Campaign litter

Although student government elections aren't until April 29, campaign posters have dotted campus building hallways since last quarter. Many posters were in violation of election laws, and several complaints have been filed with Rhonda Starnes, elections commissioner. The Majority Party poster on the stop sign was in violation of both a state law and the campus election rules. The party was charged with putting up campaign material before the official campaign period, and Miss Starnes recommended that the Campus Judicial Board consider the case. The party had not responded to her two warnings, she said. The two posters publicizing the Student's Party were photographed in Thompson Woods, one of the places where campaign material is prohibited. The posters, and others displayed throughout the woods, were removed after the party was told of the violation, Miss Starnes said. (Photos by Nelson Brooks)

Coalition plans non-violent protest

By Win Holden and Bob Carr
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

A special meeting of the Coalition has been held to set plans for a scheduled demonstration slated for Wednesday against the SIU Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs.

In a press statement issued following the meeting, the group disclosed tentative plans for the non-violent demonstration.

The statement said the demonstration will begin at noon Wednesday with a rally in front of the University Center. At the rally, plans for the presentation of demands to the SIU Board of Trustees at its meeting on Friday will be discussed.

An initial set of demands, formulated and presented to the Board in February, included termination of all AID contracts with the University, and the formulation of a student-faculty-community committee to review all University technical assistance programs overseas. "Two months have passed since this presentation and no sign has been made by the Board of Trustees or the administration that they are acting on the demands," the statement said.

A statement of policy on the part of the Coalition was formulated:

"Despite overwhelming opposition from all sectors of the community and nationwide protest from academic circles, the AID grant to the Vietnamese Center continues. Officials of the Center remain deaf to all voices of dissent. It has always been our contention that affiliation with government agencies would mar the objectivity of any scholarly study of Vietnam. This contention has been borne out in light of recent events in Laos. There, AID officials admitted that CIA goals had priority with AID personnel. This fact alone implicates all efforts of the Vietnamese Center at SIU. The rhetoric used to defend it is in direct contradiction to all-observable facts," the statement said.

The statement outlined plans for Friday's demonstration to include a meeting in front of Morris Library at 10 a.m. Following the brief meeting, the group will march en masse to the Board meeting at the University Center.

The statement also said a speaker from the Conspiracy 8 trial is expected to give an address Friday evening.

The statement closed by saying, "We urge all progressive elements on campus to take an active part in these demonstrations."

Gus says with all the campaign posters appearing on campus, he can see that pollution isn't one of the major issues.

Harpette 'to have festival'—suit consolidation denied

By Win Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

May Fest promoter Peter Kost said Monday, "We're going to have a festival May 8-9-10," in reaction to Judge Rodney A. Scott's rulings on two Harpette motions heard in Decatur.

Scott denied Harpette's motion to consolidate the two cases pending against them, one by four plaintiffs including the Concerned Citizens of Southern Illinois and SIU, and the other by the State of Illinois.

On the basis of that denial, Harpette attorney W. A. Armstrong withdrew the other motion requesting a continuance of the hearing which was scheduled to begin today in Murphysboro.

Deadline April 22

Egyptian to print statements

The Daily Egyptian will publish campaign statements by candidates for student government positions in the April 29 election. All candidates are invited to submit statements, which must be brought in person to the Daily Egyptian by noon Wednesday, April 22.

The statements must be signed by the candidate and include the student's name, classification, home town, address, telephone number, party affiliation and the position for which he is running. All statements must be typewritten. Candidates for student body president are allowed 40 typewritten lines, vice presidential candidates 20 lines, and Student Senate aspirants 10 lines.

The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to edit all statements to conform to length limitations and good taste. Statements not meeting the above requirements will not be published.

Candidates for student body president and both vice pres-identical positions should submit a current photograph with their statements, or make an appointment to have one taken by a Daily Egyptian photographer. The deadline for making photo appointments is noon April 21.

going to play political football with us." According to Kost, the physical facilities for the festival are all ready. "The water system is in St. Louis and it's all ready to go. The stage is being assembled outside the area (Audion Meadows) and the food trailers are all done. All I have to do now is lay the fence lines and hope for good weather," he said.

Kost said neither plaintiff was ever granted a temporary injunction and as a result, there is nothing to prevent the festival being presented on the original dates.

"Now we know what kind of a ball game they're going to play," Kost said. "The date we are aiming at is May 8."

Statements listing the above regulations can be obtained at the Daily Egyptian offices in barracks O-33, north of the Technology Building. Copies are also available from the elections commissioner at the Student Government Office, T-39, north of the University Center.

Audubon Society to hold 1st meeting

Conservationists may now take to the woods under the auspices of the Southern Illinois Audubon Society, organized by members of the Department of Botany at SIU and residents in the Carbondale area.

The society will hold its first meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the Mt. Moriah Lutheran Church in Anna. Students are welcome.

Officers will be elected and a film, "Pattern of the Wild," will be shown.

SIU Air Squads send delegations

The SIU squadron of Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight sent approximately 29 representatives to the 22nd Annual National Conclave at Anaheim, Calif. today and Wednesday.

About 3,000 Arnolds and Angels from over 150 detachments will attend various meetings and learn how Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight operate on a national level, according to Capt. H. A. Staley.

SIU's Arnold squadron, rated best in the Midwest region, will compete for the best national squadron. John Barrett, best regional commander, will be in the competition for best national squadron commander.

Opinion

SIU calendar serving whom?

SIU's calendar seems to be structured for the workings of the University exclusive of consideration for students and faculty members. A few hypothetical examples serve to illustrate this contention.

Consider the student whose last quarter in school is summer quarter. This year, finals end Sept. 4 with graduation on Sept. 5. If this student has say a teaching job waiting for him upon graduation this gives the student a grand total of two days to move, get situated, get his classroom ready and be able to smile as the students walk into the classroom, assuming most schools start the day following Labor Day. Incidentally, Carbondale elementary schools begin August 31.

Or consider the faculty member at SIU with children in elementary or secondary school. The longest break during the academic year is that following summer quarter. Unfortunately for the faculty member and his family, no vacation together is possible at that time because the children are beginning their school year.

A final example might be the student who wants summer employment. This year spring quarter finals are over the second week in June putting the SIU student in the job market in the middle of a month and after the semester schools are out with students ready to take jobs at an earlier date.

