could damage their political relations.

Uniformed sentries, part of a 90,000-member security force deployed for Reagan's protection, stood guard on downtown streets and atop buildings as the president arrived for three days of critical talks with Japanese officials on trade, defense, energy and finance issues.

After a formal welcoming ceremony under gray skies in the courtyard of the ornate Akasaka Palace, Reagan toured the Imperial Palace with the 82-year-old Hirohito and held the first of two business meetings with Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone.

A senior Reagan administration official, briefing reporters afterward, said the two leaders discussed U.S.-Japanese trade differences only in broad terms, but that Reagan was "very businesslike" and "straightforward" in raising concerns about a projected $2 billion U.S. trade deficit this year with Japan.

The official, speaking on condition that he not be identified, said Reagan emphasized "the importance of making progress on these issues, both because of their economic impact and also because of the effect that failure to solve them would have on our political relationship."

Japanese Foreign Ministry spokesman Yoshio Karita told reporters that Reagan referred to Asia as the "new frontier of the world" and stressed the importance of maintaining close ties.

Reagan came to Japan not to negotiate solutions himself, this official said, but to "put some general impetus" into talks being conducted by other officials of both countries.

An agreement is expected to be announced Thursday for creation of a bilateral working group to address U.S. concern about the weakness of the Japanese yen in relation to the American dollar. A weak yen makes American goods less competitive in Japanese markets and Japanese exports relatively expensive in the United States.

In talks with Nakasone, Reagan was reported to have cited growing sentiment in the United States for protectionist trade policies, exemplified by a House-approved bill intended to curb Japanese auto imports by requiring that cars sold in the United States contain a certain share of parts made in America.

Nakasone expressed concern about states which calculate an international company's taxes on the basis of worldwide earnings rather than income derived in that state.

Gus says the way Reagan's been acting up lately, the Japanese must hope nobody reminds him about Pearl Harbor.

Prison official denies charges of retaliation in guard stabbings

CARBONDALE (AP) — A Marion federal prison spokesman says he will not respond to accusations that guards are committing acts of brutality to retaliate for the recent fatal stabbings of two security officers.

The allegations were made public Tuesday by Carbondale attorney James Roberts. He said inmate Leonard Peltier told him that he and other inmates were taken one at a time from their cells by two riot-garbed guards and intimidated.

Roberts said Peltier told him the two guards tried to provoke their hand-cuffed prisoners, and beat them with three-foot riot sticks if they reacted to the taunts.

Peltier said he did not react and was not struck, but that two other inmates were, Roberts said.

"I'm not going to respond to any allegations Leonard Peltier makes," said prison spokesman Dean Leech.

Leech said he does not acknowledge the incidents ever happened, and asked people to consider, "Who is Leonard Peltier? And what is he doing in prison?"

Peltier, an American Indian, was convicted of aiding and abetting in the deaths of two FBI agents at a South Dakota Indian reservation.

"Let's keep these things in proper perspective here ...." said Leech. "We are now dealing with the fact that two officers have been killed."

Two guards were stabbed to death at the prison Oct. 22. Two others were injured. An inmate was stabbed to death less than a week after the two guards were killed.

The prison, considered the U.S. Bureau of Prisons' most secure institution, has been on lockdown since the Oct. 26 stabbing of the inmate. Reinforcement guards have been called to Marion from other federal prisons around the country.

Speaking at a news conference at Carbondale sponsored by the Leonard Peltier Support Group, Roberts said, "The prisoners feel like they're being punished in retaliation for the killings even though most of them had nothing to do with it."

Roberts said Peltier told him that inmates, who are restricted to their cells, are being fed three sack lunches a day and that the cells have been stripped of all personal belongings. Inmates have been deprived of writing materials and legal materials, limiting their ability to communicate with people outside the prison, Roberts said.

Leech said inmates now are receiving at least one hot meal a day in their cells.

News Roundup

Bernardin speaks on arms control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cardinal Joseph Bernardin, winner of the fourth annual Albert Einstein International Peace Prize, said Wednesday that U.S. differences with the Soviet Union should not stand in the way of an arms control agreement.

The Soviets' destruction of a South Korean commercial jetliner Sept. 1 "gives anyone pause about the capacity for cooperation," the Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago said.

Bloomington family members slain

BLOOMINGTON (AP) — A mother and her three youngsters — described as "just the ideal children we'd all like to have" — were found slain in their own beds in a fashionable neighborhood, authorities said Wednesday.

There were no suspects in the deaths of Susan Hendricks, 30, and her children: Rebecca, 9; Grace, 7; and Benjamin, 5, Police Chief Lewis DeVault said at mid-day Wednesday.

David Hendricks, the 30-year-old husband and father, has told police he left the state on a business trip Monday night after watching the children for a few hours in their mother's absence.

Arafat cornered by mutineers

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian rebels backed by Syria rained hundreds of shells on PLC chairman Yasser Arafat's last Middle East bastion Wednesday, cornering him in Tripoli and ignoring his pleas for a truce.

The rebel barrage prevented the Palestine Liberation Organization leader from visiting loyalist holdouts at the besieged Baddawi refugee camp outside Tripoli. But Arafat visited maimed supporters in hospitals, roving the streets in a chauffeured Jeep while shells occasionally slammed into neighborhoods near his office.

than the national standard, Somit said, "it is still not quite there. There is still the temptation to pay the woman less."

Another factor is the present market condition, which is now concentrated on male-dominated high technology fields like engineering and computing.

The caucus also questioned Somit about how the merit system can be controlled to guard against favoritism.

"We must have an accurate way of evaluating merit," he said. "There is a lack of faculty acceptance for the system. There are those who are philosophically opposed to merit increases and there are those with the belief that the merits aren't or might not be fairly allocated."

Somit said he hopes the departments using the merit system will serve as models for others and, with "open consultation" about the system, it will be developed.

Concerning the use of money from unfilled positions, Somit said vice presidents approve such distribution but the dean of each college has the ultimate decision.

"Some have no options because there are no vacant positions," he said.

One caucus member said there is resentment among faculty because some departments give raises with the extra funds and other departments don't, but Somit said there is no alternative now.

