Controversy mars student election

Trojan party guilty of campaign violation

By Richard Hund
Staff Writer

The Trojan Party committed one, and possibly two election violations according to a decision made in an emergency election commission meeting Wednesday night.

The decision, made after ballots for Undergraduate Student Government elections were collected but not counted, referred to campaigning by the Trojan party within 100 feet of the voting booths in Grinnell Hall.

It was unclear at press time if any action was to be taken against the Trojan Party for this violation.

A debate as to whether harassment of Progress Party members by Trojan Party members constituted another election violation, student conduct code violation, both or neither was also played out at the meeting.

The note, which was presented at the meeting by Hildebrand, stated concern over the ballots being kept in the USG offices while Hildebrand was in there.

Hildebrand, along with student trustee candidate Craig Jackson, also stated that they saw Contile and Fabian follow them while driving away from the Student Center.

Neither Contile nor Fabian appeared at the meeting.

The issue has been tabled for further consideration by the commission and will be sent to the Vice President of Student Affairs

State budget appropriations may cause increase in tuition

By Brian Gross
and Tony Mancuso
Staff Writers

Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit probably will not ask for an undergraduate tuition hike during his report at this morning's Board of Trustees meeting in Springfield.

"I'm fairly certain I will not ask for an increase for undergraduate students," Pettit said Friday. "That does not mean that after July (when the budget is released) we won't take another look."

Gov. James R. Thompson's recommended budget calls for $1.56 billion for higher education, $238.3 million of which is slated for the University. The budget includes a 3-percent increase for faculty salaries, but no increases for new programs.

Pettit said (if the legislature decides to cut Thompson's recommendation for higher education) the state budget appropriation could be so disastrous that tuition may have to be raised in January.

"If we get a bad appropriation in July, then we'll have to see what we can do in the fall (for January)," Pettit said.

A tuition increase must be discussed and voted on in two consecutive board meetings, Pettit said, adding that the board will receive the notice for the increase in May and will take action in June.

"What makes a tuition freeze unfair is that it hurts those of us who kept our tuition low two years ago," Pettit said, referring to when state funds decreased by 4 percent.

He said at that time SIU received self-inflicted revenue damages when it kept its tuition low, while the Board of Regents and University of Illinois greatly increased tuition.

The University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana raised its tuition by $450 between 1987 and 1988, while SIU-C raised its by $206.

"The Board of Regents and U of I went way up, while we tried to stay in the guidelines of not having tuition make up more than one-third of your revenue," Pettit said. "We inflicted on ourselves a financial penalty (by keeping tuition increases low), leaving SIU at a revenue disadvantage," he said.

If a tuition increase request is announced, Pettit said the board would discuss the increase at its May meeting and vote on it in June.

"I originally thought we would have a tuition request on the agenda (for discussion) at the

Thompson mandates quake-proof buildings

By Lisa Miller

State buildings designed and constructed after April 6 may shake, but they won't break after an earthquake.

Gov. James R. Thompson signed an executive order, as recommended by the Earthquake Preparedness Task Force, mandating all state buildings be constructed to earthquake-resistance standards.

Thompson said the order is designed to reduce death, injury and loss of property in buildings owned or controlled by the state.

More than 234 people could die and 1,000 people could be injured if an earthquake hits Southern Illinois, the report submitted by the task force said.

The New Madrid Fault, a 120-mile rift from Arkansas to Southern Illinois, is an area that scientists say is in danger of being hit by a major catastrophic quake. Scientists are predicting a 50 percent chance of the fault to be quake struck by the year 2000.

Fred Koomb, supervisor of evaluations for the capital development board, said some of the earthquake standards include a lateral load resistance, which entails a wider support for buildings. Masonry such as concrete blocks and bricks will have stricter reinforcement codes.

He said there will be no height requirements for the quake-resistant buildings.

"If the codes are strictly followed, most tall buildings won't have a problem withstanding the earthquake," Koomb said.

The cost to make the buildings earthquake resistant won't be too high, he said. Studies have shown that it only costs about 2 percent of the total building cost to make the construction quake-resistant.

Koomb said, however, the costs may be somewhat higher in Illinois because many engi-

SIU-C employee injury rate high in 1989

By Brian Gross
Staff Writer

Employee injuries at SIU-C reached a four-year high in 1989 as 194 accidents were reported to the safety office.

The 1989 total represented a 27 percent increase over 1988 accidents. SIU-C employees, including staff, faculty and student employees, numbered 6,349 in 1989.

John Hicks, safety officer, said accident totals generally run between 150 and 190 a year and include injuries such as cuts, bruises, sprain, fractures, animal and insect bites, hernias and burns.

The totals had been down in past years with only 191 accidents being reported in 1986, 143 accidents reported in 1987 and 153 reported accidents in 1988.

