Taylor blasts Derege policies in State of Campus address

By Bob Grupp
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student Body President Jon Taylor blasted SIU President David R. Derege and certain administration policies in his State of the Campus address delivered to the Student Senate Wednesday night.

In other action the senate failed to fill the vice presidential seat left vacant when former vice president Sue Collett quit school. Twenty of the 36 senators were present at the meeting, four short of the quorum necessary to act on the matter.

In summarizing important changes and issues facing the senate and student body over the summer, Taylor said, "The biggest, and of course the most controversial difference is the appearance of the Women’s Supervisory Board of the University Governance System, which acts as a separate board of directors for the University of Southern Illinois." Taylor also said that the Women’s Supervisory Board, which was named by the Student Senate on Oct. 9th, will be responsible for all aspects of the University of Southern Illinois, including finances, administration, and academic matters.

The changing of the academic policies at the University of Southern Illinois has caused a lot of criticism and debate among students and faculty. The Women’s Supervisory Board has been a topic of concern among many students who feel that the board’s actions are inconsistent with the University’s commitment to equal education opportunities.

City urged to consider report

The Carbondale Downtown Redevelopment Task Force signed a resolution Wednesday evening asking the City Council to consider the task force’s interim report for the downtown area at the council’s informal meeting on Oct. 25.

The interim report, titled the 1985 Development Plan and Economic Analysis, recommends the development of the downtown area into a shopping mall with outdoor fixtures, benches and landscaping.

The report was submitted by Urban Programming of St. Louis, a consultant firm hired by the city to develop plans for the redevelopment program.

The signing of the resolution took place at a meeting of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce. The Task Force was appointed by Mayor Neal Eckert. It is hoped by the Task Force that the Council will approve and begin implementation of the report at the formal council meeting on October 16.

Also at the meeting was the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, which has been active in redevelopment. Chamber of Commerce President Jon Taylor said that the presentation would be a catalyst for change.
New wave of terror hits Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Outbreaks of shooting Tuesday and Wednesday added three deaths to the toll of Northern Ireland's violence, and government soldiers now have public buildings in the province.

British troops claimed they captured a senior officer in the outlawed Irish Republican Army. The guerrilla was not identified but was said to be the adjutant of the IRA's Provisional Army's 1st Battalion operating from the Andersonstown area of Belfast.

The latest victim of the sectarian violence was a youth found dumped on a sidewalk in the capital's Shankill area. He had been shot in the head, a sign that he was killed by one of the assassination squads mounted by both Protestant and Roman Catholic extremists.

Limited politicos: Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Apparently stung by Democratic challenges to come out of his retirement, President Nixon said Wednesday he must spend time in Washington to ward off potential tax-boosting programs of the Democratic-controlled Congress.

In statements prepared in connection with fund-raising visits to San Francisco and Los Angeles, Nixon said:

"I would welcome the opportunity to take the case for this administration directly to the American people. But my first responsibility is to do my job as president of the United States.

Army checks 'war crimes'

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Army confirmed Wednesday it has been investigating war-crimes allegations concerning an infantry company in the same areas as the My Lai massacre and said the findings are being reviewed for possible court martial charges.

Military investigators involve a company of the 25th Infantry Division that was commanded by Capt. James W. Lanning, 39, of Sweetwater, Tex., who was now associated with the civil affairs school of the U.S. Army Institute for Military Assistance at Fort Bragg, N.C.

At the time of the alleged crimes, in the spring of 1967, Lanning was in command of Co. A, 2nd Battalion, 25th Infantry, 3rd Brigade, which was operating in Quang Ngai province.

POW group stops in Moscow before returning to U.S.

By Peter Arnett

MOSCOW (AP) - Three liberated American prisoners of war on the way to the United States from North Vietnam spent Wednesday night in the Soviet capital making emotional telephone calls home and touring Red Square.

They were light-hearted and in high spirits since they were freed from a prison camp on Sept. 17.

Navy Lt. Mark Gartley, who served in Vietnam, was accompanied from Hanoi by his mother, Minnie Lee Gartley.

Navy Lt. Norris Charles telephoned his 3-year-old daughter, Kiresten, in Tampa, Fla., and said he was bringing her some presents.

Charles had been in a POW camp for about 10 months. His wife traveled to Hanoi to accompany him home.

Air Force Maj. Edward Elias called his wife Georgia in Washington, D.C. The happiest news he had was that his 3-year-old son Mike was fine. Elias, who had been a prisoner four months, also said "hello" to his father.

The pilots turned down a U.S. offer to spend the night in the U.S. Embassy residence. Instead they went to the transit hotel of Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, where they doubled in scarce rooms. Charles had been hoping for a hot shower, but there was no hot water.

The pilots told their families they hoped to meet them at Kennedy airport in New York on Thursday evening after a stopover in Copenhagen.

Bobby Seale charges may be dismissed

CHICAGO (AP) - The government announced Thursday it would ask the U.S. District Court to dismiss contempt of court charges against Black Panther Bobby Seale for what a government attorney called "national security" reasons.

James R. Thompson, U.S. district attorney for northern Illinois, said the government chose to drop the case rather than allow Seale's attorneys inspect transcripts of electronic surveillance introduced in Judge Julius J. Hoffman's chambers during the Chicago 7 contempt trial.

Seale was originally a member of the group of defendants called the Chicago 8. The eight men had been charged in connection with disturbances which occurred in Chicago during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Seale, whose case was later severed from those of the other seven men, was sentenced to four years in prison on counts of contempt by Judge Hoffman.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals later reversed the sentence earlier this year and ordered a new trial, ruling that the government must either drop contempt proceedings or permit Seale and his lawyers to inspect the surveillance transcripts, which were introduced in Hoffman's chambers during the trial.

Retsich, who was chosen partly because he had not previously been a member of the commission, said his appointment was retroactive since Monday, Sept. 10.

