S-Senate approves committee with GSC

By Jim Murphy
Student Writer

The formation of a joint committee with the Graduate Student Council (GSC) to make the function of the campus J-Board more workable received approval from the Student Senate at its Wednesday night meeting.

The resolution calls for the committee to be made up of two members from the GSC and four members from the Student Senate. The committee will be charged with the responsibility of drawing up a plan to place graduate and undergraduate students on a new board to function similar to the campus J-Board.

The resolution cites the need to develop a working relationship between the two major student constituencies. Co-sponsor of the resolution, senator Jim Wire, said the graduate students are happy with the four-to-two representation.

The Student Senate gave its unanimous approval to the student attorney program. Submitted before the senate by Forest J. Lightle, executive assistant to student body President Dennis Sullivan, the program resolves that a committee for a students' attorney program be approved of and that efforts be initiated towards providing the student body with legal services not presently available in the community.

Student senator Richard "Josh" Bragg, west-side non-dorm, submitted his resignation from the senate first to senate chairman Robert Seely and later to the senate itself.

Seely refused to accept the resignation and the senate voted unanimously not to impeach Bragg. Bragg, an announced candidate for Carbondale mayor, asked to resign because he no longer lives in the district he was elected in.

'General studies not to blame'

Dean rebuts report on SIU dropouts

By Wes Smith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A recent retention study suggesting a link between SIU's high dropout rate and the University's General Studies requirements has been denounced as "rife with error" by Andrew T. Vaughan, Dean of General Studies.

The study of retention at SIU-C was conducted as a dissertation by John L. Baier, assistant dean of student life. Baier, basing his study on first-time students entering in the fall of 1970, found nearly 50 per cent of them had withdrawn or been suspended by the fall of 1973.

Baier, concluding that a relationship existed between the General Studies requirements and the dropout rate, wrote: "much closer attention needs to be paid to the educational curriculum of SIU-C, especially its General Studies program."

Dean Vaughan draws different conclusions from the study.

"His study is inaccurate and rife with error, especially as it pertains to the General Studies program," Vaughan said Tuesday.

"Baier states in effect that the General Studies courses should be reviewed because students dropping out are registered in our courses. He overlooks completely that in the group he was studying the students had already completed 95.5 per cent of the number of credits required for General Studies," Vaughan said.

"I maintain there must be something wrong with another factor because, just like getting 95.5 per cent of the way through an obstacle course, it's not what's behind you that scares you off, it's the obstacles ahead."

"He also says when his study began all the first time students were unclassified. That is simply not true," Vaughan said. "Fifty-five per cent of those students in General Studies had major fields of study when they started."

"Out of 4,000 plus students entering in 1970, we had 12 unclassified students, again, this statement is simply not true," Vaughan stated.

"He talks about students who flunked out and he says they all flunked out while in General Studies and he calls this a variable. It is not a variable. Students couldn't flunk out of anything else because they aren't in anything else, they're required to be in General Studies," Vaughan said.

Vaughan disagreed with Baier's statement that, starting with the fall of 1974, students can go directly into a college unit with no General Studies requirements.

"He stated Baier's analysis was "completely without fact."

Beginning in the fall of this year students can be advised in their college unit but they still have to take GS requirements," Vaughan explained.

"Had Mr. Baier come to us and asked for our figures we would have gladly assisted him, but as far as we know he never contacted anyone in General Studies," Vaughan said.

"You have to shake your head in amazement when you see a study of this caliber. Anyone reading this would think there are no more General Studies requirements and that is not true at all," he lamented.

"I think the study could have served a very useful purpose and much could have been learned had the researcher understood the programs he was studying. It was his misunderstanding of the facts that led the study to be of little or no value," Vaughan said.

Vaughan said complaints that General Studies requirements are a waste of time "depends on one's philosophy of education and what one thinks education ought to be."

"There is a story that points out that, at different times in our lives, we see

$643,000 deficit

Fuel hikes send budget over mark

By Bob Springer
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SkYROCKETING fuel and utility costs have caused an estimated $643,000 deficit in SIU's operating budget, and state Sen. Kenneth Buzbee said Wednesday "it is altogether possible" that a special session of the Illinois General Assembly will be called to deal with the problem.

The University announced energy conservation measures Monday which are projected to offset about 50 per cent of the deficit.

George R. Mace, acting vice president for administration and campus treasurer, said it probably will be necessary for SIU to ask the state legislature for supplemental appropriations to cover the rest of the deficit.

Buzbee said the only way this can be done before the next session of the legislature meets in January would be for a special session to be called after Nov. 7 when the General Assembly reconvenes to consider old business.

If a special session is called, Buzbee said he expects to introduce a supplemental appropriations bill in the Senate asking for an emergency allocation for SIU in the neighborhood of $325,000.

"The money is there to be gotten," Buzbee said.

A report from the Governor's office last spring showed there will be a surplus of nearly $400 million in the state treasury after fiscal year 1975, Buzbee said.

The surplus reflects increased revenues in sales and income taxes due to inflation, he added.

The money for SIU "would come from the general revenues fund," he said.

A spokesman for the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) said Wednesday that any appropriations bill for SIU would have to be approved by the IBHE before it would support such a move in Springfield.

James Elsass, associate director of the operating budgets office of the IBHE, said "inflation is nothing new." He said SIU officials should have been aware of the inflationary trends when putting together the 1975 budget.

SIU's operation and maintenance budget request for this year, prepared in February, predicted a maximum coal cost increase of 30 per cent. However, the cost of coal has risen about 150 per cent since that time.

Elsass said the University of Illinois requested an additional $1.5 million for operations to cover any unprojected rate hikes in utilities and fuels. SIU, he said, made no such comparable request.

A comparison of the internal operating budgets for fiscal years 1974 and 1975 shows SIU decreased its request for Physical Plant operating and maintenance funds by 1.3 per cent for 1975.

Whereas for 1974, the University requested $7.48 million for the Physical Plant. In 1975, that figure was allowed to $7.21 million for the plant's operations and maintenance.

Voter drive successful, Harrell says

By Gary Delsohn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Exact figures on voter registration are not available yet but Bob Harrell, Jackson County Clerk, said "the drive went very well."

Tuesday was the registration deadline to vote in the Nov. 5 general election. Deputy registrars signed up about 50 new voters at WTAO Radio in Murphysboro. Jeanine Hinkle, WTAO employe, said people registered until the midnight deadline.

Harrell said it might be another 10 to 15 days before county figures are compiled. He said the "staff has worked very hard just to keep on top of things and hasn't had time to do any counting."

Duke Koch, coordinator of the SIU Student Vote Project, said he expects the student figure to be in the vicinity of 9,000. He said he should have approximate figures Friday.

The Daily Egyptian reported the drive was to end Oct. 7. However, Harrell said the confusion about the closing date was because he was counting on conducting "precinct registration."

There are certain stipulations for that type of registration, and they could not be met in time, Harrell said.

The county board must approve a precinct registration. However, the board meets only once a month, creating scheduling problems, Harrell explained.

An ad must run in the newspaper 45 days prior to the registration deadline and judges must be appointed and paid. That could result in a great deal of money, Harrell said, since the judges must be appointed in each of the county's 61 precincts. Harrell said he wanted to have the "precinct registration" because the judges would be assigned to look over the books and identify people that have moved from the precinct.

Harrell said he hoped to have the judges do canvassing of the books to "get a lot of the deadwood out, but we were caught by time."

Under precinct registration procedure the deadline would have been Oct. 7, but since the necessary arrangements could not be made in time, registration was a county effort, adding one more day to the deadline.