Hicks said his office is required by the Department of Labor to keep employee injury records for five years.

Hicks breaks down the total into various categories including sex, age, months, days, time, departments, accident type, nature of injury, body part injured and agent involved in injury.

The accidents generally run 2 to 1 male to female, Hicks said, and the bulk of the injuries occur in the 24 to 45 age group.

The largest increase in accidents occurred during the summer. The 22 accidents in June represented a 175-percent increase, 22 accidents in July; a 214-percent increase and 25 injuries in August was a 67-percent increase.

Overall, the 69 accidents during the summer represented a 130-percent increase over 1988 accidents.

Hicks said the summer months were usually low months for accidents because so many employees are on break.

Men's basketball sign Indiana prep

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

The Salukis wasted little time in signing a basketball recruit on the first day of the spring signing period.

Ian Stewart, a 6-8, 215 pound senior from LaPorte, Ind., signed a national letter of intent Wednesday with SIU-C.

Stewart averaged 15 points and 8.8 rebounds in guiding LaPorte High School to a 19-5 record and a conference championship last season. His numbers are solid considering he has only two years of varsity basketball to his credit.

In his final eight games Stewart averaged 20 points and 11 rebounds, which led his high school coach Joe Ous to describe him as a late bloomer who improved as each game passed.

"I'm really looking forward to joining the Salukis and feel certain I can help some as a spot player even as a freshman," Stewart said.

Saluki head coach Rich Herrin sees Stewart in same mold as Doug Collins in that they both developed their skills late in their high school career.

"Ian will be a great addition to our program, not only athletically, but academically," Herrin said. "He reminds me somewhat of Doug Collins in that he developed late. His basketball career is still ahead of him."

The latest addition to the 1990-91 Saluki team will be a helpful addition on the court and in the classroom. Stewart's grade point average of 3.5, ranks him 34th in a graduating class of 440.

By his own admission, Stewart is looking to add a few pounds to make the transition from high school to college level hoops.

"I feel I'm a little behind a lot of guys because it's only been the last couple of years that I've been big enough to play a whole lot," Stewart said. "Everyone tells me that I work hard, however, and I know I've spent a lot of time in trying to improve my skills in the past year or so.

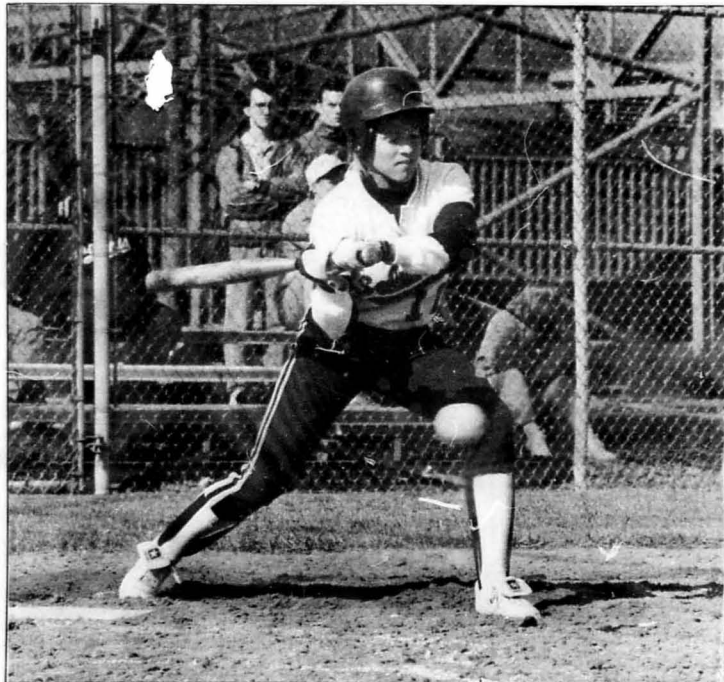

"I don't have too much trouble in the classroom, but I know I'll probably have to work harder in college," Stewart said, referring to his plans to major in accounting and pre-law while at SIU-C.

Assistant coach Ron Smith was responsible for recruiting Stewart and described him as "a Rick Shipley type player with great potential ... he'll be a real asset to our program."

Otis credited Stewart's late season spurt to a game by game improvement this year.

"Another reason for his fast finish is that he has always played better against good competition and, of course, we were involved in the tournaments in late season," Otis said. "He's the main reason we won our conference championship this year. The spring signing period lasts until May 15.

Saluki freshman Lori Gallagher named Gateway player of the week

By Peter Zaiewski
Staff Writer

The Gateway conference women's tennis singles player of the week award was given to SIU-C freshman Lori Gallagher Wednesday.

Gallagher, the No. 6 singles player, is 18-1 in spring play and has a 12-match winning streak. She won all three of her singles matches last weekend against conference foes Western Illinois, Illinois State and Indiana State. Gallagher won every match in straight sets and improved to 4-0 in conference play.

