Civil Service ratified contract, source says

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

Members of the Civil Service Bargaining Organization have "voted overwhelmingly" to ratify a contract with the University, a CSBO source said Monday.

However, the source said that some bargaining U.S. employees, "are still in limbo, as the 31-hour workweek.

CSBO members ratified the agreement Friday by a voice vote, the source said.

"No one that I can recall voted no, although there may have been a few abstentions," he said.

The CSBO represents 700 civil service employees and approximately 50 to 200 are dues-paying members with voting rights.

The agreement follows the union's salary proposal that workers receive 6 percent raises to employees with up to three years of seniority. Employees with three to six years seniority would get 8 percent increases; six to nine years, 9 percent; with nine or more years, 9.5 percent increases.

The agreement will be retroactive to July 1, when the official service employees' previous contract expires.

A letter from Chancellor Kenneth Shimp read at the meeting, stated that Shaw would take a recommendation to the Board of Trustees concerning the 31-hour workweek to President Reagan's immediate_tsideration.

"I am considering taking, and plan to take a recommendation in the near future regarding the 31-hour workweek," Shaw said Monday, "but I'm not prepared to say at this time if it's our policy.

The source said the CSBO was confident the board would favor the plan. The source said President Albert Somit had "come over in principle.

U.S.-PLO relations impossible without condition, Reagan says

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, resting a decision following U.S. policy, said Monday the United States will not deal with the Palestine Liberation Organization until the PLO recognizes Israel's right to exist.

Reagan's comments came in response to a joint White House statement that the PLO would find a lasting peace in the Middle East.

The White House statement said the two former presidents, Reagan's immediate predecessors, gave their assessments during a joint interview, reports back from the funeral of slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Reagan was open to their statements as he walked from his helicopter to the White House Monday afternoon upon his return from Camp David.

"There would be a condition, although the president of the PLO, 'there's never been any refusal, only until they (the PLO) will recognize Israel's right to exist as a nation, which they still have never done."

Ford said on the plane, "In a realistic way, that's the difference between the PLO and the United States has to take place in the future, and it's the only way we're going to make it work,"

Carter added Monday that the Reagan administration has not been aggressive enough in promoting talks between Israel and Egypt, and doesn't quite know why, but some of these problems are changing.

Meanwhile, a senior State Department official Monday that Reagan's special Mideast peace envoy, Philip C. Habib, may return to the Middle East next month to meet with the PLO's new leader, Bashir Gemayel, who was elected to the post in October.

"We feel that most immediate families don't live in the same community," and the five days is needed for traveling time, the source said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, resting a decision following U.S. policy, said Monday the United States will not deal with the Palestine Liberation Organization until the PLO recognizes Israel's right to exist.

Reagan's comments came in response to a joint White House statement that the PLO would find a lasting peace in the Middle East.

The White House statement said the two former presidents, Reagan's immediate predecessors, gave their assessments during a joint interview, reports back from the funeral of slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Reagan was open to their statements as he walked from his helicopter to the White House Monday afternoon upon his return from Camp David.

"There would be a condition, although the president of the PLO, 'there's never been any refusal, only until they (the PLO) will recognize Israel's right to exist as a nation, which they still have never done."

Ford said on the plane, "In a realistic way, that's the difference between the PLO and the United States has to take place in the future, and it's the only way we're going to make it work,"

Carter added Monday that the Reagan administration has not been aggressive enough in promoting talks between Israel and Egypt, and doesn't quite know why, but some of these problems are changing.

Meanwhile, a senior State Department official Monday that Reagan's special Mideast peace envoy, Philip C. Habib, may return to the Middle East next month to meet with the PLO's new leader, Bashir Gemayel, who was elected to the post in October.

"We feel that most immediate families don't live in the same community," and the five days is needed for traveling time, the source said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, resting a decision following U.S. policy, said Monday the United States will not deal with the Palestine Liberation Organization until the PLO recognizes Israel's right to exist.

Reagan's comments came in response to a joint White House statement that the PLO would find a lasting peace in the Middle East.

The White House statement said the two former presidents, Reagan's immediate predecessors, gave their assessments during a joint interview, reports back from the funeral of slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Reagan was open to their statements as he walked from his helicopter to the White House Monday afternoon upon his return from Camp David.

"There would be a condition, although the president of the PLO, 'there's never been any refusal, only until they (the PLO) will recognize Israel's right to exist as a nation, which they still have never done."

Ford said on the plane, "In a realistic way, that's the difference between the PLO and the United States has to take place in the future, and it's the only way we're going to make it work,"

Carter added Monday that the Reagan administration has not been aggressive enough in promoting talks between Israel and Egypt, and doesn't quite know why, but some of these problems are changing.

Meanwhile, a senior State Department official Monday that Reagan's special Mideast peace envoy, Philip C. Habib, may return to the Middle East next month to meet with the PLO's new leader, Bashir Gemayel, who was elected to the post in October.

"We feel that most immediate families don't live in the same community," and the five days is needed for traveling time, the source said.
Administration moving quickly to prevent chaos in Mideast

By R. Gregory Nokes
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Reagan administration is moving to dissolve both military and diplomatic, to bolster moderate Arab nations to prevent them from being engulfed by chaos after Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's assassination.

The swift action by the administration, in that Egypt, weakened by Sadat's death, could be slipped into Israeli-type chaos because of internal dissension or outside interference—or both.

While the administration already had been seeking to build a diplomatic and security network for the Middle East, partly to protect the region's oil resources, that effort has been sharply accelerated since Sadat was assassinated last Tuesday. Among the measures:

— A large-scale joint U.S.-Egyptian military exercise next month that will involve a large number of American troops and possibly a practice bombing run by American B-52s over an Egyptian-target range. Troops from Oman, another Arab nation, also may be included.

— The probable return of President Reagan's special Mideast peace envoy, Philip C. Habib, in the region next month to try to strengthen and expand the 3-month-old cease-fire in Lebanon between Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization.

It's not just Egypt that is the focus of these moves. The administration also has decided to make another push to install an Arab-Israeli peace that involves putting new pressure on Israel to compromise on the question of autonomy for the 1.3 million Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The administration fears that the death of Sadat, the only Arab leader of stature who openly embraced the United States as a friend, may be interpreted by other moderate Arab leaders, especially those in Saudi Arabia, as proof that being friendly with the United States is dangerous.

Sadat's death underscored how quickly events and leaders can change in the Middle East—even when the United States would like to protect the leaders friendly to it.

Thompson day-care veto challenged

CHICAGO (AP) - House Democrats will press an "all-out effort" to override the governor's veto of the funds for day-care programs and community mental health centers, Rep. Michael Madigan said Monday.

He said that's what the case is, Gov. James R. Thompson has been shortchanged." Madigan said at a news conference to release a report prepared by a Democratic legislative task force that studied Thompson's vetoes.

Thompson said in response that the attempt to override his veto "is a concerted effort to force (Illinois) into a tax increase."

But Madigan said the governor vetoed the social service programs will cost the state more in the long run.

He said loss of funds for day-care programs would force some working mothers onto the state's welfare rolls because day care no longer would be available for their children.

The $12.2 million for social service programs was among $435 million vetoed by Thompson after the legislative session ended. The legislature returns Wednesday to consider overrides of the vetoes.

Madigan also accused Thompson of "deception of the taxpayers" for allegedly delaying processing of $75 million in tax receipts. He said the governor intended to cause a shortfall in the state's general fund to convince lawmakers that budget cuts are needed.

Madigan, the House minority leader, said he wasn't sure if the Democrats had enough support to restore the programs or if they would try to override any other vetoes.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said before leaving Cairo Sunday that the United States has made clear to Israel that there is any expansion of Israeli settlements on the West Bank during the negotiations on Palestinian autonomy. The next round of talks is scheduled April 15 in March.

The administration fears that the death of Sadat, the only Arab leader of stature who openly embraced the United States as a friend, may be interpreted by other moderate Arab leaders, especially those in Saudi Arabia, as proof that being friendly with the United States is dangerous.

Sadat's death underscored how quickly events and leaders can change in the Middle East—even when the United States would like to protect the leaders friendly to it.

Farm price support system opposed

CHICAGO (AP) - A Reagan administration spokesman waved a package of mildly cheese Monday to illustrate what he said was the needless governmental spending of dairy goods under a farm price support system.

"This came to my attention Friday," Deputy Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng told reporters. "It's a five-pound package of cheese with quite a moldy corner on it."

Lyng and House Minority Leader Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., called the news conference as part of a nationwide effort to oppose a farm price support bill scheduled for a vote Wednesday as the House resumes work on legislation providing an extension of key agricultural programs.

School board considers book ban

ONIDA, S.D. (AP) - For the second time this year, the Sully Buttes School Board is considering whether to ban a book from its high school curriculum.

The book in question is William Golding's "Lord of the Flies," which one parent wants removed from the high school curriculum.

"The school board has the right to take any book off the shelf they feel they see fit to remove," Superintendent Donald Rytkus said. "I think we should be able to censor what our kids see."

Lawmaker to run for attorney general

CHICAGO (AP) - Clarence A. Darrow, a member of the Illinois House since 1977, announced Monday he will seek the Democratic nomination for state attorney general.

Darrow, 61, a distant cousin of the late Clarence S. Darrow, said he has spoken with Democratic legislators and will not seek the office without his party's endorsement. The Rock Island lawmaker is the third candidate to seek the party nomination for the post.

For other Illinois stories, see page 16.

---

News Roundup

---

The American Tap

All Day & Night

Yukon Jack

Shots, Mixes, Sours

Special of the Month

Jelly Beans 65¢
University looking for assistant to VP for financial affairs

By David Murphy

Staff Writer

University officials are searching the SIU-C community for a new assistant to the vice president for financial affairs, with an eye on the position being opening soon.

"We are looking for an assistant to the vice president, not an associate vice president," Warren Buffum, vice president for financial affairs, said. "The associate vice president had some responsibilities this job will not have."

Buffum, associate vice president for five years, replaced former Vice President Robert Gentry in February. Gentry resigned to take a position at Seton Hall University in New Jersey.

The associate vice president's position has been placed out for economy, according to Buffum.

"It was in very significant part due to economy," Buffum said. "We are trying to economize in terms of resources for the financial affairs office."