"The Carbondale City Council has agreed to fund my position until Dec. 30," he said, "after that I must find outside funding.

Reportedly, Roger Leisinger, secretary to the commission, was seeking the position but it was denied him because he failed to fit the criteria established for the position by the Carbondale Human Relations personnel committee.

The personnel committee stipulated that the person hired for the position shall not be a member of the commission at the time of hiring or during employment with the commission, the person should have a thorough knowledge of human relations commissions or similar organizations, the person shall demonstrate a willingness and ability to carry out directives of the commission, and the person shall have a minimum typing ability.

Also, the commission discussed the agenda for a workshop to be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, October 31, at the Ramada Inn. The workshop will be in conjunction with the Illinois Commission on Human Relations.

Spees details aid to women

Besides helping women who want to complete their formal education, the service will help them find out how they can continue their education if they simply want to brush up on past skills or learn a vocational trade, Ms. Spees said.

Ms. Spees cited three priorities that are to be considered in the establishment of the service: the offering of children to women who want to attend school, classes or take tests to show their proficiency in college level studies, such as the College Level Examination Program; assistance for women with financial problems, and aid for women who are experiencing discrimination in their educational or occupational pursuits.

Eventually, Ms. Spees said, the program hopes to establish classes of its own both on credit and non-credit, to aid women both in an educational sense and a personal sense. Ms. Spees said courses could be offered to men, too, because "you have to be aware of that dimension."
Chicago traffic police launch ticket-writing spree in protest

CHICAGO (AP) -- Instead of shielding traffic police have launched a ticket-writing spree apparently to dramatize demands for a contract. Flashing blue lights of squad cars were a common sight in the city Wednesday. Yellow parking tickets fluttered from thousands of windshield wipers. Ticket writing for such usually ignored minor moving violations as a burned-out tail light was five times greater than normal in some districts.

An unsigned circular touched off the wildcat ticket spree Sunday night. It call for policemen to issue 10 tickets each day they work "to bring our discontent to the public and to show the superintendent of police that we can and will stand up against him."

Leaders of Chicago's two largest policemen's unions -- the Association and Confederation of Police -- denied any official rule in the massive campaign but said it probobly would end if Police Supt. James B. Conlin Jr. would agree to serious discussions about demands for a contract.

The police want a contract with a binding arbitration clause, more pay, better working conditions and the end of one-man patrol cars. Chicago's 12,000-man police force is not unionized.

Complaints came most frequently from cab drivers, bus drivers and utility truck drivers claiming they had been ticketed for little or no reason. "I left my bus for a few seconds to help a blind woman across the street and got a ticket for leaving it unattended," said a bus driver.

Aid. Vitt Marzullo said his car was ticketed in front of his home for being too near a fire hydrant. "I parked it off the car and the car was outside the restricted area," said the ruffled Marzullo. "I'll fight this ticket at the way to the court. If the police are doing their job now, what were they doing before?"

Judge Richard Lefevre of Traffic Court said the ticket-writing binge was "public harrassment." He said court calls were up 200 per cent and at least 130 persons had been unable to post a $25 bond for a traffic violation. The normal court call, he said, is 40 to 50.

Action deferred on housing bill

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The House Rules Committee effectively killed a $10.5 billion controversial housing bill Wednesday, voting to defer action on it for the remainder of the Congressional session.

House leaders, anticipating such action, already had scheduled for emergency handling Monday a resolution temporarily extending major housing programs. Several of these expire Sunday, but officials said a few days' gap would not be unduly burdensome.

Under fire from both conservatives and liberals because of various provisions lumped into one 322-page piece of legislation, the measure had been in trouble long before the House Banking Committee finished work on it. The Rules Committee, which controls the flow of major legislation to the floor, voted 8 to 5 for the fatal postponement.

some of whom are doing their priccipations in the departments of social welfare, psychology, rehabilitation and consumer credit have operated with community volunteers who have received training.

Both students and community workers, she will be under the direct supervision of nine professional volunteers in Murphysboro and Carbondale centers. The professional supervisors are responsible for the clients' therapy.

The opening of Care House, she said, "will fulfill a major goal and implement mental health services. Care House, Mrs. Boyd said, will provide the following benefits to the residents of Carbondale -- expanded and additional services to the mentally ill and emotionally disturbed.

-- a clinic for the training and development of students and training for professional degrees and for training volunteers.

-- a place where students and townpeople can get to know each other better by working for a common cause.

-- a mental health clinic in Carbondale-- an evenal saving for the taxpayers. Mrs. Boyd explained that it is less expensive to provide their own community than to pay for a care in a state hospital.

At 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 5, the Care House will sponsor a volunteer workshop, "to get information to people wanting to work there, or to anyone who is interested in what Care House is all about.

The lineup for speakers at the workshop include

-- John Millar and Marge Parker speaking on what makes a good volunteer.

-- Pete Tobler will talk on the drug problem in the area.

-- Ken Sawyer will discuss the problems of alcohol and the alcoholic.

-- Betty Ghent will lecture on mental retardation and Dave Warshawer will discuss the mental handicap and problems.

Mrs. Boyd said everyone is welcome to come to the workshop, and coffee and cookies will be served. She said casual clothes are requested because the parking lot hasn't been paved yet, she suggested that people bring flashlights.

After the workshop, Mrs. Boyd said there will be an opportunity for people to see what has been done and to acquaint the volunteers with the house.

Marginal polls

Political polls such as the one taken by the Chicago Sun-Times give Democratic challenger Daniel Walker an edge over the Republican incumbent, Richard Ogilvie, in the upcoming gubernatorial election.

The Chicago Sun-Times poll taken in April gave Walker a whopping 66.9 to 30.8 percent lead over Ogilvie in a statewide sampling of voters. Perhaps more impressively, Walker held wide margins over Ogilvie in suburban Cook County and downtown areas.