University house is open for group conferences, receptions and luncheons to all Campus groups. (Staff photo by Chuck Fishman).

All campus groups can hold events in University House

Any University affiliated group may hold certain functions in the million dollar University House when approved by the vice president of the group's area. But time may be short. With the naming of SIU's next president, the mansion may become a private home again.

The University House originally was meant to house SIU's president. The SIU Foundation, owner of the house, has offices in the back and loans the front three rooms to University groups for conferences, receptions and luncheons. The upstairs is used to sleep University guests.

Joseph N. Goodman, director of the SIU Foundation said, "I would say the house is being used at least once a day by groups for University functions, not parties."

It's only a fifty-fifty guess whether the next president will want to live in the house. Former SIU President David R. Derge, the only president to live in the 32-room mansion, moved out before his resignation last March due to lack of privacy.

"All of the presidential candidates and their wives toured the house. I think it is safe to expect the next president will want to live here," Goodman said.

He said the SIU Foundation encourages anyone to tour the University House.

"If groups come, we want to know in advance. Individuals may drop in anytime. There is always someone out here to show the house," he said.

The University House is located on the extreme southwest prortion of SIU's campus by Lake-on-the-Campus.

Goodman said the house is shown to several visitors daily, including a good number of students.

Students to pay regular prices for 'Sly and the Family Stone'

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Students who attended the Robert Goulet Concert last weekend had the opportunity to buy tickets at student discount prices. However, students will pay regular prices for the Sly and Family Stone Homecoming Concert.

Dean Justice, Arena manager, said selling tickets for $5.50, $5 and $4.50 instead of 50 cents cheaper, is a matter of tradition for Homecoming.

"This homecoming concert is not an Arena event," Justice said. "We make the contract arrangements with the artist desired, take care of tickets and any other technicalities such as lighting and sound. The Homecoming Steering committee decides on the artist and they get the proceeds of this concert because it is a Student Activities event. Every year I call Student Activities to find out about the price of tickets and they say it will be the same as in the past."

Justice said this tradition was probably started before the current coordinators of Student Activities came to SIU and they have kept the tradition going. Student Activities coordinators were not available for comment Wednesday afternoon.

"Since this is a Student Activities concert, the Arena management does not set ticket prices. That is up to Student Activity," Justice said. "As far as Arena events go, we try to give discount prices on every event possible."

Justice was asked if he thought the Homecoming concert would be a sellout. He said he couldn't give a definite yes or no answer.

"Years ago we could take the first day's sales and multiply it by two and that would be the figure we could expect for the event. But the pattern has changed. It's inconsistent from one show to another."

"I would guess for the Sly concert that we will have a big show. By that I mean between 7,000 and 8,000 people."

"More students are coming to SIU from the greater Chicago and St. Louis areas and they have had more of an opportunity to see live shows and don't support these as much."

"If we don't have big shows, we won't get the big names."

According to the Arena ticket office, approximately 2,500 tickets were sold from the Student Center ticket office Tuesday, the first day of sales. Of those 2,500 tickets, all but 250 were of the top price range, the Arena office said.

A worker at the office said plenty of tickets are still available, because of the 9,045 total tickets available, 4,189 are top price tickets. The remaining tickets are split almost evenly between second and third price tickets.

Tickets for the concert did not go on sale off campus and at the Arena until Wednesday. A check with three local outlets, Penney's, Sav-Mart and Montgomery Wards of Murphysboro, Wednesday afternoon, showed a total of six ticket orders.

things in a different perspective," Vaughan said.

He referred to a study once conducted on Purdue University's undergraduate program. A questionnaire was distributed to graduates over a 20 year period.

"When asked their opinion of their undergraduate education, those who had been out five years or less said it was too technical and not practical enough," Vaughan related.

"Those who had been out from six to ten years said their undergraduate education had been much too practical and not technical enough."

"And those who had been graduated 10 years or more replied their early college education had been much too practical and much too technical. They said 'You didn't teach me how to live,'" Vaughan laughed.

"I hasten to add, we think there is still much room for improvement but it is our hope that we are going to have more input in identifying problems and making the correct changes."

Ford's tax surcharge explained

WASHINGTON (AP) — An easy way to tell if you might have to pay President Ford's 5 per cent tax surcharge is to look at your federal income tax for last year.

If you are the head of a household and paid $1,820 or less in taxes in 1973, and your income and deductions have remained about the same, then you probably wouldn't pay any surcharge.

But if you, as the head of the household, paid more than $1,820, and expect to pay the same amount or more in taxes next year, then you would have to pay a 5 per cent surcharge on any tax amount over $1,820.

The Treasury Department sought Wednesday to clarify what a spokesman said was enormous confusion growing out of Ford's announcement Tuesday proposing a 5 per cent surcharge on individual income taxes for 1975.

The tax would apply to 1975 income only, and then only if Congress approves. It would be paid when the taxpayer files his 1975 tax return in 1976.

The Treasury Department provided the following examples of the cost of the tax surcharge for families of four in various income brackets:

—Families with $15,000 income and standard deductions, no surcharge tax.

—Families with $20,000 income and standard deductions, $42 surcharge, an increase over the regular tax of 1.6 per cent.

—Families with $50,000 income, $482 tax surcharge, an increase of 4.2 per cent over the regular tax.

In each case, the taxpayer has been able to duck a minimum surcharge free tax of $1,820. The surcharge applies only to taxes due over that amount.

For individuals, the surcharge free tax for persons filing single returns is $995. The Treasury gave the following examples:

—Individuals with $7,500 income and standard deductions would pay no surcharge.

—Individuals with $10,000 income and standard deductions would pay a surtax of $24, an increase of 1.6 per cent in the normal tax.

—Individuals with $15,000 income would pay a surcharge of $78, an increase of 3.1 per cent.

The normal deduction used in these computations is the 17 per cent allowed all taxpayers by the IRS for personal expenses.

States as a student in the Center for English as a Second Language (CESL) program.

Alphonse Jean-Jacques Masseke, chairman of the International Student Council (ISC), came to this country four years ago after studying two years in Paris.

"The goal of the ISC is to have the campus community aware of the council and to promote more understanding among the students," Masseke explained.

A native of Zaire (formerly the Belgian Congo), Africa, Masseke is a graduate student in economics.

The council consists of presidents of the nine foreign student organizations. Masseke said. Activities in the council are centered around the International Student Festival to be held in February.

The Festival will feature articles from other countries and exhibits about the cultures of the countries. Masseke said the members of the council hope to have a speaker present from the United Nations.

Masseke said his adjustment to life at an American university "wasn't too bad." He received his bachelor's degree in economics in Paris, and came to SIU as a participant in the CESL program.

"I could write good English. I had five or six years of English in high school in Africa," he said. He added that he did have difficulty speaking English, explaining the need for being in CESL.

In addition to his native French and being fluent in English, Masseke also speaks five African languages, German, and some Spanish.

Since coming to the United States,

Masseke has visited Florida, New York City, Wisconsin, Nebraska, the Colombian Island, and Canada. Masseke said he hopes to travel to South America soon.

Masseke explained some of the problems foreign students face when they come to the United States. "When you get to a new country, there is a new environment. You have to think you're only here for a little while. It is hard to adapt."

"One thing that struck me was the work I have to do here. I have to study all the time," he said. In France and Africa there are not as many exams in classes, he said.

That is one of the reasons the ISC was formed two years ago, he said. "We want to do something about all the international students who are at a loss on campus." He said a student has been appointed to serve as coordinator for communication between the council and the CESL program, and added that as chairman, he hopes to secure a student to work at Woody Hall to handle general problems of foreign students.

