Pro-choice activists rally in capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some 150,000 supporters of legal abortion gathered Sunday at the foot of the Lincoln Memorial, one of the nation's enduring symbols of freedom, to send a message to politicians across the country — keep abortion legal.

Joined by tens of thousands of others from Kennebunk, Maine, to the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, the demonstrators sent a signal as blunt as their placards: "Dear politicians, listen clear. It's choice we want or your career."

At 3 p.m., U.S. Park Police estimated the crowd at 150,000 but rally organizers claimed 300,000 people stretched from the steps of the Lincoln Memorial along the Reflecting Pool to the Washington Monument, basking in the unseasonably warm November afternoon.

"We are at the Lincoln Memorial very deliberately," said Molly Yard, president of the National Organization for Women,

"because it was Lincoln who said a nation cannot exist half slave and half free. Rights are not indivisible, state by state, they are national."

Celebrities old and new, from Pete Seeger to Jodie Foster, Peter Yarrow to Amy Madigan, joined activists and politicians to urge the nation "not to turn back" on the 1973 Supreme Court decision making most abortions legal — a ruling believed jeopardized by last July's High Court ruling allowing states greater leeway in restricting access to abortion.

They joined Yard in reciting a pledge "not to vote for or support with money or time any candidate for any office who does not fully support and work for women's equality and the right to safe, legal and accessible abortions."

Some of the biggest cheers came for Mayor-elect David Dinkins of New York City, elected last Tuesday as the first black mayor of the nation's largest city, who pledged he would "seek prosecution for anyone who seeks to block the way of a woman seeking an abortion."

"We will not let America return to the days of forced pregnancies and back alley abortions," added Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., speaking for a host of politicians at the Washington rally. "When candidates tell you they are 'pro-choice, but,' tell them 'there are no buts.'"

Towers get power back for weekend

New cable lights up domes early Saturday

By Chris Walka
Staff Writer

Schneider Hall residents had power restored early Saturday after the outage which affected the entire East campus last week finally was repaired.

According to Harrel Lerch, building maintenance supervisor, 370 feet of new cable was installed Friday. The old cable had a break, or fault, in the casing and was the cause of Wednesday's electrical outage, Lerch said.

The new cable was installed Friday through a duct that was not in use at the time. The old cable was not removed, however, because electricians working on the problem were not sure how long the removal would take, Lerch said. The restoration of power to the dorm was of the utmost concern, Lerch said.

Removal of the cable tentatively is slated during Thanksgiving break, Lerch said, and a meeting this week will finalize the date.

According to Lerch, the building was supplied with temporary power through an emergency generator in the basement of the building. Emergency lights, two elevators, heat, exhaust fans and hot water were provided with the generators, Lerch said.

A portable generator had to be put in place Friday because the one in the dorm was experiencing mechanical difficulties, Lerch said.

Power outages have occurred periodically, Lerch said. The feed lines to Neely, Schneider, Mac Smith, Allen, Grinnell and Boomer halls have been replaced.

Lerch also said funding requests for capital improvements had been made in the current budget, but that he was unsure of their status.

Gus says when workers reported the problem, the hall said, "Oh, that old line."

Red Cross collects 3,033 pints

By Diana Mivelli
Staff Writer

The University surpassed its blood drive goal of 2,850 and collected 3,033 pints of blood, Rick Mitchell, Mobilization of Volunteer Effort, said.

"I'm really glad we broke our goal. I'm glad we had lots of support from the students and the community," Mitchell said.

On Friday, 542 pints were collected at the Student Center and 280 at the Student Recreation Center, Mitchell said.

Vivian Ugent, coordinator for blood drives in Southern Illinois, said about 300 people were deferred during the six-day blood drive for reasons such as having low iron and certain antibiotics in their system.

The SIU-C beat the University of Missouri's challenge by collecting 184 more pints of blood, Ugent said. Mizou collected 2,849 pints, she said. The battle of the blood is a positive kind of competition, she noted.

"There are no real losers because people need this blood. The real winners are those patients that will benefit from the blood," Ugent said.

Beth A. Lee, a fifth-time donor, won the drawing for a trip for two to Cancun, Mexico. The University sophomore from Alexis said she thought the contest was a nice idea, but didn't think she had a chance.

"I donated at five on Friday and I got right in because I had an appointment," Lee said. She said she may take the trip in January.

Mitchell said about 90 percent of the blood drive donors were students, Ugent said the results should

Prof: Illinois university system needs change

By Tim Crosby
Staff Writer

Former SIU-C President Albert Somit, said restructuring the state university system into a single system would greatly benefit higher education in Illinois, particularly SIU-C.

"The two most ambitious schools in the state, Northern Illinois University and SIU, would have the most to gain under a single system," Somit said, adding, "though all state universities stand to gain from it."

Somit, a professor of distinguished service in the political science department at SIU-C, will propose major revisions to the structure of the state university "System of Systems," in his testimony at a public hearing at Lesar Law School Auditorium Tuesday.

The hearing is part of a review of the 28-year-old system, including the Illinois Board of Higher Education, its role as a planning agency and as a buffer between the 12 state university campuses and the state legislature.

The hearing at SIU-C is the fourth in a series of five being held at universities throughout Illinois.

Somit, who was SIU-C president from 1980 to 1987, is known as a long-time proponent of change in the system. In 1987 he published an article in "Illinois Issues" magazine in which he proposed sweeping changes in Illinois' System of Systems.

"Most university president's do not regard the IBHE as pro-higher education," Somit said. "Instead it has become an arm of the Governor's Office."

Somit said the System of Systems was, "fundamentally, a political arrangement that seemed to be advantageous at that time." In recent years however, it has become obsolete.

"The overall structure has long

Biological sciences departments get funding

By Tony Mancuso
Staff Writer

Several University departments will benefit from a program which will create new jobs in a rapidly-changing field.

Benjamin A. Shepherd, vice president for academic services, said a gene molecular biology committee, initiated by a group of faculty members, has received partial funding to begin adding faculty members to certain departments.

Shepherd said the University has received $270,000 of a desired $600,000 from the Illinois Board of Higher Education, and the other $330,000 is expected to come next year.

He said the funds will be used to hire faculty that oriented to gene molecular biology in the School of Medicine, College of Science and College of Agriculture.

"Gene molecular biology, or molecular genetics, is the study of biological phenomena at the cell, sub-cell and molecular levels. It involves manipulating genes within or outside organisms, synthesizing new genes and adding or deleting parts of genes which create characteristics," Shepherd said.

He said the molecular genetics field is a relatively new field and that the funding will put SIU-C on the cutting edge of research in the biological sciences.

