SIU-C, search firm begin negotiations

By Tom Mangan
Staff Writer

The University has begun negotiations with a firm that could be hired to help search for a new SIU-C president, Chancellor Lawrence Pettit said Thursday.

Speaking to the SIU Board of Trustees, Pettit said no decisions about hiring the firm will be made before he meets with the presidential search advisory committee Dec. 17.

He declined to name the firm, saying he prefers to wait until he has a contract in hand before announcing who will perform the search.

One of the search committee's first priorities will be to draw up a timetable for the search, Pettit said, but he wasn't overly optimistic that the search would be a speedy process.

"We're not going to kid ourselves about our ability to move quickly," he said.

Pettit didn't say how long it would take to select a new president, but he said the committee must guard against trying to "shoot to meet the timetable rather than getting the best candidate."

The 19-member search panel was named by Pettit last week. It consists of two representatives each from the Faculty Senate, Undergraduate Student Organization, Graduate-Professional Student Council, Graduate Council, Administrative and Professional Staff Council, Civil Service Employees Council, Alumni Association and School of Medicine. Three at-large representatives also were named to the committee.

In a related matter, John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs, who will become acting president Jan. 10, said he will not appoint an acting vice president to assume his duties once he takes over the acting presidency. Guyon said he'll delegate his duties to members of his staff for the duration of the presidential search.

Guyon was named acting president last month in the wake of President Albert Somit's resignation in October.

Scandal sleuth list narrows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A judge on the special court looking for an independent prosecutor to investigate the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal said Thursday the panel has narrowed its search but the short list is "changing day to day."

However, legal sources identified a leading candidate for the massive job of probing the sordid affair is Lawrence Walsh, 74, a former federal judge in New York, deputy attorney general in the Eisenhower administration and a former president of the American Bar Association.

In a telephone interview, U.S. Appeals Judge George MacKinnon of the District of Columbia said the decision on the appointment of a special prosecutor would not come Thursday. Another judge on the panel, Lewis Morgan of Atlanta, said the appointment would not be made this week. The third member of the panel is Walter Mansfield of New York.

MacKinnon said he would "not confirm that any candidate is being considered or not considered."

"I wouldn't make any comment on the status of it because it changes day to day," MacKinnon said.

Walsh, a naturalized U.S. citizen born in Canada, is one of several prominent lawyers who are possible candidates for appointment to investigate the secret arms sales to Iran and subsequent diversion of up to $30 million to Nicaraguan rebels.

Instructors required to pass English tests

By Patricia Edwards
Staff Writer

The Illinois State Legislature overrode the governor's veto of a bill that will require public colleges and universities to test the English speaking skills of instructors before they are given teaching assignments.

The requirement will become effective Jan. 1, 1987.

Illinois legislators decided to act on the issue after receiving numerous calls from students and parents complaining that the students could not understand their instructors, said supporter of the bill Sen. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville.

The General Assembly originally passed the measure in late summer, but it was vetoed by Gov. Thompson in September.

The governor called the move "a travesty to free speech," and warned that it threatened "both education and interaction with those of other cultures."

The American Association of University Professors sided with the governor in its opposition to the bill.

In a letter to Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, the AAUP called the bill a clear example of "over legislation." The letter stated that if there is a problem with students being unable to understand their professors, it should be handled on the university level — not by the General Assembly.

Dunn opposed the measure also. He said sources within the University said the matter should fall under the University's jurisdiction.

Sen. Patrick Welch, D-Peru, sponsor of the bill, said the measure was necessary because colleges and universities "have known about this problem for years and have done nothing to address it."

However, SIU-C has tested oral English skills for a number of years, said John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs and research. He said the University will extend the current program to comply with the law.

Fellowships lose tax exemption

By Nola J. Cowsert
Staff Writer

Graduate assistants receiving fellowship grants after August 16, 1986 will have to begin paying taxes on the stipend portion of their grants under the 1986 Tax Reform Bill, said John Yopp, vice president of the Graduate School.

He spoke Thursday at the Graduate Council meeting. Fellowships granted before that date will remain tax exempt, he said.

Yopp, along with the Graduate School and other agencies, recommended that fellowship recipients be informed of the new tax laws as quickly as possible. Individual letters will be sent to each fellowship holder and a general letter will be sent to all graduate students, deans, directors and chairpersons explaining how these changes in the tax reform act will affect them.

"Essentially, the favored tax status is gone, and the graduate students are now going to have to start keeping receipts for education-related expenses," Yopp said. Fees, books, supplies and equipment, as long as receipts are kept, will remain deductible expenses, according to Yopp.

Patricia Carrell, associate dean of the Graduate School, said that although the Graduate School does not intend to withhold from fellowship stipends, the amount of the stipend will be reported at the end of the tax year both to the student and to the Internal Revenue Service.

"It will be up to the student when filing his or her income tax to be square with the IRS on the amount of the stipend and the legitimate course-related deductions," said Carrell.

The stipend portion of the grants is the only part to be taxed, graduate assistant

Civilians flee Honduras, Nicaragua border clashes

LAS TROJES, Honduras (UPI) — Several thousand civilians have fled the border area affected by recent fighting between Honduras and Nicaragua, and many of the displaced Thursday blamed U.S.-backed Nicaraguan rebels for their plight. At least 1,500 of the refugees have come to Las Trojes, a town of about 6,000 people 120 miles east of the capital of Tegucigalpa. Others fled farther into the interior.

Philippine rebels hold defiant cease-fire rally

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Communist rebels, in a gun-waving celebration on the second day of an unprecedented cease-fire, vowed Thursday never to give up their weapons, a demonstration the army called "provocative." No clashes were reported between communist and government forces since the cease-fire — the first in the 17-year-old communist guerrilla war — began at noon Wednesday, but Armed Forces chief Fidel Ramos called the rebel truce rally a "provocative incident."

Guerrillas murder five in highway blockade

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftists machine-gunned eight vehicles, killing four civilians and one soldier and wounding 12 other people while enforcing their fourth national highway boycott, witnesses and military officials said Thursday. One civilian report said the rebels of the Farabundo Marti Front for National Liberation attacked an army transport vehicle sent to protect a village and ensure safe passage on Wednesday, the fourth day of the current blockade.

Israelis strike at Palestinian targets; 5 killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli aircraft attacked Palestinian targets in northern Lebanon Thursday, killing at least five people, police sources said. A Moslem radio station identified one of the dead as a commander of the Abu Nidal terrorist group. Tank and mortar battles between Moslem Amal militias and Palestinian fighters raged around two Palestinian refugee camps in Beirut, killing another seven people and wounding 40, the sources said.

China to introduce income tax in January

PEKING (UPI) — China will introduce an income tax next year to narrow the rapidly widening gap between rich and poor in the communist nation, the official Xinhua News Agency said Thursday. The "Provisions on Individual Income Regulation Tax," issued by the State Council, applies to all Chinese citizens who reside and earn money in China, Xinhua said. The tax will take effect Jan. 1 and is part of a government bid to narrow the income gap "now that the state policy encourages a few to go first in achieving prosperity through honest labor," Xinhua said.

CIA head denies knowing of profits diversion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Embattled CIA Director William Casey said Thursday he was aware in October the secret U.S. arms sales to Iran had gone awry but the nation's top intelligence officer said he did not know the profits were diverted to Nicaraguan rebels until it was announced publicly last month. Casey, grilled on Capitol Hill for the second straight day, overcame a longstanding hatred of the limelight and talked briefly to reporters after testifying for 3 1/2 hours before a closed session of the House Intelligence Committee.

Security adviser oversees world arms sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank Carlucci, President Reagan's newly named national security adviser, now supervises a consulting subsidiary of Sears, Roebuck & Co. involved in international arms sales, Sears confirmed Thursday. Carlucci is chairman of Sears World Trade, a subsidiary of the nation's largest retailer that oversees another subsidiary, International Planning and Analysis Center Inc., or IPAC, a spokesman said.

Corporations urged to give to education

NEW YORK (UPI) — Corporate donations to education shot up 10.3 percent, reaching a record $1.8 billion in 1985 but could drop this year, the Council for Financial Aid to Education said Thursday. The council, noting early signs that a slowdown or leveling off in corporate giving may be in progress this year and next, urged corporate management to try to maintain its commitment in support of the nation's schools and universities serving more than 58 million.

Pettit defends reasoning behind title changes

By Tom Mangan
Staff Writer

Despite questions about his motives for naming two new vice chancellors, Chancellor Lawrence Pettit maintains the change is cosmetic and not intended to consolidate power in his office.

