Keene, Fleerlage
issued subpoenas
for grand jury

By John Durbin

Carbondale Mayor David Keene and City Attorney George Fleerlage received subpoenas Wednesday afternoon to appear before the Jackson County Grand Jury today at 9 a.m. in the Jackson County Courthouse, Murphysboro.

Also subpoenaed by State's Attorney Richard Richman are: William Whitson, Carbondale Chamber of Commerce president, and William Budick, Carbondale liquor dealer.

Richman said these four persons were subpoenaed of "the knowledge they allegedly have about the alleged bribery attempts."

The grand jury was called by Richman to investigate charges of alleged attempts to bribe Keene.

Issuance of the subpoenas followed a morning in which Richman and Fleerlage exchanged verbal attacks against each other about the handling of the preparations for the grand jury investigation.

Fleerlage said "the smell of a whitewash emanating from Richman's office," referring to Richman's refusal to call Benjamin D. Pesem, a St. Louis businessman, before the grand jury.

A grand jury depends upon the state's attorney for guidance "in 95 per cent of its activities," Fleerlage said. "He may manipulate it (grand jury)."

Richman contends that "after seeing Mr. Pesem's affidavit and talking with him, that he has nothing to add to the present inquiry."

Recruiters barred from area H use

By Wayne Markham and Nathan Jones

Recruiters will no longer be allowed in Area H of the University Center, Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton told the Student Senate Wednesday night.

The announcement came late in the meeting and was jointly prepared by SIU Carbondale Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar, Moulton, and Clarence G. Dougherty, director of the University Center.

Moulton told the senators the recruiters would be re-located in another area of the University Center. A Marine Recruiter located in Area H this week will be allowed to remain, but this is the last week recruiters will appear there, Moulton said.

A proposal by Carbondale city officials to begin enforcement of a city zoning ordinance which would limit SIU students now living in single-family dwellings brought present in earlier Student Senate action.

In other business aimed at the city in last night's Senate meeting was an announcement by Student Body President Sam Panayotovich that he has formed a committee to seek a student discount program from Carbondale merchants.

"We were turned down cold two years ago," Panayotovich said, "if Carbondale merchants are not willing..."
Ogilvie speaks here Friday

Richard B. Ogilvie, Republican candidate for Governor of Illinois, will appear at a free street dance-rally in Carbondale Friday night.

The dance-rally will begin at 7 p.m. in the Moo & Cackle parking lot, according to Jack Seum, president of the SIU

Douglas Garbutt, leading authority on training costs under the Training Act of 1964, is a visiting professor in SIU's Department of Accounting.

Garbutt, who will be at SIU during the 1968-69 school year, is teaching courses in managerial and cost accounting.

In England he teaches management accounting and finance at the School of Management, College of Aeronautical Technology, Cranfield, a postgraduate school near London.

In addition, he does consulting in London, has lectured extensively on the costs of

SIU educator named to state advisory post

An SIU educator has been appointed to an advisory post in the Governor's Office. Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Richard Verduin, coordinator of teacher education in the dean's office and program director in the Department of Student Teaching, has been named to a seven-year term on the advisory council for the department of program development for gifted children, office of the superintendent of public instruction.

The council considers policies, evaluates programs and makes recommendations to the state office regarding programs for gifted children.

Young Republicans, and Glen Dollar, co-coordinator of Republican

This appearance will be the first of a 15-campus tour that Ogilvie is making to bring his campaign to college students throughout the state. Ogilvie has clearly addressed SIU students in the spring and the GOP candidate for lieutenant governor, Robert Dwyer, was on campus Monday.

Ogilvie, 45, was elected sheriff of Cook County in 1962 and four years later was elected to his present position as president of the Board of Cook County Commissioners.

He has campaigned as being a fighter against organized crime and as a government reformer. As sheriff he says he "reduced syndicate vice and gambling to an all-time low," and transformed the office from an object of ridicule to a first-rate law agency.

He also campaigned strongly in southern Illinois on the issue of unsafe highways under the Democratic administration. If elected he plans to establish a new department of transportation and appoint a downstate official as the director.

To the young voters he says his only promise is "to play it straight...if you care enough to work through the system until we can change it."

The graduate of Yale University and Chicago Kent College of Law resides with his wife and daughter in Northfield, a Chicago suburb.

The eye-catcher is Uta Levka, the hip Carmen in modern undress. "Carmen Baby," obviously is a film for a very special clientele -- opera lovers, who want to see what they've been missing all these years, and voyeurs, who just want to see...

"Carmen herself, Uta Levka, plays the saxpot tempstres for all she's worth -- and that's quite something. She has a let's-have-fun look in her eyes that recalls Melina Mercouri in "Never on Sunday." With "La Dolce Vita" parties thrown in for good measure, the movie will give you your money's worth.

The city ordinance would restrict residents of houses zoned as single-family units to no more than two unrelated persons, thus barring arrangements previously existing that allowed many students to occupy one house.

Word of the new enforcement policy came during Tuesday's Carbondale City Council meeting, according to Ray Damon, Campus Community Commissioner for the Senate, who reported on the city council action.

According to Dean Moulton, the city zoning ordinance was re-considered in August and the enforcement would not begin until Winter quarter.

Affected by the possible new interpretation of the ordinance are those students who live in single-family houses, that is, those areas of Carbondale specifically zoned as R-1 or R-2.

