Asbestos in library triggers search

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

Asbestos, which has been linked to cancer and other health problems, has been found in building materials in Morris Library and campus officials have started a campuswide search for other affected sites.

John Meister, director of Pollution Control—the University office handling the search—is out of town. John Hicks, a safety officer at Pollution Control, declined to discuss the matter when reached at his office by phone.

The cleanup confirmed worries about asbestos that some library employees have had for years.

"I've been sitting down here breathing this stuff for 10 years," said John Keiffer, a storekeeper at shipping and receiving. "I've had it fall on me and had to brush it off, and all this time they've been telling me it's not asbestos."

Keiffer said a sample of the material from the ceiling of shipping and receiving was given to Pollution Control in 1985. Meister said then that lab results showed that it was not asbestos, Keiffer said.

Pollution Control has tested air quality in the receiving room twice in the past three years and did not mention a problem with asbestos until the day before it was removed, Keiffer said.

The dusty matter began falling off the ceiling about five years ago. The building manager at that time did not have it tested and told Keiffer it was most likely wood fibers, Keiffer said.

Reagan gives more time to Tower panel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Reagan faced more than an hour of questioning Wednesday from the Tower Commission about the secret Iran arms sales and agreed to give the panel more time to wrap up its inquiry into a tangled web of National Security Council operations.

Congressional investigators now suspect that $10.5 million in money from the multiple Iranian arms deals went to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels—most of it from a $15 million loan for the deal from Saudi Arabian middleman Adnan Khashoggi, a source said.

The disclosure provided the most detailed estimate yet of the dimension of the diversion to the Contras of funds linked to the Iran arms sales.

The issue of secret—and possibly illegal—aid to the Nicaraguan resistance movement is one of several in the affair that provoked special House and Senate investigations and the appointment of a federal special prosecutor.

Reagan named the Tower Commission late last year to review the workings of the NSC, the White House agency where officials allegedly were involved in the Iranian weapons sales and diversion of money to aid the Contras.

Reagan's meeting with the three-member Special Review Board, headed by former Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, was his second. Going into the session, the board members had the benefit of reviewing some of the president's private notes covering the 18-month covert initiative toward Iran that was exposed last November.

The president met with the panel for 70 minutes Wednesday, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said, and "answered all of the board's questions."

The meeting "reviewed the National Security Council process and the development and execution of the Iran policy and the president's role," he said.

Also sitting in were David Abshire, former NATO ambassador who the president named as a special adviser on the scandal, and Peter Wallison, the White House legal counsel.

Fitzwater said the board had "requested, and the president granted, an extension of one week to produce its report," meaning the group's report is due by Feb. 26, rather than Feb. 19.

Governor advocates tax boost for road, sewer improvements

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

Gov. James Thompson came to Southern Illinois Wednesday to encourage public support for tax increases to fund state projects that include improving Illinois Route 13 between Carbondale and St. Louis and renovating Carbondale's wastewater treatment plant.

The governor addressed a proposed 9.5 cent gasoline tax increase and a $17 auto licence plate fee boost, which would begin fiscal year 1988, to help fund a five-year, $6.25 billion highway and public transportation program.

Thompson outlined his taxing proposals before about 20 people, including members of the media, at Southern Illinois Airport. The news conference was part of a six-city flyaround Thompson made to promote his tax plans.

"The bottom line is that if Illinois isn't working, the people of Illinois won't work," Thompson said of the need for the improvements.

Thompson and Gregory Baise, Illinois Department of Transportation secretary, stressed that Route 13 would be widened in some areas, but a four-lane highway proposed by U.S. Sen. Ken Gray probably wouldn't materialize.

"I don't think a Carbondale to St. Louis freeway will come out of Congress," Thompson said.

Based on use studies conducted by IDOT, "That highway is not called for now," Baise said.

Thompson also promoted a $332 million supplement to "Build Illinois" that would allow the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to bring 236 wastewater treatment facilities statewide into compliance with federal clean water standards.

Build Illinois is a $2.3 billion renewal of the state's public works foundation that Thompson signed

Shiite leader planning deal to free hostages

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI)—Lebanese Shiite Moslem militia leader Nabih Berri said Wednesday he is making a list of 400 Arab prisoners he wants Israel to swap for a captured Israeli airman in a deal aimed at freeing four hostages in Beirut.

But Berri, speaking in Damascus, said he will try to initiate negotiations on the trade with Israel only after Moslem fundamentalists in Beirut release three kidnapped Americans and an Indian-born U.S. resident.

Held hostage are Americans Alann Steen, 47, Robert Polhill, 52, Jesse Turner, 39, and Indian-born U.S. resident Mithleshwar Singh, 60—all professors at Beirut University College.

A group called the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine abducted the four men last month. The kidnapers had said they would kill the hostages at midnight last Monday if Israel failed to free the jailed Arabs. However, the group postponed the deadline, citing hopes that a deal might be worked out.

"The delaying of the threat by the Islamic Jihad was a good sign but it was not enough," Berri said.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said that if a "substantive" approach is made regarding the Israeli airman, "We will examine it. We will see. We will think."

Shamir noted no such contact had been made, but he said when human life is involved "there are sometimes exceptional cases" to Israel's policy of refusing to negotiate with terrorists.

Iraqi planes bomb Iran during anniversary march

ATHENS, Greece (UPI)—Iraqi warplanes Wednesday bombed at least 11 Iranian cities where thousands of people were marching to mark the eighth anniversary of the 1979 Iranian revolution, Iran said. Iran also claimed commando units of its elite Revolutionary Guards attacked Iraqi forces in the northern Kurdish areas, killing or wounding many soldiers. A military spokesman in Baghdad denied the attack occurred. Tehran radio said Iranian commandos assisted by anti-government Iraqi Kurdish guerrillas attacked a garrison at Diana and a radar station near Arbil, deep inside Iraq.

S. Africans 'not available' to talk of report

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI)—Secretary of State George Shultz is not welcome in South Africa to discuss recommendations by a presidential advisory panel for more anti-apartheid sanctions, Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha said Wednesday. The committee urged Tuesday immediate and widespread international sanctions to battle apartheid, South Africa's official policy of racial segregation. "Mr. Shultz will not be welcome to talk about a report of that nature," Botha said in a brief interview on the late-evening news on state-owned television. "We are not available for that."

China sets limits for foreign correspondents

PEKING (UPI)—China put foreign correspondents on notice Wednesday that they will be expelled if they try to obtain state secrets, travel in restricted area or enter university campuses posing as teachers or students. Lawrence MacDonald, an American reporter for the French news agency Agence France-Presse, was expelled Jan. 30 for activities "incompatible with his status" as a journalist. Authorities accused him of obtaining intelligence data from a Chinese student.