A more recent Sun-Times poll taken in August shows Walker still holding a considerable 52.9 to 40.7 percent lead, statewide. Ogilvie had gained 35 percent in Cook County and 28.3 percent in suburban Cook County to take a slight lead in that area. Walker's lead in the city of Chicago was still 63.9 to 30 percent.

There are several factors which indicate that Ogilvie may close the gap even further between now and election day. The results of the April poll are probably misleading. The poll was taken only a month after Walker's stunning victory over Paul Simon in the primary, in which he was still favorably fresh in the minds of many voters. Ogilvie's campaign, including massive television exposure, is only now in full swing. Finally, Ogilvie may benefit if the Nixon landslide predicted by the national polls actually occurs.

Ogilvie still has a long way to go, particularly downtown where he is behind 48 to 46 percent. In 1968 he won downtown with a 59.3 percent majority. Yet, despite the polls, it is still far too early to count him out.

Dissonant note

To the Daily Egyptian:

An open letter to the music faculty: We all know you're quite busy trying to keep your castle in order, but that's to be expected seeing how the teaching of Western Music has been traditionally steeped with an abstract bureaucracy of musical values and blatant white racism. Isn't it funny how a man, a black man, can devote his entire life to the true form of American music—he who has done more for American music than all the Ives, Bernsteins, and Cage combined? Isn't it funny how he can be left out of our history courses? Isn't it funny how his harmonic melodies and rhythmic techniques can be left out of our theory and analysis courses. Isn't it funny how the Ives and Bernsteins can be lauded as musical heroes for stealing the Black man’s musical techniques in their masses and West Side Stories? There seems to be more history than most of us know when all of the Black man's music is crammed into one course called the Evolution of Jazz.

How many of you even bothered to go out to hear and see this old black man—if not for anything else than a purely historical standpoint? History seems to be passing your intellectualized ears by.

Please forgive our heroes but we see to be in constant musically intellectual worlds and I've been down on your "Killing Floor" for too damned long. Long live Chester Burnett—The Howlin’ Wolf.

Hope for Olympics

To the Daily Egyptian:

Perhaps the recent editorial by Mr. Tompkin advocating the end of the Olympics might be more appropriately titled: "The Continuing Saga of Man Putting His Foot in His Mouth."

It is unfortunate that Mr. Tompkin seems to be forgetting problems and crises as the best way to confront them. Ending the Olympics will solve nothing. It will punish the innocent who sacrificed so many years with work and pain in order to excel and hopefully be the best in the world at his specialty. The Gold Medal is symbolic of this success. Is that chance to be ended?

The culprits responsible for blantly nationalism and the inexusable display of their prejudice should be banished. Although this would be difficult to do, ending the Olympics would be no way to curtail their manerisms. They would find other ways.

When Mr. Tompkin said that "building love and peace and friendship among all men" was a ridiculous idea, was he concealing that this dream is no longer possible? Has he given up completely? It would seem that he cannot meet a challenge. The challenge is there and although it seems a little distant at the moment, it certainly does little good to ignore our problems as they crop up.

Perhaps in the four years we've spent the 1976 Olympics the obvious problems existing can be solved. Mr. Brundage is gone. The injustices observed this year have caused outright outrage and hopefully we all will learn from our mistakes.

There is still hope, Mr. Tompkin. Without hope there is no future.

Old stereotypes

To the Daily Egyptian:

It is unusual and gratifying to have an almost full-page spread on the attainments of one of the distinguished women on the SIU faculty, Dr. Janna Thorpe, chairman of the department of physics education for women. It is discouraging, however, to observe the operation of the old male-female stereotypes in the article itself, and most ostensibly, in the headings.

It is doubtful if an article on one of the male department chairmen would begin: "Chubby gray-bearded twinkled John Doe isn't a member of the counter culture, but..." It is even less likely that the heading of such an article would read: "He barbecues ribs and grows roses."

A fifth wheel

To the Daily Egyptian:

I plead not guilty to erisitic urgings. Let me burn in hell fire if I say a word against any democratic in- stitution which professes to serve as an agent of self-expression. But I still feel that the best and only thing for the University Senate is to pass a resolution to end its not-very-distinguished existence.

It is slightly difficult for anyone to conceive Don Gladdens in a spasmmered gladd. But this modern St. George seems to have delivered the coup-de-grace to our in-house drama in the original figure to be synthetic. Granted that the University president is not a modern-day deity dispensing largesse to the freed of the new faithful, he is also not a plastic creation to be evoked by every organization whose representative credentials seem to be minimal.

The impact of the senate is in direct proportion to the power voluntarily surrendered by the constituents. It is an organization which failed to ignite grass-roots support, and which functioned as a group of individuals (well meaning no doubt) performing no function and is in fact a fifth wheel.

But the university community needs and demands an advisory body, both as a conduit for creative opinion and as a balance to the bureaucracy. And I submit that an elitist group tending to become another bureaucracy is not the answer.

They say that the phoenix never dies. So when this gargantuan contraception plunges to its voluntary annihilation, a new form might spring-up, decked in the splendor of suffering and attuned to the voices of reason and service.

The Innocent Bystander

Joe Sikspak's against McGovern

By Arthur Hoppe

The Chronicle Features

Dear President: I, Joe Sikspak, American, take pen in hand to put a bug in your ear. I decided not to vote for George McGovern. It's on account of him promising to end the war in Vietnam.

To be perfectly candid, like you like to say, I was going to. But then I got to talking to Paddy about it. (You remember Paddy. He used to be a Boeing engineer until he got vocationally retrained.)

So I was down at Paddy's Place, having a Seven-high, and Paddy says, "Who you going to vote for, Joe?"

"George McGovern," I says, "on account of him promising to end that dambhead war in Vietnam."

"That reminds me," says Paddy, "that no-good Delancy told me he'd have my tee-vee fixed yesterday and he's still putting the pieces back together. Think I ought to call someone else in?"

"What's that got to do with it?" says I.