When Masseke enrolled in CESL, he said he really wasn't planning to continue in economics at SIU, but now is close to receiving his master's degree.

During his first year at SIU, he was the guest of an Omaha, Neb. family for a week. "The family was very, very nice. It came to the point where I found myself at ease."

He's had the chance to observe some striking differences between the American and African way of life. "What impresses me of America is that people are so involved in sports. In Africa, soccer is the man's sport. It made a very favorable impression on me," he said.

"Life is at such a fast pace here," he said. "It's very different."

He's perplexed at the "uniformity in the American cities. They have the same signs, the same motels, the same kind of stores," he said.

Masseke's sharpest criticism of the American educational system is that the students "don't know about what goes on outside the United States. Where I came from we learned of the world. When we finish school, we know the world," he explained.

He said he experienced an encounter with an SIU student who didn't know where Africa was. He said he's amazed at the ignorance of most Americans of the geography of the world.

When asked if he plans to make America his permanent home, the answer was emphatically negative. Upon completion of his master's degree, Alphonse Jean-Jacques Masseke (he prefers to be called by his full name) plans to return to his home in Zaire, which he pointed out is the site of the Muhammed Ali-George Foreman boxing match Oct. 30.

While sheriff tows cars away

Handmade crafts defy water in Current River float trip

By Dan Ward
Student Writer

SIU students who went boating on the Current River in Missouri last weekend met fair weather—until they reached their destination.

Students and friends of students in Instructor Larry Busch's Design 201 class proved the durability of crafts they built to survive a 35-mile trip from Van Buren to Doniphan, Mo. All 43 crews—about 140 people—completed the three-day trip.

But when they arrived at Doniphan, they found that their cars had been towed away. Busch said the cars had been towed away and impounded by a deputy sheriff who owns the tow truck.

It cost $25 to get the cars out of hock—$12 each for 21 cars.

On similar excursions in the last four years, SIU boaters had been permitted to park cars at the Doniphan police station but were denied permission this year, Busch said. The cars were parked along the river in a state park where the SIU party thought parking was permitted.

Busch said he didn't want to emphasize the towing incident because it detracted from the success of the trip. He said, however, that he felt the towing was "discrimination against long-haired students."

Until Doniphan, the procession of rafts, boats, and kayaks met only friendly greetings from local people, Busch said.

"Most of the people were just dynamite," Busch said of the local people they met. "They were princes of people. The trip was incredibly rewarding except for the last 60 yards."

Students in the class built survival systems for the three-day trip, including a craft, food, shelter and materials to solve any problems they might anticipate.

"There's no way of anticipating the problems that arise," said Richard Archer, a design instructor who made the float trip. "You make a list of everything you might need, but the river doesn't know your list."

"Once you're there, there's no turning back. You have to have all the things you need on the raft. It's a good lesson in problem-solving."

In fact, problem-solving is what the trip was all about. Busch stressed that the trip was not meant to be "fun and games," but rather a dramatic test in anticipating and solving problems.

"The students evaluated themselves. They are really quite critical of themselves," Busch said.

Design students now have another problem to solve—where to park the cars during next year's trip.

About 140 people from Design 201 sailed 38 miles down the Current River in 43 crafts. They designed the rafts themselves. The project was a study in comprehensive planning, complete with a life support system. Each student evaluated himself according to the success of his raft.

Trustees should approve new campus-wide advertising policy

By Michael Qunell
Student Writer

After four long years of struggling for recognition from the Board of Trustees of the need for advertising, WIDB may see some fruit from their efforts. The Board meets Thursday, Oct. 10 to vote on the Media Advertising Policy regulating all campus media advertising. If the policy is passed by the Board, WIDB will finally be able to submit an advertising proposal to Interim President Hiram Lesar for approval.

WIDB first requested to be self-funded, through advertising, in the original working papers for the station in 1968.

When the station began broadcasting in April, 1970, the Board of Trustees denied WIDB advertising until the station became organized.

Then in 1972, WIDB went before the Board again to ask for permission to advertise. At this time they were confronted by the Southern Illinois Broadcasting Association. The SIBA contended that granting WIDB advertising would create unfair advertising competition in the area.

The first action on the advertising proposal was taken by the Board in December, 1972 in the form of an ad hoc committee set up by former president David R. Derge.

This ad hoc committee debated until March of this year before it drafted a proposal to the Board of Trustees to form another committee to create an advertising policy for all campus media.

Thus, the Media Advertising Policy Committee was formed. Members of the committee were appointed by Interim President Lesar and were directed to study all campus media and develop a policy to regulate advertising.

Now the committee has finished its study and is ready to submit its findings to the Board of Trustees Thursday evening.

What most people don't realize is that WIDB is funded through the Joint Fee Allocation Board. The JFAB receives its funds from student fees. This fiscal year the station received $14,000 from the JFAB.

In the event that WIDB is allowed to advertise, it will provide the students in the Radio and TV (R-T) Dept. with the much needed educational expansion in advertising.

WIDB's extra revenue, in the long run, would eliminate the need for such a large allocation of funds from the JFAB. These extra funds would enable other student organizations to expand their programs.

Granting advertising to WIDB will aid not only WIDB, but the University and the students.

Sullivan deserves credit for city council stance

By Patrick Douglas
Student Writer

Student Body President Dennis Sullivan can definitely take a bow for his actions recently concerning student representation on the advisory group that will allocate $8.1 million in federal funds.

Though the appointment of nine students to the 30-member citizens' steering committee was not a total fulfillment of his wishes, it was a big step forward in student involvement in local affairs.

Through the efforts of Sullivan and others who worked with him on this issue, the amount of student representation on the committee went from the proposed 20 percent, as reported on October 1 and October 5, to the almost 30 percent when the final announcement was made Monday by the city council.

Sullivan and students appointed to the committee seem to feel students should make up one-half of the committee since they make up one-half of the population of Carbondale. I could not agree more. But 30 percent is a start, and a better one than we would have had without Sullivan's work.

I think the relative success on this issue is important as $8.1 million is a large sum of money and the student population of Carbondale deserves some voice in how it is put to use. But I believe more important, are two underlying factors.

First, Sullivan and the other students involved here are showing that Student Government can be an effective tool in acquiring and protecting student rights. Something long over-due from an organization with a reputation of existing only to perpetuate itself.

The second reason, I feel, is even more far-reaching than the first. This issue could well mark the beginning of a new era of student involvement. Perhaps it shows that students are starting to take themselves, SIU and the community they live in more seriously.

Students, by their mere presence and by their economic input to the city of Carbondale have had this potential for a long time. It could be that Dennis Sullivan is what this campus has needed for some time, or it could be that he just happened along at the right time. In either case, his sometimes coarse mannerisms have shown students and townspeople that SIU is more than just a party school.

Local bars are fire hazards

By Mary F. Gabel
Student Writer

College students in Carbondale do not realize it, but they lead pretty dangerous lives when they frequent the bars downtown, in terms of overcrowding, causing fire hazards.

Friday night a slight accident happened at the American Tap which required evacuation of the building. While no one was hurt, (that time) the occurrence illuminated the dangerous potential a blaze has in places such as Bonaparte's, Merlins, the Peppermint Lounge and Up Your Alley. What would one do if he were trapped, along with 100 other persons, inside these places if a fire started? Just wait until someone yells "Fire!"? Then, tragically, we'll find out.

According to city fire ordinances, each patron of the college bars are supposed to have 16 square feet of space. These structures lack that requirement. Plus, no adequate fire lane space is available, not to mention enough doors to get in some places, let alone exit.

To alleviate the problem, cooperation is needed between the bar owners, City Council and the Fire Department. Obviously, fire regulations are being broken and the laws aren't being enforced.