"Gallagher is just whipping through her opponents right now. She gets kind of bored on the court because she is not being challenged as much as she wants to," SIU-C coach Judy Auld said. "She gets frustrated because she wants to be playing better matches."

The freshman tandem of Gallagher and Wendy Varnum compiled a 2-1 record in No. 2 doubles last weekend. Gallagher's confidence is rising because the pair have combined for a 13-3 doubles record.

"I go into a match and expect to win. I feel I have a chance of beating anyone I play," Lori Gallagher said. "I expect to play the perfect match."

The Salukis are off to a 13-3 record this spring with Gallagher anchoring the bottom of the lineup in near perfect fashion. Her only loss of the season came against Jo Marie Cinco of West Virginia University, Feb. 17, in the Eastern Kentucky Invitational Flight 5 finals.

Gallagher uses the loss to help her improve each time out.

"Cinco was able to win all the critical points because of her experience," Gallagher said. "I could definitely do better, if I don't win the match, if I replayed the match at the end of the year."

Gallagher is one reason SIU-C will be among the favorites for the Gateway tourney, April 26-28, in Charleston. The Salukis will be trying to capture their third conference crown since 1983.

"I knew Lori was going to be a good one," Auld said. "Her record shows she doesn't play like a freshman. She has made a big difference for our team this spring and she can't wait to move up in the lineup."

Salukis rank third in Midwest region

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

The NCAA Midwest Regional Softball Committee ranked the Saluki softball team third in the region. The Salukis are sitting behind No. 1 Oklahoma State and Missouri, who the Salukis split a pair of games with at the Mizzou Invitational.

The Salukis are ranked ahead of Big Eight powerhouse Kansas and Gateway preseason pick Western Illinois.

"We're for real," senior captain Shelly Gibbs said. "I think every team that has played us has realized that."

The Saluki softball team is on a roll. At 21-7, the Salukis have reached the 20-win plateau earlier than any other SIU-C softball team.

The 1988 squad, which set a school record with 30 wins, reached the 20-win mark April 15. This year's team won its 20th April 7th in the first game of a doubleheader against Drake.

"I don't even want to think about the records," SIU-C coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "We've got to win number 22 before we think about number 30. So we're not looking at that. We don't want to look past any game. If we go out and execute on every play, the records will take care of themselves."

The Salukis' eight-game winning streak ties a school record set in 1979. The Dawgs will get a chance to extend the streak today at Evansville in a doubleheader against the 7-15 Purple Aces.

TAYLOR STEALS RECORD

Saluki junior left fielder Shannon Taylor has burned up the base paths for three years. She holds the career record at SIU-C with 31, surpassing Becky Richtenbaugh who had held the record since 1988. She will get the chance to build on the record another year.

As the Saluki leadoff hitter, Taylor is 12-for-13 (.923) in stolen bases this spring and has drawn a team-leading 13 walks.

Taylor, a native of Clinton, has sparked for the Salukis. After a four-hit weekend, she has improved her batting average to

Women's tennis to face league foes in St. Louis

By Peter Zaiewski
Staff Writer

The women's tennis team will venture to St. Louis to play two conference foes on neutral courts.

The Salukis will meet Wichita State Friday afternoon, and Drake Saturday morning, at the Forest Park Courts.

The Salukis are 2-1 in Gateway conference play while compiling a record of 13-3 for the spring.

The Dawgs will be heading into the weekend matches with the conference play of the week, Lori Gallagher.

Gallagher is currently 18-1 for the season while riding a 12-match winning streak.

The Wichita State match should be a probable victory for the Dawgs.

"I believe we could beat them simply because of the amount of depth we have, though, the matches will come down to doubles play," Saluki coach Judy Auld said.

Drake will provide the toughest competition of the weekend for the Salukis.

"Drake will be tough. They are definitely the team to beat because of their depth," Auld said.

The Salukis' No. 1 player, Beth Boardman, will be questionable for the weekend matches. She may see some action, but will play day to day.

"I don't want to put her into a match and have her reinjure herself," Auld said. "We are going to take it a day at a time."

Missy Jeffrey, the No. 2 player, has been working through a shoulder injury which has affected her serve.

Jeffrey is a little sore but she is healing up nicely and will be a little stronger. She is coming along very well, Auld said.

Peres's Israeli government fails; 15 days new deadline

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Two ultra-Orthodox members of Parliament, both followers of a New York-based rabbi opposed to territorial compromise, refused Wednesday to support a Labor Party-led coalition, frustrating Shimon Peres's plans to form the next Israeli government. Claiming he was still optimistic, Peres met later with President Chaim Herzog, who gave the Labor leader 15 more days to form a new government. Peres's initial, 21-day mandate ended Tuesday.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Irish Prime Minister Charles Haughey traveled to Northern Ireland Wednesday, sparking protests by Protestants that he was helping the Irish Republican Army, and he warned that a divided Ireland will not fare well within a united Europe. Demonstrators waved British flags, hurled bottles and scuffled with police to oppose Haughey's one-day visit. Passions were running high because his visit coincided with the funeral of four soldiers of a British-trained regiment killed Monday by the IRA, which is fighting to end British rule in the north.