Gregory column shows new trend

Dick Gregory's weekly syndicated column is a most welcome new addition to the Public Forum page of the Daily Egyptian— one which helps fulfill a vital nationwide need.

The column by the well-known civil rights advocate and SIU alumna is, in fact, indicative of a most meaningful change occurring in the nation's press. Until recently almost completely dominated by white journalists, the press is now opening its editorial pages to the writings of black Americans. The change was too long in coming, but it is finally here.

Gregory's column is one of several new forerunners of what will eventually be a regular feature in the editorial pages of major U.S. newspapers: the editorial material written by a black American.

Gregory's column also provides, in part, an answer to an important question of our times: "Who speaks for the black American?" I fear, no single individual can be said to speak for all black Americans, but at least in Dick Gregory there is one responsible black voice which will be heard. And the argument that Gregory is not an "accomplished writer" is somewhat beside the point: a black man such as Gregory can better speak for black Americans than a white writer of greater journalistic accomplishment who can. Hopefully, the voice of the black American will continue to be heard through regular syndicated columns in the editorial pages of America's press. Today the black-written editorial stands out as a new curiosity; someday, it will be accepted as an integral part of the editorial page.

Anywhere there is a significant number of black Americans, there is a need for a responsible black voice in the press. SIU is such a place, and the fact that the Daily Egyptian has chosen to make Dick Gregg a regular weekly feature is an act of worthy insight.

Student disorder product of centuries

To the Editor:

American university administrators who are concerned about the职责lessness and lawlessness (1) of today's students may be happy to learn that student unrest is not new.

The following passage is taken from the report of the representative of the great banking house, The Frager Co., written to his home office almost three hundred years ago.

"On the 9th day of February, being the first Sunday in Lent, the Queen Mother of France drove the carriage with great turbulence, thrust their hands into the bosom of the Queen of Navarre and mockingly stroked her plumes.

"The Catholic de Lorraine paid upon the deepest holl, in which they not only assaulted with unshattered foils, but also insulted the bodies of the hosts, which it would be shameful to repeat. The reason, the doctor had not been impaired to mo, either with what devilry drove them unto such disorderly conduct."

"The King, with just cause, has been very greatly incensed thereby, and has had it announced on the 9th day of February that any student is forbidden, on pain of death, to show his face in the streets."

"Desiring to see with his own eyes whether the students were obeying his command, he rode on that same day on horseback, clad in a black mask and a striped coat, surrounded by a few ser- vants, inside that part of the town where the students live, which is known as La Universite. Mercifully nothing occurred, for those who instigated the disturbance kept watch at home."

The King then commanded the authorities to investigate the affair and to throw the culprits (2) into the Tower. Many who left their lodgings at night were cast into the common prison. Sentence has not yet been passed on them."

Double standards bring problems

By Dick Gregory

I have often insisted that America is faced with a pollution crisis. And I am not meaning air and water pollution. The most pressing problem facing America today is that of social and political pollution. A hypocritical double-standard pervades this morally polluted nation.

National hypocrisy reached its most pronounced proportions a couple of weeks ago in the economic center of America, the Wall Street business community. For days word had been circulating through the lunch-hour crowd that at precisely 1:28 p.m., a singer-girl in a tight sweater would ascend the steps of the IMF sub- way station near the New York Stock Exchange, and would work at the Chemical Bank New York Trust Company on Broadway.

Every day the crowd of onlookers grew larger. They gathered to gawk at 5-foot 4-inch, 15-year-old Francine Gottfried, an IBM machine operator, Miss Gottfried's measurements of 43-25-37 became much more important to the Wall Street business community than the Dow Jones average. And her daily appearance posed an interesting threat to domestic tranquility. On September 20 more than 5,000 brokers, bankers and brokerage Stock Exchange clerks mobbed the four corners of Broad and Wall streets in advance of Miss Gottfried's appearance. She was a few minutes late. At 1:34 p.m. when she emerged from the Broad Street subway station, crowds were so thick that tunneled between buildings. Traffic was stopped for an hour to give a better view of her intoxicating measurements and some of the cars were damaged.

Brokers crowded out of the window of the Stock Exchange. The steps of the Subtreasury were mobbed. The windows of the majestic Morgan Guaranty Company building were filled with expectant faces. Spectators rained soft caps and clung to light poles.

Plainclothes police were waiting to protect Miss Gottfried from the unwelcome assembly. A newspaper photographer wisely worked at her safely to work as the eager mob followed.

An incident occurred through newspaper and television coverage. As a result, crowds the next day tripled. More than 15,000 people jammed the same area, covering up blocks standing shoulder-to-shoulder. More blocking of traffic, collision of cars, but no Miss Gottfried. Her civil rights were so obviously threatened that it was no longer safe for her to go to work.

No arrests were made. Police did not wade into the crowd with nightsticks nor did they make an effort to disperse the assembly. The campaign cry for law and order was publicly mocked and ex- posed as the hypocrisy it is. The Wall Street crowd dispersed. The peerviewers demonstrated. The police and image-conscious New York City to demand more summer jobs. Some parked cars were damaged, including one owned by a member of the City Council. Political leaders urged the crowd, Mayor Lindsay called the demonstrations disgraceful. To my knowledge he made no comment about the Wall Street Incident.
MacVicar answers questions in first of interview series

Q. "Why are so many major policy decisions on questions that directly affect the lives of students made during the summer quarter, when the opportunity for debate and discussion is greatly impeded by the absence of many students?"

