Annual Legislative Session Backed

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Atty. Gen. William C. Clark said Wednesday the Illinois State Constitution does not prohibit annual legislative sessions. He urged the 1967 General Assembly to switch to annual instead of biennial appropriations.

Clark said in his opinion that the legislature could more closely and effectively supervisio management of taxpayer funds by switching from biennial to annual appropriations. Clark's remarks were prepared for the western division of the 4th District Illinois State Bar Association in Springfield.

The present practice of the legislature is to meet in odd-numbered years and to approrove funds for two years at a time.

Clark said the practice was based on a literal interpretation of the state Constitution that each assembly must provide funds for government expenses through the first quarter of the next two years. He said appropriations could be made for one year at a time.

He said that when the legis-ature meets in an odd-numbered year—as it did in 1967—it could appropriateg money for the second July, 1967 to June 30, 1968 and adjourn to a specific date in the spring of the even-numbered year—1968, in this case.

Two Hour Finals May Be Reinstated

McGrath Submits Plan to Senate

SIU may return to a two hour final exam schedule as was the practice three years ago.

Robert A. McGrath, registrar, presented the opening session of the Campus Senate a proposal that would change the final exam for students to two hours beginning with this quarter.

McGrath said that the arrangement would be similar to that of three years ago. Two years ago, SIU experienced with a program that had no finals whatsoever. McGrath said a poll of students and faculty members found this arrangement unsatisfactory.

Under the one hour exam program, McGrath said faculty members complained that they couldn't adequately test the student in the time allotted.

The registrar said although an official poll was not taken, his office received mixed responses to the experiment.

He said some students comnised that their instructors were giving a two hour exam anyway by scheduling it on two different days.

McGrath said he believes the students should have a decision of the matter within the next two weeks.

As of today, the exam time, the Campus senate had only heard McGrath's prog-posal and a report on the new health insurance program by Dr. John V. V. Devore, M.D., of the Health Service.

A resolution on the motorcycle and housing regulations was scheduled to be brought up later in the meeting. The resolution was a condemnation of the administration for the recent changes placed on housing and motorcycles.

Z-G Styles Suit . . .

...Your Mood,
Your Activity,
Your Pocket

Whatever your activity or way of living, Zwick and Goldsmith has the apparel that is right for you. This is because we aren't satisfied in offering you just any clothing, it has to be the best for whatever price range you prefer. Z-G's own buyers search clothing markets the world over in order to bring to you apparel that is foremost in style and quality— at whatever price range suits your pocket. This is our philosophy of serving you better—the pride we have in our merchandise and the pride we have in the service we render to you. Z-G knows the kind of clothing the university man of today prefers, and we provide him with it long before other stores can. Because of all this, Zwick and Goldsmith was awarded the 1966 Alpha Kappa Psi Award for service to students of Southern. Stop in soon to find out why.

The ink is hardly dry on the new administration policies restricting motorcycles, and aiding the local police in traffic - down U.S. 51 can be heard.

Although there is some question about the prudence of the University's decision concerning ideas, the motorcyclists are doing little to help their case.

The prime complaints were about the noise, the speed and reckless driving in traffic.

Mao's Teachings Provide Strength For Red Chinese

Totalitarian societies need fictional heroes, too.

A Chinese sharpshooter, after missing two shots, paused to read from the works of Mao Tse-tung, then squeezed off 10 bullets - eyes.

A championship ping-pong team attributed its victories to the inspiration of Chairman Mao's works. A laborer who pushed a boulder from the path of a speeding train ascribed his success to the discipline of Mao Tse-tung's thought.

Although American heroes give testimonial to break-fast cereals, candy bars and shaving lotions, no home-run king, Annie Oakley or life-saver has ever assigned his prowess to the influence of Jefferson, Madison or Paine.