Fire accidents usually do not wait until most people leave the bars for the evening, they happen when there is over-occupancy. Then, the people who will suffer are the students.

"THIS WILL PROBABLY HURT A LITTLE..."

Black Studies rebuts author's statement

To the Daily Egyptian:

In the Friday, September 27, 1974 edition of the Daily Egyptian there appears an article in which John L. Baier is quoted as saying:

"The dropout rate among blacks is much higher than among whites and there has got to be a reason for that. We have got to question the success of the Developmental Skill Program and the Black American Studies Program."

The dissemination of this kind of information is unfortunate because it is erroneous. It is beyond our wildest imagination where Baier got his information. The Black American Studies Program is an academic unit within the College of Human Resources. As such its purpose involves teaching, research and public service, as much as any academic unit on campus. If Baier had done the necessary research he would have discovered in the operational design for Black American Studies written August 29, 1968 by Black faculty and students, among whom were Walter Robinson and Richard Hayes who are present ly on campus and could have been consulted, the following statement:

Purpose: The Black American Studies Program at Southern Illinois University is designed to enhance two historical purposes of a university—the transmission of existing bodies of knowledge and the promotion of research programs culminating in new bodies of knowledge. This program applies these two purposes to the multidimensional aspects of Black Americanism.

The Black American Studies Program has as its basic goal the introduction of Black American culture and history into the total curriculum, thinking, and activities of the University and its environs. In so doing, the program will foster an awareness and understanding of contemporary developments by virtue of new historico-cultural perspectives.

A major function of the Black American Studies Program is to serve as a clearing house for collection and effective dissemination of information about Black America and for collation of opinions, critical evaluations, and assessment of needs for new curricular material.

That position has not changed. While we are concerned and interested in the retention of black students it would be erroneous to assume that the retention of black students is related to the success or failure of Black American Studies. The above statement from the original operational design makes it clear that we are concerned with the dissemination of information about black Americans to whomever is interested.

The kind of statement made by Baier is illustrative of the kind of erroneous statements made about black people supposedly based on objective research. The fact that decisions are made affecting the lives of Black people based on that kind of information seems to escape the concerns of those responsible for seeing that the necessary homework is done. Fortunately the SIU community is aware of the purpose of Black American Studies, that it is an academic unit. This will lessen the damage done by Baier's statement.

Our office and faculty are available to assist those persons interested in research concerned with black people.

Incidentally, it might be of interest too if Baier took a serious look at the Developmental Skills Program which he apparently assumes is a Black program.

People shouldn't throw rocks

To the Daily Egyptian:

Gordon Sinclair said that Americans must be the "most generous...and least appreciated people on all the earth." One year and a presidential resignation later, I think a postscript is in order: We must be the most hypocritical as well. Time and time again we have been given the opportunity to follow visionaries, the Henry Wallaces, the Adlai Stevensons, and George McGovern, and time and time again we have rejected them, preferring instead the ruthless politicians, the Johnsons and the Nixons. Indeed, idealism in the American presidency is a detriment and lack of principle a virtue. The candidate with values and ideals is characterized by Americans as weak, naive, soft—a man without the backbone necessary to run the country.

Nor is the presidency alone a victim of Americans' apparent joy in placing men of little character in office. Who can forget that the greatest (and perhaps most unprincipled) of American demagogues, Joe McCarthy, hung his hat in the chambers of the U.S. Senate?

Corruption, income tax evasion, bribery, lying to the public and the like are certainly not strangers to America's political environment. The sad truth is, we do have the best politicians money can buy, and the blame lies squarely with the people.

The truth is that Richard Nixon's crime was not bugging, it was not covering up, or bombing Cambodia, or cheating on his income tax. His crime was getting caught. Americans will tolerate, indeed insist upon all forms of scoundrels in their government, as long as they don't have to fact the fact. When a man like Nixon surfaces, and the ugliness of our system is bared, what do we do, reform the system? Ha, we fall upon the unfortunate man who got caught, throw him to the wolves, and walk away, feeling that we've "cleaned up our government". And so we tell politicians that we don't mind crooks, just the ones who get caught.

Though I'm not usually one for quoting the Bible, I think in this case, it's appropriate, and so I say to the men of the Congress, and those others who helped drive Mr. Nixon from politics, "Thou hypocrite, first cast the beam from thine own eye; and then shalt thou see more clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye."

His life in court costly

To the Daily Egyptian:

Believing that I was innocent, and having had two college law courses, I was confident that I had a good chance of winning my case in court.

My appearance was in regards to a "45 in a 30" speeding ticket (not on radar) received in Carbondale. At the trial I remember cross-examining the arresting officer. I believe it was my second question that induced a bellow from the court's attorney. "Objection! The defendant is testifying not cross-examining!" he said. "Sustained," replied the judge routinely. And in quick order I found myself forkin' out twenty bucks, reduced by $5 for being given "the benefit of the doubt."

The details are very interesting, but incidental to my reason for writing. As legitimately and proper as my case was heard, in a very real sense I feel cheated—$20 and my first speeding rap worth.

Procedural law witnessing is a real experience. You can know all laws ever printed, but you won't have a chance in a courtroom if you don't know procedure. Therefore, I urge any person(s) planning to appear in court to investigate court procedure first (or have a lawyer). It would likely prove the difference between winning or losing your case.

A volunteer ambulance

To the Daily Egyptian:

Have you ever been injured had enough to require attention yet not serious enough to warrant calling an ambulance? If so, it has shown you that a difficult problem arises. How do you get that attention? If no one you know has a car, you are faced with a perplexing problem. Do you call the ambulance (even though you really don't need it)? Unless you're really dedicated and call a taxi, the answer is "yes". Then you feel guilty for using the vehicle for such a minor injury and possibly preventing its use for more serious missions.

My point is this. Why couldn't a group of volunteers be organized to provide a ride for people in this situation. This service would simply consist of a number of volunteers with cars rotating duty so that every night would be covered, but no one would have to spend much time actually on duty. Everyone's number would be given to the University operators who would be kept informed as to who was on duty for that day and they would relay this information to anyone calling to request it. This would leave the hospital-health service personnel free from these minor emergencies and more free for their main jobs.

Victor Borge rescheduled

To the Daily Egyptian:

The cooperation and understanding which our office has received because of the unavoidable postponement of the Celebrity Series program featuring Victor Borge have been exemplary.

Not only have our ticket-holders been perceptively gracious, but many of them voluntarily called others who they knew had purchased tickets and also offered their services to us for additional assignments.

The radio stations and news services of Southern Illinois were prompt and unquestioning in the use of their media.

We are grateful to all those who helped us, and we sincerely hope that October 28 will find Borge hale and ready to perform. The reports of his condition indicate that he will be.

Chicanos are a minority that needs recognition

To the Daily Egyptian:

Racism. That's quite a word, but it's happening everywhere to lots of people.

I am a senior at SIU, and for the last three and one-half years, all I've heard and read in the Daily Egyptian is how blacks are discriminated against. Yet, when they do something right, it is really played up by the Daily Egyptian.

Why doesn't the Daily Egyptian, other people and even blacks realize there are other minorities also. Time after time black speakers come to SIU and other parts of the country to speak on the problems of minorities, but it seems awful funny that the speaker always ends up talking about blacks. Dick Gregory is a fine example of this.

I am a Chicano. What about all the Chicano's being discriminated against in Chicago, New York, California, the Southwest and throughout the country? This is never spoken about by the guest speakers, but rather the main focus is on black problems.