A. "That's a difficult question to answer in individual circumstances; there is a period of greater freedom for University officials, as measured by the number of registered students on campus. My own personal opinion is that we should reduce to the irreducible minimum the number of policy decisions during the summer quarter.

During the last three months I have on several occasions indicated that I did not wish to take action on recommendations that had come in recently, but that I would defer this until later in the year when both faculty and students would be present to indicate their position on various matters. One of these involved a substantial revision in our housing regulations. We did, this past summer, because of circumstances which came by action of the Board of Higher Education. It was a problem which existed prior to a period of summer vacation. This, however, has been under study for more than two years; a Faculty Committee has already submitted two reports; officers and members of the Student Senate were very much involved in our intention—it seemed likely—in July.

"I think I would say that it has been true that decisions affecting students had been made in the summer in the past, I would say reasonably this would not be true in the future.

And if it is necessary, I hope there would be a more complete discussion which would be acceptable to the students."

Q. "What action has been taken or will be taken as a result of the Faculty Council's recent 3-page statement regarding the parking situation?"

A. "Well, the action with respect to deferring the change in fee could not, in good conscience, be favorably received."

"The Board has agreed to consider a number and appropriate consideration for handicapped students. Such a recommendation has been taken and approved by the Board. Such individuals are receiving special consideration. They will not be assessed financially, by virtue of their inability to walk. Now, the controls here are going to be stringent in order to preserve the character of the facilities, but anyone who is truly handicapped, so he must walk a substantial distance, will be provided parking without suffering financial hardship.

"The Board is also engaged in a revision of the parking in the traffic and the traffic committee. Such a rerevision of this committee is under way. The Faculty Council has been asked to nominate members, and the students are also represented, and representatives of the students.

"The third issue dealt with the matter of a revision in the parking and the traffic committee, Such a revision of this committee is under way. The Faculty Council has been asked to nominate members, and the students are also represented, and representatives of the students.

"The Board is also engaged in a revision of the parking in the traffic and the traffic committee. Such a revision of this committee is under way. The Faculty Council has been asked to nominate members, and the students are also represented, and representatives of the students."

Q. "Last year the Senate, at the request of black students, asked that the General Classroom Building be renamed Dr. Martin Luther King Hall. Has any action been taken on this?"

A. "Yes, I am aware, we have a special committee that deals with the naming of University buildings.

"My personal opinion is that there might be some other more suitable and more living memorial to a great American than naming a building.

"There is also a matter of University policy involved. Most buildings are named for individuals who had an intimate connection with the University."

Q. "At the end of last year, the Senate recommended removal of names of rooms from the University Center. What is your position on this?"

A. "I have asked that a very careful study be made, by the appropriate administrative officers, on the utilization of Room H-1 to see if that until this study is completed and their recommendations come to me, my answers directly to your question might not be appropriate.

"I do want to say that the matter is under the most careful study at this time. We will certainly consider the recommendation of the Student Senate in making a decision as to where activities of this type could be carried out on the University campus."

Q. "Do you feel your ability to make important decisions on such major matters as University relations with the Selective Service System and the presence of military recruiters in the University Center is compromised by your position as a reserve officer in the U.S. Army?"

A. "I suppose a person's politics cannot but influence his judgment. I would like to say categorically that I would not have my opinion affected by my affiliation, over a long period of time, with the United States Army. But that might not be completely true.

"I certainly would try to be objective in matters of this kind, and perhaps I might lean over backwards to prevent the possibility of real bias, but I guess it is just impossible for a person to be completely unaffected by his long experience. Now, to a specific case, I don't really believe that it is a serious matter, but other people might think otherwise."

Q. "You've said students should go through channels to gain University reform. What action do you suggest a student take when his efforts to move channels are rebuffed, or otherwise fail?

A. "Well, in the first place, as far as I'm concerned, I don't think that efforts of students to effect changes that they think are desirable, We may not agree with them. And I don't think that their efforts should be taken, but I would hope that this would not be regarded as rejection.

"In any democratic society there are those decisions which a particular element in the society does not agree with, and I would have no given time. The answer that I would give is that if they have a real sincere feeling about an issue and if they are the people who, are seeking change should work at it. And that they are under a denial of their judgment, sooner or later they will carry the issue."

"I would hope that student government, and students generally, would not regard an unfavorable decision on a particular issue as a rejection of their efforts, but of the processes, and the logic and their increasing their power of resistance of effecting the change they seek."

Q. "Do you favor equal voting representation for staff in the making of University committee as the University Council and the General Studies Committee?"

A. "No, I think that while student opinion is to be sought, and listened to, and while I would not say that our representation of staff opinion makes it a representation of staff, students generally, but we would not regard that as equal.

"I do think that those bodies have student representation that was equal. From a practical point of view, if I think that we do have to be sharing with faculty and administration in the process of decision-making. This share will have to be less than equal."

Q. "Do you favor a joint student-faculty revision of the university regulations in areas concerning disciplinary action taken against students? And would you support a form of faculty-student and procedural due process for all students charged with violation of University regulations?"

