Strike, late taxes add to CCHS woes

Editorial on page 4. By H. B. Koplowitz Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Gus says the schools need a loan just to shut down.

The financially troubled Carbondale Community High School (CCHS) District 165 face more monetary problems because of the teachers strike and the delayed issuance of county tax

Monroe Deming, Jackson County superintendent of schools said Friday, the lateness in preparation of tax bills definitely affects every school district in the county as well as all other agencies."

Deming said the school district will have to borrow to pay its operating costs because the tax assessment process has taken so long.

He went on to explain that borrowing money means paying interest. It also means the district will not have the funds to invest in order to make money on their money, which is a common practice.

Reid Martin, superintendent of CCHS District 165, said he anticipates the district will lose $25,000 through loan interest payments and lack of funds to invest.

The district, now about $1 million in debt, was told by Carbondale bankers last July that it had reached the limit that Carbondale banks are allowed to loan the district. The bankers urged the board at that time to develop a plan to pay off its debt to avoid being turned down by other lending institutions. Martin said Friday evening, however, that although he is not certain, he believes the district may borrow a another $100,000 from city banks before the said the Carbondale banks "have been very good to us" by putting their interest rate at five per cent. He said he did not believe out of town banks would be as generous. "We plan to borrow as little from out of town banks as possible," he said.

The district also stands to lose state funds for every day the teachers strike continues, but there is some question as to how much that will be.

Illinois schools are supposed to be open 176 days each year. For every day under 176, they would lose one per cent under 176, they would lose one per cent of their state allocation. Recently a bill was passed by the Illinois General Assembly that would reduce the penalty to .568 per cent of the allocation per day. Gov. Dan Walker used the amendatory veto to make the bill apply not merely to this year, but every year.

Deming said Walker's amendatory veto is under litigation because there is some question as to whether he overstepped the authority given to him under the 1970 Illinois state constitution

Martin said the state allocation to the district was $1,150,000. Under the old law, the district would be losing $11,500 for every day the school stays closed. If Walker's amendment is not for every day the school stays closed. If Walker's amendment is not overrridden by the legislature or thrown out in court, the district would lose about $8,500 per day.

Martin said operating expenses and salaries cost the district $6,000 per day. Therefore, under the new bill, the district might actually save $100 a day by keeping the schools closed.

Martin said there are no plans to change the school calendar to make up for days the schools are closed because

SPRINGFIELD, III. (AP)—Eugene McCarthy was certified Friday by the State Board of Elections for a ballot spot in Illinois as an independent candidate for President.

The board held that McCarthy can be listed as a presidential candidate even though he failed to list a running mate or a slate of candidates for the eight state offices which will be up for election on

The former Minnesota senator, who sought but lost the Democratic presidential nomination in 1968 at a tumultuous convention in Chicago, has said he hopes to be listed on the 1976 election ballot in 45 states.

As it certified the candidates whose names will appear on the November ballot, the board declined to act on three proposed constitutional amendments sponsored by a citizen's group.

The amendments would prohibit legislators from taking their pay in advance, holding second government jobs or voting on issues in which they have a personal, family or financial

The citizen's group, calling itself the Coalition for Political Honesty, sub-mitted the proposals for referendum. It was the first time a citizens' group had made use of a provision of the 1970 Constitution permitting citizens to propose amendments to the legislative article of the state constitution.

The proposals have been challenged in court, however, and a Circuit Court judge has held that they are improper subjects for inclusion on the ballot.

That decision has been appealed to the Supreme Court, and Board Chairman Franklin Lunding Jr. said the board's hands legally are tied until the court issues a decision.

The deadline for certification of the

The deadline for certification of the ballot to county clerks is Thursday. In addition to McCarthy, slates of state and national candidates for the Communist, Socialist Labor, United States Labor, Socialist Workers and Libertarian parties were certified Friday along with the Republicans and Democrats for the November ballot. Petitions also had been submitted on behalf of candidates for the Socialist and behalf of candidates for the Socialist and American Independence parties, but the board ruled that the petitions contained fewer than the 25,000 signatures required for a spot on the ballot.

Harold Wilber of Oreana, chairman of the American Independence party, appeared on its behalf and told the board that his reading of Illinois election laws would permit the party to continue seeking signatures for its petitions through Sept. 18.

He said attorneys for the party may challenge the board's decision in court.