SIU's administration might want to take into serious consideration a calendar which has the people as its first priority. Other schools operate on a trimester system which begins late in August finishing the first semester before Christmas, the second semester in May while also providing time for a summer session.

'Bureau of Athletics' restricts tennis area to preferred few

To the Daily Egyptian:

After reading the letter by Mr. Boylin about how a member of the tennis team chased him and his wife off the tennis courts by acting like a spoiled four-year-old, I felt compelled to comment. Mr. Boylin evidently mistakenly assumed he was dealing with just another student, not one of the "pampered, privileged ones." As the coach indicated in his reply to the incident, you, Mr. Boylin, should be punished via reprimand for getting out of line. You must learn that the "Bureau of Athletics" here has restricted you to the places where their preferred few don't want to go, like the library or classrooms.

Just because you and the rest of the students of the serf class pay for subsidizing these "pampered playboys" doesn't mean you have any right to trespass on their domain. Just as you have no right to eat at their plush training tables or travel around the country with them on their tours, you have no right to use their facilities. You do have a responsibility to pay for all these things besides subsidizing the personal lives of the jocks.

Mr. Boylin, I hereby reprimand you for getting out of line. I hope this punishment will teach you where your place is and how to keep in it.

Also, in case there is any doubt in your mind, Mr. Boylin, the new "Palace of Pasture Pool" to be built is not for the likes of you, it is for the "sacred cows."

Liquor ads suggest identical store location

To the Daily Egyptian:

Mr. Hummel's letter of April 7 correctly states: "The mind boggles when confronted with local prices for alcohol and other commodities alike."

I am so disturbed by the strength of Mr. Hummel's message that I am experiencing an overwhelming need for escape from the countless "distractions" which are the essence of the Daily Egyptian. My boggled mind has frantically scanned three rather unique liquor ads which somehow have neglected to quote any form of "local prices."

All I can see are pages of smiling faces, sexy girls and seductive frosty beer cans. Bold letters underscore the ad by asking me to "rush" to my ultimate escape. However, all three liquor ads are for establishments which appear to be located at the same address. Please, how many liquor stores are there at 114 Small Group Housing?

Discount propoganda; be sure before voting

To the Daily Egyptian:

With the student elections coming up in the near future, the SIU student body will receive a chance to vote on who they want to lead them in the 1970-71 school year. This is all well and good, but each of the parties will be putting up candidates that you, the student body, probably never heard of. All you will know about this person is what his party, or another party, says about him or her.

My advice to the student body is to make sure that they are not swayed by propoganda. Make sure of a candidate and his platform when you vote for him or her. If that person is elected, make sure the candidate carries out his word. If he does not, there will be enough people with you to make sure he does carry out his word.

Public Forum

The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters. Editorials are written by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only. Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major or faculty name, address and telephone number, preferably typewritten, and be no longer than 250 words. Letter-writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are urged to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend upon the limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other material on pages four and five includes editorials and articles originated from other newspapers, syndicated columns and articles, and magazine or opinion articles authored locally.

Education facing financial trouble

Public aid may test constitution

By Kathy Evans
Student Writer

Aid to nonpublic schools could very well become the hot-potato issue of the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Separation of church and state has long been a fundamental tenet of United States government, and some folks would prefer to keep it that way.

But parochial and private schools, some billing themselves as the "Taxpayer's Best Friend," are in deep financial trouble.

Last year Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie requested the Illinois General Assembly to approve a $35 million subsidy for private elementary and secondary schools. The bill died in Senate committee.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, a strong proponent of proposed aid, says, "state aid to nonpublic schools is an economic necessity from the taxpayer's point of view, not a luxury."

But not everyone agrees. Some Illinois constituents, already swamped in myriad taxes, view the proposed aid as just another burden—an unconstitutional one at that.

A recent pamphlet entitled "Position Statements on Con-Con," speaking for the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Illinois Association of School Boards and the Illinois Educational Association, flatly advocates "no change in existing prohibitions against the use of tax funds for any school controlled by a church or religion (nonpublic schools)."

Although Carbondale has no private or parochial schools, local taxpayers still contribute to state tax funds supplying approximately one-third of the state school budget.

David Kenney

According to David Kenney, director of SIU's Public Affairs Research Bureau and a Con-Con delegate, the state presently supplies $520 per student annually in aid.

The Illinois Catholic Conference's "Time for Action" program is attempting to drum up lay support for parochial state subsidies. It is asking $60 per elementary pupil and $90 per high school pupil.

Manna from heaven will not do the trick. Additional costs must obviously come from already straining state funds.

Kenney's answer? "Additional state aid to elementary and secondary schools could be derived from the new state income tax. One-half of this tax could go back to the cities for educational purposes. In this area, that might mean around $1.5 million in additional funds."

The District 36 delegate thinks Con-Con should stay away from the nonpublic school aid issue.

"This should be a legislative matter. The Illinois Constitution should neither prohibit nor authorize aid. This would mean the present prohibition should be removed and the legislature should be left to decide the matter."

He added, "This is not an immediate problem. The crisis is immediate, but the problem is not urgent. Private schools, if their system continues to weaken, would phase out gradually."

Sister Alvina

Sister Alvina, head of Saint Andrew's Catholic Church Grade School in Murphysboro, views the crisis as already present.

Asked if there is a great shortage of funds in area Catholic schools, Sister Alvina replied, "There certainly is a crisis all over in Catholic schools. We just don't have the money necessary to operate."

"We receive all of our support from the church and from parents and this just doesn't go far enough," she said.

"We do receive some federal aid at present under the government program (the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965).

"Title I provides us with equipment, such as filmstrips and projectors. Title II provides us with curriculum materials such as library books, loaned on a yearly basis. And under Title III, we get help in our outdoor education program from qualified instructors," Sister Alvina said.

This aid goes along with recent U.S. Supreme Court upbiddings of state allotments to nonpublic schools, when these allotments are "plainly for the benefit of the child and not for the support of the school itself."

State Supt. Ray Page told Con-Con in January,

"It is my studied opinion that state support should be restricted to benefit only those students enrolled in nonpublic schools which meet the recognized standards as determined by the Office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction."

Monroe Deming

This is one touchstone of Jackson County Supt. Monroe Deming's views.