In Red China, however, it's ideological, as a means of winning counts. To gain inhuman strength Red Guards might gulp a chapter of Mao Tse-tung, then step out of the way Popeye swallows spinach, or for a pure thinker can chew a mouthful of party aphorisms and - prento - Superior.

NOT JUST A LOCAL PROBLEM

Mao Loses to American Way, Says 'Better Rich Than Red'

By Arthur Hoppe

(San Francisco Chronicle)

Join the Army and learn a trade, says, 'Like a good team offers training in a wide range of specialties to prepare young men for useful careers in civilian life. For example, you can join the Army and learn how to build an authentic Spanish village.'

Where our young men are learning to build an authentic Mexican village is way out in the dusty boondocks of the sprawling training command at Fort Ord, Calif. You drive for miles on a dirt road, round a bend, and there they are - rice paddies Just like in Vietnam.

"Of course, we don't have any water in them yet," said one author.

"The first order the workmen at one of the houses got was to dig a well. We dug 3,500 feet of tunnels running everywhere through the whole village."

I said that such labor certainly showed dedication.

"Yeah," said the sergeant, "we roofed the ditch with plaster and covered them over with dirt."

The officer explained that the whole village would be booby-trapped and defended by troops in black-tie fatigues and combat boots. Soldiers in advanced training would then be given the job of blowing them out of the maze of tunnels and sniper platforms built in the tunnels.

I said, "Gosh, I could make a living as a digger in the tunnels, to the attacking troops."

"Well," said the sergeant with a grin, "you'd better look out or you'll be one of the men doing the job."

Well, I'm sure that, as the officer said, the Vietnamese will probably be an "invaluable trading aid" to our troops. And it's already proved an invaluable trading aid to the men constructing it.

This way the engineers would be looking down a well in the middle of the village to find a private at the bottom of a hole in the wet concrete around the edges of the trap. I inquire politely if he felt he was preparing himself for a useful career in combat.

"Yeah," he said with a broad smile, "I hope any soldier stuck with an unhappy task, "I can always be a private.""

Moral Victory More Important Than Score

To the Editor:

For the benefit of those fans who were disappointed before it was over last week it should be noted that the Salukis lost the game, but not the battle. The defeat, however, was only a numerical one.

It would be safe to say that in the hearts of the students, spectators and hating Salukis there were victory and disappointment. The defeat was achieved that probably would not have been possible without the small-colleese score record.

Still got a new coach, and perhaps the next time the Saluki fans should be the shot in the arm that Southern needed. Not much to look forward to, though. Odds were given that the Saluki would be lucky to break even. Most people went to the game to see how this year's team had changed, if at all.

Then the Salukis beat Wichita. The victory had the same effect as a new series - a new look for the fans. The Saluki fans were sputtered of "We've got the game of the year."

It was followed with a power failure that lasted an hour and probably cost several University electricians their jobs. One of them was stopped at a touchdown by Louisville in the Salad Bowl.

The game was not without its highlights. Among them were the Medars who cried, "You can't call this Louisville player is being carried off the field at all!"

The second was the way the footbal players refused to reach our receivers with their long-signalled passes.

The third was the way the Salukis gave up control of the ball to the big boys from the south, who had a field day.

The final highlight was the fans themselves, who, for the first time at a football game, cheered until they were hoarse.

The fans wanted victory over the Cat. It was almost as badly as they wanted victory over Evansville during the last game. But the ones who wanted it most of all were the Saluki players themselves, and they proved it by pouring everything they had into that game.

It has been suggested that having a dog for a school mascot is less than honorable, especially when the dog is as cute as Saluki. This much can be said for the mascot.

Louisville carried home a victory last Saturday, but they also brought home the basic fact of life clearly impressed upon us all - the fact was, "The Saluki dog bites."

Southern might do well to point a sign at the gate of the bell stadium, "Beware, Bad Dog."
Brain Drain Lessens Foreign Aid Effectiveness

Aviation Technology to Make Debut at Airport Open House

Aircraft displays, jet flybys, and airplane and helicopter rides will be featured at the Southern Illinois Airport open house Sunday.