"Well," says Paddy, polishing a glass, "seems like we voted for Lyndon Johnson because he promised to end the war. Then we voted for Dick Nixon because he promised to end the war. And now you want to vote for George McGovern because he's promising to end the war."

"Our luck's got to turn, Paddy," says I.

"Trouble with you, Joe," says Paddy, "is you keep wanting to bring in a new man to do the job. Me, I'm sticking with Delancy. By now, he knows my tee-vee is forward and backward. Mostly the latter."

"You talking about Nixon?" I says, because that's the way Paddy talks. "Look here, Paddy," says I, "Nixon promised four years ago to end that dambhead war."

"Exactly!" says Paddy. "When it comes to ending the war, Nixon's got four years' experience at it. And here you want to bring in a new guy who's never worked the job for a day."

"It doesn't sound that hard, Paddy," says I. "Not hard," says Paddy. "You surprise me, Joe. Why, if ending the war were simple, one of our presidents would've ended it long ago. Look at all the things Nixon's learned about ending the war, thanks to his four years of experience at it."

"Like what?" says I.

"Like holding public talks and secret talks," says Paddy. "And offering public deals and secret deals. And making public secret talks about public deals. It isn't easy."

"Give me another Seven-high, Paddy," says I.

"Then he's learned all about incursions and blockages and protective retaliation strikes and putting out peace feelers and taking in peace feelers and who to send where to talk to who about what," says Paddy, shaking his head in admiration. "It's amazing what that man's learned about ending the war in only four short years."

"May be you got a point, Paddy," says I.

"Give that man another four years in the job, Joe," says Paddy, "and he'll be the most experienced president we ever had at ending the war."

"I don't know," says I. "What about his promise to end it?"

"That's another thing in his favor, Joe," says Paddy. "Unlike Delancy, he never did say when."

Well, after thinking it over, President, I'm not voting for McGovern. Paddy's right. To end a war like this, you need the man with the most first-hand experience.

So I'm voting for Lyndon Johnson. He had five years at it.

Truly Yours,

Joe Sikspak, American

Break for students

Indiana University's experiment with "academic bankruptcy" looks to be a promising one, except for its label. A better one would be simply "giving the student a break."

Many a student, somewhere along the line, flounders for a term, for whatever reason—illness, emotional upset, family problems. The Indiana plan allows him to declare "academic bankruptcy" and strike that term's marks from his grade-point average. By repetition or makeup work, he can offset the bad term and not be penalized in final standing or eligibility for graduate school. It makes sense. A one-term slump shouldn't wreck a whole life.

"Yellow Submarine" is last the movie to see if you’ve recently watched your favorite movie or if you’re tired, if you’ve had it with the usual fare. Perhaps if he or she has had it with you.

The Beatles’ first animated feature film, written by Lee Minoff, Al Brodax, Jack Mendels, and Erich Segal, directed by Heny Edelmann and directed by George Linnig, is about a confrontation between the singers and the "White Mountains" in Pepperland. The Beatles’ weapons are music and love, and “Yellow Submarine” had its days just as few — with lots of Pop, Op and otherwise freaky visual devices — if it was to emerge as one of the most, most engaging romances every to be placed on film, regardless of the form it took.

The music, mainly from the "Sgt. Pepper’s Lonely Hearts Club Band" album, is characteristically upbeat. Everything about the production is infused with such a sunny (if naive) outlook that it can only breed good feelings. Think of the result in terms of "Cameo” only with better music and twice the visual style, and you’re about as far.

The film will be screened at noon Friday, and 3 and 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, in Ballroom D of the Student Center.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich (AP) — Grand Rapids has its garbage problems in a bag.

The City Commission has voted to pass a law to require all residents to put their garbage in special trash cans, which will be specially marked and sold only through the city.

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

“Godspell,” a musical based on the gospel according to St. Matthew, will be performed at 3 and 8 p.m. Sunday, in Shryock Auditorium as the first event of the 1972-73 Celebrity Series.

Winner of several drama awards, “Godspell” combines religion with juvenile rock music to produce a free-form theatrical work that has the appearance of a circus at times.

Lung has arranged the exhibit works by Horshire, Toyokuni, Kamishiba, Chikashubu and other 18th and 19th century painters. There will also be a collection of engravings, woodcuts, lithographs and drawings by distinguished contemporary artists in all price ranges.

$96 million project

SYDNEY (AP) — The state government has before it a plan to build an 11-mile private railway through a string of northern seaside suburbs between Pittwater and Manly.

The scheme estimated to cost $96 million provides for a major transport terminal at Manly. Manly, which extends from the ocean to Sydney Harbor, already has a steamer ferry service to the city.

The railway, mainly underground, would take commuters to and from the Manly ferry. The area at present is served by bus.

Pre-registration for winter quarter to begin Monday

Advance registration for winter quarter will begin at 8 a.m. Monday at the Registration Center in Woody Hall.

Supervisor of Registration Henry Andrews said Wednesday he urged all continuing students to advance register for winter quarter rather than wait for central registration in December.

Andrews said he thought many students waited until central registration because they may be unable to pay tuition and fees before the deadline. He said many students may hope to avoid having their registrations cancelled and have to re-register at the beginning of the quarter.

Central registration is quite complex for winter quarter, he said, with less than four days to accomplish what is usually done in five days.

Home Ec prof gets appointed

CARBONDALE, Ill. Sept.—Paul J. Lougey, registered architect, has been appointed associate professor of interior design in the School of Home Economics effective Sept. 19.

Lougey has been chairman of the architecture technology department at the Vocational Technical Institute since 1964 and had been a member of the University architect's office for two years prior to that. He previously had been a practicing architect in Bloomington, Ill.

Upon completion of his master's degree in educational technology in the SIU School of Technology, Lougey will become chairman of the interior design department. He expects to complete the requirements during the fall quarter.