A. "You've asked a very complicated question, and I fear it is quite impossible for me to give an answer to that would be adequate without the answer itself being extremely complicated, I do intend to move to involve students and faculty in the process of disciplinary decisions which are made by administrative officials...

"Do not, on the other hand, feel that from a purely practical point of view it is feasible to have all disciplinary actions be taken with an answer to that would be adequate without the answer itself being extremely complicated?"

Shapiro gives support to medical, law programs

SIU advocates of new medical and law school programs here received good news Wednesday, when Chancellor Robert McVicar announced support for the proposals.

"The State is called upon to make extensive investments in man resources to meet the crisis in health care which lies ahead," Shapiro said in a Chicago campaign speech.

"To ignore this and continue our traditional methods of training personnel in health-related fields will only deepen the crisis and place the health of our citizens in greater jeopardy," Shapiro said.

"To avert the 'deepering crisis,' Shapiro advocated realization of existing resources at public and nonpublic universities and hospitals to train more physicians than are now trained in Illinois. "I propose that Southern Illinois University," he said, "be used as one of the public facilities as well as the University of Illinois." Under the plan, students would receive a year of medical training at a university, go to a community hospital for further training and complete the medical education in a final year at the university.

"The plan to expand medical education already has been approved by the Board of Higher Education. Currently, the University of Illinois is the only state-supported university having a medical school.

Shapiro, in his speech to the League of Women Voters, also supported the creation of a law school at SIU.

Radio honors Mrs. Snyder

The Beta Kappa chapter of Alpha Epsilon Kho has selected a former color performer and widely traveled radio broadcaster as the broadcast of the month.

Mrs. Jeanne Snyder, a record librarian was honored for her contribution to WSIU.

Before coming to SIU Mrs. Snyder and her husband Larry, worked their way through the University of Iowa as a trampoline act. According to Mrs. Snyder, the act had no special parking space provided for workers.

As a result of a meeting Tuesday morning between Chancellor Robert McVicar and a group of Non-Academic Employees Council members, some SIU Physical Plant employees will be assured a parking space when they arrive at their jobs.

An agreement hammered out at the Tuesday meeting, would control to some extent enough parking spaces to assure that no hourly wage earners, who are required to report at a specified time, would be penalized in income as a result of being late to work because no parking spaces near the Physical Plant were available to them.

Such control, according to MacVicar, would probably entail a special marking on a parking decal, limited access to specified lots or frequent patrol of such areas by SIU Police.

The plan will be implemented in the near future.

New York yippie on poverty payroll

NEW YORK (AP) — A city councilman Wednesday Yippie leader Abbie Hoffman was on New York city's anti-poverty payroll when he led antiwar demonstrations last August during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago. The change later was confirmed.

A spokesman for the Human Resources Administration said Hoffman, 32, went on the payroll July 1 as a $40-a-day community organizer for a $2,500 free store experiment for hippies and Yippies in the East Village.

Come to Carbondale's new Reading Dynamics Institute and see why he feels this way.

Whether you're worried about finishing college, or would just like a 's instead of B's. Reading Dynamics can make you a more effective student.

How? By improving your basic ability to read.

The average person reads about 250 to 400 words a minute. Word by word, the way he was taught in grade school.

Eric Kramer of St. Louis University is one of thousands of college students who have decided to stop reading like fourth-graders.

A-pre med student from Plano, Texas, Eric says: "I took the Reading Dynamics course when it became evident that I could not keep up in college. or even hope to achieve the educational goals I had set for myself; unless I learned to read faster and more effectively. I now read 2,000 to 2,500 words a minute in literature courses, slowing down to around 1.200 for technical books. I wish I could have taken the course in high school."

House passes bill permitting television presidential debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House struggled through a historic and record-setting second vote Wednesday to pass a bill that could pave the way for presidential-election radio debates between the three major presidential candidates.

Immediately after House passage, the Columbia Broadcasting System offered the candidates and their running mates one hour of prime TV and radio time on each of the next four Sundays before the election for a confirmation. The National Broadcasting Co. asked the three presidential candidates to arrange for their representatives to meet with network officials to arrange a time and format acceptable to all.

But House action sent the measure back to the Senate where the battle could resume. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the bill would be added up as the start of Thursday's Senate session and he had been told Republican opponents expect to speak at some length against it.

Rep. John G. Pance, D-R.D., told a news conference that he was afraid the House would lose, that as it is officially transmitted from the House. He said he will urge acceptance of the House version because to send it to a Senate-House conference would mean its defeat.

The House vote came 27 hours, 37 minutes after the House went into session Tuesday. Most of the session, 20 hours, 19 minutes, was spent on 45 roll calls. Some 20 hours was spent in a Republican-led filibuster before the bill could even be brought up for consideration.

Passage of the bill was on a vote of 282 to 35, with all of the nays cast by Republicans. Voting for it were 182 Democrats and 98 Republicans.

The bill would allow television and radio networks to arrange the joint appearance of major candidates—Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey, Republican Richard M. Nixon, American Independent George Wallace who will try to give equal time to numerous minor seekers for the presidency.

A Senate version of the measure merely suspends the equal time provision leaving it to the networks when they want to appear.

Campus guests

Mexican senators tour SIU

Two national senators from Mexico who, like their constituents in the U.S., are most interested in student unrest over campus demonstrations visited SIU recently.

