Chancellor MacVicar: Faculty Asks Reconsideration on Demonstrators

Action Against Eleven Students To Continue

By Brian Treusch

Chancellor Robert MacVicar has said he will continue disciplinary action against 11 students despite a formal motion passed by the Faculty Council urging him "to suspend" such action.

MacVicar said Monday that he intends to discuss the matter with the council at its regular luncheon meeting at noon today. The motion, which was passed by the Faculty Council on July 23, was not released until yesterday in the official minutes prepared by Roland Keene, secretary for the Faculty Council and an assistant in the President's Office.

The action taken by the Council concerned the disciplinary action taken by the University against students who participated in a demonstration against Army recruiters in the University Center on May 2.

The motion, which was approved by the Council with only one dissenting vote, reads: "We urge Chancellor MacVicar to suspend past action against those students who were involved in the May 2 incident in the Student Center.

"We further urge that the cases of these students be referred to an appropriate committee for its recommendations.

"And, finally, we wish this recommended procedure to be understood as the Carbondale Faculty Council's stated commitment to the principles of due process."

The minutes of the Council's meeting state that there "was considerable discussion" about the motion prior to its adoption.

In discussing the motion, several supporting arguments were recorded in the minutes. The conclusion drawn reads as follows:

"The point for the present, however, is not the wisdom of the group's (the 11 students) action, nor whether or not they did indeed violate University regulations or civil statutes, nor even that more than 25 people were involved and only eleven students have been notified of action taken against them.

"The issue before the Council is that evidently these students have had disciplinary action (probationary) taken against them without due process; that no hearing had been held; and that apparently an insufficient effort had been made to determine the precise facts of an action that, at the time of disciplinary action, was more than two months old."

The Council's minutes note that "such action would seem in clear violation of the provisions of the 'Joint Statement of Rights and Freedoms of Students'."

That statement has been adopted by the American Association of University Professors and the Association of American Colleges. SIU is a full supporting member of both groups.

Some Demonstrators Asked to Sign Statement Appearing Below:

MEMORANDUM OF RECORD

This is to certify that I understand the policy of the Southern Illinois University with respect to interference with normal operational procedures and creating disturbances which impede the rights of other members of the University community to affect their normal duties and responsibilities. I further indicate that I am aware that because of my previous conduct, action of this type by me would be more seriously regarded and would likely result in severance from the University for cause subject to all applicable regulations for appeal of any decision so made.

Board to Meet Gus Bode Here Friday

The SIU Board of Trustees will hold its August meeting here Friday, starting at 9:30 a.m. in the board room at the President's Office.

Agenda for the session includes consideration of the annual internal budget, action on bids for remodeling Shryock Auditorium, and a resolution amending the motor vehicle regulatory policies with reference to the traffic and parking revenue fund.

Gus says he would like to protest the University Center coffee, but first he wants to see what happens to the 11 demonstrators

MacVicar Confirms 3 Students Asked To Sign Statements

Chancellor Robert MacVicar confirmed Monday that he has asked three students to sign a statement admitting their guilt in participating in a demonstration against Army recruiters.

All three of the students said they were required by MacVicar to sign the statement in order to be readmitted into SIU next fall quarter. In addition three of the students said they have requested Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton for formal hearings into the action taken against them.

While MacVicar refused to release a copy of the statement he is asking the students to sign, he said he would not object to any of the students discussing the statement with the press.

All three students said they clearly expressed to MacVicar that they were signing the statement "under protest." Yesterday, MacVicar said he did not think "any of the students objected to it."

MacVicar said the purpose of the statement was "to put down in black and white what we agreed to in our discussions."

One of the students, who was asked to sign the statement, Larry Saltzman, said that MacVicar offered to let him rewrite the statement, "as long as it included the same provisions as the original."

Saltzman said he had no alternative but to sign the statement if he wanted to return to school in the fall.

Another student, Stu Philipp, said he asked MacVicar "if it was really necessary to sign the statement?"

He said MacVicar told him that it was "necessary" to sign that statement because it is necessary for the University to know that students will cooperate in the future with University policies.