The position of assistant to the vice president will have fewer responsibilities and a lower salary, Buffum said.

"We are trying to economize in terms of resources for the financial affairs office."

The duties of the assistant to the vice president will include planning for staff meetings, monitoring the budget of financial affairs' units, working on special projects, and providing information related to budget decisions to the vice president.

The duties of the assistant will include planning for staff meetings, monitoring the budget of financial affairs' units, working on special projects, and providing information related to budget decisions to the vice president.

The resolution would allow the assistant to allocate funds to professional development activities, such as attending conferences, and to limit how much money can be allocated for a single event under the university-wide allocations and special support activities.

The resolution would also set limits on how much money can be allocated for a single event under the university-wide allocations and special support activities.

The provision setting percentage ceilings on allocations and limiting the amount the council can give for a single The salary of the assistant will be $27,000 to $28,000 per year, Buffum said. The salary for the associate vice president was in the area of $60,000 five years ago and, because of inflation, has increased since then, Buffum said.

The search is being confined to SIU-C and the School of Medicine.

"We feel that there are a significant number of qualified people in the University who have the chance to move to them up in the administration," Buffum said.

See FINANCE Page 15

GSC to act on fund bill

By Alas Scalley

Staff Writer

The Graduate Student Council will act Wednesday on a resolution to limit the percentage of money that can be allocated for categories of activities.

The resolution would allow the GSC to allocate 60 percent of funds to professional development activities, such as attending conferences, and 40 percent each to university-wide and special support activities. The resolution also would set limits on how much money can be allocated for a single event under the university-wide allocations and special support activities.

The provisions setting percentage ceilings on allocations and limiting the amount the council can give for a single The salary of the assistant will be $27,000 to $28,000 per year, Buffum said. The salary for the associate vice president was in the area of $60,000 five years ago and, because of inflation, has increased since then, Buffum said.

The search is being confined to SIU-C and the School of Medicine.

"We feel that there are a significant number of qualified people in the University who have the chance to move to them up in the administration," Buffum said.

See FINANCE Page 15

Ex-Carbondale mayor seeks County Board post

Former Carbondale Mayor D. Blaise Miller announced Monday that he is seeking a Democratic nomination for the Jackson County Board. Miller, 69, said he wants to represent the county's District 4, currently represented by Republicans Joan Holcomb and Robert Crim.

Holcomb and Crim said they are undecided whether to run for re-election. The entire board is up for re-election in 1985.

"I give you a fine candidate," Miller said.

Miller was city commissioner of police from 1951 to 1959. He served as mayor from 1959 to 1967 and then became a hearing examiner for the secretary of State Driver's License Division. In the interim, Miller attempted to gain a City Council seat by appointment in 1978 and election in 1979.

Miller, concerned about the county's high property taxes and other taxes, said that if he is elected, he would look into the feasibility of a new county courthouse.

Winchester seeks re-election

State Rep. Robert Winchester, R-9th District, has announced that he will run for re-election to the legislature.

Winchester had said he might run against Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th District, only if he received sufficient financial backing.

But he had said his immediate future was probably in leadership positions in the Legislature.

The recent redistricting map piston Winchester against fellow Republican and 26-year-house veteran C. L. McCormick of Vienna. McCormick said he would decide by the end of the week whether to run for re-election.

McCormick said he prefers to try for a seat in the State Senate. If McCormick runs for the Senate, his opponent would be Democrat Gene Johnas of Marion.

---

Today's Special (at Booby's)
Stop in for a Provolone, Kosher Salami, and Pepperoni sandwich with a pickle, chips, and large soft drink for only $2.85. Sorry no coupons.
Happy Hours Daily at 2pm

THE CLUE

Free hot 4 oz. Beverages at Happy Hour
406 S. Illinois
457-5551

THE GOLD MINE

611 S. Illinois
LUNCH SPECIAL
Buy 2 slices of pizza and get a medium soft drink for 10¢ between 11:00-2:00. Mon-Fri only.
Call for quick delivery:
529-6138 529-6139 529-6130

THE RESTAURANT

IT'S JREAT!

J.R.'s the restaurant with a difference.
One that combines a relaxed atmosphere with great food.
J.R.'s Menu includes:
special crepes, omelets, steaks, shrimp, a variety of other dishes and superb ice cream desserts.

Another Stan Have Restaurant Next To The Holiday Inn Carbondale
Support $30 athletics fee but demand some changes

Inflation has sent the costs of athletics soaring higher than a Taser shock sticker. Without diminished funding for athletics, compliance with Title IX would be difficult if not impossible. And without enough money, football almost certainly would be thrown for a loss, President Albert has said, which has caused much concern.

Those are some of the reasons that support a vote for continuing the $30 athletics fee instead of cutting it back to $20. The fee increase was an outgrowth of a survey about projected athletics budget shortfalls and suspicions that men's athletics administrators at that time weren't keeping their books accurately. The fee increase was seen as a way to bail out of trouble they didn't actually create. The case made for the added $10 wasn't very convincing.

But the arguments were made by a different set of administrators, or continuing the fee was the only alternative. However, if the $30 fee is endorsed by students in the referendum Wednesday, the University administration should not take it for granted that the fee can be hacked up again any time the sports program needs money. They will always want more money.

Even with the higher fee, determined moves should be made to curb both the minor sport costs and the minor sport club status, seeking a more geographically compact conference arrangement, to cut travel costs and moving to Division I-AA status in football.

With the students' endorsement of the $30 fee, the University should more vigorously promote SUIC athletics--about which there was a lot of talk but with little action and the meager fund-raising efforts should be identified. The revenue should be sought from cable TV and radio broadcast rights. Surely there's a market in Southern Illinois for Saluki sports.

And when it comes to deciding time about dropping minor sports, the administrators should not automatically be categorized as "minor." Efforts to equalize funding and resources and to build women's athletics must continue. Women's athletics administrators promise a "Memorandum for the Record" from former Vice President George Mace that the athletics fee would be divided equally in fiscal 1982. That promise should be honored.

With this in mind, students should support the $30 fee in Wednesday's referendum. Fortbripping and convincing student support of the $30 fee would be a message to athletes, players, staff and administrators alike that they should pitch in, too.

Rape of nurse by three doctors is a tale of courage and outrage

A FEW moments before she was to be gagged-raped for several hours by three doctors Cara DiPietro, a nurse, was as much in a state of mental disclusion as emotional paralysis. "Right up until the last minute," she told a reporter, "I kept denying it. It's all me, god, my god, these were three doctors. They were professionals, educated people. I thought they had to come to their senses. They just couldn't possibly do something like this.

Although this crime of violence occurred 12 months ago, in Rockport, Mass., it continues as a breaking story. In August, the victim, a 25-year-old graduate nurse in a Massachusetts hospital, agreed to be interviewed in the Boston Globe in late September a clamor of justified outrage occurred when one of the doctors (all three were convicted) was free pending appeal. They are saying that rape is no worse a crime than murder, and even if it were, the victim should not have to speak about it.

The story is news worthy nationally its positive aspects--the willingness of the nurse to speak out, the courage of the cross-country team. He told me about Coach Hartog, the cross-country team coach and current athletic director. He told me that Hartog is pushing for his team members to support retaining the fee. He also told me that this was one of the rare times that Hartog payed any attention to the walk-out. --Kurt Lasen, Journalist.

Gratitude is owed Cara DiPietro. By her courage in discussing her ordeal, she has set a needed example for other women.

DiPietro's candor in the Boston Globe interview was welcomed coming from the road of silence still traveled by large numbers of rape victims. Not talking about the degradation--not to the media, for sure, but often not to police and not even to friends or family--is a recognized symptom of women suffering rape syndrome.

THAT SOMEONE is available to talk with represents one of the institutional gains of feminism in the 1970s. Ten years ago, few rape crisis centers existed. Currently there are 300, though few are of a high quality. In 1976, the National Center for the Prevention of Rape was formed within the National Institute of Mental Health. Though funded for only $2 million in 1981 and recommended for no funding this year by the Reagan administration, the agency has been invaluable in helping the country understand more about rape. In the past four years, 57 research grants were awarded.

Recipients of some of these, researchers at the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan, recently reported what is a new and major benefit to rape victims: the reform of rape laws. In Michigan, in the three years following the 1975 passage of the Criminal Sexual Conduct bill, prosecutors have seen "a significant increase" in the rate of convictions in rape cases.

THE NEW Michigan law has several innovations. Past sexual conduct of the victim is not allowed as evidence in the matter of consent and credibility; a raped prostitute is backed by the law as much as a raped man. Resistance by the victim is not needed as proof against the charge. Long cherished by defense attorneys, that the woman was asking for it by the way she was dressed or walked; that the rape victim, like the victims of other crimes, need not fight back the assailant to have a case against him.

One of the according to Pam Klein of the rape crisis center at Southern Illinois University, has passed similar laws. She credits police departments and prosecuting attorneys with increased enlightenment in their attitudes toward rape victims. It is still far from a complete situation. Few state legislatures have done anything to criminalize the rapists by husbands. In California, when a marital rape bill was debated, one state senator, a man, argued, "If you can't rape your wife, why can't you rape anyone else?"

That attitude, though seemingly based on nothing more than a locker room macho, reflects the cultural essence of rape: Weak men using sex violently to increase their power over women. The advances of the 1970s came down to that: a new and valuable awareness that the rape, is a sexual deviate, not only a sexual one, with sexual violence the most cowardly form of attack.

Letters

Athletic programs is beneficial?

Many of the recent letters concerning the athletics fee referenced the support of retaining the current fee for athletics. Keep the fee, but keep it at its present level, figuring why ruin a sports program in a sport that usually blows on an average yearly budget. The sport that is at issue is SUIC athletics.

"Does the sports program benefit me?" the answer I came up with was "No."

I am told that the sports program is an "athletic program" in the recognition that, in turn brings the school money. I was told that the sports program should continue, but, though, to be ranked third worst in the city in one poll and to be recognized as setting records in total consecutive losses in baseball. But the issue that concerns me most is why should I support the sports programs when my teams are shown through scholarships.

Ideas for minority commission

I am a foreign student in my first year at SIUC. I would welcome the news of the new Minority Student Council being set up.