A native of Belleville, he holds his professional architecture degree from the University of Illinois. Lougey is a painter by avocation and has exhibited his water colors in several Midwest professional art shows.

As his new position, his training and experience will be focused on interior design of all types of construction—residential, commercial and industrial—according to Thomas M. Brooks, dean of the School of Home Economics.

Livestock team finishes third

The livestock judging team from SIU has returned to campus with a third place team ranking in inter-collegiate contests at the Mid-South Fair in Memphis Saturday.

The team also was second among the 12 competing collegiate teams in rating beef cattle. Receiving honors among the SIU team were, in order: Daniel Mast, fourth, and David Nolte, ninth in the judging scores among individual participants. Eric Ronker was third high individual in beef cattle judging. Other SIU team members were Paul Geary, Thomas Smith and Kerry Pate. Harold Hodson, associate professor of animal industries, is the team sponsor.

Tests given for textiles courses

The Department of Clothing and Textiles will administer proficiency tests for CAF 125 and 127, at 10 a.m. Monday in Home Economics 310, according to Sue Nelson, department secretary.

The 127B course will be administered in two parts. A written test will be given first, followed by a practical sewing test will be given.

Tuition and fees may be deferred any time before Nov. 27 and the usual fee payment deadline of Dec. 13. said Joe Troutt, accounts receivable manager in the Bureau's Office. Deferral extends the deadline for payment of winter quarter fees until Jan. 11.

Troutt said fees which total less than $50 will be deferred.

Andrews said many registration difficulties are caused by students not knowing where to get necessary registration information. Much of the information is available in the schedule of classes. As an example, he said classes being offered for pass-fail credit are listed as such in the schedule.

Advance registration and program changes for undergraduates will be processed from Oct. 9-Dec. 8. Graduate advance registration and program changes will be processed from Oct. 9—Dec. 15.

Nobel Peace Prize will not be awarded

Oslo, Norway (AP)—The Nobel Peace Prize will not be awarded this year, the 19th omission since the prizes began in 1901.

The five-man Nobel committee of the Norwegian parliament, announcing Wednesday that the prize would not be given, did not give any reason.

But the general view in Oslo was that the committee was unable to find a worthy candidate. The prize money, about $100,000, will be kept in the Nobel fund. The prize was last untied in 1967.

The committee never discloses the names of the candidates, but at least one of the people proposed as a candidate was Dr. Elise Ottesen-Jensen, a Swedish family planning expert.

Other known proposed candidates were the antiwar priests Philip and Daniel Berrigan, and Archbishop Dom Helder Camara of Brazil.

In 1971 the prize went to Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany who was cited for his efforts at East-West reconciliation.

American winners in the postwar period were Norman Borlaug in 1970, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in 1964, George C. Marshall in 1953, and Emily G. Bolling and John M. Drinan in 1946.

At times the prize has gone to organizations rather than to individuals. In 1969 the International Labor Organization based in Switzerland received it, and in 1965 the prize went to UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund.

The prize was established in the will of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite.

Birds going on "pill"

Rotterdam (AP) — The municipality of Rotterdam began netting pigeons last February to rid itself of the nuisance birds.

But the city is keeping a close watch on the pigeons in another Dutch city, Amsterdam, where pigeons are being fed special food containing substances that interfere with their breeding.

If Amsterdam's "bird pill" works, Rotterdam may adopt pigeon family planning, according to Rotterdam's information service.

Computers Users Group to hold meeting Friday

The Computers Users Group will meet at noon Friday, in the Illinois Room of the Student Center. The meeting is open to all users of the computer facilities. There is a charge of 50 cents for the luncheon.

According to R.W. Davis, a member of the group’s steering committee, the purpose of this meeting is to hear the report on the summer activities from the steering committee and to get plans for the rest of the year organized.

Davis said the Computers Users Group is composed of faculty and graduate students who are interested in using and improving the academic computing facilities at SIU. The group meets every month, share the problems and ideas related to computing.

"Probably 40 to 50 members attend the meetings regularly and perhaps another 50 attend occasionally. In general, the group consists of faculty members using computers for research or for educational instruction," Davis said.

Davis explained that the group has no dues, is not affiliated with any one department, and serves the needs of only those who attend the meetings.

Provisions for the luncheon must be made by noon Thursday, Sept. 28. This can be done by contacting Davis at the geology department.

Student affairs studied, at administrative retreat

The administrative retreat held last Thursday through Saturday at Pere Marquette State Park for five members of the Office of Student Affairs was used to discuss an "operational overview" of the student affairs division. Dean of Students George Mace said Wednesday.

He said about 30 problem areas were discussed and task forces established to study them. The task forces are to report on these areas sometime next spring.

Loretta Ott, associate dean of student services; Terrence Buck, dean of student services; Frank Adams, director of student work and financial assistance; and Emil Spence, dean of student life, attended the retreat in addition to Mace.

Mace said the retreat was productive with general approaches to administration also being discussed.

Legislative committee investigates hospital

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) - Medical negligence may have contributed to the death of at least one of three patients who have died at Peoria State Hospital since June, according to the Illinois Legislative Investigation Commission. The commission is conducting hearings on conditions at the hospital.

Roger C. Nauert, the commission’s chief counsel, said the Aug. 30 death of Robert Logan, a Rock Island resident who had been at the hospital two years, may have resulted from inadequate medical treatment.

The death of patients Jerome W. Spence, 41, who died June 24, and Bernard Law, 43, who died June 29, are also under investigation.

Logan’s death was described in an autopsy report as resulting from a brain abscess and spinal meningitis.

Larry Rodaway, an aide in Logan’s ward, testified that on Aug. 29, several days after a doctor prescribed treatment for Logan, he noticed bits of a metallic substance coming from Logan’s nose.

Rodaway said he called a nurse, who pulled a wad of paper and metal foil from Logan’s ear with forceps. Rodaway testified the doctor then examined Logan again.

