Library hours put campus on hold

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

Many students, faculty and staff were forced to shelve their activities at Morris Library during an administrative closure that left the library only open for an hour-and-a-half for a two-week period.

For students needing to use the library there was no option to use other resource materials.

"The early hours at the library have affected me tremendously," Janet Redman, graduate student in speech communications, said.

"As an instructor I have students that can't buy textbooks because they haven't

Library to resume schedule

It's business as usual once again at Morris Library, the dean of library affairs said.

"We will resume regular hours on Tuesday morning," Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs, and the library director, said. "Air conditioning is cooling the building slowly, but we have been reassured that the air conditioning is working."

Library hours are Monday through Thursday, 7:45 a.m.

to 11 p.m.; Friday, 7:45 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

"Computer and telephone systems are again working," Peterson said.

received their student loan yet. Before they could keep up with assignments through reference books at the library. But since the library isn't open and they can't get to the texts, I can't require the work to be done." Although Redman said she sees how undergraduate students have been affected by the library hours, her research hasn't been affected.

"I've just begun to get assignments where I need to go to the library and I got lucky because they are going back to regular hours, Redman said.

Other students weren't as lucky.

Allen McGlynn, graduate in speech communications, said he was only able to check out three books when he needed ten.

Because fewer hours were an administrative move, about 140 faculty and civil service workers in the library were released from work to go home, Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs and the library director, said.

"Student workers were given the option of being reassigned to a different work area, the library storage buildings," Peterson said.

"Most of the students chose to work in the storage buildings." Students helped to shelve books in the storage buildings.

Big stink clears at Ag school

Fumes that drifted into the halls of the Agriculture building on Friday afternoon possibly were the result of a strong acid being poured down a bathroom drain.

Occupants near the area experienced irritation to the eyes, nose and lungs.

The fumes were located in the north wing hallway and men's bathroom by Bob Arthur and Anthony Young, who are professors in the College of Agriculture, James Tweedy, dean of the College of Agriculture said.

"We think it was caused by a strong acid being poured down a drain," Tweedy said. When a strong acid hits water it causes fumes, he said.

The Physical Plant was called, but when they got there the fumes had almost com-

Students can't get 2 waivers

By Kathleen DeBo
Staff Writer

Students who get tuition waivers from University departments need to make sure they are not receiving a Pell Grant or other Federal tuition waivers because Federal regulations will not allow two scholarships for the same thing.

When students qualify for both Pell Grant tuition waivers and department tuition waivers, the students lose the Pell Grants.

University departments would prefer to let the Pell Grant program pay the tuition. Then the departments could give their tuition waivers to other students.

If a student loses the Pell Grant, there is no refund, Janet Finnerty, of Student Work and Financial Assistance, said.

If one of the scholarships is a partial tuition waiver, the two scholarships can co-pay but the total amount cannot exceed tuition and fees, she said.

If one of the scholarships is marked for education expenses and not specifically for tuition the student can use both, Finnerty said.

When University waivers are not credited, the departments are notified, she said.

COBA to toughen admission policies

By Miguel Alba
Staff Writer

The College of Business and Administration will begin to put tougher admission policies into effect.

With the record-breaking enrollment and budgetary cutbacks, the college will be reconsidering its admission policies for next fall. The college currently has a 2.2 grade point average requirement for admission.

"The college just doesn't have the resources to serve the number of current students," Thomas Gutteridge, College of Business and Administration dean, said, adding that tougher restrictions would serve as a "quality control" measure.

Gutteridge pointed toward the relatively low admission policies of the college in comparison to other schools who require at least a 3.0 grade point average to even be considered. "The restrictions will keep getting tougher," he said.

While budgetary cutbacks are a contributing factor to the college's change in admission policy, Gutteridge, an advocate of a mid-semester tuition hike, said that if there is no tuition or tax increase, anywhere from 10 to 12 faculty positions may become vacant in the coming year.

Without an increase, the college may have to return an unspecified amount of money from its budget this fall, Gutteridge said. This would put the squeeze on the college that already has classes filled to capacity.

The college may resort to "turning students away" Gutteridge said.

Military strikes back; Polish protestors beaten

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Labor leader Lech Walesa rejected a government proposal for talks and vowed Monday to strike "until victory," but a military spokesman warned that some of Poland's walkouts are affecting national defense and cannot be tolerated "endlessly." Shipyards and ports remained strikebound in the Baltic Sea cities of Gdansk and Szczecin.