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Mother Teresa, the nun who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1979 for her work with the poor and sick, has resigned as head of her Missionaries of Charity organization for health reasons, the Vatican said Wednesday. A brief announcement by the Vatican press office said only that Pope John Paul II had accepted the resignation of Mother Teresa, 79, as superior of the worldwide organization she founded in 1950. A Vatican spokesman said leaders of the charitable order would meet Sept. 8 to appoint her replacement.

Blood recipients stress importance of donating blood drive volunteer Wednesday afternoon in the Student Center.

Staff Writer

The challenge issued by the University of Missouri-Columbia isn't the only reason that some people at SIU-C donated blood at this week's American Red Cross Blood Drive.

Richard Tyner, a University employee, had donated blood only four times before he needed blood himself.

Tyner, a maintenance laborer, was a passenger in a truck returning from the Jackson County Landfill in DeSoto when he suddenly passed out.

"A blood vessel in my small intestine ruptured because of a birth defect," Tyner said.

The driver of the truck called an ambulance and Tyner was taken to the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale where he received almost 32 pints of blood in a 24-hour period.

"I had given blood before," Tyner said, "but my experience made me aware of how important it is to donate blood. Now I try to donate at every blood drive."

Rich Swanson, a junior in political science and history, received blood at the age of nine after he was shot accidentally.

"Someone else was holding the gun. It wasn't supposed to be loaded, but it was, and it misfired," Swanson said. "I was shot in the back."

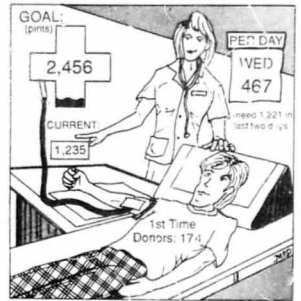

Swanson donated blood for the fifth time on Tuesday.

"My accident isn't the only reason I give blood," Swanson said. "I know there is a shortage, and I want to do my part to help."

John Franck, a freshman in cinema and photography, is planning on volunteering for the blood drive.

"I can't donate because I'm an insulin-dependent diabetic," Franck said, "but I really want to help out and volunteering my time is the best way I can think of."

According to Pat Bixler, a Red Cross

registered nurse, insulin dependent diabetics cannot donate because it will cause a change in body chemistry.

Franck, 19, received blood after a chest operation four years ago at a children's hospital in Boston.

"The doctors didn't think I'd need any blood, but I lost a lot during the surgery," Franck said. "I'm glad that the blood was available to save my life. By volunteering my time I can make sure that its available when other people need it."

"Several hundred people volunteer every day," Vivian Ugent, area blood drive coordinator, said.

Volunteer nurses from John A. Logan College and the SIU-C Health Service take pulses and blood pressures, Ugent said.

All the social fraternities and sororities on campus are volunteering, as well as Gamma Beta Phi honor society, the emergency medical technician training class, non-traditional students and many individuals, Ugent said.

Today, the blood drive will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Student Center Ballroom D.

Show Saluki spirit: give blood at drive

THE UNIVERSITY of Missouri at Columbia has thrown down the gauntlet at SIU-C, in a move that has all the makings of a traditional school rivalry. U of M has asked us to exceed their number of blood donors during the SIU-C blood drive, defending our title as the national record-holder for the most donations given during peace time.

It must be noted that this is the third challenge issued by the Mizzou Tigers, who must believe the old adage, "Third time's a charm." The Salukis have trounced them twice previously.

IN APRIL 1989 we collected more than 2,000 pints to Mizzou's 1,900. The following fall semester, we beat the Tigers again, netting 3,033 pints to their 2,849.

However, beyond the intense competition and school spirit, this isn't your typical inter-collegiate challenge revolving around a sports event or an academic contest. There are no real losers in blood drive contests because blood is a life-sustaining substance that everybody shares. You never know when you will be the one in need. We have people in our community every day who need blood for surgical or emergency purposes. Giving blood is a selfless act. It is giving something back to the community that is desperately and continuously needed—something most collegiate activities can't even begin to claim.

THIS YEAR'S week-long blood drive kicked off Monday. We had collected 768 pints of blood as of Tuesday night at the blood drive's facility in Ballroom D of the Student Center—an impressive amount, but far short of our goal of 2,456. To put that figure into perspective, Theresa Boehm, a registered nurse at the blood drive, said at least 100 pints of blood are needed for one liver transplant operation. Think about that figure in proportion to the needs of a population the size of Carbondale.