"We could bind all to a common practice, but I don't think that would work," he said.

Challengers dominate elections

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

Only three of the eight incumbents seeking re-election to Carbondale's two school boards retained their seats in a "hot election" to fill ten seats.

Six of 10 people elected Tuesday to the boards of Carbondale Community High School District 165 and Grade School District 95 are SIU-C employees.

Incumbent Board President Robert Brewer, Michael Altekruze and Michael Diamond won four-year terms on the 165 board. Incumbent Barbara Bennett and Linda Brandon won two-year seats.

On the grade school board, Margaret Crowe and Donald Garner were elected to two-year terms. Incumbent Gordon White, Hugh McDowell and Jack McKillip won four-year terms.

Brewer, an assistant bursar at SIU-C, said "I hope everyone is ready now to go ahead with the business of education," echoing the words of most of the winners.

"It was an unbelievable election in terms of how hotly contested it was," Brewer said, citing the large field of candidates.

Nine people were in the race for five high school board seats.

Michael Altekruze, SIU-C faculty member in the College of Education, who has served on the grade school board, also said now is the time "to get on with children's education." Altekruze was elected to a four-year term.

The other four-year winner, Michael Diamond, could not be reached for comment.

Barbara Bennett and Linda Brandon won two-year seats.

Neither were available for comment.

In District 95, incumbent Gordon White, SIU-C faculty member in Institutional Research and Studies, said he was pleased with the large number of candidates, which showed increasing interest in education in Carbondale. White was re-elected to a four-year term.

White said that in the coming years he would like to see increased computer use in the grade schools' classrooms.

Hugh McDowell, School of Medicine faculty member said, "I'm pleased to see we've got some new people on the board."

McDowell, a four-year term winner, said he would like to see more teacher input into the curriculum decisions and better communication with the community.

The third four-year seat winner, Jack McKillip, faculty member in the Psychology Department, could not be reached for comment.

Winners of school elections final

An unusually heavy turnout of more than 3,500 people voted in Tuesday's elections for Carbondale's high and grade school boards.

The winners for four-year terms on the High School District 165 board are Michael Altekruze, with 2,633 votes, Robert Brewer, with 2,511 and Michael Diamond, with 2,499. Losers in the race for four-year terms are Arthur Black, with 1,437 votes and Gib Gerlach, with 832.

In the race for two-year terms the winners are Barbara Bennett, with 2,476 votes and Linda Brandon, with 2,217. Losers in that race are Donald Boehne, with 1,078 votes and Larry Young, with 1,017.

The winners for two-year terms on the Grade School District 95 board are Donald Garner, with 1,466 votes and Margaret Crowe, with 1,440 votes. Losers for the two-year term were Harold Bardo, with 890 votes and Anita Lenzni with 743 votes.

The winners for four-year terms are Hugh McDowell, with 1,200 votes, Gordon White, with 1,057 votes and Jack McKillip, with 935 votes. Losers in the four-year term race were Jean McPherson, with 930 votes, Deanna Wheeles, with 620 votes, Karl Bartelsmeyer, with 610 votes, Beth Arthur, with 560 votes, Frances Laster, with 479 votes and Arnold Taylor, with 437 votes.

the activity fund before distribution to the USO and the GPSC. A campus safety fund receives $35,700 for information, education and implementation of campus safety programs, according to Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs.

Students at the SIU School of Medicine in Springfield receive $4,200 of the activity fund, which is equal to the amount that they contribute to the fund, Swinburne said.

The remainder of the activity fund is divided between the GPSC, which receives 14 percent of the remainder, and the USO, which receives 86 percent. The proportions correspond to student enrollments at SIU-C.

The USO cabinet considered two other plans that called for additional increases in the activity fee in addition to the increase for the Students' Legal Assistance program.

In other business, the cabinet discussed the proposed increase in the student athletics fee. Joseph said that the cabinet decided to delay its decision on the fee increase until he meets with Swinburne Friday.

The cabinet generally agreed that the athletics fee should be increased, but that a compromise better for to SIU-C students should be worked out, Joseph said.

Grenada a debacle; Reagan is wrong

WHILE THE INVASION of Grenada is viewed by most of the American public as a great victory, it was actually a crushing defeat for freedom of the press and the public's right to know the truth.

The press and the government have cooperated in every U.S. military venture since the War Between the States without compromising the security of any military operation — including the Normandy invasion. The Reagan administration's barring of the press from the Grenada invasion has only resulted in rumors, false reports and, most importantly, allowed Reagan to manipulate public opinion for his personal gain.

TO RATIONALIZE the breach of press freedom, Reagan has been throwing out some pretty lame excuses. One reason, he said, was lack of communications facilities on the island and fear for the safety of reporters. As far as communications facilities go, where were they when the press covered U.S. Marine landings on Pacific islands in World War II. Concerning the safety of reporters, the ban only caused many reporters to compromise their safety more by hiring their own boats and airplanes to cover the battle, thus exposing themselves not only to fire from opposition forces, but to friendly fire as well.

THE EXCUSE that secrecy was essential to the operation is ridiculous. Grenada radio had been broadcasting predictions of the invasion and urging its citizens to bear arms against the invaders for days. Troop transfers in Barbados were executed in plain view of the casual observer. And even the Defense Department compromised the secrecy of the operation when it announced that troops bound for Beirut had been detoured to the Caribbean in case American students had to be rescued. In light of these facts, Reagan may think it was a secret operation, but it certainly wasn't to anyone who had been following the events preceding the action.

BUT IT ISN'T only denial of press coverage that Reagan has been making excuses about. Indeed the whole invasion has been rationalized and the facts warped as Reagan tries to win back popular support with a brutal military victory.

Those arms caches found on the island make for impressive pictures and public relations, but what is really in those stacks of guns and ammo? No mention is made of the type of weapon or their effectiveness. One expert who viewed the arms said on the CBS Morning News that they were mostly World War II-issue bolt action rifles and other outdated small arms. Not much firepower for a Communist takeover of the Caribbean.