Deming is opposed to proposed aid. "I oppose aid to nonpublic schools primarily on the grounds that it would violate the constitutional principle and would therefore be unconstitutional."

As for fulfillment of recognized standards, Deming said that housing of students in nonpublic schools is a problem of which the public is unaware.

"Just prior to the Our Lady of Angels fire in Chicago, the state had been considering funds for safety in school buildings. Stiff regulations were formulated shortly after this for all public schools. These regulations do not apply to parochial schools.

"If we start supporting these, they will have to adapt to our standards of safety. If so, many of the present buildings will have to bring their standards up, costing taxpayers much more," Deming said.

"In the long run, this will not save the taxpayers any money. If we should pay state money, there will be accompanying regulation changes."

He cited a second problem. "If aid is made available to any one group having certain beliefs, it must be made available to any group," he said. "This would be the impetus for setting up many more private and parochial schools.

"After the first allotment—which is not the ultimate goal—requests will be upped by these schools. In the end, the taxpayer has to foot the whole bill."

Deming said he thinks the proposed aid could perpetuate segregation.

"I firmly believe if this becomes a reality, we will wreck our public school system and will end up with a system similar to England's which contains many private schools, which are below our standards," he said.

"I've been quite honest with the Catholics in Murphysboro in my views on this subject."

William Holder

One who doesn't support Deming's theory of segregation perpetuation is William Holder, superintendent of Carbondale Community High School.

On the matter of segregation and aid, Holder said, "On this, I speak with a forked tongue. In certain areas, yes, it may perpetuate segregation. But in the majority of schools, I don't think so."

The superintendent is neither opposed to nor in favor of aid to nonpublic schools.

"I hesitate to say yes or no to this proposal," Holder said. "I advocate arriving at an answer through the process of logic."

The superintendent's opinion apparently stems from what he feels is inadequate information from Illinois law-makers and re-makers on the subject. "I do not think there has been any adequate information presented to the public about proposed aid to nonpublic schools," he said.

"If you can spell out to taxpayers exactly how their tax dollars are to be used and can maintain a balance between church and state, then I would be inclined to agree with thinking that aid should be forthcoming," Holder said.

"You cannot deny children the opportunity to learn. When you're talking about supplies, textbooks and materials, not employed to create a breach between church and state, I'm for it.

"Everything that goes on in a parochial school is not of a religious nature. The parochial schools have educational programs and curriculums similar to those of public schools," Holder said.

"These are not oriented towards religion and could qualify for aid. But any religious activities must be financed solely through private support."

But how does one go about separating the religious from the secular in a practical way? Holder takes the humanitarian rather than the political or religious viewpoint.

"You are still dealing with human beings," he said. "We must give children a choice between public and parochial schools.

"After all, education is a privilege to be given to everyone. It is consistent with constitutional philosophy that you provide these rights to youngsters."

But if proposed aid is granted, from where will the money come? Holder does not believe that aid to public or private schools should come from property tax revenue.

Holder states that there has been no tax increase in the Carbondale area since 1963, because people already are overtaxed. As a result, increased aid must come from the state.

"How can they increase funds for private schools until they're sure of sufficient funds for public schools?" he asked.

"In our school district, we have an assessed value of $74,056,000 on which to base our school tax support. We can't raise the proportion of tax monies until the majority of voters approve of this," Holder added.

"I would like to know where the money could be obtained for additional support."

As a result of differing viewpoints, philosophies, beliefs and problems, the private school aid issue is a sticky pot of glue. This issue alone brought about recent rejection of New York's revised constitution.

Will Illinois follow suit?

Candidates' views aired at rally

By Jim Sumner
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A new party threw its hat into the ring Monday at a student government election rally held in the speaker's forum area north of the University Center.

Designated the Apathy Party, its presidential candidate, David Kite, claimed to represent the largest number of students on campus. The party is not officially recognized.

Kite told the audience that students will show their support by not voting and said he will consider all votes not cast as a vote for the Apathy Party.

Speeches were given by other presidential candidates from one other independent party, from Unity Party and Student's Party. Representatives from Action Party and Majority Party did not appear.

Tom Bevirt, student government administrative assistant, told the Daily Egyptian that a representative of Majority Party said he did not feel the type of crowd at the rally was conducive to their preferred audience.

Mike McGrail was the other independent candidate speaking. He said he wasn't sure just exactly what he would do if elected, but that he would "shake up the senate." McGrail expressed dismay at student government meetings and over the physical condition of buildings at VTI.

The presidential candidate representing Unity Party, Ellis J. May, was introduced by Bevirt. May said that he is running because he sees many things that irritate him including University House, the Board of Trustees' handling of the coed study hours proposal and University annexation, landlords and racial discrimination.

"I also see a university president that states that he doesn't know what the students want," said May.

May added he was still disturbed by the Vietnamese Studies Center and he and his party represented a "change."

Tom Scherschel, presidential candidate for the new Student's Party, said their party was a party for the student, regardless of whether he was a greek, a hippie or a vet. He expressed dismay at the riots, the Board of Trustees, University House and misplaced funds.

Scherchel said often student government's ideals were good but sometimes their methods were not the best. He also said the Board has been approached the "wrong way" and the Student's Party hopes to find some "constructive compromises" with the Board of Trustees.

Another rally is planned for next Monday. Student government elections are scheduled for April 27.

Carbondale to get new city attorney this week

Carbondale has a new city attorney-Ron L. Briggs. The position was temporarily filled by acting city attorney Melvyn Rieff. Rieff acted as counsel after City Attorney George Fleerlage resigned.

Briggs, a native of Murphysboro, is now a partner in the Casa Grande, Arizona, law firm of Stanfield, McCarrville, Coxon and Briggs. The firm serves as municipal attorney for three communities, a water utility and an electrical district.

Briggs, who was selected with the assistance of a committee of local attorneys, will arrive in Carbondale Monday.

Rieff will return to his post as assistant city attorney.

40 selected

Students to be feted

Forty students from the School of Business at SIU will be honored at a dinner meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, in University Center Ballroom.

"The honored students are chosen from a group selected by their instructors on the basis of their ability and potential in accounting as demonstrated by their classroom performance," according to Shirish B. Seth, assistant professor of accounting.

Dr. Robert G. Stevens, a native of Southern Illinois and an SIU alumnus, will speak on challenges and opportunities in accounting. Stevens is a vice-president of First National City Bank of New York and its director of Management Information Systems.

