Priority Program Urged By Sidewalk Committee

Carbondale's Sidewalk Advisory Committee concluded a three month study by urging the city to add 23 miles of sidewalks within a year for the sake of "community safety." In a report released Monday, the committee stressed the need for "priority" streets which immediately require sidewalks to protect pedestrians, particularly school children.

Included in the list is a stretch along South Wall St. where two SIU students were struck and killed by an auto last fall while walking in the street. As a result of the tragic accident Mayor David Keene appointed the sidewalk committee last week.

The committee also called for construction of an additional 33 miles of sidewalks within a five year span so that Carbondale could reach its "ideal" goal of having sidewalks on all city streets.

Smith claimed he has received numerous complaints about the film, and said if the complaints were legitimate the film should not be shown over a tax-supported station. It is a production of the National Educational Television network, of which SIU-TV is a member.

Smith said, "I have no knowledge of the film; all I'm asking is that it first be reviewed by a competent group to make sure it is factual.

"The St. Louis Globe-Democrat earlier attacked SIU's plans to show the film in an editorial."

On Sunday, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch approved of the decision in an editorial.

Athletic Question Listed

For Friday's Board Meeting

Consideration of the future of intercollegiate athletics is on the agenda of the SIU board of Trustees meeting Friday on the Edwardsville campus, according to a spokesman in the President's Office.

Robert W. MacVicar, vice president for academic affairs, had promised the Board earlier he would present materials to Delyte W. Morris following the SIU president's return to campus Feb. 1. Morris then could bring the matter before the Board if he wished.

The University Council, advisory body to Morris, is scheduled to consider the matter for the second consecutive week at its meeting Wednesday.

Work Cutbacks Not Campus-Wide, Coordinator Says

Cutbacks in hours worked by students are caused by shortages of funds in individual departments and not by a campus-wide condition, according to Frank W. Adams, coordinator of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

Adams made the statement in response to queries from John Foote, student senator who investigated reports of hours cutbacks.

Adams explained that while departments had budgeted for

New SIU Record

A group of 27 VTI students contend that they have set another first place record for Southern. They all piled into a "phone closet" Monday night on the VTI campus. The two organizers of the tear were Mike Stark and Ed Roth.

The 15 cents raise in the minimum wage, they had not been prepared for the 10 cents across-the-board raise. The hike in the minimum would have come in compliance with new standards under Federal law, while the across-the-board raise was approved by University vice presidents after a Student Senate campaign.

Adams again emphasized that other jobs are available for those students whose hours have been cut back, if they do not have scheduling conflicts.

"I don't foresee that this will develop into a major problem," Adams said.

A Look Inside

Warfare in Africa Called Unlikely

The continent has had its growing pains, Clark said, particularly the political instability caused by tribalism and the experience of Afriicans in conducting governmental matters, but Africa's "plus" points tend to balance the ledger.

Rabbit Hunter Finds Sacks of Marijuana

A rabbit hunter discovered a newspaper bundled about $400 worth of marijuana in a wooded area just north of Oakland Cemetery in Carbondale over the weekend.

Jackson County Sheriff Raymond Dillinger said nine plastic bags of marijuana, valued at about $50 each, were reportedly found tucked into a fence row.

Dillinger said he contacted Captain Carl B. Kirk, Investigator for SIU's Security Office, who helped identify the drug.

The cache was turned over to the agents of the Division of Narcotic Control for the state, the sheriff said.

According to Clark, the African people possess the enthusiasm, idealism and natural resources to bring Africa into world prominence.

Clark is visiting SIU to participate in the University's annual International Festival which is being held this week.

Unauthorized Leaflets Distributed on Campus

A spokesperson for the Student Government said the office has confirmed that the Hippodrome, a private entertainment and business in Murphysboro, illegally posted signs and distributed leaflets on campus last week.

Radio Station Hearings Set For Thursday

Sudan: Senate sponsored hearings on establishing a closed circuit AM radio station in the state will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday in Room E of the University Center.

Jerry Paluch, member of the Senate informal affairs committee which is sponsoring the hearing, said all interested persons are urged to attend.

Students George Bouris and Jerry Fabian, who originated the idea and are co-directors of the feasibility study, are scheduled to appear.