Vivian Ugent, a coordinator of blood drives in Southern Illinois, has said it had looked like we wouldn't make our goal in previous years, but the concerned students, faculty and community members have banded together to make a difference. We did it before, folks; we can do it again.

SO COME on, SIU. Show that Saluki spirit we know you have. You have today and Friday to show you care. The facility is open from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Stop by and give the gift of life.

Future of TVA spelled 'nuclear'

The Tennessee Valley Authority is staking a large share of its future on a revival of its nuclear power program. We hope it succeeds, for that would help convince skeptics that the generation of electricity with clean-burning nuclear power should be a major element of U.S. energy policy.

The TVA, a giant utility created in the 1930s, was designed to bring flood control, electricity and development to depressed areas of seven states. The agency went heavily into nuclear-fired generators when that technology came along.

Like the rest of the power industry, TVA suffered from the anti-nuclear hysteria that swept the country following the 1979 partial meltdown at Pennsylvania's Three Mile Island plant.

But much of TVA's trouble was of its own doing. It was plagued by plant-design problems and mismanagement. In the mid-1980s, it shut down five operating nuclear reactors for safety reasons, canceled eight planned units and suspended work on two plants on which construction was well along.

In 1988, the White House recruited Marvin Runyon, former director of Nissan Motors' U.S. manufacturing operations, to take over the TVA chairmanship. He and the agency's new vice president for nuclear power, Oliver Kingsley, a veteran of the nuclear Navy, set out to turn things around.

Two shut-down reactors were reactivated in 1988, another is scheduled to go back into operation this fall and the other two in 1993 and 1995. In addition, construction was resumed on one of the suspended plants, and its two reactors are expected to be operative within the next two years. Completion of the other suspended two-unit plant is expected before the end of the decade.

Runyon says that TVA needs additional capacity and the best and cheapest way to get it is to complete the two nuclear plants on which it already has expended $8 billion.

That won't please the hard-core anti-nuclear crowd, which is dead set on killing the nuclear-power industry in this country and has very nearly succeeded. A successful revival at the TVA would give the industry a much-needed boost.

I thought that I was attending a university where people were more open minded. Once again, I was wrong.

I am not ridiculing the homosexual population for speaking out for what they believe. Just because people may look different, act different, or have different sexual preferences does not make them any worse or any better than the rest of us. People need to be accepted as individuals instead of looking at what groups they fit in or what labels they have been assigned.

I like to believe in the motto that united we stand and divided we fall, and right now I can't tell which direction we are heading.

If AIDS is one of the major issues as to why people are shunning homosexuals, I think we need to look again. AIDS is now moving into the lives of heterosexuals as well. Remember the motto.

Granted, I am not saying that homosexuality is right or wrong. That is a decision that only an individual can make. I only wish that people on both sides could be more understanding.

I am...
You are...
Everyone...
Let me be who I am,
you be who you are,
and let everyone else be.
Together in harmony.—Jeff Bilyeu, junior, social work.

Attitudes toward homosexuals need adjusted; contributions of the gay community overlooked

Walking from the towers to class Wednesday morning, I couldn't help but notice that all the Gay/Lesbian Awareness posters had been maligned with some not-so-original slurs. Some of the printable ones (scrawled childishly): "D.e. fags," "Fagots beware," "All fags must die," and so on. Such is the attitude of a frightening number of the population called "homophobics." Whoever you are, I believe that you're more afraid of homosexuals than they are of you.

A homosexual lifestyle demands the courage to constantly defend what is probably the most basic right: sexuality. And if you believe that all gays are nothing but effeminate "pansies" and all lesbians are nothing but masculine "dykes," and if you wish that the homosexuals of the world never existed, you need to consider a few things. Consider "All fags must die" while looking at the miracle of the Sistine Chapel paintings by "fag" Michelangelo. Consider it when you enjoy a fireworks display, or fly in an airplane, as artist, scientist, inventor and "fag" Leonardo da Vinci invented fireworks and scissors, foresaw the airplane and much more. The list continues: Alexander the Great, Plato, Oscar Wilde, Virginia Woolf, Marcel Proust, Lord Byron, Tennessee Williams, Gertrude Stein and so many more.

Your death sentence to "fags and lesbians" was obviously a short-sighted display of total ignorance. Gays and lesbians have enriched your lives whether you know it or not. If that scares you...well, I suggest that you get used to it.—Jennifer LeDuc, sophomore, pre-physical therapy.

Abortion issue a question of freedom of choice: whether government will give women the right

On April 3 a male advertising student whose ex-girlfriend had an abortion submitted a letter comparing Pro-choice to the Dred Scott Decision and the plight of the American-Indian.