6 youths arrested in riot following protest

MADRID, Spain (UPI)—Extreme right-wing youths, many wearing Nazi emblems, skirmished with riot police Wednesday at the end of a march by thousands of students and workers protesting the socialist government's education policies. Students blocked traffic in at least 10 cities and marched in most of Spain's 34 provinces, but no major incidents were reported.

Bill says Court's Roe-vs-Wade decision 'erred'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Health Secretary Otis Bowen sent Congress a bill to ban all federal assistance for abortions and any group that refers women to services that provide abortion, officials said Wednesday. The legislation Bowen sent Capitol Hill late Tuesday also would declare that the landmark 1973 Supreme Court ruling permitted most abortions "erred in not recognizing the humanity of the unborn child and the compelling interest of the several states to protect the life of each person before birth."

Counsel hired to probe Contra activities

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee announced Wednesday it has hired a special counsel to continue its probe into allegations of drug running and other illegal activities by Nicaraguan Contras. A spokesman for chairman Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said Washington attorney Jack A. Blum will fill the post, continuing an investigation he started last year.

Shultz: U.S. won't jump gun on 'Star Wars'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State George Shultz said Wednesday the administration will not deploy the first stage of "Star Wars" until it has a "clear, confident idea" of how the entire system would work. Shultz also said the administration will "proceed promptly" to consult with Congress on whether to adopt a broad interpretation of the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile treaty that would allow extensive testing of elements of the space-based anti-missile shield popularly known as "Star Wars."

Jesuit priest expelled for support of gays

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jesuit priest John McNeill said Wednesday he has been formally expelled from the religious order for his public dissent from church teaching on homosexuality and said he has appealed his ouster. McNeill, 61, author of "The Church and the Homosexual," was officially silenced for a decade by the Vatican for his views, but he began to speak out in defiance of the ban after last fall's Vatican declaration that homosexuality is a "disordered" state and a moral evil.

Book facility takes shape

By Dave Wrone
Staff Writer

Roof construction on SIU-C's new library storage facility has been started, according to William Orrill, vice president of Morgan Commercial Structure. Morgan is contracting the operation.

Orrill said the roof for the 30,000-square-foot building will be in place within 10 days. After the roof is completed, dry-walling will begin. He said electrical and mechanical specialists are now roughing the walls in preparation for the installation of wiring, heating, and cooling systems.

The state-funded, $1.5 million project is located on McLafferty Road. Its two-level, two-tier design will contain a 500,000 volume storage capacity, in addition to housing micrographics material, university architect Allen Haake said.

Haake said footing, foundation and underground work was started last fall, but cold weather forced postponement of frame construction and other heavy work until this January.

Morgan Commercial Structure is scheduled to meet with Morris Library's bookstacking committee next week to discuss coordination of the move-in process.

Orrill said the storage facility should be completed in June or July.

Militia holds food from Palestinians

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The Shiite Muslim Amal militia, ignoring worldwide appeals, turned back relief convoys Wednesday before they arrived at a besieged Palestinian refugee camp where residents reportedly have been forced to eat dogs, cats and rats to survive.

Two trucks loaded with rice, flour and potatoes were stopped by the Amal militia before entering the sprawling Bourj Al Barajneh refugee camp in southern Beirut, home for some 11,000 Palestinians.

The Amal militia postponed the dispatch of relief supplies because it said Palestinian fighters Wednesday had not first withdrawn from the hilltop strategic village of Maghdousheh, 24 miles south of Beirut.

The PLO guerrillas captured Maghdousheh within rifle range of Amal's main coastal supply route to the south during house-to-house fighting in November.

The Shiite militia accused supporters of Yasser Arafat, leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, of blocking a Syrian and Libyan-mediated agreement reached Tuesday in Damascus.

Under the pact, both sides agreed that a cease-fire Wednesday in and around Bourj Al Barajneh and Shatila and a Palestinian pullout from Maghdousheh should precede the dispatch of food supplies into the camps.

"We refuse to hand over our positions in Maghdousheh to Amal," said a Palestinian spokesman, who refused to allow his name to be used.

Despite the cease-fire agreement, police said exchanges of sniper fire escalated late Wednesday.

City should reject betting parlor idea

CARBONDALE IS ONE of several Southern Illinois cities being considered as a location for an off-track betting parlor linked to Fairmount Park in Collinsville. Under legislation legalizing off-track betting in Illinois, a 2 percent surcharge on winnings, as well as tax dollars from food and liquor sold at the betting parlors, would flow to local governments where the parlors are located.

That part of the legislation makes it very attractive to cities like Carbondale, which has been hit hard by the loss of federal revenue sharing funds. But the propriety of such a scheme is another matter. Local government should not seek to enrich itself through gambling, which for many has become a vice as hard to shake as alcoholism or drug addiction.

Consider the demographics of Southern Illinois. The area already is in an economic slump. Tempting people to throw their money away on a bet is diametrically opposed to one of the self-appointed missions of local government—improving the area's economy.

PROPOSONENTS OF OFF-TRACK BETTING also tout the power of betting parlors to draw "tourists" from other states where such betting is illegal. Does Southern Illinois really need a tourist industry based on gambling? Surely it would be better to promote the area's natural wonders, its forests, lakes and streams. Little Egypt should not be turned into a Little Las Vegas.

So far, city officials have been silent on the issue, neither encouraging nor discouraging officials at Fairmount. We would hope they come to the conclusion that the ultimate aim of off-track betting is not to help local government, but to allow race tracks to reap bigger profits.

Society needs Family and Medical Leave Act

St Louis Post-Dispatch

Last Tuesday (2-3-87), the Family and Medical Leave Act was introduced in Congress, sponsored by Reps. William Clay and Patricia Schroeder and Sen. Christopher Dodd. Last year, the Senate refused even to schedule hearings on it. This year, the Senate, under Democratic leadership, has set the first hearing for Feb. 19.

That augurs well for the bill, which would require employers to give up to 26 weeks of unpaid leave for a serious illness and up to 18 weeks of unpaid leave in the event of a birth, adoption, or serious illness of a child or dependent parent. While some states already have statutes granting unpaid pregnancy leave, the Family and Medical Leave Act would make such leave a national policy. More, it recognizes the rights of fathers as well as mothers to be with newborns; it ends discriminatory treatment against fathers on the occasion of their children's birth; it recognizes adopted children as just as deserving of parental attention as all others; and it takes account of the increasing number of elderly who live with their adult children.

