Cardinal John Cody accused of fund misappropriations

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal prosecutor said Thursday he has received allegations that Cardinal John Cody improperly diverted church funds and Mrs. Wilson, who retired from an $8,006-a-year clerk position for the St. Louis Archdiocese in 1969, denied receiving any money from the church.

U.S. Attorney Dan K. Webb said his office had received allegations of "improper diversion of church funds" by Cody.

Webb said in a statement that he has the "responsibility of determining the accuracy of the allegations and whether any federal laws have been violated." But he did not say specifically that he was investigating the allegations against Cody or where those allegations came from.

The Sun-Times said the grand jury has issued subpoenas for financial records of the archdiocese, the cardinal and Mrs. Wilson, a friend of Cody's since childhood and part of his extended family.

The newspaper said the cardinal is trying to determine whether Cody used any part of more than $1 million from two church bank accounts to benefit Mrs. Wilson.

The prosecutor said the newspaper's charges were "so ambiguous as to hamper a point-by-point rebuttal" but said "the cardinal with his bishops and staff steadily deny the charges and implications made by those charges.

Mrs. Wilson, reached in St. Louis by the Post-Dispatch, denied receiving any money from Cody. "God, no," she said. "I think it's a vicious joke.

She said she was unaware that a federal grand jury had subpoenaed her financial records from an investment firm where she has an account.

CETA program funding was cut. A Faces story on the effects of budget cuts begins on Page 5.

Workers promised a meeting

County union to be discussion topic

By Lisa Griffin

Union representatives for courthouse employees met with the Jackson County Board Wednesday and were sent away with a promise and an assurance that they would not be shut out.

County board members voted 3-2 to arrange a date for representatives of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees-AFL-CIO to meet with members of the county legislative committee.

Robert Crim, chairman of the committee, assured union representatives, "You won't be on a merry-go-round."

"This is not unusual," said Les Keck, AFSCME representative on Thursday. "The thing that we would be troubled by is a loss from one committee to another type of thing."

Keck said the board could recognize the union by adopting the union's claim that a majority of courthouse employees have signed union cards, or by asking the Illinois Department of Labor to conduct a union card check against a list of employees or by asking the IDL to hold a secret ballot election.

Court employees began taking steps to unionize in July after Finance Committee Chairman Doug Erickson suggested that if financial cuts were to be made in the county budget, they should be made in personnel.

Crim said the meeting will be purely informational. It is to be held before the next meeting of the board on Oct. 14. Union representatives, county officials and courthouse employees are to be present at the committee meeting.

Cardinal John Cody accused of fund misappropriations

By Tim Coppe

The SIU Board of Trustees Thursday approved a proposed 1983 budget of $107.3 million, a 13.3 percent increase over last year's budget. It includes a $10 million raise and more than $18 million in funds for capital improvements.

SIU's share of the budget comes to about $5 million, a 6 percent increase over the current year.

Almost $9 million was allocated for an average 5 percent increase in SIU-C faculty and staff salaries, with a 2 percent increase scheduled later.

Before the board voted on the capital improvements budget, it agreed to make a $5.5 million land acquisition proposal second on the 25-item priority list. This money will be used to buy the Bracy Building, an 11-story site and warehouse in Marion, for use as a library storage facility for SIUC.

CIU-C president Albert Somit said he recognizes that the purchase of the warehouse is not the ideal solution but problems in funding an expansion of Morris Library made it the only answer available at this time.

Other SIU-C proposals include $21 million to buy property for the medical school program, a $15 million fund for the central fire alarm and systems and various remodeling projects.

The board also confirmed the appointment of two new SIU-C department heads.

Michael G. Wade, a 39-year-old native of Great Britain, will replace Edward J. Shea as head of the physical education department. Shea has returned to full teaching.

Paul J. Angiol will be taking over as head of the linguistics department and the Center for English as a Second Language.
WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States and Israel have decided to undertake joint military measures to guard the Middle East against the Soviet Union and other "external threats," Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said Thursday.

