Reagan, legislators push budget negotiations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan and congressional leaders Tuesday urged balanced budget negotiators to reach an agreement so the president will not have to deal with a U.S. fiscal crisis during the Geneva summit next week.

Without agreement on the balanced budget issue by Thursday at midnight, the government faces default because the balanced budget legislation is attached to a bill to lift the federal debt ceiling to a record $2 trillion. Without the hike, there will not be enough money to cover government checks.

Other congressional leaders suggested if no agreement is reached, Congress could pass a short-term extension of the debt ceiling to put off the issue until after the summit, but the White House was non-committal.

Reagan addresses the nation Thursday night on the summit and leaves for Geneva Saturday.

"It is in the best interests of the country that the Senate and the House should reach a compromise this week on the balanced budget measure," said House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass. "We need to clear the decks for the president in Geneva.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas urged the House-Senate negotiators to move swiftly.

"I trust we can have a resolution, not another little extension (of the debt ceiling)," Dole said, and asked both houses "to resolve this matter before it is too late.

Some congressional leaders said they expect this session at a White House meeting about the possibility of a new debt ceiling extension to tide the nation over until Congress returns from the summer Nov. 21.

"We (Reagan) never said anything about that," said Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

"He gave it the old shake," O'Neill indicated the White House "would have to go to the well of the ceiling hike if no agreement is reached, rather than see the government default.

"O'Neill said if a 15-day debt ceiling extension were reached, it would give Congress more time to work on balancing the budget, possibly "until next year" on tax reform, another of Reagan's pet projects.

The Illinois Department of Transportation has begun moving business signs on state property on the east side of U.S. 51 as part of a plan to construct a continuous left-turn lane to better accommodate traffic in the business area south of Pleasant Hill Road.

However, one local restaurant owner in the target area says that IDOT's sign relocation program is unfair.

LIN CHANG, manager of the King's Wok restaurant, said that IDOT representatives personally contacted her Oct. 20 and then by mail Oct. 21, requesting that she relocate her sign within one week because it was 17 feet inside the state's highway easement.

She then appealed to the department, asking for an extension of the relocation period because her landlord was the person authorized to move the sign.

CHANG said she was granted the extension, but IDOT representatives removed the sign Nov. 6, nearly one week before the extension period was to elapse. She said that no other signs Murder charges against Emmett Cooper, the man accused of killing Marie Azevedo, were dropped Tuesday after Jackson County State's Attorney John Clemons requested that presiding Judge Stephen Hallback dismiss the case.

Clemons said that he could not proceed with the case because a state witness suspected of being under the influence of drugs was declared until he testifies, another subpoenaed witness failed to appear, and two witnesses failed to recount a murder scenario that would have provided iniminating evidence against Cooper.

"We no longer have a case. Reluctantly, I'm asking the court to dismiss this case for one of the reasons stated," Clemons said.

Clemons said that the man was not a state witness. Witnesses, Cooper granted the dismissal, was asked to dismiss the 14-member jury.

Lester Penn, of Carbondale, testified that he knew nothing of the alleged involvement of Cooper in Azevedo's murder. Clemons repeatedly asked "did you sign contracts?"

"No. Not at that time," Penn responded.

"You mean to say you are not in the contract business?" Clemons asked.

"It means to take somebody out. To kill somebody," Penn testified. He testified that the group talked about "a doctors wife had got hit down here. I don't want to talk about it anymore about that."

"Did you ever discuss killing coop when you talked to us back in late July?"

"I had to say what was said on the statement. I didn't want to get whipped. I was scared when I thought we looked like we were going to get arrested," Penn testified.

A heated exchange resulted between the defense and witnesses regarding the testimony of Ligett. An argument arose over the defense attorney, Cooper's attorney, public defender and state's attorney. Clemons was overruled by Cooper and Clemons made a remark to the defense attorney, Cooper's attorney, public defender and state's attorney. Clemons took the stand and requested that the judge's attorney focus his remarks to the judge only. Clemons admonished the attorney.

"I was arrested by Jackson County sheriff's deputies immediately after he testified and charged with assisting in the alleged contract-murder of Marie Azevedo."

Clemons said that Penn testified last summer during the trial of the Rockford dentist Allan H. Azevedo that Cooper had suggested paying for assisting in the alleged contract-murder of Marie Azevedo.

Clemons said the two men reportedly had a conversation about a contract killing while they drove to Chicago after visiting Cooper's brother Bernard at Minard Correctional Center in early March, 1981.

Reagan wished good-luck before superpower summit
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan won a bipartisan wish of good luck for his efforts at next week’s summit Tuesday as he kicked off a final bid for public opinion at home and abroad amid gloomy prospects for tangible success. He will address the nation on television Thursday night to lay out the positions he will carry to the superpower summit in Geneva, the White House announced Tuesday.

Libyan rebels battle troops in coup attempt MONROVIA, Liberia (UPI) — Rebel soldiers led by a former military commander Tuesday battled troops loyal to President Samuel Doe in a bloody coup attempt in this West African nation founded by freed U.S. slaves in 1847. Former military commander Gen. Thomas Quisworapa claimed he had seized power in a predawn coup but Doe countered that loyal forces had crushed the revolt and killed 15 rebels. Doe said one loyal soldier was killed in the fighting. A British Embassy official said there was little evidence to support Doe’s claim the uprising had been crushed.

Car bomber kills 4 in assassination attempt
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A suicide driver in a bomb-laden car tried to ram a meeting of right-wing Christian leaders Tuesday at a monastery but guards opened fire and the auto exploded early, killing four people, police said. Among the 26 injured were the chief targets of the assassination attempt — 86-year-old former Lebanese President Camille Chamoun. Fatah Party chief Elie Karameh and former Parliamentarian George Saade.

Reagan calls for ‘nuclear-free’ European zone
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan suggested Tuesday that Soviet calls for a “nuclear-free zone in Europe” long opposed by the United States, might offer a potential for progress on medium-range missile issues at the superpower summit. Reagan, in an interview with five European television networks, also said he may be able to gain the support of 4-year-old Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev “some fatherly advice” at the talks, noting it will be the first time an American leader will be older than the Soviet head of state during a superpower summit.

House votes to override Reagan health veto
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to override President Reagan’s veto of a multibillion-dollar bill reauthorizing the National Institutes of Health and creating a new institute to research arthritis. Reagan vetoed the bill last Friday, charging it would undermine the NIH’s ability to manage itself. Reagan’s veto came despite a bipartisan plea last week from 76 members of the Senate who sent a letter urging him to sign the measure.

Americans reap record crop, demand sags
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The most successful American corn harvest ever, at a record 8.72 billion bushels, is more than 1 percent larger than estimated last month and 14 percent larger than last year’s crop, the government said Tuesday. But production success will yield more hardships than rewards as foreign demand for American crops and the U.S. government accumulates surpluses as large as those that forced the administration to initiate the largest acreage cutback in history in 1983.

Discrimination suit filed against companies
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission filed suits Thursday against an Illinois company and two Maryland firms for discriminatory hiring in a move that could net millions of dollars in back pay for minorities and women. Clarence Thomas, EEOC chairman, said suits were filed in U.S. District Court in Baltimore against Citizens Bank and Trust Co. of Maryland, and against Peterson, Howell and Heath Inc. and its parent company, PBH Group Inc.

Disciplinary action may befall border agents
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese is reviewing a report that is said to recommend discipline against two U.S. agents who forcibly returned a Brazilian sailor to his Soviet ship, a Justice Department official said Tuesday. The New York Times reported Tuesday that two Border Patrol agents involved in the case likely will be disciplined for not following the guidelines on how to handle a possible defector.