You already have some very interesting activities planned. A few ideas for minority student commission:

- A play or two that uses minority students in their natural handicapped person as a handicapped person or a foreign student as a foreign student, given a wide play with their own access and so on.

- Charles Victor, Journalism.
Athletics should be just another department

I have always been taught to sing out in song whenever I believe something is wrong. Well, the athletics fee at SIU-C makes me want to sing out in song. It is wrong. Actually I believe many things are wrong, but one thing that we as students have is the chance to change the mandatory fee that is imposed on us to support athletics at this school.

This letter is not meant to demonize athletics in any way. It is, rather, to question a system which believes that it is worth supporting athletics, even if the students monies when it can show no legitimate benefit to the student as a whole. Athletics at SIU-C is not lucrative, and in all probability will never be. In fact, it would be argued that athletics at SIU-C is not viable. Is it not the duty of the school to benefit students? It is the duty of the school to benefit students in every way possible. Athletics can only be viewed as superfluous.

In the past, the athletics program has been run on a deficit, and in the present day, the deficit is cut by $30 million. The question is, is this a viable program? Is this a program that we should be supporting?

The Athletics program at SIU-C is a problem. It is not the only issue of concern to SIU-C students, but it is one that we cannot ignore. The Athletics program at SIU-C is not viable, and it is not worth the money that is being spent on it.
Psychedelic Furs are all talk, no action

By Julie Guadagno Staff Writer

The Psychedelic Furs' new album sometimes is all "Talk Talk Talk" and no action, action. action.

About half the songs on the album are full of action, and they almost make up for the lifelessness that characterizes the other half.

Vocalist Richard Butler sings in a monotone throughout most of the album. He doesn't change pitch, even when the emotions expressed by the lyrics change pitch. Sometimes his voice is lifeless, never rising above the music.

Butler's vocal style, however, goes well with the lyrical content. It's usually cynical, but somehow indifferent, like an innately-cynical writer who peruses and complains about all the bad in his life yet realizes that he can't escape that lifestyle and so resigns himself to it.

Take these lyrics as a case in point: "My love always loves songs all day. It sells toothpaste, razors, band aids and will "sell a song" for $10.

"Despite the fact that you sell songs and have love, he still len't it play all day.

Students to sing with Manilow

By Nancy Zehr Staff Writer

When Harry Manilow comes to Carbondale for his concert on Friday afternoon, a group of SIU students will join the recording star on the Carbondale stage.

The students will be part of Manilow's act when he performs his "One Voice" tour at the end of his concert. Manilow often gets local talent involved in his performances on college campuses, according to Debbie Burris, graduate assistant for Robert Kingsbury, director of choral activities.

One of Manilow's agents contacted Kingsbury about incorporating students into the performance. Kingsbury consulted with his choral students, and the students responded with interest, Burris said.

Burris said nearly 100 members of campus choral groups auditioned for 33 available positions for the performance.

Besides meeting Manilow, students will experience working with a professional and seeing the backstage operations of the act, Burris said. Kingsbury said the students will "learn the ropes" and get a professional experience with little rehearsal. The students plan to have three rehearsals prior to the concert date and one dress rehearsal with Manilow when he arrives in Carbondale.

Students normally prepare six to eight weeks for a performance. Kingsbury said Manilow's appearance is part of a 44-city tour.

Health News...

By Dr. Roy S. White

Doctor of Chiropractic

Chiropractic, Not Surgery Recommended For Injuries

The results of a national study show that back injuries cost Americans over $1 billion annually.

The survey showed that about one in five back injury accidents occur in the home. Roughly one-third of such injuries happen on the job. 22.6% in motor vehicles; and 18.7% are the result of miscellaneous causes.

Examination of the direct causes of back injuries shows that approximately one-third of them are related to muscle problems, the overuse of 17%, and the remaining causes are divided over a variety of accidents and activities. Work force is responsible for 22% of the type of injury.

One of the most important revelations in the survey is a report on a five-year study of back surgery cases which was undertaken by the State of Washington Department of Labor and Industries. The study revealed that only 20% of all back injury cases during the five-year period resulted in surgical failure. The remaining 80% were not effective.
‘Standing Tall’ a powerful disc showing creativity and depth

By Charles W. Sink
WSU/Discockey

The Crusaders are back, and they are pulling no punches. "Standing Tall", the band’s new release from the masters of jazz-fusion is probably their best work since "Street Life."

"Street Life" was not exactly their most creative effort ("Crusaders I" and "Free As... Joe Wind") were artistic masterpieces) but it sold more than anything they had produced previously.

"Standing Tall" may well surpass that sales mark. The music is powerful, beautiful, funky, soulful, and exciting. The musical genius of these three gentlemen, Nesbert "Star" Hooper, Wilton Felder and Joe Sample seems to reach its maximum.

There is something else besides these fanatic musicians that makes this album special. In the tradition of the Crusaders' previous albums ("Street Life" which featured vocalist Randy Crawford, and "Rhyme and Blue" featuring singer Bill Withers) this album has been selected to feature Joe Cocker going to work on.

Cocker fits this album perfectly. He is no stranger to an R&B setting, Cocker performs beautifully on "This Old World's Too Funky For Me" and the tune that will probably become a pop hit, "I'm So Glad I'm Standing Here Today." Joe Cocker fans, you'll better get this one.

The critic's choice on this LP would be a toss-up between the title cut and "I'm So Glad I'm Standing Here Today." Those songs have two completely different styles, but the Crusaders perform them to their maximum.

"Standing Tall" is an extremely powerful, driving number that could blow the unprepared listener away. The bass of Marcus Miller and the drums of "Stix" Hooper couple to make this a very exciting piece.

Standing Tall, The Crusaders, Reviewer's rating 9½ stars (4 stars tape).

"I'm So Glad I'm Standing Here Today" is a beautiful ballad that actually says something, contrary to many of the songs on Billboard's top 40 list today. Joe Cocker gives the listener a feeling of warmth and soul on that one.

"Sunshine In Your Eyes" is a good mid-tempo funk selection with which Marcus Miller has a field day.

"This Old World's Too Funky For Me" sounds like some of the album's earlier tunes but a few years ago. Billy Preston has a ball in the background on this.

The Crusaders' rendition of "Foot, It's Back To The Basics Of Love" (Warren Zevon, Texas) is rather amusing, not because of the fact that they play it, but how they interpret it. The style sounds like Wilie Nelson in a hoky-tonk bar. This tune is probably one of the few off-still of this album.

"The Longest Night" is a better tune because of its combinations of rock and jazz elements. Sample and Felder do some stretching out in a sensual solo during the course of this number. Finishing side two is a reprise of "I'm So Glad I'm Standing Here Today."

This is a fantastic album of creativity and depth. The masters of jazz-fusion seem to be going for the big hooks via the path of "Street Life," yet they retain the taste, quality and musicianship that many groups have forgotten along the way. We may hear a lot of this album in the future. Alonso courtesy of Plaza Records.

SPC VIDEO PRESENTS

BRUCE LEE'S FINAL FILM
ENTER THE DRAGON

4th Floor - Video Lounge
Monday - Thursday
7 & 9
$1.00

Ride the elevator to an Alternative Viewing Experience
Student Center
Dreaming delights both adults, children

By Cindy Clausen
Staff Writer

"What would happen if anything could happen, impossible could happen, every single day?"

According to Sandra Tellman's Califia Stage production, "Rainbows Are Forever," allowing the impossible to occur within one's imagination is part of life.

The problems arise when grown-ups who have forgotten their dreams try to stifle the dreams of children. "We've carefully woven 27 pieces of children's literature together to tell a story in which the children's dreams act as a dramatic tool to allow the audience at children who were delighted at being mistaken for bunny rabbits by performers who look much more grown-up than they are. But every adventure is eventually stifled by the mother, Beth Perry. Thus, in the beginning, the conflict appears to be child against adult with the children as the suspended protagonists. But as the play progresses, the conflict gradually changes to the children drawing from their imaginations a world that is in some way better than reality.

Perry, a doctoral student in speech communication, gave astartlingly realistic and funny performance as a mother whose patience has run out with children who play with gorillas and turn into monsters. The father, played by senior David Wendel, is a less visible and less convincing character.

Their help is in the mysterious person of the narrator, played by Mike Noldoski, senior in speech communications. Noldoski gives a tremendous performance as the voice of the dreamer within all of us. At his suggestion the children are, at different moments, encouraged to "forget about this mundane world and come take a flight with me, a flight of fantasy.""The world is a place for grown-ups and children. The problems arise when grown-ups who have forgotten their dreams try to stifle the dreams of children. "We've carefully woven 27 pieces of children's literature together to tell a story in which the children's dreams act as a dramatic tool to allow the audience to see a world that is in some way better than reality."

Perry, a doctoral student in speech communication, gave astartlingly realistic and funny performance as a mother whose patience has run out with children who play with gorillas and turn into monsters. The father, played by senior David Wendel, is a less visible and less convincing character.

His transformation at the end of the play seems much more important and therefore somewhat unbelievable as compared to Perry's. It is this theme of transformation or rebirth that does not strike a responsive chord with the adult audience until later in the play.

While a graduate student in speech communication, appeals to the adults with the charm of children's dreams and then captures them along with the adults in the play, with a message that says "We're not too old to dream..."

It is when Roachman tells the magic narrator that grows-ups never ask any important questions but are more interested in numbers and figures. White's message begins to ring "true."

Dennis' and Roachman's scene drawn from Frank Kaff's "A Monster for a Day" was probably the most delightful segment. Dennis may have given the most convincing performance of all the children because at age 13 his sense of pretension is more intact than was expected. Roachman's segments, drawn from Barbara Hays' story the "Gorillas Did it," was also exceptional.

Munsch, 26, had the biggest age gap to bridge and sometimes came across as overacting his portrayal of a child in order to compensate.

Frankel's portrayal of the "most wild thing of all" from Maurice Sendak's story "Where the Wild Things Are" was excellent.

White's production tells us that "dreaming very special dreams in part of reality might be aimed at children, but it isn't for the adults."

Review

A Workshop on Facts and Fallacies About Sugar

Wed. Oct 14 7 9 pm
Ohio Room, Student Center

Orange Cappuccino and a desk top for two...