Iraq, Iran direct talk canceled, rescheduled

GENEVA (UPI) — U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar canceled a direct meeting Monday between Iraq and Iran on the fifth day of peace talks deadlocked in an apparent dispute over the strategic Shatt al Arab waterway. There have been only two face-to-face sessions since the negotiations on settling the Persian Gulf war began last Thursday.

Opposing party forms, Burma's unrest eases

RANGOON, Burma (UPI) — Former Prime Minister U Nu announced Monday the formation of Burma's first opposition party in 26 years on the eighth day of a paralyzing general strike against the country's authoritarian government and one-party system. The unrest that has racked the country for weeks appeared to ease, although the official news media said police fired on a crowd of protestors in northern Burma, killing at least six people and two prisoners were killed in riots at prisons.

Burundi aid cuts seen because of massacre

BUJUMBURA, Burundi (UPI) — Western governments may reduce aid to Burundi if army troops are found responsible for large-scale tribal massacres that left at least 5,000 people dead, Western diplomats said Monday. The threat followed widespread allegations that the Tutsi troops massacred thousands of majority Hutu tribe members after Hutu civilians attacked Tutsi villages.

Court rules in favor of PLO's U.N. mission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government will not appeal a federal court decision upholding the right of the Palestine Liberation Organization to maintain an observer mission at the United Nations, the Justice Department said Monday. The decision represents a victory for the State Department, which feared damage to administration Middle East peace efforts if the action against the PLO were pursued under a 1987 anti-terrorism law.

Three groups criticize wheat export subsidy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. taxpayers do not need to subsidize the sale of wheat overseas, three consumer groups told the government Monday, warning the export promotion program could drive up domestic food prices. "No American consumer should expect to pay more for bread, pastry or flour now or in 1989 while tax dollars are used by the (Agriculture Department) to allow other countries to pay less," the groups said.

Carrier collides with Spanish coal freighter

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — The nuclear-powered aircraft carrier USS Eisenhower, with 1,000 sailors lining the flight deck looking for their first glimpse of land in days, ran into a Spanish coal freighter off the Virginia coast Monday. Damage was minimal and no injuries were reported, the Navy said. One official called it a maritime "fender bender."

Hambletonian's return to fair paced by Thompson

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — State officials will work with officials of the Meadowlands race track in New Jersey on a plan that could return the prestigious Hambletonian back to the Du Quoin State Fair, an aide to Gov. James R. Thompson said Monday. Jim Skilbeck, aide to Thompson, said a top Meadowlands official met with the governor in New Orleans during the Republican National Convention.

Fair cultivates interest in ag

Ag World, Agriland display products from area dealers

By Beth Clavin
Entertainment Editor

The Du Quoin State Fair is promoting interest in agriculture this year by offering Agriland and Ag World to the public.

Ag World is open throughout the fair and displays farm machinery from area dealers and houses nearly 80 agribusiness exhibitors. Agriland is open Aug. 29 through 31 on more than 600 acres of land at the fairgrounds. Harvesting and tillage demonstrations will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

The commitment to agriculture came about when the state took over the fair two years ago, according to Mark Randell, coordinator of the events.

"We're very fortunate the fair is keeping its commitment to agriculture," he said.

"(The exhibits) went through a major design change. We were very attentive to help the traffic flow and there is no question that (the exhibit) seems to be successful."

Randell said exhibitor interest increased over last year and the exhibits have 50 percent more equipment than before.

"We began organizing this year's exhibit as soon as the fair ended last year," Randell, press secretary and head of information of the Illinois Department of Agriculture, said. "We listened to as many people as we could to see what kind of things they'd like to see from the event."

Agriland, which is the only event of its kind serving the lower Midwest, displays 150 to 200 different products from six different feed companies, including many chemical demonstrations.

"We try to make this display more true to life," Randell said. "Farmers can see what effect these products will have on their own farms."

Randell said corn and hay harvesting will be demonstrated.

Doors are closing on 'Last Temptation'

IT SEEMS the censors have had their way. The Carbondale-based protest against the screening of "The Last Temptation of Christ" has succeeded. A manager at the Varsity Theatre has admitted that the theater will not screen the movie because of overwhelming public opinion.