In his analogy, he overlooked the fact that it was this racist, capitalist government that denied African-Americans and American-Indians their human rights under the Constitution. Prejudice isn't a choice; it's a sickness.

The abortion issue is whether the government has the right to deny women freedom of choice. I am sorry that your experience was so horrible that it left you feeling that the choice was wrong. What might have been the wrong route for you, however, might be the best route for someone else. You are not the first or the last to face abortion. Most of the Pro-choice advocates have, and still are facing it. Do your research.

It's all about choice, and that, my fellow student, is a right.—Yancy Glover, junior, paralegal studies.

Editorial policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

the newspaper as a way to express their opinions on the inexperience of the party. Roose said he and Tanner acted on their own without contact or input from any other USG party.

"No person or individual from any party contacted me," Roose said. "It was done on my own initiative and Marvin's."

The flyer insertions, of which there were several versions, also protested the Daily Egyptian's decision not to run submitted letters to the editor clarifying the differences between the citywide mass transit and the shuttle service proposed by Student Party vice presidential candidate Ed Walthers, Roose said.

Roose said they had the right to express their feelings by the First Amendment. "I don't think there's anything illegal about what I did," he said.

Cathy Hagler, business manager for the DE, said the paper does charge for the service of inserting flyers.

In the past, when unauthorized inserts were found in the DE, the parties responsible were contacted and told that such was not a free service of the DE, Hagler said.

Hagler said she did not know if the DE would take any action in this matter.

"We've never charged anyone for doing that in the past," she said.

Roose said he did not realize placing flyers in the DE cost money. Tanner could not be reached for comment.

An emergency Election Commission meeting Wednesday night heard complaints that members of the Trojan Party distributed similar flyers across campus asking students not to vote for the Student DE. It decided there was insufficient evidence to convict the party, and decided the party did not produce the flyers.

Harvey Welch for possible action for violation of the student conduct code.

Tension was apparent in both the audience and the participants of the open meeting, with raised voices and accusations flying back and forth.

The meeting postponed ballot counting until 10 p.m. However, tallying should have begun upon the closing of the polls, Mike Jonscher, a member of the Judicial Board of Governance, said.

Jonscher said the constitution states ballot counting must begin after the polls are closed. The polls closed at 7 p.m.

Jonscher said the emotion at the meeting could be attributed to the stress of the campaigns and election.

No ballot estimations could be given except for Trojan Point which collected approximately 280 ballots, Mike White, election commission member, said.

Previously, the Trojan and Progress parties both received written warnings from the election commission for illegal campaign practices on April 3.

Mykal White, election commission member, found each party placed more than one poster in the same location, which violates specific campaign guidelines.

Kris Fabian, Trojan campaign manager, also wore campaign buttons in the Undergraduate Student Government office, which remains neutral ground during campaigns, Tami Todoroff, head of the election commission, said.

April meeting," he said.

In other business, the board will discuss a resolution seeking a $65 increase in the Student Medical Insurance Premium for medical school students.

The 146-percent increase would raise the rate to $109.50 for the fall and spring semesters, and increase the premium $34.75 to $65.75 for the summer session.

The board's Academic Matters

Committee also will listen to a report on amending admission requirements for the University in fall 1993.

The amendment contains three provisions:

On or after fall 1993, students will not be admitted unless they complete the following high school courses:

- Four years of English,

- Three years of social studies.
- Three years of mathematics.
- Three years of science.
- Two years of electives in foreign language, music, vocational education or art.

Students who demonstrate knowledge and skills equivalent to students who have completed the requirements also will be admitted, the amendment states.

neering and architectural firms aren't used to the quake standards.

"Firms in California are used to doing this sort of thing all the time," Koomb said. "Illinois never has had mandatory seismic building codes."

The order also will ensure vital transportation links are not disrupted because of a quake by providing seismic standards for new state highways.

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said he was pleased with the Thompson's order. He also has introduced legislation into the state senate that would require homeowner insurance policies in the New Madrid Fault to include earthquake coverage.

"I think we need to be prepared for this when it happens and homeowners should be protected," Dunn said. "This bill would require any homeowner insurance policies issued, renewed, amended or delivered in this area to include quake coverage."

If a quake comparable to the one that hit San Francisco in October hit Carbondale, most buildings on campus could handle the strain, Allen Haake, the University's supervising architect and engineer, said.

Since the University is a state school, all buildings constructed after April 6 will meet quake standards.

Most of the buildings especially those built after 1970 such as Fanner Hall, Hiram T. Lesar Law Building, the Recreation Center and the College of Technical Careers meet current quake codes, Haake said.

Older buildings such as Atgeld, Wheeler and Anthony Halls were built without the masonry being reinforced. Without reinforcement of the bricks and concrete blocks, the masonry could dislodge and hit people in the event of an earthquake.

He said the unusually high 1989 totals must be a freak occurrence because he could find no connections between or patterns among the injuries.