SIU to Present Proposal For Carbondale Law School

SIU administrators will present a proposal for establishment of a law school at Carbondale to the Master Plan Committee for Legal Education in Illinois in its Sept. 6 meeting in Springfield.

Chancellors Robert W. MacVicar, Carbondale campus, and John Rendleman, Edwardsville branch, and SIU President Delyte W. Morris will probably be designated to submit the proposals. MacVicar presented the SIU plan for a medical school addition to SIU last year.

One of the chief obstacles to the establishment of a college of law at SIU could be the plans for expansion of the University of Illinois law school. If the SIU proposal is adopted by the committee, it might have a diminishing effect on the extent of expansion proposed for the state school in Champaign.

This would largely depend on two factors: the committee's recommendations to the Board of Higher Education and the allocation of funds by the state legislature upon request by the Board.

According to Max W. Turner, SIU professor of government and a member of the committee, the question has been left open. He said that no definite stand has been officially taken by the committee on either the University of Illinois proposals or the possibility of establishing additional law schools at Southern or a number of other state universities.

The committee is not expected to issue its final report until November.

Employees Council

By Nick Harder

The Non-Academic Employees Council, representing over 1,700 men and women, is polling its members for opinions on the recent proposals for vehicle sticker fee increases.

Dated August 8 and circulated Monday, the questionnaire asks:

--Are you in favor of the proposals?

--Would you be in favor of them if parking places were assigned on a reserve basis?

--Are you in favor of a set fee for all parking stickers?

--Would you like to see a proposal that would put parking sticker fees on a graduated scale according to income?

--Do you wish the Council to petition, if necessary, the appropriate administrators in accordance with your views on the parking proposals?

A story in Friday's Daily Egyptian said that a member of the Non-Academic Employees Council was urging his group to oppose the reserved space policy for construction vehicles.

Charles Powell, vice-president of the Council, said Monday that no official stand could actually be taken on the proposals by the people the Council represents until the entire group of non-academic employees had been polled. In a special bulletin of The Reactor, an internal publication for non-academic employees, the opinion poll was included along with statements by the Council.

It said that the Council "would like to state the administration's case as fairly as possible, however, it must be noted that the administration has chosen not to release any more details of the proposal to us or, to our knowledge, the Faculty Council."

The questionnaire should be turned in by early Thursday. The Non-Academic Employees Council will hold a meeting on that day to discuss the parking stand, compute the poll, and possibly adopt a statement of policy which would be submitted to the Board of Trustees in its meeting Friday on the Carbondale campus.

According to Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar, Carbondale campus, President Delyte W. Morris will probably present parking proposals to the Board at that time. MacVicar declined to reveal earlier what certain modifications he had made to the proposals when he reviewed them last week.

The proposals originally submitted by the Vehicle

Traffic and Parking Committee include new fees of $25 for blue decals, $15 for red decals, and an increase of $3 to $5 for basic registration fees.

No statement was made either by the Non-Academic Employees Council or the administration on the complaints of construction vehicles parking in self-designated reserved spaces.

Fashions For Fall

Leather, Fur Emphasized

Girls and women are dressing "for fun" and are playing in search of identity, believes an SIU fashion specialist.

It is this quest for the "real self" that he brought on many of today's trends in fashion according to Thelma Berry, associate professor of clothing and textiles in the School of Home Economics. "For a third of a century we have had the hour-glass figure, modified from season to season, and it is time for new concepts to mirror our age of speed, action, informality," she said.

"The trend has not settled down yet; so we don't know what form will predominate the remainder of this century. Silhouettes normally change drastically about three times each century; so it is time for a new one to prevail."

A year ago Mrs. Berry predicted the mini-skirt would remain in vogue for some time, perhaps becoming as abbreviated as an Elizabethan doublet worn with long hose. Spring and summer brought such a style, especially for campus co-eds.

Fall trends which she has gathered from Washington, Chicago and New York and from fashion magazines and the students in her family clothing class, include the following:

Heavy emphasis on leather, both real and fake, and on furs, both real and fake. Both are used not only for accent but also for entire suits.

Metal belts, leather belts, fabric sashes. The waistline is quite mobile, ranging from empire to low on the hips.