Business groups rail against what they perceive to be the inconvenience and cost of the bill. If a tally were made of the social costs involved in not permitting such leave, though, it would have to include the high price government pays when the elderly poor are not cared for in homes, and the cost to society of children who suffer from lack of parental attention—a price paid in delinquency, wasted educational resources, and ultimately, lost lives.

This is not to say the Family and Medical Leave Act is a panacea for society's ills. Surely it is not. The bill can provide a measure of relief, however, for parents who are struggling to knit enduring bonds of love in their families. There are precious few things the government can do to foster this. Passage of the Family and Medical Leave Act is one of them.

White South Africans should not pretend that apartheid is dead

A recent Southern Illinoisan article presented the arguments of a white South African couple about the "faulty picture U.S. media" have of the racial-political turmoil in that country.

It is an absolute shame for privileged white South Africans to claim that "Apartheid is dead". Only the victims of this modern Nazism can accurately assert whether the racist oppression is ending or not. Even in this day, Black people suffer under the repression of the white minority regime. The facts speak for themselves: citizenship, voting rights, freedom of movement and speech, and land and housing rights are denied to the Black Africans, Coloreds, and Asians. For David and Abigail Trout to dismiss our leaders Nelson Mandela and Bishop Desmond Mpilo Tutu as phonies, and to say that the A.N.C. is a "sham-show" borders on the asininity characteristic of Jerry Falwell and the Ku Klux Klan. Furthermore, only racist inclinations would lead someone to state that "responsible South Africans do not want a take-over by a Black government."

To imply that the best government is a non-Black one suggests that the Trouts suffer from the delusion of white superiority. This is quite typical of the Apartheid Boer mentality that justifies the torture, imprisonment, shootings and killings of thousands of Black human beings. Until we bring that regime to its knees, we Black people will never tolerate these foolish statements aywhere.

Reforming Apartheid is not what is needed. Such action merely places golden chains on an enslaved majority population. In fact, the sanctions imposed on South Africa by the U.S. do nothing for Black people; they serve to knock sense into those recalcitrant white minority racists. At this point in history, Black people do not want an inferior education. They want complete liberation because they prefer to be human beings taking their rightful place in destiny.

All that garbage about U.S. media being misled about South Africa begs the question of press freedom there. The banning of ABC reporters, the expulsion of New York Times newsmen and restrictions on writing on the continuing unrest clearly shows the regime's fear of exposure of its inhuman crimes against its people. Only the gullible would think that a biased picture is being presented, of Botha's good intentions, because he has none.

Finally, it is unfortunate that Mrs. Trout purports to be the spokesperson for the Apartheid ideology when she is not even South African by birth. That her husband is an apologist for that racist government is understandable because he belongs to the upper-class white group that feels threatened. Still, their ignorance of the true conditions in that anguished society demonstrates a spiritual and moral blindness we never knew exist —Dennis and Nono Makhudu, South Africans.

Basketball fans should cheer, not coach

This letter is in response to Mr. Grimm's Feb. 10 comment "Coach Herrin is not up to college standards." Should a person who has seen a total of five games be qualified to judge a man who has coached for 26 years? I should think not! When the going is tough, it is easy to second guess moves that are made during a game from a safe seat in the stands or in your home. It is at these times when coaches need support and not backyard coaching criticism.

Each one of the teams Mr. Grimm cited were big favorites to win. To stay close and play well is a tribute to Rich Herrin's coaching, and the hard work and hustle of his players. Excitement is back in Saluki basketball due to Coach Herrin and the dedication of his players. One needs to look only as far as the recent victory over Illinois State to see Rich Herrin's coaching abilities, a game I am sure Mr. Grimm missed.

Given a couple of years to recruit quality players, SIU-C will win once again be a contender in the Missouri Valley Conference. What we can do to help is go to the games and cheer, not coach.—Brian P. Brown, graduate, social work.

library and the Physical Plant. Meister said the mixture of wood fibers, cellulose and dust on the ceiling has an asbestos level lower than what would violate EPA safety standards. Keiffer said. There also is asbestos on the ceilings of the first and second floors, but it is not at a high enough level for removal, he said.

EPA guidelines restrict asbestos content to 0.2 fibers per cubic centimeter or less. Meister did not inform library staff what the asbestos levels at the library are, Keiffer said.

DALE REIMAN, assistant director of the Physical Plant, said an asbestos survey of the entire campus is being done by John A. Jurgiel and Associates of St. Louis. Jurgiel said he would not comment on the company's findings to "maintain client confidentiality."

The asbestos at the library was removed by the United Thermal company. Reiman said. Keiffer added that a 12 X 8 foot area of asbestos was removed from the ceiling.

THE TUESDAY after the cleanup was done, chunks of the ceiling material were on the floor, which Keiffer said he and a student worker swept up themselves.

Since the ventilation in the shipping and receiving room is poor, the dust is thicker than in other parts of the building, Keiffer said. "People complain about the air in here all the time," he said.

"One of the scary things about being down here is that there's a big air intake system that's all full of the scum," said Andrew Babcock, a student worker in the receiving department.

McFarlane doing well after Valium overdose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert McFarlane, a key figure in the Iran-Contra scandal who took a drug overdose, appeared to be doing well Wednesday, his lawyer said, and the White House said President Reagan is "concerned and upset" about his former aide.

The former national security adviser's apparent suicide attempt also upset Texas millionaire H. Ross Perot, who worked closely with the administration in efforts to free American hostages abducted in Lebanon.

McFarlane, hospitalized at Bethesda Naval Hospital, took an overdose of Valium tablets on Monday and slipped into

White House takes stance on anti-terrorism policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration took a hard line Wednesday on the hostage crisis in Lebanon in a bid to restore credibility to an anti-terrorism policy undermined by perceptions of arms-for-hostages deals with Iran.

The White House and State Department, holding a stance laid down at the first rumblings of a deal in the works, disavowed any U.S. role in or knowledge of negotiations to free three Americans and an Indian national held captive in Lebanon since last month.

In Damascus, Syria, Lebanese Moslem Shiite leader Nabih Berri brought four of the latest hostages into the framework of a deal

ANOTHER STUDENT worker in that department said that when the heating vents are cleaned in the fall, chunks of the ceiling material blow through the room, which employees have to clean up.

The same student informed John Grigas chief of staff of the Undergraduate Student Organization, of the situation. Grigas said they would investigate the situation with campus officials before introducing legislation.

ELECTRICIANS AT the library refuse to work on the lights, which collect layers of the dust, without wearing masks, Keiffer said. An employee on the first floor said electricians have mentioned that one of the worst areas of the library for the dust is above the first floor circulation desk.