AND THE REPORT — or rather rumor — of a mass grave containing 100 bodies drew screaming headlines in newspapers all over the country. The fact later reported that the report was totally false was buried in the interior of the papers. Fault the press for that one, but fault Reagan for creating a situation where news and rumor are difficult to separate.

But perhaps the worst excuse of all was the "rescue" of American students. Many of those students said they were not in danger until the U.S. Marines landed on the beach and started shooting. No intent to keep the students from leaving was ever expressed by the Grenadian government. The ceremony at the White House rose garden honoring the "hostages" and their military "liberators" was nothing but a public relations ploy in its fullest sense.

AS FOR RESTORING democracy to Grenada: Who are we to export our system of government to a country that doesn't want it — a charge Reagan constantly levels at the Soviets.

No matter how Reagan rationalizes it, he was wrong. The invasion was a debacle. No matter how jubilant the American public may be over our great military victory, the fact remains: Reagan is politicking for public support with the blood of Americans, Cubans and Grenadians.

Presbyterians and gay churches

Your issue dated Thursday, Oct. 20 came into my hands from my daughter who is a student at SIU-C. She asked if I was aware that a gay church was being formed in Carbondale. Of course, I was not, but that's beside the point.

In an article on page 12 of the above issue one of your staff writers said that the Interfaith Center is operated by University Christian Ministries, etc. Then the writer goes on to say that it is sponsored by the Presbyterian Church. In fairness to other Presbyterian churches in your area the name of the church should have been used. I happen to know that not all Presbyterian Churches support the University Christian Ministries and I would like your readers, Carbondale and the world to know that. —

Rev. Thomas Waldecker, Coalterville.

Letters

The media were irresponsible in their coverage of Grenada

Would you tell me just what in the hell is going to take place? I've heard for the last three evenings the slurs the media have been making on the air. If our military commanders don't think the media needs to be there, then that's it. Why didn't the media say something about the commie activities on Grenada? They should have known. They know everything else. Or didn't they want to? Oh yes, the people have a right to know. What people? The Kremlin? Castro? I don't think that any loyal American would want this information blasted all over the world for our enemies to hear. Especially when the lives of our very best are on the line. One doesn't hear our enemies broadcasting every move they make to the world.

This Grenada thing had to be secret to be a surprise operation, but there was a leak. How did it happen? If a news hawk was caught around a military base he should have been silenced, like they do in Chicago — and Moscow. Sure, I believe in a free press, but at a time like this silence is the word, at least until after the mission is accomplished and the situation is well in hand.

Personally, I have no more use for the media than I have for spies, dope peddlers, stick-up artists, rapists or poison snakes. Why didn't we hear about Iraq draining the blood from the Iranian they took prisoner and using it for transfusions for their own wounded? Too gruesome, I guess. Anyway I heard it on a Canadian news broadcast.

Another thing I don't like is criticizing the President at a time like this. I think that they had better get behind him, because the time might come when a free press may be a thing of the past. — Willy Gueffenhausen, Murphysboro.

The American Revolution refutes the Grenada invasion

The recent developments on the international scene have raised volatile emotions here at SIU. But one problem with emotions is they can blind us to logic and reason.

Daily, I read letters supporting the Reagan administration and its foreign policy. Most of the letters are based on the assumption that the U.S. military is fighting for freedom and democracy. But let's think this thing over.

It is not the job of the United States to impose its idea of democracy on other nations.

This argument follows the fundamental idea that led to the American revolution more than 200 years ago. At that time, the United States was dominated both politically and economically by a foreign power, Great Britain. To end that domination, the colonists saw fit to bear arms against the British army and struggle for their right of self determination. The imperialist nation responded by sending troops.

Those troops were an extension of the British government and their purpose was to impose the policies of the crown on the colonists.

Today the face of domination has changed. Over the years the United States has reversed its position from a subordinate nation to one of international domination. But, if the American people think way back, past the world wars, past Manifest Destiny, they will find that they too have a revolutionary tradition. That tradition justified action by the people against foreign domination in order to realize the inherent right to self determination. — Chuck Hicklin, Junior, History.

Three cheers for SIU veterans

Three cheers for the SIU Veterans' Club! Every year I attend the annual Homecoming Parade in Carbondale, and every year I have been appalled at the appearance and behavior of the Veterans' Club members in the parade. This letter is directed to them from a veteran.

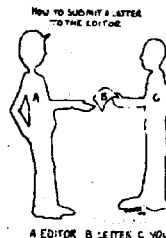

In the past, young veterans, I have felt you looked more like a bunch of unkempt ruffians than a group representing our nation. If I were not a veteran, after observing you in the parade, I would have wondered about veterans in general. I would have wondered about their aptitude, their pride, their self-esteem and their overall level of maturity. I was never gung-ho military, but I am gung-ho America. In my eyes, you were doing veterans, the military and America an injustice.

But this year, as I sat along the parade route and the Veterans' Club members passed by, I felt proud instead of embarrassed, and touched instead of ashamed.

Instead of beer cans, you held flags and children. Instead of tattered fatigues, most of you wore clean shirts. (Why don't you don dress blues one year?) You seemed to want to share a message with all of us. Your "float" represented much thought and preparation. I still hear negative remarks aimed at the Veterans' Club, but for once, in the Homecoming Parade, you did not misrepresent Carbondale veterans, our country or me. Let's hope it did not take an overseas tragedy to give you a purpose in a parade. — Barb Woollett, Post-Graduate, Education, Veteran, U.S.N.

Music school director to play recital

A organ recital to salute Veterans Day and American composers will be held at 8 p.m. Friday in Shryock Auditorium.

Robert Roubos, director of the School of Music, will perform renditions of "Variations on the Star Spangled Banner" by John Paine as well as a toccata written for and dedicated to Roubos by Normand Lockwood, a composer and teacher, in 1975. "Ninety-fourth Psalm," consisting of a large tone poem for organ and an important work of the 19th century written by Julius Reubke will also be performed.

Roubos has performed throughout the country and has chaired music departments at Indiana University, Purdue University at Fort Wayne, State University of New York, College of Cortland and Adrian College.