In succumbing to pressure from protesters, the Varsity Theatre has opened an old, detestable door — a door that harkens back to book bannings and book burnings.

ALTHOUGH PEOPLE like Greg Williams, leader of the Carbondale protest and education minister at Murdale Baptist Church, may have the best intentions in mind, their attacks on the film — attacks they believe are justified because the film intrudes upon their religious beliefs — are intruding far worse on other people's beliefs than the film possibly could.

Williams' main argument, like that of countless protesters across the country, is that the film does not depict the true Christ. But there are many interpretations of Christ and Williams' interpretation is just one of many. His interpretation is not truth, but merely belief.

IF A CERTAIN segment of the population does not like a movie, the obvious solution for them is to not see the movie. And many of the protesters have not seen "The Last Temptation of Christ." How can protesters claim the movie infringes upon their religious beliefs when the movie's message never reaches them? How would protesters like Williams feel if a group of atheists succeeded in banning church sermons because they believe it infringes on their beliefs? It seems absurd, but it is no less absurd than what has happened at the Varsity Theatre.

THOSE PEOPLE in Carbondale who would like to see "The Last Temptation of Christ" will have to drive miles out of their way to see it. Aren't these people's rights and beliefs being infringed upon?

Some people probably will wait until the movie is released on video cassette — that is if video stores decide to stock the movie. No doubt, there will be some people who will protest the right for people to watch the movie in the privacy of their own homes.

Opinions from elsewhere

The cost of the drought

St. Louis Post-Dispatch
SOME PEOPLE in the Reagan administration are saying — reassuringly — that even with a massive shortfall of grain because of this year's severe drought, the price of food will rise no more than 3 percent to 5 percent in 1988. That is election-year politics: trying to make the campaign as easy as possible for George Bush.

EVEN WITH the large carry-overs in grain from previous bountiful years, the drought will have an impact on food prices and the agricultural sector far beyond the 3-to-5 percent range. In underestimating the impact on consumer food prices, the administration fails to note a couple of points that might give credit to Democrats, present and past, in the White House and Congress.

ONE IS that the present array of farm programs, flawed and costly as they may be, rewards productivity and allows for government control of large grain surpluses. By government intervening in agricultural markets, the American people are assured of a relatively stable supply of food at relatively cheap prices. The cost is spread out across society in the form of taxes to pay for government subsidies for major crops. Ideologically, this administration does not like this approach at all and has attempted to move farmers more toward the free market, but so far it has had only moderate success. Meantime, government-owned surpluses mean fewer sharp changes in food prices and little concern about distant threats such as famine.

ALSO, BECAUSE of the comprehensive nature of farm programs and their cost, no new money need be appropriated to compensate farmers for their drought losses. The money saved by lower crop production levels can be channeled into compensation. Sounds like a pretty good idea.

A variation on the Woody Shuffle...

Once again, Woody Hall, in general, and Student Work and Financial Assistance, in particular, is true to form. The building should be renamed "The College of Incompetence, Apathy, and Disorganization."

Every time I have the misfortune to be forced to dance the Woody Shuffle, I pack a lunch and a canteen. I've finally learned that once I enter that place, I will spend the next few hours going from office to office, and back and forth across campus. And, at each destination, I'll be told that I'm at the wrong place and be sent off on another trek to an equally wild goose chase. All Woody Hall employees, especially student workers, should be required to take a semester of "How to Say, I Don't Know," instead of sending you to the first place that pops into their minds to get you out of their hair.

I filed an updated ACT at the beginning of summer. At the end of summer, I was told I couldn't register for the fall semester because I didn't have an ACT on file. I just cringed and resubmitted another,

All Woody Hall employees should be required to take a semester of "How to Say I Don't Know," instead of sending you to the first place that pops into their mind.

which cost another $7 for processing and $8.75 for express mail service. After waiting another three plus weeks, I was told they were in receipt of my second ACT, but that I had been selected for verification. They couldn't believe that anyone could go to school and survive on as little money as I had coming in. So, being the poorest of the poor, they decided to have me fill out more forms and wait another ten days to prove I'm really poor. When, and if, they finally decide that I really am destitute, I'll be able to request my student loan, which will take another couple of months before I see any green stuff.

