Insurance Coverage Questioned

The All-University Student Council has passed a resolution questioning the policy of insurance coverage to students between summer and fall quarters and to students enrolled in eight-week or workshop programs and who pay activity fees.

The council discussed the insurance policy which covers students at both University campuses and decided to write to L. Clark Davis, director of student affairs, questioning the coverage outside the regular school year.

Chairman Bill Murphy appointed Lyndel Leritz as vice-chairman, Edwardsville Campus; Fran Langston, secretary; and Pam Newberry, budget officer.

The meeting was held at the University Center on the Carbondale campus. The minutes were released Wednesday.

The council decided to hold its first fall meeting Sept. 25 and 26 at Little Grassy Lake Camp.

Southern Players Might Go Back To New Salem

The Southern Players may perform at the New Salem State Park next summer.

Several state agencies involved in operating the park have written the SIU drama group about performing at the park.

"Nothing is definite," said Sherwin Abrams, faculty adviser to the Southern Players. "We received the letters a month ago, and now we are trying to find out just what they want".

In the summers before 1958--and before the Southern Playhouse was air-conditioned--the Southern Players performed at the New Salem Park. One summer they performed at Branson, Mo.

"Though the Chamber of Commerce wanted us to continue, we had to come to campus," Abrams explained. At the time the Theater Department had only two instructors, who were in charge of teaching classes as well as working with the summer acting company.

"Naturally," said Abrams, "we could not teach classes, direct campus productions and perform in New Salem too."

"We are in the process of exploring possibilities," Abrams said.

Love-Making Surveyed

Public Display of Affection on SIU Campus Is Governed Largely by Unwritten Rules

By Leonor Wall
Heywood Campbell Brown, in "It Seems to Me," says "the ability to make love frivolously is the chief characteristic which distinguishes human beings from the beasts."

In order to find out what regulations are imposed upon our fellow campus human beings in their frivolous art of love-making, a survey was made of people by whom the practice is considered a problem.

"I don't believe a rule on petting has been written that will meet with operational success," Marian Thraikill, head resident at Woody Hall, said.

"We appeal to the girls as adult women. We use the honor system here," she continued. "However, resident fellows and counselors keep a watch in the halls, lobbies and reception areas just in case."

"We try to keep the hall above reproach. We tell the girls that what they do is seen in the eyes of their own peers and that their actions are a reflection on the hall itself. Their conduct goes only as far as their judgment in a mixed society will permit it," Miss Thraikill noted.

"If a reprimand is in order, the resident fellows and counselors do not hesitate to act," Miss Thraikill hastened to point out. After a warning or two some have been asked to leave the building because, she feels, "they are abusing the facilities they are privileged to use; however, these occurrences are rare."

"The girls appreciate the reprimands and the maintenance of acceptable conduct in the building," Miss Thraikill said, "as the girls feel it is embarrassing when relatives or visitors come and their conduct is not what it should be."

"Three feet on the floor and nothing can happen" is a generally accepted policy for couples at Woody Hall," Miss Thraikill noted.

"The University Center," according to Clarence G. Dougherty, director, "has no rule set down against public display of affection, but the policy of the building is definitely against such displays."

"Public display of affection is not a thing that educated (Continued on Page 8)

'Fair Lady' Has 3 October Dates

"My Fair Lady," the Summer Music Theater's hit musical production, will be performed again this fall, according to William Taylor, assistant professor of music and director of the show.

It will be presented Oct. 2, 3 and 4 in Shryock Auditorium with virtually the same cast that performed this summer.

Only two replacements will be made in supporting roles and two new dancers will join the cast, he said.

Ralph Bushee, SIU rare books librarian, will play the role of Zoltan Karpathy and Mrs. Miriam Gullett, a former teacher from England who has served as diction coach for the cast, will take the role of Mrs. Hopkins.

Victoria Smith of Park Ridge and Diana Whitney of St. Louis have been added to the group of dancers.

Leading roles of Prof. Henry Higgins and Eliza Doolittle will again be played by Robert Meyer of Springfield and Mary Jo Smith of Mt. Vernon.