MOSCOW (AP) —Three Americans who admitted smuggling nearly 63 pounds of heroin into the Soviet Union, and apologized to a Moscow court for it, were sentenced Friday to varying terms of 5-to-8 years in a labor camp. JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) —Tens of thousands of blacks returned to work Friday after four days of fighting among police, Zulus and other residents of the huge Soweto ghetto left 35 blacks dead. #### Carter's pardon only for draft evaders

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jimmy Carter's campaign promise that he washing for AFP — Jiminy career's campaign promise that would grant a blanket pardon to all who refused to be drafted for the Vietnam war would affect only about 12,000 of the 106,000 men considered war evaders. In making his pledge, Carter distinguished between draft evaders and military deserters and said the deserters should be handled individually within the military justice system, without the benefit of any presidential pardon. These deserters constitute over 93,000 of the war conders.

Selective Service and Justice Department figures show there were 13,222 draft evaders during the Vietnam era. Of these, President Ford already has granted an outright pardon to 1,510 under his clemency program. Carter raised the pardon issue by telling the American Legion in Seattle on Tuesday: "I do not favor blanket amnesty, but for those who violated Selective Service laws, I intend to grant a blanket pardon."

Lester Maddox still segregationist

CHICAGO (AP) — Declaring he is still a segregationist and urging faster speed limits on Interstate highways, former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox drove Friday toward the American Independent Party nomination for President. Maddox appeared the clear frontrunner over the ticket of Dallas newspaper columnist Robert Morris and direct mail expert Richard Viguerie. Also competing for the nomination was former U.S. Rep. John Rarick of Louisiana. At a news conference, Maddox said, "I'm a segregationist, and you are too, most likely. A segregationist is a man who cares enough for his own race and has enough pride in his own race and other races to want to keep them from being destroyed. I've been oppressed. There are a lot of clubs I couldn't get into, even as a delivery boy, even after I was elected governor. I didn't cry about it."

Paulaskis chose the location because it was the residentially-zoned area nearest the commerically-zoned Das Fass. "If you meet the regulation at the closest residentially-zoned property, you have no problem anywhere else," he told the bar's owner Herb Vogel. Paulaskis said the violation was "low limit," only slightly above the established decibel levels at several frequencies. The state and city laws set legal sound that for various frequencies or pitches because the sensitivity of the human ear varies with different pitch of sound.

Paulaskis said rock bands in violation

"The only way tto be sure you're not in violation is to close it (beer garden) in,"

Vogel said he has begun work on plans to enclose the beer garden, but no construction will begin for several months. Paulaski said the EPA will help Vogel develop a plan for compliance which could be worked out in stages.

Strike talks go into weekend session

By Linda Henson Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

No firm offers were made in Thursday night's negotiations between the Car-bondale Community High School Board of Education and the striking teachers'

Representatives from both groups said negotiations are scheduled to resume Saturday at 8 a.m. with John Pink, a federal mediator.

Saturday's closed meeting was slated to be held in an undisclosed location. The board had agreed to hold public negotiations, but Pink, from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS), asked that the negotiating sessions be closed to the public.

Reid Martin, district superintendent and a member of the board's negotiating team, said he had no comment about the progress of the Thursday night meeting. He said it was basically an exchange of positions between the two groups.

Martin said, "The mediator gathered information. He is a professional that both groups respect."

Jim Tarr, public relations chairman for the striking Carbondale Community High School Education Association (CCHSEA), said he was told "that after extensive negotiations the mediator told them (both sides) to just go home and come back Saturday."

The three high schools in Carbondale, which were scheduled to open their doors for 1,400 students this week, remain closed.

The decision to strike was reached at a meeting of the CCHSEA Sunday when the attending teachers voted to go on strike without a dissenting vote.

Don Lawrence, president of the CCHSEA, said earlier this week the strike vote was called for because the board's contract proposal did not satisfy the teachers' demands.

CCHSEA wants a $380 increase in their yearly base salary, contributions from the board to their retirement fund, reduction of class size, procedures for staff reduction and other working condition improvements.

Connally, Rocky attend Ford's strategy meeting

By Howard Benedict Associated Press Writer

VAIL, Colo. (AP) - President Ford plotted his fall campaign with political strategists Thursday before holding a party unity meeting with Republicans whose views range from moderate to conservative.

Arriving here for late afternoon and evening sessions with the President were Kansas Sen. Bob Dole, who is Ford's running mate; Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, and former Texas Gov. John B. Connally.

Rockefeler is expected to play a role in promoting Ford to moderates and liberals for the Nov. 2 election. That wing of the party felt left out at last week's Republican National Convention in the platform debates and when the President picked conservative Dole as his vice presidential choice.

Ford wants to enlist Connally, reportedly disappointed at not being tagged for the No. 2 spot, to help head wounds with the extreme right wing of the party, which supported Ronald Reagan.

Morton, who said he wanted to be relieved of day-to-day direction of the campaign in order to "travel across the country as an advocate," said the steering committee will promote GOP unity, serve as a forum for strategy talks and assess the progress of the campaign.