In addition to the heart-warming experiences I've related, my vanished ACT, not being on record by July 1, has made me ineligible for my ISSC for the fall semester to the tune of $462. Almost everyone I know has had similar lessons in what it really means to be truly inept while at SIU-C.

Presently, I'm attending all my classes, but am not registered, have no books, no food, no gas or electricity in my trailer, (which means additional deposits and reconnect fees). I also am $400 in arrears on my rent. I'm lucky I have a nice landlord.

The assistance I've gotten from Student Work and Financial Assistance can be summed up in three words, "Sorry, tough luck."

Yea, team. Keep up the good work. — James Peffer, senior, forestry.

...foot stomping to the financial blues

If you are like me and not independently wealthy, but need financial assistance to attend school, then I urge you to read this letter. I want to share with you my latest escapade with SIU-C's financial aid system.

As any student knows, the beginning of the school year is the time that we need money the most, since there are many additional expenses associated with starting back to school, such as buying books and making deposits for utilities. Even though my last Bursar's statement showed I had more than a $1,000 credit balance, I had to take out a short term loan, because, the way the current system is setup, it will be at least three weeks after school starts before I receive any of that money.

I was also approved for a Perkin's loan that I could get four days after school started, but when I tried to pick it up at the Bursar's Office last week, I was told I couldn't have the money because it would have to be applied to my short term loan. When I asked them why they couldn't take the short term loan payment out of my present credit balance like they usually do, I was told they couldn't do that because I had not received my refund yet. (of course I hadn't, that's one of the reasons I needed these loans).

After arguing and being inconvenienced — to say the least — for half an hour, (and missing the start of my next class), they finally gave me my Perkin's loan check, explaining that since my short term loan was more than offset by my credit balance, they would take the payment out of it when my refund was processed. Deja Vu! They added that this was out of their benevolence, since they could take my short term loan out of the first disbursement I received from their office regardless of the source of money.

There is absolutely no excuse for this kind of incident to have occurred. It is far past time to reexamine the policies concerning financial aid, and change those that inhibit the securing of aid to which we are entitled and need so badly to continue our education.

Otherwise, only the rich will be able to afford higher education and we will exist in a society based solely on class.

If you are having or have had problems obtaining financial aid, or, even better, if you want to participate in reviewing policies for the purpose of improving the performance of financial aid disbursements, then contact Undergraduate Student Government President Bill Hall at the USG office, 536-3381.

The Encyclopedia of Financial Aid, purchased by USG, also is available for your use in the USG office located on the third floor of the Student Center. This manual is used extensively by University financial aid officers in determining what aid students will receive.

Please become informed and take part in student government activities. Without student involvement, the financial aid system will continue to act as if we are here for their pleasure, rather than for our benefit. — Hal Parks, USG Financial Aid Commission.

which it can then break down into several partial tuition waivers, Harry Miller, dean of the college, said.

Miller said the college also gives out about 600 cash awards totaling more than $20,000. The money is received from private donors, he said.

The College of Communications and Fine Arts scholarship allotment from the University for this year is $62,396 which is distributed to departments within the college, George Mavigliano, associate dean, said.

Mavigliano said more scholarships are given to departments with greater enrollment. The radio and television department has one of the largest enrollments and communication disorders and sciences has one of the smallest, he said.

Mavigliano said students need to make sure they know where their tuition waivers are coming from so that students can notify the college if they get federal aid.

pletely cleared, said Harrel Lerch, superintendent of building maintenance.

"It caused terrible irritation to the nose and lungs," Sheryl King, an assistant professor in the College of Agriculture, said. "It got so bad I had to leave the building, but today it's been fine."

William Dyer, associate dean of the College of Science, said students need to apply through their department office for one of the six $1,318.80 tuition scholarships available from the college.

Students of the College of Human Resources need to apply at the advisement office for the college's tuition scholarships and private scholarships, Carol Felder, chief academic adviser, said.

She said the college looks at students' needs and grade point averages to determine who receives the $4,971 total in tuition waivers the college gives out this year.

Marvin Johnson, associate dean of the College of Engineering and Technology, said the college gives out 15 partial tuition waivers this year.

"It's still not enough to help the students we ought to be helping," he said.

The problem was solved by opening the bathroom windows and closing the doors to offices and classrooms, Tweedy said. "By the time I got out of my meeting it had cleared," he said.

No one admitted pouring any chemical down the drain, Tweedy said.