Library employees from the Civil Service Executive Board are trying to find more information about the extent of the asbestos problem at Morris and the effects it will have on employees.

"WE NEVER saw any actual air sample reports. We didn't see these papers ourselves, they (Pollution Control) told us all this," said board member Barbara Youther.

"Our question is, 'Would medical personnel agree with what they say is safe?' We have read that there isn't a safe level and that's why we're asking questions," she said.

YOUTHER SAID they are contacting the regional asbestos coordinator in Chicago and the White Lung Association in Edwardsville. The association helps people semi-consciousness at his family home in the Maryland suburbs. An emergency ambulance took him to the hospital.

"He's doing all right today," said Leonard Garment, McFarlane's attorney.

Lt. Russell Sanford, a hospital spokesman, reported McFarlane's condition Wednesday was officially listed as "good."

Neither Sanford nor Garment knew when McFarlane would be released from the sprawling medical facility, which routinely treats presidents—including Reagan—and other government leaders.

centering on the exchange of a captured Israeli airman in Lebanon for 400 Palestinian prisoners in Israel.

Asked whether the United States might give tacit endorsement to such an arrangement to win release of the four hostages, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said, "We don't make deals. We don't encourage other countries to do it, either."

The hard line on the hostages apparently stems from a desire within the White House—traced by some officials to national security adviser Frank Carlucci—to demonstrate the arms shipments to Iran were an aberration in U.S. policy.

who suffer from asbestos-related diseases.

Once asbestos fibers are imbedded in the lungs, they remain there permanently. EPA information lists the diseases associated with asbestos as asbestosis, a debilitating lung disease; mesothelioma, a rare cancer of the chest and abdominal lining; and cancers of the lung, esophagus, stomach, colon and other organs.

COMBINING SMOKING with occupational exposure to asbestos increases the lung cancer rate above the rate attributed to either smoking or asbestos exposure alone, the EPA says.

Keiffer said he knew of five library employees with lung cancer since he has worked there, three of whom have died. Youther said several library employees complain of chronic sinus problems, severe allergy problems and chronic respiratory problems.

"PEOPLE DON'T realize it (the air quality at the library) until they're there over a period of hours and notice they don't feel good," Youther said.

Keiffer said he experienced colds and upper respiratory problems more than he had before working at the library and will have tests done for other effects the asbestos may have had on him.

"If I quit working here tomorrow, 20 years from now this stuff would still be in my lungs," Keiffer said.

"I think this problem isn't just in the library. This is probably one of the biggest things to be hushed up on campus because this stuff is deadly."

into law in 1985.

Carbondale, Ava and Grand Tower are the three areas in Jackson County slated for an unspecified amount of funding.

Funding for the wastewater treatment projects would come from extending a sales tax to computer software and eliminating the sales tax exemption on over-the-counter drugs, Thompson said. The existing sales tax exemption on prescription drugs would not be affected.

The 9.5 cent gas tax increase would be implemented over a five-year period, from 1988 to 1992, at about 2 cents each year. Eventually the state's gas tax would be 22.5 cents per gallon.

The 17 licence plate fee increase would mean Illinoisans would have to pay $65 for an auto registration.

"If people in Illinois really mean what they've been telling me about their transportation needs, then they'll be willing to pay" for the increases, Thompson said.

But 58th District State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, in attendance at the press conference, said he didn't think Thompson's road program "is marketable down here."

'Shoulder-rubbing' writer to mingle with students

By Mary Caudle
Staff Writer

In the course of his career, playwright James Prideaux has rubbed shoulders and worked with actors and actresses: Patrick Duffy, Katherine Hepburn and Meryl Streep.

This weekend he will be rubbing shoulders with a different crowd: SIU-C students.

Prideaux will be visiting campus to meet and talk with students and faculty Friday and Saturday. His visit is being sponsored by the Student Theater Guild.

Prideaux, an Indiana native, has been writing plays for 20 years, he said in a telephone interview. His early plays were written for the Albee-Barr-Wilder Playwrights Unit in New York City. Now he is considered "hot property," with numerous Broadway plays and television movies to his credit.

His most noted works are "Mrs. Delafield Wants To Marry," a television movie that starred Hepburn, and "The Last of Mrs. Lincoln," a Hollywood Television Theater production that starred Julie Harris, Duffy, Robby Benson, Michael Cristofer and Linda Lelsey.

Wide-spread recognition has its benefits and costs, Prideaux said, stating that his popularity ensures that he keeps busy and has a job.

His schedule is solid proof of that. He is working on two projects: "The Hollywood Girls," a television movie for CBS that will star several former MGM musical stars, and "Guest Appearance," in which Hepburn stars, for NBC.

Recognition gives him no advantage, he said, when it comes to stage plays, an arena in which having a "name" really has no impact.

The "crippled" state of theater in New York and increased competition, he said, makes it harder to get a play produced today than it was 20 years ago.

Prideaux still spends much of his time writing plays for the stage and other media. He said all his plays contain a message of some sort, but ideas for his scripts come from anywhere and never focus on any one topic.

Working with stage theater and film has enabled him to maintain a variety of subject matter, style and medium in his work, he said.

A reception, in which students and faculty will have the chance to talk with the playwright, is scheduled at 4 p.m. Friday in the Communications Lounge.

A question and answer session with Prideaux is scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday in the Laboratory Theater.

An Evening of Entertainment will be held at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, also in the Laboratory Theater. The show will feature staged portions of Prideaux scripts by the Student Theater Guild.

Faculty exhibit to feature cinematographers' works

Work by faculty members in the Department of Cinema and Photography will be featured in a month-long exhibit that opens Friday at the University Museum.

A public reception will be held at 6 p.m. Friday. Short films by Lilly A. Boruszkowski, Michael D. Covell and Anthony J. Williams, all of Carbondale and Loren D. Cocking of Murphysboro, will be shown.

Hurst; Covell, James R. Huginin, W. Duane Powell and Charles A. Swedlund, all of Carbondale.

The exhibit will be on display through March 12 at the Museum. The museum is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sundays when classes are in session.

The exhibit will include works that range from the traditional to computer-based imagery by acting cinema and photography chairperson David A. Gilmore, Murphysboro; Gary P. Kolb,

Poll: Alcohol relaxes some women

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most women responding to a survey published Wednesday said alcohol loosens their sexual inhibitions and some believe a few drinks makes them more sexually assertive.

The poll of 917 women and published in Mademoiselle magazine said the results proved an "occasional drink" may help a woman relax.

The survey of women, conducted by Wilsnack and sociologist Albert Klassen, also of the University of North Dakota, showed 22 percent of those polled reported alcohol made them more sexually assertive and eight percent said they became less choosy about their bed partners.