Hartigan vows to continue support of regional offices

By Jim McBride

Attorney General Neil Hartigan said Tuesday he will continue to develop the regional attorney general's office system created under his administration, if he is re-elected.

Hartigan announced Monday that he was dropping out of the governor's race to seek re-election as attorney general.

Stevenson pledged his support to Democratic gubernatorial candidate Adlai Stevenson III.

Hartigan said during a press conference at the Williamson County Airport that the regional attorney general's office system has generated over $900,000 in consumer savings within the past 18 months and that the system has enabled the attorney general's office to handle more cases.

He said the regional offices handled 35,438 cases during that period.

"To get those results in place already is a terrific accomplishment," he said.

Hartigan said the concept of developing a regional attorney general's office system came from similar systems in Maine and New York. He said the system was "fractioned" statewide to provide an equal level of service to different regions in Illinois.

Hartigan also cited the use of computer technology as an asset that has helped his department pursue cases on a statewide basis.

"This office, when I founded it, was a pen and pencil office in a computer age," Hartigan said.

"We can no longer afford a governor who has failed to get Illinois going," said Hartigan.

"We can no longer afford a governor who talks strong, but who acts weak," a governor who promised to build Illinois when all around him the foundation of the state has been crumbling," he said.

Hartigan said the biggest threat to the Democratic party's goal of defeating Thompson in the 1986 campaign is a "divided Democratic party" and that a contest between himself and Stevenson would deplete party finances needed to win cases on a statewide basis.

"They're going to make decisions that are going to be much too high," said Hartigan. "In order to win in March, I would have to wage a campaign more critical of my friend Adlai Stevenson than of Governor Thompson."

"Adlai Stevenson will make a great governor," Hartigan said. "He'll change the disastrous policies of the Thompson administration and, working together, we Democrats can get our economy working again and restore the hope and the future of our people."

Said Hartigan:

"In the future, when I founded this office, I put my money where my mouth is to help the Illinois people," said Attorneys General.

Falwell wants more money for Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) - Moral Majority leader Rev. Jerry Falwell said Tuesday that Washington should "stop bellyaching" about reforms and "put its money where its mouth is" to help the Philippines fight a growing communist insurgency.

Falwell, ending a 21-hour visit that included meetings with President Ferdinand Marcos and his wife Imelda, also said the Western press has misled Americans into believing Manila was a "war zone" and that the U.S. should increase its investment in the Philippines when he returns.

Falwell's remarks coincided with a court announcement that a verdict had been reached in the Igino Aquino case.

The popular opposition leader was assassinated August 1983 while being escorted by a military guard.
A pat on the back to all blood donors

IT'S TIME FOR A WELL-DESERVED pat on the back for the 3,739 SIU students, faculty and staff. Carbondale townspople and other people from southern Illinois who responded last week to the emergency appeal for blood donors by rolling up their sleeves and giving Take more. The donors broke several collection records, including the national campus record (held previously by SIU), highest number of gifts collected in the region, and second highest total collected overall in the nation.

The record was set — 912 people "gave the gift of life" for the first time. Thanks are due to the Mobilization of Volunteer Effort and the Arnold Air Society, which organized the blood drive with the American Red Cross. Thanks are also due to volunteers from the Jackson County Red Cross chapter, the approximately 350 student volunteers from 50 extramural service organizations, clubs and organizations, and to local medical professionals who evaluated donors and trained the volunteers.

Although the blood drive is over for now, we should not let that community spirit die. There are other groups, other activities that need these efforts. THIS WEEK AND NEXT, the Inter-Greek Council will be collecting non-perishable food at the south end of the Student Center, to be given to needy families in Carbondale. This is something that will help all. A can of soup, a loaf of bread even residence hall residents can donate something. Let's make SIU-C appear on the pages of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch again, showing that people in Carbondale do care about hunger in their own community as well as in Africa.

Buy American Cancer Society seals for your Christmas cards, donate spare change at the grocery store to support Synergy community health care. Big things can be done in the Jackson County Community Mental Health Center. Or read newspapers and magazines for blind radio listeners, through the Society of the Blind.

The University's International Programs and Services office is looking for host families for international students who are not able to travel home over Thanksgiving break.

If you live in a residence hall with an escort service, you can help keep one night a week. Or, if a friend feels afraid to walk across campus alone at night, go with.

And if you can't give blood at the next drive, volunteer to be one of the student workers taking temperatures and escorting donors.

In other words, be selfish and do something that will make you feel good deep down inside — help out, just as you did at the blood drive.

No humor to 'Apartheid'

I am writing in response to "Unfair and no argument" (Nov. 5) and in regard to the term "Apartheid". It seems to me that blacks' definition of something isn't always exactly what the dictionary says. For example, the two world views — African and European — must end their attitude that "the white way is the only way." We must open lines of communication to find out what blacks feel somehow means. Blacks already know what definitions are — our survival depends on it. Communication is the key to end our problems.

After reading Gus Bode (Nov. 5), my blood began to boil. How could anyone include anything but the word genocide in the same sentence with his words? It is a form of anti-Semitism.

Doenesbury

In reply to "Leave Khadafi Alone" (Nov. 8), I would like to suggest that, yes, Libya is in so much trouble and doesn't even know it.

If this world would abide by the laws of God, there would be less need for such a country and that would be the terrorist who condemns the non-believers and the faithless. America is so busy trying to overrule the world that it's not recognizing that there is only one ruler, and that is God Almighty.

Mr. Reagan is stepping on his own country trying to undermine and overthrow other countries. Doesn't he know that he is jeopardizing the lives of all Americans? We will reap what we have sown. Khadafi is not a terrorist. Khadafi is Islamic. Khadafi will blow up America because of Mr. Reagan's greed.

Greed that's all Mr. Reagan and his administration live for, taking what doesn't belong to them, even if it's just a man's own peace of mind or his soul. America had better wake up to what is happening because God has let them have their grace long enough. Yes, the peace period is over and God's judgement day is coming. He is not coming in peace: he is coming in war — war against the hypocrites who say they are of God but actually are of their own selfishness. Mr. Reagan, this does apply to you. Yes, you, Mr. Reagan, and your administration should leave Khadafi alone and check your mirror first.

I wish America would stop pipping its fingers and dancing to the beat of the devil long enough to see what is happening before all Americans wake up one day in the new Versailles. American's Supremacy, Accounting.

Refrunds for Rec Center fees

In the Nov. 7 article about the proposed Recreation Center addition, Bruce Swinburn, vice president for student affairs, said he couldn't approach the Board of Trustees with the proposal unless student support. Consider this opposition.

Presently, I pay $32 a semester for a Recreation Center I never use. Raising fees to $42 would be like throwing 10 more dollars at the window. I was surprised that Swinburn would not suggest such an increase at a time when a limited amount of funds for student workers threatened extending library hours during finals. At the same time, the Department of Cinema and Photography is in danger of extinction due to academic penny-pinching.

Right now I can get a refund on my Health Services and STS grant fees, so why not Recreation Center fees? I don't attend any events and only use the Recreation Center to cut through when its raining. Why am I paying for both? It seems to me that the people who do want these luxuries are in a position to make those of us who don't finance them.

Instead of building a new scoreboard in the Arena, why not pay a few more professors' salaries, open a 24-hour on campus study area or save an endangered department? Remember, it's good for sports that are always good for students. — Matthew Sobesty, senior, University Studies.