Pettit said at the Board of Trustees meeting Thursday that he is trying to ensure that SIU System officers hold the same title as their peers at the similar university systems.

The title change affects nine system officers, including the naming of Thomas Britton as vice chancellor for administration and Donald Wilson as vice chancellor for financial affairs and board treasurer.

Members of local teachers unions pushing for collective bargaining at SIU-C and SIU-E charge that Pettit is trying to strengthen the influence of the chancellor's office. They say such a charge will upset the balance of power between the chancellor's office and the two campuses.

The board accepted Pettit's recommendation without debate, but not before Donald Brehm, president of the Faculty Senate, posed three questions about Pettit's reasoning for the move.

First, Brehm asked whether the addition of two vice chancellors, in addition to the current two, would affect the traditional lines of communications between faculty and campus administrators.

Pettit said the current system, in which faculty report directly to their campus president and have no direct access to the chancellor's office, would remain in effect. The changes, he said, will bring the office "more in line with traditional systems" of administration, but will not affect the relationship between faculty and the system office.

Second, Brehm asked how

Pettit plans to fill a vacancy in one of those positions if that occurs. Pettit responded that a national search, complete with an advisory committee, will be employed to replace any vice chancellors who leave the SIU System.

Third, Brehm asked whether the move would result in any pay increases for administrative staff or increased budgets for the chancellor's

Finals week can be survived with ease

TWICE A YEAR, A DISEASE GRIPS all students. It makes them irritable and tense — even downright unpleasant to be around. It's finals week syndrome, also known as FWS.

There are ways to avoid this plague. First and most importantly, relax! There is no reason for the term "final exam" to put the fear of the devil in you. When you sit down to study, don't let your nerves take advantage of your brain. Your entire future does not rely on the GE-B 202 final Wednesday morning.

Sleep also is a requirement. A week of staying up until the sun rises just isn't worth it. When the time comes to take your test, you'll be lucky to remember how to spell your name, let alone the details of Keynesian macroeconomic theory you crammed into your brain all night long.

PATIENCE IS ANOTHER ASSET. Have patience with your roommates, cashiers at the Bookstore, check-out clerks at Morris Library and computer lab workers. Remember, they, too, are students with final exams to worry about.

Don't take your frustrations out on innocent people. If you made a mistake and know it, take it in stride. Everyone makes mistakes, and they usually end up knowing more than they knew before the mistake was made.

Organization will help you avoid FSW all together. Even if you never have been organized, take a few minutes to make a list of what needs to be done, then set aside time for each item on the list.

ORGANIZATION LEAVES LITTLE TIME for procrastination. Budgeting your time to get the little stuff done leaves a lot more time for the big stuff. And if you do it right, there even may be time to play a game of spades with your favorite opponents.

Do something relaxing while at midstream during finals week. Your friends can help take the edge off the stress and tension.

But when your roommate is studying and you've just returned from midstream at The Tap, don't be surprised if he or she isn't interested in hearing every thing every person said to you and, don't take it personally when he or she tells you to shut up. It's just FWS.

AND WHEN YOUR INEBRIATED NEIGHBOR cranks up the stereo, remember he or she probably just returned from midstream at The Tap, too. Don't fly out the door screaming at the top of your lungs.

Finals week always will be a time of stress and anxiety. Sure, Mom and Dad would love to see straight As on your report card. But if you slide through with a couple of Cs, they aren't going to disown you. Do your best. Nobody can ask for more than that. And if you bomb out this semester, there's always the next one.

Remember, just because you don't get that A in Survival of Man doesn't mean you won't survive and make something of yourself in the long run.

Quotable Quotes

"I told her if anyone comes in here with information that she's been watching cable TV, I'm going to hold her in contempt." — Louisiana District Court Judge Ruche Marino on his order banning a woman from watching cable TV for a year for illegally hooking up to a cable system.

Pettit misquoted unless his sanity momentarily lapsed

Allow me to reassure D.E. readers that I was misquoted in Catherine Edman's Dec. 5 article headlined, "Committee chosen for president search." Rather than having said I doubt I would appoint as president a person whom the search advisory committee was overwhelmingly for or against, I recall having said (assuming my sanity did not lapse at that moment) that I should find it difficult to appoint a person whom the advisory committee was overwhelmingly or unanimously against. This seems to me a rather important distinction.

— Lawrence K. Pettit, Chancellor.

Doonesbury

THE EUROPEANS, IN ORDER TO GET EVEN WITH THE RUSSIANS FOR CHERNOBYL, CONSTRUCTED A GIANT HOSE AND SPRAYED THE SOVIET UNION WITH WATER FROM THE RHINE RIVER.

Bauer's points were invalid and illogical; need rebuttal

When I read Mr. Bauer's letter in the Dec. 4 issue of the D.E., I was stunned at his invalid and illogical argument. He is looking at Nelson's statement and the Bible out of context. As a Christian and a soldier, let me rebut some of Bauer's statements.

1. True, Jesus did not kill any other humans. But neither have I and I hope I never have to.

2. Yes, soldiers are trained to kill to defend our nation and its principles. There is nothing Biblically wrong with this and the Old Testament actually supports this concept. The books of Exodus through Chronicles clearly present God's desire for his people to conquer their enemies.

Furthermore, although the 6th Commandment is often used as an argument against combat killing, the Hebrew word used here means intentional murder rather than killing as a form of self-defense or out of necessity during combat.

3. Yes, the New Testament

does preach "Love your enemies," but it also does not provide any argument against the profession of arms. It does, however, address our relationship to God and to our government when Jesus said, "Give to Caesar what is Caesar's, and to God what is God's (Matt 22:21 NIV). This is amplified in Romans 13:1-7 where Paul stated, "Everyone must submit himself to the governing authorities... He who rebels against the authority is rebelling against what God has instituted... and will bring judgement on themselves (NIV)."

To state that the Old Testament's support of arms does not apply today because it is not supported succinctly in N.T. passages would be invalid; just as it would be invalid to state that the 4th Commandment (Remember the Sabbath and keep it Holy) doesn't apply today because those words aren't succinctly printed in red in the New Testament.

4. Bauer was partially correct when he stated, "Never in history have all or even many soldiers wanted to fight." Most soldiers do not fight only in order to legally murder (as implied in Bauer's statement). However, most soldiers do elect to fight, if necessary, to preserve the freedoms provided and often taken for granted in this country.

Mr. Bauer, think about these freedoms the next time you write an anti-president, anti-military or anti-American article or the next time you attend a worship service.

In many countries, you would be jailed or executed for similar actions. Thousands of soldiers gave their lives to preserve these freedoms for us and for others in the world. We should be proud of them and should "Salute or applaud those students on campus who stand in uniform ready to defend our freedom." — CPT Gerald W. Smith, assistant professor, Army Military Science.

Advocate course is valuable

I read recently in one of the campus publications that more of the nation's students graduated last year with a degree in Investment Banking than any other major. In general the trend reveals a concentration of majors in business, economics, marketing, and computer science.

Certainly in these times of economic and global insecurity, it is essential to learn a few survival tactics.

There are some skills we can learn to live our lives to their fullest dimensions. The Wellness Model encourages us to integrate the physical, mental, emotional and spiritual aspects of ourselves. By learning effective ways to handle job stress, becoming aware of the nutrients we are taking into our bodies, setting aside time each day to foster our spiritual growth and developing a healthy self-image, we can shape our lives so we are functioning at an optimum level.

There is an opportunity available to you (both graduate and undergraduate students) to learn how to apply the Wellness Model to your life and to learn how to teach this to others. The Health Advocate Program, which is sponsored by the Wellness Center, offers training in the wellness curriculum.

I consider my training as a Health Advocate to be one of the most valuable college courses I have had because it has taught me practical living skills that will always be useful. I encourage you to consider the program as part of your college curriculum because it takes the focus off the job market and turns it into the best teacher you will ever have in life — yourself. — Maureen Madden, graduate student, Community Development.

Letters

ROTCs aren't here to kill; they're here for protection

Time and time again I have read letters in the D.E. from people who have condemned others using so-called self-interpretations of the Bible and frankly I am rather fed up with such people.

In regard to Dan Bauer's letter in the Dec. 4 issue of the D.E. condemning people in the military, I would like to say I personally was offended by his statements.