Also continuing in major rolls for the fall performance will be David Davidson of

Basement Area To Be for Study

Morris Library may open a "late-hours" study room this fall.

According to Ferris Randall, acting director of the library, a plan is being considered to provide students a place inside the library where they can continue to study after the library closes.

He emphasized that it "probably will not be open round-the-clock" but would remain open a number of hours after regular library hours.

"As you know, the Textbook Service is being moved from its present location at the northeast corner of the library basement to another floor," Randall said. "And we are considering using that old location for the study room."

Randall said one of the major reasons for selecting the old Textbook Service location is that "it has an outside entrance and students will be able to come and go freely after the main door of the library are locked."

The Textbook Service was both an inside and outside entrance. It can be reached through either the foyer at the library's main entrance or a set of outside stairs at the northeast corner.

The room will be equipped with tables and chairs and a few general reference books, Randall said.

"We will not have a librarian on duty in the room," he said, "but we probably will have someone there to simply act as a monitor to help maintain quiet in the room."

More details about the room will be announced later.

In the past several years a number of students have made various proposals in connection with later library hours or a study-room arrangement to be used after the library closes. The Student Council has discussed the matter on several occasions.

As a result a study room has been maintained in the Student Activities area of the University Center. But it closes when the Center is locked up for the night.

SUE ANN WOOD

Globe Reporter Here to Write Feature on Journalism at SIU

A St. Louis newspaper-woman was on campus Wednesday to work on a story about the Department of Journalism.

She is Sue Ann Wood, who is a reporter-feature writer working from the city desk of the Globe-Democrat.

Miss Wood is working on a weekend edition feature for the Feature Forum section of the paper. No definite publication date has been scheduled, she said.

She met Howard R. Long, department chairman, for a tour of the department facilities and introductions to the American and foreign students enrolled in the department.

She said she was interested in not only the work of the department but its international ties through organizations such as the International Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors.

She is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, and studied at Edinburgh University in Scotland in 1952-53 on a Rotary fellowship.

She was with the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times for 14 months before joining the Globe-Democrat in 1955.

Workshop to Deal With Aero-Space

Importance of aero-space education in modern civilization is the theme of the Aero-Space Workshop being held Aug. 10-21 on the SIU campus.

Jason Collins, workshop director, said the workshop will answer some of the most elementary questions about aero-space to the extent the information is needed by social studies teachers. Field trips will be made to the McDonnell Aircraft Co. in St. Louis and to the Rantoul, Ill., Air Force Base.

Assisting Collins are five U.S. Air Force officers: Lt. Col. John Helton of Waco, Texas, Major Orval Kane of Beaver Creek, Wis., Major Kenneth A. Person of Rantoul, and two officers from the Air Force ROTC detachment at SIU, Capt. Robert Probst and Capt. Joe Johnson.

Workshop Slated For Librarians

The first of its kind to be held in Illinois, a five-day workshop for public librarians, will be conducted here Aug. 24-28 by the SIU Division of Technical and Adult Education in cooperation with the Illinois State Library.

Librarians who enroll will be reimbursed for housing, meals, tuition and workshop materials, according to Harry B. Bauernfeind, assistant dean of technical and adult education.

Purpose of the workshop is to acquaint public librarians with new ideas in reference work, library promotion and administration and shortcuts in cataloging.

"It is hoped that librarians attending the workshop will return to their libraries with new ideas on how their libraries can best serve their particular communities," Bauernfeind said.

Lecturers will be Robert N. Broadus, associate professor of library science at Northern Illinois University and former head librarian at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.; A. Stan Rescoe, assistant professor of library science at George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., and R.W. Evans, from SIU's instructional materials departments.

Broadus formerly was a consultant for Remington Rand Corp. Rescoe, who has acted as consultant for many schools and libraries, previously conducted a workshop at SIU. Evans has acted as a consultant in instructional materials for the Springfield school system and is at present serving as consultant on library services to the Carbondale high school board.

On the opening day a book binding demonstration will be presented by Don Dickerson of the Gaylord Company.

'Arrangement' For Vending

Ultimate control of the vending operations on campus lies with SIU's Office of Auxiliary and Service Enterprises, housed in Room 103 of Shryock Auditorium. It is Auxiliary and Service Enterprises which lets contracts permitting vending companies to place machines on campus.