In another move toward party unity after the divisive battle between Ford and Reagan, White House chief of staff Richard Cheney is expected to meet soon with Reagan in California.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen was asked by reporters Thursday if it was perhaps wrong for Cheney, as Ford's top White House aide, to be taking such a big role in the political campaign.

Walker wants authority to speed up tax collections in Illinois. Acting without early collections, Walker slashed $84.5 million from the state education budget. If the legislature comes through, and God knows what is holding them up, Walker said he would reinstate $56 million to the education budget.

But, as was pointed out by the Carbondale teachers' chief negotiator, Harold Emme, "If we're in such a financial bind, why is it only the teachers who are asked to carry the burden?"

What is the necessity of increasing the administrative staff while reducing the number of teachers? Are the board's priorities valid?

Why haven't the school officials taken a cut in salary during these trying financial times, as they are, in effect, asking the teachers to do?

Surely school management could also be reorganized; that is, reduced. Administration of the three high schools could be centralized, which would be both fiscally beneficial and school officials taking.

It's time to evaluate the present school administrative structure and establish different priorities. It is necessary in order to provide quality education, good teachers' salaries, and efficient fiscal management in the school district.

Chicago Symphony to appear

By Kenth Tuxnorn Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

For the first time ever the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will appear in Southern Illinois, as the 105-piece ensemble performs at SIU Sept. 14 in Shryock Auditorium at 8

Sept. 14 in Shryock Admins non-pm.

The Orchestra, beginning its 86th season this fall, will be conducted here by Leonard Slatkin, associate principal conductor of the St. Louis Symphony, as regular conductor Sir Georg Solti will not appear.

The internationally acclaimed orchestra's appearance is a rare one because the troupe has a very limited touring schedule. The orchestra makes two weekly trips to

By Ron Berlhel AP Feature Writer

The Happy Bookers by Richard Armour McGraw-Hill, 132 pages

This little volume bears the subtitle "A Playful History of Librarians and Their World from the Stone Age to the Distant Future," and a lucky thing it does, lest the browsing reader, unfamiliar with Richard Armour's penchant for pun and games, takes it to be the story of theatrical agents who like their work.

story of theatrical agents who like their work.

The jacket blurb promises that this is a "largely factual" account, but the history is a little half to keep track of when viewed through the author's wry eye.

Examples:

"The first public library was established by C. A. Pollio, who flourished in the first century B.C., long before Salk Vaccine."

"Until the invention of typography, there was little or no opportunity for what was to become the most exciting feature of the printed book: the typographical error."

"In a sense the pyramids were libraries, as they contained guidebooks which would tell the deceased where he would go. He might have been told this while he was alive, but was too annoyed to pay attention."

In addition to this wealth of knowledge is a chapter on the Dewey Decimal System which explains once and for all which-Dewey (Melvil) is responsible for its invention, as well as what Deweys (too numerous to mention) had nothing to do with it.

nothing to do with it.

One annoying feature of the book's layout is the use of footnotes, when parenthesis (like this) would have made for much smoother reading. But, if a distorted history laced with groan inducing puns is your reading pleasure, or if you want a little book to have a good time with, run down to the bookshop for a copy of "The Happy Bookers."

States.

Tickets for the show will go on sale at 8:30 Monday morning at the Central Ticket Office at the Student Center. Tickets for the public will sell for 88, 36 and 35, and SIU students can buy them for $7, $5 and $4.

In addition to regular reserved-seat tickets, 50 choice "event sponsored" tickets will be availabe for $15 each. R. Paul Hibbs, coordinator of special programs, said holders of the specially-printed tickets will be seated in a block of tickets will be seated in a block of the best seats in the 1,257-seat Shryock Auditorium. In addition, sponsors will have their names printed in the program and will be invited to a reception following the Hibbs said persons wanting to buy the special tickets should call the Office of Special Meetings and Speakers at 453-4397 at Shryock Auditorium for details. Grants from Auditorium for details. Grants from the Illinois Humanities Council and the office of SIU-C President Warren W. Brandt made the appearance of the Chicago Symphony possible, but Hibbs said he hopes sales of those tickets will help cover the remaining costs of the symphony's show.

In recent years the recordings of the orchestra have won numerous Grammy awards from the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences. This year they received awards for their performance of all nine Beethoven symphonies, while three Grammys were awarded the group last year for their version of Berlioz "Symphonie Fantastique."

The orchestra's program for the SIU show will be: Berlioz' overture, "The Roman Carnival," Op. 9, DeBussy's "Frelude to the Afternoon of a Faun'; Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier Suite"; and Prokofiev's "Symphony No. 5," Op.

The Orchestra has been directed by eight different men since its inception in 1891, including Frederick Stock, Fritz Reiner and Rafael Kubelik. Solit has been at the helm since the 1969-70 season.