He received a doctorate of musical arts from the University of Michigan. Roubos has been an active recitalist at SIU-C since his arrival in the fall of 1981.

A junior recital, featuring Jean Madsen on the flute, will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Old Baptist Foundation Chapel.

Assisted by Marina Antoline on the clarinet and John Semingson on the piano and harpsichord, Madsen will play selections including Bach's

"Sonata in B minor for Flute and Harpsichord," Antoni Szalowski's "Duo for Flute and Clarinet," Claude Debussy's "Syrinx" and Bohuslav Martinu's "First Sonata for Flute and Piano."

The recital, which is sponsored by the School of Music, will be presented free of charge.

Comedians catch laughs at 'Rising Star' show

By Terry Levecke
Entertainment Editor

"Catch A Rising Star" caught a lot of laughs as three comedians from the New York City club by the same name and one SFU-C comedian delivered jokes about Grenada, weightlifters and facing Mom and Dad in altered states to a packed house in Ballroom D of the Student Center.

Joey Gutierrez, a sophomore with an undeclared major, opened the show Monday night with hilarious facial expressions and physical caricatures of down-home observations of life.

He tickled the funny bone of Chicagoans with facial and verbal descriptions of the "stupid white boy" who drives too far south on Lake Shore Drive or the suburban man who notices he's in the bad side of town.

Gutierrez, who will appear at Chicago's comedy club, Zanies, over Thanksgiving Break, was judged the funniest of 16 comics in the talent search contest two weeks ago. He also has the opportunity to appear at Catch A Rising Star in New York.

Joe Sheff, the cigar-smoking, crude Rising Star joker, exceed the show.

Rising Star comedians Jack Cohen and J.J. Wall put on equally entertaining acts from quite different approaches.

Jack's wild laughs and bursting energy on stage kept the audience's attention through his half-hour act that included his sentiments on moles and a jocular skit on weightlifters and possible problems like trying to pull a quarter out of a pocket.

The audience wasn't quite sure how to take him when he came on stage and said, "Gosh, I'm glad the U.S. is in Grenada." He made an analogy of the United States being shoved around by other world forces and then being, slightly "pushed" by the Grenada situation, which even though a highly political issue, drew applause and laughter.

J.J. Wall did some hysterical characterizations of facing the parents when under the influence of various mind-bending drugs.

All the acts had a common theme — life — and what is funnier to laugh at than ourselves?

'Golden Pond' to open

By Terry Levecke
Entertainment Editor

"On Golden Pond" will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and Nov. 17, 18 and 19 at The Stage Company, 101 N. Washington.

The production offers some interesting twists with a transfer-style stage which seats the audience on both sides of the stage.

Director Denise Josten-Cocking said she wanted the set design that way because she "wants the audience to feel they're right in the living room."

This stage design offers a challenge to the actors, too, Josten-Cocking said, because they have to play to both sides of the stage.

"It's a much more realistic approach," Josten-Cocking said. The set was designed by her husband, Loren.

Dorothy Corduan, 81, of Murphysboro, will play the 61-year-old Ethel, and Gene Dybvig, 61, a retired radio-television professor, will play the 80-year-old Norman.

The play deals with Norman's anxiety of facing his 80th birthday and debating and evaluating his life. Identification of the play's characters with their own family members is intended, Josten-Cocking said.

Admission is $4 per person. Box office hours are 4 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, except for performance dates, when the box office is only open for one hour prior to curtain time.

Goodman, Kottke set concert

Steve Goodman will fulfill his promise of rescheduling his Oct. 7 concert when he appears in concert with Leo Kottke at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 9 at Shryock Auditorium.

Tickets will go on sale Thursday Nov. 17 and are $8.50 and $10. As promised by the auditorium when Goodman was forced to cancel his concert with John Prine, those persons possessing a ticket stub from the Oct. 7 concert will receive a $2 discount on their ticket for this performance.

On Nov. 20, the television program "First Camera" will do a special segment on Goodman.

The box office will open at 10 a.m. on Nov. 17. There is a 10-ticket limit and a $50-check limit on the first day of sales. Line reservation numbers will be issued on a first call, first serve basis at the Shryock Auditorium box office at 453-3378.

Show choreographed by students

Fall dance concert to be held

By Liz Myers
Staff Writer

A lot of sweat and hard work have culminated the arrival of this year's fall dance concert.

Graduate students Orna Frankl and Vanessa Evans choreographed the two shows as part of their master degree programs in physical education.

"The Bible As Dance" choreographed by Frankl and "Before Eden I Dream" choreographed by Evans will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in Ballroom D of the Student Center.

"We are rehearsing every afternoon until late at night," said Frankl, who has never before worked on a show like this.

Frankl said that she is treating the Bible stories as tales and not in a religious context. Frankl chose the theme for her performance because her birthplace was Natanya, Israel.

"I have been familiarized with the Bible since I was 8," she said.

The show will incorporate modern jazz and modern ballet. It will include her interpretations of stories about David and Goliath, Samson and Delilah, Miriam, creation and the plight of the Jewish people throughout history.

Frankl and her husband came to the United States as exchange students at Brockport State University in upstate New York and were then offered graduate assistantships at SIUC last year.

The performance by Evans titled "Before Eden I Dream" is about a time when evil was on earth and a woman was transformed into what the devil wanted her to be. Evans has worked with several dance companies before coming to SIUC and Southern Illinois Repertory Theater since 1977.

Evans, from Charlotte, N.C., choreographed most dance concerts that have been held at the Student Center while she has been at the University.

Evans not only choreographed the concert, but also worked on design and creation of costumes and did all of the technical phases of the production, including the lights and sound.

"I want to be able to say that when I leave here I can do anything," she said.

The unique aspect of Evans' performance is that she plans to use as many as 25 different props and gimmicks with the dances. These include flashlights, smoke, masks and balloons.

Another interesting aspect of the dance concert is that 95 percent of the performers are not dancers by profession or major, Frankl said.

"They are people who have a little or a lot of experience. They are from any of the departments in the University," she said.

Frankl added that most of the top dancers in the theater department were not available for the concert because they repeatedly perform in many productions, but she was happy that this was an opportunity for anyone that wanted to dance to participate.