Longer jackets, sometimes almost three-quarter length, worn with skirts of modified A-line or with box pleats.

Air Officer Jobs

Open to Graduates

Many Air Force officer positions are available for male and female SIU seniors and graduates according to T.Sgt. Houston Macy, Air Force recruiter.

Positions for pilot and navigator in the flying field, weather and cartography, as well as positions in engineering fields, are now open.

Qualification tests for officer positions begin at 9 a.m. on Wednesday in the Air Force recruiting office, 512 W. Main St. No appointment is required.

Some short fitted jackets, stopping at the hipbone, are seen.

Fuller sleeves, sometimes with ruffles at the wrist which occasionally match ruffles at the neck.

Capes and weskits, matching or contrasting with skimmers and A-line or box pleated skirts.

Boot and/or long patterned stockings, to complete the "total" effect. Heavier, boxier shoes.

Colors will be more subdued this fall, the greater emphasis on grays and browns in about equal proportions, Mrs. Berry said. Rust tones will be used as an accent for both brown and gray. Plaids and paisleys will lend variety to the fashion scene.

For the longer fashion run, Mrs. Berry predicts that by next year pants will become more acceptable for all-occasion wear, "but they will be softer, more feminine, more wearable." The earlier versions, now being seen for evening wear and informal occasions, have wide and flowing legs, but by next year the legs will become more fitted and tailored but not narrow or tight.

Right Direction

Northeast Carbondale residents have taken a step in the right direction. They have organized.

In effort to avoid any further haphazard, disunified attempts for community betterment and inter-relationships with the rest of the city of Carbondale, a well-devised and executed election within the community was held the past month. All 2,000 residents of the northeast section, as a result, are fairly represented now by a body called the Northeast Community Development Congress.

The chairman of the organization has expressed through the press a determination for residents to lead in curing some of the social ills which have been inflicted upon them.

Presently the community is the center for urban renewal projects, the Model Cities program being one highly anticipated. This organization can supply the necessary force, to keep these programs from becoming mere shams that appease the public and make the disinterested, removed directors rich.

Too often it is true that a predominantly white staff, whose members have never shared some of the problems with which ghetto dwellers are constantly confronted and do not understand or care to understand them, are hired to execute the so-called community development projects.

The black residents plan to play the major role from this point on, and rightly so. Who can better know what these residents want and what the need than the residents themselves? The black people are restless; they are aware; they are on guard. The day of exploitation is ending.

A 'Plus' for SIU

During Aug. 15-25, the 1968 Summer Music Theatre Company will be featuring all four of its musicals in repertoire. Each of the productions which were performed earlier this summer, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "The Most Happy Fella," "Sweet Charity," and "West Side Story" will be performed twice—on consecutive nights—in Muckelroy Auditorium.

The musicals are good entertainment. They've given their audiences a great deal of pleasure, and are a definite "plus" for SIU this summer.

One thing concerning the productions is, however, a definite "minus": it is apparent to anyone who has attended the musicals that there is a lack of younger, undergraduate students in the audience. The older students, the graduate students, Carbondale citizens, faculty and administrative personnel make up a goodly part of the audience. The younger undergrads are not well represented.

Why not? A lack of sophistication in the arts on the part of the freshmen and sophomores? The competition of the drive-in theaters and their presentations of such trash as "The Mini-Skirt Mob" and "The Glory Stompers"? The lure of television and its nightly gift of "bubble gum for the eyes"?

Whatever the cause, it is regrettable that the younger undergrads do not participate in the entertainment. According to Dan Vance, business manager of the theater company, the musicals are "for the masses—not merely for sophisticates in the arts." One need not be an "artsy-craftsy" sort to enjoy them.

Fortunately, it's not a case of the musical theater company suffering from the specter of empty seats—sales have run over 90% of the house this summer. It's more a case of students being given an opportunity to be exposed to some excellent theater—and not taking advantage of it.

There is, however, a "last chance" to see the musicals. And, if one does decide to go, he will certainly not regret—having seen the production—that $1.50 spent on a student ticket.