SIU psychology professor Alfred Lit explains the aspects of vision be researches in Life Science II. (Staff poto by Peter Zimmerman)

Vision study expands

Pioneering prof raises sights

By Chris Moenich
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
An SIU psychologist has worked 16 years studying the phenomena of vision. During this time he has achieved international prominence in the field of visual research.
Alfred Lit, professor of psychology, came to the University to develop a perception laboratory at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. He also came to establish an engineering psychology laboratory.

Lit said he has worked with over 246 students in his vision research which he currently conducts in Life Science II. With their assistance, he Science II. With their assistance, he has compiled an impressive body of basic and applied information on color vision, depth discrimination, and spatial illusions.

Both the progressive development of the labs and the development of testing apparatus were accomplished by Lit and his technician, Charles Popp.

Currently he is in the process of purchasing equipment for a variety of perceptual apparatus to be used by undergraduates in the perception laboratory.

by undergraduales in the perception laboratory.

The National Science Foundation and SIU have granted him $10,600 for purchasing the experimental and demonstration equipment. In the perception lab, Lit and his students utilize tabletop equipment that includes devices for testing depth perception, adjustable prongs for studying two-point discrimination thresholds, and several devices for studying visual illusjons.

"Perception deals with how we interact with the world," Lit said. "The perception lab is a major lab designed for use by the psychology designed for use by the psychology department."

The depth perception lab also has equipment which Lit brought with him from the Columbia University, New York. Lit received his bachelor's degree, his master's degree, and his Ph.D. also from the University.

In his visual electrophysiological

In his visual electrophysiological laboratory Lit is studying visual evoked cortical potentials. For the experiments he uses a Tachistoscope which flashes light into the subject's eyes at any desired intensity, duration, and rate of proteition.

desired intensity, duration, and rate of repetition.

To the back of the subject's head Lit attaches an electrode which picks up the potential (Voltage changes) produced by the light flashes. The visual center is in back of the head," Lit said. He added that with an aide of an amplifier and computer it is possible to record the electrical signal produced by light by canceling out the random electrical activity of the brain. "This experiment will measure the sensory latency," Lit said. He explained that sensory latency tells how long it takes the impulses of the nervous system to reach the brain from the eye.

nervous system to reach the brain from the eye.

Lit is also studying reaction time to light and sound stimulation. These tests entail the subject depressing a hand switch as soon as the subject can detect the presented

"This experiment," Lit said, "will indicate how long it takes to activate both the sensory and motor components after the onset of stimulation."

Lit, as the principal investigator for vision research, works on three or four projects simultaneously with the aid of several graduate and undergraduate students.

He has received grants from the Eye Institute of U.S. Public Health Service, National Science Foundation, Illinois Department of Mental Health, and the Office of Research and Projects of SIU.

Saluki golfer expects coach to belp build strong squad

By Dave Heun Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The golf team is heading for a good season because Coach Jim Barrett is going to turn things around with a whole new program, said Jim Brown, SIU's No. 1 golfer. Brown, a senior from Paducah, Ky.. majoring in chemistry and physiology, is in his third season with the Salukis and has been the top golfer his last four semesters. Brown had nothing but praise for his new coach.

"Barrett is a fantastic coach," Brown said. "He will motivate the struggling."

The team was finishing a preseason playoff tryout among themselves this week, and Barrett was to pick up three new golfers to go along with Brown and five others on scholarships.

Brown, unable to play in the playoff because of a bout with the flu, talked about the golf program in the comfort of his trailer at Carbondale Mobile Home Park.

"The biggest problem with our golf program is the lack of decent practice facilities near by." he said. "The weather here is fine, so that's no problem but they (the athletic department) don't cut the grass around the Arena at all. There grass around the Arena at all. There

Brown said the secret to his success is that he doesn't give up during a game, and doesn't panic when he's in a slump.

"As you get older, your slumps are farther and farther apart," he said. "When you get down, you have to pull yourself back into the game and keep concentrating.

With almost the same defensive backfield that intercepted only two passes and frquently let up the bomb last year, both Coach Rey Dempsey and defensive back Coach Rich Solomon are hoping that an added year of experience will turn things around. With the season opener only two weeks away, the secondary appears to be set, although there may be some be set, although there may be some changes, especially at shortside cornerback position where sophomore incumbrent Kevin Woods is being pushed by freshman Oyd Craddock from New Orleans.

SIU baseball recruits boast speed, power

By Doug Dorris Assistant Sports Editor

As is his custom, SIU Head Baseball Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones went after running speed when seeking his 1976 crop of recruits. As a bonus, the in-coming Salukis have more long ball power than is usually SIU's style, who usually stack the batting order with line-drive hitting speed merchants.