What about the Indians, the most discriminated group of all. Other non-black minorities are attending schools that are not even as good as the ones black's complain about. But is anything being done? Just reading the article by a student writer in Saturday's Daily Egyptian, I recognized those same problems regarding blacks, happening to Chicano's, Indians, Chinese and the like.

I feel it's high time that something is done to help people of both the white and black race to recognize other minorities as real people with real problems. Blacks aren't the only people that have problems. Other minorities are for real and are being discriminated against just as much if not more than blacks, it's just too bad our problems aren't recognized as problems, but rather misfortunes. People constantly talk about loving one another, but if something isn't done about the problems of other minorities, we will never accomplish the goal of complete harmony.

Simon stand on abortions is a commendable position

To the Daily Egyptian:

In January, 1973 the United States Supreme Court upheld the constitutional right of a woman to decide whether to continue or to terminate a pregnancy. This decision conforms to the basic concepts of a democratic and pluralistic society because it gives women a choice. No one is required to have an abortion and no one is denied the right to a legal abortion.

Yet, in a paid announcement which recently appeared in the Daily Egyptian, Jo Ann Schefers expressed her refusal to allow women this choice. The group she represents would like to eliminate legal abortions and force women to terminate pregnancies illegally—a return to the back alley abortionist and the coat hanger. A recent survey indicated that seven of ten women in New York who had legal abortions would have done so even if the operation had been illegal, while a San Francisco hospital reported a 58 per cent drop in hospitalization resulting from "botched" abortions after legalization.

In her ad, Schefers presumed to speak for the public; however, a Gallup poll of April, 1973 showed that 52 per cent of the population supported the Supreme Court decision and 64 per cent agreed that the decision to have an abortion should be made solely by a woman and her doctor. Paul Simon's reservations about adding another amendment to the Constitution in support of a minority position indicated that he supports individual human rights.

Thompson Point may be on proposed bus route

By Ray Urchel
Student Writer

A proposed East Campus to Health Service bus route may be extended to include Thompson Point so residents with classes at the School of Technical Careers (STC) may ride to the off-campus facility.

Sam McVay, administrative director of the Health Service, said Tuesday that he has discussed the idea with Emil Spees, dean of Student Life.

However, he explained the "first part" of the proposed transportation system has not yet been finalized.

McVay commented that the possibility of extension of the bus route to include Thompson Point "makes sense to me."

"I would really like to see an intra-campus bus service," McVay said. He continued the "big issue" is "How valuable is the student's time" and how much time would TP residents save by taking the bus to STC.

The first part of the East Campus to Health Service is being finalized by one of McVay's administrative aides, he said, and would be "in my hands" in the next two days.

"We're fighting for an intra-campus bus service" not just an East Campus to Health Service route, McVay said. McVay said he wants at least the East Campus to Health Service route so East Campus residents don't have to walk "50 miles" to get treatment.

Discussion of the proposed bus route began after the Minor Care Clinic shut down.

Spees said Tuesday that Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne recently met with Student Body President Dennis Sullivan "and a couple of his people": Carlton Rache and George Patterson of the Auxiliary and Services Enterprises who operate SIU travel service; a Thompson Point representative; and Spees to discuss the feasibility of the East Campus to Health Service proposal.

If McVay approves the proposal, it is expected to be forwarded to Patterson and Rache for acceptance.

Swinburne will receive a copy of the proposal and determine the cost and means for funding the service, Spees said.

Swinburne could not be reached for comment.

Cuba to release four U.S. captives

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Cuban government has decided to release four Americans jailed on the island as a gesture of good will toward two U.S. senators who recently visited Cuba, it was disclosed Wednesday. The announcement was made by the office of Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., who spent three days in Cuba late last month with Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

The identities of the prisoners were not disclosed immediately. A Pell aide said a message sent by the Cuban government through the Czechoslovak embassy here disclosed that the release of the prisoners was being made as a "gesture of good will toward the two senators but not toward the government of the United States."

Holy spirit topic of English pastor

The Rev. David Petts, an English minister, will speak on "The Baptism of the Holy Spirit" at the Upper Room Coffee House Thursday and Friday night.

Petts is an Assemblies of God pastor and teacher at the Assemblies' Bible College in Kenley, Surrey.

He will speak at 7:30 p.m. both nights. His visit is sponsored by Word of Life Ministries, Carbondale-based organization.

Petts holds the Honors Degree of Master of Arts from Oxford University. As a student he became interested in the Biblical experience, "baptism in the Holy Spirit."

He helped found the Students Pentecostal Fellowship of Great Britain. As Traveling Secretary for the organization, Petts spoke to students at Oxford, Cambridge, London and Manchester.

Hundreds of students have experienced the "baptism" or infilling of the Holy Spirit through Petts' teaching.

At the Bible College in Kenley, Petts teaches New Testament Greek, Comparative Religions, and the Major Prophets.

Petts made a similar visit to SIU and several other Illinois colleges in October, 1972.

The Upper Room Coffee House is located at 403 1/2 S. Illinois Ave. The public is invited.

Acne pimples: problem for adolescents

By Tim Hastings
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Papules?
Eighty percent of all adolescents have them.
$75 million is spent on them annually.
But call papules (a medical term) by their more common name, acne pimples, and it becomes impossible to discuss these facts and figures unemotionally.

A "Good Housekeeping" report says acne is rarely medically serious. The problem is it occurs at adolescence, when people are more self-conscious about their appearance.

Acne normally accompanies puberty and the heavy production of glandular oil that results. Sebaceous glands, which are largest and most numerous on the scalp, face, chest and back secrete a mixture of fats and waxes called sebum.

This oil is broken into fatty acids by bacteria enzymes deep in the pores. The fatty acids irritate the follicle wall and make it rupture and release sebum and bacteria.

When these substances are released they irritate the surrounding tissues and result in the eruption of the pimple.

There is no cure for acne, said Dr. James Fulton of the Miami Medical School at the University of Miami.

but it can be controlled. However, there are a great many confusing and conflicting methods of treatment.

A nurse at the Carbondale clinic said that each dermatologist has different opinions about how to treat acne. Each person must be treated differently, she said.

She gave some general self-help guidelines which apply to everyone who has acne. Develop a good, regular and routine care of the skin. Second, follow faithfully the dermatologist's instructions. And use as directed any drugs or preparations he prescribes.

To treat the emotions, the nurse tells patients not to be ashamed or feel different. Acne is a very common disorder, she said.

Part of the confusion about how to treat acne has been caused by old wives tales which modern research has proven false.

It was once held that chocolate, sweets and oily foods caused blemishes. But a study by Dr. Philip Anderson, at the U. of Missouri Medical Center, shows that diet is generally blameless.

Anderson selected 80 college students who were thought to have diet related skin conditions. In a controlled experiment the students were fed oily foods, but none reacted adversely.

The nurse at the Carbondale clinic doesn't completely agree with this report. She said there are some cases in which the diet affects the appearance of the skin and must be accounted for. This is why every case must be treated differently, she said.

"Acne is not a disease caused by dirt," the "Good Housekeeping" report says, "but washing may improve the appearance and make the patient feel more comfortable."

"Consumer Reports" of February, 1974 states that there is no scientific proof that washing really helps acne. Yet it does remove oils, dead skin and surface bacteria.

Ordinary commercial soaps will do the job. Heavily advertised cleansers such as Noxema, PHisoDerm and Cuticura are no more likely than non-medicated soap to prevent acne.

Abrasives such as Brastil and Pernox induce the inflammation and peeling which are therapeutic, the report says.

The number and variety of acne preparations sold over-the-counter can be baffling. "Consumer Reports" warns against being misled by the claims of these products. Acne treatments are sold in a wide variety of gels, creams, lotions, masques, powders, scrubs and pads.