Officers of the SIU chapter of Beta Alpha Psi, national accounting fraternity, and the SIU Accounting Club will also be guests.

The event is sponsored by the Southern Illinois chapter of the National Association of Accountants in conjunction with the SIU Department of Accounting.

Film Fest opens

James Herbert, visiting artist and film maker from the University of Georgia, will lecture and show films today and Wednesday as part of the SIU Spring Film Festival.

Herbert will present his films and lecture to students at 6 and 8:15 p.m. today and will repeat the free program for the general public at 6:30 and 9 p.m. Wednesday at Furr Auditorium in University School.

The 33-year-old professor of art has been at the University of Georgia for the past six years. He holds a master of fine arts degree from Dartmouth.

Laos seminar planned

Mark Bordson, a returned International Voluntary Services volunteer, will give an illustrated seminar discussion on Laos at the Tuesday session of the Agricultural Industries 482 Seminar. The meeting will be at 7:15 p.m. in Room 157 of the Agriculture Building. His topic will be "Laos: Reactions of People and Nature to Innovations."

No single opinion at SIU

By Akhiro Sato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student opinion at Southern Illinois University is a mixed bag as a whole, indicating "no single strain of dominant student opinion either in the direction of student power or conservatism."

This is an upshot of a report entitled "SIU Student Attitudes Toward University Authority: a Profile," published by the Public Affairs Research Bureau of SIU in Carbondale.

The report, prepared by David Everson and Roy Miller of the bureau, was released Monday.

The 99-page profile also said SIU students approve a wide range of non-violent protest activities to dramatize their complaints while rejecting such a radical means as destruction of buildings.

"All is not well on the SIU campus," the report warned. The report said the sense of trust in student government is "remarkably low," and that in the university administration is only slightly higher. Only a little more than one-half of the students generally believe that the faculty is doing what is right.

The report is based on mail questionnaires submitted by 606 SIU students from the Carbondale campus and VTL. A total of 499 students answered the questionnaires completely and the rest partially.

The two researchers mailed the questionnaires to 1,000 SIU students who registered during the winter quarter last year and who they said represented the SIU student population fairly.

Women to hear writing skills talk

Mary Simon, instructor of English, will speak on "Improving Writing Skills" at 8 p.m. tonight in the Communications Building Lounge at the monthly meeting of Women in Education.

The questionnaires were designed to determine if the students' responses corresponded to the images suggested by such terms as "alienation, credibility, militancy, apathy and student power," which are often applied to describe college students and the university community.

"There is a widespread desire for change at SIU," the report pointed out. Of the 499 students polled on the improvement of University structure, 46 per cent answered that basic changes are required. Thirteen per cent each answered a few and many minor adjustments are necessary.

On the problem of the students' trust in various University bodies, 35 per cent of the 499 students answered that the student government is doing what is right most of the time, 47 per cent of 606 students who answered the question expressed their trust in the University administration and 51 per cent of 499 students said they have confidence in the faculty. A large number of neutral and "don't know" responses was found in these questions.

How militant do the students think themselves on campus issues at SIU?

"In terms of self-rating," the report said, "most SIU students place themselves in the center."

Of the 606 students, 36 per cent said they were moderate, 30 per cent liberal and 16 per cent as a conservative. One per cent said they were "revolutionary militant," and another one per cent answered that they were "ultraconservative."

"Majority approval is given for peaceful protest rallies, peaceful picketing, non-violent 'sit-ins' and even a student strike. Clearly, a broad range of protest activity is thought justified in at least some circumstances by many students," the report commented.

Eight-seven per cent of the students supported such peaceful means of protest and 84 per cent expressed their disapproval to the question, "students would be justified in seizing buildings on campus" to dramatize their need.

An overwhelming majority of the students denied that they are treated as "unique human beings" in the University, when asked on their degree of alienation at SIU. Thirty-nine per cent of the students said the University is cold and impersonal.

Unqualified are in college

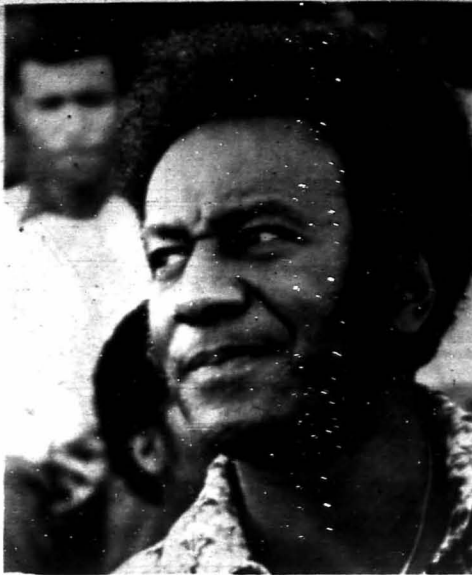

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Monday night unqualified students are being swept into American colleges "on the wave of the new socialism," in a fashion which can devalue education and create campus disorder.

"Any attempt to subordinate the great universities of this country to social goals for which they are ill-designed and ill-equipped can only result in tragic losses to both these institutions and the nation," Agnew said in a speech prepared for a Republican fund-raising dinner.

'Weathermen' hunt continues

CHICAGO (AP) — The whereabouts of 12 members of the radical Weatherman faction of the Students for a Democratic Society, indicted on charges stemming from riots in Chicago last October, remains a mystery.

FBI agents, who are conducting a nationwide search for the dozen, are not commenting on the case.

A Chicago law enforcement official, who declined to be identified, said some of those sought may still be hiding in Chicago, where a federal grand jury charged them April 2 with violating the federal anti-riot law.

The Weatherman faction has closed all their communes in Chicago and New York, the official said.

"There used to be two or three places you could go and there'd always be somebody," he said. "Now there's nobody."

The Weatherman leaders dropped out of sight more than a month ago, before they were scheduled to appear in local courts on state and local charges stemming from street rampages Oct. 8-11. Chicago police reported that one of the 12 indicted leaders, Bernardine Dohrn, 28, was sighted on a North Side street several days before a cache of dynamite and guns was found in a North Side apartment March 30.

Miss Dohrn, a former SDS national secretary, also is being sought by Chicago police for questioning in connection with the discovery of the cache, described by police as a "bomb factory." Police say she fits the description of the girl who rented the apartment with a man.