Haig told reporters the two governments were drafting a memorandum to formalize the new ties set by President Reagan and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin during two days of talks at the White House.

"We are talking about joint planning, collaborative studies and efforts which focus on external threats to the region," Haig said. Specifically, be said, the United States and Israel might conduct joint naval exercises and Begin would discuss with William Casey, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, sharing the United States might provide in an emergency. But Haig and Begin, who held a separate news conference, stressed that American troops would not be used for the defense of Israel.

Earlier, Begin renewed his attack upon the pending U.S. arms deal for Saudi Arabia despite his agreement in "principle" with Reagan on closer security ties for his own nation.

And, after declaring earlier in the day that "It's not for us to give signals to congressmen and senators," Begin took his case against the administration's $8.5 billion Saudi package to committees of both the House and Senate.

"We brought maps; we brought numbers and facts," Begin told reporters after a closed meeting with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. "We do not as Israeli citizens interfere with discussions between the two branches of the American government." Begin said. "But as members of the government... we are duty bound to tell the innermost truth and we believe that this problem is very dangerous to our national security."

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Senate committee, said most of the hour-long meeting was spent questioning Begin in detail on reasons for his opposition.

Earlier, after Begin's third and final meeting with Reagan at the White House, both leaders hailed their new understanding over closer strategic ties as a firm barrier to Soviet penetration in the Middle East.

Student Senate creates system to advise USO

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

An amendment creating a Student Advisory System was passed by the Student Senate Wednesday.

But before it passed, the amendment was changed to include a list of 13 student organizations to be represented by their presidents on the SAS.

The organizations include the Black Affairs Council, the InterGreek Council, the International Student Council and the four University Housing councils.

The amendment was changed because the Senate "wanted to state in writing the groups included in the SAS so that each time a group was added to the SAS, the bylaws would not have to be amended," Gregg Larson, Undergraduate Student Organization vice president and chairman of the Student Senate, said.

The SAS was set up to promote a quick, effective exchange of ideas between the USO and student advisory groups.

The Student Senate passed two resolutions honoring State Sen. Kenneth V. Larson and State Rep. Bruce Richmond for devoting "considerable time and effort in the state legislature in the interests of students from SIU-C."

Three senators were seated at the meeting: Dennis Burton, East Side; Paul Ohanian, East Side; and Mark Grove, West Side.

Ohanian replaces former Senator Ross Toedte, who graduated.

A bill incorporating the position of the USO chief of staff into the SAS bylaws was passed by a voice vote. Jerry Cook, the chief of staff, is responsible for monitoring the USO's fiscal affairs and all the activities of the USO's executive staff.

Larson said the Senate's second meeting was successful because the senators "raised a lot of good questions, which added to the overall productivity of the meeting."

"I think the senators gained a lot of knowledge of senate structure and parliamentary procedure from our first meeting, and they implemented that knowledge through debate and discussion," Larson added.

Hearing waived by drug defendants

The two SIU-C students arrested Sept. 3 in Carbondale on charges of unlawful delivery of cocaine waived their preliminary hearing Thursday in U.S. District Court in Benton and a new trial date will be set, according to a district court clerk.

Brian Steiner, 407 W. Pecan St., a senior in administrative science, and Barry K. Olson, 1911 Emerald Lane, a junior in general academic programs, were arrested after they were allegedly observed selling cocaine to an informant by Drug Enforcement Administration agents.

Both Steiner and Olson have been released on bond from the St. Clair County Jail in Belleville.

Liquor license request endorsed

The Carbondale Liquor Advisory Board endorsed the application for a Class A liquor license to Champaign Bar & Grill owner Joe McNamara, for his facility, "The Bar," to be located at 212 E. Main St., the former location of the bar Second Chance.

