Members of the Southern Illinois University Community:

On Saturday, April 19, Delyte W. Morris died after a long illness. He will be long remembered for his many contributions to the development of Southern Illinois Univeristy as well as to improvements in the social, cultural and as well as a improvement in the social, catheria as economic well-being of the region. Greatness, a term reserved for a select few, befittingly describes his career as SIU President from 1948 to 1970. Today's students, faculty and staff are deeply indebted to Dr. Morris for the vision and the energy that he devoted in transforming a normal school to an internationally recognized university.

The debt can be acknowledged, but never fully repaid. In consideration of this, I urge that each member of the University community pay homage to Dr. Morris in whatever fashion one feels is appropriate and in keeping with one's individual beliefs. Funeral services are to be conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday, April 13, at Shryeck Anditorium. Fer those who wish to attend the services, classes will be surgended from 9:30 to approximately 11 a.m. University effices will remain open; however, employees who desire to go to the services should nothly their immediate supervisors. ### Cook is best candidate: he can provide continuity

BARNUM AND BAILEY could have learned a few pointers from this year's Undergraduate Student Organization presidential election.

In a race resembling a three-ring circus, the candidates—Glenn Stolar, Sting Party; Jerry Cook, Maverick Party; and G. Kurt Boyle, Big O Party—have conspicuously side-stepped the issues, preferring to play political games and sling mud instead.

The ringleader of this circus has been Boyle. His biggest contribution to the discussion of issues has been that he has no stances. While Boyle's clowning may qualify him to be master of ceremonies at the next talent show, his qualifications to represent SIU-C students are lacking.

The biggest sideshow, however, has been the fight over who belongs on the ballot in the first place. Stolar is running as a write-in candidate because he was not allowed on the ballot, ostensibly because his required petition was not turned in on time. Whether politics ruled this action is still questionable, but the important point is that the controversy has overshadowed the the important point is that the controversy has overshadowed the

IT'S A SHAME that issues have taken a backseat in this election, because at least two candidates are well-qualified to represent SIU-C students. Both Stolar and Cook promise ef-fective representation and both have the experience in student government to back up that promise.

With some reservations, we believe Jerry Cook is the candidate who can provide the best leadership. He promises to be a president who will not sit idly by while the administration makes policies that will affect students.

But Cook's best qualification is that he can provide continuity in the battle against financial aid cuts and tuition hikes — an issue Stolar has ignored. The efforts of the incumbent Maverick administration have been impressive. Cook promises to keep the Cook has introduced few new ways to help the students of SIU-C. In this regard, he can learn from Stolar.

STOLAR RECENTLY has recently proposed a book board to replace the Maverick's book co-op, which seems doomed because of the rent that the Student Center is expected to charge. Stolar's proposal would continue to save students' money, while Cook's only plan is to raise a little hell with the administration.

Both Cook and Stolar have shown enthusasm, creativity and leadership in their three years of involvement in student government. Even the perennial candidate Boyle has proposed some comic relief, if not many serious ideas.

While endorsing Cook, we sincerely hope that the losers — whoever they will be — will continue participating in student government. The USO will become more respected if all of its members work together to represent SIU-C students.

Secretaries are stronger in CSBO

This letter is written in reference to the upcoming Civil Service Bargaining Service Bargaining Organization election. In my opinion, it would be in the best interests of SIU-C secretaries to vote to remain in the union. We all recognize that the CSBO is not perfect, but it is our union and to criticize it for what is has not achieved is unfair Miracles are not worked overnight, and the numerous obstacles that it has to work against make it very difficult to nove rapidly.

One of the greatest obstacles

We all should realize that the advances and pay raises that he CSBO has managed to obtain for secretaries are greater than those we would have recieved without its efforts.

recieved without its efforts.

To me one thing is very clear.

It is better for segretaries to work together within the union toward better pay and better working conditions than to try to operate singly from without. The CSBO can do more with the solid support of its members than several secretaries voicing their objections separately.

Whether or not secretaries are 100 percent satisfied with conditions as they are now within the union is beside the within the union is beside the point. Without the CSBO their individual efforts are inadequate and ineffective, as any secretary who worked here before the CSBO will testify.

As a secretary with 18.5 years of experience at this University as well as 11 year elsewhere, I believe the secretaries' best interests lie within the union.

I urge my fellow workers, whatever their opinions, to be sure to vote Wednesday.— Beth D. Haas, Secretary IV Stens, History Department.

But we should not forget, in But we should not forget, in this time of despair, our good fortune in having leaders like Tood, Deb and Stan. We will need this kind of leadership next year from Paul Matalonis, recently voted president for the Graduate Student Council next year: Jerry Cook, Maverick candidate for Undergraduate Student Organization; and Stan, who is running for re-election as who is running for re-election as student representative to the student representative to the Board of Trustees. — Andrew Spire, Junior, Political Science.

Voting is all that's required to make USO a student voice

Do you care about the high cost of tuition?
Do you care about student government elections?
Both these answers should be but unfortunately "yes," but unfortunately they're not. If you don't care about student government, maybe it is occause of the way you perceive the Un-dergraduate Student Organization to be.