Administrators and representatives of the Southern Illinois University School of Communications have been invited, Paluch said.

Alcoholism Talk Set Wednesday Evening

William Becker, assistant director of the Division of Alcoholism, will present his views on alcoholism in the Midwestern Regional Colloquium at 8 p.m. Wednesday, in Lawson 221.

Becker will also discuss the current programs of the Division of Alcoholism.

Vehicle-by-vehicle harassment of scientists is a likely threat, according to the administration of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Illinois, the site of the accident.

According to the administration, the university is prepared to deal with the situation, which has become a matter of concern to scientists worldwide.

The U.S. Department of State, told area newsrooms during a press conference that his dealings with African leaders have given him an "optimistic" outlook towards the continent's political situation.

"The Africans are very independent-minded," Clark said, "and they're not about to stand for any form of imperialism by the communists or any other.

Clark said that it was not the United States' goal to implant our democratic system in Africa as Russia and China wish to do, but to ensure that the emerging nations develop "free and stable" governments.

As for Africa's future, Clark feels that it may appear deceptively thinly due to exaggerations of the problems it faces.

Clark said that many people tend to forget that the U.S. itself was just as unstable in its early days as many of the newly formed countries of Africa.

Student Workers 'Hoodwinked'

To The Daily Egyptian:

Somebody is trying to "Hoodwink" the student workers who are working in the student union and are being paid the same rate and in the same building as the faculty are being paid. It is a smear of the administration and the student organization to say that the student workers are more fortunate than the faculty.

To The Daily Egyptian:

I noticed Mr. Lenas’ comment in the Feb. 3 Daily Egyptian on the voting turnout. I once voiced my opinion on this concern when Walt Waschic was the editor, and I feel that a reiteration of my feelings is in order.

On a whole, campus elections are useless endeavors which only serve as entertainment to the one watt, one slim mind on campus who have nothing better to do.

I did however, in my five years at SIU, vote in one such election. That was against the athletic referendum two years ago. It was a fruitless endeavor because all those who felt as I did apparently did not feel like voting either, as the others pooled their forces to vote for athletic expansion.

The feeling on the subject were manifested by lack of use of the absentee ballots and the University Building fees, which I neither found time for nor desire to capitulate to. As a defeatist, I refused to vote this time because of past results and because no further financial burden imposed on students will no longer bother me.

Why should we vote to big-time athletics before taking big-time scholarships?

Vietnam War Has Its Caesars

By Amero Pietila

Without Julius Caesar, our knowledge of the Gallic war, life and conditions in what later was to develop to the cradle of modern European civilization, would be much smaller.

Not every war has a Julius Caesar, but all of them have describers of their own. The roster of books, general, fiction, and semi-fiction, on Vietnam grows in length almost every day. Good background works are available by the late Bernard Fall, Jean Lacouture and, of course, by George McTurnan Kahin and John W. Lewis. Their important "The United States in Vietnam" analyzes in depth the history of America's involvement.

Those not interested to know the what, when, why, and by whom may always turn to books ranging from Robin Moore's "The Green Berets" to Victor Kolpacooff's, "The Prisoners of Quis Dong." The difference between these two: Moore worked with the Special Forces in Vietnam, Kolpacooff was never there, but you can't tell that.

'Dragon Lady'

The latest addition to this list comes from David Halberstam, a Pulitzerized former Saigon correspondent of the New York Times. He was so much admired by the "Dragon lady" Madame Nhu that she once cried: "Halberstam should be barbecued, and I would be glad to supply the fluid and the match."

All these are good books about the war in Vietnam, but, in this writer's opinion, the best semi-fiction written on this subject is still Graham Greene's "The Quiet American." This book describes the first Indochina war, yet it can, with minor alterations, be applied to this second Indochina war, especially after last week's massive Vietcong operations that turned even the "open city" of Saigon into an Algerian-like battleground.

"The Quiet American" (1955) is typical Greene. He weighs things good and evil so that you either like this British novelist or condemn his kind of critical attitude from which there is only so short a way to an all-encompassing cynicism. He even begins the book by citing Lord Byron:

"This is the patent age of new inventions
For killing bodies and for saving souls,
All propagated with the best intentions."