The doctor was identified as Dr. Simms Legast, who testified Wednesday regarding his medical qualifications. He said he received a medical degree in the Philippines.

Women's meeting scheduled

The University and College Women of Illinois (UCWI) has scheduled an organizational meeting from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Saturday, at Stevenson Hall, on the Illinois Wesleyan University campus in Bloomington.

Barbara Martin, a new member of the organization, said the UCWI is a non-partisan, political action group. Its purpose is to improve conditions of women on Illinois campuses, Ms. Martin said.

The meeting in Bloomington will include a luncheon, speakers, registration of new members and workshops.

Persons interested in attending the luncheon at the meeting may contact Ms. Martin at 536-3369 before noon Thursday. Persons who need transportation to the meeting should contact her before 3 p.m. Thursday.

Women's concert poll set for Tuesday

"That's why we're getting it out early," LeBeau said. The survey results won't be effective for this year if done at a later date, he continued.

The survey is divided into three sections—rock groups, male vocalists and female vocalists. Students will place a mark after one of their preferred listings on the survey and then choose three favorites for which they would purchase tickets.

Results should be compiled within a week, LeBeau said.

Forms will be available in the Student Senate office in the General Classroom Building and in Student Government.

Hopefully a representative group from each academic area—VTH, education, communications, business, engineering, liberal arts and sciences, home economics and new college—will man survey tables.

Each area will be covered through surveys in classes if tables are not set up. LeBeau explained.

"We're hoping for a sample of 200 students." This is a considerable sample size, LeBeau said.

"We'll hit classes in the academic areas Tuesday until we get a fair representation of the campus," he continued.

If someone misses the sample survey and still wishes to fill out the form, he can pick one up in Room 113 in General Classroom.

Candidates trade political punches on campaign trail

By Dan McLeod
AP Political Writer

President Nixon said Wednesday he stays in Washington more than he campaigns so he can keep an eye on the Democratic vice presidential candidate accused Nixon of subverting justice to politics.

These were the principal political claims being tossed about on the campaign trail as Nixon sought votes in populous California, and Sargent Shriver delivered a major speech for the Democratic ticket on the Justice Department.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew made a speech to a farm crowd in Galesburg, Ill., saying the Nixon administration has done a lot for farmers in the last four years.

George McGovern, head of the Democratic team, was taking a day off in Washington to plan where his campaign trail will turn next.

In a statement released in connection with fund-raising visits to San Francisco and Los Angeles, Nixon said he would like to get out and campaign more, as McGovern has been prompting him to do. But the President said he had to mind the store in Washington.

Voter drive head urges SIU students to register locally

By Randy Thomas, Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Volunteers working to register students in the Student Center Wednesday urged all students who are registered elsewhere to re-register and vote in Carbondale.

Doug Diggle, coordinator of the current voter registration drive on campus, explained there is ample justification for students to vote locally because of the affect of local politics on students. Diggle said students who are registered elsewhere should bring their voter registration cards to the registrar stationed in the center and request a change of address form. Because of a recent Illinois Supreme Court decision declaring the six-month residency law invalid, this also applies to out-of-state students, Diggle said.

Valid Illinois residency laws now require 30-day residency in the state and precinct before the election.

Ken Buzbee, Democratic candidate for State Senator from the 58th district, also urged students to vote locally because of the complexity involved in obtaining and filling out an absentee ballot correctly. Buzbee, who was campaigning in the center, said more than half of all the student absentee ballots filed last year for the primary elections in Carbondale were declared invalid due to mistakes.

Diggle once again reminded students that while registration cards issued to students last year for the primary elections are now invalid. Current registration cards are now bright yellow, he said.

For the convenience of students, voter registration will be held daily from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. in Activities Rooms C and D of the center until Saturday. After this time, students must register with the Jackson County Clerk in Murphysboro.

The last date for Illinois residents to register to vote in the upcoming elections is Oct. 9.

Radio star 'Andy' dies

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles J. Correll, the voice for 32 years of Andy on the "Amos and Andy" radio show, died of a heart attack Sunday. He was 82.

He had been admitted to Wesley Memorial Hospital in Chicago on Saturday.

Correll, who was born in Peoria, spent his retirement in Beverly Hills, Calif., where he lived a few blocks from Freeman Gosden, the voice of Amos for the duration of the radio show.

The show began in 1928 and was aired by both the National Broadcasting Co. and Columbia Broadcasting Co. before it left the air in 1960. The show, during one 18-year stretch, was aired every night of the week.

Action on hours reduction set

The proposal to reduce the number of hours required for graduation from 192 to 186 is scheduled for action at the Faculty Council meeting on Oct. 10.

The proposed reduction is based on elimination of physical educational requirements and the fact that SIU is one of few state universities with a graduation requirement over 186 hours.

The proposal, by the undergraduate education policy committee, if passed by the council would go to the President's Office for action and may require approval by the Board of Trustees before it can be implemented.

Esperanto club sponsors series
The Esperanto Club will sponsor a series of "mini courses" at the international language at 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. each Thursday in Home Economics 126.

Esperanto is an international language which is based on words common to the main European languages. The instructor will be John F. Gadway, graduate student in the department of economics.

Each "mini course" will treat one selected aspect of the Esperanto grammar. Each course will be designed to supplement the work students may be doing on their own.

Associate professor heads national rehab committee
Brookman Schumacher, associate professor and coordinator of rehabilitation counselor training in the Rehabilitation Institute has been elected president of the Committee on Rehabilitation Education.

The committee is composed of representatives of five national professional organizations and is responsible for rehabilitation counselor training programs throughout the United States.

As its first task, the group will seek to develop instruments and criteria for accreditation of training programs. The first year of activity will also include development of consultation and assistance for developing programs which will move toward later accreditation.

In addition to the usual factors in assisting the development of an existing program, the committee will seek to develop course offerings and field training. This program is supported by a Rehabilitation Services Administration grant through the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The grant will fund the development period and initiate accreditation processes in about three years, said Guy A. Remazagia, director of the SIU Rehabilitation Institute.