Goodbye — WIDB. I do not have the patience to put up with your popping and humming. I thought I was umming limited to a Manzele motor, but I've been wrong before. Another thorn in the dust! — Joe Haen, senior, Geography.

WIDB's bad signal losing audiences

Well, it has happened. WIDB has lost its signal, I hear static and a ferocious hum but no signal, and I live on campus. If I lived off campus I could pay for cable, but I cannot even have one installed.

Constructive criticism helps

I feel it necessary at this point to respond to all of the letters concerning Terri Quinn's Director, Grimaldi: "King of the Clowns." (Nov. 11). It is certain that I am an adherent to her opinion of the show. I think it must be pointed out that the majority of the audiences disagreed with her opinion.

Since several letters have noted the many problems within the review itself, I will not berate Terri Queen any further. Instead, I wish to address the Daily Egyptian for its responsibility toward accurate, well-written articles which I would be happy to support for University activities.

Admittedly, many writers (including myself) have not enjoyed the show Grimaldi at all. As daily Egyptians are undergraduates, this is not an indication of their lack experience. But lacking experience is no excuse for a lack of good, honest mistakes to be made by writers trying to learn their craft.

Another point is the possibility that the review of Grimaldi: "King of the Clowns" discouraged many SIU students from seeing the production. Now, in a large theater, there is no way to tell how many people were writing their own reviews based on the interpretation of a favorite film critic. I believe the Daily Egyptian should realize that it should support the arts in Carbondale, and that such support will be reciprocated.

I am not advocating "goody-goody" reviews. Students learning to review artistic endeavors must learn to spot the bad as well as the good. But they must also be taught that in a university environment, the artistic endeavors are also created by students learning their craft.

As students, we must all be willing to learn from one another, and we must strive to be supportive of each other. That support can easily come from each other, as well as from the other for advice and guidance in learning to critique the other's work. As student reviewers learn to write constructive (not destructive) criticism, student artists will learn to accept such criticism and use it to help them improve.

It is my opinion that the level of professionalism in the Daily Egyptian reviews will improve when the level of anarchy is Ke lockdown reviews continues to improve. Support of each of the other can only speed the improvement on all sides.

had been moved by IDOT and that the program appeared to single her out as an example. "I think it's unfair," Chang said. "All the other signs are on state property. Mine is the farthest from the road. Why was mine the first to be torn down?"

"I agreed to move the sign if everyone else has to move theirs," she continued, adding that no other signs on the east side of the highway had been moved to date.

"I UNDERSTAND that someone has to move first," Chang said.

Roy Harris, district supervisor for IDOT, said that about seven businesses will be affected by the relocation project and that Chang's sign was just the first to be moved and was not being used as an example.

"There are a number of others on state property," Harris said. "About seven others will have to be moved."

HARRIS SAID that sign owners have been "nitpicking" and have been given a "reasonable" amount of time to move their signs. He said that either the property owners or the department will move the signs, adding that the department would do so only after owners failed to comply with the notice.

Harris said that the state had gained the right of way "20 or 30 years ago" and that many of the signs along south U.S. 51 were illegally located on state property.

"Those signs down there have been on the right of way for years," Harris said. "This equals an illegal expenditure of state property."

WHEN ASKED about the alleged infraction of the extension, Harris said that he had not known that an extension had been granted.

Don't miss it," said Beattie, quoting Beethoven.

THE BARRIERS to creativity must be overcome for people to realize, discover and live their lives with fuller meaning," said Beattie.

"Life's value can be found in music," he said.

"The things that mean the most to you mean the most to me," said Beattie, speaking to a piano composer and instructor to an audience of students and faculty members.

"Music is all our lives. Melody, we sing and we speak with one another every day," he said. "It creates harmonious relationships with one another."

"RHYTHM IS in our movement. We can look out the window and see how people walk," he said. "We can see them walk in quarter notes and half notes. Music is the becoming of a person, an internal release and an expression of the self," Beattie said.

Beattie's former students discovered his own hidden talent as an artist by working on a class project assigned by Beattie, which was to perform or create something while listening to music.

"A student had in class who had never painted before painted a sailboat on the Mediterranean in a piano composition by Franz Liszt. It was the most creative experience imaginable," recalled Beattie.

Preliminary hearing set for Mt. Vernon youth

MOUNT VERNON (UPI) — Thomas Odle, 18, stood in his orange prison jumpsuit Tuesday and mumbled "yes," to the judge in recognition of the five separate murder counts against him in the slayings of his parents and two other persons.

Funk's services were held earlier in the day for the five family members. Five open white caskets laid end to end stretched across the Park Avenue Baptist Church as mourners paid their last respects.

The Rev. Gary Fore conducted the funeral service, urging the mourners to "avoid the way of anger." Beattie said.

"It is for our use and for others around us and it doesn't change the past," Fore told the 4000 people who filled the church.

The killings shocked the rural, Southern Illinois town of 15,700. About 1,000 mourners viewed the bodies during visitation Monday and Tuesday.

Odle has given authorities "an oral statement indicating he is responsible for all the deaths," said Jefferson County State's Attorney Gary Bell Alling. She said Odle said he gave his earlier confession a transcript of his taped statement.

"He gave as a reason for all the deaths a family dispute — an ongoing problem," said Police Chief Ron Massey.

the computer science department is seeking to expand its computer expansion capabilities by purchasing an operating system that would allow users access to more information about current research in centers across the country.

unix is a supervisory operating system that facilitates operations of many users at the same time. developed by bell laboratories, a division of at&t, in the mid 1970s, it has become a very popular system and has been updated several times, said kenneth danhoff, head of the computer sciences department.

the university of california at berkeley has upgraded its own version of the unix system "specifically designed for use in academic environments," danhoff said.

the berkeley version, called berkel 4.2, is preferred by the department because it would allow siu-c to become a part of a national network of research organizations.

"berkeley supports more activities which are important to academic people and academic research," danhoff said.

the organization that siu-c wants to affiliate with is the national research computer network a giant data base containing current research information.

the organization consists of members of both private companies and universities that maintain membership through dues. about 150 to 200 national universities, in the computer science network currently belong.

it would be useful for siu-c to have access to this information because today the computer science field is growing at such a fast pace it is difficult to keep up with new advancement," danhoff said.

he said that having access to this information is like having a "giant library in your of-the berkeley 4.2 system is preferred over at&t's current version, the bell system iv, because siu-c can get the berkeley version "practically free," danhoff said.

the university must purchase a computer that will accommodate the unix system, danhoff said. the computer science department is looking at several models that would be sufficient for the job.

the department will probably purchase the computer during the current academic year. danhoff said, and purchase of the unix system will follow.

it is possible that the unix purchase will occur as early as spring 1986, danhoff said, but the department is still seeking financing for the purchase.

The Faculty Senate passed a resolution Tuesday to cut tuition by 50 percent for dependents of University employees, beginning summer session 1986. The resolution will be presented to the Board of Trustees for approval.

Resolutions amending faculty grievance procedure, tuition benefits for faculty, the Adult Part-Time Student Program, a local faculty exchange, partial sabbatical extensions and the University Honors Program were passed. No action was made on a resolution presented to the Senate by the chairman of the Faculty Status and Welfare Committee.

The DEPENDENT tuition reduction resolution, proposed to the Senate by the Academic Priorities Committee, calls personnel "the University's greatest resource," and proposes that the health, insurance and other benefits already provided to these "tireless troubadours" include a 50 percent reduction in tuition and fees for dependents of "the working wage University employee.