The board serves in an advisory capacity to the Liquor Control Commission.
If budget cuts don’t work, Reagan should be exiled

News item, Sept. 8, 1981:

Three children died in a fire started by aandle a few hours when electricity was shut off because the family hadn't paid its bill, authorities said Wednesday.

Gov. Jerry Brown and his wife, Shelly, said they were told that the fire was started by a "safety net," and that the power was shut off "because the house was shut off because the family hadn't paid its bill, authorities said Wednesday."

That story is more than one of those tragically ironic reports that have come to seem almost a staple of the times. It is, in its own way, a bitter symbol of the times: a story that illustrates something larger about our society than the emotions that reach beyond sorrow for one family's tragedy. It tells us that we are not alone, and culminates in a collective moan.

It is the story of everyone who struggles to make ends meet in a world that is indifferent. It is the story of the indignity of being poor in a world that prides wealth and admires the acquisition of luxuries. It is the story of helplessness in a world that reads books called "Winning Through Intuition."

It is the story of people who read about budget cuts and the long-term benefits of supply-side economics and are left wonderin...
Budget cuts hit social programs

Some services, jobs to be reduced by slashes

By Karas Galle
Staff Writer

Dramatic federal spending cuts in social programs which take effect Oct. 1 will have a devastating effect on several social services in Southern Illinois.

Some programs will lose most of their staffs because funding for public service jobs has been eliminated. Other programs will have to reduce their services because they rely on federal funds. Tighter eligibility requirements for public aid will eliminate needy families from certain programs. And some social service administrators say their services probably won't last through 1982.

"The cuts have come fast and furious," said one administrator.

In one of the most far-reaching economic measures since the New Deal, the Reagan Administration in July voted federal cuts of more than $33 billion for this year and $132 billion over the next three years. The measure cuts spending for more than 200 domestic programs, including food stamps, child care, child nutrition, and Social Security.

Funding for the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act's public-service job programs was totally wiped out. The cuts, according to the Reagan administration, are designed to generate a massive infusion of investment capital which will create hundreds of new jobs for unemployed Americans. The only real solution to the plight of the poor is to create more jobs, not more welfare, the administration contends. But the immediate effects of the cuts will be felt by recipients of social programs, namely the poor and elderly.

"Services will be cut to fairly low-income families and to people who have nowhere else to turn," according to Jean Peters, special projects aide for Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th District.

Hardest hit will be programs where CETA workers made up a significant part of the work force. In five Southern Illinois counties (Calhoun, Pope, Hardin, Gallatin and Hamilton), 716 CETA employees with salaries totaling $444,000 lost their jobs. Most of Jackson County's 140 CETA workers have left their work sites. CETA participants worked in many fields throughout the area, from animal control wardens to grant lawyers, therapists and social workers. Many provided human and medical services.

For example, the loss of two social service workers at the Carbondale Senior Citizens Center will impact the center's counseling and social services by 25 percent. Another CETA worker was the center's van service, which provided transportation to senior citizens for medical appointments, jobs, family visiting and shopping. With one less driver, the trips were reduced by 800 a month.

Drug rehabilitation programs in Carbondale also are suffering from the loss of CETA workers. AEON, a non-profit counseling center, lost two outreach therapists, reducing the center's counseling capabilities by 40 percent. Funding for a big brother-big sister juvenile drug prevention program was cut and the center's total budget has been reduced by over $30,000 from last year as a result of reductions in state funding. Currently AEON is treating 20 adults with funds for only 11 clients and also treats 22 juvenile clients. The number of clients AEON serves is down significantly from prior years and the outlook for the future is bleak, says director Tim Weber. AEON may not survive next year's budget cuts, he says.

Synergy, a non-profit social service agency that provides emergency services and counseling in Carbondale, lost over 50 percent of its staff when its CETA workers left. The agency is operating with four workers, down from 12 earlier this year

Toni Paprocki, Synergy's administrative coordinator, said the program is looking for volunteers to fill the staff. He said Synergy's projected budget for 1982 is 90,000, down from the originally projected $100,000.