I am a senior cadet in Air Force ROTC and I have strong ambitions to serve as an Air Force officer. I am not here because I have hidden desires to kill the "enemies of the United States," as Mr. Bauer believes all military personnel desire to do. I also did not sign up because I saw the movies "Top Gun" or "Iron Eagle" and thought it would be macho to be an officer.

I am in this program because I am proud of this country and I strongly believe I would like to serve and protect it. I strongly believe we have a country worth protecting.

If we didn't have a military, Mr. Bauer, somebody else would have theirs here. How would you like to live in an America occupied by Soviet troops and KGB agents? I am tired of hearing people grumble about the armed forces of the United States when these people are living in a nice warm and cozy security blanket that is provided by the military forces of this nation.

I am not here due to blind patriotism, nor are 99 percent of my peers. I have met many bright, ambitious and open-minded people in the military. Most of these people are very serious about their religious beliefs. We are not here solely to "kill," but rather to "protect."

Maybe you are right, Mr. Bauer, in your statement that the military trains its people to kill enemies of this nation. This is a fact that cannot be denied, but how else do you defend against an aggressive attacker? Do you stand in front of the enemy's gun and verbally throw quotes out of the Bible at him while he is killing innocent civilians? Do you let him walk all over you, rape your wife, kill your brother, destroy your home?

Surely, you cannot believe the Bible condemns those who protect their families.

I think it is time for you to sit down and think some things over, Mr. Bauer. Think about the way of life you enjoy. Think about the sense of security you go to bed with. Think about the freedom that you have to express your opinion in public. All of these freedoms and countless others exist in this country because this country believes in protecting them. Regardless of who is in the White House, the armed forces of the United States have one major mission — that is to protect this nation and our way of life. — Troy A. Arseneau, senior, Engineering Mechanics.

Employees used time wrong

The forefathers of our great country had the foresight to draft the document which would guarantee many freedoms. Of these freedoms, there is the freedom to practice any religion that one pleases without the state interfering.

The responsibility of government not to promote any one religion accompanies this freedom. Thus, the separation of church and state became the basis of our national heritage.

During lunch at Grinnell Hall, I observed five employees decorating a Christmas tree. All the employees appeared to be on duty at the time. These employees were drawing on already scarce government and student resources to promote what should be a personal religious experience.

The funds used to pay these employees more appropriately would be spent on better services and food. The employees who participated in the tree decorating should have done so on their own time, not while under the employ of the University. — Michael Chwalisz, freshman, Electronic Technology.

Amnesty International's campaign focuses on torture in Afghanistan

No one is safe from torture in Afghanistan. Afghan citizens have been systematically subjected to severe beatings, electric shocks, cigarette burns and other forms of abuse.

Nov. 18, Amnesty International launched a worldwide campaign to focus attention on torture in Afghanistan. Since the military coup of 1979 involving forces of the Soviet Union, widespread arrests have taken place in Afghanistan. Many people have been detained merely on the suspicion of being part of, or associating with, opposition groups.

The Afghan government must set up a public inquiry into all complaints of torture and establish effective measures to prevent torture and ensure the safety of detainees. The Soviet government should make public what steps it has taken to investigate reports that Soviet personnel are involved in torture in Afghanistan.

During the course of this international campaign, Amnesty International groups across the United States will work to make Americans aware of the human rights violations occurring in Afghanistan. Only through international pressure can torture in Afghanistan be stopped. — James Carl, Amnesty International Group

Hasenfus appeal is rejected

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — An appeals court Thursday upheld the 30-year prison sentence given American Eugene Hasenfus for running arms to Contra rebels fighting to overthrow the Nicaraguan government.

"There is a 90 percent chance we will be requesting a pardon next week," Defense lawyer Enrique Sotelo Borgen said. "After the confirmation of the sentence all we have left is a pardon."

Hasenfus, accompanied by his wife, Sally, and looking thinner than when he last appeared in public, sat impassively as Judge Armengol Cuadra confirmed the sentence "in each and every one of its parts."

"That's horrible. I don't know what to say. What reaction can there be but despair," his stepmother, Theresa Hasenfus, said in Marinette, Wis., — Hasenfus's hometown.

She said family members were planning a quiet Christmas gathering, with special prayers for Hasenfus.

The 45-year-old ex-Marine was captured by Nicaraguan troops Oct. 6, a day after a C-132 transport in which he was ferrying weapons and other supplies for Contra rebels in the south of Nicaragua was shot down.

Three others aboard the plane — two Americans and a Nicaraguan — were killed in the crash.

Hasenfus was convicted Nov. 15 of violating public security laws, terrorism and criminal association.

His lawyers did not appeal his conviction, but Nicaraguan law provides for an automatic review by an appeals court.

Time to make the doughnuts

Bakers rise early to sweet task

The ovens are hot and the smell of a baking apple crumb cake wafts in the air. It's 4 a.m. on a Monday at the Bakery in the Student Center and two people begin their daily craft.

Robert Hopper, 26, of Anna, begins cooking, glazing, filling and frosting at 4 a.m., and by 7:30 a.m. he's made about 1,300 doughnuts that the Bakery would have for sale on this day.

Hopper opens the freezer and reaches for the uncooked doughnuts that were made the night before. After the doughnuts defrost to room temperature, he puts the them into a steam chamber to make the lumps of dough rise. The chamber, called a proof box, appears to be a walk-in refrigerator — except it's a humid 85 degrees inside.

THEN HOPPER lowers a rackful of doughnuts into a tub of 400-degree oil and turns them with a utensils that look like drumsticks. After the doughnuts are cooked, Hopper brushes on a glaze made from water, powdered sugar and vanilla.

The yeasty taste of a freshly-fried and newly-glazed doughnut, is a delight that few people, given the hour, will ever experience.

Hopper said he doesn't mind working in the early hours of the morning. However, he said he tries to be asleep by 8:30 the nights before the days he works.

ON THE other side of the work table, Bill Brown, 61, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., starts at midnight making brownies to serve 500, apple crumb cake for 192 and pizza for 200, which he finishes with time to spare at 7 a.m.

He has been a baker since he was 16 years old — when his father helped him get a job at a bakery.

Brown owned and ran the Herrin Pastry Shop until January of 1980 when his chief baker left for another job. "I said, 'That's it,' closed the bakery, and a month later I got a job here."

NEVER WASTING a motion, Brown moves among mixing bowls, measuring scales, rolling pins and large ovens, with an efficiency that comes from years of experience.

At 7:30 a.m., with all the cooking and baking finished, the dishes washed and the kitchen cleaned, Hopper and Brown end their days about the same time students begin trickling in asking for a doughnut or piece of cake and a cup of coffee to begin their days.

Robert Hopper, top left, drops batter doughnuts into the 400-degree oil with a machine that requires coordination to turn the crank and move the machine at the same time. Top right, Hopper fills doughnuts with vanilla pudding. Bill Brown, bottom left, mixes a batch of brownies that will serve 500. Bottom right, Hopper begins frying yeast doughnuts that will be glazed.

'Grandmothers' share laps, love with children

Project adds tender touch to daycares

By University News Service

Bear hugs, ample laps and storytelling — the stuff that has made grandparents irreplaceable for centuries.

That special connection between young and old is the backbone of a project under way at SIU. The jawbreakingly titled "Intergenerational Child Care Education Project" is training 55-and-over-year-olds in five Southern Illinois counties to be child care assistants. Internship sites include Joppa Headstart, the Five County At Risk program in Metropolis, Union County Headstart and the Sunrise Preschool in Anna.

"THE MAJOR thing they bring to the children is love, understanding and patience," says Project Director Shirley M. Rogers, assistant professor in the College of Education's early childhood program. "It's a technique only grandmothers know."

Fueled with a $30,000 grant from the Shawnee Development Council, the project began in late August. Twelve women ages 55 to 67 signed up. They take a five credit-hour class through SIU and work eight to ten hours a week in a child care program.

RUBY C. WEAVER of Anna says the children she sits with call her "grandma" — after first asking her if it's okay. And the other women in the program say they've adopted scores of grandchildren overnight, too.

"When we first started I didn't know how the children would take to us," said Beulah Rothschild, also of Anna. But it wasn't long before kids lined up at the door on days when "grandma" was scheduled to visit.

IT'S A CHANCE for children to see that growing older is not necessarily bad. And it adds meaning to the older women's lives, while improving the quality of child care for tots, Rogers says.

Her students tell her they spend less time watching television, and they feel motivated again.

Older people have fascinating things to share. One grandma dressed up as a cowboy and took old family pictures of a real cowboy for "Show and Tell."

Al-Qadib during a tour of the SIU-C Child Development Laboratory.