During the past two weeks this nation has, understandably enough, been abashed by the news from Vietnam. Contrary to optimism, everything turned gloomy again, thus once more updating what James Reston wrote in 1962: "The most serious problem in Washington today because it affects all other problems is the gap between present political realities and past political assumptions."

We have witnessed an almost unbelievable military debacle, and although the Vietcong failed to create a general uprising, their flag rose over the former imperial capital of Hue and was substituted by the stars and stripes only after fierce street fighting. It is important to notice that the American GIs refused to follow their order to raise the South Vietnamese flag.

'Other War'

If the past days have been days of military repercussion, they have also collapsed the house of cards built from an ending stream of optimistic reports about pacification. Understandably, this nation was shocked, primarily because of the sudden manifestation of Vietcong power. But it should be at least as concerned about the "other war," because it is likely to explain why Vietcong infiltrators were so easily able to creep into major Vietnamese cities and why South Vietnamese and American intelligence networks were apparently not alarmed by the local population.

There has been much talk about this "other war," and how it is developing in a favorable direction. As usual, some Saigon-based U.S. newsmen have voiced their doubts about the official optimism, only to be accused of accentuating some unrepresentative special cases.

Biggest Casualties

Maybe this has been the case-sometimes. But this kind of an official explanation was not good enough any longer when the "other war" suffered one of its biggest casualties to date, in late January.

This was when Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang, the Vietnamese leader of pacification and elimination of corruption programs resigned. Labeled as "incorruptible" by friends and foes alike, he quit because of his bitterness over the failure of the Thieu regime and his fellow officers to support his anticorruption drive.

That this was a major defeat was again indicated by Senator Edward M. Kennedy this week in an interview with the New York Times. The senator said that up to 75 per cent of the piasters (equivalent of $30-million) distributed in refugee programs never reach the refugees.

The funds are pocketed by Vietnamese government officials at the provincial level, and even at the district level. Said Kennedy, "I don't think there is any question that the levels of corruption reach all the way on up to, if not including, the ministerial level."

Economics Problems

And at the same time as this nation is facing growing economic difficulties, because of the war in Vietnam, gold reserves of the Republic of South Vietnam (mostly in Paris banks) are increasing!

Maybe you don't agree with Graham Greene and the discussion he puts into the mouth of a British reporter and "the quiet American," who are listening to the night of the first Indochina war. Here it is, anyway:

"They don't want communism."

"They want enough rice," I said. "They don't want to be shot at. They want one day to be much the same as another. They don't want our white skins around telling them what they want."

"If Indochina goes-" "I know that record. Siam goes. Malaya goes. Indonesia goes. What does go mean? If I believed in your god and another life, I'd bet my future here against your golden crown that in five hundred years there may be no New York or London, but they'll be growing paddy in these fields, they'll be carrying their produce to market on long poles, wearing their pointed hats. The small boys will be sitting on the buffaloes. I like the buffaloes, they don't like our small white skins around. And remember, from a buffalo's point of view you are a European too."
Seven Students Attend

SIU Represented at Institute

SIU was among 21 other colleges and universities represented at the first Illinois College Leadership Institute at Robert Allerton Park, Monticello, Ill. They are, from left, Gary G. Hartleb, Anthony J. Giammelli, coordinator of Student Activities; Rick Pasco, Nancy Gayleen Hunter, Sara Kiss, Robert Allen Aikman and Robert Drinan.

The institute was sponsored by the Humble Oil Education Foundation in cooperation with the National Leadership Institute in Austin, Tex. It is designed to improve student leaders' decision making, communications and human relation techniques, and is patterned after courses given corporate executives.

The Humble Oil Education Foundation has begun this advanced leadership training for outstanding college students as part of a youth development program. Students invited to attend were selected on the basis of academic achievement and campus leadership.

U Thant Tries for Peace Offensive

LONDON (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant flew in from Moscow on Monday night that despite the Communist offensive in Vietnam, his San Antonio Peace Formula offer for peace talks stands and "we would meet them tomorrow."

Johnson discussed Vietnam, disarmament and the cities in a wide-ranging 75-minute question and answer session with a group of 12 college students.

Johnson said that in seeking peace in Vietnam, "we have gone just as far as decent and honorable people can go." But he said he stands behind his 1967 offer to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and to start talks. In Moscow, Thant had proposed a draft settlement that was rejected.