Thomas A. Foran, U.S. district attorney, says, "It's going to be difficult to find some of these people." He discounts reports that the radicals have fled to Canada.

Chicago police also say they have no knowledge that any of the 12, eight men and four women, are in Canada or Cuba.

Foran said a trial could begin without all 12 being in custody and that it might be held as early as September.

The federal case against the 12 is the second test of the controversial 1968 "Rapp Brown" anti-riot law, so called because of the black militant's presence at the 1968 racial riots in Cambridge, Mass., shortly before the anti-riot provision was tacked on to an open housing bill.

The government first used the law last year in charging eight persons with fomenting violence at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Five of the defendants were convicted of crossing state lines to incite a riot but were acquitted of conspiring to do so. Two others were acquitted of all charges. The eighth, Bobby Seale, Black Panther party chairman, was severed from the rest and scheduled to be tried later.

Foran was the government prosecutor in the nearly five-month trial of the Chicago seven but has since submitted his resignation.

Foran's successor is still to be named by President Nixon.

Prior to the Weatherman indictments, five of those indicted already were being sought by police on fugitive warrants for failure to appear in Chicago courts on state charges stemming from the October violence.

VC rockets bombard Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong carried their 13-day offensive into Saigon Monday night, rocketing the city for the first time in nearly four months.

The U.S. Command said four Vietnamese were killed and 37 wounded when four 100-pound rockets hit in downtown Saigon within blocks of Independence Palace, the official residence of President Nguyen Van Thieu. One rocket hit a block and a half from the U.S. Embassy.

The heaviest casualties were in a theater where one missile ripped through the roof during a live folk drama.

A U.S. spokesman said three Vietnamese were killed and 36 wounded in the theater, including actors and actresses in elaborate head dress, ornate costumes and thick make up. Some of the wounded actors and actresses were taken to the hospital still in their costumes.

The rocket burst above the stage of the Olympic Theater, setting fire to the stage settings of paper mache images of romantic forests and thick velvet curtains.

A second rocket ripped a gaping hole in an annex of the Ministry of Interior, across the street from the main post office and a block and a half from the U.S. Embassy. First reports had said the rocket hit the main post office building. There were no casualties.

One missile also fell into the Saigon River near a Vietnamese ship, killing one Vietnamese and wounding another, the U.S. Command said. The impact smashed windows in the river front Majestic Hotel.

Ecological field trips free to all

Have you ever wondered why conservationists are worried about the ecology? You're going to get a chance to find out.

Roger Anderson, assistant professor of botany, who teaches GSA 340, Ecology, has arranged four optional field trips for his students.

According to Anderson, the field trips will be open to the public, free of charge. In this way he hopes to arouse public interest in these problems, he said.

"Ecology is the study of organisms in relation to their environment," Anderson said. "This includes man in relation to his environment."

The first field trip will be concerned with Carbondale and the surrounding environment. The sewage treatment plants and the city dumps on the northeast side will be visited.

The first trip will also include the strip mine area west of Cambria that is used as an open dumping area.

The second trip will be concerned specifically with strip mines. A return trip is planned to the Cambria mines, where there has been no reclamation, and to the mines in the DuQuoin area where reclamation has resulted in many apple orchards.

The third trip will be a hike through Little Grand Canyon to see some of the unspoiled beauties of nature.

The fourth trip, planned for the May Fest area, has not yet been finalized. The object of this trip is to see the effects of a large number of people on the area. Also included in this final excursion will be a trip to the SIU field laboratories.

Conservation may be fad

Experts wary of awakening

By John Dunbar
Copley News Service

Not since the days of Teddy Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot has the nation been so aroused over ravages to its environment.

Conservationists who have been fighting for years—al-most unknown and unheeded—are delighted with the new public consciousness about air, water, land and forests.

They can hardly believe that the new awakening is really true.

"For years," says one spokesman for a Washington-based conservation organization, "I would give testimony to congressional committees about environmental problems. They would look at me and smile and say, 'Thank you,' as though I was the little boy who had just helped an old lady across the street. But I never felt as though they really cared about what I was saying. Now, the committees are anxious to talk to us conservationists. They are finally convinced that we really have something to say."

But conservationists who have been battling their heads against entrenched interests, apathy and indifference are also skeptical about this "new awakening."

They have a "wait and see" attitude. They are afraid that it might all be a thing of the moment; a flash in the pan; a national passion that will be dissipated or diverted as soon as another crisis hits the headlines.

They wonder, too, if the nation's concern will last out the realization of how much it will cost in dollars to achieve a clean environment—how much it will cost in terms of personal sacrifice and convenience.

Alternatives to cost and sacrifice may well be a great American desert, a disaster which ecologists and biologists keep warning is not a figment of scare fiction but is a very real possibility, the inescapable result of environmental neglect and destruction.

Saving the environment is something like cutting taxes. Everybody is for it except when it affects local employment, puts a crimp in somebody's pet project or threatens the conveniences and gadgets of the "good life."

Maryland conservationists suffered a crushing defeat recently in attempts to put through legislation giving the state more power to control local sewage treatment facilities. Inadequate treatment threatens to make a huge cesspool out of Chesapeake Bay, a catch basin for effluent from one of the nation's greatest population concentrations.

A clean-up bill was defeated by municipalities which do not want to pay the cost of adequate sewage treatment.

Economists estimate that it will cost $30 billion to bring back America's lakes, rivers and bays to any semblance of their onetime cleanliness. Already, Lake Erie is for all practical purposes a dead body of water, unable to maintain any but a minimum of fish life; too polluted for swimming and recreation. Pollution threatens to do the same thing to others of the Great Lakes.

At the moment there is a great hue and cry for "clean water." But will Americans pay the bill when the chips are down?

A better environment may mean personal sacrifices, too.

It may mean less lavish use of electric power, booming power demands result in more power plants—more air and thermal pollution. It may mean forced patronage of public transit and the restriction of popular new pleasure gadgets such as dune buggies and snow-mobiles. The booming fleets of outboard pleasure boats are polluters, too, pouring great amounts of gasoline and lead into rivers and lakes.

Huge sums will have to be spent for preservation of the American environment, once unparalleled anywhere in the world for its climate, its beauty and productivity.