ANOTHER TOOK an old-fashioned iron, and asked if anyone knew what the heavy, black wedge was. "It holds the doors open," one little boy volunteered.

While grandma "just knows" about some things, she also studies hard. The elderly students learn about child development and techniques of modern discipline. They also study music, history and science.

THE GRANDMAS have put together notebooks complete with letters of recommendation, teaching ideas and reference material, items that will come in handy when they look for jobs in early January. Two of the women want to work as volunteers, but the other ten have their sights set on paying jobs. The program's success will be determined partly by how many of the women are hired.

MEN WERE eligible to sign up for the program, but Rogers said there weren't any takers.

Child care assistants can do just about anything in a day care setting, but they must be supervised by a teacher.

"I think it's a wonderful program, and I wish I would have got into it 20 years ago," said Evelyn Grace of Joppa.

'Worthless' jewel sells for $2 million

LONDON (UPI) -- A mysterious piece of 15th century jewelry found by a treasure hunter who believed it to be worthless sold Thursday for $2 million, nearly five times the highest pre-sale estimate.

Experts call the diamond-shaped gold and sapphire lozenge "the most important addition to Britain's known medieval jewelry since World War II."

Antique shop owner Ted Seaton, 51, found what is now called the Middleham Jewel while using a metal detector in a field.

Seaton thought it was a worthless ladies' powder compact when he dug it from the earth near Middleham Castle. Even when he washed it in a bowl of water he didn't know what it was, only that it was special.

Some romantic speculation said the jewel might have belonged to ill-famed King Richard III, since Richard owned Middleham. Even without such associations, the 15th century jewel was bought by an anonymous purchaser for many times Sotheby's auction house pre-sale estimate of $280,000 to $420,000.

Seaton will share the millions with the owner of the land where it was found, the tenant who farms the land and two of Seaton's friends who were with him the night of his discovery. The five decided to auction it rather than approach a museum when they could not agree on its possible worth.

office. "We have no plans for any expenditures beyond what is already set, but has not been implemented," Pettit said.

The Illinois Education Association-NEA, one of the groups looking to represent SIU faculty and professional staff via collective bargaining, was unimpressed by Pettit's reasoning.

"The administration is out of control in terms of expansion and expenditure. The educational mission of the University and the needs of the students have become secondary: the administrative bureaucracy has become primary," IEA faculty committee member Michael Matta said in a press release from IEA-NEA.

In a press conference after the board meeting, Pettit was reminded that there has been a 38 percent increase in the chancellor's office budget this year. Pettit said that increase is largely because of about $500,000 that has been spent to develop a systemwide computer network, and that $200,000 of that cost is a one-time expense.

Pettit also refuted claims that the University had spent nearly $200,000 on a "union-busting" law firm to assist in the handling of claims filed by local teachers unions.

"It's not true that we are spending money to bust unions. In fact, it's dishonest to say that," Pettit said. "The decision as to whether we will have bargaining comes through a vote. We'll abide by it, should the vote be in favor of bargaining."

Dealing with union claims "takes a lot of employees and legal help. We had to retain the best counsel we could find," Pettit said.

tuition waivers will remain tax-exempt at least until December 1987, according to Carrell.

In other business, the process of signing proposals for research involving human subjects was discussed. By law, all research involving human subjects must be reviewed by a committee whether or not it is federally funded.

Dennis Molfese, psychology professor, said this review was "not a hindrance, but safeguards the subject's rights."

The number of research proposals reviewed for use of human subjects have dropped from about 400 between 1978 and 1980 to about 131 between 1981 and 1982. Molfese said the decline may have stemmed from faculty members or graduate students not being informed of the research review process.

The matter was referred to the council's Research Committee for further study.

The new programs committee proposed changing the title of the Department of Accountancy to the School of Accountancy.

According to Gene Timpe, chair of the programs committee, the title change would enhance the identity of the present department, allowing it to become "part of what seems to be a movement among departments of accountancy" at other universities. With the title change, the school could be considered for full membership in the Federation of Schools of Accountancy.

Other benefits include enhancing job placement for graduates in the school, donations from graduates and more federal funding.

Timpe made the distinction between "department" as connotating an academic environment and "school" as more of a professional atmosphere. The title change will be voted on at the council's February meeting.

Study links exercise, self-esteem

By Paula Kurtzweil
Staff Writer

The physical benefits of exercise have long been recognized by experts, but a former SIU-C graduate student has found that improved body perception may be an added bonus from a regular exercise program.

Sharry Henk-Teston, a graduate of the master's program in recreation, made her discovery in a study she conducted last spring, which involved participants of the Recreation Center's "Getting Fit for Aerobics" class.

The 41 participants rated their feelings on 46 various body parts and functions ranging from skin texture to sexual activities prior to the start of the six-week session and again at the completion of the class.

Henk-Teston found that overall individual body image improved.

"The results indicate that a person who participates in a regular exercise class will feel better about their body and about themselves," Henk-Teston said. She added that improved body perception can lead to a better quality of life by increasing self-esteem, self-concept, self-acceptance and self-attitude.

The greatest changes in body perception reported by participants — 97 percent of whom were women ages 17 to 50 — involved the hips, chest and trunk, Henk-Teston said. Because these areas of the body are considered attractive characteristics of women, Henk-Teston said she was not surprised that the participants expressed greater satisfaction with these areas.

"The way people rate their feelings about their bodies may be different in another culture," Henk-Teston said, referring to the emphasis that other cultures place on other physical attributes.

The study also found that perceptions about weight, body build, energy level, appetite and exercise improved with regular exercise.

Because the study involved people who previously had not exercised on a regular basis, Henk-Teston believes the results of her study may be especially applicable to overweight or older people who wouldn't otherwise join a fitness group.

The study is titled "The Effects of Participation in Aerobic Dance Program on Body Image of Prebeginner Level Participants."

"We don't see enough exercise at the prebeginner level," said Henk-Teston, who now works as the special events and publicity coordinator for the Carbondale Park District. "The results of the study document the need to offer fitness groups at the beginner level, especially the prebeginner level."

Groups seek extended health benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 60 national organizations, saying the political climate is ripe for health care reform, pledged Thursday to bring medical coverage to 87 million Americans who are uninsured or underinsured.

Dr. Arthur Flemming, chairman of the National Health Care Campaign, said the immediate goal will be to convince state legislatures to extend Medicaid benefits to "all pregnant women, children 5 and under, older persons and persons with disabilities who have incomes below the poverty line."

Flemming, who headed what is now known as the Department of Health and Human Services in the Eisenhower administration, said the campaign also plans to deluge Congress with requests for extensive hearings on a national health care program.

"The members of the campaign have agreed that the only way in which we can prevent unnecessary physical and mental suffering and family financial disasters related to health care costs is for our nation to join as rapidly as possible all other industrialized nations of the world in making access to quality, affordable health care a right for everyone," he said.

Medicaid, operated by HHS in a federal-state arrangement, pays for the health care of specific categories of low-income people.

Robert Brandon of Citizen Action, a federation of 24 statewide citizens' organizations, said the campaign will push for state health care coalitions in at least 35 states and will try to reach millions of people.

AIDS rate hits slowing trend

ATLANTA (UPI) — The number of AIDS cases in the United States is doubling every 13 months, jumping from 14,049 last October to 28,098 the first week of December, but federal health officials said Thursday the rate of increase is slowing.

The national Centers for Disease Control expects another doubling in 15 months, putting the number of AIDS victims at more than 56,000 by early 1988 and at 270,000 by 1991, with no peaking of cases at least by 1991.

The CDC also reported that new studies strengthen the belief of scientists that acquired immune deficiency syndrome is not spread through casual contact, insect bites, food, water or environmental causes.

Dr. Tim Dondero, chief of surveillance and evaluation in the CDC's AIDS program, said the studies were "a further illustration that casual contact and other things are not contributing to AIDS cases in this country."

Movie Guide

An American Tail — (Varsity, G) Steven Spielberg produced this film animated by "The Secret of NIMH" artist Don Bluth. An Eastern European mouse named Fievel Mousekewitz travels with his family to the land of opportunity. Unfortunately, Fievel gets separated from his family and must search all of New York City to find them.

The Color of Money — (Varsity, R) Paul Newman stars as an old pool hustler who teaches young upstart Tom Cruise the game.

Crocodile Dundee — (Fox Eastgate, PG-13) Comedy about a New York reporter who interviews a crocodile fighter in the Australian outback. To promote her story, the reporter takes the Australian to New York where he gets his first taste of civilization.