Dwain Epps of the National Council of Churches, noting that the group has fostered face-to-face meetings between U.S. and Soviet citizens for 30 years, said, "Many Americans will find 'Amerika's' portrayal of a jack-booted occupation army provocative and irresponsible.

'Amerika' called threat to peace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Church leaders from mainline agencies and historic peace churches warned Wednesday the ABC miniseries "Amerika" "borders on the slanderous" and will undermine efforts at world peace.

But all the leaders also stressed they did not want to see the show canceled or censored but rather challenged, explained and put in context.

"We should not attempt to have ABC cancel the miniseries or change the script," said Mennonite Peter Dyck. "Free speech is not an empty phrase, and we need to respect that."

The miniseries, which begins Sunday, portrays the United States 10 years after the Soviet Union, with the aid of a U.N. peace-keeping force, takes control.

Although most critics of the series have not seen the entire show, they say available scripts, ABC's own descriptions and the small portions that have been shown to advertisers and others are enough to indicate the show's nature.

Country Music

FRED'S could present The Elmer Fudd Marching Band and with the atmosphere of the Barn and 3 beers you would think you were listening to Alabama. But every so often we do have something special. Last season it was Ken Carlyle and the Cadillac Cowboys. When we told you Ken was the best Country "Showman" in the Midwest, 790 of you know we didn't lie. This season we bring you Nite Life. In our view this band is the best "musical" country band in the Midwest.

Two years ago Cedar Creek and Country Lovin' broke up. Last fall members of both groups reformed into a seven piece group called Nite Life. They sell in the four-part harmonies of the Oakridge Boys and the Starlar Brothers. They have a female singer that can knock your socks off (knowing that when you come to Fred's, make sure your feet are clean), and a sax player that gives them a sound dimension unheard of outside a Nashville studio.

If you come to Fred's only one time this season, this is the party you shouldn't miss.

Black 'power' creates freedom, student says

By Catherine Simpson
Staff Writer

America "is going down," says Don Smith, senior in administration of justice. Blacks must unite or they "will go down with her."

He called Tuesday for the unity of blacks at a lecture that paid tribute to Malcolm X, a civil rights leader who was assassinated in the 1960s.

Luke Tripp, assistant professor in the School of Social Work, also spoke of black unity. Tripp believes Malcolm X and Martin Luther King stood for unity to improve black rights.

BUT SMITH said King attempted to take away black peoples' right to defend themselves. But they have that right, he added.

Both King and Malcolm X were assassinated at the age of 39, but that is where the similarity stops, Tripp said. King was a minister and had a higher education.

Whites plead innocent in march attack

CUMMING, Ga. (UPI) — Five of seven whites arrested during an attack on a civil rights march pleaded innocent Wednesday, and black leaders urged the governor to drop charges against activists who picketed a television talk show.

One of the seven whites—James Gaydon of Cumming, 21, charged with carrying a concealed weapon—did not show up for the arraignment and Judge Frank Mills issued a bench warrant for his arrest.

Junior Reese Staton, 56, pleaded guilty to criminal trespassing and will be sentenced in two or three weeks after a pre-sentencing investigation.

The other five were arraigned on charges of battery, carrying concealed weapons, impersonating police officers and obstructing law officers.

The seven were charged Jan. 17 when a small band of marchers celebrating Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday were attacked by whites hurling bricks and bottles. An eighth man, Harold Palmer, pleaded guilty last week to criminal trespass.

Fifty-six more people were arrested on a variety of charges a week later when 20,000 people went to Cumming under National Guard protection to march in protest of the attack.

But Sheriff Wesley Walraven said those who made trouble during the marches do not represent Forsyth County and added, "It's the same element we have problems every Saturday night with."

Oprah Winfrey's Chicago-based, syndicated television talk show originated from Cumming Monday, and activists picketed the program because blacks were excluded from the audience. Winfrey, who is black, said she excluded blacks to give Cumming citizens a chance to explain their feelings without confrontation.

One of the eight people arrested for picketing the show was the Rev. Hosea Williams, an organizer of the marches held in the all-white county.

Malcolm X was a dropout and a drug abuser, he added.

King projected a vision of a good America with traditional Christian values coming together and making America a beautiful land, said Tripp.

MALCOM X believed America to be corrupt and ugly, and "decent human beings" should not want to be a part of America, Tripp said. He wanted blacks to build a new society from the ground up.

Blacks had built "the best civilization ever known" before being brought to American and used as slaves, Smith said. Whites "stole everything from the black people," he added.

TO SURVIVE, blacks must separate themselves from the white value system in which having clothes, homes and cars is the most important goal, Smith said.

When blacks were freed from slavery, they were not united because they were "too in love with their slavemasters to follow their own leaders," Smith said. But the leaders live on in the black people, he added.

It is time to stop singing and stand up and take a stance, said Smith.

Smith said whites attempt to use psychology on the black mind by using a Caucasian Jesus, which makes blacks believe they are fighting Jesus when they challenge whites, said Smith.

FOLLOWING THE criticisms of whites and the government, Smith said he doesn't think whites are to blame for all the blacks' problems. Whites don't "force drugs, crime and prostitution on the black people."

Smith attributed the development of a national drug program to the surfacing of a drug problem among whites. Blacks have had the problem a long time, but no one cared, he said.

Zionists are calling the shots in American government, he said. Beer and pornography are examples of "what Zionists are responsible for."

THINGS WILL change for the blacks when they stand up for one another, said Smith.

"Free is a condition that comes with power," said Tripp. "Power creates a condition for freedom. That's why the issue went from freedom now to black power."

Bond for Finders is justified, official says

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The $100,000 bond for two Finders group members facing misdemeanor child abuse charges is justified by the mystery surrounding the case and six children found with the men, the prosecutor said Wednesday.

The men, who have given their names as Doug Ammerman and Michael Houlihan, were arraigned on one count each of child abuse. Houlihan also was arraigned for a single misdemeanor count of resisting arrest without violence.

Scott Hunt, Tallahassee police spokesman, said

Tuesday both men had been charged with six counts of child abuse, but Fordham said papers sent by police listed only the single child abuse charge, plus the resisting charge against Houlihan.

Fordham said each charge is for the abuse of all six children.

Slow change expected from Soviet 'openness'

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

Soviet Leader Mikhail Gorbachev's push to demystify world perception of the Soviet Union will benefit that nation in the long run but it won't yield concrete benefits anytime soon, local Soviet Union observers say.

"Gorbachev is trying to introduce a policy of fundamental structural change to loosen up the Soviet Union's political system somewhat," said Ikua Chou, professor of political science and expert in Soviet foreign policy.