Faculties Need Continuous Criticism

By Robert M. Hutchins

In France, West Germany and the United States the student rebellion has focused on different targets.

The French government controls the universities very directly. If anything is to be done about them, the government has to be changed, or has to change its mind.

In the "revolution" of last May the students brought down the minister of education and came near bringing down the government.

In West Germany the academic influence of the government is much less visible and pervasive. There the people who seem to be in charge are the senior professors. The drive of the students, in which the junior members of the faculties have joined, has been to cut down the authority of the mandarin.

In the United States officers of administration appear to wield great power or at least they are the agents of power. They represent the regents or trustees. They seem to determine university policy. They get the blame for any unpopular moves the university makes in connection with the military-industrial complex. They are held responsible for the malfunctioning of the university in any respect including the inadequacy of the teaching, the misdirection of the research and the confusion of the curriculum.

Administrators are not likely to be more popular with the faculty than they are with the students. Academic bureaucracy is regarded as an evil, perhaps a necessary one, but an evil nevertheless. It is made necessary by things professors object to, by the great size of American universities, by their complexity and by the overwhelming attention they give to money, publicity and efficiency. Administrators are not thought to represent the faculty, and they are usually paid more than professors are.

Hence the student revolt in this country has received impressive support from the faculty. It is not too much to say that without that support the small gains the students have made could not have been wrested from regents and trustees. Good professors are hard to find; when you have one, it is wise to pay attention to what he has to say.

As the rebellion in America proceeds, however, the students are likely to see that they have taken a superficial view of administrative officers and their role. If the students tackle the curriculum, the quality of teaching, the qualifications of teachers and the direction of research, they will find themselves in the West German situation, only worse. They will be in conflict with the whole faculty, and not just the senior members of it.

In large American universities the president and the administrative staff play a negligible role in the internal, academic affairs of the institution. The faculty determines what will be taught, how it will be taught and to whom. The faculty decides who is to graduate and on what basis. The faculty selects, promotes and, within the budget, increases or fails to increase the salaries of the faculty. The research program of the university, what shall be investigated and how, is entirely within the control of the faculty.

This is what academic freedom and faculty autonomy have come to mean.

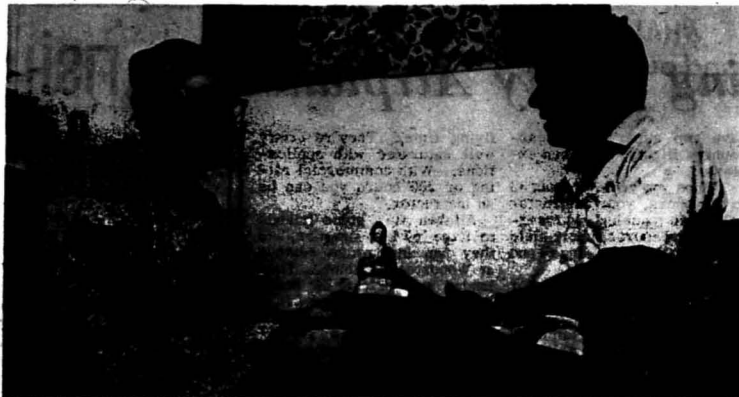

If the choice is between faculty control and control by politicians or their representatives, I will take the faculty everytime. But it has to be admitted that faculty control can lead to stagnation and to indifference, to the legitimate demands of students.

What faculties need is continuous criticism. In the coming years I think the students will give it to the.

Public Forum

The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters. Editorials are written by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the author only. Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters, which must be signed with name, address and telephone number, preferably typewritten, and be no longer than 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are urged to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication still depends upon the limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other material on pages four and five includes editorials and articles reprinted from other newspapers, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

Token of Appreciation

P. S. S. Rama Rao of India, a candidate for the doctor of philosophy degree presents a statuette of Buddha to Mrs. Mary Wakeland, international student consultant, in appreciation for her kindness during his three years of graduate study at SIU. Starting in September, Rama Rao will be a visiting assistant professor of philosophy at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, for one year.

Marching Salukis Getting Ready For Active Sports Days Ahead

With two guest performances at professional football games ahead, the Marching Salukis of SIU will start preparing early. They will attend a week-long Band Camp Sept. 16-21, one week before school is to begin.