Golden Child — (Varsity, R) Eddie Murphy stars as a California detective who goes on a search for a holy child.

Heartbreak Ridge — (University 4) Clint Eastwood produced and starred in this story about Tom Highway, an old Marine Gunnery Sergeant whose traditional approach to military discipline runs into conflict with the new army. But Highway gets his chance to prove himself again when he is called to the 2nd Marine Recon platoon on the tiny Caribbean island called Grenada.

I Love You — (Student Center Auditorium, Sunday and Monday, 7 and 9:30 p.m.) Sonja Braga ("Kiss of the Spider Woman") plays a young career woman who pretends to be a prostitute during a weekend rendezvous with a businessman.

Name of the Rose — (Fox Eastgate, R) Based on a best-seller by Umberto Eco, this tale of monks and murder is set in a wealthy 14th century Italian monastery. Sean Connery plays a Sherlock Holmesian sort of monk who must track a murderer who seems to be basing his crimes on the Book of Revelations. Also stars F. Murray Abraham.

Peggy Sue Got Married — (Liberty, PG-13) Witty, artful Francis Coppola film about a 43-year-old woman who gets the chance to go back in time to high school and rewrite her past. Kathleen Turner and Nicolas Cage star.

Song of the South — (Saluki, G) A classic, though lately controversial 1946 Disney feature that combines live action and animation. "Song of the South" is a musical adaptation of the old Uncle Remus tales about the "tar babies" and smart alecky rabbits of Briar Patch county.

Stand By Me — (Varsity, R) In a movie based on a Stephen King novella, four Oregon 12-year-olds during the summer of 1959 go hunting for the body of a dead boy. One of director Rob Reiner's best films.

Star Trek IV: The Voyage Home — (University 4, PG) This is the goofiest and most entertaining of the four Star Trek movies and the second to be directed by Leonard Nimoy. After resurrecting poor lobotomized Spock in Star Trek III, the crew takes a Klingon ship to 1986 San Francisco on a search for extinct whales. This movie captures the spirit of the television series with its simple special effects and good use of its very special bunch of characters.

Three Amigos! — (Fox Eastgate, PG) Dave Landis movie with Chevy Chase, Steve Martin and Martin Short as silent films stars who journey to Mexico on what they mistakenly believe is a personal appearance tour, only to end up fighting to save a village from notorious bandits. Screenplay by Steve Martin, Lorne Michaels and Randy Newman.

Top Gun — (University 4, R) Tom Cruise stars as a young Navy jet pilot who gets to pilot some state-of-the-art air machines between passes at flight instructor Kelly McGillis. A movie about glory, gusto, America, manly men, etc.

Year of the Dragon — (Student Center Auditorium, Friday and Saturday, 7 and 9:15 p.m.) Mickey Rourke stars as a tough who uses Tracy Tzu to expose a prominent criminal in China Town.

Woman shares holiday dinner

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Peg Ohmer enjoyed eating Thanksgiving dinner with strangers so much she is advertising again to find more to join her for Christmas.

Ohmer, of suburban Upper St. Clair, said Thursday she is placing newspaper ads reading: "If you cannot be with your loved ones on Christmas Day, please join me for church and dinner."

Ohmer ran a similar ad in November because her husband was slated to be on a business trip in Asia for Thanksgiving. What she thought would be a quiet dinner at her home with a few strangers turned out to be a five-hour feast at a local hotel with 15.

"This is overwhelming right now," she said as she prepared for a barrage of phone calls in response to her latest ad. For the November dinner, 60 people called.

"We had people of all ages. It does not matter what age you are. We just do not want these people being alone. That's the important thing," she said.

Ohmer, a native of Chicago, said she staged similar gatherings when she lived there.

Show saluting Reagan canceled

NEW YORK (UPI) — A nationally syndicated television show saluting President Reagan on his 76th birthday has been canceled because all the national advertisers have backed out since the Iran arms scandal broke, the distributor said Thursday.

"Because of the Iranian thing, the advertisers thought it advisable to disassociate themselves from the program," said Sidney Love, general sales manager for VJR Enterprises Inc., of New York, distributor for "Reagan's Way."

"Reagan's Way," a 60-minute "historical" program that traced Reagan's career from movies to presidential inauguration, was cleared to air Feb. 6 — Reagan's birthday — in 95 percent of the United States, including the top 50 television markets, and Alaska and Hawaii. Love said. Most of those major market stations had scheduled it in prime-time, he added.

The film was a joint production of Daniel Selznick, son of David O. Selznick and a friend of First Lady Nancy Reagan, and French television, Love said. It was shown on French TV in 1984, but has never been broadcast in the United States, he said.

Love said he did not know if it would ever air.

When the Iran scandal broke, the national advertisers began calling VJR Enterprises to bow out of the project, Love said. He refused to name the advertisers, but said "they are major corporations that you see in network commercials all the time."

VJR then sent a letter to stations that had arranged to air the special to announce it would be canceled.

"Due to circumstances beyond our control resulting in major sponsor withdrawals we regret to inform you that 'Reagan's Way' must be canceled... It cannot be aired as planned without the necessary advertising support."

Iowa town stunned by slaying of mayor

MOUNT PLEASANT, Iowa (UPI) — A stunned town mourned the assassination of its popular mayor and prayed Thursday for two wounded City Council members felled by bullets fired by an "odd-ball" loner enraged by his flooded basement.

Ralph Orin Davis, 69, who neighbors said often drank homemade beer and shot birds in his neighborhood, was led handcuffed and chained at the waist to the Henry County Courthouse Thursday morning for arraignment on a charge of first-degree murder.

Flags flew at half-staff outside the courthouse as Magistrate David L. McCoid apprised Davis of his rights, read the charges against him, scheduled a preliminary hearing for Dec. 19 and ordered him jailed in lieu of $700,000 bond.

Police and witnesses said Davis walked into Wednesday night's council meeting cursing about a re-occurring sewage problem and opened fire with a handgun, killing Mayor Edward King, 53, and wounding council members Joann Sankey, 39, and Ronald Dupree, 44.

"It's like somebody pulled a trigger on the whole town," former Mayor Jim Green said.

"He was one of those guys who was easy to work with," Green said of King, who served six years on the city council before being elected mayor 11 years ago. "He'd do anything for anybody."

Davis, a stocky man with white hair, silver-rimmed glasses and a ruddy complexion, moved from California to Mount Pleasant several years ago and lived alone in a rundown, one-story house in a quiet neighborhood southeast of the town square.

On several occasions, he had asked the council to help him pay to repair damages from sewage that backed up into his basement during heavy rains in late September.

Neighbor Lowell "Red" Spicer said Davis talked about his sewage problem. "I told him I've got the same problem but there's nothing you can do about it."

"He was an oddball," Spicer said. "He's always making home brew and shooting birds around here."

Out-of-state grad assistants may get in-state waivers

By Nola J. Cowser
Staff Writer

The Graduate School is considering giving tuition waivers to out-of-state graduate assistants as University employees, therefore treating them as in-state students, said the school's associate dean, Patricia Carrell, at Thursday's Graduate Council meeting.

John Yopp, associate vice president of the Graduate School, said SIU-C is one of few universities that reports this class of tuition waivers as out-of-state to the Board of Higher Education, while the majority of universities report their tuition waivers for out-of-state graduate assistants as in-state students.

THE PROPOSED change would lower the amount of waived tuition reported to the Board of Higher Education. According to Yopp, SIU-C currently shows $3 million in waived tuition amounts, compared with $1.5 million in collected tuition.

Also, if tuition waivers become taxable, graduate assistants would be taxed on in-state tuition rather than the higher out-of-state tuition.

Tuition waivers remain tax exempt through December 1987, but may become taxable after that unless further legislation keeps them exempt.

A THIRD benefit would provide in-state status for spouses and children of graduate assistants, allowing them to attend college if they otherwise could not afford the out-of-state rates.

All employees of the University, including faculty, staff, civil service and graduate assistants, are given tuition waivers and dependent children and spouses of University employees are treated as in-state students for the purpose of tuition assessment, according to Carrell.

"WHAT WE don't have is a policy that says those who are receiving the tuition waivers, the employees, should be considered in-state for the purpose of the tuition waivers," Carrell said.

The University currently has a practice that treats the tuition waivers of all faculty and staff as being in state, so the amount of money for these waived tuitions is reported as such.

However, graduate assistants are treated on a case-by-case basis according to their residency status as students, not their status as University employees, Carrell said.