Bus registration starts this week

Carbondale will register riders Wednesday and Thursday for the pilot bus project funded by Model Cities.

Operating weekdays starting Monday, the experimental bus line will give free rides to elderly, ambulatory handicapped, and low income persons. Drivers will require that riders show special passes.

Registration centers at Eurma C. Hayes center, Lake Heights community center and Brookside Manor will be open between 1 and 3 p.m. Thursday. Free passes will be available.

Model Cities will determine riders' eligibility according to James Rayfield, city planning director.

The nine-passenger bus will make four morning runs between the east side and downtown and two afternoon runs between the east side and Carbondale Clinic, making stops at downtown and Murdale Shopping Center.

The city will release information on bus stops and exact scheduling only to eligible persons, Rayfield said.

"There wouldn't be sense in putting it in the newspapers for everybody to read it," Rayfield said. "Everybody would want to get on, and it would be a general mess."

The bus will run until Model Cities funds run out Jan. 1, 1975, Rayfield said. After this time the line may be funded by the Community Development Act of 1974, Rayfield said. He added that this was very uncertain.

Living Endowment receives first gift

The new "Living Endowment" program at SIU got "off the ground" in record time.

A check for $1,000 arrived at the SIU Foundation office within 24 hours after the first mailing of the announcement brochure kicking off the new annual gifts program.

The donor automatically becomes a member of the "Magna Cum Laude Societas" (fellowship of great distinction) organization established by the Foundation for persons who pledge to provide $10,000 over a 10-year period at a minimum rate of $1,000 per year.

The "Living Endowment" campaign is headed by SIU President Emeritus Delyte W. Morris as national chairman. It is designed to enlist alumni, faculty and staff, and friends of the University in a program of systematic annual giving to support a wide range of educational needs such as scholarships, aids for the handicapped, library resources, equipment, research programs, intercollegiate athletics for men and women, and Alumni Association projects.

Approximately 60,000 brochures and letters describing the "Living Endowment" program and its objectives were mailed Sept. 28 and 29, according to J.C. Garavalia, director of the Foundation's Annual Giving program. They went to every member of the faculty and staff, to approximately 60,000 alumni, and to hundreds of persons known to be friends of the institution.

Faculty and staff are invited to contribute by monthly payroll deductions. Those who pledge $2 per month qualify for the "Cornerstone Club." Pledges of $100 per year qualify the donor for the "Cum Laude Fellowship."

The Foundation brochure cited that "the great universities, both public and private, more often than not, are characterized by possession of a sizable endowment. Still, a number of public institutions have been able to present an excellent educational program despite having no real endowment. Southern Illinois University has been one of these."

"However, times are changing. SIU is no longer a 'tax supported' institution; we are a 'tax assisted' institution because a diminishing percentage of our budget comes from state appropriated dollars."

Women's Alliance formed

By Pam Black
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Free Women's Alliance, a newly formed group of women, is designed to pursue feminist interests in the Carbondale area according to Catherine C. Merideth member of the Alliance.

The Alliance has no structured form of government. All decision making is a group effort, Merideth said. Approximately fifteen women are members of the Alliance which currently meets weekly, she said.

The main purpose of the Alliance is to provide the liberated woman with a specific place where she can interact with her sister, she said.

Merideth said, the Alliance is striving to mold an atmosphere where women can exchange ideas, feelings and common interests.

One of the reasons for organizing the group is to open a Women's Coffee House, she said. The Women's Coffee House located in the Long Branch Foundation for the Fine Arts and Sciences, 100 E. Jackson, will open at 9 p.m. Friday, she said.

The planning of the Women's Coffee House has been the main activity of the Alliance, said Merideth. She said the Alliance will include more activities in the future.

Raising the consciousness of the unliberated woman is not one of the Alliance's goals, Merideth said. She said Alliance members have learned it is just as important and much easier to create interesting programs for feminists rather than attempting to create feminists from unliberated women.

The Alliance, which was formed primarily by a number of lesbian feminists, is designed to reflect the interests and needs of its members.

Although the Alliance frequently works with the lesbian feminists' needs and interests, the group exists for all feminists, she said.

"The Alliance has been created for the open-minded woman who sees herself as an individual with rights and needs and for the woman who is able to respect the rights and needs of her sisters whether or not they are similar to her own," Merideth said.

The Alliance is designed to be a general meeting place for women with similar interests, to share their arts, to air their needs and to establish bonds of understanding, Merideth said.

For more information about the Free Women's Alliance call 549-5003.

Students to attend convention

By Karen Decker
Student Writer

About 300 Illinois college students will attend the 1974 annual Baptist Student Convention, Lanny Donoho, worship chairman of the SIU Baptist Student Union (BSU), said Monday.

The convention will be Oct. 18-20 at the Baptist Student Center on Campus Drive.

"Sharing His Love" is the convention theme this year, taken from John 15:16, 17: "Jesus said, 'You didn't choose me! I chose you! I ordained you to go and produce fruit everywhere so that no matter what you ask for from the father, using My name, he will give it to you. I demand that you love each other.'"

The convention will begin at 6 p.m., Oct. 18 with registration and housing. According to Joe Bob Pierce, president of the local BSU, most of the visiting students will stay in motels at their own expense. Some students will stay with Carbondale Baptist church members and others at the Baptist Student Center.

A full weekend has been organized by the Illinois Baptist State Association. Saturday's activities include seminars on campus evangelism, how to tell if you are in love, how to pray, and summer mission opportunities.

Illinois had 23 students in summer missions paid by the state Baptist association this year including two from SIU-C. Illinois students traveled as far as Hawaii, England and Jamaica with the program.

As defined by Fred Vallowe, BSU chairman of the ministry-social action committee, "Summer missions are a vehicle whereby Christian young people can, under new and often perplexing situations, share their lives with people in locations other than their home areas."

"The BSU," according to Vallowe, "is a fellowship of Christian college students whose goals are to minister to the physical and spiritual needs of students at the University."

He said BSU tries to help Christians grow inward with Christ so that they can express themselves outward—to share their lives with others.

Students to solicit for drive

By Pat Corcoran
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

About 50 students will be contributing their time in the United Fund campaign being kicked-off 10 a.m. Monday with a breakfast in the Student Center ballrooms.

"This is the first year students have been asked to contribute their time to the campaign," Ruth Altkruse, president of the Carbondale United Fund, said.

Groups involved in the soliciting of funds will be Pi Sigma Epsilon, professional business fraternity and the social work club, MOVE, an organization in the Student Activities office is coordinating the effort according to Bob Weichert, director of MOVE.

"We have set a goal of $75,000 dollars and we expect to raise every bit of it," Mike Price, publicity coordinator for the campaign, said.

He hopes Carbondale will realize the civic pride involved in accomplishing a worthy goal he added.

Even though actual solicitation has not started yet student volunteers have already been active in distributing packets to the offices of faculty and staff on campus.

"They have already started doing the leg-work for us," Price said.

"I am happy with the warm reception we have received in each office," Darlene Grouzard, a student volunteer, said.

When collecting begins the students will be in the various living areas and the central campus taking contributions Weichert said.

"The way it is set up, Price said, "We have students collecting from students, faculty collecting from faculty and townspeople collecting from townspeople."

The purpose of the United Fund is to combine the fund-raising drives of various organizations to spare the public the inconvenience of individual collectors from each group coming around Altkruse said.

"Before anything else, we select which groups we will raise money for and look at their budget requests before making our goal," Price said.