The band's tuxedo and derby hat uniform which is a unique feature of the marching group, is a familiar sight at SIU football games. Another odd feature of the group, a violin among the brass, also sets the band apart.

The style and marching used by the Salukis has made the band extremely popular with football crowds. Special arrangements are written by Bob Pina, a senior from River Grove, and are geared to the band's unusual large-dance-band style and instrumentation. Pina's arrangements lend themselves to lots of excitement from the percussion section, which is mounted entirely on wheels.

Melvin Siener, director of bands at SIU, and Nick Koenigstein, associate director, leads the Marching Salukis in what is known as the "swinging Saluki stage band sound." Koenigstein said, "This variety in sound is balanced by the visual concept of the band." All members of the band are dressed in tuxedos and Homburgs, with half of the band in black, half in red and the percussion section in plaid.

The all-male marching band consists of approximately 100 members plus seven female twirlers. To qualify for membership one must be a full time student with at least some marching and playing experience. No auditions are required for membership.

The band puts in at least 8 hours a week of practice during the fall quarter, the only time of the year they are active. Rehearsal is three days a week on the marching field and one night a week studying musical arrangements.

The band made several appearances at St. Louis Cardinal football games in 1967 and plans to appear there this year, October 20, and on nation-wide TV at a Green Bay Packer game December 7.

Historical Group to Meet

Representatives of the Congress of Illinois Historical Societies will hold their second annual meeting and first election of officers in Springfield on Aug. 24.

The program includes a luncheon and talks on historical preservation and museum techniques. The organization, which has a membership of more than 30 local historical societies and museums, is sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Society.

There Seems a Difference In Types at Library, Beach

Who is most likely to be found at Lake-on-the-Campus on a hot school day in August?

A married senior or graduate student from Illinois, majoring in science with a 3.0 overall average.

And in the library on the same day?

A student of the same characteristics but majoring in the humanities.

At least that's what Sara Lou Miller discovered after conducting a recent research study.

Miss Miller, a 17-year-old high school senior from Gaston, Indiana, is one of the 54 high school students on campus attending an eight-week science institute sponsored by the National Science Foundation. The students, who are living at Thompson Point, wound up their modified college science courses Friday.

For a computer course which Miss Miller attended, she conducted a survey of students chosen at random in the library and beach on a sunny day last week. She asked six questions of each student and then compiled the answers contrasting people on the beach with those at the library.

She found that science majors were most plentiful on the beach while majors in the practical arts (home economics) were uncommon. Humanities students were most numerous at the library and those from the practical arts, again, were least.

An equal number of seniors and graduate students were found on the beach and freshmen were the most uncommon. At the library, she found more senior students and no juniors.

The study showed more married students than unmarried ones were found at both the library and the beach. In-state students outnumbered those from out of state at both places.

Interestingly, students with a 3.0 overall were most abundant at the library and beach while the study found no "B" average students at either location.

When those at the library were asked if they would prefer to be at the beach, 58 per cent replied in the affirmative. At the beach not one person said he would rather be at the library.

Benefit Game Pits Russell, Chamberlain

Jim Hart Leads Cards To Win Over Steelers

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—Will Chamberlain and Bill Russell will be matched against each other Tuesday night when stars of the National Basketball Association meet in the 10th annual Maurice Stokes benefit game.

Chamberlain, recently traded by Philadelphia to Los Angeles, will start at center for one team while Russell, player-coach of the Boston Celtics, will start for the other team.

Joining Chamberlain will be Len Wilkens, Bill Bridges and Zelmo Beaty, all of Atlanta, and Adrian Smith of Cincinnati. On Russell's side will be Willis Reed of New York, Dave DeBusschere of Detroit, Hal Greer of Philadelphia and Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson.

All proceeds from the game at Kutscher's Country Club will go to the Stokes Benefit Fund, which helps pay medical expenses for Stokes, who was struck down with sleeping sickness in 1958.

Jim Hart, SIU's contribution to the ranks of the St. Louis professional football team, threw two second-period touchdowns to help the Cardinals whip the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-7 in a National Football league exhibition game Friday night.