CARELL SAID the Graduate School has checked with the Board of Governors, the Board of Regents and the University of Illinois system and found that they treat their graduate assistant tuition waivers as in-state as other employees are treated, so the amount of dollars of waived tuition that they are reporting is considerably less than the amount of waived tuition that SIU-C is reporting. Out-of-state tuition at SIU-C is three times that of in-state tuition.

THE GRADUATE assistants' status as University employees would affect only their tuition rates, not other employee benefits, according to Carrell. Also, a graduate assistant would be treated as an in-state student only so long as he holds the tuition waiver, unless he gains Illinois residency and is entitled to in-state rates when he no longer has the tuition waiver.

Allergies dampen holiday spirit

By University News Service
Did Scrooge get itchy, watery eyes and sneezing fits around pine trees? That might explain his "bah-humbug" attitude — he might actually have been allergic to Christmas.

SIU physician Mark R. McCutcheon, assistant director of the Family Practice Center in Carbondale, says there's a good chance that many people — especially those who already suffer from allergies during other seasons — might be allergic to the special smells and foods of Christmas.

A Christmas-related allergy may be recognizable as a mild, sudden cold that one gets only over the holidays, McCutcheon said.

"So at Christmas time, people who have problems with tree allergies in the spring may notice that if they put up their tree, they get stuffy and sneeze and then it goes away a couple weeks after they take the tree down," he said. Allergy sufferers usually already know what their allergies are like and probably will recognize their symptoms.

"As long as it's not bothersome to their everyday living or disturbing their sleep, people usually put up with it because they know it's going to be gone in a couple weeks," McCutcheon said.

If it's the beautiful Scotch pine that you're allergic to, maybe an artificial tree is the answer.

"Allergies may be so bothersome that the sufferer has to get another tree," McCutcheon said.

Trees aren't the only respiratory and olfactory offenders. Holiday plants like poinsettias, holly and mistletoe may send you into a fit.

Or the box of decorations, packed away 12 months ago and stored in the dusty garage — that could be enough to trigger an asthma attack. Once you open that box and stir up all that dust, watch out, McCutcheon says. Best to seal the box with tape before storing.

Even some of the most innocuous holiday trappings may hold grief for some sensitive systems. McCutcheon points to tree flocking, scented candles and incense, even the tree skirt as possible miscreants. Tree skirt? Dusted again.

Which brings us to food — is nothing sacred? McCutcheon said some Christmastime goodies to which people are commonly allergic are shrimp, oysters, lobster, crab, and nuts and berries (like those chocolate-dipped strawberries).

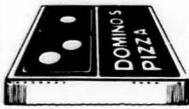

"I guess people who're allergic to pollens, weeds and grasses might even possibly get allergic to sage in sage dressings that we eat," McCutcheon said.

Stallone to modify Rambo image

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Sylvester Stallone conceded Thursday that his Rambo image has become too extreme and said he will tone down the violence in "Rambo III" to be filmed next year under a new 10-movie production deal.

The world's No. 1 box office champion also announced he granted domestic home video and foreign distribution rights to the new pictures — five of which will star Stallone — to Carolco Pictures and bought a 12 percent interest in the company.

"Toward the end of February we'll start the new Rambo saga, which I think will be quite interesting," Stallone said. "It's quite ambitious compared to the last one."

Stallone said the Rambo

character had become too extreme and in the new film, he will return to the Rambo of "First Blood."

"The first Rambo picture was one of my favorite films," Stallone said.

"In 'Rambo II' we decided to take on a very broad subject and it did go a bit broader than expected because the Rambo character incorporated an ideology and almost a personality of 10 warriors, because no one man could do all of that.

"We'd like to draw back and be significantly more linear with this one and keep it more focused and not go into fantasy if we don't have to."

Stallone said he "certainly had no regrets about the way Rambo II was done," but said "Rambo III" would be painted with "less broad strokes."

Stallone said all 10 films in his new deal would likely be of the action genre and said the movies probably will include a "Rambo IV."

"I have a kinship to a strong motivation, and by that I mean movement," Stallone said. "All of my films will have a certain pace, energy, vitality. Whenever I have strayed from that genre I have always been disappointed with the result."

Stallone acknowledged that "certain factions consider action films non-artistic," but he said he believes the Rambo films were "as artistic as you can be in that milieu."

In response to criticism of the Rambo character dolls, Stallone said he felt they were "quality toys."

Hilltopper's 81-66 loss to Vanderbilt, boosting her average to 20 points per game.

"Clemette's our catalyst, a very complete player but a little too unselfish," Sanderford said. "Sometimes people think we're the Haskins show, but we've got other players too."

Starters complementing Haskins may include sophomore forward Brigette Combs, senior center Melinda Carlson, junior center Traci Patton, senior forward Laura Ogles and sophomore guard Susie Starks. Plus the Hilltoppers boast a slew of bench depth, most of which the Salukis saw in action last year.

"All Western teams play a lot of players," Sanderford said. "We have a couple injuries cutting down our bench depth, but we'll play as many as we have healthy."

Coach Cindy Scott says the Salukis just want to notch a good showing against the talented Toppers, not go out for revenge.

"They have people who played in two final fours," Scott said. "It's tremendous experience for our kids. Even if we lose, if we play well, it will be recognition for our program."

Most important offensively, the Salukis must execute to beat the 1-2-2 halfcourt trap that stole away the game last year.

"Sure we'll press some," Sanderford said. "We like to extend the court."

On the other end, sophomore guard Dana Fitzpatrick will take on the unenviable task of shutting down Haskins.

The Saluki coaches are still debating other critical defensive matchups.

Assistant George Iubelt said, "When two good teams get together, defense always wins ballgames."

Scott added, "The lower the score, the better our chances of winning."

Sanderford agreed that a higher score would aid the Hilltoppers and said he thinks the Salukis will try to slow the tempo of the game.

But this year's Hilltoppers range somewhere in between a run and control type team, much like the Salukis.

Other similarities include coaches comments on their squads. Sanderford said his young team plays like a rollercoaster, very good in stretches but poor in spells — Scott said the same after edging Purdue and beating St. Louis. This is because, both coaches say, their squads lack identity.

The Pirates are flying high after knocking off No. 19 Northeastern on Dec. 8. That's the same Northeastern that upset defending NCAA champions Louisville (in overtime) and Utah State before losing to Iowa in the championship game of the Great Alaska Shootout.

The only mar on EC's 4-1 record is a 103-65 loss to ACC power Duke on Dec. 3.

Starting forwards Marchell Henry (6-5 junior, 15.6 ppg last season as a starter) and Theodore "Blue" Edwards provide the Pirates with a steady one-two scoring punch of 22.6 and 16.8 ppg, respectively, to lead the team. Edwards also leads the team in rebounding (5.0 rpg).

Three talented forwards who see considerable action off the bench — 6-5 senior Derrick Battle, 6-5 sophomore Manuel Jones and 6-3 freshman Brent Lose — provide the Pirates with a bench that is solid and steady with considerable depth talent-wise. All five Pirate forwards are excellent jumpers.

Six-10 center Leon Bass, a four-year starter, averaged 8.0 ppg last season in a starting role, but doesn't provide the Pirates with much besides bulk this season. EC sports information director Bob Roller called Bass the "most limited of the five starters in terms of athletic ability."

The quintet of forwards, along with Bass, may present problems for the Salukis, who were repeatedly burned by Nebraska forwards on the inside.

Rounding out the starting lineup are guards Keith Sledge (6.2 ppg last season as a starter) and sophomore Howard Brown. Brown, the playmaker, leads the team in assists (5.5 apg) while chipping in an average of 10.2 points.

Although no one Pirate dominates the boards, all five starters average above 4.5 rebounds per contest, providing EC with enough strength to out rebound their five opponents this season by a 33.2 to 31.4 average.

Last season, EC finished 6-8 in the Colonial Conference and 12-16 overall.

The Salukis will be trying to rebound from a loss to Nebraska on Wednesday night in a game they should have won.

"I don't think it'll have much of an effect on us at Indiana," Herrin said. "We played hard and everyone gave it their best effort. What more can you ask?"

"East Carolina is a very talented basketball team and we'll certainly have to give it our best effort," Herrin said. "When you can beat South Carolina on the road and then beat Northeastern, something's working right."

Detroit looks for Long night Monday when tackling Bears

By Richard L. Shook
UPI Sports Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — The Detroit Lions would like to see a repeat of history Monday when they host the Chicago Bears — which would make it a Long night.