Police Blotter

SIU-C police are looking for three men in connection with a fight that broke out in the Student Center Saturday afternoon.

Michael Wickline, 19, and Marlon Gallimore, 21, told police they were walking in the Student Center when they bumped into an unidentified man spilling a drink. The two parties began arguing, and a fight followed.

Wickline and Gallimore were both treated for injuries they suffered and released from Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

Charges of aggravated battery are pending, following identification the suspect, police said.

A two vehicle accident near DeSoto Sunday morning resulted in a one hour rescue operation to free one of the drivers from her car, Jackson County Sheriff's Department said.

Police said Jolinda White, 31, of West Frankfort was southbound on Route 51, crossed the center-line and struck Charles Gaines, 28, of Du Quoin who was northbound. Scott Kreger, 27, of Du Quoin and Sandy Conte, 22, of Vergennes were passengers in Gaines' Ford Bronco. All were taken to Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, police said.

White was ticketed for improper lane usage, police said.

W. Germans ban aerobatics after planes crash killing 43

RAMSTEIN AIR BASE, West Germany (UPI) — The government announced a ban Monday on aerobatics and air shows as investigators tried to pinpoint the cause of a precision flying team's fiery crash that killed at least 43 people and injured more than 400.

The announcement was made by Defense Minister Rupert Scholz, who later said it was not yet determined whether pilot error or technical failure was to blame for the collision of three Italian Air Force jets Sunday during a performance watched by 300,000 spectators at the U.S. Ramstein Air Base.

Authorities were having difficulty identifying the dead because some were burned beyond recognition and others were decapitated.

One group of four planes and another set of five aircraft were swooping down to form a giant heart of smoke in the Italian colors of red, white and green, when a single jet flying through the formation collided with two others, hit the ground in a huge fireball and plowed through a crowd.

In Rome, a former member of the Italian aerobatics team said a mistake in altitude apparently caused the crash — the worst air show disaster involving spectators.

Bruno Vianelli, who now is a pilot for Canada Air, said it was clear from television tapes that "either the soloist was too low or the group was too high."

West German authorities said the death toll rose to 43, including the pilots of the three downed Italian jets.

Authorities were having difficulty identifying the dead because some were burned beyond recognition and others were decapitated.

A spokeswoman at a U.S. Army hospital at Landstuhl near Ramstein said of 32 Americans admitted for treatment.

Homeless vet fends off FBI, captures fort

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — A 40-year-old Vietnam veteran scaled the 16-foot walls of Fort Vancouver Monday, setting off small explosions and threatening to destroy the historic site, but he surrendered to the FBI eight hours after he began his seige to draw attention to the plight of the homeless.

Ken Rose, a Portland, Ore. man, who said he has been unemployed for about three months and living in his car, told reporters he entered the fort to gain publicity for his complaints against the Veterans Administration.

"Veterans in this country paid their dues," Rose said. "It's a disgrace to see them sleeping on the sidewalk."

Rose, who was led away in handcuffs, said he believed his actions were worthwhile "if I get my point across." He said he decided to give up, instead of staying his planned two weeks, because the FBI agreed to let him make a statement to the media.

Rose said he has been treated in the past at the VA hospital in Portland for alcoholism and post-traumatic stress disorder. He also said he was a Marine in Vietnam between 1967 and 1968 and was involved in the Tet Offensive.

Well, in my day, young people didn't talk about sex the way you young people do....

Part of Your SILUC Student Health Program

But, talking about sex can help you make informed, healthy, responsible decisions.

*Remember, it's ok to say no to sex. Abstinence is a 100% reliable birth control method.

*If you do choose to be sexually active...
-Know and trust your partner enough to be able to talk about sex.
-Use a reliable birth control method.
-Practice safer sex.

Informational brochures about relationships, safe sex and birth control are available at the Wellness Center, Health Service, Student Health Assessment Center and Health Advocate Offices.

The Wellness Center also offers individual counseling, groups and workshops on sexuality concerns. 536-4441 for information.

Surviving the 'back to school' changes

By Cheryl Presley
Wellness Center

Every fall, the time honored ritual of "coming to college" stirs the air with an almost tangible current of electricity. The anticipation of meeting new friends, living on one's own, and meeting new challenges creates an air of excitement that makes the campus come alive. "Coming to college" signals a time of many changes and though many people expect that things will be different, often the rapid rate of the changes that occur make them feel as if they are being swept away by a tidal wave.