Such sums should be regarded as investments, not as costs or tax burdens, says Ira N. Gabrielson, former long-time president of the Wildlife Management Institute and a nationally known conservationist. Erosion of the environment, he points out, makes human life less enjoyable and less productive for everyone.

"Laws are not enough," he adds. "Only a well-informed and a militant public can insure that necessary resources restoration and management will proceed. Each one of us has a part in maintaining that militancy and public sentiment."

If national expenditures are an indicator, the congressman and his constituents place environmental improvement pretty low on the scale of values.

In 1969, the nation spent far less for protection of its vital natural resources than it did for excursions to the moon. It spent more than twice as much for veterans' benefits and almost five times as much to pay interest on the national debt.

In 1969, more than $81 billion was spent on the Vietnam war, national defense and the arms race. The budget for natural resources was $3.6 billion.

Latest GI Bill raises educational allowances

About 1,500 veterans at SIU will benefit from a bill recently signed by President Nixon that increases educational allowances.

Donald E. Johnson, administrator of Veterans Affairs, said that the increases are automatic and that no veteran has to contact the VA to receive them.

The bill increases from $130 to $175 a month the rate for single veterans who are full-time students. The rate for a single veteran under the vocational rehabilitation program was increased from $110 to $135 for full-time students. Veterans with dependents will get comparable increases, as will veterans who are at least half-time students.

Johnson said that most of those veterans studying under the GI Bill will receive one check in early May which will reflect the new monthly rate and also include the retroactive increases from February through April.

Veterans training under the vocational rehabilitation program will receive their increased allowances in early June, he said.

Old rivals return

SIU football card for 1970 completed

Seven holdovers from last season appear on the Saluki's 1970 10-game football schedule. Wichita State, Arkansas State and Illinois State fill the three vacancies.

Coach Dick Towers' squad will open with three consecutive home games against Louisville, Youngstown State, and Lamar Tech before facing Wichita State in their first road game.

Last season the Salukis split with a 5-5 record. In 1968, Towers' Salukis fashioned a 6-3 record for the first winning SIU season since 1961.

After a second road game at East Carolina, the Salukis will complete their home schedule with games against Illinois State and Bradley (homecoming).

Consecutive road games against Ball State, Drake, and Arkansas State complete the season.

Illinois State and Ball State have joined SIU in forming the new Conference of Midwest Universities. Also in the new conference are Indiana State and Northern Illinois.

Last season the Salukis defeated Youngstown 43-14, Bradley 36-14, and Ball State 48-27.

Louisville stopped the Salukis 17-13 in SIU's opening game. Lamar Tech beat the Salukis 20-16 in a road game and East Carolina, although vastly outgained, spoiled Homecoming 17-3. Drake held off a fourth quarter two touchdown SIU rally to notch a 19-17 victory.

The Salukis hold a 1-1 series with Withita State and defeated them 17-7 in 1966, the last meeting between the two schools. Illinois State holds a 17-13 series edge and Arkansas State has won six of 11 decisions.

The complete schedule includes: Sept. 19, Louisville; Sept. 26, Youngstown; Oct. 3, Lamar Tech; Oct. 10, at Wichita State; Oct. 17, at East Carolina; Oct. 24, Illinois State; Oct. 31, Bradley (Homecoming); Nov. 7, at Ball State; Nov. 14, at Drake; Nov. 21 at Arkansas State.

SIU women's volleyball team wins

By John D. Towns

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU women's volleyball team hosted the Sectional Sports Day Saturday. SIU had three teams entered. Each team played two matches resulting in SIU losing only one out of the six matches played.

The Salukis' first team defeated the University of Illinois' first team 16-14 and 15-5 and then encountered Western Illinois and suffering their only loss of the day 14-16 and 4-15.

SIU's second team took on Western's second team defeating them 15-8 and 15-2. The University of Illinois' second team was defeated by the Salukis 4-15 and 8-15.

The Salukis' third team also defeated the University of Illinois 15-10 and 15-9. The third team went on to defeat Illinois State 15-12 and 16-14.

"This was a series of individual matches," said JoAnne Thorpe, women's coach. "I was real gratified in the second and third teams and I think the first team was capable of playing much better than they played."

Eastern Illinois' first team defeated University of Illinois 15-9 and 15-4, but was unable to sustain Illinois State and were defeated 8-15 and 15-12.

Principia College of Elmhurst had only one team to compete. Principia defeated the University of Illinois' fourth team 16-14 and 15-7 and was later defeated by Eastern's third team 15-6 and 15-11.

Illinois State's second team was defeated by Western's second team 15-8 and 15-11 as their fourth team won over Eastern's third team 15-10 and 15-3.

The Salukis will host the Southern Illinois Women's Invitational Tournament Friday; Saturday and Sunday in the Women's Gym.

Saluki golfers finish seventh

Sophomore Jerry Glenn tied for third medalist Saturday as the Saluki golfers finished seventh last weekend in a 16-team field at the Mid-South Invitational Tournament in Clarksville, Tenn.

Glenn shot a 74 Friday and Saturday for a 148 total. Chris Piggott of Murray took individual honors with a 143 total.

The Salukis finished 26 strokes off the pace, with a combined 622 score.

Murray and Middle Tennessee tied for team honors with 596 strokes apiece.

Harvey Ott, Saluki team captain shot 79-77 for a 156 score. Vito Saupio shot 76-81 for a 157 total. Dave Perkins, Jock Olson and Richard Tock all shot 159.

SIU freshmen split double; face Logan Junior College

By John D. Towns

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU freshman baseball team opened its season April 4 by playing a doubleheader against Danville Junior College at Danville.

The Salukis lost the first game 2-1, but were able to defeat Danville in the second game, 11-2.

"We had the first game jitters, but played real good ball in the second game," said Jerry Boehmer, assistant in baseball.

Left fielder Jerry Leddin had four hits in five at-bats, while second baseman Doug Garcia had four hits in in seven at-bats. Leddin and Garcia led the Saluki hitting attack in the two games.

Ken Kral, center fielder, had three hits in eight at-bats.

Boehmer said that pitchers Dave Baxter and Steve Randall pitched well. Baxter got the win in the second game.

"It was a cold day," Boehmer said. "And in the second game we hit the ball real well. In the first game we didn't. We had 15 hits the second game."