"We have to try to cut down our staff and our costs, but we don't want to affect our service," he said. "There's a good possibility that we may have to" close down by 1983." Paprocki said Synergy may look for local support in the future to keep its door open. But his program may be competing with other social services for state and local funds. One aim of the federal budget cuts is to convert numerous single-category aid programs into broad block grants to the states at reduced funding levels. The new federal budget will not kill programs, but will redistribute the money flowing to the states and cities, forcing local officials to decide what stays and what goes.

"The prevalent view now is that the federal government should be involved in matters at the local level to the least extent possible," said Don Mosty, director of Carbondale's Community Development Office. "Local elected officials won't be able to stand the heat. Your city council members live down the street, you can go and argue with them and it doesn't cost anything." Can Southern Illinois municipalities help foot the bill for social services in the future? State Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-58th District, says the answer is no. "Municipalities cannot furnish the amount of funding that the federal government does," Richmond said. Some programs just have to be cut out.

Meanwhile, stricter eligibility requirements for public aid will knock some needy families off the first rung of the middle class. According to Dan Pittman of the Illinois Department of Public Aid, the government's aim is to continue benefits to the "truly needy." The government can't eliminate programs, but the funds it is saying that the eligibility can be lowered to reduce the number of people who receive the benefits at the upper end of the programs," Pittman said.

For instance, tightened food stamp regulations will cut $1.8 billion from the program nationwide in fiscal 1982. Families with incomes over $11,000 will not be eligible for food stamps, removing 1.4 million families from the program nationwide in the 22 counties of Southern Illinois that comprise the 24th Congressional District, the program had a budget of over $15 million in 1981. Pittman said there will be $95 million dollars less in food stamp money.
Rehabilitation Institute slates seminar for fall

The Rehabilitation Institute has planned a professional seminar in rehabilitation to meet on Friday afternoons throughout the fall semester in Lawson 161. The first session will be Friday from 3 to 4:30 p.m.

Following a presentation-discussion format, the program will focus on current research, applied practices and innovation in rehabilitation. The program will feature a different guest lecturer each week.

The seminar has been approved for certification maintenance, and each session attended merits two hours of credit.

Students attending the seminar can obtain one hour of graduate credit from the University by registering for Rehab 589. For registered students, attendance is required at all sessions except for the 5-9, 18 meeting, which deals with behavior modification.

The seminar has been approved for certification maintenance. And each session attended merits two hours of credit.

coming into Illinois next year. Further eligibility requirements for recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children, the welfare program, will cut $1 billion from the program nationwide. The program assists 720,000 persons in Illinois, many of whom reside in Southern Illinois. Marion, Williamson and Jefferson counties each have over 10,000 recipients of the program. About 5,500 families receive AFDC benefits in Jackson County, representing over 16,000 individual recipients. Of that number, 11,478 are children. With the new requirements, it's estimated that AFDC payments in Illinois will be reduced by $29 million. Last year total AFDC payments in Jackson County alone totaled $9,671,000. For now, the federal budget cuts are a dry litany of alphabet agencies and seven-digit numbers, but within a month the cuts will be a reality for Southern Illinois' needy families. "A lot of observers have been surprised at how moderate the reaction has been to the cutbacks," reflects Don Monty. "Thus far it has been largely a matter of rhetoric and theory. People have yet to feel it."

"What shall I do then with Jesus who is called the Messiah."

TV production vies for Emmy

By Joe Walter
Entertainment Editor

Over the past seven years, the SIU-C. Radio-Television Department has offered a workshop in television dramas before the spring and summer semesters. The workshop's production this year, "Murphy's Law," is to be judged for an Emmy in the entertainment category for college productions.