The following agencies will receive funding from the United Fund this year: Senior Citizens Council, Carbondale Free Clinic, Carbondale Junior sports, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Jackson County YMCA and Jackson County Humane Society.

Also to receive funds will be the American Red Cross, Egyptian Association for the Mentally Retarded, Women's Center, Southern Illinois Mental Health Clinic, USO and Synergy.

If a person does not wish for a certain group to receive any of their contribution and indicate it on their contribution sheet their request will be honored, Price said.

Student arrested by SIU police

Andre Moore, Room 217, Boomer I was arrested by SIU police early Tuesday morning on charges of aggravated assault because of an incident involving a knife.

According to Community Relations Officer Mike Norrington, the incident occurred outside Boomer I, when two residents went out to investigate two individuals "messing with the bike racks."

The two residents were confronted by Moore at the bike rack Norrington said, and Moore apparently threatened them with a knife.

Moore was released by SIU police on notice to appear.

Computer starts cooking

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A computer that links approximately 200 university, college and public libraries in the eastern United States, including the 1.3 million-volume Rush Rhees Library at the University of Rochester, recently flashed a detailed recipe for apple cake on a print-out screen here for no apparent reason.

University librarians surmised that one of the computer subscribers is a gourmet cook with a sense of humor.

Flag etiquette established late

Although the Stars and Stripes originated in 1777, it was not until 146 years later that there was a serious attempt to establish a uniform code of etiquette for the U.S. flag.

skills to deal effectively with the business world. The course benefits students in such areas as crafts, writing, photography and cinema, according to Bonnie Krause, art marketing instructor.

"The course tells you how to become a salesman for the things you make," Krause said. According to Krause, too many artists get ripped off when they begin selling their things because they know little about business, Krause said. "A person who spends four years in art should know how to sell his things when he gets out of school," said Krause.

Students are instructed in such things as pricing, how to sell goods, bookkeeping, taxes, interviews with retailers, contract forms and invoices.

If the art marketing program is a success, Krause would like to set up a corporation for students to put into practice what they are learning.

Krause said the DuQuoin Folk Festival was a great opportunity for students to display and sell their goods to the public.

The majority of the 11 students enrolled for fall semester are graduate students in art, according to Krause.

Krause, of Alto Pass, has been involved with the economic aspect of crafts in Southern Illinois in the last few years.

In previous years, Ms. Krause has pushed for a revival of folk crafts in the United States. "Americans have a craving for crafts and we don't even fill our own needs," said Krause. She attributes this to the attitude toward American art. "We don't let Americans have a foothold in design; we're still borrowing ideas from other countries," said Krause.

Krause cited the restriction of art to galleries as an example of the attitude toward art. "American artists are being kept away from the business part," said Krause. According to Krause, the U.S. Bicentennial in 1976 will help folk crafts. Old crafts will be highlighted in celebrating the Bicentennial, she said.

Women's hockey goalie makes all-star sectionals for second year

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Today the sectionals, tomorrow the nationals?

That could be the story for Saluki field hockey goalie Judy Benedict, now in her fourth year as a starter at SIU.

The senior from Trico High School in Campbell Hill, about 40 miles northwest of Carbondale, will compete Saturday and Sunday in sectional all-star competition for the second straight year.

The games, matching all-star squads from the North-central, Midwest and Great Lakes divisions and one from Wales, provide the first look each year at top competitors for the national squad to be named in November.

"I didn't go to the nationals last year, and I don't know how my chances are this year," Benedict said. "I'll just go and play. I haven't seen many other teams yet to know how I stand."

The trials for the midwest team to compete in the nationals will be held at Luther College in Iowa Nov. 16-17, following trials for Illinois players at Illinois State University a week earlier.

Those who qualify through the Illinois and Midwest trials form another inter-sectional team which will compete in national competition at Northern Illinois University. An all-star team will be drawn from that competition to represent the United States in games against foreign squads.

"They travel and play in other countries, from what I understand," Benedict said. "They play the teams that come to this country, too."

First things first, though, and this weekend she will goaltend for the 11-member Midwest team in the competition at Sauk Valley Farms in Brooklyn, Mich. The squad will meet each of the three opponents once.

"We were picked at the end of last year," Benedict explained. "One weekend, they picked two teams and an alternate—23 players—then the next weekend, the college players were combined with club teams, made of past graduate. Three teams were selected from that group."

"Club players are probably more experienced, because they've played in college and are still interested in the game."

Benedict has done all her learning in her four years at SIU, where she played the sport for the first time. As a Saluki, she also has competed in three years of basketball, a season of volleyball and two years of softball. Naturally, she was a catcher.

"A goalie is usually someone who is a softball or baseball catcher," Field Hockey Coach Julie Illner remarked. "They're used to having things come at them with sticks swinging in front of them. They have to be agile and quick, and Judy is above average."

However, her status in the other sports is in doubt next semester because the physical education major will be student teaching at Murphysboro.

Likewise, her status after graduation is also up in the air.

"I'm not sure what I'll be doing then," she said. "I imagine that if I'm around Carbondale, I'll play for a club team. I don't know if I'll be teaching or what, though."

"I could play for the team in St. Louis if I'm near there."

Judy Benedict kicks one away in preparation for this weekend's sectional all-star competition. Benedict has been SIU's starting goalie for the past four years. (Staff photo by Steve Sumner.)

Illini visit SIU

SIU Tennis

The SIU tennis team finished second in the Midwest Intercollegiate held at Notre Dame last weekend. SIU finished five points behind first place Big Ten power Indiana when the three day tournament finished up.

The Salukis lost only two matches in the eight-team tournament. SIU was beaten by Notre Dame and Indiana.

"We lost our first two matches on Friday because the kids were real tight," coach Dick LeFevre remarked. "On Saturday and Sunday there wasn't a team that could touch us. We did a fine job."

The SIU Rugby Club will meet the University of Illinois at 2 p.m. Saturday on the field east of Abe Martin Field.

SIU upset the highly-touted Illini last spring, 13-0.

Are You Paying High Real Estate Taxes?

What About The Home Of BRUCE RICHMOND

Mayor of Murphysboro?

Gale Williams, Republican candidate for State Representative from the 58th District, today charged that his opponent in the up-coming election, Bruce Richmond, Mayor of Murphysboro, has a discrepancy in the assessed value listed on his home.

According to a recent article in the Southern Illinoisan Newspaper, Williams pointed out that Richmond gave the value of his house and land at $58,128.00. However, in the recent assessment list, Richmond listed his property at $9,460.00. This amounts to a difference of $48,668.00 on which he is not paying taxes.

Shouldn't a candidate for state office report the same amount to the tax assessor as he does to the public?

A copy of Bruce Richmond's own statement which was published in the Southern Illinoisan will be furnished upon request.

Football tickets available Monday

SIU students will have first crack at Saluki football tickets when the SIU gridders open their 1974 home stand, October 19, against the Northern Illinois Huskies.

Even though construction delays have limited the number of seats in McAndrew Stadium, students will have every opportunity to purchase a ticket to each of the Saluki four home games before they go on sale to the general public.

Approximately 2,100 reserved seats in the West Grandstand and 1,100 general admission seats in the South end zone will be available for students Monday through Thursday the week of each home game. Tickets may be purchased at the Athletic ticket office in the Arena.

"Due to circumstances beyond our control, the renovation of McAndrew Stadium is by no means complete for the 1974 football season," said Saluki head football coach and athletic director Doug Weaver. "Therefore, we wish to make what seating there is available to our student body before offering it to anyone else."

Students who have purchased an athletic event ticket may pick up a reserved seat ticket, while they last, or merely present their athletic event ticket for entrance into the general admission section. SIU students without an athletic ticket may purchase a reserved seat or general admissions ticket for 75 cents.