Hicks said a lot of the accidents result in minor injuries. Cuts, bruises and abrasions made up 51 percent of the injuries last year.

The campus location with the most accidents was the Physical Plant, which accounted for 22 percent.

The Physical Plant has a high number of accidents because people are working with sharp objects and tools, Hicks said.

Student Services was second to the Physical Plant with 21 percent of the injuries, the colleges were third with 19 percent and the residence halls and food services ranked fourth with 15 percent.

"The food industry usually has a little more injuries because they're working with hot substances, slick floors and sharp objects," Hicks said, "and they're in a little bit of a hurry."

Hicks said he is allowed to make a guess on his records on the length of time employees are kept off of work from the injury.

"I've told the Department of Labor that it's a guess," Hicks said. "There's no way with just one person, I can call and check on every one of them. We might start keeping track of them in the future. We're probably going to start keeping them at health service to tell how long they've been off."

Hicks said he also gets about 1,500 student accident reports a year, but since there are so many, he only keeps them a year to look for things he can correct to prevent future accidents.

"For the students, I look for trends," Hicks said. "I'm looking for some sort of corrective action."

If he notices a lot of accidents occurring in labs as part of chemical experiments, Hicks said he can tell the departments to make sure students are wearing gloves and safety goggles.

Hicks said he looks for things that happened on campus because he has no control over off-campus accidents.

"If a student steps in a hole on campus or if something is broken, that, I can get fixed," he said. "I'm not interested in someone punching their hand in a wall at Gatsby's."

Almost 50 percent of the student accidents are athletic injuries, he said.

"Depending on the time of the year, we get a lot of athletic injuries," Hicks said.

April is a big month for student injuries because the warm weather brings more students outdoors for athletic activities, he said.

Hicks said he get all sorts of odd accident reports from students such as a student twisting a finger rolling a magazine during a church service last year.

"It amazes me what students will do to get hurt," he said. "A lot of times it's their first time away from home and they'll try a little more."

University women's group presents two scholarships

By Rob Coné
Staff Writer

A doctoral student in psychology and a non-traditional undergraduate majoring in anthropology were each awarded a $250 scholarship during Wednesday's meeting of the SIU-C Women's Caucus.

Carolyn Rowley is the Woman of Color scholarship recipient. Rowley, who is pursuing a doctorate in psychology, said she plans to use her award to further her research on sickle cell anemia.

Sickle cell anemia is a chronic, hereditary disease that affects a disproportionate number of blacks in the United States.

Her study will evaluate the changes in self-concept of children and adolescents and the incidence of depressions and suicidal tendencies found in people who face the disease.

Rowley said she plans to do the study in St. Louis and California.

When not researching and studying, Rowley volunteers as a tutor for area literacy programs.

Margaret Marshall is the Women's Caucus Non-Traditional Student Scholarship recipient. Marshall is a senior in anthropology with minors in museum studies and journalism.

Default rate declining for educational loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Education Department officials said Wednesday the default rate for federal student loans fell in 1988 but the addition of more than $1 billion in red ink shows it is too early to "claim any victory in this area."

The department said 15.6 percent of the students who were required to begin repaying their federally guaranteed loans in the 1988 fiscal year were found in default during the next two years, down from 17.3 percent in 1987.

Of the 2.46 million loans scheduled to start being repaid in 1988, 385,000 were in default. Of the $9.23 billion loaned, $1.07 billion was in default.

The department calculates its default rate on the basis of the first two years because 70 percent of defaults begin with the first payment. A student is declared in default if he has not made a payment in six months.

Most of the decline in the 1988 default rate resulted from changes in the way the department calculated the figure, and officials were hesitant to attribute the rest to Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos's default initiative.

"We don't want to claim any victory in this area just yet," Leonard Haynes, assistant secretary for post-secondary education, told reporters. "Our problem is too serious for hasty judgments about trends in the default rate."

Unlike 1987, the 1988 default rate does not include loans to students at foreign schools, schools that were subsequently kicked out of the loan program or schools with fewer than 30 borrowers.

Officials said future default rates for schools with fewer than 30 borrowers will be based on three-year averages. The other schools were not included because they are not regulated by the department, they said.

Both Congress and the Education Department acted last year to tighten the rules for obtaining student loans following a more than 300 percent increase in defaults from 1983 to 1989 and widespread reports of fraud.

Congress banned students at schools with default rates above 30 percent from receiving supplemental student loans, and the department required that schools with default rates above 20 percent implement default management plans.

Under the department's plan, schools with higher default rates face additional requirements, and schools with default rates above 60 percent could face expulsion from the program beginning in 1991.

Census work after April 20 expensive

By Nora Bentley
Staff writer

Census forms must be turned in by April 20 or taxpayers will lose money. Max Sullivan, director of the U.S. Census Bureau district office, said.