CURRENTLY, TUTION and fees for a full-time student who is an Illinois resident add up to $322.10 per semester. The resolution suggests cutting the tuition to $322.10 for dependents of University employees. A dependent is defined in the resolution as 'he spouse or dependent natural-born, adopted or foster child of a University employee.

Dependents receiving a scholarship or tuition waiver would not be eligible for the tuition reduction.

THE SENATE voted to reconsider a resolution calling for the continuation of the Cinema and Photography Department, at its Dec. 10 meeting. It was placed before the Senate by Mike Lecrone, chairman of the Faculty Status and Welfare Committee.

THE SPLIT of the Cinema and Photography Department would incorporate photography into the Art Department and cinema into the Radio and Television Department. It "appears to be a unilateral decision without regard to the quality of the program as a whole, and the resolution as such." The resolution favors any reductions in other departments be based on recommendations of the ongoing Committee on Academic Priorities. David Gobert, professor in foreign language and literature, said, "Apparently, quantity of departments not quality is the only consideration behind this cut."

TIME AND language-related amendments to the faculty grievance article include a process by which students and faculty can air their complaints to the Judicial Review Board of the Senate.

One of the amendments provides that, "in the event of undue delay on the part of the JRB panel, and after notification of all parties concerned, the University president may, after five working days, act on the grievance without receiving a recommendation (about its decision) from the panel."

ALSO, the Senate passed a resolution which states tuition benefits for faculty in excess of those for other University groups may be taxable. The resolution cites Sections 117 and 127 of the Internal Revenue Service Code. The current rates are 12 free credit hours for faculty and eight free credit hours for other groups. The resolution, which will go before the Board of Trustees at its December meeting, endorses a nine-hour benefit for all groups.

THE CURRENT Evening and Weekend Program for adult part-time students was renamed the Adult Part-Time Student Program in a resolution passed by the Senate.

The resolution, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, would remove restrictions on the current program's definition pertaining to the time of day, classification of non-degree students and prior attendance at SIU.

A LOCAL faculty exchange to support quality secondary school education in Illinois, especially in Southern Illinois, is the subject of a resolution also passed by the Senate.

The resolution calls for administrative investigation into the interest for such a program in the University and area secondary schools.

"We have talked to some area high school teachers and University officials and we have found a general sentiment in favor of such a program," said Robert Griffin, chairperson of the Undergraduate Education Policy Committee.

"We believe it's a good idea in light of SIU's changing administrative standards. It needs a feasibility study," he said.

RECOGNIZING THAT funds for any sabbatical extensions are limited, the Senate also voted in favor of a resolution that sabbatical extensions not be attached to partial sabbaticals.

Partial sabbatical leave, for which a tenured faculty member is qualified after three years working at SIUC, may be four and one half months for academic-year appointment, or half pay in June.

A RESOLUTION to change protocol in the University Honors Program was passed by the Senate.

The resolution states that the department will report to the College of Liberal Arts, and not the office of the dean of academic affairs.

The subject of hijacking molds only the plot of "After the First Death," a novel by Robert Cormier, to be presented at Calgie Stage Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The real elements of the story range from self-concept to duty and loyalty between family to country and duty to neighbor.

The story portrays several individuals and their reactions to a hijacking and parallels their emotional lives with the narrations of Allen Kimball, who adapted and directed the play, said that the novel's complexity was one of the reasons he chose it. "The plot is separated into halves," he said, "and that and the fact that certain subplots only determine who is telling the story makes it a real challenge for oral interpretation."

The first of the two halves tells of two hijackers, an older man and a 16-year-old boy, who hope to further their quest for a homeland by taking a busload of people hostage.

The teenage hijacker has been trained for war, but is shaken when he learns that his initiation into a "brotherhood" is to kill a girl's own age. The second half involves a general assigned to the hijacking crisis and his teenage son.

The general has agreed to send his son as a special messenger to the hijackers. The message delivery joins the two stories and sparks a violent confrontation on top of a rickety bridge.

One of the most interesting aspects of "After the First Death" is the use of several different narrations. Anyone from the general's son's classmates to the girl bus driver may be telling the story.

It is sometimes difficult to tell whether a narrator is speaking from in or outside the situation, or even if he is alive or dead," Kimball said.

Performances will open at 8 p.m. Admission is $2.50.

Gray endorses disarmament plan, budget cuts

By Bill Ruminiski

The upcoming presidential summit, budget deficit, farmers and coal miners were all the top of the bill Monday when Congressman Ken Gray spoke to an editorial writing class Monday in the Communications Building.

Gray said that if the Soviet Union were to offer a verifiable disarmament plan, the president should accept the offer.

"If the Americans can come up with a verifiable disarmament policy, President Reagan should take it," Gray said. "We already have 300 times the weaponry to destroy the earth."

COMMENTING on how things have changed since his departure from the House of Representatives in 1974, Gray said he knows that the defense budget has increased since losing their farms.

"I have known two farmers who have committed suicide since losing their farms," he said. "When you can help people, you have a moral responsibility to help them."

Gray is also running head to head with Missouri Senator John Danforth over the conversion of Scott Air Force Base into a civilian-military facility. Handling civilian flights at the airbase could bring as many as 10,000 jobs to the Southern Illinois region, Gray said.

IN RECENT years the Lambert Field in St. Louis has been handling all of the flights for that region, and Danforth, said Gray, doesn't want to lose the revenue from the increased traffic.

"Since St. Louis has added direct flights to Europe the increasing passenger load has made it impossible for the facility to handle so many people," Gray said. "If Danforth would let us take flights out of Scott (Air Force Base) we could help avoid accidents and avoid the undeterminable delay inherent in the crowds."

GRAY ALSO said: -Former president Lyndon B. Johnson died of the grief he felt over the Vietnam conflict, and its effect on the American people.

-Gray also pointed to the government's"...-

In the year 1980, the Republican budget proposal was $2.5 billion s.t aside for research.

-Reducing the defense expenditures and invoking a domestic freeze would enable the capability of the government to balance the budget.

-Southern Illinois coal is not the reason for the increase in acid rain, but it is the additional four or five million cars on the road every year.

-NUCLEAR POWER is proving to be less than effective, and that Southern Illinois has 150 billion tons of coal waiting to be mined.

"I voted against the bill to send $27 million to aid the contras in Nicaragua," Gray said. "If we keep playing with matches, most likely we'll start a fire."

Hope, skepticism mixed among summit allies

By BARRY JAMES
UPI Senior Editor

"IT MAY BE a non-event. The government is hoping that it will open the door for future negotiations, and as such it doesn't expect anything dramatic," Moisi said.

A British spokesman, too, said the most that can be expected from Geneva is that the summit will "ease the logjam in East-West relations, while not necessarily producing any dramatic results immediately."

America's NATO allies are presenting a united front at the summit. The communiqué after a recent meeting of NATO defense ministers said Reagan would be going to Geneva "with the full support and solidarity of the alliance."

NATO has just about weathered the storm over the deployment of SS2 cruise and Pershing-2 missiles aimed at countering a Soviet build-up of triple-warheaded SS-20 missiles. Even wavering Holland appears more likely to take its share of 48 cruise missiles, despised by Gorbachev, than recent offer to curtail the number of SS-20s aimed at Western Europe.

The allies also have buried the门店 means to the future. The differences over Reagan's Star Wars plan, the Strategic Defense Initiative, which Gorbachev wanted shelved in six days, in Soviet land-based, first-strike missile strength.