"The beauty of the initiative is we are putting into place an interdisciplinary instructional and research program which will carry us well into the 21st Century," Shepherd said, adding that he expects 14 faculty positions to open as a result of the funds.

More specifically, new jobs will be opened in plant and soil science, botany, zoology, microbiology and chemistry and biochemistry, he said.

The faculty hired will teach new classes, which also will be created,

President of Bulgaria resigns amid surprise and dissidence

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — Bulgarians were surprised by the sudden resignation of President Todor Zhivkov who ruled for 35 years like a monarch, but it is unlikely this Balkan state will join the "perestroika club" of East Bloc nations anytime soon. "We have waited for him to step down," said a dissident Sunday who asked not to be identified. Zhivkov, 78, the Communist Party leader as well as president, resigned Friday after 35 years in office. He was immediately replaced by the more moderate Peter Mladenov, 53, who had been foreign minister. Zhivkov had been the longest-reigning active ruler in Eastern Europe.

Brazil's economic stress causes upheaval

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — For the first time in 29 years, Brazilians will vote for a president Wednesday as their giant nation ends an arduous four-year transition from military rule to civilian democracy. The vote comes as Brazil, which occupies half the South American continent and is home to about 140 million people, faces the worst economic crisis of its history with inflation running at 1,300 percent a year and the Third World's largest foreign debt mounting to $115 billion. The election takes on added symbolical significance because it comes on the 100th anniversary of the proclamation of the Brazilian republic.

Baker: E. German changes are significant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calling reforms in East Germany "dramatic, significant and remarkable," Secretary of State James Baker sought Sunday to defuse criticism that the Bush administration was not enthusiastic enough about recent changes in Eastern Europe. Despite his effusive description of this past week's events, including the opening of the Berlin Wall that permitted about 3 million East Germans to cross into the West for the first time in 40 years, Baker insisted that the United States would not provide economic assistance to encourage reforms.

Crew found negligent in Key Largo mishap

MIAMI (UPI) — The U.S. government Sunday seized the Greek freighter Elpis and filed a lawsuit charging the crew was negligent in allowing the ship to run aground on a coral reef in the Key Largo National Marine Sanctuary. The grounding was the third in as many weeks off the environmentally sensitive Florida Keys. The 470-foot Elpis was floated free at high tide Saturday, less than 15 hours after it hit Elbow Reef, about 5 miles east of Key Largo in the Key Largo National Marine Sanctuary. Federal agents ordered the ship to sail to Miami and seized it when it arrived at the Port of Miami early Sunday. A spokeswoman for the U.S. Attorney's office in Miami said the crewmen were not arrested.

U.S. denounces fighting issue in El Salvador

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration denounced the weekend eruption of fighting in El Salvador Sunday as an act of desperation by leftist guerrillas and one that could elevate Central America as an issue at the upcoming superpower summit at sea. One American, a civilian teacher, was reported killed in the fighting triggered Saturday night when rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front (FMLN) launched their largest offensive in the capital of San Salvador in eight years. In an interview on "Meet the Press," Defense Secretary Richard Cheney was confident the Salvadoran government could handle the situation.

Illinois Bell customers soon to pay for each call they make SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Illinois regulators are distancing the state from most of the rest of the nation by ordering a new telephone billing system that will force most Illinois Bell customers to pay for each call they make. No other phone company in the Midwest owned by Bell's parent firm, Ameritech, currently bills on a per-call basis, and only a few statewide phone companies in the nation are allowed to charge most or all of their customers for every call, according to Bell and the pro-consumer Citizens Utility Board. The new measured service plan orders a per-call billing system for most Illinois Bell customers.

Texas university professor presents philosophy lecture

Anecdotes used to describe the collecting of personal 'things'

By Brian Gross
Staff Writer

The philosophy lecture presented by a Texas A & M University professor at Faner Hall Thursday blended serious subjects such as death and loneliness with supporting anecdotes that often amused the audience with their cleverness.

John J. McDermott is a distinguished professor of philosophy and humanities, professor and head of humanities in medicine and abell professor of the liberal arts at Texas A & M University.

He has written and edited works on philosophers Josiah Royce and William James, in addition to lecturing at more than 200 universities in America and abroad.

The lecture, titled "The Hidden Life of Technological Artifacts: Towards an Aesthetic of the Ordinary," is "an attempt to elucidate, to diagnose, the aesthetic implications and ramifications of things of the obvious or of our so-called ordinary experiences," McDermott said.

"To do this, one has to recount how persons undergo their experiences," he said. "We have to work out a dialogue such that we can share our experiences. One of the many ways to do this is by the use of 'stories' which provide concrete evidence as well as philosophical significance."

McDermott, 57, shared a wide range of anecdotes that centered on the collection of personal "things." "What you collect, you sign your name to, and it becomes you," he said.

The tragic anecdotes included the story of a man, worried about having his "things" taken from him, who hid his food so well that even he could not find it again and starved to death.

McDermott said the sacred characteristics of "things" give people a sense of security.

In another, McDermott related an experience that happened while working in a hospital. A man dying of cancer ran a young, irritated McDermott all over New York City to specifically find Puerto Rican cigars.

McDermott said he later felt embarrassed from his irritation, because when the man smoked the cigars, he smiled wide and his eyes lit up. McDermott realized why only those cigars would do, he said, because only the smell and taste of those cigars would bring back his memories of Puerto Rico, which made the cigars his

"things."

The sacred characteristics of "things" give people a sense of security, McDermott said, such as being transported back to being a boy of seven when he walks into Woolworth's today from the smells sensed by his mind.

"It's a little different approach," McDermott said of the many anecdotes he related during the lecture. "It's controversial because it lacks a systemized structure."

In addition to the anecdotes, McDermott amused the crowd throughout the lecture with his play on the word "thing," showing how many completely different ways the word is used by people.

"I like word plays," he said. "Words have all kinds of subtle denotations."

McDermott also advised people to live poetically, emphasized by his own poetic but authoritative expression during the lecture.

"Too often people work under the assumption that poetry is where you take care of affections, but it's a dimension of expression," McDermott said. "My position is that every human being should have poetic sensibility to be able to describe and diagnose his or her expression in a way that has a poetic ring. It's my war against the humdrum."

South African journalist gives lecture on apartheid, racism

By Dale Walker
Staff Writer

South African journalist Dumisani Kumalo said the laws of Apartheid make it illegal not to be a racist in South Africa.

In his speech "Apartheid and South Africa's Freedom Struggle," given Thursday in the Student Center, Kumalo said about four million whites in South Africa suppress about 30 million blacks.