The Patron Series of the Marion Cultural and Civic Center will open with a performance by Ernest Borgnine in "An Offer You Can't Refuse" on October 23.

The play satirizes legitimate business, the establishment, organized crime and the corruption in society that it fosters. Samuel Sales, who wrote the script, is also the author of "Give 'Em Hell, Harry."

Geologist to speak on plate tectonics

Jay Zimmerman Jr., associate professor of geology, will give the fall lecture in the Center for Science Lecture Series at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium.

Zimmerman will discuss plate tectonics, the relative motion of large, rigid pieces of the earth's outer shell, and the phenomenon's relation to earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Series to begin; Borgnine will act in satirical play

The Patron Series of the Marion Cultural and Civic Center will open with a performance by Ernest Borgnine in "An Offer You Can't Refuse" on October 23.

The play satirizes legitimate business, the establishment, organized crime and the corruption in society that it fosters. Samuel Sales, who wrote the script, is also the author of "Give 'Em Hell, Harry."

The lecture is free and open to the public.
Student jobs said plentiful

Radio-TV policies defended

By Julie Gusagodni
Staff Writer

The Radio and Television Department and Broadcasting Service have been divorced—administratively speaking—but that doesn't mean radio-TV students have been left out in the cold, says the department's new acting chairman.

Broadcasting students still have adequate opportunities on and around campus to get hands-on experience, says Sam Swan, who became acting chairman this fall.

Swan, 33, replaced K.S. Sitaram, who resigned Aug. 15 to return to full-time teaching.

Swan came to SIU last spring from the University of Minnesota, where he had taught for three years.

Separation of the academic department and the Broadcasting Service one year ago and some recent programming changes by WSIU-FM and WSIU-TV brought complaints from some students that opportunities for practical experience were being limited.

Swan says that isn't so.

Besides a number of paid and volunteer jobs at the two Broadcasting Service stations, opportunities exist at student-operated WIDB and at commercial radio and TV stations in the area, he said.

In fact, Swan said, WSIU-FM and WSIU-TV probably will rely on students more in the future because cuts in the federal budget will mean less funds from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

"The days of unlimited spending for public radio and television stations are over," Swan said. So WSIU-FM and WSIU-TV cannot do without the services of students, which are largely voluntary, he said.

This does not mean that every student has an inalienable right to say, "Here I am, Put me on the air," Swan said.

"Students who are interested and aggressive will still have adequate opportunities to perform in a variety of roles," he said. "The cream rises to the top, as is true of any industry."

This semester, 406 students are taking radio and television courses, he said. About 100 of these students are volunteers at WSIU-FM, and 10 are in paid positions. The staff also includes four professionals.

Swan said that besides WSIU-FM and WSIU-TV, students have many other opportunities to work in the radio and television field.

He said stations are trying to reach more people, more of the time, with up-to-the-minute news. This change in approach creates more on-camera and behind-camera experience for students, he said.

More opportunities exist at WILB, one of the few totally student-run radio stations around, he said. Students fill even key managerial and administrative roles.

He said that WISI, in Harrisburg, has pledged to provide internships to radio and television students. Student also have a chance to participate in the development of a new UHF television station in Marion, Swan said.

Also, he said the department tries to make students aware of new opportunities by making announcements in class, publishing notices and posting signs.

Swan also discussed his plans for the department, which are to enhance its teaching, research and service commitments. See RADIO-TV Page 10

People join TI for love of technology. They stay for a lot of reasons.

One of those reasons is the Semiconductor Group, the world's leading supplier of semiconductor components and materials. We will be on campus to talk with individuals interested in careers in a variety of areas which includes:

- Chemicals
- Microelectronics
- Electrical Engineering
- Computer Science
- Physics
- Materials Science

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
Tuesday, October 13 and Wednesday, October 14

Stop by and visit with our recruiters on campus. You'll see why there's no place like TI for pioneering new technology.

Texas Instruments Incorporated
An equal opportunity employer M/F

LADIES \ FINE \ PLAY \ STEREO \ FREE

PARLOUR SPECIAL
Bacardi Rum
75¢

Try our Delicious Lunch Specials
Video Games
Open 10 AM

Happy Hour 11-6
WHISKEY SOUR
70¢

EnJOy Carbondale's Finest Speedrails &
Fast, Courteous Service

For Happy Hour, Come On Down From 2:30 to 6:30
For Our Rock 'N Roll D.J. Show

Prizes To Be Given Away
Remember: Gatsby's Photo & Billiards Contest!

MAGIC
With The Finest Female Vocalist
In Southern Illinois

(9pm - 1am) No Cover
Billiards Parlor

Daily Egyptian, October 12, 1981, Page 9
WINONA, Minn. (AP) — The story of a former Franciscan nun living in a car in a downtown Winona junkyard has triggered telegrams, letters, hundreds of dollars in contributions and offers to make her life the subject of a movie.

One week after the story of Lillian Krul, 53, the former Sister Elzeara, hit national headlines, 50 telephone calls and 100 letters have arrived in this southeastern Minnesota city, along with about 25 checks totaling several hundred dollars.

One letter containing a $52 check was addressed to "The Junkyard Nun" in Winona. The writer said that it would attract robbers, prompted the nun to open a bank account, although she says she'll give most of it away "just one for a lot of money," she said. "I'll give it to the pope."

The former Sister Elzeara has been living in a Plymouth Duster surrounded by makeshift plywood and aluminum walls since March 1966, when she was evicted from the convent here on grounds of insubordination.

She spends her days rummaging through garbage cans and gravel in search of saleable scraps. She collects cans and other scrap metal that can be turned in to a recycler for cash.

And she continues her battle to be reinstated in the order of the Sisters of St. Francis.

A traditionalist, the former nun was outspoken in her opposition to the reforms of Vatican II. Church officials say she was the first Franciscan nun ever dismissed in the order against her will.

The nun argues that procedures leading to her dismissal were not handled according to canon law and the dismissal was invalid. Church leaders say she has exhausted all avenues of appeal right up to the Vatican.

Mary Swan now has a pair of district court cases, set for hearing later this fall, in which she accuses regional church officials of obstruction of justice and defamation of character.

Some of those responding to her story, particularly those from the Winona area, were critical of her opposition to the church and feel the publicity was unwarranted. But many offered help.

An independent filmmaker based in Los Angeles asked for an exclusive six-month film option on the story. A filmmaker, also from California, indicated interest in bidding for the film rights.

"There is no way she is going to spend the winter in that junkyard," said a Chicago woman who offered the former nun a home.

RADIO-TV from Page 9

ponents through several changes.

He said he is interested in increasing the size of production positions.

For example, he would like to provide students with

"... to a recycler for cash."

He said he is interested in providing

For the changes to take place, more funds are needed, he said, and the department is seeking external funding from alumni. Some radio and television stations may donate unused equipment, he said.

Swan said he also wants to expand the service component of the department. The department can reach new and different audiences with educational programs of a non-traditional style, like continuing education seminars for broadc

Swan has been in the broadcasting field for about 15 years. Before his assistant professorship at the University of Minnesota, he taught for six years at the University of Missouri.

Besides teaching, Swan has had production, performance and management roles at radio and television stations in Cape Girardeau, Kansas City and Minneapolis.

In 1970 and 1971, he was involved in a radio development project in Sri Lanka. The project was an attempt to take educational information to rural areas by radio, he said.

HOMECOMING
KING AND QUEEN
PRELIMINARY
ELECTIONS for Off-Campus Students.

Voting will be Wednesday, Oct. 14
9-11 a.m., 5-9 a.m., South
Solicitation Area,
1st floor, Student Center

Join Our Christmas Club Now!
Guaranteed savings available on up to 25 gifts! 5% savings allow you to get those gifts you need at a fraction of their price. Try our new Club; you'll like it!

Start your Christmas Club today at SjU EMPLOYEES CREDIT UNION 1217 W. Main St. Carbondale, IL 62901

Everyone needs a little help when it comes to meeting those holiday expenses, and your SjU Employees Credit Union has just the help you need with our Christmas Club. You can make automatic payments to the Club through payroll deduction, or the credit union has convenient counter books available. Join our Christmas Club and when next Christmas rolls around, you'll receive a check for your savings plus our 5.75% annual dividend paid on completion of the club.

As a special Christmas gift for you, your Credit Union is offering $10 Club members a choice of gifts which include an 8 inch glass picture, a snow globe, or an ornamental rose. Our $25 and $50 Club members will receive a "I Love You Christmas".

Why put it off any longer? Start your Christmas Club now. Just fill out the attached coupon and start saving today! Be all ready for Happy Holidays before the night before Christmas!

Page 10, Daily Egyptian, October 13, 1981
Depression treatment may be found

CHICAGO — Scientists may be on the verge of developing treatment for the nation’s most prevalent mental illness, a form of depression that strikes one of every 10 Americans, said a researcher at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Herbert M. Mezler, director of the University of Chicago’s Laboratory of Biological Psychiatry, said scientists have uncovered what they believe is a chemical marker, located in cells in the blood, for clinical depression.

Mezler is head of an experimental program at the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute in which researchers are developing a blood test that may enable doctors to accurately diagnose clinical depression and predict which people are most likely to develop it.

“There is strong evidence that the marker is reliable, which would give us a relatively simple chemical means to diagnose certain serious depressive illnesses that have biological causes,” Mezler said.

“It is important to be able to predict depression because we might be able to develop treatment programs to prevent it,” Mezler said.

Clinical depression is marked by dramatic changes in mood and behavior with suicidal tendencies. It differs from psychological depression, which is a result of setbacks, losses, insults, humiliation or any other thing that makes a person feel bad.

That depression caused by lift a adversaries usually lifts in a few days, clinical depression may last a lot time.

HANGAR

Tuesday Is Old Folk’s Boogie

Featuring

Gus Pappelis Jazz Fusion

Old Folk’s Drink Specials

$2 for the price of 1 Drink Cards Issued At Door With Proof of Old Age

Age 21-24: 1 Card
Age 25-29 Cards
Age 30-39: 3 Cards

NO COVER

Hanger Hotline: 545-1233

VOTE!

IN THE ATHLETICS FEE REFERENDUM

WEDNESDAY OCT. 14

The students of SIU need your individual vote. This referendum can be a significant factor in administrative decision-making, but only if a high percentage of students vote. The more votes cast, the more weight this referendum will carry, so get out and vote on Wednesday. Let’s tell them what we think!