ON THE face of it, the European partners have the most to gain from the NATO meeting the Reagan administration's argument that SDI is only a research project at present, that it does not contravene existing arms treaties and that it is a prudent response to Soviet weapons research.

U.S. Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger told reporters after the NATO meeting that the allies con- curred with Reagan's view that SDI "should not be negotiated away" at the arms talks.

B. ALTHOUGH some European views differed, Britain first among them — are hoping to get a slice of the $26 billion SDI research pie, there is widespread skepticism about the validity of the concept, and differences appear to have been set to one side only to keep a united front at the summit and avoid giving the Soviet Union a chance to drive a wedge between the United States and Moscow's European partners.

Europe's fragile unity in the run-up to the summit could quickly unravel, however, if by sticking too obstinately to his Star Wars project Reagan foils any chance of an arms control agreement, scuppers the summit and touches off a new spiral in the arms race unlimited in extent or duration.

GORBACHEV has been playing adroitly on these European misgivings, by casting doubt on Reagan's credibility and warning of the dire consequences that might ensue if Star Wars goes ahead.

"Really grim times are lying ahead for the world," unless the allies come to terms with SDI, he said in Paris.

By choosing France, for his first visit to the West since becoming leader, Gorbachev clearly had in mind to align himself with the West European opposition to SDI, which has come under particularly heavy criticism from the French government. Gorbachev depicted the Europeans as more reliable partners than the Americans, and told out the promise of closer trade cooperation, including possible links between the Soviet-dominated Comecon trade bloc and the European Economic Community.

HE EVEN spoke of possible links between the Warsaw Pact and NATO.

"If a nationalist," Gor- bachev said, stressing a new mood of ostensible reasonableness toward the Europeans, "I am not trying to con them..."

Gorbachev also proposed separate negotiations with France and Britain on their nuclear strike forces. Both turned him down, saying it was up to the superpowers to reduce their vastly larger nuclear arsenals before bringing in the smaller countries.

In the Middle East, Israel hopes the summit will result in easier emigration of Soviet Jews and a resumption of diplomatic ties between Jerusalem and Moscow, broken off since the 1967 Middle East war.

PRIME Minister Simon Peres said he has received assurances that Reagan will raise the refugee question at the summit, Israel is rife with rumors that as many as 20,000 Jews may be allowed to leave if all goes well at Geneva, compared with a total of 85% for the whole of last year.

There are reports — denied by Peres — of a secret meeting between the prime minister and Gorbachev in Paris.

Peres has sent a message to Gorbachev inviting a resumption of ties, which could bring the Soviet Union fully into the Middle East peace process and perhaps pave the way for a peace settlement with Moscow's ally, Syria, over the disputed Golan Heights.

"BUT GORBACHEV has been non-committal, "I think that the sooner the situation in the Middle East returns to normal, the quicker we can proceed to consideration of this question," he said in Paris.

But Israel has already struck a deal with Poland opening the way to the possible restoration of diplomatic ties, and Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir has said another East European country — believed to be Hungary — also is seeking improved relations with Jerusalem.

Musicians strolled onstage — the lights dimmed — the Vocal Jazz Ensemble had begun.

Shrock Auditorium was the scene of toe-tapping jazz tunes Monday night, offering by the School of Music and the College of Communications and Fine Arts. Directed by Maurice LeGault, the Vocal Jazz Ensemble was a highly enjoyable, hour-long festival of tight vocal timing and harmonic voices, blended together.

Sixteen vocalists grouped onstage, dressed in sharp black-and-white outfits that gave visual unity. Vocal unity was achieved throughout the evening's eight songs, which were sung with enthusiasm and near-perfect timing.

Well-known songs of a few years ago, such as "52nd Street," "(Call Me Irresponsible)," and "S Wonderful," were sung. Several songs were apt to be recognized by younger audiences were also offered, including "Midnight at the Oasis," and "Jazzman."

Soloists sang during many of the songs, and were featured during three. Soprano Julia King sang "Cry Me a River," her beautiful voice soaring from somewhere on the lower register to a high, pure soprano in this mellow arrangement. In "New York State of Mind," fellow soprano Jennifer Schaefer's rich, expressive voice perfectly suited this mellow arrangement. In another slow solo, Kathy Heim's unexpressive soprano voice struggled with "Midnight At The Oasis," only to be overshadowed by Jon Phillips' talented saxophone solo.

The vocalists were accompanied by Phillips on saxophone, Bonita Miller on Piano, Terry Rich on drums, and an inspiring Harold Miller on bass.

The evening's entertainment was well received by a sparse audience.

Higher blood drive goal discussed

A goal of 4,700 pints is being discussed by student leaders for next April's student-sponsored blood drive, says Vivian Igen, the Southern Illinois Red Cross blood services coordinator.

"SUU students planned this blood drive. They contacted potential donors and recruited volunteer workers. They really do care about their community," she said.

The American Red Cross, after double-checking the returns, confirmed Monday that last week's blood drive at SIUC set a new p peacetime campus record.

The University beat its own record of 2,012 set in 1984, by collecting 3,379 pints during the five-day drive.

The drive was organized by the Mobilization of Volunteer Effort and the Arnold Air Society. About 350 student volunteers, from fraternities, sororities, service organizations, and recognized student organizations, helped at the drive.

Sandwiches for donors were made and donated by members of the Jackson County Red Cross chapter, and each day about a half-dozen local registered nurses, licensed practical nurses and emergency medical technicians volunteered to take pulse and blood pressure readings and train the student volunteers.

Ugenst was especially glad to see 912 first-time donors. New donors are always needed to replace donors who become too old to give or must be deferred for another reason.

A fear of contracting AIDS may have contributed to a recent drop in donor participation throughout the nation, Red Cross officials fear. Several facts were publicized throughout the drive, including that AIDS cannot be contracted by giving blood, and that individual packaged sterile needles are used with each donor.

"This did it," Ugent said. "The AIDS question will disappear."

Study finds low cholesterol dangerous

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The largest study of its kind shows that low blood cholesterol levels are not a significant factor in the disease, contradicting those who say only high amounts are dangerous, researchers said Tuesday.

"It is not a threshold relationship," said Dr. William S. Kannel. "The claim is incorrect that excess risk results if cholesterol is below a certain level. Cholesterol reaches a markedly elevated level," Dr. Kannel said at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association.

Cholesterol and other fatty substances can build up on the inner surface of the blood vessels, leading to the heart, cutting off blood flow to parts of the muscle. This sets the stage for a heart attack, expected to kill 550,000 Americans this year.

The risk posed by high levels of cholesterol in the blood is well known, but there has been considerable disagreement about the significance of low amounts. Some authorities said data from other studies indicated the risk was slight for people with lower levels of cholesterol in the blood.

The new study included 366,222 men between the ages of 30 and 74 who were studied for a heart disease risk study of 12,000 men. Researchers from 25 medical centers measured the cholesterol levels and followed the men for an average of 18 years. None died of heart disease, and most had no significant disease.

Stamler, lead author of the study, said the data showed the risk for heart disease was not increased as the cholesterol level increased.

"We didn't need anything more, except compliance by the Soviets with an agreement they already signed," the Helsinki Agreement of 1975, provided for freedom of movement and the unimpeded taking of public officials into public custody in cases of human rights breaches.

The official added that the Helsinki agreement was still in effect, despite the Soviet refusal to allow the Helsinki monitoring group to visit any Soviet territory.

The Helsinki agreement is an international agreement that guarantees the rights of individuals to freedom of expression, assembly, and association, and the right to a fair trial. It also guarantees the right to free movement of goods and services, and the right to a free press.