IN SOVIET terminology, this fundamental change has been called "glasnost," which roughly translated into English means "openness." The term has become a rallying cry of sorts for Gorbachev's recently accelerated drive to improve Soviet productivity as well as boost the nation's sagging morale, according to Western press reports.

But distrust of the Soviet Union by President Reagan, coupled with Soviet dislike of American-style democracy, will delay real progress from glasnost for up to a decade, Chou said. What's more, Gorbachev won't allow glasnost to weaken the Communist Party's dictatorial hold on the nation's political system.

MANFRED LAN-
DECKER, associate professor of political science and American foreign policy analyst, concurred with Chou.

"There is a great deal of resistance within the Soviet Union to some of the changes," and "Western capitalism is still very suspicious," Lan-decker said.

Furthermore, "the crust of bureaucratization" within the Soviet political system "is still so heavy. It will be hard to break through" the thick middle layer of ministers and regional leaders to institute change, he said.

OLGA ORECHWA, a native of the Soviet Union who is associate professor of Russian in the foreign languages and literatures department, said this new glasnost approach of Gorbachev's will please most Soviets.

She said many of them realize that on the long-standing national policy of collectivism—an economic and political theory advocating collective control, especially over production and distribution—does not work.

The new openness "is not exactly the way Communism should go," but the Soviet people will accept the broader social freedom glasnost is supposed to provide, Orechwa said.

DMITRI SHALIN, assistant professor of sociology, also a native of Russia, said he thinks glasnost shows how much of a hurry Gorbachev is in to bring the Soviet Union into step with the rest of the industrialized world.

"He has a high moralistic streak. He wants everyone to see the same light he does," Shalin said.

"But revolutionary expectations could develop" among Soviet liberals, such as intellectuals, dissidents, students and teachers.

"As he allows more freedom, he will meet up with more people that will take him to his word," particularly the liberals, Shalin said.

"THE TEST CASE for whether glasnost succeeds will be when dissidents and others band together, speak out and criticize the government. If they are harassed by extra-legal means, it will be a sign of failure," he said.

Many international political analysts agree that glasnost is most evident in Gorbachev's actions than in the Soviet Union's political and social institutions, according to news reports. He has freed nearly 200 Soviet dissidents and human rights activists since the first of the year, replaced older members of the Communist hierarchy with younger members and reportedly cleaned house in the allegedly graft-ridden party office of Kazakhstan, a Soviet republic in Central Asia.

BUT LANDECKER said instituting glasnost alone won't curtail the Soviet Union's stagnant development.

"This country needs more imagination and ingenuity to help develop. It takes initiative and planning through various sectors of the society" for change to work, he said. "It can't be ordered down from Moscow."

Chou said the Soviet Union has seen how Japan and West Germany, both devastated during World War II, have become two of the world's most prosperous countries, particularly because neither nation has, until very recently, supported a standing army of its own.

"THE SOVIETS can't borrow into the future like the United States," to pay for its nuclear and non-nuclear arsenals, Chou said. "Their productive strength is about one-third that of the United States" because of the Soviet government's exorbitant military spending.

"But what worries the Russians is that the Reagan administration wants early deployment of the Strategic Defense Initiative"—known as Star Wars—"and that the United States has made clear that its activities in Nicaragua are comparable to what the Soviet Union is doing in Afghanistan."

Jewish emigration rally disrupted by Soviet police

MOSCOW (UPI) — Plainclothes police broke up a demonstration Wednesday by a group of Jews seeking to emigrate to Israel, kicking and punching several of the protesters as bystanders heckled the group with anti-Semitic comments.

The group of 22 Soviet "refuseniks"—Jews who have been refused permission to emigrate to Israel—were allowed to demonstrate on the Arbat pedestrian mall for one and a half hours Monday and for about an hour Tuesday.

But after 20 minutes Wednesday, plainclothes police moved in on the demonstrators, snatched away their placards and kicked and struck several of them, including women, before herding the group off the mall.

Other agents cut a cord on equipment belonging to an ABC News crew, surrounded a French television crew and grabbed cameras from photographers trying to take pictures of the demonstration.

Some Soviets watching the melee shouted anti-Semitic insults.

Reagan: Welfare programs, reform at odds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Reagan heard success stories from the welfare work Wednesday while complaining that many "good ideas" for breaking the dependence of the poor "can't be tried within the bounds of our current welfare system."

Keeping with a weeklong White House theme on welfare reform, Reagan attended a presentation on innovative approaches to anti-poverty programs that sometimes seemed at odds with his recent descriptions of how the current system has failed.

"IN THE area of welfare," he told welfare program of-

"In the area of welfare, I think it's clear today that it's time for those of us in Washington to face up to how little we know."

— Ronald Reagan

ficials during a briefing in the Old Executive Office Building. "I think it's clear today that it's time for those of us in Washington to face up to how little we know."

Minor contradictions emerged as Reagan heard community leaders from Ohio, Virginia, California and the District of Columbia describe the kind of experimental self-help programs he wants to see spread across the country.

The administration is preparing legislation that would give cities and states greater flexibility to consolidate some of the 99 programs now in existence and provide assistance more efficiently.

THE THRUST of the administration initiative was reflected in the comments of Kimi Gray, the former welfare mother who has spearheaded the educational and economic development of a section of Washington she characterized as "the part of the city that's been forgotten."

Describing how poverty, teenage pregnancies and school failure rates all have dropped in her 462-unit public housing complex since 1974, Gray said, "We knew that the only way we could help ourselves was by saving ourselves."

None of the four offered criticism of the existing welfare programs.

VOICING A desire to "change the way America looks at poverty and welfare," he listened as Sister Monica Thomann described how her program in East Liverpool, Ohio, a patch of Appalachia with 30 percent unemployment, delivers social services to 1,700 senior citizens living below the poverty line.

To do that, she said, the Ceramic City Senior Citizens Center has relied on federal money.

"Without the federal dollars giving us that base of operations," she said, "there is no way we could have done it."

Company to give drug to poor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The G.D. Searle Co. will make $10 million worth of a high blood pressure drug available to poor patients at no cost, the company and Rep. Henry Waxman D-Calif. said Wednesday.

Under the program, a doctor decides which patients need the drug and cannot afford it. The doctor then issues a voucher to the patient to take to his pharmacy to be filled.

The program is billed as a volunteer contribution to sufferers of high blood pressure and angina, but Searle officials acknowledged they will get a tax break from the program and will benefit from the free distribution of the relatively new drug, called Calan, in lieu of advertising.