Remazagia said this will be the first serious attempt to accredit existing rehabilitation counselor training programs.

Female pilot handicapped by her height
Lee Elmgren of Lake Forest has earned a commercial pilot's license in the Approved Flight School of SIU, but likely will never get a chance to be an airline pilot.

You see, Lee is a girl—and is slightly less than 5 foot 2. So despite anti-sex discrimination laws, unless airline cockpit are re-designed, she can't make it— their seats are constructed for taller persons.

Lee, with blue eyes and long blond hair, is the first woman to receive the commercial license at SIU.

She is now working toward her flight instructor's rating, which she expects to complete by next March, the same time she plans to finish her studies for the bachelor's degree in the School of Home Economics. She will then tackle multi-engine and instrument rating requirements.

"Lee has been a fine student, and already has had more flight time than is required for the commercial rating," said Paul Lindberg, her instructor.

"I don't know of any airlines that currently use women pilots, but the two fields open for women are as flight instructors and in corporate flying. A number of corporations now use women pilots for their company planes.

As a student with a 4.5 grade point average, Lee held an SIU scholarship during the past summer.

Have you considered alternative presented by Minor Care Clinic?

By Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Head for the Health Service! Right? Wrong.

Go over to the Minor Care Clinic at South Washington.

Set up in November, 1971, the Minor Care Clinic hopes to ease the load of its big brother Health Service in Small Group Housing.

The clinic is located east of campus to offer health care to many SIU students living in that area who previously faced a long walk to Health Service.

"I think students complained about having to go so far," said Mary Alexander, the slim, trim, head nurse who runs the clinic under the direction of Acting Chief of Staff Dr. Don Knapp with the help of one other nurse and four student workers.

Lately, the clinic's been averaging 30 walk-ins on patients daily, less than half of what it can handle, frowns Ms. Alexander when you ask about business.

"It's been slow. I'd like to be busy every day," she chuckled. "I'd like to see 60-65 people in here every day."

The biggest problem is location, she explained. Students don't know where the Minor Care Clinic is located, nor do they know what it can offer.

"If someone comes in whom we are unable to handle, we help make an appointment for him or send him to see a doctor at the Health Service," she said.

Health Service workers currently refer students who call for appointments to the Minor Care Clinic in cases which do not need a doctor, Ms. Alexander said.

"They also tell patients about the clinic for follow-up care and dressings that need a fresh change daily," she explained.

"We could be taking a big load off the other Health Services, but more people have to become aware of the clinic," she confided.

Most students who have used the minor care center come back there rather than making the trip out to Greek Row.

"The kids who come here love it," she said. "We're not as busy as the Health Service so the clinic can afford a more personal care approach for students," Ms. Alexander explained.

The clinic is open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. but "we're always here at 8 o'clock to help anyone that comes in," she continued. The clinic is also open during lunch hours.

Mr. Alexander was the first walk-in nurse at the Health Service. She handled all students without appointments, which kept her very busy, she said.

That's how the Minor Care Clinic should be, she said.

Coed snake charmer

Pam Williams demonstrates the ease of handling her 6-foot-2, 11 pound South American boa. Although only an infant, the boa, named Samantha, is expected to reach a length of 14 feet.

SIU study documents infant mortality rate

Three-fourths of the cases of SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome) occur during the first 26 weeks of the baby's life, a SIU survey of Illinois cases indicates.

By David Ambron

College students, according to tradition, enjoy as pets such things as soft, cuddly cats or puppies. Not so for Pam Williams, a student from Edwardsville, who has a biology major from Park Forest.

Pam is the owner of a South American boa, which was a birthday gift to her several months ago from her roommate.

Miss Williams estimated the weight of her pet, Samantha, at 11 pounds and indicated that she is still growing.

The average size attained by these animals, according to Miss Williams, is around 14 feet.

The fact that Samantha sheds her skin every two months "would denote that she is still growing fairly rapidly," Miss Williams said.

Miss Williams related how the snake suffered from mouth rot when she first began working with the snake and her subsequent battle to cure it.

Mouth rot, she said, "is probably the main killer of captive snakes; most of the snakes in zoos suffer from it."

Initially, Miss Williams began treating the snake's mouth with hydrogen peroxide but found the treatment had little effect.

"The refusal to eat," she said, because it hurts the animal to eat.

Recently, Miss Williams began consulting some instructors on campus, but to little avail, and quickly turned Samantha to a local veterinarian.

"The vet freaked-out," Miss Williams said, but suggested she give her pet penicillin to combat the infection.

In the meantime, Miss Williams has been studying this snake's mouth and start agar cultures from the mouth to isolate the bacteria, or fungus, causing the infection. This was done, she explained, to determine whether or not penicillin would be effective.

Just before the boa shed her skin the eye coverings loosen and separate from the eye so it may be shed with the rest of the skin. These coverings tend to clump together once they have separated, thus impairing the snake's vision, Miss Williams added.

I think she feels intimidated," Miss Williams continued, when she is being handled and "can't see you." She said some people may not believe snake's have minds.

"But you work with Samantha, and you know."
Bad weather poses threat to Russian wheat harvest

MOSCOW (AP)—Bad weather and disorganization are threatening the wheat crop in several key grain-growing areas in the Soviet Union that were counted on to save the 1972 harvest from being a disaster, according to Soviet press reports.

A stunted, scorched crop in the traditional wheat producing areas of European Russia has already forced the Soviets to buy more than $1 billion worth of grain from the United States, Canada, and Australia.

Kleindienst says checks did pass

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst has announced that for the first time that the FBI traced four checks from Republican sources to the bank account of one of five men indicted in the Watergate break-in.

Kleindienst said at a news conference Tuesday that the FBI's investigation into bugging of the Washington Democratic party headquarters "encompassed the low" of the four checks from the Republican sources into the Miami bank account of Bernard L. Barker, one of the defendants in the case.