******************************************************************************

TEXT OF THE 1991 ATHLETICS FEE REFERENDUM

In December of 1979, the SIU Board of Trustees increased the Athletic Fee from $2.00 to $3.00 per semester. At that time, both USO and GSC began promoting the idea of a student referendum on the fee to obtain student input. This referendum is your opportunity to influence the future of intercollegiate athletics at SIU. President Smit has stated that the results of the referendum will play a significant role in his decision-making with respect to athletics.

The $30.00 fee represents the largest single source of funding for intercollegiate athletics, supplying roughly 45% of the current $2.6 million intercollegiate athletics budget through the Athletics Fee. The $2.00 fee level is necessary to maintain the scope and quality of the program at current levels. Returning to a fee of $2.00 would result in a significant cutback of the total athletics budget to $2.2 million level. The $10.00 difference between the two fees represents a $400,000 difference in the fee-supported portion of the intercollegiate athletics budget: $800,000 versus $1,200,000.

This is the question you are being asked to answer: for the immediate future, should SIUC attempt to maintain its intercollegiate athletics program at current levels, or should SIUC reduce the scope of its intercollegiate athletics program?

BALLOT

Darken the appropriate circle.

I support the CURRENT $30.00 student Athletic Fee and maintenance of the intercollegiate athletics program at its present scope and quality; the program now includes 22 intercollegiate sports, of which 12 are men’s (football, cross-country, water polo, basketball, tennis, golf, swimming and diving, wrestling, indoor track, gymnastics, baseball, and track and field) and ten are women’s (volleyball, cross-country, field hockey, basketball, swimming and diving, gymnastics, softball, tennis, golf and track and field).

I support the FORMER $20.00 student Athletic Fee level. Returning to a $20.00 fee will result in a cut of approximately $200,000.00 in the Women’s Intercollegiate Athletics Program and a cut of approximately $200,000.00 in the Men’s Intercollegiate Athletics Program. The consequences of such a cut in funding would be the elimination of a major men’s sport such as football or a number of minor men’s sports; such reduction in funding would also eliminate a number of women’s sports.

Sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Organization, the Graduate Student Council, and the Office of Student Affairs

POLLING PLACES

Student Center
Foner Hall
Douglas Building (Home Ec)
Recreation Center

Unique Library
Low School

Advertisement paid for by Student Affairs
Rock Island ‘dope king’ gets street justice

By Wayne Slater
Associated Press Writer

ROCK ISLAND (AP) — Death came in a big white Lincoln to Jimmy Six, king of the dope trade.

It was 7 a.m. He hadn’t even been asleep at all. He’d had a fistful of finger rings.

But he had been arrested on a technicality, loophole or whatever," said Rock Island police Sgt. Larry Lawrence. "It never changed the fact that he was a dealer. Everybody knew he was, the people on the street, the police department.

By 1966, his arrest record had grown, aggravated robbery, possession of deadly weapons, gambling, and several drug arrests, the last earning him a five-year prison sentence. He was paroled in 1966.

Jimmy Six was convicted only once after that, in 1971 when an undercover agent bought $100 worth of heroin. Sentenced to 15 to 30 years, he was out in less than three years.

"I remember the time he came for booking," Lawrence said. "He told me, ‘I’ll be out soon, and he was.’

A streetwise ex-junkie identified as Marie for the purposes of this story says, ‘Six was the biggest heroin dealer in the Quad Cities, but he was smart. He only sold to certain people. You had to have a bill ($100 or more), you had to call him."

Six kept his heroin in brightly colored children’s balloons he bought at a dime store. He called them his Easter eggs and he would hide them under a mattress and in shallow holes in the lawn.

He apparently never had a problem with the system except when he ran low. He ran a landscape crew and moved some earth and buried hundreds of thousands of dollars in heroin deep underground.

His apartment was built of buff-colored brick on the east side of Main Street, in a white neighborhood of neat gardens and well-maintained homes. He kept a colonial lamp by the door burning when he was doing business.

He was six-feet tall, 200 pounds, with a broad nose, a barred chin and a slick black jetty of hair combed back on the side. In his closets he kept a rainbow of suits and broad-striped ties, and against a wall he arranged a flashy, clashing line of boots and shoes.

Mostly, though, he loved to dress in white: a white suit, white tie, white Panama and snow patent leather boots.

"He saw himself as a big, good-looking businessman," Marie said.

Police estimate Jimmy Six made between $450,000 and $1 million a year. Once, after being fined $1,000 a day, police pulled out a thick roll of bills and paid the fine on the spot, a policeman said.

He built his heroin empire as a consummate businessman keeping his regulars informed of new shipments, making sure they were supplied if he went out of town, occasionally reclaiming a busted junkie struggling to quit by offering a free sample.

"He wanted the junkies to know he was over them, that he had everything they needed in life," said Lawrence. "He made people go through hell, he made people cry."

He never touched the stuff. He bragged he had tested his heroin boys to make sure it was good enough for Jimmy Six.

The morning the hit men came, the sky was clear and gray and the Rock River glittered like diamonds.

It was always the morning because he said it was so
20-cent ‘C’ stamps to go on sale Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Postal Service is putting 3.5 million 20-cent stamps on sale Tuesday; although first-class rates don’t go up to that level until Nov. 1.

In an announcement Monday, a Postal Service official contended customers buy stamps before ever knowing the rates.

"be~ause"

"robe. soaked with blood."

"SWUlgIng hiS .38," I told friends, "and died on the haffcooy"

Faculty

"DOPE"

"Retteationa"

DOPE Retteationa

"DatnStudlo Section"

nw

The Six was

of art for professional art dealers, many of whom are expected to be present at the sale. The group presented a $99.99

Campus Briefs

The Society for Creative Anarchism, an organization for people interested in learning about and re-creating the Middle Ages, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Student Center Auditorium. Proceeds will go to the United Way campaign.

The Mobilization of Volunteer Effort and SPC are co-sponsoring the film “The Twelve Chairs” at 7 and 9 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Auditorium. Information is available by contacting the MOVE office at 485-5714.

The Carbondale League of Women Voters topic for October will be "The U.S. Senate Revenues." The luncheon will be at 11:30 a.m. Monday at Epiphany Lutheran Church, 1511 W. Chautauqua. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church, 118 S. University.

-kid="""

"c"

"DOPE"

"Retteationa"

DOPE Retteationa

The American Association of University Women will host a talk, "Buying What You Like," by Judy and Richard Carter of Becker, professional art dealers, at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Faculty Club on the corner of Elizabeth and Main streets. They will discuss the purchase of art for pleasure and investment. A business meeting will precede the talk at 7 p.m. The group invites members and interested persons to attend.

Decompression Session II, sponsored by the Office of Intramural-Club Sports, will begin Monday at the Recreation Center. Section I will be held from 6 to 7 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays; Section II from 6 to 7 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and Section III from 7 to 8 p.m. on Wednesdays. Registration begins Tuesday at the SRC Information Desk. Participants must be eligible SRC users or pay a $2 daily guest fee plus a $5 deposit.

DOPE KING from Page 12

also said that he will seek re-election to the post of regional superintendent of schools for Jackson and Perry counties.

Stricklin, 47, has held the position since 1978. He was appointed assistant regional superintendent of schools for Jackson County in 1970.

The regional superintendent of schools oversees the elementary and secondary education of about 13,500 children in the two counties and supervises school services and safety.

Stricklin, a native of Southern Illinois, received his bachelor’s degree in education from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale.

Stricklin said his experience in education dates to 1968. He has been a teacher, athletics coach and principal.

Kornel Deli

University Mall-Carbondale

presents

Tuesday Special

All-You-Can-Eat Spaghetti

w/3 beer or soda refills

$2.99

or

All-You-Can-Eat Spaghetti

w/Salad Bar and 3 drink refills

$3.99

Both meals include Special meat sauce and Garlic bread.

SATURDAY OCTOBER 17th
8:00pm

STUDENT CENTER

BALLROOM D

STUDENTS 130 PUBLIC

350

TICKETS ON SALE AT
STUDENT CENTER TICKET OFFICE

Mainly Mince

Kate Bentley and Jacqueline Wildau

Sponsored by Student Center and SPC

Kate Bentley and Jackie Wildau met while performing with the Pook-Moie Theatre Company in 1978. Jackie is a graduate of a course in Movement and Theatre, Paris. She has owned the past few years in New York City as a freelance writer and clown. Kate performed, taught, and toured for seven years as the lead female of the Paris Mode Theatre. In 1979 Kate and Jackie pooled loose to produce in New York the "Pattie Mode Show." As Mandy Mode, or as the country's few female male dancers, they are now touring with a 15-woman show. "These men move, wag, sing and dance in harmony to entertain. From dowager dumpy to a younger in a fastswivel at a dinner party for the West, Bentley and Wildau capture the themes of today.

Mainly Mince

Kate Bentley and Jacqueline Wildau

Sponsored by Student Center and SPC

Kate Bentley has been one of the most gifted names on the stage for the most graceful but infinitely skilled.

"Elise Nunez, Boston Herald American"
Pittel shows saxophone can shine alone

By Laurie Landgraf
News Editor

Some people think a saxophone's like a wristwatch -- it's not much good unless it's attached to a band.

But, the first concerts to show that the saxophone is at home in the spotlight playing a variety of classical and jazz pieces, and that he can have won over the audience after all.

Shrocky Auditorium

The New Orleans Trio, with Pittel on soprano, saxophone and alto saxophones, James Shannon on contrabass and Posell on celesta, conducted the music through a vast array of music ranging from classical Bach to whimsical top.

With the first selection, "Concerto San Marco" by Telemann, the saxophone scene for the evening, keeping perfect control of his tone and achingly grace into what could have leaped into a mutating piece.

But the saxophonist's talent was evident in the world premiere of "Sonata for Saxophone and Piano" by Maury. Pittel played the saxophone solo, and Shannon and Posell on celesta, accompanied the music as it wound through the scenic landscape.