"Murphy's Law" is a comedy about a 33-year-old college professor, played by Tom Kasy, who has a relationship with one of his students played by Beth-Ann Patmythe. Eugene Dyvig, associate professor in the Radio-TV Department and former acting director of the WSIU Broadcasting Service, has taught the workshop for the past three years. Dyvig said the acting talent was selected from theater students and the technical end of the workshop was done by Radio-TV students.

Dyvig said he read "Murphy's Law," written by William Lewis of the English Department, liked it and thought it would be adaptable for television. "Bill cast the show, and as casting director he was responsible for the dramatic interpretation," he said.

The building of the set took place about a week before the actual production began, Dyvig said, and the dramatic rehearsals, conducted by Lewis, were also done about a week before the taping began.

When the production began, Dyvig said, the students had two weeks to complete a one-hour video tape. Dyvig added that during the production "there was no display of temperament, or argument, everyone worked wonderfully together. It takes patience to work in television."

Lewis, a visiting assistant professor, wrote "Murphy's Law" in the late summer and fall of 1979. Since that time, the play has gone through about nine rewrites, Lewis said. Most of the rewrites, according to Lewis, dealt with the motivation of the play, the jokes and "tightening up." Lewis also said that Dyvig, who as instructor was executive producer of the production, made some creative suggestions.

Lewis' script went through many changes to suit a television audience. "Theoretically, it's kind of rough," Lewis said. "We had to clean it up for the general public."

Lewis added that the revisions did not change the play that much. "We still talk about breasts and we talk about sex," he said. "You know you can't say 'tit' on television, but you can say 'boobs.'"

Campus blood donors tell their reasons

"The chocolate chip cookies are the best part," said one volunteer.

"It's something I've always wanted to do, but never got around to," said first-time donor Stacy Armstrong.

Faculty, staff and student blood donors participated Wednesday in the Red Cross blood drive sponsored by the University in the Student Center.

"The individual goal of each drive is meaningless," explained Joe Rapinski, personnel officer at SIUC. "We set a goal of 1,500 plates per year and that's what we shoot for."

Donating blood is a good idea," said Barbara Byrne, 26, who has donated 34 times in eight years.

"It's something we do," said first-time donor Stacy Armstrong, junior in accounting. She also agreed that more publicity was needed.

"We're in this together," said Jimmie Armstrong, senior in plant management, and soil science, said that he had no problems and that she would give again. "I even watched them put the needle in my arm."

"I didn't even know there was a blood drive until I walked by," said Shelly Rujawitz, senior in accounting. She also agreed that more publicity was needed.

"No big deal," he said. "But there needs to be more publicity about the blood drive."

"For those who missed the blood drive this time, another will be held in November."

J. Brian Shelly, senior in law enforcement, said, "Everyone who can give blood, should."

Hunter safety class to be at refuge

A safety education class sponsored by the Illinois Department of Conservation will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 19, at the Crab Orchard Refuge in Williamson County. The coordinating instructor for the class is Joe DeJulio of the refuge staff.

Illinois law requires proof of a previous hunting license or a certificate of competency issued by the Illinois Department of Conservation from persons under 16 who want to obtain a hunting license. The class offers persons the opportunity to earn the necessary Hunter Safety Certification.

The class requires that persons wishing to obtain certification attend eight hours of instruction. The class will cover subjects including wildlife management, hunter ethics, firearms safety, first aid, and survival techniques. Information may be obtained from DeJulio at 997-3344.

Assessment supervisor quits over unfair taxation laws

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (AP) — Wabash County Supervisor of Assessments Rick Rigg has resigned his post because current Illinois laws regulating property taxes do not provide for a fair method of local taxation.

"They are discriminating and are no longer based on a person's ability to pay as they once were," Rigg said in a letter of resignation submitted to the county board.

Rigg said in his letter that no job is so important that it takes precedence over the value of respect and friendship in a community.

Lewis said that with a television production "one element is not as important as the audio. The audio is important, the set is important, even the set is not as important as the flavor of the show." Kegy, a cinema and photography student, played Murphy in "Murphy's Law." Kegy said when he was picked to play Murphy, he was overjoyed.