The drug costs about 60 cents to 80 cents a day to buy, or about $18-$24 for a normal monthly dosage, depending on the strength.

"We always hope that our drugs are widely used," said Searle Chairman Sheldon Gilgore. "I would hope when people move out of the poverty ranks they would continue to take Calan."

"It's just another part of the promotional program for a new use of Calan," said Todd Dankmyer, a vice president of the National Association of Retail Druggists. "Searle has an all-out promotional effort and this program is part of that. We think it's a very good program, by the way, we've endorsed it."

American Heart Association

spokesman John Weeks said in Dallas that the drug is marketed under several names, including Calan, Lisoptin and the generic, Verapamil HCl.

"It has been around quite a while, several years," he said. "It hit with great gusto several years ago as a treatment for heart disease and high blood pressure."

The drug is touted as being effective against high blood pressure, also called hypertension, without the side effects associated with other medicines, such as cramping, impotence, diarrhea, dizziness and shortness of breath. But it may cause headaches or constipation.

Hip fractures in elderly linked to drugs, study says

BOSTON (UPI)—Drugs given to the elderly to ease insomnia, anxiety, depression and dementia appear to increase their chances of breaking their hips by making them so dizzy or disoriented they fall down, researchers said Wednesday.

A study of more than 6,000 people found that elderly patients who were taking a variety of commonly prescribed psychotropic drugs were about twice as likely to suffer hip fractures.

"We believe the evidence in this study is quite convincing that these drugs contribute to hip fractures," said Wayne A. Ray, who headed the study at the Vanderbilt School of Medicine in Nashville, Tenn.

There are some 227,000 hip fractures among the elderly in the United States each year, adding about $6 billion to the nation's yearly medical bill.

The most significant cause of hip fractures is osteoporosis, a condition that sometimes occurs in middle-aged and elderly people, mostly women, causing a thinning of bones, which makes them susceptible to breaking.

"There are really two conditions necessary to hip fractures," said Ray, whose study was published in The New England Journal of Medicine. "First, is osteoporosis. The second is they must fall."

Such commonly prescribed drugs as diazepam, imipramine, halperidol and chlorpromazine can make the elderly light-headed and reduce their alertness and coordination, he said.

Test developed at UCLA for Huntington's disease

BOSTON (UPI)—Researchers have developed a test to identify those most likely to develop Huntington's disease before they begin experiencing its crippling symptoms, it was reported Wednesday.

The test, which involves measuring diminished activity in parts of the brain involved in the inherited disease, may even be able to project how long it will be before the debilitating effects begin, researchers said.

But the UCLA School of Medicine scientists who developed the test said more research is needed to determine the test's accuracy before it is made available to potential victims who want to use the results to plan their lives.

"Every child who has a parent who has had Huntington's disease spends a great amount of time wondering," said Mary Fitzpatrick of the Huntington's Disease Society of America. "It can be extremely depressing and debilitating."

But Fitzpatrick cautioned that the test has been found to produce false results in some cases, raising questions about its accuracy.

Huntington's disease causes memory and speech loss and uncontrolled body movements. It usually beginning between ages 35 and 50. Victims usually die after 15 or 20 years. The cause is unknown and there is no effective treatment.

The most famous victim was folksinger Woody Guthrie. There are about 25,000 people in the United States with Huntington's disease and about 125,000 who are at some degree of risk for the disease. Children of victims have about a 50 percent chance of having inherited the disease.

One recently developed test can determine whether someone has inherited the defective gene believed responsible for the disease. But it requires genetic information from other family members, who are often unavailable.

The new test requires only the person being tested. It involves injecting subjects with a form of sugar attached to a radioactive substance and then measuring the metabolic activity in the brain using a computerized procedure known as positron emission tomography (PET).

Researchers know the disease destroys parts of the brain known as caudate nuclei, which are located on each side of the center of the brain.

Doctor says osteoporosis preventable

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Although osteoporosis is becoming an increasingly serious problem in the United States, a bone disease expert predicted Wednesday the bone-thinning disease would be preventable in his lifetime.

But Dr. William Peck said more basic research is needed to deal with the condition that afflicts 15 million to 20 million Americans.

Association with lovers is Valentine's mystery

By Tracy Bartoni
Staff Writer

St. Valentine may not be just a romantic old fool as some people may think, but his identity and the reason he is associated with present Valentine's Day customs remains a mystery.

According to one theory, stated in the "Academic American Encyclopedia," St. Valentine was a Roman priest who lived during the third century and was martyred Feb. 14, 270 A.D. by the Roman emperor Claudius II for teaching Christianity.

Another theory says St. Valentine was probably a bishop of Terni.

Mystery surrounds the reason St. Valentine is considered the patron saint of lovers and is associated with such customs as sending lacy valentines, flowers and heart-shaped boxes of candy.

One theory says our customs had their origin in the Medieval belief that birds chose their mates at this time and that the association with St. Valentine is accidental.

Another theory says that

St. Valentine was killed on the eve of an ancient Roman festival called Lupercalia, a time when young men drew the names of young girls who would be their partners during the festival.

Lupercalia was an ancient festival celebrated to ensure good crops, protect flocks of sheep from the wolves, and to keep the animals and their owners healthy and fertile.

Boys ran through the streets with goatskin thongs, called "februa," which means "to purify," and lashed at girls, which was believed to make them better able to bear children.

Another theory has it that St. Valentine was imprisoned by Claudius II and while in prison restored the sight of the jailer's daughter by miracle. This legend says that the two were in love, and that upon his execution he sent her a farewell message signed "From your Valentine."

Whether these theories are legend or truth remains to be seen, but St. Valentine's Day is a holiday celebrated by our country and many others.

SIU's coal center provides simulated dragline training

By David Cowan
Student Writer

Mining companies from around the world turn to SIU-C's Coal Research Center when they want to train their workers on their largest and most expensive piece of equipment—the dragline.

The center uses a $1.5 million training system, housed and operated by the School of Technical Careers in Cartersville, to give would-be dragline operators experience that's close to the real thing.

THE SYSTEM includes a simulator that incorporates a 50-to-1 scale model of a dragline, a type of excavating machine, with a mud-filled model pit outside the computerized system's "cab."

A video camera is positioned at the operator's theoretical vision point and the image is projected onto a 10-foot screen. Mechanical sounds, amplified by a speaker in the cab, make the simulation more realistic.

THE TRAINEE operates the dragline bucket, which can hold up to 220 cubic yards—the equivalent of two semi-cabs—by hand controls inside the cab and observes the projected image of the bucket on the screen.

When the session is completed, a computer printout indicates any errors that were made by the trainee—lessons for further training.