"Son Rosmaria" by Fritz Kallen, a delightful number which frantically along sometimes pausing to hang on a single, sustained note before bursting into a new idea. The history lesson continued with a Duke Ellington medley which displayed the artist's skill on the tenor saxophone, the soprano and the alto saxophone. The real jazz musical that proved to be the crowd-pleaser of the evening.

That was "Build My Set," and "Oldie of Oldies," both by Jimmy Dorsey, recalling the swagger of the 40s big band era, and Pittel's version, complete with warbling acrobatics on the saxophone's keys, left him shaking the change out of his fingers.

Romanticism was almost certainly a theme of the evening, with the eloquent rendition of Rachmaninoff's "Vocalise," a heart-wrenching expression of melancholy. Pittel acted the part of an expert showman throughout, delivering jokes with good humor and from beneath a brash mustache. He seemed totally relaxed and in control, at one point cocking his head to one side to listen to a distant train whistle and proclaiming, "It's almost in the right key."

The other members of the ensemble were also given a chance to display their talents. Bitterman, a faculty member at the University of Texas at Austin, gave the piano keyboard a workout with two solo etudes of considerable technical difficulty by Rachmaninoff and Scriabin.

Posella, a student at the same university, provided a firm, smooth cello accompaniment. Although some of the jassier pieces would have been better served by the在一起 rhythm of a string bass. The 19-year-old's melodic playing was often overshadowed, and he was at times reduced to parroting the piano's part. He broke out of this role in his solo, "Hungarian Rhapsody," which he executed with dynamic style.

Although the concert was billed as a Student Dinner Concert, the student contingent seemed underrepresented, with most of the listeners in the over-50 age group. Which may explain why, although serious music fans may have thought the program a little frothy and a younger crowd may have found it dull, the fox-trotters who were there seemed to enjoy it immensely.

'Political reasons' force resignation of board member

A Republican member of the Jackson County Board has announced his resignation to take a position as a nursing home director.

Ray Blackwell, representative from the Third District will resign effective on Wednesday, leaving the Flora Care Center, on Nov. 1, to become a spokesperson at the center.

Blackwell, 56, has served on the board since 1985, as the director of the Jackson County Nursing Home for five years until 1987. After that time, political reasons forced his resignation.

"Two years I've been working for this in area, and there are just not that many nursing home in this area. I just didn't want to change my profession," he said.

The board must appoint someone to fill her seat within 30 days.

Scholarship is available to juniors

Applications for the Truman Scholarship Program, which pays up to $10,000 per year for four years, can be picked up in the Student Honors Program office, Room 201, Woody Hall.

To be eligible, a student must be a college junior planning to attend graduate school and eventually work in public service, most likely in government, according to George Wright, chairman of the Missouri Scholarship Board.

"We are seeking people with opportunities. The Truman Scholarship Program is not designed to be a graduate assistantship or a fellowship. It is designed to support future leaders in public service," Wright said.

The deadline for applications is April 1. A number of stages are required in the application procedure, which is somewhat lengthy.

Scholarships are funded by the $50 million John S. Truman Memorial Scholarship Trust Fund.

Campus Briefs

The Environmental Workshops at Touch of Nature are sponsoring a hike in Little Black National Preserve on Saturday. The interpretation will be on the flora, fauna and subjects of interest. Transportation is provided. Advance registration is required. Information is available by calling 529-4161, extension 40.

Jerome R. Lorenz, director of SIU-C's Rehabilitation Institute, has been awarded the 1985 Achievement Award in Research Rehabilitation Award by the National Rehabilitation Association. The award honors major contributions to the field of rehabilitation administration. The association cited Lorenz's work as a founder and editor of the "Journal of Rehabilitation Administration" and his research in the field.

Catbyst's is sponsoring a slide contest, with an entry deadline of Dec. 15. Prizes of $100 will be awarded to the five top entries. Rules are that slides of Turnbull must be in a 2 x 2 format, no address and must be submitted in an envelope, also with the contestant's name and address. Catbyst's cannot return entries. Judging will take place on Dec. 30 between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. and contestants must be present to win.

Nancy L. Quisenberry, associate dean of the College of Education, has been named to the Illinois State Teacher Certification Board. The board advises the Illinois Board of Education and Superintendent of Education on teacher education and certification of teachers in Illinois. She will serve on the board until 1984.

Fair's publicity head resigns

A vice president in charge of public relations for the Du Quoin State Fair, since 1977 has announced his resignation.

Curt Greene, a 1971 graduate journalism from SIU-C, said he accepted a position as general manager of Paters tolls Sales Co. in Lexington, Ky. The company sells about $7 million worth of standardized horses yearly.

"I am a huge fan of horses, and would like to be closer to the castle. I will also be general manager of the horse racing for the Red Mile around," Greene said. He will remain an advisor to the groundwork for the World Trotting Derby until someone can be found to take his place.
Turbine’s puzzle

Across

1. Journey
2. South
3. Wet
4. Stool
5. Spade
6. Eager
7. Smear
8. Clear
9. Grid
10. Gift
11. Medicated
12. Gift
13. "Turbine’s"
14. "Turbine’s"
15. "Turbine’s"
16. "Turbine’s"
17. "Turbine’s"
18. "Turbine’s"
19. "Turbine’s"
20. "Turbine’s"
21. "Turbine’s"
22. "Turbine’s"
23. "Turbine’s"
24. "Turbine’s"
25. "Turbine’s"
26. "Turbine’s"
27. "Turbine’s"
28. "Turbine’s"
29. "Turbine’s"
30. "Turbine’s"
31. "Turbine’s"
32. "Turbine’s"
33. "Turbine’s"
34. "Turbine’s"
35. "Turbine’s"
36. "Turbine’s"
37. "Turbine’s"
38. "Turbine’s"
39. "Turbine’s"
40. "Turbine’s"
41. "Turbine’s"
42. "Turbine’s"
43. "Turbine’s"
44. "Turbine’s"
45. "Turbine’s"
46. "Turbine’s"
47. "Turbine’s"
48. "Turbine’s"
49. "Turbine’s"
50. "Turbine’s"
51. "Turbine’s"
52. "Turbine’s"
53. "Turbine’s"
54. "Turbine’s"
55. "Turbine’s"
56. "Turbine’s"
57. "Turbine’s"
58. "Turbine’s"
59. "Turbine’s"
60. "Turbine’s"

Down

1. Work
2. "Turbine’s"
3. "Turbine’s"
4. "Turbine’s"
5. "Turbine’s"
6. "Turbine’s"
7. "Turbine’s"
8. "Turbine’s"
9. "Turbine’s"
10. "Turbine’s"
11. "Turbine’s"
12. "Turbine’s"
13. "Turbine’s"
14. "Turbine’s"
15. "Turbine’s"
16. "Turbine’s"
17. "Turbine’s"
18. "Turbine’s"
19. "Turbine’s"
20. "Turbine’s"
21. "Turbine’s"
22. "Turbine’s"
23. "Turbine’s"
24. "Turbine’s"
25. "Turbine’s"
26. "Turbine’s"
27. "Turbine’s"
28. "Turbine’s"
29. "Turbine’s"
30. "Turbine’s"
31. "Turbine’s"
32. "Turbine’s"
33. "Turbine’s"
34. "Turbine’s"
35. "Turbine’s"
36. "Turbine’s"
37. "Turbine’s"
38. "Turbine’s"
39. "Turbine’s"
40. "Turbine’s"
41. "Turbine’s"
42. "Turbine’s"
43. "Turbine’s"
44. "Turbine’s"
45. "Turbine’s"
46. "Turbine’s"
47. "Turbine’s"
48. "Turbine’s"
49. "Turbine’s"
50. "Turbine’s"
51. "Turbine’s"
52. "Turbine’s"
53. "Turbine’s"
54. "Turbine’s"
55. "Turbine’s"
56. "Turbine’s"
57. "Turbine’s"
58. "Turbine’s"
59. "Turbine’s"
60. "Turbine’s"

Monday’s Puzzle Solved

Across

1. Journey
2. South
3. Wet
4. Stool
5. Spade
6. Eager
7. Smear
8. Clear
9. Grid
10. Gift
11. Medicated
12. Gift
13. "Turbine’s"
14. "Turbine’s"
15. "Turbine’s"
16. "Turbine’s"
17. "Turbine’s"
18. "Turbine’s"
19. "Turbine’s"
20. "Turbine’s"
21. "Turbine’s"
22. "Turbine’s"
23. "Turbine’s"
24. "Turbine’s"
25. "Turbine’s"
26. "Turbine’s"
27. "Turbine’s"
28. "Turbine’s"
29. "Turbine’s"
30. "Turbine’s"
31. "Turbine’s"
32. "Turbine’s"
33. "Turbine’s"
34. "Turbine’s"
35. "Turbine’s"
36. "Turbine’s"
37. "Turbine’s"
38. "Turbine’s"
39. "Turbine’s"
40. "Turbine’s"
41. "Turbine’s"
42. "Turbine’s"
43. "Turbine’s"
44. "Turbine’s"
45. "Turbine’s"
46. "Turbine’s"
47. "Turbine’s"
48. "Turbine’s"
49. "Turbine’s"
50. "Turbine’s"
51. "Turbine’s"
52. "Turbine’s"
53. "Turbine’s"
54. "Turbine’s"
55. "Turbine’s"
56. "Turbine’s"
57. "Turbine’s"
58. "Turbine’s"
59. "Turbine’s"
60. "Turbine’s"

Down

1. Work
2. "Turbine’s"
3. "Turbine’s"
4. "Turbine’s"
5. "Turbine’s"
6. "Turbine’s"
7. "Turbine’s"
8. "Turbine’s"
9. "Turbine’s"
10. "Turbine’s"
11. "Turbine’s"
12. "Turbine’s"
13. "Turbine’s"
14. "Turbine’s"
15. "Turbine’s"
16. "Turbine’s"
17. "Turbine’s"
18. "Turbine’s"
19. "Turbine’s"
20. "Turbine’s"
21. "Turbine’s"
22. "Turbine’s"
23. "Turbine’s"
24. "Turbine’s"
25. "Turbine’s"
26. "Turbine’s"
27. "Turbine’s"
28. "Turbine’s"
29. "Turbine’s"
30. "Turbine’s"
31. "Turbine’s"
32. "Turbine’s"
33. "Turbine’s"
34. "Turbine’s"
35. "Turbine’s"
36. "Turbine’s"
37. "Turbine’s"
38. "Turbine’s"
39. "Turbine’s"
40. "Turbine’s"
41. "Turbine’s"
42. "Turbine’s"
43. "Turbine’s"
44. "Turbine’s"
45. "Turbine’s"
46. "Turbine’s"
47. "Turbine’s"
48. "Turbine’s"
49. "Turbine’s"
50. "Turbine’s"
51. "Turbine’s"
52. "Turbine’s"
53. "Turbine’s"
54. "Turbine’s"
55. "Turbine’s"
56. "Turbine’s"
57. "Turbine’s"
58. "Turbine’s"
59. "Turbine’s"
60. "Turbine’s"

Beg your pardon

In Friday’s Daily Egyptian, in a Page 1 story on the proposed city energy plan, the Southern Counties Action Movement was incorrectly identified as the Southern Counties Action Committee. Also, the survey of SCAM members’ reactions to the proposed energy plans was taken in September, not October as reported in the story.