The event is scheduled for noon to 6 p.m. at the airport, which is situated between Carbondale and Murphysboro.

Displays will include the first public showing of the new aviation technology school.

Aircraft ranging from World War II types to corporate and pleasure planes will be flown during the aerial events of the open house. Helicopter rides, "penny-a-pound" rides, and air and space vehicle rides will be offered during the day.

The displays will include an exhibit by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Mercury and Gemini programs, Air Force, Navy and airlines, and general aviation, and a business jet.

The schedule lists these events for the day:
1-1:15 p.m.: Flight demonstration of the new air and space vehicles,
1:30-1:45 p.m.: Fly-by of four F84 jets from the Air National Guard unit at Peoria,
2-2:20 p.m.: Flight demonstration of the new champion Cibrian aircraft,
2:30-3 p.m.: Aerobatics by Pinky Oppen,
3-4:30 p.m., m.: Flight demonstration of various World War II aircraft, such as the P51, and pleasure and business aircraft.

Evelyn Wood, a Utah schoolteacher, made a startling discovery that led to the founding of Reading Dynamics, while working toward a master's degree. She handed a term paper to a professor and watched him read the 80 pages at 6,000 words per minute — with outstanding recall and comprehension. Disappointed to find the secret behind such rapid reading, she spent the next two years tracking down 50 people who could read faster than 1,500 words per minute. She studied their techniques, taught herself to read at these faster rates, now, after years of experience in public schools and universities, she has made it possible for you to benefit from this great discovery.

SIU Foreign Language Faculty Totals 70, 11 New Members

The Department of Foreign Languages now has a total of 70 staff members, including 35 graduate assistants. The graduate assistants include 11 in French, 9 in German and 12 in Spanish.

Members of last year's faculty who are not returning, and their changes, are Alice A. Foley, to Millikin University; Daniele Kellams, to Fort Worth, Tex.; Mary Niederle, to Gainesville, Fla.; Galil Stark, to Nigeria with an SIU team; Maria Apala, to New Mexico; and Hans Wendler, who has returned to Germany.

In an internal assignment change, Jerri Lynn Emison was appointed coordinator of beginning French classes.

The department also hopes to add Italian sometime this year, J. Cary Davis, chairman, said.

New faculty members in the department include:

A. E. Zuckcr from the University of Maryland who will serve as visiting professor in German.

Charles Ekker, who will serve as a half-time instructor in French, as well as assistant director of the Latin American Institute. Ekker spent seven years in Portugal, Brazil, where he worked in the Bi-Nacional Centene program. He also spent two years in Peru with the same program. Currently he is studying for his doctorate from Louisina State University.

Gwendolyn Brackett, who will serve as a half-time instructor in French, Mrs. Brackett previously taught in the department and at University School.

Gertrud Gross, who will be an instructor in French and German, Miss Gross is from Germany, where she earned her master's degree in French and English from Freiburg University.

Marilyn S. Hubbard, who will be an instructor in French and Spanish, Mrs. Hubbard earned her master's degree here last year.

Carol Lawson, who will serve as a half-time instructor in French, Mrs. Lawson has a master's degree from Tulane University.

James Naberg, who will act as director of the foreign language laboratories. He served as assistant director of the laboratories last year.

Paula P. Parish, who will be a half-time instructor in French. She has a master's degree in English as a foreign language from SIU, and has a Laurea degree from the Instituto Universitario Onis in Naples, Italy. She has taught French and English in Italy.

Marilyn L. Tripp, who will be an instructor in French and German. Miss Tripp received her master's degree in English as a Foreign Language last summer at SIU.

Gerda von Palekse, who will be a half-time instructor in French and German. Mrs. von Palekse has a master's degree in French, and was a department staff member two years ago.