The agreement was signed in Helsinki in 1975, and includes 30 countries, including the United States, Russia, and most of Western Europe.

The agreement was intended to promote compliance with international human rights standards, and to ensure that the rights of individuals are respected and protected.

The agreement has been widely regarded as a cornerstone of democratization and human rights protection in Europe, and has been credited with helping to bring about the collapse of the Soviet Union.

The agreement is often cited as an example of how international agreements can bring about significant changes in society, and how international cooperation can help to create a more just and equitable world.

Reagan to utilize quiet diplomacy against Soviet rights violations

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan has decided to change tactics in dealing with Soviet violations of human rights, according to administration officials who are familiar with the new approach.

As a result, Shultz told reporters the previous policy of public criticism of the Soviet system in general cases has been replaced with a new "quiet" approach.

In one instance, the Soviet's response to the Helsinki agreement is still in effect, and the White House is seeking to bring about compliance with its provisions.

The Soviets have raised the issue of the Yurchenko affair, and the KGB official who allegedly defected and returned to the Soviet Union with a public claim the CIA drugged and held him captive, as a case of human rights abuse.

Asked how Reagan would respond if the Yurchenko case is raised at the summit, the official said, "We could point out the flaws in the information presented by the Soviets, and the inconsistencies in their story."

The official said the cloudy American male has about 15 milligrams of cholesterol per deciliter of blood. This is the amount recommended by most medical experts.

The study also found that the amount of cholesterol in the blood is not the only factor that affects cardiovascular health. Other factors, such as blood pressure, smoking, and family history, also play a role.

The study was funded by the National Institutes of Health and was conducted at the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute.

Tri-state and national electronic banking capabilities were introduced to Southern Illinois, as a two-state 1,200-transaction ATM network, and a Carbondale bank joined larger electronic networks last week.

Customers that do business at banks belonging to the ATM processed by the First Financial Management Corporation can now walk or drive up to BANKMATE machines in Illinois, Missouri, and Kansas and withdraw or deposit cash, check their account balance, or transfer funds between accounts.

IN ADDITION, the First National Bank of Carbondale and Trust Company of Carbondale have joined CIRRUS, a nationwide electronic banking network. First National customers will have access to about 8,400 ATMs throughout the nation, said Joseph Kesler, vice president of the bank.

The bank is also opening a fourth "Great Exchange" teller machine in December, at the Carbondale Shopping Center on Route 13 West. The bank has machines at the SIU Student Center, its lobby and parking lot.

FIRST BANK and Trust is one of 17 Southern Illinois banks that belong to a local ATM network. The machines are mostly located at shopping centers and banks, but there is one in a Mount Vernon hospital.

First National's Great Exchange machines are the busiest in the Midwest, averaging 12,000 transactions a month.

"Our customers really appreciate it," said Kesler. "It's a changing world and we're proud to be changing with it."

FIRST FINANCIAL Management Corporation has made this all possible by linking its computer, which processes the local banks' transactions, in the CIRRUS and BANKMATE computers.

The CIRRUS transactions are made through a dedicated telephone line data link, and only banks with computers capable of responding to an inquiry within 20 seconds can join CIRRUS, said Kenneth Greeneall, senior vice president and general manager of the midwest region. FPMC is the third largest bank data processor in the nation, he said. It has an office in Marion.

THE LINKING of bank computers with other computers will expand a bank's capability, Greeneall said.

Having automatic tellers can result in saved labor costs, although Kesler said it was difficult to tell if First National's lobby traffic had decreased, because business overall has increased.

About 95,000 electronic transactions took place in the Southern Illinois ATM network in October, Greeneall said.

BY JOINING CIRRUS and BANKMATE, First National hopes to serve more students, only 15 percent of which have bank accounts in Carbondale. Students whose home banks tie in to the CIRRUS or BANKMATE networks, such as the Cash Stations in Chicago, will be able to use the Great Exchange machines, paying only a $1 service charge per transaction.

Each bank that participates in the network is allowed to levy a service charge.

Students, and young people in general, are not afraid to use electronic banking machines. And if more people use the machines, that means shorter lines for patrons that prefer to transact with a human teller, he said.

Bowl bid picture not solid, but speculation continues

By David Moffitt

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bowl speculation is rising to a fever pitch.

At the moment, speculation is all we have. But as soon as there’s a break in the logjam caused by the five top-rated Jan. 1 bowls, the lineup for the other 11 post-season college football games will start falling into place.

Even a couple of those Jan. 1 games are on hold at the moment, waiting for the outcome of the Oklahoma-Nebraska and Michigan against No. 2 Nebraska. However, the Cornhuskers must get past No. 6 Oklahoma before going to the Orange Bowl.

The 7th-ranked Miami Hurricanes have home-town support (except from the hotel and restaurant operators). It’s unlikely Orange Bowl officials would allow Miami and Oklahoma win the Big Eight.

THE ORANGE BOWL has three candidates to face the Big Eight champion. The folks at Miami would like Penn State if the Nittany Lions are still No. 1 two weeks from now, in hopes of matching top-rated Penn State against No. 2 Nebraska. However, the Cornhuskers must get past No. 6 Oklahoma before going to the Orange Bowl.

The 7th-ranked Miami Hurricanes have home-town support (except from the hotel and restaurant operators). It’s unlikely Orange Bowl officials would allow Miami and Oklahoma win the Big Eight.

California (Fresno, Calif., Dec. 14) — Nevada-Reno (1-1) vs. Bowling Green (6-4). Good records, poor schedules.

Cherry (Poniat, Mich., Dec. 21) — Minnesota (6-3) vs. Texas A & M (6-2). Not a choice location.

Independence (Shreveport, La., Dec. 21) — West Virginia (5-3-1) vs. Fresno State (6-0-1). Optimum Memphis, Tenn. Dec. 27) — Louisiana State (5-1-1) vs. Brigham Young (8-2), if Cougars lose to Air Force.

Alaska (Honolulu, Dec. 28) — Oklahoma (7-1-1) vs. Washington (5-4).

Citrux (Orlando, Fla., Dec. 28) — Georgia Tech (6-2-1) vs. Colorado (6-3).

San (El Paso, Tex., Dec. 28) — Texas (6-2) vs. Auburn (7-2), if Tigers lose to Georgia.

All-American (Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 29) — Maryland (6-3) vs. Army (7-2). Would prefer an SEC team.

Gator (Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30) — Miami (8-1) vs. Michigan (7-4). Assuming both miss out on Jan. 1 action.

Freedom (Anahme, Calif., Dec. 30) — Arizona (6-3) vs. Notre Dame (5-3) if Irish win two of last three games.

Bluebonnet (Houston, Dec. 30) — Baylor (7-2) vs. Alabama (6-2-1). All bets off if either wins its conference.

Holiday (San Diego, Dec. 31) — Arizona State (7-2) vs. Florida State (7-2).

Drug use tantamount to ‘nuclear escalation,’ Ueberroth tells press

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth took his campaign against drug-use by major leaguers to the nation’s capital Tuesday, declaring the drug menace “ranks up there with the problems of nuclear escalation.”

In a wide-ranging talk before the National Press Club, Ueberroth also said he will ask for a re-assessment of the use of the designated hitter and added he is considering altering the DH rule in the World Series.

“Baseball, like many other parts of society, has developed a bit of a cocaine culture as a national priority,” said Ueberroth, who just completed his rookie season as commissioner after heading the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee.