The distinguished visitors—Luciano Huerta, senator from the state of Tlaxcala, and ANtonio Flores Mazarri, senator from the state of Morelos—flew to the United States to visit with American friends and to attend the 1968 World Series games in St. Louis. The senators toured the SIU campus during their visit here and also spent an afternoon with Dan By W. Morris. They were also the dinner guests of Delta Chi fraternity house. The senators commented on the recent unrest at the National University of Mexico in Mexico City, Huerta saying that the trouble there "really isn't with the students. It is with 'implants,' adults who are communists and anarchists—just as well as people from other countries."

Huerta said that the "implants" are few in number, but are "operating very intensely.

Classes at the National University are presently suspended, but Huerta said that regular operations would be resumed on Nov. 4, after the completion of the 1968 Olympic Games. He added that "complete university autonomy" would be reestablished following the games.

Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz had ordered the army to occupy the university three weeks ago, following continued outbreaks of violence.

During their visit, the two senators were the guests of Jack L. Musgrave of Litchfield, who has maintained a personal friendship with Sen. Huerta since 1952. Musgrave's son, Mike, is an SIU senior majoring in marketing and a member of Delta Chi fraternity.

Conference clashes begin

It's much too soon for all the expanded big-three rivalry to be on the line, but there are a lot of marbles involved in some big conference battles this weekend: Early title-tickers like Georgia-Mississippi in the Southeast Conference, Kansas-Nebraska in the Big Eight, Purdue-Ohio State in the Big Ten, and Southern Cal- Stanford in the Pacific Coast Conference.

The number one-rated rivers, the Boiler-Hawks from Purdue, should hold firm on all fronts with a 21-point win over 17th-ranked Ohio State, Runner-up Southern Cal might be in a difficult afternoon against scalp-conscious Stanford, Using an Indian appraisal from the East Coast, however, it looks as though the Turtles will notch another win, this one by 14 points.

All steps will be pulled out in Lincoln in a meeting between two Big Eight powers, 4th-ranked Kansas and 16th-ranked Nebraska. And at the risk of eating heavily salted Nebraska crow again, the Jayhawks will clip the Cornhuskers-by nine points.

Ole' Miss was in the frying pan last week against Alabama, and Georgia almost had a coronary over South Carolina, They'll both be right back in the fire this week ... the Rebels are number eight and Georgia is number ten. Power quotients don't get much closer, Mississippi will pull out in a squeaker by just a point.

And speaking of frying pans, fires, etc., last Saturday Miami battled the likes of Southern Cal ... this week, it's seventeen-point Louisiana State. Everybody just gets tougher and tougher. So, the Tigers to quiet the Hurricane's by nine points.

In the Southeast Conference, undefeated and unbeaten Arkansas will continue to win, this time,humping Baylor by 28 points.

Against Lamar Tech

SIU seeks initial victory

By Dave Cooper

In their first encounter in history, both SIU and Lamar Tech will be looking for their first win of the 1968 campaign. Saturday, at McAndrew Stadium, The Salukis are 0-2 and the Lamar Tech Cardinals are 0-3.

Last week Coach Vernon Glass' Cardinals were edged 16-14 by New Mexico State. Glass cited an inconsistent offense as a major reason for this loss.

Glass said that big defensive mistakes really hurt the Cardinal attack against New Mexico. Lamar Tech lost seven fumbles in the game, five of which came in the first half.

In their first two games Lamar Tech was smashed by West Texas State 45-7 and shutout by McNeese State 16-0.

In the McNeese State game the Redbirds were held to a minus 21-yard rushing. However, Lamar Tech had possession eight times inside McNeese State's 40-yard line, but missed two field goal attempts.

When asked about Saturday's encounter, Glass said he would not change his offensive or defensive patterns. He also added that he hoped the Cardinals could avoid the big mistakes, mainly fumble it is, and would be able to take advantage of game breaks.

Although the Salukis were able to pick up only 128 yards rushing in losing their first two games, Coach Towers said, "We're still going to try to establish our running game. . . . it's our offensive philosophy." Towers also indicated that there would be more backfield changes.

The Salukis and the Cardinals will each be without the services of three key men. SIU will be missing Joe Bunge at corner-back, and Roger Kuba and Sam Pinocchio at fullback. Pinocchio is scheduled for knee surgery this week.

Absent from Lamar Tech's lineup will be two defensive halfbacks, Craig Barrett and Bruce Bush, both out with knee injuries. Co-captain and guard Glenn Edjersly will also be sidelined with a knee injury.

Olympic-size Southern swimming pool to be in proposed recreation building

A new Olympic-size swimming pool for SIU is in the planning stages, according to Jack Graham, chairman of the Recreation Facilities Planning Committee for the Carbondale campus.

The new pool will be located in the proposed Recreation Facilities Building. Graham said, "This building will be located just north of Brush Towers. The date for construction has not been set, but Graham said he hoped it would begin as soon as the planning, both financial and physical, is complete."

Graham, professor of higher education, said the pool will have Olympic dimensions of 75 by 165 feet. He also said the pool will have three basic purposes: collegiate competition, diving, and recreation.