For the privilege of vending on the SIU campus, vending companies pay SIU a percentage of the gross amounts of money deposited in each machine on campus. The percentages, for the most part, range between 10 and 25 per cent, but some commissions are as low as seven per cent, while some are as high as 40 per cent--depending on the product the machine sells and the type of service.

In all, this amounts to an annual income of nearly $50,000 for the University. Generally stated, this money is used for the retirement of bonds held against buildings, or, as is the case when vending machines are located in buildings already paid for, it is placed in the student welfare fund. For this money, the University furnishes only the electricity, water, and location.

There are presently four vending companies on campus. They are: Automatic Retailers of America, Todd's Laundry Cleaner, Dorm Enterprises, and General Telephone Company of Illinois. Auxiliary and Service Enterprises considers pay telephones vending machines. By far the largest on campus and most familiar to SIU students is Automatic Retailers of America--known as ARA--which, incidentally, also owns Slater Food Services in the Roman Room of the University Center.

ARA maintains a complex of 242 vending machines on campus. Located at approximately 45 separate locations, they sell five types of products. Milk constitutes 7 per cent of their sales; coffee, 3 per cent; candy, 28 per cent; cigarettes, 46 per cent; and cold drinks, 16 per cent. Main banks of ARA vending machines are in University Center, Old Main, Wham Education Building, the Agriculture Building, and the Life Science Building. The rest are scattered.

Whereas the location of machines is determined jointly by the University and ARA, ARA has the final control over what goes into the machines. It has done extensive marketing research to determine just what products to sell, where to sell them, and how. It is ARA's policy to stock only name brands, and these brands are rotated from machine to machine in order to suit space and demand requirements.

The reason you can't buy a Coke on campus is that ARA has a separate contract with Pepsi-Cola Company. Pepsi operates the bottled soft drink segment of ARA's SIU operations. ARA's contract doesn't expire until Dec. 12, 1966, so until then, like it or not, on campus it's think young or else.

ARA explains the scarcity of 5-cent items in its machines by pointing out that the 10-cent item is more desirable to both buyer and seller. The buyer gets more for his money compared to two 5-cent purchases, and ARA, of course, makes more money. In addition, ARA cites statistics showing that 5-cent items just didn't sell when placed in its SIU machines.

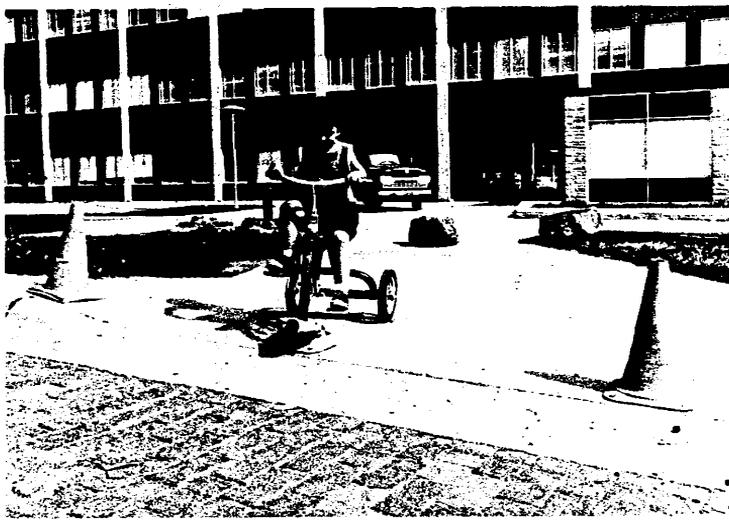

So the noises of the machine grow louder.

It's Season for Hay Fever

Again it is time for inhalers, nose drops, tissues and tablets. The cause? Hay fever. Weeds, grass and trees bring irritation to millions. Even those sensitive to tiny, disintegrated bits of dust, given off by millions of insects, might get the fever.

Millions of man-days of work in industry will be lost. There will be sneezing, eye congestion, itching of the ears, nose, throat and mouth, and nasal discharge will block the nose. Others may suffer from asthma, eczema, gastrointestinal allergies, and contact dermatitis such as poison ivy.