The graduate students will not dance in the concert this weekend, but will view the show as a teaching experience.

Evans hopes to have her own theater someday. Frankl plans to return to Israel some time in the future and continue teaching for the rest of her life.

Tickets for the concert are available at the Student Center box office or at the door. The cost is $3.50 for the public and $2.50 for students.

Affirmative action discussed

F-Senate endorses resolution

By Phillip Florini
Staff Writer

The Faculty Senate has asked President Albert Somit to stop the present search for a chief affirmative action officer until channels of dialogue with the groups that would be affected by his decision are re-opened.

The senate's action came after Somit had been asked by a University group for a month extension on consideration of applicants for the position. Elizabeth Eames, a member of the group, told the senate Tuesday that several constituency groups felt the structure of the office should be changed.

Senate member Marvin Kleinau, of the speech communication faculty, said the president should delay the national search to give campus groups the opportunity to express their "explicit" concerns.

The senate agreed that Somit should reconsider the "structure, function and position of the administrative hierarchy" of the Affirmative Action Office.

The office, which oversees the University's hiring policies for women and minorities, lost its top two officers when Mary Helen Gasser and Richard Hayes were reassigned within the University last summer.

Deadline for applicants was Oct. 15, but Eames said that Somit allowed her group to seek responses on how the structure of the office should correlate with the qualifications listed in the job application. Those responses are due Nov. 15.

The senate endorsed the groups' resolution, which states that the chief officer should be a tenured faculty member with a Ph.D or equivalent and administrative experience or affirmative action involvement. The chief office would hire an assistant.

Eames, a philosophy professor, said that campus groups felt changes should be made in the office and that it would be preferable to have more than one person in the office. She also said the qualifications "ought to be pegged higher" than what is in the application.

The senate agreed that a 10-member Policy-Oversight Committee would be chosen to serve as voting members of the office to be elected by the minorities, disabled, aged, women and foreign-born and other constituency groups on campus.

The two officers, the resolution states, would develop grievance procedures defining the criteria for discrimination and the channels of communication for the classes.

Senate member Randall Nelson said that he feels "ambivalent" about a national search for an affirmative action officer.

Nelson, a political science professor, said administrators seem to feel that "if we go out, then we're going to find some splendid, immortal person who will deliver us from evil." He said there are people "just as qualified" on campus.

In other business, the senate approved a resolution asking that the University or its units not establish contacts with liquor companies for putting alcohol advertisements or logos on SIU-C publications, schedules or premiums. The resolution was drafted by Jack McKillip, a psychology professor.

Board of Trustees meeting set

The Board of Trustees is expected to act Thursday on proposals to alter the way rates are set for cost recovery programs offered by SIU at military bases and to reorganize the internal audit process.

Rates charged for cost recovery programs are presently based on in-state tuition rates charged by SIU, according to Don Wilson, SIU financial officer.

Cost recovery programs are self-supporting programs offered by the School of Technical Careers, the School of Engineering and Technology and the College of Education at military bases across the country, Wilson said Tuesday.

Under the proposal, tuition rates charged for these programs would be set by the chancellor's office and the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

As in-state tuition increases, Wilson said, the rate charged for these programs does not, leaving fewer funds available for overhead operating costs.

He added that although the rate would be figured differently, it would not automatically increase.

The proposal to reorganize the System Internal Audit process would convert the present structure of separate auditors for the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses into a single position of Internal Auditor reporting directly to the chancellor's office.

The proposal resulted from findings made by the auditor general during the most recent compliance audit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1981.

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw said the board will not release the results of the annual evaluation of SIU-C President Albert Somit, scheduled to take place in Alton on Nov. 9.

The board will meet, Shaw said, and go into executive session to review Somit's progress in the past year. Shaw said the board will follow its custom not to present any of the evaluation discussion to the public.

"We feel that public discussion of the evaluation would not be constructive," Shaw said. "The decision is grounded in sound human relations."

U.S. may intervene in other global hot spots, speakers say

By John Racine
Staff Writer

Recent crises in the Middle East and the Caribbean indicate that the United States will be intervening in other global hot spots soon, two foreign affairs experts said Tuesday.

Speaking to an audience of about 25 people in the Wesley Center, the Rev. Ted Braun and David Williams, a spokesman for the Palestinian Human Rights Campaign, said that recent events involving American forces in Lebanon and Grenada are indicators that the United States is becoming more inclined toward intervention in foreign situations.

"We have a cowboy turned on by 'high-noon' confrontations," Braun, minister of the Church of the Good Shepherd and a frequent visitor to Central America, said of the Reagan administration.

Because of the Reagan administration's view toward international politics, there may be U.S. intervention in Nicaragua soon, he said.

"History will, I am convinced, absolve Grenada and will condemn the United States," he said.

"When the United States could not pull Grenada into its fold, it began to define that country as a threat," he added. It was that attitude by the U.S. government that prompted the pre-planned invasion, he said.

The armed forces had been practicing for the invasion of the country, which covers an area of 133 square miles — the size of Columbus, Ohio — since 1981, he said.

Braun said that the initial stages of the Oct. 25 invasion were planned by the CIA.

All the "calls for help" from the island country started in Washington, he said.

"There was not a unanimous call from the people of the country (for the invasion) and there is no legal justification for what occurred," Braun said.

Braun read copies of both the United Nations charter and the articles of the Organization of East Caribbean States, pointing out that each document offers no justification for the invasion and even defines the actions as illegal.

Braun refuted each of the Reagan administration's reasons for the invasion.

One of the president's reasons was that the lives of some 1,000 Americans, mostly medical students, were threatened.

"Just two days before the invasion there was an assurance that the lives of the Americans on the island were secure," he said.

Another of Reagan's reasons was that public accessways, such as the airport, were closed to those who wanted to leave.

"The airport," he said, "has been the center of all the propaganda coming out about that country."

The United States also reasoned that the country was not being allowed an opportunity to build a democracy in Grenada.

"Before, the country was building a grassroots democracy and were preparing for elections soon," he said. "Now that the United States has stepped in, a democracy like our own will be set up."