Students can still purchase an athletic event ticket for $6. The athletic event card entitles the owner admission to all home Saluki events including basketball. Students who do not have an athletic card must present a fee statement when purchasing tickets.

"We urge students to pick up their tickets in advance so they will be assured of getting into the Stadium to see our home football games," Weaver said.

All tickets remaining on Friday and Saturday, the week of the game, will be put on sale to the general public as well as SIU students.

The cost to the general public for each reserved seat ticket is $4.00 (except homecoming when the price is $5.00). The cost to the general public for general admission ticket is $3.50 (except homecoming when it is $4.50.)

There will be 4,574 seats available in the Stadium for this year's ball games. Bill Brown, assistant athletic director said Wednesday.

"Seats have been only sold to those people who bought season tickets last year and wanted them again," Brown said. "That way the students will have every opportunity to purchase a seat. We wanted to be fair to the students."

The question of standing room has not been decided at this time, according to Brown. Brown did mention that the old scoreboard and sound system would be in working order.

The Salukis, who are coming off a 38-16 victory at Dayton last week, play four games starting with the Huskies. The other home games are scheduled October 26 against Arkansas State for homecoming; November 2 against Northern Michigan; and November 16 against Illinois State. Kickoff is 1:30 p.m. for all games.

SIU will travel to Philadelphia Saturday to play Temple University.

Pitching and power send Los Angeles to Series

By Jack Stevenson
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Steve Garvey backed Don Sutton's masterful pitching with a pair of two-run homers for the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday to beat Pittsburgh 12-1, capture the National League pennant and set up the first all-California World Series.

The triumph gave the explosive Dodgers the league championship 3-1 in the best-of-five series.

Garvey's homers came on consecutive plate appearances in the third and fifth innings, and both times the former Michigan State star had Jimmy Wynn on first base. Garvey also singled twice, scoring both times.

Sutton worked eight innings, giving up three hits, with Mike Marshall taking over in the ninth after Los Angeles built its 12-1 score, the biggest margin ever in major league playoff history.

Marshall held the Pirates hit-less in the ninth.

Sutton had shut out the Pirates 3-0 in the NL championship series opener in Pittsburgh. That was his 10th straight victory this season, and the 185-pound, 6-foot right-hander made it No. 11 Wednesday. He was 19-9 in the regular season and was expected to pitch the second World Series game against Oakland. Andy Messersmith was the probable opening game starter for the Dodgers.

He pitched 15 2-3 innings of shutout ball in the playoffs until Willie Stargell slammed a home run into the rightfield pavilion with two out in the seventh, the Pirates slugger's second homer in as many days.

A crowd of 54,424, some of whom burst onto the field after the game, watched the Dodgers grab a 1-0 lead in the first inning off the Pirates' southpaw, Jerry Reuss, who never found his control.

The Dodgers pounded 12 hits off five Pirate pitchers in nailing down the NL crown and Garvey had four of them, adding singles off Larry Demery and Dave Giusti.

SIU's Bigan Yayanz moves the soccer ball past a Murray State defender during Saturday's game. SIU avenged an earlier loss to Murray State crushing the Kentuckians 5-0. Scoring for SIU were Bijan Yarjanj, Ricardo Felix, Jean-Jacques Masseur and Jacques Bonnefil. (Photo by Gary Dean.)

Bonaparte's and Olympians move into semi-final action

By David Hamburg
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Bonaparte's taught the Wise Men a lesson in come-from-behind baseball Wednesday, rallying for four runs in the top of the fifth to win 5-4 in men's intramural softball quarter-final action.

The explosion began after one out, when third baseman George O'Hare reached on an error. He was forced at second on the next play, but Dave Kraemer kept the inning alive by stroking a single to right field. Alan Lery followed with an RBI single, bringing Jack Stein to the plate. Stein wasted no time in belting a three-run homer-planting it in deep right-center.

Stein's home run proved to be the margin of victory, as the Wise Men pushed across a single run in the bottom of the sixth to close out their scoring for the night.

Doug Daggett tripled for the Wise Men in the second inning and scored on a sacrifice fly by Ken Springhorn. They tallied twice more in the third.

Bonaparte's picked up its first run in the fourth. With two out, Stein doubled and came home on a base knock by Jon Crispin.

"I feel the Wise Men were the toughest team we had to face," Stein said. "And now we're going to go all the way."

Earlier in the afternoon, Chuck Steaks, taking advantage of a porous Kappa Alpha Psi defense, erupted for six runs in the fourth inning en route to a 15-9 victory.

Dennis Tite homered for Chuck Steaks and, along with Dan Welch, drove in two runs.

Pierce Olympians and Canadian Club both advanced to the semi-finals. The Olympians drubbed G.I. Blues 15-5 and Canadian Club trounced Joint Effort 11-3.

In Thursday's semi-finals, Bonaparte's takes on Canadian Club, while Pierce Olympians collides with Chuck Steaks. Game time for both encounters is 4:15 p.m.

Oakland hit wins crown

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Oakland A's, who scored the winning run on the only hit they got, held off a ninth-inning Baltimore rally Wednesday and won their way into the 1974 World Series with a 2-1 victory over the punchless Orioles.

The A's begin pursuit of their third consecutive world championship Saturday in Los Angeles, whose Dodgers won the National League championship Wednesday over Pittsburgh, 12-1.

What made this one so strange was that the A's managed only one hit all day, and they didn't get that one until the seventh inning when Reggie Jackson banged a double off the left field wall, just over the reach of a leaping Don Baylor. It scored Sal Bando from first with what turned out to be the winning run.

The Orioles broke a 30-inning scoreless string in their last bats of the season, scoring Paul Blair on Boog Powell's clean single to center.

But that was it for Baltimore. Rollie Fingers, the ace Oakland reliever who came on for Catfish Hunter in the seventh, struck out Baylor in a 2-2 count and ended this best-of-five series in four games.

Prior to the Baltimore rally, the A's pitching staff, which simply took the bats right out of the Orioles' hands, was headed for its third straight shutout. Hunter pitched three-hit ball for seven innings before being relieved by Fingers. He breezed through the eighth, but ran into problems in the ninth.

After Rich Coggins grounded out, Blair walked and Bobby Grich singled him to second. Tommy Davis for Grich, but Blair moved to third and Davis was safe on the fielder's choice. Powell then singled Blair home for the Orioles' first run since the fifth inning in Saturday's first game, the only one which Baltimore won.

That's when Fingers ended it. Mike Cuellar's control problems began in the very first inning.

He retired the first two Oakland batters easily enough, but then issued three straight walks, all on full count 3-2 pitches. The crafty left-hander squirmed out of that jam by getting Gene Tenace to pop out.

By the time Blair came to bat in the Orioles' first, plate umpire Dave Phillips was getting plenty of heat from the Baltimore dugout. Manager Earl Weaver came out waving his jacket one time and later rushed to Phillips for a long loud argument.

Hunter, who twice before in his career had been beaten by Cuellar in playoff matchups, breezed through the first six innings, helping himself with a heads-up fielding play in the sixth.

Ellie Hendricks had opened that inning with a walk, and when Mark Belanger sacrificed him to second, it was the first time the Orioles had a runner in scoring position since the eighth inning of Sunday's second game. It was a moment of excitement for the crowd of 28,136, but they groaned when Rich Coggins lifted a high foul behind the plate. Catcher Ray Fosse turned the wrong way, looked up a never saw the ball. But Hunter did.

He came charging off the mound and raced into foul territory to make the catch. Then he retired Blair easily for the third out.