The Cardinals scored their first touchdown on a seven yard pass play from Hart to Jessie Smith. After a pass-interference call against the Steelers, Hart threw his second scoring pass of 33 yards to Smith with less than 12 seconds left in the first half.

Big Red Coach Charley Winner said that Hart passed with greater poise than a year ago and that there was little wrong with his direction of the first string offensive unit.

Hart and the Cardinals return to action Saturday when they play the Kansas City Chiefs at Kansas City.

Hart compiled a host of passing marks during his football career at Southern. He gained prominence as a sophomore when he turned in the best year of his SIU career. The Morton Grove player fired 14 touchdown passes in 1963, one of his many all-time individual records.

Hart holds 20 SIU records ranging from most passes attempted, (47 against Ball State in 1965) to most completions in a season (111 in 10 games in 1964). While at SIU Hart attempted 671 passes; completed 283; gained 3,779 yards and threw 34 touchdown passes.

Former SIU quarterback Jim Hart was at the helm last weekend as the pro football St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Steelers, 24-7 in an exhibition game. Hart threw two touchdown passes.

Football Rule Changes to Affect Salukis

By Dave Palermo

Every time the rules-makers decide to change the game of football—the defense inevitably suffers. Five rule changes announced last week which are to go into effect during the collegiate season simply bear out the tradition.

Two new rules which SIU Football Coach Dick Towers finds fault with deal with punt coverage and the restriction of the linemen from movement once the three-point stance is taken.

The first change, revoking the 1967 punt rule maintaining that interior linemen could not cross the line of scrimmage until the ball is kicked, should cut down on the amount of punt returns. The linemen will now have ample time to get down the field to cover the receiver.

"This change will definitely take the excitement of punt returns out of the game," explains Towers. "We'll have better coverage and fewer returns."

Asked how the change in the punt rule will affect SIU specifically, Towers said it would take some of the effectiveness out of punt return specialist Doug Hollinger.

Hollinger was the team's leading punt and a kickoff returner last season with a 14.9 average for punt returns and 22.0 for kickoff returns.

"He's going to have to be more of a clutch receiver, although he is one already," explained the veteran coach. He's going to have all those linemen bearing down on him next season."

Towers added that the rule change will put a premium on receivers like Hollinger.

The second rule states that linemen cannot move once they maintain the three-point stance. According to Towers, this change will eliminate the "sucker shift" in which the lineman changes his position to "psych" the opposing lineman and get a better slant on the play, forcing the opponents to readjust their offense.

"I didn't like the line change," said Towers. "The old rule was good enough. I liked to think that Coach (Bob) Mazie (defensive coach) and I are good enough not to get suckered on the line." Towers added that this change, like the punt rule, will definitely help the offense.

Another important rule that should greatly affect the game involves automatic one-and-a-half minute time outs after each first down.

"This is a real important rule," said Towers, "and it's been needed. We lost the game to Drake two years ago because of its absence."

Towers replayed the game with Drake in which Southern, behind in the game by a point in the closing seconds of the last quarter, couldn't get off a field goal attempt by Ralph Galloway because the referee was placing the ball as the clock ran out.

According to Towers, the new rule would be beneficial after a long pass was completed in the closing seconds in the game. It would allow players to get down field in time for another play.

Some experts maintain that the rule change allowing for time outs after first downs, adding about 20 more time outs per game, should increase the scoring in collegiate football because of an increase in plays. Towers left room for the possibility but said he couldn't think of any way there would be a marked increase in scoring.

Towers said the rule changes would force him to make minor changes in his offensive set of plays but didn't mention any specific adjustments.

Two other rule changes should have no noticeable effect on the game.

The first rule states that any player signaling a fair catch can no longer block out an opponent to prevent him from downing the ball before it reaches the end zone. The player can still fake a fair catch but can't throw a block afterwards.

Towers explained that the faked fair catch is a good practice, but was hesitant to cite any major significance of the rule change.

The final rule change merely maintains a stricter adherence to uniform numbering. Backs must wear numbers 1 to 49, interior linemen 50 to 79, and ends in the 80's.