Kumalo cited the South African Population Registration Act as an example of how races are segregated by appearance. All the people in South Africa must be classified in one of ten categories, he said. Examples of these categories include citizens with skin color between white and black, Asians, Japanese, Chinese.

In South Africa, it is possible for a brother and sister to be classified in different categories if their skin is of different colors, he said. It also is possible to change race groups and last year about 800 South Africans officially became members of another race, he said.

"A young woman born to a white South African family was reclassified because her skin color had changed," he said.

The people are suppressed in other ways he said.

The Group Areas Act keeps the races apart because all groups must live in designated areas, he said.

Kumalo fled his country because of police harassment. He said besides the conservative preachers, the people who ended up in government were those who had ties with the Nazis when the National party was founded in 1948.

South African racism is so deep, he said, that on a Rand McNally map, Johannesburg, the capitol, is printed in bold while the second largest city in Africa, Soweto, a city populated mostly by blacks, is not on the map.

Kumalo explained the ways that policy in South Africa affected his family.

"When my parents were married 10 years, they had been together for a total of five months" because his father was a migrant worker, he said.

Under the Migrants Act, migrants can see their family only once a year, he said.

"To control a society, the first thing you do is destroy their families," he said. "In the United States, the slave owners would destroy families by selling off one of the parents."

Kumalo said the world is "deathly" afraid that if the blacks in South Africa attack the whites, it will happen all over the world.

Budget pie leftovers should replace cuts

IN SERVING the budget pie, Illinois hasn't cleaned its plate. State officials have noted there are leftovers.

Illinois Comptroller Roland Burris announced last week that the state ended fiscal year 1989 in the black and that the current fiscal year is running at a surplus of $149 million.

IN A DECADE of declining funds for higher education and other programs, a surplus in state funds is rather ironic. This surplus should be used to make up for the loss in federal funds that the state suffered during the Reagan administration.

Burris' press secretary Jerry Owens said this surplus is indicative of "higher economic activity and a ceiling on legislative spending."

It can be argued that higher taxes would dampen this economic activity. Yet, social programs and higher education are hurting from declining funds because legislators are unwilling to pass higher taxes when the state has a surplus of funds.

When funds aren't there and when it isn't an election year, legislators are more apt to pass higher taxes, but when there is high economic activity, it is difficult to justify the passage of higher taxes.

IN A MARCH 1989 hearing of a subcommittee of the Committee on Education and Labor in the U.S. House, Rep. Pat Williams, D-Mont., said that in 1980 a Pell Grant awarded to a student in higher education covered 46 percent of the average college cost, while today a Pell Grant will cover only 26 percent of the average cost.

Increases in inflation have surpassed funding for federal aid.

According to documents of the subcommittee hearing, in fiscal year 1985 the federal government allocated $3.8 billion for Guaranteed Student Loans nationally. In fiscal year 1988 only $2.6 billion was allocated.

In fiscal year 1988 the federal government allocated $1.25 billion for campus-based aid such as Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, College Work Study and Perkins Loans. For fiscal year 1989, $1 billion was allocated to these programs.

These drops in federal funding should be replaced. An Illinois budget surplus can help make up for the drops in federal funding.

It is good economics for the state have a surplus. Yet it is better if state resources are used to their fullest. If the state leaves leftovers, state constituencies may be left with a stale taste in their mouths.

Saluki blood givers score victory for all

THE SALUKI blood donating team is victorious again.

In the final day of the blood drive last week, the Dawgs came through with a big rally to beat the University of Missouri, which challenged SIU-C to a blood collection match.

The drive, at which 3,033 pints were collected, enabled the Salukis to surpass the blood drive goal by 183, beat Mizzou and retain status as No. 1 blood donating university in the country.

The Salukis made a weak showing early in the drive, collecting just 255 pints the first day. But steady improvements were made through the week, collecting a whopping 822 pints on Friday alone.

SPORTS RHETORIC aside, this is the sort of positive competition (and publicity) that the University needs to enunciate its image as a service organization for the region, a region that uses about 100 pints a day.

Vivien Ugent, the blood drive coordinator, summed it up best, (as she usually does) saying, "there are no real losers because people need this blood. The real winners are those patients that will benefit from the blood."

Sleeves are scheduled to roll up again Jan. 30-31. For that drive, let's send in a few rookies who need to give the Salukis some team support.

DE 'insensitive' in handling of death

Not only was the Daily Egyptian's coverage of William Levelsmier's death insensitive but so was the apology offered the next day.

Most of the people who loved Bill missed the apology entirely.

Personally, I would have felt better if the apology was presented in the same garish manner of the original news story. You know, a big headline declaring "Editor and writer commit insensitive act," accompanied with photographs of the individuals pasted smack dab in the middle of the front page.

I knew there would have to be something in the DE, but I guess it was naive to think it would be handled in good taste. I can't help but smile at how Bill would have responded, he would have chuckled and declared it "typical."

It was a "typical" I didn't need, because the Bill Levelsmier I knew deserved much more.

The DE did attempt to present a more well-rounded view of who Bill was by bothering the family during their time of grief for information about Bill.

His sister Terry told me how bad she felt that she wasn't able to say much to the reporter at the time about Bill.

Maybe in the future the DE will wait at least a day or so before contacting the family in order to give them some time to adjust to the shock of what has happened.

I promised Terry that I would write to the DE and tell them some of the wonderful things Bill did with his life. I hope others will write as well.

Bill had been a member for many years of the GLPU Speakers Bureau. He was one of the best speakers the bureau has had.

Bill donated several hundred hours of his time to go to classes and talk about gay lifestyles.

Gay lifestyles are a touchy subject for some people and Bill handled the class situation with love and respect. His easygoing manner and fun sense of humor helped to alleviate any tension that arose.

Bill was also a member of the French Club and a two-year member of SIU's winning College Bowl team. Bill loved words, he loved language, and he loved knowing about things.

Besides his school activities, Bill was an active member of the Carbondale community. Not by belonging to organizations, but by caring about other people.

Last spring was pretty rough for me. I'll never forget going out to Two Heart's to bury my sorrow under gallons of soda.

Bill took one look at me, hopped over the bar and gave me one of the most loving hugs I've ever received. I never said a word, he just smiled at me, hopped back over and handed me my coca cola complete with a cherry.

Earlier this fall, I was sitting at a light and saw Bill walking down the street. I planned on stopping to talk, but before I could, Bill was off helping an elderly woman with her packages. That was Bill, one of the most loving men to have walked on mother earth.

Bill, if your tuning in, I love you, I miss you and thanks for the Godiva chocolate. — Cynthia Clabough, Research Photography and Illustration Facility.

Morons go to college?