"The United States-backed elections will be open to those who have wealth and can run," he said.

Braun said another reason for the invasion was to eliminate Soviet and Cuban influence in the area. At the time of the invasion, he said, there was a belief that Cuban workers building an airport there were armed for combat. That belief, he said, was wrong.

Now that the invasion has occurred, he said, it has been revealed that not all of the workers were armed and that warehouses believed to contain weaponry, in reality, held food.

"When they got there they found out that only one of the warehouses was one-third of the way full of weapons," he said. Those weapons were mostly outdated rifles and "the warehouses actually contained food and some engines," he added.

"Also, now we are finding out that some of the Grenada residents were among those militiamen fighting back," Braun said.

The final reason, he said, was the invasion gave the United States the chance to prove that it was more than a "paper tiger."

"The government did not want to appear impotent in the eyes of the world and if there was a clear example of impotence, this is it," he said.

The government also tried to make Grenada out to be a country plagued by economic decline, he said, when, in fact, their economy had been improving in several areas.

Among the better points of the economy were free health service and equal pay for everyone, he said. Also, since 1979, unemployment had fallen from 79 percent to 14 percent while last year alone the country experienced a 5.5 percent gain in its gross national product. Grenada also had a 7 percent inflation rate last year, he said.

Moving the discussion on to address recent incidents in the Middle East, Williams said that recent moves to keep American peace-keeping forces in war-torn Lebanon are an indication that the United States could intervene in the Persian Gulf conflict soon.

American involvement in the Middle East has been an effort to uphold the Phalangist party of Amin Gemayel, Williams said.

U.S. involvement and intervention abroad has produced a fear among the people of this country that there will be another Vietnam in some global hot spot, he said.

"The Middle East conflict could be a flash point of a world nuclear confrontation of superpowers," Williams said. On one side, the Soviets are supplying Syrians with weapons while the United States lends economic and other supports to the Israelis.

There could also be an escalation in the U.S. role as advisors in El Salvador, he said.

Williams said that the human rights of Palestinians in the Middle East are suppressed.

"Despite moves against them, the opposition in the occupied areas have remained strong," he said.

Former presidential candidate announces new political party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former independent presidential candidate John Anderson has announced formation of a new political party and said he would run for the White House again "if the party were to ask me to be a standard bearer."

Anderson, who ran first as a Republican and then as an independent in 1980, said Monday the new National Unity Party would challenge the "two old parties," which he criticized as too tied to special-interest groups to balance the federal budget.

Anderson said Democrats and Republicans are incapable of addressing a need for sweeping tax reform to close loopholes and balance the federal budget.

Calling for "pay-as-you-go government," Anderson said the Democrats and Republicans "are refusing to solve the problem of their own making by failing in this session of Congress to address another in a series of $200 billion deficits."

Echoing a theme of his 1980 campaign, he also criticized both Democrats and Republicans for what he called:

their commitment to "soaring military budgets."

Claiming many Americans are disenchanting with the two traditional parties, Anderson said he thought his party's candidate could double his 7 percent showing in 1980, "and perhaps even do better than that."

Anderson, 61, said the National Unity Party hopes to qualify for the ballot in 10 states, making it eligible for some $5.8 million in public election funds.

He said he hoped the party would appeal to a broad spectrum of voters disenchanted with traditional politics, adding that a 30-person steering committee from 14 states had met with him in June in Washington.

"If the party were to ask me to be a standard bearer ... I certainly would not abandon it and I would be willing to accept it," Anderson said.

But he has declined to declare himself a candidate at this point because he believes it is important to focus on getting a party established.

He said he hoped the third party's nominee would be taken at least as seriously as the candidacy of the Rev. Jesse Jackson, the black leader who announced for the Democratic presidential nomination last week.

Criticizing the recent U.S. invasion of Grenada, Anderson said he was "about 180 degrees" from President Reagan on foreign policy.

Both major parties have agreed on "bigger and bigger arms budgets, that we should project American military power around the world," Anderson said.

He called for "a new party that is fundamentally dedicated to the idea of redefining what is national security."

Anderson said he had mailed letters to some 40,000 people who worked for or gave money to him in 1980, and said the grass-roots organization from that campaign would serve as the new party's foundation.

Anderson was in his 10th term as a congressman from Rockford, Ill., when he sought the Republican nomination in 1980.

Male sexuality workshop set

The Wellness Center and Psychology Department will co-sponsor a workshop exploring male sexuality and its changing role in society from 7 until 9 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Ohio Room.

The workshop will feature psychology graduate students Rich Rein and Pat Marnett facilitating large and small group discussions about traditional male sex roles and the expectations they create, sex myths and health issues.

Marnett said the traditional expectations of males — always decisive and unemotional — will be discussed. He said the discussion about role expectations will focus on the lack of openness with each other and women which inhibits satisfaction in relationships.

Male health issues such as impotence and premature ejaculation will also be discussed, as well as common fallacies about male sexuality.

than what we're used to." The Salukis finished 12th of 18 teams, behind some of the more powerful golf teams in the country. Texas took first in the 54-hole tournament with a three-day total of 918, followed by Florida, with a 927; Oklahoma State, 938; Louisiana State, 944, and Oklahoma, with a 952.

SIU-C shot a 983, behind rounds of 331, 330 and 322. Senior Barb Anderson topped the Saluki club with a 239, with rounds of 80, 82 and 77 on the par 72 course.

Anderson was followed by Lisa Bremer, who carded an 83, 87 and 79 for a 249. Sophomore Jill Bertram finished one stroke behind Bremer, recording rounds of 83, 82 and 85 for a 250.

Junior Lisa Kartheiser equalled Bertram, carding rounds of 85, 83 and 82 for an identical 250. Senior Sue Arbogast finished three strokes back of Bertram and Kartheiser, with rounds of 86, 83 and 84 for a 253.

McGirr said that it was the opening round that buried her club.

"We played very poorly the first day," McGirr said. "The weather was really nice, too, but we just bombed out. We played better the second day, in steady rain.