Change only becomes a problem when it looks like there is no way to relax and recover. There are specific skills that will help people cope with changes:

1. People should know themselves--their values, strengths, limitations, and their goals. This will give them confidence to make their way.
2. Learn concrete coping skills--these include evaluating the situation, setting small goals, getting a good support system (people who can help in reaching those goals), list opportunities, make a plan.
3. Develop a positive attitude--how people look at change can make the difference between sinking and swimming.

Perhaps one of the most powerful of these skills to weather change successfully is a positive attitude. The way people perceive a situation determines how they experience it.

Positive attitudes, however, don't just happen; they mean developing positive lifestyles, balancing school, friends, families, and health, and taking time off for oneself.

To Your Health

Try some of the following skills to help develop and keep a positive attitude:

1. People should reach out--when they're hurting, they should ask for love, encouragement, and honest feedback.
2. Laugh--laughter is a great stress reducer. People should find the lighter side of their change.
3. Change scenery--sometimes "getting away from it all" helps people put their problems in perspective and clears their heads.
4. People should take care of their health--the stress of changes can cause a number of health-related problems. People should rest, pamper themselves, eat well, and exercise.
5. Relax and let go--know it's OK to let go from time to time. Try using visualization, yoga, hot baths, listening to music, or taking a nap.

People should not: abuse drugs, drink a lot, eat too much, spend money they don't have, rely on sympathy, complain, complain, complain. All these coping styles are known to increase stress--both to them and their minds.

The Wellness Center and Counseling Center offer various classes, groups, and support personnel to help them through these exciting and sometimes confusing times. Reaching for help is a sign of strength. Call the Wellness Center at 536-4441 or the Counseling Center at 4533-5371.

To Your Health is produced in conjunction with the Wellness Center.

EPA: Ban building of pollutants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency says it will impose a ban on construction of major new pollution sources in Los Angeles, effective Wednesday for failure to meet clean air laws and that 12 other areas including Chicago and East St. Louis face similar penalties.

The agency said Monday a construction ban — which could involve factories, utilities and other industrial plants — also will be imposed on Ventura County, Calif., as soon as late October and that EPA officials will decide shortly thereafter whether to issue similar sanctions in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Another 10 urban areas are subject to the same penalties later this year. They are Cleveland, Denver, Reno, Nev., Bakersfield, Calif., East St. Louis, Ill., Sacramento, Calif., Fresno, Calif., Dallas, Atlanta, and Clark and Floyd counties in Indiana, which are suburbs of Louisville, Ky.

Street gangs stage summit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — About 50 gang members began a "peace summit" Monday following a bloody weekend of gang shootings that left at least nine people dead and nearly 20 wounded.

The spate of shootings during one of the bloodiest weekends of gang violence this year ranged from a harbor area of south Los Angeles known as "ghost town" to the city of Riverside, 60 miles east. Despite the gang violence, which claimed a record 387 lives in 1987 and about 200 so far this year, church sponsors of the gang summit said they believed a truce could be arranged during the meetings.

"The meeting's begun. It's looking good. Something is going to be worked out," said the Rev. James Stern, of the Tabernacle of Faith Baptist Church in Watts.

Stern said members of the Bloods and Crips, two large rival black Los Angeles gangs, were meeting at an undisclosed location.

Church leaders declined to say how many people were meeting because of a news blackout, but in earlier interviews said they expected about 50 members of a dozen factions of the two gangs.

WIDB announces broadcast plans for women's volleyball matches

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

SIU-C's campus radio station, WIDB, will broadcast women's volleyball this season.

The first home match is at 7 p.m. Thursday against Memphis State.

Sports director Cory Alan Forgue took the incentive to broadcast the games because "nobody has ever done this before (at SIU-C)," he said.

Forgue got the idea from Mike Kelly, who used to do Illinois volleyball on Champaign's WDWS.

WIDB will broadcast live the first two matches from Davies Gym. If those home games go well, others will be broadcast too, Forgue said.

WIDB can be received in the residence halls and is heard in the Student Center at 600 AM and 104.3 cable FM.

A tape delay will only occur when matches coincide with football broadcasts.

The format will be play-by-play and include a pregame talk with Coach Debbie Hunter and a postgame interview with one of the players.