I'd like to tell about something that happened Nov. 4

I went out with several of my friends that evening. Three of them happen to be gay. Two of them are seeing each other. After a few hours of drinking at a bar, we went to the Strip, met some friends and decided to go dancing at Rompers.

I was sitting with my friends who are seeing each other in the middle area where there are several tables, chairs and a bench. My two friends decided to get up and dance. I was sort of tired and stayed behind.

As they passed several people to get to the dance floor, I heard the following dialogue between two people:

Moron No. 1: "Is that a fag-got?"

Moron No. 2: "Yeah."

Moron No. 1: "Can I kill it?"

Both: "Hyuck, hyuck, hyuck!"

Well, well, well. I was a little angry at first, and still am. But then I began to think: "Can anybody be this moronic and narrow-minded and go to college?"

I suppose the answer is obvious, but it still saddens and confuses me.

But most of all, it angers me. I'm sure if either of you buffoons are reading this you know who you are. You didn't like my "queer" friends because they are "different" than you?

Yeah, you are right, they are. They happen to be intelligent, nice, funny human beings. While the two of you are a couple of mean, stupid waterheads—Mark Mendelsohn, senior, theater.

No respect for cadet

Recently I received a letter thanking me for being a veteran and asking for my participation in Veterans' Week. It is nice that the University recognizes its veterans.

This morning at my 8 o'clock class, an ROTC student sat next to me in full uniform — Ranger Challenge even. Five minutes didn't pass before his head leaned forward and he drifted in and out of sleep throughout the remainder of class.

What kind of discipline do these future officers have if they can't even stay awake in class?

I believe that, at least when in uniform, ROTC cadets should maintain an appearance of military bearing and be a positive influence on the class.

If we expect people to respect the uniforms of our armed forces, the people we put in them have to show discipline and pride when wearing them—Robert F. Borst, marketing.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double-spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., referring to last week's elections in which supporters of legal abortion won in Virginia, New Jersey and New York, rhetorically asked President Bush: "Did you get the message George...?"

Bush, whose opposition to abortion has toughened in the past two years and has already vetoed two bills allowing some federal aid for poor women who are the victims of rape and incest seeking an abortion, was a particular focus of the sunrise to sunset rallies.

The White House had no comment on the rallies.

Anne Bryant of the American Association of University Women noted that, when Bush spoke to their convention, he said the "war against women must stop."

"But now, Mr. Bush, you have forced the most vulnerable victims of rape and incest, poor women, to bring pregnancies to term," Bryant said. "This, in a country where a woman is sexually assaulted every five minutes; this in a country where one in three women will be raped in her lifetime... To America, Mr. President, you pledged a thousand points of light but to American women you have delivered 1,000 points of light."

Demonstrators from a host of groups, religious organizations, including the Roman Catholic church, and states — one couple biked from California — carried a large variety of signs declaring: "No room in my womb for Uncle Sam," "Never turn back" and, suggesting some of the religious polarization the issue has caused, "Keep your rosaries off my ovaries."

Hundreds of demonstrators sported "Catholic for Choice" badges, a defiant gesture to the nation's Roman Catholic bishops who adamantly oppose legal abortion. Demonstrators from the Jesuit-run Georgetown University chanted, "Hoyas for choice."

Many of the placards depicted coat hangers, a symbol of self-inflicted illegal abortions, that read: "For external use only."

The rallies, which organizers hoped would draw as many as 1 million people, were called following the Supreme Court ruling in July giving states more leeway to restrict access to abortion.

The day began with a sunrise vigil in Kennebunk, Maine, where an estimated 1,000 people packed the two-story United Parish Unitarian Church, not far from Bush's family retreat.

"Here at dawn, we kindle a thousand points of light — our thousand points of light — to say that we will never again accept the darkness of back alley despair, never return to the dark ages of pain abuse," said Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League.

Elsewhere across the country: ■ Hundreds of abortion rights activists braked at Yale University, Bush's alma mater in New Haven, Conn., many carrying signs telling the president: "Hey George —

Yale's for choice."

■ In New York City, across the street from the Roman Catholic St. Patrick's Cathedral, a group of 50 abortion rights activists demonstrated, using the same chant.

■ In Tallahassee, Fla., more than 30 people gathered peacefully at the Governor's Mansion and hung a large sign on the mansion fence attacking Gov. Bob Martinez for vetoing $20 million in children's programs approved by the legislature. In Miami, participants attended a "Pro-Choice is Pro-Family" picnic and in West Palm Beach, they brought donations of toys and food for needy families to a demonstration at the Palm Beach Government Center.

No injuries in aborted O'Hare flight

CHICAGO (UPI) — An American Airlines 747, bound for Sweden, aborted its takeoff at O'Hare International Airport Sunday evening, braking to a stop that triggered a fire in one of its landing wheels. There were no injuries, authorities said.

The jetliner, Flight 80 destined for Stockholm, braked to a halt on the runway during its takeoff run at 5:10 p.m., said Patrolman Leonard Conzalo of the Chicago police unit at O'Hare.

"One of the wheels caught fire because of the friction from the braking," he said. "No one was hurt," he said.

make people feel good about the students.

"SIU students care and they turn care into action," Ugent said.

The region, which includes about 80 counties in Missouri and Illinois, uses an average of 100 pints of blood daily, Ugent said.

The next blood drive will be Jan. 30 and 31. The next weeklong blood drive will be in April, Ugent said.

Planning has already started, Mitchell said. Anyone with ideas should contact MOVE at 536-7768.

and begin new research projects in the molecular genetics aspects of their departments.

Shepherd said the new research projects will bring more external grants and contracts for the University faculty.

"The University will also benefit from the spin-offs of molecular genetics. Some faculty have already begun related research, such as Jim Seeb in the study of aquacultures," Shepherd said.

John Yopp, graduate school dean and administrative representative on the committee, said one new faculty member already has been hired and three other positions have been opened.

"The biochemistry department has hired one professor and is looking for another. Plant science and microbiology are also considering applicants," Yopp said. "When we receive the remainder of the money, of which I am confident, we will open more positions."

Some of the committee members, however, do not believe the amount of funds will be enough to hire 14 professors.

Lee C. Drickamer, chairman of the zoology department, said although he is for the program, he is unsure of its success.

"When I look at the big picture, I'm not sure how much my department will benefit from the funding. The committee has slated two new faculty members to be hired into zoology, but I think we will only end up getting to hire one person," Drickamer said.

He said hiring nine or 10 new faculty members is a more reasonable projection, considering the amount of money received.

"The money only will be sufficient to hire nine or 10, because not only will it go towards salaries, but also research equipment and facility renovation. If we stretch the money too thin, we will not be able to compete with other universities," he said.