Annie E. Woodbridge, who will be a half-time instructor in French. Mrs. Woodbridge has a master's degree from Peabody College.
Supplies, Not Infiltration, Held
Major Result in Bombing Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. bombing of North Vietnam has failed to curb Communist infiltration of South Vietnam, but Pentagon officials said Wednesday the strikes are exacting a high toll in supplies vital to enemy units.

The telling question of the whole war, they said, is whether Hanoi can continue supporting forces in the south in the face of ammunition and equipment losses.

This was unofficial Defense Department reaction to word from Saigon that Communist infiltration has risen by 1,000 a month over current estimates to 6,000 men a month.

Military spokesmen contended the air strikes were never claimed as a barrier to Communist penetration of South Vietnam. But this assertion does not square entirely with statements made by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

On June 29, only hours after U.S. warplanes smashed at the Hanoi-Haiphong oil supplies, McNamara was asked at a news conference what the strikes might accomplish.

"There is bound to be a restriction on the total movement" of men and supplies from north to south with the Communists deprived of much of the petroleum used by their truck convoys, he said.

At another significant point of the air war—the eve of the resumption of bombing after the Christmas peace pause—McNamara told a House Appropriations subcommittee the strikes were designed to boost the morale of the battered South Vietnamese.

"A second reason," he said, "was to reduce the flow of aid—or increase the cost of the infiltration of men and material from North Vietnam into South Vietnam. Third, to put political pressure on Hanoi through military action."

A Pentagon spokesman, asked to cite some concrete results from the bombing of the north, said intelligence officers estimate that Hanoi is able to furnish its units in the south with only 50 per cent of their objective of 150 tons daily.

He pointed to slackened Communist ground activity in the south in recent months except around the demilitarized zone—indicating that the enemy is deliberately avoiding combat to conserve resources. This, he surmised, may be the preamble to what the Communists would like to become an impressive military victory just before U.S. elections are selected.

One by one, Pentagon military officers sought to down-grade the significance of any infiltration increase.

They said no amount of bombing can prevent troops from moving on foot along the Ho Chi Minh trail through mountains and jungle of North Vietnam and Laos. But keeping those men equipped is another matter.

Hurricane Aims Fury
At Dominican Republic

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) - Hurricane Inez whipped herself into a monstrous storm Wednesday with top winds of 150 to 175 miles an hour and aimed her murderous fury at a sleepy seaport town in the Dominican Republic.

"If this storm continues as forecast, there is going to be a great disaster," predicted forecaster Arnold Sugg of the U.S. Weather Bureau.

A Stirring of stirrings comes along only once every four or five years and strikes land even less often.

Residents along the Dominican Republic's south coast were urged to abandon their homes and seek the safety of high ground and secure buildings.

The tightly coiled storm, growing stronger by the hour, was expected to thrash directly over the town of Arecibo on Saturday, said Inez already has killed five persons and the destruction could be tremendous if residents fail to protect themselves from the bowling winds and thunderous surf.

Behind the city of 20,000— a jungle valley that ranges down to 150 feet below sea level. On both sides are mountains covered with rain forest hardwood and flimsy homes. It makes a natural funnel for immense flooding, which is usually the biggest danger from a hurricane.

The last time a major hurricane struck the Dominican Republic's southern coast, in 1930, about 2,000 persons were killed and much of the capital city of Santo Domingo was leveled.

During the day, Inez churned slowly past the southern side of Puerto Rico, flooding seaside homes, damaging small boats against docks and over-flowing a lake.

Nationalists Hijack Airliner
In Argentine-British Dispute

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) - A group of young Argentine extremists led by a 27-year-old woman apparently surrendered to British authorities after hijacking an airliner Wednesday and forcing it to land in the Falkland Islands to assail nationalistic stroke.

The avowed purpose of the daring exploit was to dramatize Argentina's claim on the barren Soo, Falkland Islands that Britain has held for 153 years.