After April 20 it will cost $15,000 to $20,000 a day in tax revenues to send out field workers to go door-to-door, and this doesn't include office workers, Sullivan said. By law the workers must attempt to make contact with a person three times by telephone and three times in person.

The original April 1 deadline stated on the form is to be ignored, and Sullivan said that the district office will probably get forms until June or July.

Although the forms will be accepted until the office closes in July, late returns complicate matters and don't help in the saving of money, he said.

"It's a lot easier to send it in than have my people hassle them," he said. He added that people can save some tax money by sending the individual census report in.

Sullivan said that more than half of the ICRs have been returned, but that the big job of field work is just beginning.

Door-to-door visits serve the purpose of collecting information from people who either need assistance in filling out the ICR or just didn't send it in, Sullivan said.

Collection of ICRs on campus will be finished April 13 and field work in Carbondale will start after April 20, he said. Of the residents in Carbondale, Sullivan said, students are the hardest group to count and are the most important to the city.

"The single most important thing is to make sure they get counted," he said.

Sullivan said it was important to get an accurate count of all the residents so the city will get its rightful amount of federal and state funding.

University interior designers to hold event for AIDS victims

By Jeanne Bickler
Entertainment Editor

In the wake of the death of Ryan White, the 18-year-old AIDS victim, it's hard to think positively about the deadly disease.

But SIU-C's American Society of Interior Designers is asking students and members of the community to rally in support of AIDS victims by attending its benefit at 7 p.m. tonight at Checkers, 760 E. Grand.

The benefit, "Second Chance: Fight Against AIDS," is sponsored by ASID, the Design Industry Foundation for AIDS and Checkers.

"Second chance really means the hope for AIDS victims," Laura Berkowitz, president of ASID, said. "We're trying to bring out the positive side."

The positive side of this effort means money in the form of donations that will go to the Midwest Coalition for AIDS and the Southern Illinois AIDS Task Force, Berkowitz said. ASID wanted to keep the money that is raised in Southern Illinois.

Although there will be no cover charge to attend the event, donations will be accepted at the door. Donors will receive a button with the "Second Chance" logo, and a chance to win prizes from local businesses.

Area businesses have donated more than $500 in gift certificates and prizes, Berkowitz said.

Local bands, The Reform and the Nightsoil Coolies, also are donating their time to playing at the benefit. In fact, The Reform has written a special song, "Second Chance," to perform at the event.

Although the major idea behind the benefit is to raise money for AIDS, having a good time will not be out of the question.

"We want to have a good time and at the same time, let people know why they are there," Berkowitz said. "This is an event that is geared towards everybody. We're not going to push AIDS information on people, but if they want information, we'll have an area with brochures."

ASID got the idea to have an AIDS benefit from the Design Industry Foundation for AIDS, a national group of interior designers, architects, photographers and others in design related fields.

"DIFFA did a benefit play about AIDS and it sold out everywhere it went," Susan Dieckgrafe, ASID secretary, said.

"We want to use this money to educate everyone in the public about AIDS," she said.

Stage Company set to perform additional 'Steel Magnolias' shows

Auditions to begin for 'Cinderella' and 'A Toby Show'

By Jeanne Bickler
Entertainment Editor

Carbondale's community theater, The Stage Company, will be very busy at the end of this month.

Because of the large demand for tickets, the theater has expanded the dates for the upcoming performance of "Steel Magnolias" to include two extra shows. The popularity of the film version of "Steel Magnolias" has spurred ticket sales for the local play.

The additional shows will be at 8 p.m. April 26 and May 3.

The show opens at 8 p.m. April 20. Normally plays run for three consecutive weekends at The Stage Company, featuring three performances each weekend. But because of great demand, the two Thursday performances have been added.

Tickets for "Steel Magnolias" are available at The Stage Company, 101 N. Washington St. Tickets are $6 for evening performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday and $4 for the 2 p.m. matinee performances on Sunday.

In addition to the opening of "Steel Magnolias" in late April, the theater will hold auditions for a children's play called, "A Toby Show," at 7 p.m. April 23 and 24 at The Stage Company.

Auditions are for adults. The adult cast features parts for three men and four women. The play is a humorous variation on the classic "Cinderella," using a 1915 tent-show format.

Toby, the title character in the show, was a native American folk character who featured prominently in the stories that were written and performed by traveling tent-shows.

"Toby shows" eventually became one arm of the theater. The plays starring "Toby" were happy-ending type stories.

Auditions also will be at 7 p.m. April 25 for between-acts entertainment. Singers, dancers and variety artists are invited to attend these auditions. These acts will be used in place of an intermission.

"A Toby Show" will open June 8 for a run of two weekends at the theater. For details about the auditions, one may contact Jo Ann Hensley, the director of the production, in the evenings at 684-3407.