Forgue may have an analyst at the game to provide "colorful insight" about volleyball.

WIDB got the rights to broadcast by submitting a request letter to Mitch Parkinson, sports information director and getting approval from Charlotte West, associate athletic director.

"We have some good people at running back, but that's a critical position because of lack of depth," Spoo said. "We're also facing the same problem in the line."

H&R BLOCK TO OFFER Tax School in Carbondale

Carbondale Residents Reap Many Benefits from H&R Block's Tax Course

H&R Block's 1988 Course Teaches Newest Tax Laws. The only sure thing about tax laws is that they seemingly change from year to year. That's why so many people annually enroll in the H&R Block Tax Course.

This year's classes will introduce participants to the latest tax laws. Students include homemakers preparing for new careers, retirees preparing for second careers, and people just interested in learning more about tax return preparation. Many professional tax practitioners were first introduced to their profession through the H&R Block Tax Course. H&R Block has been teaching Americans how to prepare individual tax returns for 22 years. Its highly respected course provides successful graduates with Certificates of Achievement and 7.5 units of continuing education credit. Qualified graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Block is, however, under no obligation to offer employment nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with Block.

This year's 13-week course starts on September 7. One low fee includes materials, supplies, and textbooks. Students may choose from morning, afternoon, or evening classes at Block area locations. Additional information and registration forms are available from the H&R Block office at 1400 W. Main. The telephone number is 457-0449.

Saluki swimmers set marks

Two members of the Saluki masters swim club brought back honors from the U.S. Masters Swimming Long Course Championships at the State University of New York at Buffalo this weekend.

Ed Shea, a professor emeritus in physical education, set a world record in the 200-meter backstroke in 3:18.03 for the 70-74 age group. He also took second in the 100 backstroke in 1:31.00 and second in the 800 freestyle in 13:46.32.

Mary Pohlmann, a physician at Health Service, had two third place finishes in the 40-44 age group. Her time in the 100 backstroke was 1:23.95, and in the 200 backstroke it was 3:02.48.

She also took fourth in the 200 butterfly, fifth in the 400 freestyle, sixth in the 200 freestyle and seventh in the 400 medley.

Intramural deadline today

Entries close today for intramural outdoor soccer, tennis, badminton singles and 12-inch softball.

Captains of men's, women's and coed outdoor soccer teams must meet at 4 p.m. today in Room 158 of the Student Recreation Center. Captains of 12-inch softball teams meet at 5 p.m. today in the multi-purpose room.

All captain's meetings are mandatory. Late entries will be accepted, but a spot on the draw is not guaranteed.

"We feel that, in the past, teams whose captains didn't show up to the captains meetings didn't know policy until it was too late," Sarah Simonson, coordinator of intramural-recreational sports, said. "We're just trying to make sure everyone is well-informed before the season starts."

Women's tourney expands

The NCAA Executive Committee refused to expand the Division I men's basketball championship tournament, but did enlarge the women's tourney.

The women's 1989 tournament now includes 48 teams, which is up from 40. Of those, 19 will be automatic qualifiers.

The men's tournament remains at 64 teams, and 30 will be automatic qualifiers.

Schools that move up to Division I and form a Division I conference must wait eight years.

Despite the interference from Mother Nature, the Salukis played in the thunderstorm, which had ceased to a dull drizzle by halftime.

Offensive coordinator Fred Riley said freshman Scott Gabbert is the No. 2 quarterback for the Salukis as a result of his performances of late.

Gabbert was battling Reggie Edwards for the spot, but Edwards suffered a strained knee in the Salukis' first intra-squad scrimmage on Aug. 20.

"Edwards will have to beat (Gabbert) out," Riley said. "Unless you are (Western Illinois quarterback) Paul Singer, you miss two or three days and you have to beat out the top guy."

Head coach Rick Rhoades said the Salukis played a longer scrimmage than he had planned Saturday. "We took the first half off so we thought we'd go ahead," he said.

Rhoades said the more experienced players have to learn their roles quickly for the team to do well. "A lot of these guys are young and they make some mistakes," he said.

As part of his program to promote unity between the student body and the football program, Rhoades will speak to students of Thompson Point at Smith Hall, Sept. 7 at 7:30 p.m.