The new pool will relieve the demands made on the pool in Pulliam Hall. The present pool was opened in 1954 when the enrollment at SIU was approximately 3,500. It is a "fine pool and an excellent teaching facility," in the opinion of Coach Ray Essick, but for a campus with more than 20,000 students it is inadequate.

He said, "The pool must serve the student body for recreation, the university for instruction, an intercollegiate women's swim team and a women's synchronized swimming team."
MEXICO CITY (AP) — A calm Mexico City, heavily policed by police at all strategic points, was awaiting the opening of the Olympics Saturday as new controversy clouded the Games.

The International Olympic Committee was locked in argument over whether to reschedule the altitude of the games and over the status of Brundage, the rich 81-year-old American who has been head of the Olympics since 1923. The Communist countries oppose him.

Striking students, whose clashes with police that have preconditioned recent weeks have cost more than 50 lives, held secret policy meetings. Indi- cations were that any future protests would be on the orderly side.

coming here have passed the tests. There have been no reports that any future protests would be on the orderly side.

Aroused Detroit Tigers clobber Cards

McLain, second choice to injured Earl Wilson in Manager Mayo Smith's pre-game opinion, made up for two earlier defeats by Bob Gibbons as he came back strong with a cortisone shot easing his aching right shoulder.

The Tigers' victory once again put squarely up Gibbons, the Cards' ace, in a seven-game duel Thursday with left-handed Mickey Lolich, also a two-time Series winner.

Morning showers delayed the start for 10 minutes and undermanned the crowd of 34,492 at Busch Stadium as the rain resumed in the last of the seventh inning. The lights were turned on during all the dark, cloudy afternoon. Play was held up for 49 minutes by rain in the last of the ninth.

By the time the game was resumed only a handful of fans remained in the rain-soaked stands. Some press box writers thought it should have been declared a TKO as soon as it became legal to save the bantam Cards from absorbing further punishment.

The Series thus followed the same pattern as 1967 when the Cards opened up a 3-1 edge on Boston only to drop two in a row before Gibbons buried Jim Lonborg in the final. The only two teams to come back from 3-1 deficits were the Boston Red Sox in a best-of-9 set in 1903, the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925 and the New York Yankees in 1938.

Once again Gibson, who last worked Sunday in the rain-delayed game at Detroit, will have three days' rest while his opponent, Lolich, will have only two days to recover from Monday's winning effort.

It was apparent early that this was not Washington's day. The Tigers hopped on him for two runs in the second when Norm Cash walked on a 3-1 pitch, stole second, doubled him home and Bill Freehan broke a 16- at-bat hitless streak with a single scoring Horton. Washburn, a winner with relief help from Joe Hoerner in the third game, was wild and was not throwing hard.

The third inning brought no more runs to walk to Dick McLain on four pitches. Before it was over all 10 runs were in, 15 men had been on and the Cards' Washburn, Jasper, Ron Williams and Dick Hughes had been gouged up for a grand slam hitter, six singles, four walks and a hit batsman.

After McLain walked, Mickey Stanley singled to left and Al Kaline, who had three hits and drove in four runs, pumped a single to center, scoring McLain. That was all for Washburn.

As the St. Louis Cardinals trooped into the clubhouse after absorbing a 13-1 loss to Detroit in the sixth game of the World Series Wednesday, catcher Tim McCarver shouted: "Hey, got 'em tomorrow, men, got 'em tomorrow, dammit!"

Except for that plea, the Cardinals were generally quiet.

Manager Red Schoendienst was something of an exception.

"Glad to see your smiling face, Red," one newsmen remarked.

"What else can you say," Schoendienst replied. "They beat the dickens out of us. Every time they moved a bat, it was a hit."

What about Denny McLain, the Detroit ace who lost previous Series starts after winning 31 in the regular season? He got a 12-run lead early."

McLain, 25-year-old right-handed righthander, was the first Detroit starting pitcher to win a World Series game since 1955 when Mickey Lolich did the trick.

Pitches ace Denny McLain, a two-time loser in the World Series, held the St. Louis Cardinals to nine hits and one run Wednesday to even the series at three games apiece. His teammates provided equally outstanding batting support scoring 13 runs on 12 hits.

"That DO make a difference," Schoendienst said, but added: "He pitched good enough to win us in his first start, but his control was better today."

With about 150 Bob Gibbons going for the Cards in the final game against Detroit's Mickey Lolich, did Schoendienst think maybe the Cards had a little edge?

"No sir," Red said, "you're all even when you walk on that field." Gibbons and Lolich have won two games each this Series. Schoendienst said he would play Roger Maris in right field in the final game, although Maria told his manager he had trouble hitting Lolich when Maris was in the American League.
Summer is past

Now that fall is here, many SIU students, like Cathy Sturgeon, a sophomore from Springfield majoring in marketing, are passing to recall the warm days of summer when area beaches were full, not empty.
Churches expand bus service

By Rodger Streimatter

Free bus service for SIU students wishing to attend religious services has been expanded this year. The service now provides transportation from living centers both on and off-campus.

Yellow school buses from the West Bus Service Co., are used. The Carbondale Ministerial Association sponsors the service; The Rev. Irving L. Dunbar of the First Baptist Church is the committee chairman.

Dunbar said the expansion came after Wilbur Moulton, dean of students, recommended that attention be given to students living off campus, more than half of the University enrollment.