Jim Tweedy, dean of the College of Agriculture, said he agreed with Drickamer.

"My department reallocated funds to hire a gene molecular biologist, and we sent another professor on sabbatical to get trained in the field. I feel reallocation of funds and re-tooling of existing faculty are the only ways we will be able to have a larger molecular genetics discipline in the department," Tweedy said.

Shepherd said internal reallocation of funds was one of the primary reasons the IBHE accepted the program and funded it.

"Reallocation is a necessary part of what we will have to do to supplement what we receive from the Board," Shepherd said.

out lived its usefulness," he said. "It makes no sense at all."

Somit said a single system for the entire state is politically the most likely alternative to the current system. Illinois currently has four different university systems under the IBHE.

Albert Somit

"The biggest advantage of the single system is the political clout that it would give to higher education," Somit said. "If we were a four-year school we would be reasonably well funded. But we are now seeking to become a major research institution."

Somit said the political power that would come with having a single system would make this possible for SIU-C.

"It's our only chance," he said.

Police Blotter

An employee of McDonald's restaurant, 1396 E. Main St., was arrested and charged with 2 counts of aggravated battery and one count each of battery, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest Friday morning, Carbondale Police said. Truphena A. Akinsuyi, 35, 511

S. Logan St., was arrested after she attacked Barbara Milner, the manager of the restaurant, police said.

Akinsuyi is accused of attacking the manager after being fired for causing a disturbance over a work schedule change, police said. Akinsuyi also is accused of striking and biting other restaurant employees who tried to restrain her, police said.

Police charge that Akinsuyi also fought with arresting officers and allegedly bit one officer on the wrist. She was taken to Jackson County Jail and awaits a hearing.

Major bills push Congress for decision before break

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate and House leaders wanting to shut down the Capitol by Thanksgiving still face a top-heavy agenda of legislation that must be considered before Congress can adjourn for the year.

The target date for adjournment of the first session of the 101st Congress — Nov. 20-22 — leaves only six to eight working days and all but assures a classic marathon windup on Capitol Hill.

Among the most important measures still on the docket are aid to Poland and Hungary, repeal or modification of the catastrophic illness insurance program, a $14 billion revenue raising bill, the Pentagon budget and a number of fiscal 1990 appropriations bills.

In the rush to adjournment, some legislation may be sacrificed and put off until next year.

The status of some major bills as Congress enters the homestretch:

- Aid to Hungary and Poland: The House has passed an $840 million package and the Senate, torn between $584.5 million proposed by Republicans and $989 by the Democrats, hopes to pass a bill before Solidarity leader Lech Walesa speaks to a joint session Wednesday.

- Catastrophic illness insurance: Senate-House negotiators are seeking a compromise bill, which may be hard to craft. Repeal of the surtax is certain but conferees must decide whether to continue part of the program, such as long-term hospitalization with increased basic premiums, or kill it all.

- Reconciliation: This deficit reduction bill, which President Bush insists must be free of other provisions and total $14 billion, must pass or the across-the-board cuts on almost all government programs now in effect, will continue.

- Defense: The House has passed and the Senate is expected to act this week on a $305 billion Pentagon authorization bill, the fifth consecutive year the defense budget has been reduced and the first time the "Star Wars" defense system has been cut.

- Child care: Senate-House

negotiators reached agreement on a $1.7 billion package of various programs. To pass before adjournment, however, Finance and Ways and Means Committees have to add an earned income tax credit to help parents pay for child care, which will boost the cost to about $4 billion.

- Pay raise: Speaker Thomas Foley wants congressional action on a pay raise coupled with a ban on honoraria and new ethics rules.

So far, Bush has signed only three of the 13 major appropriations bills and four are at the White House awaiting his signature. Congress must still act on six, two of which were previously vetoed.

All 13 must be enacted before adjournment or Congress will have to pass another stop-gap resolution to keep in operation departments and agencies that have not received their fiscal 1990 financing to operate.

The transportation, agriculture and defense appropriations should be passed before adjournment.

Project seeks to improve prison paper

By Mario Millikin
Staff Writer

Professional journalists from across the nation will meet today with prison journalists at the Vienna Correctional Center as part of a pilot project aimed at improving the quality of prison journalism.

Acel Moore, associate editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, will head a five-member committee from the American Society of Newspaper Editors in evaluating the prison's paper, Vienna in Progress, and talk with administrators.

Arranged by SIU-C's School of Journalism, the visit may lead to future workshops aimed at promoting better news content and technical writing of prison publications.

Walter Jaehning, director of the School of Journalism at SIU-C, said the school's long standing involvement with prison journalism prompted the ASNE's Prison Journalism Committee to look to the University for help in setting up the pilot project.

Jaehning said the Vienna in Progress is considered to be one of the better prison publications in the country. The newspaper took second place in last year's Penal Press competition.

The content of the prison press varies widely from straight news to short stories and poems, Jaehning said. He said the editors and reporters seldom have formal training in the profession.

The Penal Press competition was established 26 years ago and is sponsored annually by the School of Journalism. Jaehning said 55 to 60 entries from all over the country already have been received for this year's competition.

Establishing the Penal Press competition is just one area where the school has been actively involved in developing prison journalism.

"There have been a number of journalism faculty that have taught journalism behind prison walls," Jaehning said.

Jaehning said the concept of bringing the class to the prisoner was first put into action by Charles Clayton, former University journalism professor, more than 25-years ago.

Leftist rebels hold part of San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist rebels occupied parts of San Salvador Sunday following a night of heavy fighting in the strongest attack on the Salvadoran capital since 1981.

President Alfredo Cristiani went on national television Sunday to urge residents to remain calm. He said his government was considering imposing "a state of siege" and a curfew to help suppress the rebel attack that has killed at least seven civilians, including an American school teacher, and wounded at least 23 people.

Cristiani said, "There are still some sporadic problems" in the capital, where fighting between government forces and Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN, raged throughout the night. It was the strongest attack on the capital since a failed all-out offensive Jan. 10, 1981.

"There are seven deaths and 23 injured among innocent people," Cristiani said. But information from San Salvador's largest hospital indicated that many more civilians had been wounded.

Manuel Enrique Angulo, chief of the emergency unit at Rosales hospital, said "we treated 60 people during the night, and four of them died here." He said most of the wounded had been evacuated from the neighborhood of Mejicanos between 9 p.m. and midnight on Saturday.

The FMLN, via short-wave broadcast of clandestine Radio Venceremos, said it was holding at least three neighborhoods in northern San Salvador and claimed to have inflicted 15 casualties on government forces in Comalapa, near the international airport 21 miles south of San Salvador.

Eyewitness reports indicated rebels were holding six positions in some neighborhoods in the northern part of the city.