SPC Consort presents

King Crimson Discipline

"Progressive Rock"
November 11-8pm
Shryock Auditorium

Tickets on sale
Oct. 16 - 7:00am
Student Center Box Office
Tickets - $10.00

Strictly no cameras, flash units or tape recorders

Gatsby’s Billiards Presents
It’s Annual “Halloween Shootout”
(A Co-ed 8-ball Tournament...Open To All...“Free” Entry...Partners Decided By Luck of the Draw)
Hosted By Billiard Professional
Tex Gieseke
Over $250.00 Worth of Cash & Prizes
Sat. Oct 17th, 1981
Register At Gatsby’s
608 S. Illinois
Deadline Oct. 15, 1981

SPC Consort presents

King Crimson Discipline

Adrian Belew
Robert Fripp
Tony Levin
Bill Bruford

Tickets on sale
Oct. 16 - 7:00am
Student Center Box Office
Tickets - $10.00

Strictly no cameras, flash units or tape recorders
Coal exports rely on feasibility of economics, experts testify

By Jennifer Polk
Staff Writer

The coal industry in Southern Illinois has a deal on transport and legislative problems before exportation of its coal becomes economically feasible, witnesses told the Illinois Federal-State Coordinating Task Force on Energy. Speaking at a public hearing Thursday at the Student Center, witnesses from government and the coal and transportation industries testified in favor of greater use of Illinois coal. It was the third and final public hearing on the subject of Illinois coal to be held this year.

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, D-District 14, told the committee that the United States has to move away from dependence on Arab oil and that the recent assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat makes the situation more critical. "The Arab oil fields are not open and susceptible to sabotage," he said. "We can't have a policy based on the assumption that nothing will happen."

Simon said there is an increased need for coal research, and coal should be looked upon as more than a utility. He also criticized the Reagan administration's policy of increasing money for nuclear research while at the same time decreasing money for coal research. He said it was "irrational" that Illinois has to buy low-sulfur coal from the western United States while 5,000 Illinois coal miners are out of work.

John W. Castle, director of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, told the task force that Illinois coal isn't exported to foreign markets because the cost isn't competitive. "The cost of transportation alone, nearly 30 percent, leaves no margin for profit," he said. Federal and state laws must be changed, he said, in order to make Illinois coal more economical for exportation.

Lyle V.A. Sendlein, director of the Coal Extraction and Utilization Center at SIU-C, said even though the state has the third largest coal reserve in the nation and the single largest reserve of bituminous coal, no coal from Illinois has been exported since 1975.

"One of the reasons is the price of Illinois coal," he said. The delivered price of coal is about $8 to $12 a ton more than Australian coal.

Sendlein said representatives of the Illinois coal industry must change their approach with foreign buyers because contracts that are shorter in duration for fewer tons of coal. He said the high sulfur content of Illinois coal puts some restrictions on overseas use.

"Illinois coal, however, is not without advantages for exportation," Sendlein said. Illinois mines are located near the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, the Great Lakes and extensive railroad facilities. And despite its high sulfur content, Illinois coal is excellent for use in cement industries, he said.

Not a white tie was in sight in the crowd at weekend operas

By Joe Walter
Entertainment Editor

The Marjorie Lawrence Opera Company, located in the city of "Solomon and Balas," performed their "Operatic Scenes of Comedy, Drama and Musical Comedy" under the direction of "Operatic Scene Director" and "Organist" Bruce Teeter, that one shouldn't have to be rich to see an opera.

Or even formally dressed.

There was not a tail, white tie or opera ball dress to be found Sunday at Shriver Auditorium, just a nicely, but comfortably, dressed crowd present for the first performance of the 1981-82 opera season at SIU-C.

The voices, costumes, dancing and singing were for the most part impressive, especially in Randal Thompson's "The Butterfly That Stamped." The story by Rodway Roope was taken place in the garden of King Solomon. Solomon, played by Eric McCuskey, and Solomon, played by Eric McCuskey, is plagued by nagging wives. He also notices a spat between two butterflies (John Kazee and Susan Clark-Joyce) and makes the timely and necessary comment that the great palace is going to look just as it should with the stamp of a foot.

In actuality, Solomon, with a turn of his ring, summons the magical Dijinnas, played by Rodolfo Conrad, Richard Johnson and John Kazee, who make the palace vibrate. The voices, costumes, dancing and singing were for the most part impressive, especially in Randal Thompson's "The Butterfly That Stamped." The story by Rodway Roope was taken place in the garden of King Solomon. Solomon, played by Eric McCuskey, and Solomon, played by Eric McCuskey, is plagued by nagging wives. He also notices a spat between two butterflies (John Kazee and Susan Clark-Joyce) and makes the timely and necessary comment that the great palace is going to look just as it should with the stamp of a foot.

The voices, costumes, dancing and singing were for the most part impressive, especially in Randal Thompson's "The Butterfly That Stamped." The story by Rodway Roope was taken place in the garden of King Solomon. Solomon, played by Eric McCuskey, and Solomon, played by Eric McCuskey, is plagued by nagging wives. He also notices a spat between two butterflies (John Kazee and Susan Clark-Joyce) and makes the timely and necessary comment that the great palace is going to look just as it should with the stamp of a foot.

"The voices of the characters," one of the audience members said, "are not at all like those you would hear in a real opera, but they are quite good."

"The voices of the characters," one of the audience members said, "are not at all like those you would hear in a real opera, but they are quite good."

But, not that noticeably. Julie Greene's beautiful voice and facial expressions comprised a strong performance. Kazee's rich tenor started out sounding a little nasal but got better as the show went on. His comical, boyish expressions were interesting to watch. Clark-Joyce was convincing in a good performance as the English Sparrow of the butterfly. The opera scenes included "Hansel and Gretel," "The Barber of Seville," "Die Fledermaus," "The Magic Flute" and "Falstaff." The best was "The Barber of Seville," where Dr. Bartolo asks his servants, Svegliato and Gioventi, if Figaro the barber is in his house, and Svegliato answers "no" too much to the point that Bartolo, the least memorable scene was "Hansel and Gretel." Svegliato and Gioventi seem to have been tied down by the role of the main characters. Most of the scenes, however, were well worth seeing. Hopefully, some of the scenes of "The Barber of Seville" will be presented as part of a full-length opera production.
Texas tops college football poll

by The Associated Press

For the fourth time this season, college football has a new No. 1 team. The Texas Longhorns toppled Southern California, the top team for the past two weeks, to seventh place following a 13-10 victory over Arizona.

Behind Texas and Penn State are Pitt and North Carolina. The top four teams are all undefeated.

Texas received 35 first-place votes and 1,274 points in the Associated Press Football Poll Monday from a nationwide panel of 60 sports writers and sportscasters. The Longhorns trounced Oklahoma 34-14 on Sept. 25, 1970, two weeks after Oklahoma had been in the rankings for 14 consecutive weeks during the regular season, two short of Michigan's mark of 14, which ended on Sept. 23, 1970.

Texas, third a week ago, vacated over Penn State, which held onto the runner-up spot following a 32-7 rout of Boston College. The Nittany Lions received first-place votes and 1,302 points.

Pitt, a 17-9 winner over West Virginia, moved up from fourth to third with three first-place votes and 611 points. The other four first-place ballots went to North Carolina. The Tar Heels, fifth last week, won a close one over Virginia Tech with 889 points by whipping Wake Forest 68-10 and 869 points by blanking Michigan State 33-26.

Michigan, the preseason and first-week leader before giving way to Notre Dame for one week, jumped from sixth to fifth with 842 points by trimming Michigan State 33-26. Clement left from seventh to sixth with 889 points by blanking Virginia 27-10.

The Tigers are followed by Southern Cal, down to seventh place after its first loss of the season. Michigan State dropped from 13th to 11th with 834 points by crushing Oregon State 56-13. Rounding out the Top Ten are Georgia, up from 11th to ninth with 760 points following a 37-7 triumph over Mississippi, and Southern Methodist, which went from 14th to 10th with 629 points for a 27-26 victory over Baltimore.

Besides Oklahoma, which was 10th last week, Alabama and Southern California jumped out of the Top Ten. Alabama, held to a 13-1 tie by Southern Mississippi, slid from seventh place to 15th while BYU, a 45-11 loser to Nevada-Las Vegas, fell from eighth to 17th.

The Second Ten consists of Florida State, Iowa, Miami of Ohio, Wisconsin, Alabama, Mississippi State, BYU, Washington State, Nebraska and Arizona State.

Last week, it was Georgia, Iowa State, Missouri, SMU, Iowa, Miami, UCLA, Ohio State Michigan State and Florida State.