"It's a hard part," Kegy said. "It's fun to play a 40-year-old man." However, he added, "It was also a difficult part... He starts out light, but at the end he gets heavy.

Kegy said he likes the part, even though he thinks that Murphy is "a jerk." Kegy has been praised by Dyberg and Bicken for his performance. "I was nervous for comedy," he said. "I guess it's true, that's what I do for a living. I'll stop it, but I think that I could draw a few tears.

Education office changes location

The Office of International Education will move its offices from Woody Hall to Brickey-Watson Hall at 530 S. Forest St. on Friday and Saturday. The new office, just north of the Communications Building, will open to more space for the organization according to Beverly Walker, international education coordinator. The office will be closed during the move and will reopen Monday.

Unified voice goal of USO retreat

State Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-DuPage, and State Sen. Kenneth V. Buzbee, D-DuPage, will address the attendees at the USO retreat at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn at the Touch of Nature.

Richmond will speak to the student senators about "how the Illinois House of Representatives views higher education in general and the ISU system specifically," Larson said.

"Also, Sen. Buzbee will tell us what student leaders can do to gain support from our representatives both fiscally and personally," he added.

The retreat will feature workshops on parliamentary procedure and legislation writing for the student senators.

"We’re having the retreat so that the Student Senate and the executive staff can get to know each other on an informal basis so we can work better together for a common goal that is a unified voice," Larson said.

The 1981 Educational Amendments require that all Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) applications processed by the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance (SWFA) on or after October 1, 1981 must undergo a Financial Aid Need Test. Due to the volume of GSL applications being submitted, only those students submitting their GSL application to the SWFA Office through September 14, 1981 will be guaranteed processing prior to the October 1 deadline. All GSL applications submitted after September 14, 1981 will be processed in priority of date received and there is no guarantee that these loan applications will be completed prior to October 1, 1981.

Students submitting GSL applications after September 14, 1981 should file the ACT/FFS Needs Analysis Assessment form to enable the SWFA Office to process the application under the new regulations.

Anderson to lead vet golfers at ISU

By Doug Applewhite
Staff Writer

A year ago at this time, women’s golf Coach Mary Beth McGirr, really didn’t know what to expect from her young team before its season opener.

But with five returning sophomores and a talented freshman recruit, McGirr can draw a better picture of what to expect this weekend, as her team opens its season Friday at the two-day, 36-hole Illinois State Invitational at Normal.

“I will be disappointed if we don’t finish in the top five,” said the third-year coach. “All of the girls have played the course several times, so they will be familiar with it.”

The Salukis placed fourth last year in the 14-team invitational with a 662, behind champion Michigan State, Stevens College and Northern Illinois.

Barb Anderson, who last year placed seventh among individual scorers with a 161, will lead the way as McGirr’s No. 1 player Friday.

But McGirr is quick to point out that her team’s main asset is not individual strength, but overall balance.

“We have so much balance, I’m looking for all of our scores to fall in the 78 to 84 range each day,” said McGirr.

McGirr said the last year’s champion, Michigan State, will be the team to beat. But if the Salukis are to finish within the top five, she said, they will probably have to contend with last year’s runner-up, Stevens College, and 1979 champion Iowa State.

Central Michigan also showed some strength, she said.

Saluki cager quits

David Tucker, a 6-9 center who had planned to transfer from a junior college to play basketball at SIU-C, has chosen not to enroll.

Tucker was recruited by Saluki basketball Coach Allen Van Winkle from Lincoln Trail Community College in Robinson, where he averaged 17 points and 12 rebounds a game last year.

“David made the decision about three weeks ago not to attend school,” said Van Winkle.

Frisbee golf outing planned to raise funds
By Keith Maselli
Student Writer

The SIU-C Frisbee Club will hold its first annual Frisbee golf outing on Saturday, September 11, at the fountain in front of Davies Gym.