“We would hope that this country begins to look at (fighting drugs) as a national priority,” the commissioner added. “As a potential for destroying our lives and destroying our family, it ranks up with the problems of nuclear escalation, it ranks up with the problems with terrorism, and it ranks up with there with the financial stability of the country.”

Ueberroth coupled his rhetoric with the declaration that the drug testing program installed in the minor leagues in early May “reduced drug use to almost a very minimal state, reduced (drug use) dramatically throughout the 3,000 minor league players.

Ueberroth continued his public lobbying for mandatory drug testing of major league players and predicted that “one day there will be a drug agreement” that includes testing.

The commissioner’s office and major league owners have not yet negotiated such a testing program with the players’ union.

“As long as you protect someone’s privacy and get them help, testing should be included in baseball,” Ueberroth said. “We’re going to fight drugs because of the health and welfare of the players and their families. But mostly we’re going to fight because 450 major league players are idolized by millions and millions of youngsters.”
Men ruggers wrap up season with strong play

By Sandra Todd
Staff Writer

The SIU-C Men's Rugby Club concluded its fall season over the weekend with a 5-0 win over St. Louis University in the Whistpaw Tournament in the balmy breezes of Mobile, Ala. Although the ruggers did not make a trip to the season-ending championship game, they played more cohesively than they had all season, says club President Stacy Kibler.

In first-round play, the Okalona, Fla., club was hard put to a match for the steamrolling performance Southern treated them to, and were flattened with a final score of 38-12.

Euker said that the team ran right over them, and tired them out, "said Euker. "We were totally dominated."

Our packies played great," he said, "they got the ball out to the backs which they hadn't done all year.

SIU-C scorers included Craig Johnson and John Cona, who charged in with three tries each. Euker punched one in while Rick Baneths converted five of seven point-after tries.

With the first-round win, Southern advanced to the winners bracket to face Louisiana State, the No. 1-ranked team in the Deep South region, and lost an intense match, 13-9.

Even with a top-rating in the South, LSU was put to the test. "They didn't really dominate the game," said Euker.

Southern held the Tigers for three-quarters of the first half, but the steaky 85-degree weather began taking its toll on the SIU-C ruggers, accustomed to Carbondale's fall climate, as they let a try get past them. Louisiana's point-after conversion was unsuccessful, and the score remained 4-0.

Just before half-time, a penalty against LSU resulted in Rick Baneths' booting a nailing-bite penalty kick, which bounced off of the cross bar of the uprights and went in, making the score 4-3.

The teams scored once more and converted, extending their lead to 10-3 at the half.

Euker said that the team had some problems with tackling the LSU players because of their size and height.

"They had only big players," he said, "as tall as the falls, but strong," he said. "We were hitting them hard, but they had good runners too."

Since Southern took just 16 players, substitutes were a scarce commodity. The team had only five when SIU's main line-out man, Alan Fisher, was lost to leg cramps for a good chunk of the second half.

"I wish we could do more with injuries than fill water cups all of the time. But I enjoy this job a lot," she said.

Of course, chauvinism can work both ways, Saluki trainer Darril Fink, a junior, said.

"If the players want an ice massage, they always come to a girl. I guess they'd rather have a girl touching their shoulder muscles."

Kibler's goal is to work with the Los Angeles Raiders, work with a pro team, but working for a high school or a college would be great," she said.

If you called a Saluki football trainer a "water boy," you would probably be accused of being either chauvinistic or insulting.

The old black-and-white movie image of a short, mousey student who gingerly carries a water bucket and ladle to rough-and-ready football players in his spare time outside classes no longer applies to the trainers of the 1980s.

Athletic training is now a full-time career for some, requiring 2,000 hours of clinical training for a degree that is not only reserved for men.

Trainers not only keep tables well-stocked with water, practice days, but also practice preventive and recuperative medicine for an injury, and giving ice massages for some sore muscles.

Monty Fink, a junior in athletic training who has acquired approximately 800 of the 1,200 clinical hours needed for a degree, is one of the Saluki football team's student trainers.

The student trainers apply their training to injuries under the watchful eye of Ed Thompson, head trainer and clinical supervisor.

"Ed is the first on the scene of an injury, and we just follow around like puppy dogs," Fink said. "If he needs something, he'll tell us to go to the training kit and grab a splint or something like that."

"If he sees something rare, he'll call over and point it out to us. One was punt returner Ed Fashaw's elbow dislocation earlier this year. A photographer was right on top of it, and we have a picture of it in the training room."

"Another freak accident was where quarterback Jerry Gleison got hit by a car while he was walking back to the Arena after practice. The car rolled over his ankle, but he just got a severe sprain. He was more scared than anything," Fink said.

The most common injuries are ankle and wrist sprains, Fink said, and two cases of tape, with several dozen rolls in a case, are used each practice day.

"A lot of chemical muscle warmer is also used, but Fink has his doubts about its benefits. "It really doesn't do anything physiologically, I think it's mostly psychological. But we use it because it seems to help the players," he said.

Most of the student trainers in SIU-C's athletic training program are women. Laura Kibler, a junior, is another Saluki student trainer.

I've been around sports all of my life. I helped out my high school trainer, and I liked it a lot," Kibler said. "I came to SIU because I knew they had a good trainer program. I wanted to go into physical therapy, but I was talked into training by Cindy Knight (another Saluki student trainer).

As in many professions, chauvinism can be a problem.

"Some of the football players don't come to us for a taping because we're girls," Kibler said. "They don't think we can do a good tape job. If one of them gets hurt, they'll usually call for Ed Thompson or one of the guys. It takes them a while to get used to what a girl usually does.

"I wish we could do more with injuries than fill water cups all of the time. But I enjoy this job a lot," she said.

Dixon leads men golfers to 4th-place finish

By Anita J. Stoner  Staff Writer

Saluki golfer Clark Dixon nailed down a fifth-place finish in the Spring Hill College Invitational in Mobile, Ala., last weekend to help the men’s golf team bring home the fourth-place trophy for the event — the team’s last tourney of the season.

“It was nice to end the season on a fairly decent finish. It was our first trophy this fall, and it’s nice to bring something home. Hopefully the boost for our morale will carry into next spring,” Saluki Coach Darren Vaughn said.

Southern Alabama won the 36-hole Spring Hill tourney with rounds of 296 and 294 for a 590-stroke total on the Spring Hill College Course. The University of Alabama-Birmingham finished second with rounds of 295 and 302 for a 603-stroke total followed by Wallace State with 297 and 306 for a 603 total.

Vaughn said the Salukis fell off the top pace with the team’s second-worst round total for the season — 315 strokes on the first day. However, the Salukis pleased Vaughn with a 303 for the final round, enough only by the winning team that day. The recovery gave the Salukis exactly enough to tie for fourth with Samford College, which also shot rounds of 315 and 303.

“It’s always nice to have a comeback. Most people do worse on the finishing day, most of the time,” Vaughn said.

But Saluki efforts might even have improved, had they not suffered a practice setback due to a week of bad weather before they left.

“I think we could’ve done better, but sometimes it’s hard to tell. Southern teams are certainly at a disadvantage later in the year because playing time is shortened when the weather worsens and the clocks turn back. And when it rained, we didn’t get to practice our short games, and you have to practice that every day to have a feel for it,” Vaughn said.

To make matters worse, this is the season for Southern Conference men to overshad the greens to ensure that grass makes it through the winter.

“You get on the first green and you think, ‘Oh no, I’ve got to play on this’ — but everybody had to play on the same thing,” Vaughn said.