The Salukis' next game will be at 3 p.m. today against John A. Logan Junior College on the SIU diamond.

Netmen win second championship

Salukis take invitational in Oklahoma

The Saluki tennis team won its second straight championship Saturday in the Oklahoma City University invitational. SIU won the eight-team affair with a 5-2 revenge win over Mississippi State, a team which defeated SIU on the 1970 pre-season tour.

Coach Dick LeFevre's netmen had a narrow escape Friday in the semifinals of the meet against the University of Oklahoma. LeFevre pulled slumping Fritz Gildemeister out of SIU's number one doubles team and inserted Ray Briscoe along with Bill Lloyd. The pair responded with a 6-4, 6-5 decision over their Sooner opponents, which ultimately gave SIU a 4-3 win over the Big Eight conference power.

Previously in the Oklahoma contest, Macky Dominguez, Lloyd and Chris Greendale had won their singles matches. SIU had won their opening round match Thursday with a resounding 6-1 win over Wichita State University. Gildemeister was SIU's only loser and did not win against Oklahoma or Mississippi State.

In the championship against Mississippi State, Gildemeister was beaten in the number one singles match by Robb Cadwallader, 6-0, 6-0. Lloyd defeated Carlos Ayala 6-2, 6-3 in the number two singles contest. Dominguez was also a winner, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 over Carlos Seldstedt. Greendale was beaten in the number-four match by Mississippi State's Jim Boyce, 4-6, 6-16-5. Briscoe then gave SIU another singles win in the number five match, whipping Bob Wren of Mississippi State 6-4, 6-3.

Lloyd and Briscoe teamed up again after their Oklahoma victory to win again against Mississippi State in the number-one doubles contest. After losing the first set 1-6, the Saluki duo combined to win the last two sets 6-3, 6-3 over Cadwallader and Ayala.

The number-two doubles matches also went to SIU 6-3 on the efforts of Dominguez and Greendale.

The Salukis are now 5-0 in regular season matches. Hoping for warm weather, the squad travels to DeKalb this weekend to face Northern Illinois, Toledo and Bradley.

Mixed volleyball rosters due today

Any male or female students interested in playing co-recreational volleyball should contact Miss Claudia Blackman in the Womens Gymnasium or call 453-2297.

Matches will be held each Wednesday evening. Teams must consist of eight players with a minimum of three men and three women.

Roster sheets may be obtained in Womens Gymnasium, Room 122, and are due at 5 p.m. today.

Pom-pon tryouts today

Tryouts for the Salukiettes pom-pon group will be held at 8:30-10:30 p.m. tonight in the Womens Gymnasium, Room 208.

Gymnast champions sign

The Illinois and Indiana all-around gymnastics champions and a two-event winner from the Hoosier state have signed scholarships to attend SIU.

Coach Bill Meade said Illinois champion Gary Morava and Indiana champion Nick Woolis are two of the brightest prospects to come out of their states in many years.

Jeff Clark, Indiana floor exercise and tumbling champion this year is the third signee.

In Woolis and Clark, SIU has now signed two men who won six of eight events at the Indiana high school championships this year. Woolis was champion in side horse, parallel bars, high bar and rings.

Morava, a 5-5, 130 pounder, will be the first all-around champion from Illinois to enroll at SIU.

"Without a doubt, Morava is one of the finest gymnasts to come out of Illinois in the past 20 years," Meade said.

Meade hosted two gymnasts from Pennsylvania over the weekend and is recruiting a Colorado athlete. SALUKI SHORTS: The Salukis finished fourth in the NCAA championships. They have not finished lower than seventh in the past 11 years.

Soccer club defeats Kentucky

Two second half goals by Luciano Fernandez gave the SIU International Soccer Club a victory over Kentucky in a game played in Lexington Saturday.

The two goals came after Kentucky had held an early 1-0 lead for over two periods. On both occasions, Max Keshavarz was credited with an assist.

Strong defensive play also kept the momentum going SIU's way in the second half. Center-half Dickie Coke, right fullback George Ramsey and Tom Faust, left fullback, were instrumental in keeping the Kentucky front liners in check.

SIU had 15 shots on the Kentucky goal while the hosts were held to nine shots against Saluki goalie Jean Claude Massaso.

Kentucky scored in the first five minutes, but later was hard pressed to get within striking range. Fernandez booted his first score late in the third quarter to tie the game at 1-1 and then with about two minutes left in the contest, struck again for the winning goal.

The win gives SIU a 1-0 record in the spring season. The club will travel to Springfield to face the Springfield YMCA team this weekend.

Southern to host volleyball tourney

SIU's women's volleyball team, a unit of the Women's Recreation Association, will host the Southern Illinois Invitational Volleyball Tournament Friday-Sunday according to Joanne Thorpe, faculty sponsor.

The double elimination tournament will begin at 4 p.m. Friday and end at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Womens Gymnasium, Miss Thorpe said.

Participating teams include the University of Illinois, Western Illinois University, Northern Illinois University, Eastern Illinois University, Southeast Missouri State, Mount St. Joseph of Ohio, Illinois State University, Purdue and SIU.

Today's volleyball slate

The following volleyball games are scheduled for play tonight in the SIU Arena.

- 7 p.m., Sammie "A" vs. Phi Sigma Kappa "A", Court 1; Phi Kappa Tau vs. Sigma Tau Gamma, Court 4.
- 8 p.m., Alpha Gamma Rho vs. Tau Kappa Epsilon "A", Court 1; DWS Out Group vs. Omega, Court 4.
- 9 p.m., Over the Hill Gang vs. Shamrocks, Court 1; Chemistry Grads vs. Salma, Court 4.

Salukis rout Sycamores, 100-45

First place

Saluki Ivory Crockett crosses the finish line in the 440-yard relay Saturday against Indiana State. SIU's winning time in the event was 41.7. Crockett also won the 100 and 220-yard dashes and led off the mile relay for SIU. The Salukis cut down the Sycamores 100-45 in the home opener for SIU. (Photo by Jeanie C. Arnold.)

Saluki batmen lose three weekend games

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The bitter reality of defeat knocked the Saluki baseballers down three times over the weekend.

Friday night a passed ball on catcher Bob Sedik spelled defeat as Tulsa squeezed past the Salukis 2-1. Saturday four SIU eighth inning errors paved the way for 10 Tulsa runs. The Salukis had held a 1-0 lead behind Dick Langdon since the third.