Frisbee golf is played like regular golf. The player starts from a tee-off spot and must throw the frisbee across a green and attempt to hit a designated target, using as few shots as possible.

Both club members and non-members may compete. The entry fee for members is $2 and $1 for non-members. The outing is sponsored by Old Town Liquors and trophies will be awarded to the first and second placefinishers in the men's division and a first place trophy will be given to the women's champion.

According to Gene Tracey, president of the Frisbee Club, the outing is being played to raise money for tournament travel expenses, to expand the program and to bring more members into the club.

"We want to keep expanding our program," Tracey said. "The club started two years ago with 15 people who wanted to play Ultimate Frisbee. Now we have 50 members who like to participate in a diversified number of Frisbee sports. I'd like to see the club expand into separate sport entities that would all be under one club."

Money, or lack of it, has been one of the Frisbee Clubs major problems. Tracey said that the club is doing everything and anything it can do to raise money. For every dollar the club earns, the University will match it. Tracey also said that local businesses have been very supportive of the club.

During a Frisbee Tournament played at SIU-C's first spring, Mary Lou Trammel, owner of Mary Lou's Grill and team sponsor, cooked up a breakfast special called the "Ultimate FrisFest." Borg nips Tanner at U.S. Open
NEW YORK (AP)—Sweden's Bjorn Borg has won seemingly annual quarterfinal duel with Roscoe Tanner 7-6, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6 Thursday and moved into the semifinals of the U.S. Open tennis championships.

Borg, who has yet to win America's premier tennis event in 10 years of trying, finally captured his quarterfinal battle after Tanner had swept off three match points. Now he will meet the winner of Thursday night's battle between 16th seed Jimmy Connors and No. 8 Scott Telfer.

Top-seeded John McEnroe's semifinal foe will be either No. 15 Vitali Gerulaitis or unseeded Bruce Mazor.

Women netters ready for Louisville

By Keith Mascetti

Women's tennis Coach Judy Auld received good news Wednesday because X-rays showed no ligament damage to her freshman standout Alessandra Molinari's ankle.

The ankle is sprained and according to Auld, Molinari should be able to participate in Friday's 3 p.m. match against Wheaton College at the University courts near the Arena.

"She went to the doctor and he told her that she would be able to play," Auld said. "She's going to practice Thursday and will see how it goes."

The Salukis will be involved in a home match this weekend against Wheaton, and Wheaton will play Louisville and St. Louis University on Saturday, starting at 9 a.m.

"I'm going to try to use her sparingly," Auld said. "I would like to use her in the doubles match only against Wheaton, and if the ankle is alright she will play both singles and doubles against Louisville on Saturday.

Auld feels that Louisville will be the toughest competitor and she would be happy winning two of the three matches. If the Salukis are to sweep the meet, Auld feels mental toughness and winning the crucial point will be the key.

"Playing Wheaton in the first match will help us," Auld said. "They will play us tough and test us. We have to win the first points and I know Wheaton will give us a good match and hopefully we will be up for the Louisville match."

tickets on sale

A brunch honoring Amon Bullock, William Freedom, Terry Erickson and Phil Coleman, this year's inductees into the SIU Hall of Fame, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

Tickets are $6 and may be purchased until 5 p.m. Friday at the Student Center ticket office. Tickets will be sold at the door.

The four former SIU-C athletes will be officially inducted into the Hall of Fame during halftime of the Saluki-Wichita State football game.

With Molinari back in the lineup, Auld will not have to shuffle the doubles teams like she did in last Tuesday's 6-3 loss to SIU-E. Auld will be looking for a better performance from her freshman standout and No. 1 doubles team of Amanda Allen and Heidi Eastman.

"They were not pleased with their performances against SIU-E," Auld said. "I know they're capable of playing better. They both were nervous and uptight. It was important for them to get this opening match out of the way. They just have to settle down and play. I think they'll both bounce back."