Nominally the Vietnamese war is not U.N. business, but as secretary-general Thant is entitled to concern himself with any issue that could threaten world peace.

Each of the three countries he has visited at a time of intensifying conflict in Vietnam has a significant role to play in the peace-making and peacekeeping process. India presides over the International Control Commission which is supposed to supervise peace arrangements throughout what once was Indochina.

The Soviet Union and Britain are two of the four nations that have signed the Geneva peace-making machinery which in 1954 produced the Viet Nam that failed.

In Moscow Thant conferred with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev on what an official statement called "topical international questions." Besides Vietnam these probably included the Arab-Israeli deadlock and prospects for reopening the Suez Canal.

The Russians went out of their way during Thant's stay to advertise their solidarity with the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

The public Soviet attitude was that the Communists were winning in Vietnam and can insist upon their own terms: complete U.S. withdrawal from the country.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, said this in a front-page editorial. It declared the positions of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong "meet with support and approval of generations of the whole nation."

"If Washington seriously wants to make peace talks, it can begin them on Communists terms," Pravda said.

Conscientious Objector Status Harder to Get From Boards

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two national organizations that counsel conscientious objectors to military service say draft boards are taking a harder line toward such young men.

"War psychology has made it more difficult to get a C-6 classification," says Arlo Taum, executive secretary of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors.

But he says they have been getting some cases that seem to fall into the C-6 category. "I think we've been doing a better job," adds J. Harold Sherr, executive secretary of the National Advisory Board for Religious Objectors.

Sherr also says there has been no increase in the proportion of draft registrants holding C-6 or G-4 exemptions. But it has no figure to show how many such exemptions are granted in any given year or how many men apply for one and are refused.

Conscientious Objector Status Harder to Get From Boards

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two national organizations that counsel conscientious objectors to military service say draft boards are taking a harder line toward such young men.

"War psychology has made it more difficult to get a C-6 classification," says Arlo Taum, executive secretary of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors.

But he says they have been getting some cases that seem to fall into the C-6 category. "I think we've been doing a better job," adds J. Harold Sherr, executive secretary of the National Advisory Board for Religious Objectors.

Sherr also says there has been no increase in the proportion of draft registrants holding C-6 or G-4 exemptions. But it has no figure to show how many such exemptions are granted in any given year or how many men apply for one and are refused.

Civil Rights Boycott Follow
Racial Riots in Orangeburg

ORANGEBURG, S.C., (AP) — The first day of a Negro economic boycott prompted protests and civic leaders to hold closed door meetings Monday and ponder sweeping civil rights demands in the wake of racial violence.

Businesses gathered for private talks on employment practices and a newly formed black commerce council met in closed session.

How successful the boycott could not be immediately determined. There were no reports of Negro shoppers in the business district during the day.

More than 600 National Guardsmen remained on duty with units posted around the campus of South Carolina State College, scene of an outbreak Thursday night that left three Negroes dead and 37 injured. The funeral of 17-year-old Delano Middleton of Orangeburg was held during the afternoon at a church on the outskirts of the town. Middleton, a high school pupil, was one of the three persons killed Thursday night.

State patrolmen opened fire on a group of Negroes near the S.C. State campus. The troopers said the Negroes injured one officer with a brick and then started shooting at the officers, who had accompanied a fire department crew to extinguish fires set by the Negroes. The other two killed were college students Henry Smith, 18, of Marion, S.C., and Samuel Hammond, 19, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Smith will be buried Tuesday at Marion and Hammond on Wednesday at Fort Lauderdale.

Attendants to the queen were at S. C. State and adjoining Claffin College, both predominately Negro institutions, were suspended indefinitely.

About 800 Negroes in a Sunday meeting voted for a boycott of white-owned businesses to bring pressure for racial changes and immediate integration of the National Guard.

The costs were called in to back up about 200 state police officers.

Guardsmen will remain indefinitely, said Henry Lake, aide to Gov. Robert McNair, who called up the Guard last week.

"We will be moved out when we think things are secure," Lake said.

Meanwhile merchants said a nightly curfew clamped on the town since Friday night by the governor already has taken a heavy economic toll. Negroes began their no-buying campaign Monday, about half the town's population is Negro. Included in Negro demands made Sunday were suspension of police officers "responsible for the police brutality," and restitution by the state to families of the dead and injured together with greater integration of jobs in city and county governments and full scale integration of the schools.