The hours after the four-engine plane landed on a tiny airstrip with persons aboard, the British Embassy in Buenos Aires said the situation was under control at Port Stanley, capital of the two islands, 2,000 miles south of here.

An embargo spokesman said authorities at Port Stanley reported that the passengers and crew members were removed from the aircraft and distributed at houses. The cable added there had been no clashes between British personnel and the 18 raiders.

The h i jacker s had previously radiated their intentions to take two British police officers as hostages.

The Argentine government-owned DCA was on a scheduled flight from Buenos Aires to Rio Gallegos, an Atlantic port 1,700 miles south of here, when it was taken over. It carried 43 passengers.

Resident s along the island coast carried a front-page story by its diplomatic correspondent saying, "From first reports of the 'token invasion' of the Falklands, one of the most significant signs that the Argentine government was not itself behind the landing. The incident is evidently shaped to give publicity to the Argentine claim to the Falklands at a time when the United Nations has received a report on bilateral talks on the Falklands between Britain and Argentina.

Repeated Argentine claims to ownership of the Falklands, discovered for Britain in 1833, have always been rejected by the British. The Falklands are to be resumed in London next month.

The hijackers' landing took place while the islands' governor, Sir Cosmo Harkward, was in London for consultations with British officials.

The British government said it was seeking an explanation from the Argentine government.

The woman leader of the raiders was a y un g nationalist from her sources in contact with the hijackers as Maria Cristina Ve- trazz, owner of a small theater in downtown Buenos Aires.
San Francisco
Tenses for More Riots

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Advance units of 2,000 National Guardsmen began moving into San Francisco on Wednesday after scattered violence broke out anew in racially tense Negro areas. Guardsmen headed north from San Jose, 50 miles south, on orders of Maj. Gen. Paul Teel, commander of the 49th Infantry Division. They set up mobilization headquarters at Candlestick Park, baseball stadium on the fringe of one of the trouble spots.

The new disturbances were in the Hunter’s Point and Bay-view areas — where rioting raged for seven hours Tuesday night after the fatal shooting of a Negro teen-ager by a white policeman.

Trouble also was reported near Mission High School about three miles to the north. The school was closed at noon when rampaging youths in hallways refused to return to classrooms.

Police said several windows were smashed along Mission Street near the school as teenagers were packing onto city buses.

Two fire bombs were hurled at an auto near the Bayview Community Center.

A rare heat wave aggravated the unrest.

Scores of officers were ordered to Mission Dolores Park adjoining Mission High, where some 200 Negro youths began a march toward a statue where 75 white youths were lunching.

Officers formed a line between the two groups. The white youths pulled off belts and gathered rocks in anticipation of an attack.

“Classes are dismissed, please go home,” police loud-speakers blared.

Partly cloudy today, with the high near 76. Outlook for Friday showers likely. The record high for this date is 101 set in 1953. The record low is 31 set in 1942 according to the SIU Climatology Laboratory.

Indonesia Returns to U.N.
After 18 Months Absence

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Indonesia returned to its seat in the United Nations on Wednesday after an absence of 18 months amid a noisy protest by young American artists in the General Assembly’s public gallery.

At the invitation of General Assembly President Abdul Rahman Pakhlawan of Afghanistan, a five-member delegation led by Foreign Minister Adam Malik filed onto the assembly floor and took seats in the space left vacant in anticipation of Indonesia’s return.

Indonesia quit March 1, 1965, in a dispute over the seating of Malaysia on the Security Council. It did not recognize the neighboring country and was engaged at the time in Sukarno’s “crush of Indonesia” campaign.

Once Deferred

Tentative Contract Avoids American Airlines Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike of American Airlines ground personnel, already once deferred, was avoided Wednesday night when a tentative contract agreement was reached with the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union.

The strike originally was scheduled for 6:45 a.m. It was postponed for 12 hours when progress was made in negotiations and was called off about half an hour before the new 6:45 p.m. deadline.