Hunter closing in on 300 career wins

Coach embarks on 14th season only 18 victories short of career milestone

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Women's volleyball coach Debbie Hunter is on the verge of achieving a coaching milestone. Her 300th career coaching victory is within reach this season.

If Hunter is to reach that mark this season, her team must win 18 matches.

Hunter said she had no idea she was this close. "It's an exciting plateau," she said. "I don't know if I will get the players to focus on it. If it is within the team concept, then we'll talk more about the goal later this week."

Entering her 14th season as head coach of the Salukis, Hunter has a career record of 282 wins, 218 losses and 9 ties.

The most victories Hunter has had in a season were 36 in 1978, when teams scheduled more matches because they were using the best of three games format.

Since 1982, when the best of five format and shorter schedules were instituted, the most victories in a season were 25 in 1985.

Hunter's top winning percentage of her career came in 1984, when the Salukis were 22-9 for 71.0 percent.

Counting last year's 15-19 performance, Hunter has had four losing seasons. The team was 23-25-2 in 1979, 18-25 in 1980 and 9-23 in 1983.

Hunter's college volleyball career goes back to 1969, when she played for Ouachita Baptist University for two seasons. She transferred to the State University of New York at Cortland for her junior and senior years.

After graduating from Cortland in 1973, Hunter attended Memphis State. She served as a graduate assistant for Memphis State.

Offensive explosion deceiving

By David Gallanetti
Staff Writer

Defensive coordinator Jim Tompkins said the defense needs to toughen up before the season opener Saturday at Western Illinois.

"We've got to get meaner and more mature in a hurry," he said. "They have to learn to give that extra effort when they're tired. We're going to coach them as hard as we can this week."

The defense did get one lift as senior nose tackle Brad Crouse played most of the contest. Crouse underwent tests last week for a virus and missed much of practice.

Sophomore Cedric Brown suffered a sprained neck during Saturday's scrimmage at Du Quoin. He was taken from Van Metre Field by ambulance after being securely strapped down to a stretcher.

"You have to do all that until you make sure," men's trainer Ed Thompson said. Brown is a patient at a hospital in Cape Girardeau, and will be released in a few days, Thompson said.

"He'll have to have time to rehabilitate and get back to full strength," he said.

Brown, a graduate of Murphysboro High School, came to SIU-C as a running back, but has been moved to cornerback for this season.

The crack of shoulder pads was not the only loud roar heard at the Salukis' scrimmage in Du Quoin. Just before the kick off, there was a downpour for approximately five minutes, followed by an intense electrical storm.

Fitness center ground breaking held

By Terri Hogue
Student Writer

A ground breaking ceremony for the $1.5 million fitness center addition was held Monday morning at the Student Recreation Center.

Harvey Welch Jr., vice president for student affairs, was master of ceremonies. Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit and other SIU-C and community representatives gave brief remarks. Tours and refreshments were provided.

A reception was held prior to the groundbreaking in the multi-purpose room.

"About two hundred invitations were sent out to congressmen, community businesses and others," Cindy Young, administrative graduate assistant, said. "An open invitation was extended to everyone, though."

"Everyone was encouraged to participate in the ceremony," William McMinn, associate director, said. "Anyone that came by could dig some dirt. We want everyone to feel a part of the new fitness center."

Included in the 72,000-square-foot addition will be a 220-yard running track, four playing courts, a weight room, two squash courts, six racquetball courts and a multi-purpose area at ground level. A suspended jogging track, an observation corridor and seating for 1,000 will be located on the second level.

Architects for the project are Hasting and Chivetta of St. Louis, Kiefner Brothers of Cape Girardeau, Mo., is the general contractor. University officials hope the addition will be completed by fall of 1989.

Eastern wants to win back top spot

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

No one's pointing fingers in Charleston. But Eastern Illinois football fans are still wondering how the Panthers went from Gateway champs in 1986 to a disappointing 3-3 third-place finish in 1987.

Anchors seldom drop as fast as Eastern Illinois fell in the standings. Elements greater than gravity pulled the Panthers from their lofty spot and resulted in their first losing season in nearly a decade. The primary reason was the changing of the guard. Almost every key component of the 1986 championship drive was long gone by the time 1987 rolled along.

Eastern Illinois no longer had the luxury of calling on Gateway player of the year, quarterback Sean Payton, to salvage a victory. Also missing were all-conference receivers Ron Banks and Calvin Pierce.