Last week's racial violence climaxd a series of Negro student demonstrations after a Feb. 5 sit-in at a segregated bowling alley, All-Star Tri-angle Inn.

A hearing will be held Thursday in U.S. District Court at Charleston on a Justice Department suit demanding desegregation of the bowling alley.

Shawneetown Scene
Of Stamp Festivities

SHAWNEETOWN (AP) — This Ohio River town relived past days of glory Monday with daylong ceremonies celebrating issuance of a special six-cent stamp honoring Illinois' 150th year of statehood.

The community was chosen for the event because it is the site of the oldest continuous post office in Illinois, going back to 1811. Gov. Otto Kerner, assistant Postmaster General William M. McMillan and other officials joined with 4,000 residents and visitors to mark the occasion.

In stepwith hats and trappers' garb and women wearing black calico dresses and singing church hymns took part in a parade which circled the public square to open the festivities. An overload mail stagecoach, with two men riding shotgun in the rear, floats of small log cabin replicas and two bands also were in the parade.

Kerner wrote a six-cent check making the first purchase of the commemorative stamp. Postmaster Keith Phillips of Shawneetown said his office was swamped by offers and that more than 500,000 stamps were issued on the first day, with requests coming from all over the United States and some foreign countries.

A 21-star American flag was unfurled during the ceremony in recognition of Illinois being the 21st state admitted to the union.

Aid Lawson Teachers

A new electronic Student Responder System in Lawson Hall, designed especially for SIU by General Electric, was viewed recently by SIU's Board of Trustees.

The basic equipment consists of a pushbutton keyboard for each of 81 students, a master control console for the instructor, and a teletype terminal which can transmit either manually typed or automatically punch-taped data via long distance telephone line directly to a computer in Chicago. The computer is programmed to feed back whatever information is required in a matter of seconds.

This enables the instructor to quiz the students, check the accuracy of their answers, and obtain various types of information instantaneously. It also gives the instructor an instant check-up on whether his points are getting across to the class.

The Lawson Hall system also offers instructors numerous audio-visual aids which are part of the SIU Learning Resources Center, such as television, films, overhead and opaque projectors and slides as well as tape, phonograph and mixing sound effects.

Currently in use, 40 hours per week, the responder-equipped classroom is utilized by 13 instructors with approximately 800 students. Some of the courses being taught are measurements in behavioral change, educational statistics, accounting, oral interpretation of literature, and educational psychology.

Main value of the system, according to William J. McKeefer, dean of academic affairs, is that it promotes a closer and more personalized relationship between students and instructor in large classes.

Instructor Talks At State Seminar

Jack F. Leaskoff, professor of government at SIU, was a speaker at an advanced management development seminar for state highway personnel conducted by the University of Illinois Division of Extension at Hot Memorial Center, Monticello.

Before joining the SIU faculty in 1962, Leaskoff served as chairman of the political science department at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, and was a member of the State Legislative Council for 25 years.

He received a Ph.D. degree from the University of Illinois in 1927 and a law degree from the Lincoln College of Law in 1948.

Instructor Should Set Scale

"We're not going to find the perfect grading system," said Troy W. Edwards, assistant dean in the College of Education, "because we don't know at this point what we are trying to evaluate or trying to measure." There are as many different opinions on how to grade as there are ways to grade, Edwards said. He explained that the perfect system is one that you institute on your students' progress.

Today, we need a system of grading," Edwards said, "because employers wish to know what qualifications the employees and universities need a system of determining whom to admit and whom to refuse admission." He said that grades are the basis for making discriminating judgment between two candidates for the same position.

The problems that arise from grading systems are trying to figure out how to be as objective as possible in determining a student's grade, Edwards said.

In making out an objective examination, Edwards added, "an instructor figures out ahead of time what the correct answer will be." In his mind there are two possible answers, a right one and the wrong one, he said. After administering the test, a flaw may be pointed out, and the instructor's judgment is not as objective as he thought it was.

The merits of both the "pass-fail" and the present "point system" both have advantages and disadvantages, he pointed out. Experiments have been carried out in some classes at an Ivy League school, for determining how well the "pass-fail system" works, but they returned to the "point system.