Was it merely a coincidence? Or was Detroit coach Darryl Rogers looking for a spark when he named rookie Chuck Long of Iowa to make his first start at quarterback for the Lions against the big bad Bears on national television?

Go back to 1981 when Eric Hipple, the quarterback Long was drafted to replace last spring, made his starting debut for Detroit in a Monday night game against Chicago.

Hipple, who unlike the rookie Long had a year's worth of watching experience, merely threw four touchdown passes, ran for two TDs and passed for 336 yards to lead the Lions to a 48-17 romp over the Bears.

"I VAGUELY remember that," Long said. "I was just a kid at the time. If I did something like that it would be a dream come true."

"It's an opportunity for them to see what he can do," Chicago coach Mike Ditka said. "As I said before, I just hope he doesn't do too much."

"It's fun to start off on national television," Long said of his chance to be a premier attraction on a series which this season has produced some of the longest games in NFL history.

The chance of a historical replay are about as good as Ford Motor Company revving up the Edsel for another sales run.

CHICAGO HASN'T given up 48 points in any two consecutive games this season, let alone one. And the Bears' defense still comes at teams like an avalanche. And linebacker Otis Wilson returns to that defense after sitting out his one-game suspension.

"We've given up fewer points and fewer yards (than last year)," Ditka said. "We just don't seek publicity any more."

"They've got an excellent defense," Rogers said. "Better than it was a year ago. They've got a different quarterback and they're still winning."

Quarterback. Now there's the major difference in the Bears from a year ago.

"They've got an excellent defense. Better than it was a year ago."

— Lions' coach Darryl Rogers on Chicago's defense.

Last season Jim McMahon, out for the remainder of this season with a bad shoulder, was making more big plays than Neil Simon. Now it's Mike Tomczak, Doug Flutie and Steve Fuller.

"I'LL PROBABLY open with Tomczak," Ditka said. "But I'll play Doug. You'll get to see him. We'll play him the next two games."

"We want him to develop. I think he's a very important part of our future," said Ditka, who acknowledged going with the younger quarterbacks at the expense of the more experienced Fuller.

"With Flutie in there I think you'll see some moving pockets and him rolling out," Rogers said. "When he drops back, he's got the vision problem, seeing people."

The Lions bring a 5-9 record into their first Monday night game in exactly two years. If they win both their remaining two they will only equal the 7-9 record Rogers brought his first year as coach.

"I think we're a better football team," Rogers said. "But our record doesn't show it."

CHICAGO IS 12-2 in defense of its Super Bowl championship but is living off its defense and special teams' ability to get points. That bothers Ditka.

The Bears have the same record as the New York Giants entering weekend play but would not have the home field advantage — providing both win their last two games — for the NFC title because New York has a better NFC record.

If New York loses and Chicago wins out and ties with Washington the applicable tie-breaker would be net points versus the NFC. Chicago currently holds a 31-point lead in that category.

One more win, or a Los Angeles loss, clinches the home field for Chicago in the first round of the playoffs.

Just as Rogers is hoping for a Long tenure with the Lions, Ditka appears to be a Flutie player.

"IF HE COULD add some spark to our offense," Ditka said, "then I would certainly consider him for the playoffs."

"Nothing is really set in stone (for me)," said Long, who has insisted all season he did not want to start until he felt drilled in Detroit's offense. "Things are starting to iron out for me. But I need experience."

Women tankers anticipate tough fight from Nebraska

By Peter Rechenberg
Staff Writer

The women's swim team travels to Lincoln, Neb., tomorrow to take on the University of Nebraska in a duel meet. Saluki coach Bailey Weathers said the Huskers will be favored to win the meet.

Weathers said Nebraska will be tough to beat. "Their main goal in this meet is to set a lot of NCAA standard times," Weathers said. They are rested for this meet, and they have a very good team."

Weathers said Nebraska is strong in the butterfly and all the freestyle events. The Salukis have trouble in the freestyle events. "We don't have a lot of depth in freestyle, and that's a problem for us,"

Weathers said.

Weathers is counting on his two national caliber backstrokers, All-American Wendy Erick and freshman Lisa Reinke, to swim well. "We have to swim well on our back to have any chance of winning the meet," Weathers said. Another strong event for the Salukis will be the 200-yard individual medley. Suella Miller and Lisa Reinke took the top two places when the Salukis defeated Northwestern on Nov. 15.

Weathers thinks the Salukis are at a disadvantage because their last meet was against Northwestern. "You're always at a disadvantage when you can't get your whole team together," Weathers said. "We won't have our team tomorrow at Nebraska. We are leaving some swimmers here."

The Salukis' only diver freshman Michele Robinson. Weathers has been happy with Robinson's performance. "There would be a lot of pressure even if she was a senior, because she's our only diver," Weathers said. "She's handled the pressure well, and she's done a fantastic job. She can only get better and continue to improve."

Weathers said the Salukis will try to beat Nebraska, but they want to make sure they don't burn themselves out. "We don't want this meet to take a lot out of us," Weathers said. "We want to be strong at the end of the year."

Tracksters open indoor season bothered by key aches and pains

By Peter Rechenberg
Staff Writer

The indoor track season begins tomorrow as the Salukis travel to Normal, Ill., to compete against three Missouri Valley Conference foes: Bradley, Indiana State and the home school Illinois State.

No team scores will be kept in the meet, and Saluki coach Bill Cornell says Illinois State and Indiana State will be the two top teams.

"This meet will show us where we stand against the top two teams in the conference," Cornell said. "It's hard to tell what kind of team we have right now."

Andy Pettigrew, the Salukis' top cross country runner, will be competing in tomorrow's meet. Cornell still says Pettigrew is still not in peak physical condition.

"We still don't know how much that injury took out of him," Cornell said of Pet-tigrew's Fall misfortune.

Cornell said Pettigrew and Jobie Kelly will be the top distance runners. James Duhart, a transfer from Middle Tennessee, should be strong for the Salukis. Duhart is running in the 400-meter event.

Cornell said the Salukis have quite a few injuries. "David Lamont, our most valuable cross country runner, is injured," Cornell said. "Our top pole vaulter is also injured."

34 straight games and a state title in '83, outdistancing opponents by an average margin of 34 points per game. Novsek had departed to the collegiate ranks at SIU-C, but Simmons, who had already signed with Indiana, was left to pace the Indians.

The Indians eventually accumulated a winning streak of 68 games before falling. That mark still stands as a state record, uncontested by any serious threats.

Novsek said he still corresponds with Felling on a semi-frequent basis, adding that his former high school coach has helped his shooting out considerably.

"He knows so much about shooting," Novsek said. "He seems to pick up things that other people can't."

Novsek, who used to unleash his long bombs from around the waist, credits Felling for changing his shot to an above-the-head shot that allows Novsek more extension and greater accuracy.

"He taught me how to shoot," Novsek flat-out said. "He really helped me improve. He's just a great basketball coach."

Novsek's statistics are ample proof of Felling's coaching talents. The senior forward has hit on 47 percent of his field goals en route to a 15.4 point per game average to rank second on the squad in scoring.

Even more impressive, Novsek has hit on 21 of 39 three-pointers (53.8 percent), a mark that should be good enough to rank the sharpshooter among the national leaders when NCAA stats are released next week.

Novsek isn't Felling's only link to SIU-C's basketball program. Saluki assistant coach and head recruiting honcho Steve Carroll was an assistant for Felling during his final year at Lawrenceville. Carroll then moved on to the University of Illinois, where he helped out Illini coach Lou Henson.

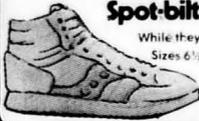

Correction

10 Reasons to Give FRED'S

Bumper Stickers for Christmas:

1. They're a lasting gift. Unlike gifts of food, liquor, or money, Fred's bumper stickers stick around for a long, long time. (Unless you replace your bumper.) The stickers usually outlast the chrome.
2. They hold deep and cherished memories. Anyone who's been to Fred's nostalgically remembers the poetic rhapsody of the hoedown, the simple beauty of the Grandpa dance, the heart rending weeping of Wayne Higdon's fiddle. As one former Fred's patron, since moved away, remarked, "I miss it. I wish I had a sticker."
3. They're in Christmas Colors! Well, at least one Christmas Color: Red.
4. They fit in a stocking! So does your foot, but how many feet stick to a bumper?
5. The guys at Golden Frots all have one. And they have good taste, just ask them.
6. They're not as expensive as an engagement ring. And they last longer than most marriages.
7. They're unique. Anyone can give Fast Food gift certificates, only unique folks give Fred's Bumper Stickers.
8. You can't break them.
9. You can't return them.
10. You can only get them at Fred's!