In Monday's comeback attempt against sixth-ranked Mississippi, Jerry Paetzhold was racked for eight runs and eight hits in one-and-one-third innings. That was all Ole Miss needed as the Salukis succumbed again, 10-3.

Bob Eldridge and Jim Kennett provided a strong pitching duel in the first Tulsa game. Both gave up only four hits. Eldridge walked four and struck out nine. In addition, Eldridge collected half of SIU's four hits with a single and double in two times at bat.

The Salukis could manage only one run in his support on a triple by Bob Blakeley and sacrifice fly by Mark Newman.

Saturday Dick Langdon was sailing along with a 1-0 lead when the roof fell in.

Steve Webber replaced Langdon with the score 4-1. He had equal problems, giving up six runs on four hits and a walk in two-thirds of an inning.

Once again, Blakley figured in the scoring. He knocked in Langdon who had reached base on an error in the third.

The Salukis had plenty of chances to get at Mississippi but couldn't overcome the 10 runs Ole Miss amassed in the first four innings.

SIU had 10 hits and received seven walks from Mississippi pitcher Ron Myers.

The Salukis mounted their only real threat of the three game road trip in the ninth inning. They scored three runs on two singles, two walks and a ground out double-play.

The three-game series was considered critical by coach Richard "Itchy" Jones. Last week he said, "This will give us some idea of what we must work on and what we can do against top-flight competition."

SALUKI SHORTS: The Salukis will get their first road test in two weeks before hosting the Governor's Journey this Saturday, and Sunday on the SIU diamond.

The Indiana State Sycamore track team found out Saturday that the Saluki track team will be tough to beat when the Conference of Midwestern Universities begins competition next year. SIU routed the Sycamores 100-45 in McAndrew Stadium.

"I think we're that much tougher," said SIU coach Lew Hartzog. "I think they've got a lot of catching up to do, all of the schools, and we're just beginning ourselves."

Warm weather and a medium wind helped to provide Saturday's crowd with several impressive performances. Fil Blackiston set a new SIU discus mark with a heave of 166-1 1/2, well past the old record of 163-9. Indiana State's Ed Henry left his mark in the long jump pit with a 24-8 performance, good for a McAndrew Stadium record.

SIU opened the meet with a victory in the 440-yard relay, it was one of 14 firsts for the Salukis in seventeen events.

Crockett, running extremely smooth, won the 100-yard dash in 9.5 and the 220-yard dash in 21.9. Crockett also led off the winning Saluki mile relay team.

Californian Mike Bernard was the high-jump winner at 6-6 1/2.

Obed Gardner and Don Miller dominated the triple-jump going 49-9 1/2 and 49-8 respectively.

Blackiston also won the shot-put with a throw of 51-9 1/4 while Larry Cascio and Ray Gluss took the top two spots in the pole vault, sailing 14-6 and 14-0.

Dan Tindall had a sore arm and threw into the wind but still won the javelin with no problems, throwing the spear 197-7 3/4.

Without the ailing Alan Robinson, SIU still swept the mile run with Glenn Ujjiye winning in 4:13.3, Ken Nalder was a step back at 4:13.4 and Paul Ingrassia placed third in 4:18.7. In the two mile, Ujjiye and Ingrassia were second and third.

Ron Frye was the winner of the high hurdles with a winning time of 14.9.

In the 440-yard run, Barry Leitbovitz came up from last place to win in 48.8 with Larry Mobley third.

The Salukis got five more points when Bill Buzard worked for a first place in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles in a time of 54.9.

SIU's mile relay of Crockett, Mobley, Morrow and Leitbovitz won in 3:16.9.

AAU championship

Salukis swim to place 13th

Swimming to their best national performance since 1965, the Saluki tankers placed 13th Saturday, in the National AAU Championships in Cincinnati. SIU scored 38 points and broke nine Saluki varsity records in the process.

"The kids were terrific," said elated coach, Ray Essick. "They proved that the work they did all year was worth while."

Bruce Steiner had a great weekend, rewriting the SIU record book in three events. Steiner placed 14th in the 500-yard freestyle in a time of 4:42.2 for a school standard and then placed fifth in the finals of the 1650-yard freestyle in 16:22.5 for another. En route to his fifth-place finish in the 1650, Steiner set a school record at the 1000-yard mark of 9:49.2.

Also setting three SIU records was Rob Dickson who finished 12th in the 400-yard individual medley in 4:14.3 for one record and then swam the 200-yard individual medley in 2:00.1, also a new mark. In the 200-yard butterfly, Dickson was tenth in SIU record time of 1:55.5.

Steve Dougherty did not place in the 100-yard butterfly but still broke the Saluki record in the event of 53.2 as he finished in 53.1. He also swam the 200-yard butterfly in 1:58.4 but did not qualify for the finals.

After Bill Tingley led off the 400-yard freestyle relay with a backstroke leg of 56.5, the Salukis sped up the pace by setting a new school record in the event of 3:34.9. Other squad members were John Holben, Dougherty and Vern Daesch. Holben, in his last race as a Saluki, made it his best, swimming his 100-yard breaststroke leg in 59.7. Daesch wound up the effort with a 46.4 100-yard freestyle leg.

Dougherty had had an equally impressive 52.2 100-yard butterfly leg.

The 800-yard freestyle relay was the final Saluki record setter, covering the distance in 7:02.0. The old mark was 7:06.4. Team members were Bob Schoons, Bruce Wendeatt, Daesch and Fernando Gonzalez.

Wendeatt, Schoons, Daesch and Tingley also teamed up for SIU in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Daesch was an 11th place finisher in the 100-yard freestyle with a 47.5 showing as well as sprinting the 200-yard freestyle in 1:45.9.

Casper wins Master tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Billy Casper stormed out to a whopping, seven stroke lead, then coasted in for a 69-74 victory over Gene Littler Monday in their 18-hole playoff for the title in the Masters, the first of the world's major golf championships in this decade.

With the victory went a check for $25,000 and the famed green jacket that some pros say may be worth as much as $1 million in endorsements and exhibitions.

Casper, generally acknowledged as one of the game's finest putters, used his beautiful play on the greens to its utmost advantage, as he moved out to the almost insurmountable lead.