"The pass-fail system is the easy way out," Edwards said. "It just doesn't solve the need. The same questions keep popping up. Students still ask, 'why did I fail?' or 'why don't you raise the border line to include me?'

No two people will ever agree," Edwards said, "and it is difficult to be objective when you look at ourselves. I said. The practical solution to the problem, he said, is for the instructors to set rules for the course the opening day of classes. Edwards said, the student knows how the teacher will arrive at determining grades.

Maybe someday we will be able to arrive at a fair system of determining grade, Edwards said.
Golf Club Salesman Denies He's Pusher

By John Durbin

"Yes, I do sell golf clubs and golf balls, too," explained Barrett Rockman who has been advertising golf club sets for sale more than a year in the Daily Egyptian classified ad section.

Rockman explained that the weekly has been passed around that "my golf club ads are only a front for the sale of drugs" but said he receives at least one call a day during the week and sometimes as many as four or five calls a day on the weekends from individuals seeking drugs.

Rockman, who is from Chicago, is married and the father of four children. He is a graduate student in business administration at SIU, but is not enrolled in school this quarter.

Jokingly, Rockman said that he doesn't mind the calls during the day as much as the ones at two o'clock in the morning.

"Benzedrine, marijuana, LSD and dexedrine are the drugs most often asked for," the golf club salesman said.

Rockman claimed it is funny how some persons who call for drugs "don't believe it when I tell them I sell golf clubs not drugs." He said some of the non-believers will call back a second or third time and rephrase their question in hopes of hitting on the right "cool phrase or code words."

One person called to purchase some drugs and he was told that drugs were not sold, the caller tried again with a different line, "I need to get some golf clubs right away because I am making a trip," the caller explained.

Rockman said he received about 40 golf club sets from his father who formerly owned a sporting goods store. He began running ads in the Daily Egyptian about a year and a half ago. He said, "I have sold around 60 of the sets," he said.

He said that he has some 20 sets of clubs left and when they are sold "that will be it."

In addition to the callers seeking drugs, Rockman said he does receive quite a few legitimate calls from persons wanting to buy golf clubs. Rockman claimed to be puzzled "at first when I got calls from persons wanting to buy nickel and dime bags," he said, "I'm sorry but all I have is golf bags."

Normally callers do not come right out and ask him for drugs. "They usually imply it rather than directly ask for drugs," Rockman said.

The golf club salesman said that he is "surprised at the number of girls who call desiring to buy drugs," he said, "if nothing else all the calls show that there are a lot of persons in Carbondale looking to buy drugs."

"I know there are some persons who call as a joke," he said. "But many are serious."

At one point, Rockman began telling callers seeking drugs to call another phone number, "I gave them the number of the Campus Security Office," he said.

"We changed our racket to drugs this year," Rockman joked. "Last year persons telephoned me for calls girls," he said.

"I hate to think what it will be next year," he added.

Streak Ending Loss Doesn't Faze Coach

By George Kremeneyer

The SIU male gymnasts 68 dual meet winning streak came to an end Saturday night, but Coach Bill Meade isn't sheddin any tears.

"I had to happen sometime," Meade said. "It's good for gymnastics. Everybody wants to see the big winner get beaten. We lost to a great team."

The "great" team was Iowa, and the score was 188.60 to 183.25.

Meade isn't sure if the 68 consecutive wins is the best victory string in college gymnastics but he said "this has to be the best string for a college team that year in year out" out one of four of the top six finishers in the NCAA championships.

Looking back on the string, Meade said he didn't have a team that he thought was the best of all, because, "every team is better than the year preceding, although I have a warm spot for the 1965 team, which didn't win a national championship."

"I had one boy (Bill Wolff) returning from the championship squad. He had an operation on his knee and couldn't work out from May until September," Meade said.

"He and seven sophomores went to the semi-finals of the NCAA, which is unheard of."

Meade pointed out, "You just don't get that kind of mileage out of sophomores. But we did."

"We won many meets during the streak that we shouldn't have won," Meade said. "It's just that the boys weren't smart enough to know that they couldn't win, so they didn't."