Andretti to test Unser's Indy win

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti said Monday he expects to test Penn State Club last week's ruling that race for the Just week, featuring: 889 pointa when Andretti decided that the winner when a one-lap penalty was Andretti was declared the Andretti's attorney, Forrest Bowman, said the protest by Andretti was brought about the contention that "the court of appeals indicated the procedure in violation of USAC rules book that they did not give adequate notice of the hearing to all concerned par From Page 20

Lifebacker Ashley Sledge received 41.25 percent of the votes when he set a new record for second place, thanks to a third-place finish in the fourth period. Andretti, the European TT winner, reportedly will have a heart attack. The Salukis' winning streak over Central Michigan was snapped, and South Florida is a good bet to win the Southeastern Conference. But in the fourth, he didn't receive an award. Henry's first recovery led to Johnson's touchdown sneak. The Salukis made the play that day against Iowa State when Andretti's car was damaged. Our friends will be there, why not you?
Consistency boosts golfers to second place at regionals

By Bob Morand Staff Writer

The women's golf team finally turned it around this week and found the consistency that had been missing in the past few weeks. The Salukis placed second behind Ohio State in the Midwest Regional at Mount Pleasant, Mich, this past Friday. The team's 285 best finish by SIU-

C since 1976 when the team won the regional. The Salukis finished 31 strokes behind the Ohio State team total of 653. Marshall University finished third place with scores of 667 and Wisconsin and Illinois rounded out the top five with scores of 668 and 672.

The Salukis consistent performances from the whole team, especially from sophomore

Brechtelsbauer, who's team hadn't bave

plays in the Iowa game

probably would've won the game.

Valli got the win, her second of the tournament.

Salukis' final place in the tournament.

But the most important thing this weekend is that they played a consistent 18 holes of golf as a team, Mc girl said.

"This is going to mark their performance next week," she said. "To be the way this type of tournament is a prettty prestigious thing. I think we'll have developed confidence in their play against bigger schools."

Gridders get awards

By Jim Cagle

Staff Writer

If it hadn't been for two gift runs that gave Iowa a 2-0 lead in the first inning, the Iowa, the Saluki softball team's tournament at Normalồi Saluki softball would have been a total washout.

However, for both Salukis as SIU-Edwardsville and Iowa, softball their only victory in three games.

and their pitcher walked the next

batter, forcing the second

Sure enough, we finished all week end," said Coach Kay

Brett Anderson, who's team

dropped games in New Mexico 1-0, and Illinois State 9-1. "If we had success and had been playing better, we probably would've lost that one too.

"We didn't lose our game, but we can always try to play the big

defensively to keep us

closed," she said.

If not for the big defensive play, the Iowa victory could have easily slipped into a defeat. The Hawkeyes made the score 1-0 on three straight base hits. Then, the catcher dropped a bunt-loaded for the out at first base. That's a pitcher walked the next

batter, forcing the second

run by the Salukis.

"We struggled all weekend," said Coach Kay Brett Anderson, who's team dropped games in New Mexico 1-0, and Illinois State 9-1. "If we had success and had been playing better, we probably would've lost that one too.

"We didn't lose our game, but we can always try to play the big

defensively to keep us

closed," she said.

If not for the big defensive play, the Iowa victory could have easily slipped into a defeat. The Hawkeyes made the score 1-0 on three straight base hits. Then, the catcher dropped a bunt-loaded

for the out at first base. That's a pitcher walked the next

batter, forcing the second

run by the Salukis.

"We struggling all weekend," said Coach Kay Brett Anderson, who's team dropped games in New Mexico 1-0, and Illinois State 9-1. "If we had success and had been playing better, we probably would've lost that one too.

Softball Salukis tumble twice

BY MARC S. KRAUTZ

The Saluki coaches had plenty of players to consider

Monday when naming the starting salukis in Saturday's 26-22 upset win at West

Texas. Quarterback Rick Johnson and tailback Waulee Poole got offensive honors.

Salukis' showing in the fourth inning, after the Salukis cut down two of their two runs in the third inning.

"We just fell apart in those two innings," Brecheisen said. "They hit the ball well against us, but we walked and made four errors in that game.

The Salukis were plagued with nine walks, committing only 11 bunts to their opponents' 19

screen passes for 23 yards.

Gridders get awards

The Saluki coaches had plenty of players to consider

Monday when naming the starting salukis in Saturday's 26-22 upset win at West

Texas. Quarterback Rick Johnson and tailback Waulee Poole got offensive honors.

Salukis' showing in the fourth inning, after the Salukis cut down two of their two runs in the third inning.

"We just fell apart in those two innings," Brecheisen said. "They hit the ball well against us, but we walked and made four errors in that game.

The Salukis were plagued with nine walks, committing only 11 bunts to their opponents' 19

screen passes for 23 yards.

Big league baseball playoffs to begin

It's A's speed vs. Yanks' power

Young Expos vs. veteran L. A.

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland's young, fire-up A's, lit up the pitching lines of the veteran New York Yankees with the American League pennant at stake in a battle for the championship beginning Tuesday night.

The A's, managed by ex Yankees' skipper Billy Martin, feature a speed oriented attack that is called "Billyball," said Coach Kay Brett Anderson, who has taken the team from sorry also-rans to championship contenders.

This is our speed game, led by field outfielder Rickey Henderson who stole 108 bases last year and is leading all in this season, is in stark contrast to New York's" said Martin. "The Yankees have a very different approach, epitomized by slugger Reggie Jackson.

"We're the Jackson's two-run homer that triggered the Yankees' 7-2 AL East Division clincher against Milwaukee

Sunday night. The A's swept to the West Division crown, eliminating defending champion Kansas City in three straight games.

"We're the Jackson's two-run homer that triggered the Yankees' 7-2 AL East Division clincher against Milwaukee

Sunday night. The A's swept to the West Division crown, eliminating defending champion Kansas City in three straight games.

Big league baseball playoffs to begin

It's A's speed vs. Yanks' power

Young Expos vs. veteran L. A.

Los Angeles (AP) — Right

hander Bill Gullickson of Montreal

and veteran Rick Monday of Los Angeles were named

starting pitchers by their managers

Monday for the National League Championship Series opener at Dodger Stadium

Tuesday.

Angels Manager Tom Lasorda said that Ron Cey, who was named the Dodgers' starter in the NL West Division playoffs, would start at third against the Expos in the first game of the NL Division Series, scheduled to begin at 3:00 p.m.

Tuesday.

"Cey still hasn't played since he suffered a broken bone in his left forearm when he gave up a pitch by a pinch thrown by San Francisco right-hander Tom Gifford on Sept. 8.

Lasorda announced Monday night that Cey would be activated for the NL

Championship Series.

"Ron has been an inspiration to the team during the mini-series against Houston just by being on the bench,"

said Lasorda. "He's got tremendous talent and he'll help us."

Cey hit .375 and led the Dodgers in home runs with 12.

With Cey sidelined, right fielder Pedro Guerrero moved to third base and veteran Rick Monday took Guerrero's spot in the outfield. Lasorda made no immediate announcement of who would play right field.

Raines was available for pinch-

running duties only in recent weeks because of a broken bone in his hand.

The speedy outfielder hit .304 and stole 11 bases while playing in only 28 games.

There was also the possibility that second baseman Rodney Scott, who has been out of a bruised shoulder,

would also be able to play against Los Angeles.

The Dodgers would use rookie left-

hander Fernando Valenzuela in the second game of the NL playoff series.

Valenzuela fired a four-hitter last Labor Day night in beating the Astros 3-2 in Game Four of NL West playoffs.

Right-hander Ray Burris will oppose Valenzuela.

Los Angeles (AP) — Right

hander Bill Gullickson of Montreal

and veteran Rick Monday of Los Angeles were named

starting pitchers by their managers

Monday for the National League Championship Series opener at Dodger Stadium

Tuesday.

Angels Manager Tom Lasorda said that Ron Cey, who was named the Dodgers' starter in the NL West Division playoffs, would start at third against the Expos in the first game of the NL Division Series, scheduled to begin at 3:00 p.m.

Tuesday.

"Cey still hasn't played since he suffered a broken bone in his left forearm when he gave up a pitch by a pinch thrown by San Francisco right-hander Tom Gifford on Sept. 8.

Lasorda announced Monday night that Cey would be activated for the NL

Championship Series.

"Ron has been an inspiration to the team during the mini-series against Houston just by being on the bench,"

said Lasorda. "He's got tremendous talent and he'll help us."

Cey hit .375 and led the Dodgers in home runs with 12.

With Cey sidelined, right fielder Pedro Guerrero moved to third base and veteran Rick Monday took Guerrero's spot in the outfield. Lasorda made no immediate announcement of who would play right field.

Raines was available for pinch-

running duties only in recent weeks because of a broken bone in his hand.

The speedy outfielder hit .304 and stole 11 bases while playing in only 28 games.

There was also the possibility that second baseman Rodney Scott, who has been out of a bruised shoulder,

would also be able to play against Los Angeles.

The Dodgers would use rookie left-

hander Fernando Valenzuela in the second game of the NL playoff series.

Valenzuela fired a four-hitter last Labor Day night in beating the Astros 3-2 in Game Four of NL West playoffs.

Right-hander Ray Burris will oppose Valenzuela.

Los Angeles (AP) — Right

hander Bill Gullickson of Montreal

and veteran Rick Monday of Los Angeles were named

starting pitchers by their managers

Monday for the National League Championship Series opener at Dodger Stadium

Tuesday.

Angels Manager Tom Lasorda said that Ron Cey, who was named the Dodgers' starter in the NL West Division playoffs, would start at third against the Expos in the first game of the NL Division Series, scheduled to begin at 3:00 p.m.

Tuesday.

"Cey still hasn't played since he suffered a broken bone in his left forearm when he gave up a pitch by a pinch thrown by San Francisco right-hander Tom Gifford on Sept. 8.

Lasorda announced Monday night that Cey would be activated for the NL

Championship Series.

"Ron has been an inspiration to the team during the mini-series against Houston just by being on the bench,"

said Lasorda. "He's got tremendous talent and he'll help us."

Cey hit .375 and led the Dodgers in home runs with 12.

With Cey sidelined, right fielder Pedro Guerrero moved to third base and veteran Rick Monday took Guerrero's spot in the outfield. Lasorda made no immediate announcement of who would play right field.

Raines was available for pinch-

running duties only in recent weeks because of a broken bone in his hand.

The speedy outfielder hit .304 and stole 11 bases while playing in only 28 games.

There was also the possibility that second baseman Rodney Scott, who has been out of a bruised shoulder,

would also be able to play against Los Angeles.

The Dodgers would use rookie left-

hander Fernando Valenzuela in the second game of the NL playoff series.

Valenzuela fired a four-hitter last Labor Day night in beating the Astros 3-2 in Game Four of NL West playoffs.

Right-hander Ray Burris will oppose Valenzuela.