Coaches hope grid game is fumble-free

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

The SIU-C and Wichita State University football teams both fumbled the ball six times in their season openers, but each coach is hoping the fumbles are in his team's past at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, when the teams meet at Memorial Stadium in Carbondale.

The Salukis lost three fumbles in their 27-12 loss at McNeese State last Saturday. The Shockers were luckier, beating Yale 14-6 despite losing five.

Salukis Coach Roy Dempsey hopes for a better SIU-C offensive performance Saturday, and he wants a better defensive performance too.

"The fumbles hurt us," Dempsey said, but there were some times when we didn't execute on defense too. We'll have to execute on both, but we should have a better chance this week. Wichita State's not error free. That team can fumble and can get intercepted like the Salukis. The Shockers have concentrated on fumble drills this week, according to Jeff Jeffries, WSU coach.

Everybody who carried the ball for us in the opener fumbled. It's a little concerning when we're working on not fumbling, but it's not like eliminating something the players are trying to do. About all you can do is say 'don't fumble.' Both teams will have a different running back in their backfields Saturday.

The Shockers lost junior fullback Danny Johnson, who missed the first game and the Salukis miss three or four weeks with a broken hand.

Jeffries wasn't sure Thursday which player would start at fullback Saturday.

"It's between three players: Darren Wilson, Adrian Shipp and Brett Iddings," he said. "All three will play."

The three senior, season veteran Wilson has played about half. He started last year and gained 345 yards. He's been hurt in spring practice. Iddings gained 443 yards last year before his hip injury, and Shipp is a freshman.

"The Saluki backfield change came not because of injury but performance. Fullback (Fyke), the starting fullback in the Saluki opener, will be replaced by Herrick Taylor. Field was shackled at the line in many of his carries at McNeese State and gave the Cowboys a fumble-turned field goal. Taylor led the Saluki rushers, picking up 74 yards in seven carries."

Saturday, the Saluki backfield will be tackled by the fullback of the Saluki defense. Jeffries has to keep the ball away from the Salukis.

The Saluki quarterback fumbled and was intercepted early, ending Saluki drives and giving the Cowboys good field position.

"It's a fumble and interception hurt us," Dempsey said, "but he's our quarterback. We like him. Every day he's better than he was the day before." The Shockers have decided on a quarterback, too. Junior Prince McJunkins can run with the ball, just like McNeese State's Stephen Starring did against the Salukis. McJunkins rushed for 380 yards last year and for 161 last week.

"He's a better runner than Starring when he gets downfield, after he gets by tacklers," Dempsey said. "But Starring's better at getting away from tacklers in the backfield. Those are the plays that make him. McJunkins had a better way out. Starring was sacked six times by the Salukis last week. McJunkins caught 23 passes for 180 yards in a freshman last season."

While it looks like Shockers should be scared Saturday, Jeffries thinks Salukis might be.

"They have that strong offensive line and they have

Football pep rally planned

A pep rally to kick off the home football season will be held at 2 p.m. in the Hall of Fame area on the first floor of the Student Center.

The event is sponsored by the Student Center, and head football Coach Roy Dempsey and some of the Saluki football players will be on hand to meet the students. The SIU-C cheerleaders, pompon squad Marching Salukis and the Saluki marching band will also make an appearance.

The group will also be in charge of halftime programs also will make an appearance and will distribute information on various athletic events.

Fielders to find better Purdue

The field hockey team will travel to Bloomington this weekend, traveling to Indiana and Purdue universities.

The Salukis face the Hoosiers at 11 a.m. Saturday in Bloomington. The Boilermakers at 11 a.m. Sunday in West Lafayette.

Coach Robin Illner said she doesn't know what to expect from either team, since the Salukis have a new coach.

"I'm sure they'll be up for Sunday's game, and it will be a lot tougher to beat them. I don't think we will dominate them again," Illner said.