Dixon didn’t have any problems with the par-72 course, as he fired rounds of 76 and 72 to gain a tie for fifth place.

“I’m really pleased, because Clark’s had a few problems keeping the ball in play off the tee this fall. He played well in this tournament,” Vaughn said.

I’m pleased that he’s getting better. It was a big boost for his confidence,” Vaughn said.

Saluki Jay Sala finished in the top 15 with rounds of 77 and 71 in the Saluki effort.

“Tom’s probably one of the steadiest golfers on the team, he made a double bogey to begin his second round.

“After he started the second day with a double bogey, he played the next 17 at even par. That’s just the kind of player Jay is — if he gets over, you can expect him to hang in there and shoot the same for the rest of the holes, if not better,” Vaughn said.

Tom Porter shot rounds of 79 and 71 in the Saluki effort.

Promotions usher in cage season

By Steve Merritt  Staff Writer

Although there’s little hope for a 20-win season from the Saluki men’s basketball team, there is still tremendous interest in a new program and a lot of the credit goes to coach Rich Herin, says Bruce McCutcheon, assistant men’s basketball director in charge of promotions.

“There’s a lot of uncertainty about what’s to come, but everyone is excited about the new era of Saluki basketball,” McCutcheon said.

“We’re selling entertainment here and it’s very important that fans feel they are a very integral part of the team and that they leave the arena with good memories. We’re going to create enthusiasm and excitement and we’ll try to make the event more than just a basketball game.”

McCotcheon and the Men’s Athletics Department have several promotions scheduled to keep interest in Saluki basketball as high as possible. One promotion will have its own kind of spirit fans — according to McCutcheon said every home game will feature registration for a Caribbean cruise for two. The winner will be determined by a drawing during the last home game of the season.

Home games will also feature the “Saluki Hoop Shoot,” a contest that will give fans an opportunity to shoot four shots for prizes. Fans begin by shooting a lay-up. If that shot is made, the fan advances to the free-throw line, and if that shot is made the contestant advances for a shot from the top of the key. The final shot comes from the court corner and will be worth a $6,000 cruise for two, if made.

Four-line shots will be good for such prizes as dinner at local restaurants, while a shot from the top of the key will be good for the use of a video-cassette recorder for three months and 30 free movie rentals.

Following is a partial listing of various events:

Friday, Nov. 22 — 2,000 pom-poms will be given out for the season opener against Chicago State.

“We’d love to see Saluki fans shaking these for the rest of the year,” McCutcheon said.

Saturday, Nov. 30 — Pre-game photo night, encouraging youngsters to get their pictures taken with members of the Saluki basketball team.

Monday, Dec. 9 — A tough game with Big Ten foe Purdue.

Saluki Christmas ornaments are to be awarded to fans who win a contest — the type of contest has not yet been decided.

Saturday, Feb. 8 — Alumni recognition night, with food, game meal and activities for alumni.

Thursday, Feb. 13 — Valentine’s Day theme, with first 1,000 women receiving a program and a ‘Blind Date” seating section where made fans get odd numbered tickets and female fans get even numbered tickets.

Saturday, Feb. 15 — Top Salukis battle heads with preseason conference favorite Kentucky and a portion of the proceeds from the gate go to the Elk’s Crippled Children Fund.

Thursday, Feb. 27 — Final home game of the season pits the Salukis against Illinois State. Fans will have a chance to win a car by participating in the “Saluki Fly In, Drive Away” contest. Fans attempt to fly a paper airplane into the sunroof of a car that is sitting in the middle of the court.

You can just about always count on him to keep it under 80,” Vaughn said.

Tom Neuman and Mike Kolisek fared the worst of the Salukins. Neuman shot 83 and 88, while Kolisek carded 89 and 83.

“Mike had the most trouble — he got over par and struggled the whole time. Tom Neuman has been close all year, and he’s not quite there yet, but he’s only a sophomore and he’ll get better with experience,” Vaughn said.

Drake foils 1986 homecoming plans

Penn State strives for solid No. 1 slot

Drake was redshirted last season, and is looking forward to his first season of competition with the team next spring.

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Drake, Missouri Valley Conference team that has competed at the I-AA level since 1982, will completely drop football for the 1986 season and will realign the following year as non-scholarship sport in the NCAA Division III level, which does not permit use of scholarships to recruit players.

FERRARI said the university will now concentrate efforts on basketball and the 76-year-old Drake Relays before putting renewed interest in the football program in 1987. Because football will be completely dropped, Drake players are now eligible to play for other teams. Ferrari said Drake will honor the scholarships of players who choose not to leave the university.

Saluki football coach Ray Dorr said he was "very remar ked" by Drake's decision.

"I'm disappointed that any institution would drop their football program. The value of a program can't be measured in dollars and cents," Dorr said.

"The rewards and frustrations on the field can't be taught in the classroom.

DORR WOULD NOT rule out the possibility of recruiting Drake players, but he says he would rather talk to Drake coach Chuck Shelton before approaching Drake players.

I'd like to talk to Chuck Shelton and see if any of his players would want to come to Southern Illinois University. We would like some players who would come and make a contribution. But we'll have to be very selective — some of them may want to go back to Drake," Dorr said.

In other news affecting Saluki football, Indiana State University has announced that it will not join the newly formed football-based Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference.

SHORTLY AFTER the MVC announced that football would be dropped as a conference sport after the 1985 season, six schools formed the Gateway conference for football (SIUC, Eastern Illinois, Illinois State, Western Illinois, Northern Iowa and Washburn).

Indiana State did not make a decision at that time, but has been expected to join the Gateway because of the geographic proximity to other Gateway members. Drake also declined to join the Gateway because of uncertainty surrounding the direction of its football program.

Lotz said the decision not to join the Gateway was not final, as the Symocore football program will be reevaluated at the end of the 1986 season.

This season, the Saluki men's basketball team will travel to places as near as the Peoria Civic Center, and far as the Civic Center in Peoria, Texas State, but Saluki fans can follow the games anywhere. Even that far-away places without leaving the comfort of their own living rooms.

Three local radio stations will be broadcasting games this year. WCIL FM 101.3 and WINI AM 1500 will carry the home games.

WCIL, broadcasting out of Carbondale, will begin coverage 15 minutes prior to each game with "The Rich Herrin Program," a football-only show with play-by-play man Mike Reis interviewing the Saluki coach, Herrin on the upcoming game.

WINI show will be followed by an "Up Close," a program with Greg Loll and Rod Starrick, who does the color commentary for the games, will interview notable names in college basketball.

Rein will begin his year doing play by play, and Starrick, a former Saluki basketball player, as he did the last year, will host a show that also features basketball notables, with more emphasis on the players.

WCIL's post-game show will start 10 minutes after the end of the game. Herrin will rejoin Reis and Starrick for "The Saluki Coach's Post Game Show.

Murphysboro will also broadcast all the Saluki games.

WINI coverage starts 30 minutes before tip-off with a "Saluki Preview," another show hosted by play-by-play announcer Reis. The show will feature interviews with Herrin and other sports writers and announce this year's schedule.

The halftime show will be another sports personality interview show in the same vein as the pre-game show.

Joseph Will covers the Salukis at home, with Mike Basset doing the play by play. Color commentary is rotated among Rein, Loll and Starrick.

WINI's coverage starts at the beginning of the games and ends at the end of the game.

Saluki women's basketball will probably not receive as much coverage as the men's team, but updates on the team should be broadcast during the regular sports reports of the above-mentioned radio stations.