Cristiani said his government was still committed to El Salvador's troubled peace process, and he criticized the FMLN.

Politburo agrees to special meeting

EAST BERLIN (UPI) — With the flood of East Germans to the West easing Sunday, the Politburo agreed to convene a special Communist Party congress next month likely to set the stage for a purge of party members and to urge impetus to Egon Krenz's reform program.

With speculation about a party purge growing, one newspaper said three communist officials, dependent over rapid changes, have committed suicide.

The newspaper Welt am

Sonntag identified the dead communist officials as Herbert Heber, a party leader from the Halle area, Gerhard Uhl, a leader from the Dresden area, and Helmut Mieth, a politician from the Schwerin area.

The newspaper, citing local party sources, attributed the suicides to "mental pressures" resulting from the present political situation and the rapid pace of change. All three were believed to be hardline conservatives.

As Krenz, the East German leader, moved quickly amid the chaos to consolidate his power, the mayors of East and West Berlin opened a new passage through the Berlin Wall, triggering champagne celebrations among East and West German border guards.

In a symbolic ceremony, the mayors met, embraced and opened a new crossing at Potsdamer Platz, once the busiest square in Berlin.

Music fraternities will join forces in presenting instrumental works

The two music fraternities at SJU-C will combine forces in a joint recital at 8 tonight in the Old Baptist Foundation.

Admission is free. Members of the Mu Phi Epsilon and Phi Mu Alpha—Sinfonia fraternities will perform a variety of vocal and instrumental works from many different musical eras.

The program will be highlighted with the world premiere of "Siren Song," a guitar solo composed by Mu Phi Epsilon pledge Chris Howard, who will also perform the piece.

Other instrumental works include a piano solo by Frederic Chopin performed by Poh Chun Chew and a brass choir arrangement of the John Philip Sousa march, "El Capitan."

Vocal works will dominate the program with pieces by such composers as Edvard Grieg, Robert Schumann and Giulio Caccini.

Soprano Paula McElwain will perform Giacomo Puccini's "Donde Liette" from the 1896 opera "La Boheme."

Flutist T. Jervis Underwood, the national president of Phi Mu Alpha—Sinfonia, will be among the some 20 musicians who will perform. He will join one of his students, flutist Tammy Sue Kirk, on the comedic "Trio (sic) Sonata" by P.D.Q. Bach. Underwood is a University professor of music.

Wacky, funk-punk band to play locally

Ohio-based group creates new music style

By Carrie Pomeroy
Entertainment Editor

Royal Crescent Mob, appearing at Two Hearts, Inc., 213 E. Main, at 10 p.m. Wednesday, is a band with an allergic reaction to taking itself seriously.

David Ellison, lead singer of the Columbus, Ohio-based funk-punk outfit, said the band's strong point is "that wacky Mob humor." Calling themselves "a gang of princely thugs from Mesopotamia," Ellison, guitarist B, bass player Harold Chichester and drummer Carlton Smith mix guitar-driven funk with flippant, sarcastic lyrics to come up with a sound of their own.

Tickets for Wednesday's show are $5. The Bowery Boys from Champaign will open for Royal Crescent Mob.

The band's 1986 debut "Land of Sugar" and its albums "Omerta" (an Italian word for "vow of silence") and "Spin the World" have won glowing notices from critics. Robert Christgau of the Village Voice said the band is "the logical white response to Run-DMC's black response to Aerosmith's white response to the black blues."

Ellison shrugs off comparisons to other white funk bands such as the Red Hot Chili Peppers and the Beastie Boys, saying, "I think we're a lot different from other bands. As far as we're concerned, the Red Hot Chili Peppers can have the white funk crown."

Ellison said critics have lumped them together with bands like Fishbone and the Red Hot Chili Peppers because "they're lazy."

The Royal Crescent Mob saga began at St. Jerome's Orphanage in Dayton, Ohio, where Ellison met the band's future guitarist, a boy known only as B. Playing together in a tree house decorated with stars, dance caps and crescent moons and christened the Royal Crescent Tree House, the boys laid the groundwork for the band.

Ellison said the two met many years later at Ohio State University, where they both played in bands. They ended up playing together with Ray Fuller and the Blues Rockers.

The Blues Rockers metamorphosed into Royal Crescent Mob when lead singer Fuller left the stage in disgust during a particularly troubled gig, forcing Ellison to take over singing chores.

Subsequent tours opening for the Replacements, Camper van Beethoven, Fishbone and NRBQ led to the band's signing by Seymour Stein of Sire Records.

Ellison said getting signed to a major label helped the band make its best record ever, "Spin the World."

"We had a lot more dough to work with," he said.

More studio time and more experienced producers and engineers also helped the band hone its sound, he said.

Ellison said Sire left the band alone creatively, letting the band members run amok in the studio with their unique brand of insanity. The result is an album that includes songs about Ellison's mother's encounter with the Beatles ("Big Show"), love on the frozen tundra ("Tundra") and stock car races ("Stock Car Race").

Ellison said the band has found many differences between being an opening act and being a headliner. "One difference is that instead of being in a big hall you're in some dinky club," he said. Ellison also said the dressing rooms were nicer when the band opened up for big-name acts. But despite these perks, Ellison said he enjoys being the main event.

"I prefer headlining, not for the star trip thing, but when you're an opening band you have to cut back the set a lot," he said. He said the diversity of the band's songs made it difficult to play a cohesive set in 30 minutes. Now, the group has room to play the full range of its music.

"It's our crowd. Whether it's 40 people or 1,000, it's people who came to see the Mob," he said.

Ellison said he wanted people to leave the Mob's live shows "exhausted." He said his goal was to play a show good enough to give fans goose bumps.

"We've got a goofy side to us, maybe at times sloppy. But we're developing," he said.

Men's basketball tips off Thursday

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

Saluki basketball is just around the corner and excitement fills the campus air. Just about everyone is trying to second guess the polls and pick the top team in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Thursday night will be the first chance for basketball fans on campus and surrounding communities to witness firsthand the new-look Salukis when the Brazil National Team visits the Arena at 7:35 p.m. for an exhibition game.

The team is referred to as the new-look Salukis because of the departed players and because of the new philosophies employed by the coaching staff.

In less than a month of practice, head coach Rich Herrin and his staff have developed strategies tailor-made to the athletic talent on this season's roster. Herrin has said more emphasis will be put on pressure defense, the inside game and the fast break.

Although comparing a game and practice is similar to comparing apples and oranges, the Salukis will be a better team if they follow the strategies stressed by the coaching staff.

Every practice for the Salukis is like a game. Players who don't show hustle, who take a bad shot or who fail to take a charge are quickly reminded of what it takes to make a winning team.