To serve off-campus students, the buses will now stop at any corner along their route if hailed by the students. The street traveled are South Main and South University from Main to Mill, Mill Street from University to Oakland, South Marion from Main to Grand, the Wall from College to Freeman, and East College and East Freeman from Marion to Wall.

The Rev. Roy Griebel, minister of the Church of the Good Shepherd, was chairman of the free bus service under the old system. Under the expanded system he hopes many more students will be served and that church attendance will increase.

The expanded service began Sept. 29. Four buses took students to services and three buses made return trips. The buses served a total of 344 students, about the same as last year," Dunbar attributed the weak response to the lack of sufficient publicity among new students.

Mary Beth Brady, a new transfer student from Belle- ville Junior College, was one of many students affected by this lack of publicity. "The bus service is fine," said Miss Brady, "but there was poor communication."

Flayers intended to be included in new student packets were not distributed.

SIU accountants participate in Career Day at St. Louis

The Department of Accounting in the SIU School of Business will participate in the annual St. Louis Career Day Oct. 4, sponsored by the St. Louis Chapter of the Missouri Society of Certified Public Accountants.

A number of accounting students from seven universities in the Illinois-Missouri area will spend a day with one of the several public accounting firms in the St. Louis area. Students will take part in lectures, discussions and work sessions designed to acquaint them with the challenges and opportunities of public accounting, as well as the international operations of large accounting firms, according to Charles D. Baron of the SIU Accounting Department.

In the evening, all participants will attend a dinner meeting sponsored by the Missouri Society of CPA's.

Accounting faculty members Shrirish Seth, Douglas Graber and Baron will accompany the students.

Student play to promote welfare of the retired

By Stephanie Brown

Four chairs and a cast of five SIU students may be a source of inspiration for retired people in southern Illinois.

For these minimal ingredients the Department of Mental Health hopes to promote social interest and improve morale by sponsoring a half-hour play. The play "Ever Shone the Sun" is in scripting dealing with the problems of retired people, and will be given throughout the 1968-69 school year.

Each year for some 10 years the mental health department, in cooperation with the SIU Department of Theater, has sponsored a play on some aspect of mental health. Miss Willingham, director of the play and a graduate assistant in the Theater Department, said she feels the play will be "enlightening" and will help retired people realize the importance of keeping active.

Some 25 performances will be given during the year. The cast will travel within a 100-mile radius of SIU each week to appear before civic, church, social and educational groups. No special stage facilities are required for the play, which can be presented anywhere, and no fee is charged according to Miss Willingham.

Theochestern performance is Oct. 28. The first performance will be Oct. 22 before the Senior Citizen's Club in West Frankfort. Eight other clubs have already booked dates for Nov. 6 and 10; Dec. 1, 4, 10 and 14, Feb. 20, and April 15 and 17. Sixteen opening before those are still available. Any interested group should contact Miss Willingham by writing the SIU Department of Theater.

Letter writing program helps produce goodwill

You can learn a lot about the world by writing letters. As SU student is promoting a letter-writing program which she says can help other students learn a great deal about how people differ and resemble each other. Maxine Trotter, a freshman, said that the English Speaking Union is promoting goodwill throughout the world through foreign correspondence.

The Union provides a correspondence program in which any person may participate. To join you must fill out a form that can be obtained from the Union in New York City. One must state things such as age, sex, hobbies, interests, and the Union then matches the form with one from a foreign country, and notifies each person of the other's mailing address. The correspondence can be of great value," said Miss Trotter. She has been in the program since she was 14, but at the age of 78 she still hopes to travel and visit many more universities throughout the United States. Picnic slated Sunday

The Ithaca students Association will hold a picnic Sunday at Giant City State Park. Inter-sorority pledges are to meet at 10 a.m. at the University Center. Food will be provided by the organization.

The American student has too much leisure time, in the opinion of a visiting professor from Russia.

Mrs. Catherine Hitroon Ziaiblova, from the National Theatre School in Helsinki, Finland, said in Russia "the students did not have moments of leisure where they could smoke cigarettes and converse," Mrs. Ziaiblova, also said she felt that the American youth read too little. She said this results in lack of knowledge in many American youths.

Mrs. Ziaiblova is Russian born, and attended college in St. Petersburg, Russia. As a young Russian actress she had performed for the Tsar of Russia, Nicolal I. She was a pupil of the great Russian drama coach Stanislavsky, who originated the Russian theatrical system.

Mrs. Ziaiblova said she taught drama in the 1920's, but then left Russia to perform in a Paris theater. Mrs. Ziaiblova said she had visited the United States twice in 1925 and 1929. She said she was delighted by her visit, and decided to make the United States her permanent residence.

Mrs. Ziaiblova has taught as visiting professor in many universities, such as the University of Kansas, Cornell and Michigan State. Last winter she visited the University of Illinois.

She was invited to SU for fall quarter, after which she will return to the University of Illinois to teach Slavic and drama at the new Center.

Mrs. Ziaiblova said she was surprised at the difference between drama schools in the United States and in Russia. She said that drama majors in Russia are taught drama for five years in high school, and then attend a special theatrical school where their college study will revolve around drama.

Mrs. Ziaiblova said she was disturbed by "how little the professors of drama in the United States really teach the student." In Russia, she said, "not one minute is lost there is constant learning." The drama student in Russia,
Marketing at IBM

"Working with company presidents is part of the job."