USO could be the most ef-USO could be the most effective tool for students to voice thier opinions, but first we must change our perception of what it is. The easiest way to start is by voting Wednesday.

Every undergraduate student can vote. If 100 percent of the students did vote, we could legitimize the USO to at least the city government and possibly the state and federal governments.

Voting is very simple. All you need is your student identification card. If you live on campus, you also need your meal ticket. After presenting your I D. at the poll, you will be handed a ballot. On this ballot you vote for a team of a president and a vice president, for senators in your geographical district and a senator from your college.

If you feel that the candidates are not capable of representing the students, there is a blank to write in your choice.

A large voter turnout can legitimize USO — the voice of the students. — Thomas Wood. Chairman, Sting Party.

But rather than realistically applying processional methods to alleviate the problems and find a compromise toward solutions, the and in a compromes toward solutions, the station's general manager, Lisa Dartt, has chosen to "jump off the deep end" by proposing to completely eliminate weekend programming known as "The Soul Entertainers."

Dartt chose to let the soul staff know of the proposal by poeting a letter to the staff at 5:00 p.m. on April 6, approximately one week before the proposal would go before the Board of Directors of WIDB and become a matter of

When asked about the content of the letter, Dartt said she did not have time to discuss it, because she was "busy trying to prepare a report for the Undergraduate Student Organization fee allocation board." But, Miss Dartt did so gracicusly allow her letter to be quoted.

IN THE LETTER, dated April 2, four days before the soul staff was ever alerted to its con-tents, she explained how WIDB has been ex-periencing financial difficulties. "We have been most conservative with our expenditures," Dartt

Dartt's conservatism in procedures most assuredly covers April 1 broadcasts when the weekday rock staff purposely sped up records, playing 33 rpm records at 45 speed and 45 rpm records at 78 speed.

The sales staff was told to get "make goods" on that day — meaning advertiser's commercial spots that had been missed had to be run again for for commissions on weekend advertising. Surely it can't be because the weekend programming is "black oriented."

ACCORDING TO Mardell Culley and Dwayne Williams, co-directors of the soul staff, their staff had been told time and time again that they were not pulling their weight in advertising.

Since when do disc jockeys go out and get advertising? I don't think Webster's Dictionary makes those two words synonymous.

There are at least 12 people on the sales staff.

Surely, out of those 12, someone can get weekend prime time advertising.

Realistically the soul staff should not have to pull equal weight in advertising; they are only on the air two days out of the week. The other five days are rock oriented music 24 hours a day.

Why should the soul staff be compelled to match five days of advertising when they have only two days to work with?

recent weeks commercial spots on the weekend have dropped dramatically. Some four hour shifts have had less than four advertising commercial spots, whereas just a few short months ago the same shift had as many as eight

Parti goes on to say in the letter that the one resource not utilized to its maximum potential is the weekend commercial time. "The weekend is prime advertising time," she said.

If the weekend is prime advertising time, why sinn't the sales staff out there breaking their backs.

Government should help students

I am writing in response to a iter from Elbert Hadley, memistry professor, that ap-mared in the Daily Egyptian on Hadley implies that students are ungrateful for the loans, grants and scholarships they This is not true. He says that parents should carry the burden. What he fails to see is that some of us are in-dependent or our parents do not have the means to support us any longer. We would not be here but for we would not be nere but for these financial aid programs, nor would many professors. Hadley was fortunate to be able to work his way through college. As someone who spent half of his spring break studying and the other half looking for a job, I can say that times have changed. Today jobs are scarce, especially ones that pay well enough to fund a college education.

Under the guise of controlling inflation, President Ronald Reagan is it favor of reducing social services. Considering his proposed increases in military spending, this can only be seen as an invalid excuse. I have seen to a widence to support the seen no evidence to support the claim of an eminent Soviet threat. This rhetoric only serves to escalate world tensions.

Regardless of the current economic problems of this country, cutting funding for education is not logical. Th reduces the number of students in school as well as the amount of money available for research. The productivity crisis in this nation's industries crisis in this nation's industries can only be resolved through the adoption of more advanced technology resulting from more research and through a more highly trained, competent work force. These are both unlikely without government funding. In conclusion, I think that if Vadley is exposed the govern.

In concusion, I tulin that it Hadley is opposed to govern-ment funding of higher education, perhaps he should be employed by a private in-stitution rather than a public me since the government pays his salary. his salary. Simpson, Sophomore, Mining

The women's gymnastics cam "will be in thetty good hape" next season if Coach shape" next season it Coach Herb Vogel can sign high school standout Yael Kantor of Miami. The all-arounder will be in Carbondale Tuesday after visiting Indiana University Monday. The former member of South Africa's national team South Africa's national team as scored an impressive 37.95 nas scored an impressive 37.55 in high school.

Kantor has tallied equally impressive numbers on each event in high school. Her best score per event have been a 9.7 on floor, 9.4 on vault, 9.8 on bars and 9.5 on the beam.
"We don't know how to caliber these scores to college. Often the difficulty requirements are not quite the same," Vogel said of comparing high school and collegiate gymnastics.