To say the practices are physical would be an understatement. The freshmen on the team have learned that college basketball involves bumps, bruises and putting bodies on the floor — whatever it takes to get the basketball.

Kai Nurnberger, Randy House and Tony Harvey are history. Team members agree there is enough talent to cover the losses if everyone asserts themselves.

The Salukis have set their sights on winning the MVC tournament and getting into the NCAA tournament. Although they aren't taking anything for granted, the Salukis have a legitimate chance. The Salukis missed a trip to the NCAA tournament last year by three points when they lost to Creighton in the conference tournament championship game.

From the Press Box
Kevin Simpson

The Salukis ought to have a much stronger MVC record than the 6-8 mark handed in last season. The Dawgs can make it to the NCAA tournament if they capture the MVC conference title, win the conference tournament or are picked on the strength of their overall record. A soft early season schedule could work against them when tournament selections are made.

Although Herrin insists who starts the game is not important to him as who finishes the game, four of the five starter positions are filled for the upcoming season.

Senior Jerry Jones, the 6-6 board-banging power center, has shown improvements on his inside game and has vowed to give it his all this season, his first full season as a starter.

Senior Freddie McSwain, the 6-5 sparkomatic guard, is a preseason all-conference pick. His quickness and overall enthusiasm at the guard position will mean trouble for the opposition's guards, offensively and defensively.

Junior forward Rick Shipley bulked up in the off season in anticipation of increased physical play on the inside. Shipley led the team in rebounds in each of his first two seasons and has been described as the team's "most complete player."

Junior point guard Sterling Mahan, the Salukis best defensive player last season, has shown he also can light up the offense with his shooting and passing ability. Mahan should be among the Valley's best assist men this season.

The athletes assembled this year at SIU-C will bring a lot of electricity into the Arena and there promises to be a lot of play above the rim. Regardless of where the Salukis finish in the standings, this should be a season to remember in Saluki basketball history.

finish in the District meet. The top two teams in the tournament qualified for the NCAA Championships. Nebraska won the meet with 41 points followed by Oklahoma State with 44.

Junior Rosanne Vincent was the Salukis top finisher. Vincent finished 27th with a time of 18:42.

Sophomore Amie Padgett finished 34th with a time of 19:03, freshman Leeann Conway 37th with a time of 19:11, freshman Dawn Barefoot 45th with a time of 19:54 and senior Cathy Brown 46th with a time of 19:58.

"It's good getting the experience against this caliber of competition," Saluki women's coach Don DeNoon said. "We are looking forward to track season now."

Trailing 17-7 late in the second quarter, Prenger and the Salukis were deep in their own territory. Prenger dropped back to pass and found UNI linebacker Matt Brinkman at the 20-yard line. Brinkman ran the interception back for the score to make it 24-7 with 3:08 left in the half.

"Saying goodbye to your buddies, coaches and friends is really hard. You start as a freshman, play on and on and play your hearts out," Boelte said. "Sometimes you feel like it could never end and here it is our last game." Boelte said the relationship with the other seniors will never be forgotten.

Prenger came back to make the scored 24-14 at the half with a two-yard touchdown pass to John Roots with 12 seconds left to play. But a second half opening-drive fumble inside the Panther 10-yard line all but ended the Saluki season.

The Salukis open next season at UNI. Another bright spot in the finale was the play of sophomore running back Mike Dopud who rushed for 98 yards on 17 carries to lead the Dawgs and both teams in rushing. "I've been waiting to run the ball all year and I finally got my chance," Dopud said.

Bears win sloppy ballgame

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Chicago Bears defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers, 20-0, Sunday in a cross-conference comedy of errors.

The game was dominated by turnovers. The Steelers made six and the Bears four. Chicago, 6-4, was able to capitalize on Pittsburgh's giveaways, turning three of them into scores, but the 4-6 Steelers were not, as they suffered their third shutout of the season. The last time Pittsburgh was held scoreless three times in one year was in 1951.

"It's not that (the Steelers) played that bad or we played good," said Chicago Coach Mike Ditka. "Turnovers were the difference."

Chicago, in fact, was hapless as Pittsburgh during a scoreless second half. The Bears scored their first touchdown on Neal Anderson's 2-yard plunge 6:01 into the first quarter and then got their remaining 13 points during the final three minutes of the second period, sandwiching Jim Harbaugh's 20-yard TD pass to Brad Muster between 39- and 35-yard field goals by Kevin Butler. But Ditka's game plan had little the 48 yards he got completing five of 14 passes.

The quarterback ended the game with 56 yards rushing on seven attempts, just 8 yards fewer than Anderson gained on 17 tries. Harbaugh completed a total 13 of 25 passes for 125 yards with one interception before he left for Mike Tomczak late in the game.

"It wasn't planned," Ditka said of Harbaugh's scrambling. "(But) we couldn't have won the game without him running the football."

Adding to the zinness of the game was a scoreboard clock that malfunctioned most of the first half, prompting the players to switch ends of the field two minutes early in the first quarter and to start leaving for their halftime break with six seconds still to play.

William Perry made two of his teams four sacks for 21 yards and had a fumble recovery. His first sack, a 17-yarder, forced Pittsburgh to punt from its own 1, and Chicago's resulting field position led to Butler's first field goal.

The Saluki men's tennis team, competing in their first Region Five Tourney, lost to top-seeded Kansas 5-1 Friday in Wichita, Kan. Kansas defeated Nebraska 5-4 for the championship to receive a bid for the February nationals in Louisville.

Freshman Richard Stenstrom's 6-7, 6-0 and 7-6 win over Carlos Fleming in the No. 4 position was the Salukis' only victory. "They (Kansas) were a little too strong for us," Saluki coach Dick LeFevre said. "Stenstrom's win was the only bright spot."

Senior Mickey Maule, the Salukis No. 1 player, lost to John Faldo 6-3, 6-2.

"Faldo may be the best player in the region," LeFevre said. "He is really a fine player."

Maule will represent the team in the National Claycourt Championships this weekend in Hilton Head, South Carolina. Maule qualified after advancing to the finals of the Rolex Intercollegiate Invitational Oct. 8 in Wichita, Kan.

Seniors Joe Demeterco and George Hime also were defeated. Demeterco was defeated by Jeff Gross 6-4, 6-4. Hime lost to Rafael Rangel 6-1, 6-2.

Saluki freshmen John Brown and Tim Derouin lost their matches. Brown lost to Paul Garvin 6-3, 6-2. Derouin lost to Ian Goodman 6-0, 6-4.

The loss concluded SIU-C's fall season.