The walkout of 12,000 non-operational ground crewmen, mechanics, clerks, communications workers and supply personnel would have idled 16,000 additional flight personnel on the nation’s second largest airlines.

During the day American’s operations continued normal to 44 cities in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

However, a spokesman said uncertainty caused by the strike threat had cut the normal daily passenger load of 36,000, American is second only to United Airlines in size.

Terms of the tentative settlement were not revealed. The TWU negotiators said they would recommend acceptance at a rank-and-file meeting, to be scheduled later.

J. K. Leasure Named as Head Of Plant Industries Department

The appointment of a new chairman heads the list of changes in the Department of Plant Industries for 1966-67.

The new head of the department is J. K. Leasure, professor of plant industries.

He succeeds A. B. Casper, chairman of the department since its formation in 1957, who requested release to teaching and research duties because of health. Leasure's new appointment was made effective as of Sept. 1. Casper will continue his duties as professor of soils.

Other changes in the department include the resignation of C. W. Lobenstein, who moved to the University of Missouri.

James A. Tweedy, who recently completed his doctoral work at Michigan State University, was appointed to fill this vacancy. Tweedy is an SIU alumnus.

Herbert L. Forza, associate professor of plant industries, will leave about Jan. 1 for a two-year assignment with the SIU group in Nepal. No replacement has been selected yet.

A specialist in agricultural herbicides and fungicides, Leasure was a research group leader for the Dow Chemical Co. at Midland, Mich., from 1955 until joining the SIU faculty last March. Before 1955 he was on the University of Tennessee faculty for eight years, teaching crop production and plant breeding courses in addition to carrying on research.

Leasure is a native of Sidel, Ill. He graduated from the University of Illinois in 1942 with a major in agronomy. He received his master's degree in plant breeding at Michigan State University in 1946, and his doctorate from the University of Illinois in 1953, specializing in crop production and plant physiology.

He has written more than 50 experiment station bulletins and technical papers, in addition to numerous papers presented at national meetings of various professional organizations.

He holds five published United States and Canadian patents dealing with various methods of plant growth control and has 11 additional patent applications pending.

He is a member of the American Society of Agronomy, the Weed Society of America, the North Central Plant Physiologists, Sigma Xi scientific society, and Alpha Zeta, honorary scholastic fraternity in agriculture.

Boots One 67

Canadian Gives Boost To Salukis' Punting

By Bill Kindt

Kicking is a skill most kids learn at an early age. The ability to kick comes almost at the same time babies learn to walk, sometimes to the disappointment of passing adults.

The ability to kick a football, however, is a different story. Kicking a football has become an art even to the point where professional teams carry a man or more on the team for the sole purpose of kicking.

Punting, the phase of kicking which is designed to keep the enemy out of your territory when your offense falters, is perhaps the hardest of the kicking arts.

Here at SIU, the game of punting has been more or less a joke. Last year the Salukis suffered through their second straight 2-8 record and the skill of the punters certainly didn't help any. The Salukis kicked the ball to the enemy 70 times last year and could only average 35.6 yards per punt. The opposition averaged 42.1 yards per punt return, cutting the value of the punt to 27.5 yards.

This season, things might have changed in favor of the Saluki punting game. The reason is Barclay Allen, a 6-foot 1 freshman from Montreal, Canada.

Allen has an average of 40.5 yards on 12 punts so far this season. He got his chance to show his punting abilities in the Louisville game and showed SIU fans and head coach Ellis Rainsberger that the Salukis might finally have the long-awaited punter. His kicks included one for 67 yards.

Allen's punting in the third quarter against the Cardinals kept their offense deep in their own territory which was a great help to the Saluki defense. Quarterback Benny Russell, finding himself deep in his own territory for most of the second half and facing a fine pass rush by the Saluki forward wall, could muster only one score.