The medical profession calls it a mere nuisance. But Rep. John E. Fogarty in 1958 thought hay-fever was serious enough to warrant a "National Allergy Month" from Aug. 15 to Sept. 15. A pamphlet "Hay Fever Holiday" advises a trip to Europe or to areas of pollen-free seashore or mountain resort. The best spot for relief is the Pacific Coast, and the worst hay-fever spot is Coldwater, Mich. Normal treatment is desen-sitization. By means of a series of injections of weak solutions of the allergy-producing insect materials, resistance can be built up and attacks avoided. Drinking immunized milk, or using an ionitron (a machine which can be built in or attached to a room air-conditioner) brings speedy relief.

This discomfort is headed for a coincidence with the end of term examinations. The hope is that there will not be too many WE-grades.

Wrong People Getting Funds

The American Council on Education has urged a complete review of the nationwide formula of awarding scholarships to U. S. college and university students.

In light of the statistics used by the ACE in determining the need for this review, it is evident private scholarship re-distribution could do much to help meet the cost of "priming the education pump,"--a cost a Daily reader objects to in a letter to the editor today.

An ACE study showed that for every one scholarship awarded to a student from a family with an income below $3,000, at least four are given to students from families in the $11,000 a year bracket.

The head of the study, ACE research director Elmer D. West, said figures reflect "well-known reasons" that the rich are more likely to send their children to college than the poor, but to help more of the poor who apply, he urged colleges to "begin at the bottom of the economic ladder and work up in granting aid."

He also urged that high income families make greater use of loan funds--on the assumption that their financial difficulty in meeting college expenses is temporary.

It can be argued that scholarships given on the basis of merit reinforce achievement, and therefore are most necessary to our educational system. On the other hand, scholarships awarded purely on the basis of need to qualified students may encourage achievement in a sector of the population which usually does not attend college. At this point this seems to be a greater good.

Perhaps the ACE report and President Johnson's emphasis on poverty measures will slowly direct colleges into awarding a greater percentage of their scholarships to more needy students.

Art Gallery Hopes to Extend Viewing Hours in Fall Term

Mr. Harlyn Hamm's comments in the Aug. 4th edition of the Daily Egyptian concerning the open hours of the Mitchell Art Gallery are encouraging since they indicate there are some people who would be interested enough to visit the Gallery if it were open some evenings and weekends. The University Galleries, of which the Mitchell Art Gallery is a part, realizes that it would be better to have open hours for the convenience of those working or attending classes during the week. It is hoped that such arrangements can be made starting with the Fall term.

However, it should be pointed out that during the past years, when the Mitchell Gallery was open from 9-12 on Saturdays and 2-6 on Sundays, practically no one came. This in spite of a great deal of publicity and enticements of cookies, punch, and pretty girl attendants--also art!

Anyway, Mr. Hamm is on the right track. Perhaps he can persuade his professors as well as his colleagues to attend at least the receptions, opening, and lectures which are regularly arranged for each major exhibition--usually on Sunday.

The University Galleries appreciates any suggestions from members of the faculty and the student body in assisting us to make the Galleries more available to more people.

How to Solve Football Problem

It matters not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game--unless you're dealing with Iowa football. Then it's strictly a matter of whether you play the game at all.

The latest installment in the Big Question of Iowa State versus Iowa University in a gridiron contest was registered last week when Harry Burrell, sports information director at ISU, brought up the question again.

Burrell suggested that if Iowa continues to refuse to share the profits from its lucrative football program by not agreeing to an SUI-ISU game, it may be a matter for the State Legislature to decide.

He cited a case in Alabama where the Legislature refused to allocate certain funds for the University until it agreed to play Auburn in football.

Well it seems kind of silly to make such a big thing out of what should be a fairly simple game.

Maybe instead of calling on the Legislature to take a stand on this much debated question, the lawmakers could placate the entertainment appetite of Iowa sports fans themselves. Perhaps the State Senate could play the House of Representatives in a volleyball game--they could hold the match in the governor's office.

It might not be quite as good as a college football game, but it would keep a lot of people talking--about something other than ISU-SUI football. That would be quite an accomplishment in itself.