Football team finishes with 2-9 mark

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa — Northern Iowa's defense and specialty teams proved to be the late scoring punch the Panthers needed to put the Salukis away Saturday as the Dawgs ended their season with a 38-14 loss and a 2-9 record.

A 45-yard punt return for a touchdown by UNI's Milo Popovic and a 48-yard touchdown following an intercepted Saluki pass in the fourth quarter ended the hopes of a Saluki comeback attempt. The Salukis, led by freshman quarterback Brandon Prenger, spotted the Panthers an early 17-point lead before senior wide receiver Rob Derricotte scored on a six-yard pass from the freshman.

Prenger started ahead of junior Fred Gibson because Gibson's injured right knee was swollen and filled with fluid, delegating the veteran to the sidelines.

Prenger lost his chances to red-shirt for the season with the start, but was not disappointed.

"I thought about it before the game but I figured if I got the call, I would go out and do my best," Prenger said.

Prenger threw for two touchdowns on 14 of 36 for 159 yards and four interceptions.

The two touchdown passes helped the Salukis tie a record for most touchdowns passes in a season with 18. The record was set in 1963.

Saluki quarterbacks also set a record for pass attempts in a season with 432. The old record was 399 set in 1982.

Head coach Bob Smith was pleased with the effort of Prenger and reasoned why he used the freshman instead of junior Scott Planz.

"Coming into this ballgame we felt like we had to throw to win the game and Brandon is a better thrower.

"I think he got rattled a few times and made some freshman mistakes," Smith said. "But for never having been in a ballgame before I think he did pretty well."

Another Saluki that did well was senior receiver Wesley Yates who caught five passes for 69 yards to make his season total a record of 694 yards. The record was held by former Saluki and NFL star Kevin

Seniors say they'll miss playing days

By Daniel Wallenberg

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa — Outside the visiting locker room at the UNI-Dome where the Dawgs fell 38-14 to the Panthers Saturday, the Salukis seniors bid an emotional farewell to their playing days at SIU-C.

"I know it's over but it doesn't feel like it," senior wide receiver Rob Derricotte said. "It feels like we'll have practice Monday and a game next Saturday."

Derricotte caught one of only two touchdowns scored by the Salukis in the loss.

"That lifted my spirits," Derricotte said. "I wanted that one because I knew it would be my last chance to get a touchdown."

Defensive tackle Shannon Ferbrache was uncharacteristically at a loss for words.

"I didn't think I would be as upset as I am right now," a teary-eyed Ferbrache said. "When I got in the locker room and all the guys said how much they appreciated playing with me it hit a soft spot."

Senior defensive end Scott Boelte's emotions also were evident.

"It's really an emotional situation," Boelte said.

Saluki swimmers win, lose at meet

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's swim team defeated Cincinnati 61-50 and Southwest Missouri State 63-47 Saturday at the Rec Center pool.

As a team, the Salukis placed first in the 400-meter medley relay with a time of 3:33.53 and first in the 400-meter freestyle relay with 3:11.54.

Individual scorers for the Salukis included junior Eric Bradac, first place in the 1000-meter freestyle, 9:42.61; sophomore Deryl Leubner, first place in the 50-meter freestyle, :21.54; junior Dave Morovitz, second in the freestyle with a :21.87; senior Tim Kelly, first in the 200-meter individual medley, 1:55.52; senior Harri Garmendia, first in the 200-meter butterfly; 1:51.81 and Bruce Brockschmidt, second with 1:51.36.

Junior David Morovitz took first place in the 100-meter freestyle with a time of :47.19. Junior Chris Gally nabbed first place in the 200-meter backstroke swimming with a time of :58.22. And senior Mark Canterbury placed second with a 2:10.45 in the 200-meter breaststroke.

The Salukis men's team were winners in nine of the 13 events.

The women's swim team was defeated 80-32 by Cincinnati in 13 of the 15 events Saturday.

Sophomore Lanie Owen took first place in three-meter diving with 250.2 points. Sophomore Tonia Mahaira placed first in the 1,000-meter freestyle event with a time of 10:37.65.

Cross country squads finish 7th at districts

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

The Saluki men and women's cross country teams concluded their seasons with seventh place finishes in the NCAA District Five Championships at Terre Haute, Ind. this weekend.

On the men's side, top-ranked Iowa State, lived up to their billing Saturday. Iowa State won the meet with 33 points. Nebraska, ranked No. 6 in the nation, finished second with 90 points and Kansas finished third with 98.

The top three teams in District Five — Iowa State, Nebraska and Kansas — each advance to the NCAA Championships Nov. 20.

Gateway Conference champions Illinois State finished fourth with 99 points. The Redbirds missed qualifying for the NCAA Championships by one point.

Other teams and their results were Kansas State 113, Oklahoma State 125 and SIU-C 170.

"The Big 8 Conference is strong in cross country," Saluki men's coach Bill Cornell said. "You know it's tough when Iowa State is ranked No. 1 and Nebraska No. 6."

District five includes the Missouri Valley and Big 8 Conferences. The top three teams qualified for the NCAA Championships. Three other runners not on the top three teams also qualify.

The Salukis top finisher was sophomore Mark Stuart who finished 16th overall with a time of 31:18.59.

"Mark had an exceptional run," Cornell said. "He missed qualifying for the NCAA by nine seconds."

Sophomore Vaughan Harry finished 37th with a time of 32:21.59, senior Paul Burkinshaw 43rd with a time of 32:41.20 and junior Mike Kershaw 49th with a time of 32:53.03.

"We had a good season overall but it's unfortunate that we had to end on a poor note," Cornell said. "Other than Stuart, everyone ran poorly. I think they just put too much pressure on themselves."

The Saluki women also finished their season with a seventh place

Spikers gain Gateway tourney bid

The Saluki volleyball team is going to the Gateway Conference championships in the fourth-seeded position.

After Western failed to win both of its matches against Southwest Missouri and Wichita State this weekend, the Salukis were guaranteed a fourth-seed spot without having a playoff against the Westerwinds for the fourth and final conference tournament bid.

The Salukis play defending champions Illinois State at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Illinois State. Northern Iowa will play Southwest Missouri at 3:30 p.m. Saturday on the Redbirds' home court. The final game to determine the Gateway volleyball champion will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Redbird Arena.

Over the weekend, the Salukis placed second in the Memphis State Invitational.

The Salukis won their first match Friday over North Texas State by scores of 15-4, 15-3 and 15-10.

After defeating North Texas, the Salukis lost their only match of the Invitational to Memphis State. The Tigers defeated SIU-C 9-15, 15-11, 10-15 and 8-15.

The Salukis won both of their matches Saturday over Mississippi and Missouri.