Saluki Coach Is Ex-Drake Assistant

SIU head football coach Ellis Rainsberger should be familiar with Drake football. He served a three-year hitch there as an assistant coach.

Rainsberger joined the Bulldog staff in 1959.

Strayline May Have Changed In Favor of the Saluki Punting Game
Drake Coach Is Started On Another Winning Year

In his 15 years of coaching, head football coach Jack Wallace of Drake University has never had a losing season and his Bulldogs have started the 1966 season as though it were no exception.

Drake, the Salukis' opponent Saturday, has won its first two games, defeating Northwest Missouri State 27-0 and State College of Iowa 9-7. The Bulldogs had a 6-4 record last year.

Drake is the third consecutive Missouri Valley Conference team to be faced by SIU. However, the Bulldogs do not compete for the league title in football as do Wichita and Louisville, SIU's first opponents.

The Drake-SIU contest at De Moinis, Iowa, in the 18,000-seat Drake Stadium, should literally be up in the air as far as the hosts are concerned. Senior quarterback Ron Royer, a three-year letterman, is considered one of the best passers around. And with some fine ends, Drake figures to go with an aerial game.

In the last three seasons Royer has completed 197 of 370 passing attempts and had just 25 interceptions.

The Bulldog offense returns nearly intact, so the Salukis will have to contain an experienced offensive team.

Drake has a 3-1 edge in the Bulldog-Saluki series, which began in 1961. In 1961, Drake shut out the Salukis 7-0 and followed that with a narrow 14-13 win the next year.

The 1964 Salukis managed a 28-19 victory and then came last season's 28-12 Saluki loss.

Signal caller Royer displayed his throwing ability in last year's contest with a 78-yard touchdown pass to Lee Brothers.

Two Salukis Foes Rank High
In NCAA Football Statistics

Louisville and North Texas State, both on the SIU football schedule, are well represented in the official NCAA statistics released this week.

The Louisville Cardinals rank eighth in passing offense and ninth in total offense. Quarterback Benny Russell, whose talents were obvious in the Saluki loss, rates 26th in passing among major college individual leaders.

North Texas State signal caller Vidal Carlin ranks 12th in passing after two games. North Texas also has the 13th leading pass receiver in the nation, with John Love having a dozen catches for 274 yards.

In the Saluki 10-game schedule, there are four teams.

Robinson Close to Winning Triple Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — A .422 batting performance last season has virtually assured Baltimore's Frank Robinson of becoming the first major leaguer to win a triple crown in 10 years.

Robinson had 10 hits in 22 times at bat while the Orioles were clinching their first American-League pennant. He lifted Robinson's batting average six points to .316.

Minnesota's Tony Oliva, the defending titleholder who led by one point a week ago, slipęed into the runner-up spot. His average fell four points to .310, the result of only four safeties in 21 tries.

Robinson holds a commanding lead in home runs and runs batted in, the other two categories that compose the triple crown. He smashed four homers and drove in 13 runs last week, raising his total to 49 home runs and 120 RBI.

Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota is second in home runs with 36 while Boog Powell, another Orioles' slugger in No. 2, tied with Oliva at 30.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees was the last player to capture a triple crown— in 1956.

Robinson and Oliva are the only players hitting over .300. Al Kaline of Detroit is third at .292, followed by Powell, .288; Killebrew, .284; .283. The figures include Sunday's game, tinues to lead the National League batting. He lost one point to .345 last week, collecting eight hits in 24 attempts. However, he leads brother Felipe Alou of Atlanta by 11 points. Felipe's .330 is followed by Rice Carity, also of the Braves, .328, and Pete Rose of Cincinnati, .320.

Roberto Clemente of Pittsburght, the defending champion, and Rich Allen of Philadelphia are deadlocked for fifth at .317.

Hank Alou of Atlanta remained the NL's home run and RBI leader. He had three homers and six runs batted in last week, giving him season totals of 42 runs and 122 RBI.