Associated Press News Roundup

Robert Kennedy Reported Set To Make Run for U.S. Senate

ALBANY, N.Y.--Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy appeared Wednesday to be well on his way toward nomination as the Democratic candidate for U.S. senator from New York. A well-informed source in the state democratic organization said a series of moves over the next several days were expected to provide the momentum that would assure Kennedy's nomination. The moves were expected to include Kennedy's announcement of his candidacy and further declarations of support from county chairmen.

In Washington, however, a spokesman for Kennedy described as "premature" published reports that he had decided to make the run. "The attorney general has not made a final decision," said Edwin O. Guthman. While top party leaders in the state continued to maintain an official air of neutrality, there was evidence they were concentrating on the Kennedy candidacy almost to the exclusion of other prospects. Kennedy's backers for the Senate nomination argue that the U.S. Constitution requires only that a senator be "when electd, an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen." An endorsement of Kennedy by Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City is considered imminent--a step that the attorney general has said is crucial to any bid by him.

Turkey Suspends Cyprus Flights

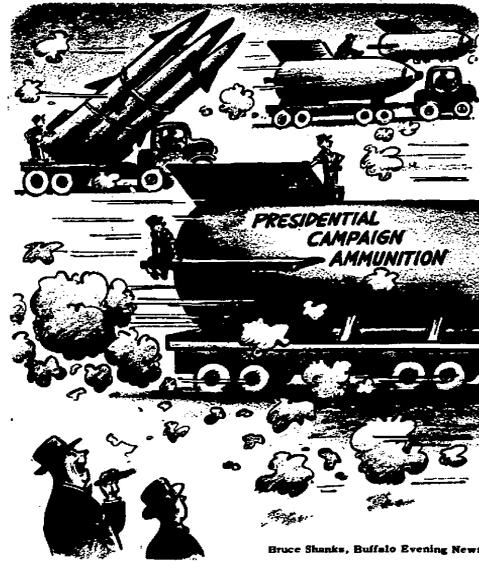

NICOSIA, Cyprus--Turkey cast oil on the troubled waters of Cyprus late Wednesday, suspending its reconnaissance flights "for the time being" and pledging to help the United Nations restore peace.

But these developments, announced in Ankara by Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin, came only after Turkish scout planes again set off air raid alerts across much of the island and angry Greek Cypriots demonstrated against Americans and Britons in Nicosia.

Parliament's speaker, Glafcos Clerides, officially accused the United States and Britain of backing the Turkish aerial attacks on Greek Cypriot positions in the Kokkina area battle last weekend.

Clerides said: "Nobody can believe that Turkey would dare launch such attacks with NATO planes, without the consent of these two countries--the United States and Britain."

A placard-carrying crowd demonstrated outside the U. S. Embassy. A Marine guard padlocked the crowd, about 100 persons. The staff remained inside the six-story building behind shuttered windows.

Goldwater Denies Extremists In Unity Bid to GOP Leaders

HERSHEY, Pa. -- Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater disavowed extremists of the left and right Wednesday, and promised, if he wins the presidency, to consult in advance with former President Eisenhower on appointments to key Cabinet posts.

"I seek the support of no extremists--of the left or the right," Goldwater told a closed-door summit conference of Republican leaders he had summoned here in a bid for party unity.

Service Salaries Go Up Next Month

WASHINGTON -- President Johnson signed into law Wednesday a bill that will send fatter pay checks to almost every American serviceman by the first of next month.

All of them will share in the $207-million pay raise except draftees and lowest-ranking enlisted men. For most, it will be the second pay raise in 11 months.

The bill gives a 2.5 per cent increase to all officers and enlisted men with more than two years of service and an 8.5 per cent increase to all officers with less than two years of service.

New Jersey Cities Struck by Violence

ELIZABETH, N. J. -- Negroes in Paterson and both Negro and white youths in Elizabeth went on violent sprees Tuesday night in which gasoline bombs, rocks and empty bottles were hurled, store windows smashed and one store was looted.

The outbreaks began first in Paterson and, as order was restored there, flared up in Elizabeth.