Women cagers rip up Billikens, 71-53

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Despite a lackluster first half, the women's basketball Salukis thumped St. Louis, 71-53 at Davies Gym Thursday night.

The fourth straight win lifted the Salukis to 4-1 and dropped the Billikens to 3-2.

The Salukis opened like gangbusters, scoring their eighth unanswered point after Billiken coach John O'Brien got a technical foul and Ann Kattreh converted the free shot. O'Brien's effort to rouse his team helped wake the Billikens from the shutout.

But the Salukis never trailed, getting bench players into the contest midway in the first half with an 18-8 lead. The Billikens kept pace with the subs for a five-minute stretch, but crept back on Saluki cold shooting.

Although the Billikens forced some Saluki starters to return, they continued to play inspired ball for the closing six minutes to pull within three at the half, 30-27.

"Our kids knew we could beat St. Louis with a half effort, and that's what it looked like," Saluki coach Cindy Scott said. "At halftime I said a few things, but to berate them is not my style. The kids know more by us being quiet than by us getting on them."

What appeared another chilly performance sizzled to start the second period. Within four minutes the Salukis rekindled the lead to 10 on a close-in shot from Bridgett Bonds.

A Saluki fullcourt pressure defense -- to keep up intensity -- forced plenty of Billiken errors and resulted in a few easy buckets. But occasionally those easy shots looked very difficult.

"Our big people are missing bunnies," Scott said.

In fact, from inside or out, the Salukis took high percentage shots with low percentage results, 44.4 percent in contrast to the Billiken's 56.1 shooting percentage.

"We're typically a 50 percent ballclub," Scott said, "so this is one of our major concerns. The shots aren't forced and the offense is turning over. They're good shots that just aren't going down well."

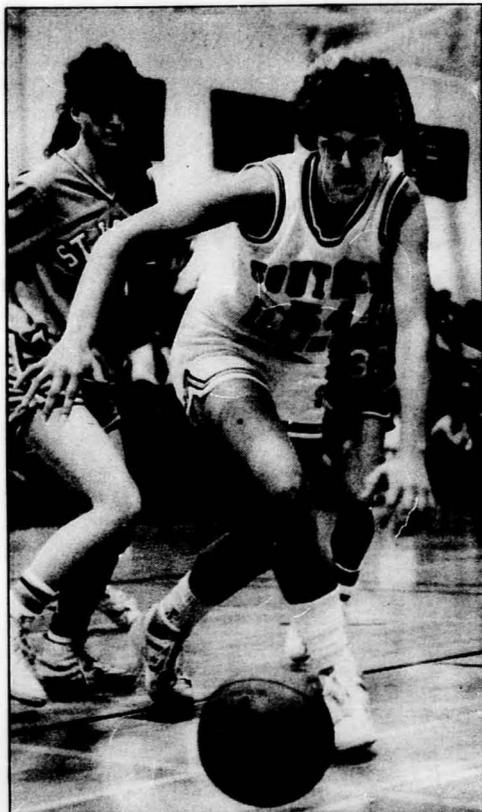

By scooping up 25 Billiken miscues, the Salukis enlarged the margin to as many as 22 points. Senior point guard Marialice Jenkins led the point-spread charge by canning three of three after she came in with 10 minutes to play.

Jenkins fired all three of her shots with one foot on or near the three point shot line. The only one she missed ended up the Salukis' only three-point attempt of the night, and that one had to struggle to get out of the basket.

Bonds played loose enough to share game-high honors with Billiken Julie Hacker at 15 points. Bonds misfired a few close ones but nailed on 50 percent. She also stayed on the floor 31 minutes with only one foul while grabbing 11 rebounds.

Dana Fitzpatrick, admittedly a streak shooter, suffered an off night but handed off a game-high six assists and ripped off two steals.

"If I'd had my druthers, we wouldn't have played tonight," Scott said. "We practiced hard last night for Western Kentucky and the kids knew we were looking by St. Louis."

Women cagers hit the road for 11th-ranked Western Kentucky

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

In the continuing saga of women's basketball, game chapter 6 could make or break the best-seller capability of the '86-87 book of Salukis.

No pun intended, the Salukis rate as underdogs visiting Western Kentucky at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Hilltopper's Diddle Arena at Bowling Green, Ky., averages 3,000 fans per game, creating an exciting home for them to maul and mutilate opponents.

Thus far the NCAA final-year finisher from last year flashes a 4-1 record with a vastly different yet capable team ranked 11th in the nation.

In one way, the Salukis can breathe a sigh of relief. From the squad that trounced SIU 92-60 last year, gone are three starters including Lillie Mason, who scored 28 points, and Kami Thomas, who scored 14 in that game.

But then again, Roloids claims to spell relief, too. Hilltopper coach Paul Sanderford says his squad rates as just "good" this year primarily because of graduation casualties. "To be honest, we're not the same. We're young and inconsistent," Sanderford said. "Rankings are for the fans and media. They just make teams play harder against us, some teams get 10 points better."

Consensus All-American Clemette Haskins, a 5-9 senior guard, leads the Hilltoppers. Haskins scored a mere 23 and 22 points while dishing 11 and 12 assists in early wins. Most recently, Haskins hit 25 in the Rich Herrin's cagers, coming off a heartbreaking 87-85 loss to the Nebraska Cornhuskers, are looking forward to the Indiana Classic. They want a shot at Bobby Knight's Hoosiers, ranked No. 2 in the nation this week.

And Steve Middleton, SIU-C's leading scorer and victim of the infamous "no foul call" in the Nebraska game Wednesday night, hopes the stunning defeat will add fire to the 3-3 Salukis.

"Hopefully, the loss will add some incentive," Middleton said. "We need a win and we want a win. We're definitely going to work hard to get a shot at Indiana."

The action kicks off at 7 p.m. Friday night, with the hosting Hoosiers taking on North Carolina-Wilmington. The Salukis play East Carolina at 9 p.m. Friday night.

Winners of the first two contests will square off in the championship game at 9 p.m. Saturday, while the losers play a consolation at 7 p.m. Saturday night.

Beating East Carolina to advance to the championship game and a likely matchup with the host Hoosiers will be no small order, though.

Indiana shooting guru has strong Saluki ties

SIU-C forward Doug Novsek, SIU-C's three-point threat and second leading scorer, says the Salukis would love to get a shot at Bobby Knight's No. 2 ranked Indiana Hoosiers this weekend at the Indiana Classic.

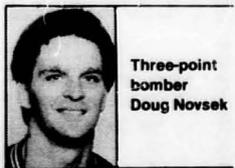

"We'd love to get a shot at such a great team," Novsek said. "We like to go up there and play a respectable game. But we don't want to go up there and lose by 35 points just to say that we've played Indiana."

But Novsek was quick to point out that the Salukis would first have to beat East Carolina. "We can't be looking past East Carolina," Novsek said. "It's not likely that we'll get to play Indiana if we don't beat East Carolina. It has to be a one-step at a time type of thing."

If SIU-C and Indiana lock horns through the course of the tournament, it would reunite Novsek with his former high school coach at Lawrenceville, Ron Felling, who is now an assistant coach at Indiana.

Novsek, a fifth-year senior and four-year letterman for the Salukis, played on Lawrenceville's 34-0 state championship team in 1982.

That year, Novsek combined his shooting talents with those of Marty Simmons (Mr. Basketball in Illinois for that year) to form one of the best one-two scoring punches in IHSA basketball history.

Ironically enough, Simmons was recruited and played his first two years at Indiana before disagreements with the always-controversial Knight prompted the former prep standout into enrolling at the University of Evansville for his final two seasons of collegiate basketball.

Felling, who has since left Lawrenceville wallowing in mediocrity without his capable leadership, is now Indiana coach Bobby Knight's right-hand man and the Hoosier's shooting guru.

Knight nary makes a move without consulting Felling, who's basketball expertise guided Lawrenceville to one of the state's true high school basketball dynasties.

From 1972 to 1983, Felling guided Lawrenceville to ten regional titles, seven sectional titles and four state championships. In 16 years at the helm, Felling's teams won North Egypt Conference titles 13 times.

Times Lawrenceville lost in supersectional play, just one game away from appearances at the Assembly Hall for the state championships. Novsek and Simmons were both underclassmen on those teams.

After the perfect season in '82, the Indians once again won