Meade himself has won many honors which he said are "directly from the seven-year streak. Among other honors, he has been named Coach of the year by the U.S. Gymnastics Federation; a member of the U.S.G.F. Governing Council; President of the National College Gymnastics Coaches Association; manager of the pre-Olympic team and manager of the 1968 U.S. Men's Gymnastics Team. In the SIU-Iowa meet, Southern led after the first event, floor exercise, 26.85 to 26.60. But then it was downhill for the Salukis."

The side horse event found SIU heavily outscored by the Hawkeyes, 27.50 to 24.05. Two Hawkeyes scored 9.45. The highest SIU could muster was an 8.4 by Stu Smith.

After a standoff on the still rings, SIU was hoping to do to Iowa on the trampoline, but the Hawkeyes did to SIU the same the young high bar and Skip Ray of SIU fell through the tramp, which brought his score down to 4.7, well below his average. Joe Dupree came through with an 8.6 and Dale Harde scored a 9.25, but Iowa surprisingly won the event, 26.65 to 25.15.

Southern was down 107.95 to 103.30, with only three events left, and it was almost impossible to catch up.

Iowa outscored the Salukis in two of the three remaining events to give the Hawkeyes the final winning margin of 5.3 points.

In regard to the possibilities of another 68 dual meet winning streak by Southern, Coach Meade said, "We're going to try, starting on Feb. 21, our next meet."

Their opponent, the University of Iowa.

Former SIU Student Named Business Manager at Lehigh

Craig Anderson, former New York Mets and St. Louis Cardinal baseball pitcher, has been named business manager of athletics at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Penn. He received his masters degree in business education from SIU in 1966.

Anderson started his professional baseball career in 1960, following graduation from Lehigh. The righthander was called up by the St. Louis Cardinals at the end of the 1965 season.

Anderson was picked by the Mets in the expansion draft following the 1962 season. His high point in baseball came in 1962 when he won both ends of a doubleheader against the then Milwaukee Braves while pitching in relief.

Anderson will begin his duties on July 1 of this year. He had been assistant director of development at Lehigh last year, as well as a pitching coach for the Lehigh baseball team.

Women Gymnasts Have Good Weekend

Three SIU women gymnasts did well in the Olympic Trials in New York last weekend despite the fact they had a hectic time getting there.

SIU women gymnasts Joanne Hanson finished 15th, Donna Schaeffer sixth and Linda Scott 13th.

Following their double victory on Friday night over Washington, 142.00 to 139.65, and Michigan State, 67.85 to 65.80, the three SIU gymnasts, along with Joyce Tanac and Carol Pingitore of Washington, were at 10 p.m. for the trials.

The five gymnasts and their coach Herb Vogel flew to St. Louis, caught a commercial flight to New York, drove the rest of the way to New Haven, arriving at 10 p.m.

The gymnasts had one hour of sleep between arriving at their hotel near the Yale University in the start of the competition.

The competition was based on Olympic compulsories and not the optional events. Compulsories are a combination of movements that must be performed in the same order. The gymnast can incorporate them any way she chooses.

"Most of our emphasis has been in the optional work," Vogels said. "Our concentration preparation in the compulsories will start after the regular season ends.

The expected battle in the Seaburns-McKee meet between SIU's Miss Schaeffer and Miss Tanac, from the University of Washington, was all it had been billed to be. After three of the four events, Miss Schaeffer was leading Miss Tanac in the all-around, 26.95 to 26.90.

Floor exercise was the last event, and Miss Schaeffer missed a 9.25 to Miss Tanac's 8.95 to outrace the Washington girl for the first time since their competition last year in the SIU-Washington meet.

Miss Scott won the balance beam with a 9.2, with Terry Spencer and Miss Hashimoto tying for third with an 8.9.

The SIU - MSU meet was closer than Vogel expected, Sue Rogers was expected to lead her team, but could not do it. She injured her lower back.

Miss Rogers got into trouble on the balance beam and fell off, costing her two points. She was given a 7.3 for the event, and an overall total of 33.30.

Except for Miss Rogers, a junior, the squad that faced the Vandals was comprised of freshmen.

Swimmers Defeat Nebraska; Team Record Evened at 4-4

Saluki swimmers evened their record at 4-4 following a 5-4 victory over the University of Nebraska Friday at Lincoln.

The next action for the swimmers is the Southern Intercollegiate Championships at Athens, Ga., Thursday through Saturday.