"I'm not really happy with the way we played, but I'm not disappointed, either. We couldn't have finished any better than eighth or ninth. We didn't do all that bad.

"It would've made a world of difference for us if everyone could have taken just a few shots off each day."

McGirr said her team couldn't reverse the damage of the first round.

"The critical performance was the first day," she said. "I could live with the 322 and even the 330, but not the 331 under the best weather conditions. The only thing I was really disappointed in was that we took a veteran team down there and had only two scores in the 70s in three days."

injury affected her play. She ended third in the nation with a 65 percent clip and averaged 16.6 points and 7.7 rebounds.

"With Connie, D.D. and Char, this team probably has more potential than any other I've had at Southern," Scott said. "The biggest thing we have going for us is our experience in the key positions."

Plab, Price and Warring are definitely three premier players in the Midwest. But the rest of the Salukis are strong, too. Barkup center Linda Wilson, a 6-foot-1 sophomore from Niles, came in last year and helped beat Indiana State as she scored a career-high 14 points and brought in nine rebounds. In 15 games, Wilson averaged 3.3 points per game as she nailed 18 of 33 field goals, for 54 percent.

ELEANOR CARR, a senior from Moberly, Mo. and Petra Jackson, a sophomore from University City, Mo., will play with Plab at the guard position. Jackson, junior Terry Schmittgens from Crestwood, Mo., Ellen O'Brien, a sophomore from Downers Grove, and Cheri Bacon, a junior from Crystal Lake, will alternate at the forward position.

The Salukis should be a top contender, along with Drake, to fight for the GCAC crown. Scott said the key to a successful season for the Salukis will be a low turnover rate and high field goal and free throw percentage.

Scott also said that "a tough defense, a defense that can play the boards good and keep the other team from grabbing the cheap rebounds and putting them in for two," is what the Salukis need to win 20 or more games.

Scott said she is most concerned with the support from students and fans to get involved with the women's basketball program.

"We have a good team here that needs support from students," Scott said. "This support will help us build up our revenues and help us promote this team which will hopefully keep us on the winning track."

The Salukis will play 13 home games, nine of them in Davies Gymnasium and the others in the Arena. The team's first tournament will be the Lady Tiger Classic Nov. 27-28 in Memphis Tenn.

to be more than the Salukis can handle. ISU clubbed Louisville in three straight at the Kentucky Invitational, on the way to winning six straight matches. The Redbirds are 5-1 in the conference, with their sole loss to Southwest Missouri State, which is 7-0 in the GCAC.

Illinois State is 24-14 overall and has also popped into the top 20 periodically this season. The Salukis under Hunter are 3-13-1 against the Redbirds, but the two teams have produced an intense rivalry that Hunter said can bring out the best in her team.

"They (ISU) have played a very challenging schedule," Hunter said. "At the beginning of the season people were saying they were in mid-season form. They have a small roster, but they've managed to escape injury problems so far."

Hunter said the weekend should be a tough one for her club.

"To analyze the two teams (Louisville and Illinois State), it looks like they should walk away with victories," she said. "No matter who's been at the top in previous seasons, though, the other team almost always seems to get one match."

Hunter said that despite her team's losing record, the worst in 10 years, the feelings of rivalry still exist with Illinois State.

"You can't measure emotion-type factors," she said. "If we do things in a consistent fashion, we could press them. Each match in itself is still a challenge for us, even if we don't have a championship to contend for."

Hunter said her team will have the limited services of Chris Boyd, who was sidelined with a knee injury. Hunter said Boyd will see limited action over the weekend.

declare themselves academically ineligible after failing a course this summer.

RED-SHIRT FRESHMAN Tyrone Mitchell was handed the reigns. Mitchell responded to the challenge and completed 82 of 169 passes for 1,255 yards and eight touchdowns. On the negative side, though, were 12 interceptions and a bruised shoulder, which has sidelined Mitchell the last three games.

Freshman Brian McDonald stepped in. In the last three games, McDonald has completed 20 of 52 passes for 399 yards and six touchdowns. He has thrown six interceptions, but has captured the starting job even though Mitchell is healthy again.

"I really wish people could see his improvement from when we put him into that game with West Texas State to how he played against an outstanding Tulsa defense," Jeffries said.

McDonald has a strong arm, good running ability and he is a tough individual, Jeffries said.

Offensively, the Shockers appear to be a team that cannot be stopped. Wichita State's high-powered offense has averaged 405 total offensive yards and 22.9 points per game.

TAILBACK ERIC Denson leads the ground game with 838 yards on 131 carries and eight touchdowns. He is averaging 6.4 yards per carry.

Denson set a Wichita State record for most yards in one game with 217 against West Texas State.

Starting at fullback will be Kevin Rucker. He has rushed for 515 yards on 89 carries while scoring three touchdowns. Against Tulsa, Rucker gained 144 yards on 20 carries, with one touchdown. He has broken the 100-yard mark in four games this year.

Another blow came to the Shockers when flanker Reuben Eckels' season ended two weeks ago with a knee injury. Eckels has 123 career receptions, one behind the all-time Shocker record. Before his injury, Eckels had caught 33 passes for 615 yards and four touchdowns.

Tight end Anthony Jones, 21 receptions for 224 yards, and split end Don Dreher, 17 catches for 360 yards and six touchdowns, have been carrying the load since Eckels' injury.

TURNOVERS AND an injury-wracked defense are a couple of reasons for the Shockers disappointing season.

Besides throwing 18 interceptions, the Shockers have lost 21 of 33 fumbles. Opponents have turned the ball over to the Shockers just 16 times, or less than half of Wichita State's total.

Although Jeffries said he refuses to use injuries as an excuse, his squad has suffered 20 injuries this year that have forced players out of the lineup.

Two defensive backs suffered season-ending injuries, while linebackers Tom Glinsey and Ken Lewis are probable. Glinsey has been listed as probable for the last two games.

Safety Darrell Whitley has intercepted three passes, while linebacker Nathaniel Hayes has two. Hayes leads the squad with 113 tackles.

Placekicker Sergio Lopez-Chavero has made 18 of 19 extra point attempts this season, along with five of eight field goal attempts. His longest field goal was a 43 yarder.