"I'm pretty much the IBM Corporation in the eyes of my customers," says Andy Moran. "That kind of responsibility's not bad for an engineer just two years out of school."

Andy earned his B.S.E.E. in 1966. Today, he's a Marketing Representative with IBM, involved in the planning, selling and installation of data processing systems.

Plenty of business experience

"Engineering was my first love," Andy says, "but I still wanted good business experience." So far, he's worked with customers involved in many different computer applications, from engineering to business. His contacts go from data processing managers all the way up to the president of his largest account.

"At first I was a little nervous about working at that level," says Andy. "But then you realize you're trained to know what he's trying to learn. That gives you confidence. You're helping him solve his problem."

With his working partner, the data processing Systems Engineer, Andy has helped many customers solve their information handling problems. "I get a broad overview of business because I run into every kind of problem going. Sometimes I know the solutions from experience. Other times I need help from my manager."

"That's one of the best things. My manager is more of a backup than a boss. He's there when I need him. Usually, I pretty much call my own shots."

Andy's experience isn't unusual at IBM. There are many Marketing and Sales Representatives who could tell you of similar experiences. And they have many kinds of academic backgrounds: business, engineering, liberal arts, science.

They not only sell data processing equipment as Andy does, but also IBM office products and information records systems. Many of the more technically inclined are data processing Systems Engineers.

Better informed policemen needed, city pastor says

By Steven S. Ohlman

"Police should become better versed in contemporary problems," these are the words of the Reverend John Francisco, minister of the A.M.E. church, and president of the Carbondale Ministerial Association. Mr. Francisco is a newly appointed member of Gov. Shapir o's committee on Criminal Justice.

This committee will serve as a planning agency to develop programs authorized by two acts passed by Congress this year -- the Juvenile Delinquency and Control Act and the omnesia Crime Bill.

Francisco stated his views on the objectives of the committee as a many-faceted tool for bettering present conditions. "We will look at present laws and light of present conditions bring new laws into focus that may more effectively bring law and order into existence," he said.

Francisco believes "police work should take on a more humanitarian view." He said "the police were equally to blame along with the protesters," at the fiasco in Chicago during the Democratic Convention. "The police overacted, and were too worried about their jobs and their heads to do an effective job," he said.

One goal of the committee, Francisco said, "will be to see that the police of Illinois are the best trained, best informed, and the best acting law officers in the U. S."

Francisco added that a basic goal should be to "have the police better versed in the psychological aspects of rioters and the like, in order for them to better manage the situations with which they are faced."

In Francisco's opinion, a decline in morality in the U.S. has had a great deal of effect on the rising crime rate. "When the founding fathers, God-fearing men in many cases, made the laws they made them to go along with their religious convictions. Anyone who broke them was then a sinner," he said. Mr. Francisco believes that the nation has moved away from this ideal.

Mr. Francisco is active in local programs as chairman of both the Carbondale Economic Opportunity Commission and the Community Services Council and president of the Carbondale Committee for Total School Integration.

When asked what may have prompted Gov. Shapiro to appoint him to the committee, the minister said that he had been in Springfield last summer, and had presided at the chaplain of the week in the Senate. He said he met Shapiro, who was then lieutenant governor, "and possibly he was impressed with what he heard."

Asked how much time the committee would take from his busy schedule, he replied, "I have no idea but as long as we can help better the situation, it will be worthwhile."

Stitt has article published

Thomas R. Stitt, SIU assistant professor of agricultural industries, has had an illustrated article appearing in the current fall issue of Illinois Vocational Progress, a publication of the Illinois State Board of Vocational Education and Rehabilitation.

The article, "Structured Occupational Internship for Experienced Vocational Teachers," is a report of a four-week SIU summer graduate course for high school and junior college agriculture teachers conducted by Stitt under a $5,000 grant from the state agency.

U.S. land of potential, artist says

By Stuart Ungler

John Napper, artist and visiting professor of art at SIU, views the United States as a land of great potential. Heatica the great mixture of people who have united with a common language as evidence.

Napper is serving on the faculty of the School of Fine Arts through spring quarter. A graduate of St. Martins School of Fine Art in London, Napper was awarded the International Art Critics Association award in 1962 for his exhibit of seascapes following a voyage on a French boat.

The British artist was commissioned, by the people of Liverpool, to paint the Queen. The finished image created a bit of a scandal, for Napper had failed to paint her small. Within a short period of time the painting was fully accepted and hung in Walker Art Gallery along with one of Napper's favorite paintings of a cat and kittens.

Napper was called before Lady Winston Churchill to paint her portrait for Sir Winston Churchill's birthday.

The visiting professor values the opinions of sailors in evaluating his work because the sailors live with the sea and have the utmost feeling for it.

Napper was invited to SIU by professor Herbert L. Pink when Pink visited Napper's art exhibit in New York last February.

In commenting on America, Napper said he found this part of the country very beautiful and compares it to the countryside of Paris. He likes American folk music and enjoys picking out some tunes on his guitar whenever he finds time. He has visited the popular Ma Hales restaurant in Grand Tower and hopes to return there again for the "fine food and beautiful scenery along the Big Muddy, which he hopes to paint some time."

Napper would like to travel to the west coast and Rocky Mountains and spend a short time painting highlights of both of them.