The attorney general mentioned no names other than Barker.

Layer-Kenney ask councils to alter senate decisions

In an attempt to bolster support for the University Senate, the senate president and governance committee chairman have expressed concern over voluntary constituency group participation in the campus governance system.

University Senate President David Kenney has appealed to the Civil Service Employee's and Administrative and Professional Staff Councils to reconsider their commitment to the governance system.

Robert L. Gayer, chairman of the governance committee, said Wednesday he is "delighted" with the response of the Faculty Council to support the governance system, and said, "I wouldn't be surprised if the administrative and civil service councils reverse their decisions."

Kenney, in letters to the civil service and staff councils, said he feels these constituencies have misunderstood the question asking for a reaffirmation of the governance system.

The staff council said it supports President David Derge in his denial of veto override and legislative powers to the senate.

Kemp said it is "not the case that President Derge's decision in this matter is in the slightest degree controversial."

In indicating that the council misinterpreted the reaffirmation question, Kenney said, "The significant question at this time is whether the constituencies are willing to voluntarily support a governance system from which they have already benefited."
Final hockey series threatened by dispute

MOSCOW (AP)—The final game of the hockey series between Team Canada and Russia could be canceled if a dispute over referees which arose Wednesday is not settled, a Canadian spokesman announced.

Canadian Coach Harry Sinden termed the situation "serious" and added: "There could be no eighth game." Russia and Canada are tied with three victories each, and one game tied with the final match of the series scheduled for Thursday night.

The problem came up Wednesday when assistant coach John Ferguson and director Alan Eagleson were summoned to a meeting with Soviet officials. Sinden said Canadian Russians were discussing the problem themselves and a decision may be announced Wednesday night.

Eagleson said the Canadians will not accept two West German referees for the crucial final game and left the Russians to make up their minds. Following Sunday's game officiated by the two West Germans, Josef Ormanna and Frank Raeder, the Canadians called the referees "incompetent" and requested they not be assigned to any further games.

Olympic bill before Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill designed to boost America's fortunes in future Olympics was introduced in the Senate Wednesday.

The measure, co-sponsored by Sens. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., will create a National Amateur Sports Foundation to fund sports facilities and training programs and develop greater cooperation among existing sports organizations.

In introducing the bill on the Senate floor, Thurmond said the Foundation "will work with the present amateur athletic organizations but is in no way an attempt to supplant or assume control over these organizations."

Siu takes to air

Ivey Moore, 19,996-pound Memphis, Tenn. native, was a complete surprise, Towers said. "He has a lot of ability and has been particularly impressive catching the ball in heavy traffic," Towers said.

"Siu's running backs and tight ends are other potential receivers. Towers noted.

Fullback George Loukas, who led the team in rushing with 1,462 yards last season, was also the Salukis' No. 2 receiver with 241 yards.

"Loukas has real good hands," Towers said, "even though he dropped a pass against Lamar for 27 yards that put the Salukis in scoring position until a series of errors moved the ball from the one yard line.

Mike Ebeling, this week's starting running back—replacing Thomas Thompson—also is capable of making the clutch catch, Towers said. Ebeling caught a pass against Lamar for 27 yards that put the Salukis in scoring position until a series of errors moved the ball from the one yard line.

Saluki tight ends are Mike Raczka, driver and Mike Habbe. All three, according to Towers, show promise as receivers.

The loss of tight end Lionel Antoine, who was drafted in the first round by the Chicago Bears, is sure to hurt SIU. But Towers notes, "Our three tight ends are potentially better receivers than Antoine and would help us."

Salukis take to the air to stop Wichita State

Saluki cross country ace

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Until last Saturday, the only thing that had stopped John St. John this year was Hurricane Agnes.

"I had a job in Florida this summer," the SIU sophomore cross-country runner said, "and I was forced to run every day. The hurricane held me out of running for three weeks, though."

Then Indiana University barried St. John's weekend's upset over the Hoosiers. It was the latter's first defeat of the fall season.

"He has improved over last year in age and seasonings, consistency and confidence," cites Saluki coach Lew Hartzog. "But the confidence has been the most important change in a year."

"St. John had pseudo-confidence in 1971 but this year he's got real confidence in his. He's ready to test the opponents," Hartzog said.

St. John is a member of SIU's indoor and outdoor track teams, has a potential of improving his time by about 20 per cent.

If you think cross-country is just a part-time endeavor, take another look at St. John's mythical pedometer.

"I run about 15-20 miles a day," he said, "and an average of 100 miles a week."

But all that mileage can be boring. "I've got to vary my running program," the lanky blonde pointed out. "If the ground is wet, I'll run on a paved surface: if it's dry, I'll stick to a dirt road."

As St. John has improved since his freshman year, so has the overall strength of the Southern Illinois team.

"One thing which really hits me," St. John compares, "is that no matter how fast I start at the beginning of a race this year, the guys on the team are always right behind me.

"And that includes the two freshmen (Dan Bulloch and Tom Falton). They've been a great surprise for us. If they can stay near the top of the pack and not get psyched out by the opponents, they'll be a real help during the big meets."

St. John's coach calls the "big" meets this fall the Illinois and Central Collegiates and the NCAA affair. Both are fairly optimistic about the first two, barring any serious injuries to Saluki barriers.

Hartzog and St. John are also confident regarding SIU's final four dual meets. "I hate to make any predictions," St. John said, "but in the back of my mind I think we can go undefeated this year. And we'll be ready for the College meets and nationals, too."

Varsity events include women

NEW YORK (AP)—Women will be allowed to participate in varsity athletics at the discretion of member schools, the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference voted Wednesday at its 38th annual schedule making convention. The ECAC also approved post-season tournaments in soccer, basketball and football for schools in divisions two and three on a regional basis with four teams competing in each region.