Bruce Steiner led SIU as he did in Thursday's meet in 10:39.5 and the 300 yard freestyle in 15:12.2, Steiner in the time of 1,000 freestyle was a Nebraska pool record.

He also scored six other firsts: 400 yard medley relay team won with a time of 4:24.4, Glenn Baker, 200 yard butterfly (2:04.4), Scott Connell, 100 yard freestyle (50.2), Tom Ulrich, 200 yard backstroke (2:08.8), Bruce Jacobson, 200 yard breaststroke (2:24.2), and Ed Moczy, 50 yard freestyle (22.3), a pool record.

Frazier in Contention
For Rookie of the Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Knicks feel they have a candidate to challenge Baltimo­re’s Earl "The Pearl" Monroe for Rookie of the Year honors in Walt Frazier, one of the leaders in the Knicks’ surge to third place in the National Basketball Associa­tion.

Frazier, the 6-foot-4 Little All-American from SIU, has been averaging only .8 points a game but he has taken over the playmaking role and is making moves like Oscar Rob­ertson.

The quick-handed newcom­er has improved game by game, and he had the Phila­delphia 76ers raving about him after the Knicks whumph­ing the league champions 115-98 in the last game in old Madison Square Garden.

Frazier scored 23 points, had 15 assists, grabbed 15 rebounds, made several im­portant steals and harassed Philadelphia’s sharp shooting Hal Greer on defense. Greer, with his 8 points, had Frazier guarding him most of the way, scored only 15 points in 41 minutes.

The Knicks now hand the ball to Walt to bring down the court, and he often takes it right down the middle to the basket for lay-ups.

“Walt is getting better in every game,” said Paul Hol­mes, the Knicks coach, who replaced Dick McGuire, Mon­day. “He handles himself real well on offense and de­fense.”

Frazier was especially happy about holding down Greer, who has been averaging about 23 points a game.

Salukis End 5-Game Slump,
Face St. Louis Thursday

Oscar Moore, SIU’s star distance runner and Olympic hopeful, is suffering from an injury to his heel and there’s a possibility he will be out of competition for the remain­der of the year. Moore holds several University records.

According to Track Coach Lew Hartzog, Moore has a swollen tendon about an inch thick behind his ankle. He feels no pain except when he puts pressure on it while running.

“We hope Oscar won’t have to be operated on,” said Hartzog. “If he does he is definitely out for the rest of the season.”

An orthopedic surgeon who has a practice in Carbondale is treating Moore but would not divulge any information about the injury without written per­mission from Moore.

He did say, however, that tests are still being made and that early in March he may know whether or not Moore will have to be operated on.

Hartzog explained that the injury was probably caused by a combination of constant running and changing from high to low heeled shoes.

“It’s hard to tell about these things,” said Hartzog. “When you catch them in time it can be taken care of, but some­times they sneak up on you. “It’s a shame it happened,” added the SIU coach. “This fall he was running better than at any time in his life.”

At present, Moore is schoo­lastically ineligible but is working out daily on the 10-mile course.

Salukis played one of their finest games all season, winning the Southwest Missouri Bears at Springfield.

Saluki Wild Bill Griffin, came off a miserable scoring slump and scored 23 points to cap­ture the game honors. The speedy junior hit on seven of 11 shots from the field and nine of 14 from the free throw line to account for his totals.

Nine of Griffin’s points came in overtime as he kept the Salukis in the running.

The Bears, after leading at the intermission 33-30, went on top by nine, 46-37, before two of the Bears’ three 6-7 players, Curtis Perry and Louis Shepherd, went to the bench, each with four personal foul.

Their height ad­vantage gone, the Bears saw their lead dwindle as Southern came through with 15 straight points and went on top 52-48, with 38c left to play.

The Bears put on a full court press and a jumper by Chuck Williams from 15 feet out with 21 seconds to play to play­ed it at a fast pace and the game went into the first overtime period.

In the final seconds of the extended period the Salukis found themselves up by a 63-­60 count but the Bears’ Greg Mesko and Max Gee scored to offset a charity loss by Craig Taylor and the game was tied again, 64-64.

Southern outscored the Bears 11-6 in the final over­time to win.

The victory snapped a 5-game winning streak for the Bears.