Author Ian Fleming Dies of Heart Attack

CANTERBURY, England-- Ian Lancaster Fleming, creator of the fictional secret agent James Bond, died Wednesday of a heart attack. He was 56.

A newspaperman who turned author, Fleming was one of the world's biggest money-making writers.

Goldwater said he was confident there would be no "so-called extremist take-over of the party."

Goldwater said his foreign policy would be patterned upon Eisenhower's.

The Arizona senator said a Goldwater administration "will mean an immediate return to the proven policy of peace through strength which was the hallmark of the Eisenhower years."

He added: "Every president, if he's worth his salt, will pick his own Cabinet. He must pick his own associates for the top echelon of government. However, I can assure you that I would not appoint anyone to the offices of secretary of state, or secretary of defense or other critical national security posts until I have first discussed my plans for those appointments with Gen. Eisenhower, Dick Nixon and other experienced leaders seasoned in world affairs."

SIU Athletic Trophy Honors Ex-Saluki Herman Hinkley

Who is Herman Hinkley? And why is the highest athletic award presented at Southern named in his honor?

The late Herman Hinkley is a former Saluki athlete who lost his life while fighting as a member of the U.S. Army in the South Pacific during World War II.

Hinkley, a native of West Frankfort, was an outstanding football player at SIU from 1941 until he enlisted in the army in 1943. He was a star halfback on coach Glenn (Abe) Martin's grid teams of the early '40s, and was a reserve guard on the Saluki basketball team and a member of the SIU track team, then coached by the late Leland "Doc" Lingle.

After Hinkley was killed in action in 1943, Sigma Beta Mu fraternity, no longer chartered on the SIU campus, created an award to honor an outstanding Saluki athlete, in memory of Hinkley.

Today, Sigma Pi fraternity presents the annual award to the SIU athlete chosen as the outstanding performer of the year by his Saluki peers.

Since the trophy was first presented in 1946, only two Saluki athletes have won the award more than once, Marion Rushing of Pinckneyville, now a starting corner-linebacker with the St. Louis Football Cardinals, won the Hinkley trophy in 1956 and 1958 for outstanding play in football, basketball and track.

The 1964 winner, Rusty Mitchell of West Covina, Calif., also won the trophy in 1963. Mitchell has been honored for his nationally recognized performances with coach Bill Meade's NCAA champion gymnastics team.

Swimmer Norbert Rumpel was the only foreign-born athlete to win the trophy. Rumpel, a native of Schweinfurt, Germany, was a standout swimmer at SIU from 1957 to 1959.

Former Saluki track star, Dick Gregory, now a nationally famous comedian, won the Hinkley trophy in 1953.

A list of trophy winners follows:

- 1946--Sam Milosevich, football.
- 1947--Quentin Stimson, basketball.
- 1948--Joe Hughes, football, basketball.
- 1949--Harold Hartley, track.
- 1950--Bob Colborn, football.
- 1951--Tom Millikin, basketball.
- 1952--Phil Coleman, track.
- 1953--Dick Gregory, track.

Peers' Judgment Sets Limit To Necking in Halls, Center

"We don't feel that we should have to tell students that we have any special policy regarding behavior here because most students know what is proper," he emphasized. "We have no intention of having the University Center turned into a place where couples can go to neck."

What happens if a couple is reprimanded in the center? "We suggest to them that they be careful of public display of affection. We rarely ask them to leave, because we want them to use the facilities available in the center for constructive purposes. Actually we have very little disturbances in relation to the number of people who use the building."

Regarding Thompson Point rules on public display of affection, Robert C. Profflet, assistant area head, offered these comments.

"There is no specific area policy at Thompson Point. However, several of the women's halls have set general standards that are incorporated into their residence halls by-laws."

Does he feel that there is a problem because of a lack of any specific rules? "It would be naive to assume that rules would limit natural interpersonal relationship either in public or private," Profflet said. "I feel that students' moral standards are being defined by the judgment of their peers, and in the past their judgment has been quite acceptable and an adequate controlling factor."

In regard to complaints heard from students, he said, "Some woman students object to the public display of affection in front of the halls at closing hours. The objection is understandable, but the solution to this problem is not an easy one."