Shockers final roadblock for Salukis

By Jim Lexa
Staff Writer

Wichita State remains the last obstacle between the No. 1 AA Salukis and an undefeated season.

On paper, the game would appear to be a mismatch. Wichita State is 2-8, while SIU-C is 10-0. In early preseason polls, the Shockers were picked to finish second in the Missouri Valley Conference.

This season, Coach Willie Jeffries' Shockers are rated in fifth place in the MVC with a 2-3 record. SIU-C, 4-0, will try to clinch at least a share of the MVC crown this weekend.

"I'd certainly like to see Coach Rey Dempsey have an undefeated team," Jeffries said, "but not at the expense of the Wichita State Shockers."

Jeffries said his team realizes how important the game is. After last year's 8-3 record and a second-place tie in the MVC, his team could use the win, which could help salvage a lost season.

"We certainly need this football game for our program," Jeffries said. "To play a 10-0 team, if we were to win the football game, would mean a lot to our team. It would show them we can win the tough football games."

Last week, the Shockers were beaten 62-28 by New Mexico State, a team SIU-C beat 41-3 two weeks ago.

Typical of Wichita State's season has been at quarterback. Trying to replace four-year starter Prince McJunkins was going to be tough for Jeffries. McJunkins finished his career in Wichita State's top three for all-time rushing, passing, total offense and scoring.

Romie Mayfield was the first candidate. After being red-shirted last year, the junior was expected to step into the starting role. Mayfield, though, was Four Saluki defensive players swarmed over a Illinois State last Saturday at McAndrew Redbird running back in SIU-C's 28-26 win over Stadium.

Spikers close season

By Sherry Chisenhall
Sports Editor

With any chance of post-season play shot down, the Saluki volleyball team will close its fall season with a three-match homestand, taking on Louisville Thursday, Indiana State Friday and Illinois State Saturday. All matches start at 7:30 at Davies Gymnasium.

The Salukis will be facing two of the tougher teams of the season in Louisville and Illinois State.

The Cardinals thumped SIU-C at the Illini Classic in early season, and Louisville looks like a likely candidate to claim its second win over SIU-C this season. The Cardinals have made sporadic appearances in top 20 polls and may be out of the Salukis' range.

Saluki Coach Debbie Hunter said the Louisville match will be challenging. The Cardinals represented the Metro Conference at the NCAA tournament last year, and are second this season behind Florida State.

SIU-C's other two matches are conference contests. Indiana State is one notch behind SIU-C in conference standings, with a 1-6 record. ISU is tied with Wichita State for the cellar of the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference.

The Sycamores are 8-21 overall, a record identical to the Salukis' mark. Indiana State's hitting percentage stands at .182, while SIU-C is attacking at a .183 clip.

Hunter said she's not underestimating the strength of the Sycamore squad.

"They've always had a reputation for being a scrappy team," Hunter said. "They keep a lot of balls in play that you think you've put away. Their coach used to be an assistant at Ohio State."

Meeting its match on one of the tougher courses it has played this season, the women's golf team closed its fall session with a 12th-place finish at the Alabama Seascape invitational in Destin, Fla.

The course at the Seascape Resort and Country Club in Destin called for something the Saluki club has lacked for most of the season — deadly accuracy.

Coach Mary Beth McGirr admitted that the course was not her team's cup of tea.

"It wasn't our kind of course, where the premium is on accuracy," she said. "It was an extremely difficult course. It was very tight, with a lot of water, sand and woods."

"Most of the fairways were tree-lined on both sides or had water along them. We also had trouble putting because the greens in the South are different

Scott sets sights high for veteran-laden team

A trip to the NCAA tournament is the main goal for Saluki women's basketball Coach Cindy Scott.

With Connie Price, Char Warring and D.D. Plab returning for senior seasons, the team appears to have the makings to improve on its 22-11 accomplishment and to have a shot at Scott's goal.

"The kids are really hungry to make it to the NCAA this year," Scott said. "We fell a single win short of our conference championship and an NCAA bid last year and we were only one of 40 teams selected for post-season play in the country. Our expectations are high."

Scott, beginning her seventh season as Saluki coach, has recorded a 99-73 career record and has her sights set on a third 20-win season and a first-ever NCAA tournament bid.

THE SALUKIS mustered a second-place finish in the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference and a berth in the National Women's Invitational Tournament last season. Their accomplishments of last year can be seen through the team's final stats.

The cagers sank 953 of 1,888 field goal attempts, 50.2 percent, and allowed only 42.2 percent by opponents. They grabbed 1,293 rebounds whereas their opponents hauled in only 1,128. The Salukis outscored their opponents by an average of 71.5 to 61.8. The team's only problem visible by stats was its free throw percentage, which was 61 as compared to its opponents' 68.

The Salukis lost Sue Faber, Rose Peoples and Pam Mann to graduation. But they have picked up six freshmen to replace them and Scott said she is "very pleased with them."

"This is the hardest working group of freshmen we've ever had," Scott said. "They will be able to give us added strength and depth this year."

FRESHMEN COZETTE Wallace, Lisa Dye and Ann Kattreh are working in the forward positions while Kattreh and freshmen Marialice Jenkins and Lori Swanson are working as guards. Tami Sautters, a 6-foot-2 freshman, is the only center the Salukis recruited.

All eyes have to be focused on Plab, Price and Warring, the nucleus of last year's squad. Plab, a 5-foot-7 guard from Mascoutah, averaged 10.2 points, three assists and one steal per game. One of the top point guards in the Midwest, Plab kept fans entertained with dazzling moves and also led the team with a .814 free throw percentage.

Warring, a 6-foot-2 forward from Chicago, led the team with 17.5 points per game; was the team's top rebounder with 8.4 per game. Warring's 60.3 percent from the field was 14th in the nation. She finished the season on a hot streak, averaging 21.4 points per game in her last 12 games, which included a team-high 32 points against Hawaii in the second to last game.

PRICE is a 6-foot-3 center from St. Louis, Mo. All that Price did last season was lead the nation in field goal percentage until the final two weeks of play when a hand