The longtime Saluki coach stressed that Kantor isn't "just a high school gymnast." The senior performed for South Africa at the Macabaiah Games in Israel, where she scored a in Israel, where she scored a 38.55.

If Vogel can persuade Kantor to sign with SUC, she'll be the fourth standout gymnast to poin next season's squad. Allarounders Regina Hey of Harrisburg, Jackie Ahr of Cincinnati and Margaret Collcott of Knoxville, Tenn., will all become Salukis in Augusi.

Hey and Ahr both have topped the 36-point barrier and, according to Vogel, should provide the depth the Salukis were missing this season.

"Both are nine-plus scorers in bars," said Vogel. "They could provide instant relief for us in that creat" that event."

Both Hey and

Ahr have completed double back somersaults in their floor exercise routines, a feat no member of this season's Saluki team utilized.

In addition to their fine floor work, both gymnasts have scored as high as 9.3 in vaulting, and their beam routines meet the requirements for a 9.5 score. Vogel "discovered" Collcott

She had scored a 34.50 in all-around and has notched 9.0 in both bars and vaulting. Vogel said Collcott has good potential in beam and added that although her weakest event is floor, she isn't that bad. "She will help us quickly in vaulting and immediately in bars," said Vogel. "Her beam lacks a bit of dance, but she does a high-risk Sukahara dismount." A Sukahara is a back one-and-a-half somer-sault.

Vogel will be looking for some help in the all-around. He'll lose four-year standout Val Painton to graduation in May, leaving SIU-C with just two returning all-arounders — Pam Turner and Lori Erickson.

If the Salukis pick up another all-arounder, Vogel said, Collcott may become a specialist.

"All freshmen come here to be trained as all-arranders, then relegate themselves to specialist roles." Vogel said.

Softballers need timely hitting

So far this season SIU-C, 9-15, has been shut out nine times, with six of those shutouts being 10 defeats. According to Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer, it's not that her Salukis aren't hitting; they're just hitting at the wrong

"It doesn't matter how many hits you get, it's when you get them that counts," them that counts," Brechtelsbuer said. "We don't have many hitters who consistently drive in runs and get on base. When we load the bases, we haven't been able to get the runs across."

Brechtelsbauer said Salukis' hitting problems stem mostly from youth and inex-

Wind blows favorably in pair of Saluki wins

Saluki center fielder Corey Zawadski best described the playing conditions at Abe Martin Field Monday, in just one word — "rough."

He and the rest of the Salukis didn't give in to the strong winds — which at times gusted up to 60 mph — and swept a twinbill, 10-7 and 4-1, from twinbill, 10-7 and 4-1, from David Lipscomb College. The second game was called on account of darkness with two out in the bottom of the sixth inning. SIU-C is now 15-11 and the Bisons are 24-5.
Playing the field was no treat

Playing the field was no treat for either team as normally easy outs were turned into base hits by the powerful gusts. Saluki Coach Itchy Jones said the wind "was like a tornado," and Bison skipper Ken Dugan — who's in his 23rd year at David Lipscomb — said his teams have never played in such a wind before.

have never played in such a wind before.

The wind was wearing a Saluki uniform in the first inning of the first contest as it helped them jump to a 40 lead.

Zawadski lifted a pop fly to left field which Bison Terry Moore appeared to have under control. But a sudden gust of wind lifted the ball over Moore's wind inted the ball over Moore's head to the fence for a triple which drove in Jim Reboulet with SIU-C's first run. Scott Bridges and Kurt Reid followed with RBI hits and Steve Boyd batted in another run with a

The Salukis weren't done yet, adding two runs in the second and four in the fifth to take a 10-2 lead over the NAIA school.

Saluki freshman hurler Tom Johnson began to "let the ball up" in the sixth, and the Bisons turned what had been a laugher into a close game. They pounded seven hits and five runs off the right-hander to cut the Salukis' lead to three.

Johnson, 2-0, refused to give in to the stampede and shut off the Bisons in the seventh.

"I was more determined in the seventh. I wanted to get them out," said Johnson. He down

Zawadski was SIU-C's big man at the plate, knocking in three runs with a double and a triple.

In the nightcap, Moore again was the object of the wind's abuse as it blew another seemingly easy out over his head to put SIU-C ahead 1-0. Reid ended up at second thanks seen ender up at second thanks to the wind, and he scored moments later when the wind turned a pop fly to right into a single for Bridges. Reid leads the team with 27 RBI.

The Bisons narrowed the lead to 2-1 in the fourth, but SIU-C scored two insurance runs in the sixth before the game

Junior Tom Caulfield had what he called his "best performance at SIU-C," and went formance at 510-2, and wenter the distance to improve his record to 2-0. The Jersey City, N.J., native allowed five hits and one walk while striking out

He said the wind helped his concentration, since he had time to think about his pitching during the frequent play stoppages.

Next opponent up for the Salukis will be Kentucky. The Wildcats visit Abe Martin Field for a double-header at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday. Jay Bellissimo and Jeff Irvin are the slated star-