The training program was designed by SIU in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Energy. Funding for the program is provided by the energy department.

THE LARGE computerized dragline simulator was originally developed for the DOE by McDonnell-Douglas, said Jim Hale, dragline systems coordinator.

Classroom studies with audio-visual materials, and pit-training table models augment the simulator experience.

Hale said the program is unique in simulating actual mining conditions and work practices.

THE CLASSROOM setting allows mining companies to train operators without reducing productivity or creating the "downtime" that results when operators receive traditional, on-the-job training at pits, he said.

The program benefits companies in efficiency training and productivity, he said. The Coal Center estimates that on-the-job training can result in decreased productivity of up to $150,000 a year when dragline machines are taken out of service for training.

THE CENTER ALSO estimates that it generally costs $6,000 to $10,000 an hour to take a dragline machine out of service to train operators at the pit.

"The system is the only one of its kind," Hale said. "We feel that we are the best equipped to do the training because the equipment was developed between SIU and the DOE" specifically for dragline operations.

A week-long supervisor's course and a two-week operator's course are offered. Hale said displays are set up at coal shows and coal conferences to attract companies to the program.

Pilots near end of record-setting-trip

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)—Two pilots headed over the frozen top of the globe Wednesday on the home stretch of their record-setting quest to be the first to circle the world pole-to-pole in a single-engine plane.

The Arctic Tern, which began its adventure in Paris three weeks ago and crossed the South Pole with little trouble, took off from Fairbanks at 11:46 a.m. EST in clear 9 below zero weather and headed straight for the North Pole.

Pilots Richard Norton and Calin Rosetti got what Norton termed "a record sleep—seven hours—after arriving in Alaska Tuesday and parking their six-seat Piper Malibu in a heated hangar at Fairbanks International Airport.

The two hoped to reach the North Pole by dinner time, according to their most recently set biological clocks, bringing them to the top of the world and halfway to Oslo, Norway, in the last miles of their record-setting marathon.

Winds would be the biggest factor in determining when they would reach the pole and next touch earth, Norton said after he and Rosetti had a continental breakfast and began studying charts and their weather data for their departure from Fairbanks.

AN ARENA PROMOTIONS PRESENTATION

Condoms given to students at Massachusetts college

GREENFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—Students picked up free condoms in Greenfield Community College's main lobby Wednesday as part of a "Love Carefully Day" campaign to fight sexually transmitted diseases.

The plain-wrapped prophylactics were mixed with butterscotch and peppermint candies in a large glass bowl set atop a table where literature on sex diseases could also be had.

"More women than men have been taking the condoms," said Susan McCarthy a Health Services nurse at the two-year, western Massachusetts college. "Men tend to be a little more reticent about these things."

Officials at Greenfield Community College, a commuter school with 1,500 daytime students averaging 28 years of age, organized "Love Carefully Day" primarily to educate students about AIDS and other sexual diseases.

The college purchased 500 condoms for the day, and offered them in the lobby and at the showing of a film titled "Condom Sense."

The day's events also included a lecture on Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome and consultations with health care workers about other sexual diseases, contraception and sexual abuse issues.

"I think this is a good idea," said freshman Leslie Stuart, 17, of Charlemont, before going to the health services table for a condom. "Unless these things are available real easily, people will either get diseases or pregnant."

"This isn't going to provoke sex," she said. "If anything it's just going to help."

Freshman Scott Schmith, 19, of Montague, said he was surprised "Love Carefully Day," and the condom giveaway in particular, had provoked national media attention.

"It seems like a perfectly practical thing to do," he said, as television cameras and reporters buzzed around the lobby and school cafeteria.

No opposition to the program was evident, though an organizer said one student heckled her as she put up a poster in the morning.

"Another student said, 'You're trying to make us feel like everyone is going to get AIDS,' which is ridiculous," reported organizer Anna Foster, a senior nursing student. "We've also had calls from parents saying, 'If those condoms break, we're going to sue you.'"

Brown enrollment decline blamed on 'sex scandal'

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—Applications to Brown University declined this year, and a school official Wednesday said negative publicity about last year's arrest of two students on prostitution charges may be partly to blame.

An estimated 12,600 students applied for the 2,400 freshmen openings at Brown this year, down 481 applications from last year and 1,107 below the school's record high 13,707 applications in 1985.

Admissions Director James Rogers admits the so-called sex scandal resulted in "less than positive publicity," but added that fewer applications were being sent to most Ivy League colleges and universities this year.

"It's not just us. All of the Ivy League schools, with the exception of Harvard, had about the same number of applications or a dropoff," Rogers said. "That has been the national trend in recent years."

Brown attracted publicity throughout the country last March when two of its students, Dana Smith, of Avon, Conn., and Rebecca Kidd, of Orange, Conn., both 21 at the time, were linked to a prostitution ring allegedly run by insurance executive Stanley Henshaw.

Stanford raises tuition to $11,800

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Stanford University, despite a fund-raising goal of $1.1 billion, approved a "far larger" than expected six percent tuition increase for the next school year that will hike the cost for undergraduates to $11,800.

Stanford's current tuition of $11,208 for undergraduates ranks it 10th out of 16 universities in the Consortium on Financing Higher Education. Harvard tops the list at $12,225.

Stanford's Board of Trustees approved both the tuition hike and the fund-raising goal Tuesday.

Court OKs combined bargaining agents

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Teachers in separate school systems can combine their strengths under a single bargaining agent, the Indiana Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday in a northern Indiana case that has statewide ramifications.

The opinion reversed a Superior Court ruling in Porter County against the Northwest Indiana Education Association.

Teachers in the School City of Hobart, School City of Highland and School Town of Munster now are represented by three separate teachers' associations, all affiliated with the Indiana State Teachers Association, as is the NIEA.

Teachers in the three systems petitioned the Indiana Education Employment Relations Board to let them hold elections for representation by NIEA, the new three-one organization.

The IEERB rejected the petitions, saying state law forbids any teachers' organization from representing teachers in more than one school corporation. The IEERB is a party to the lawsuit, but not an active participant.

The appeals court, in a unanimous opinion written by Judge William Garrard, said "cluster" bargaining such as that proposed by the three school corporations is legal.

The appeals panel returned the case to the IEERB, with directions to reconsider the teachers' request in line with the opinion.

Male student, 17, suspended for dressing in drag

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—A 17-year-old youth says he has been suspended unfairly from high school because he wore a gold dress, high heels, lipstick, a wig and earrings to a basketball game.

"I don't skip classes. I don't talk smart to teachers. I don't think I should be suspended for what I wear," Ronald Cox said Tuesday.

But Dorsey Patterson, principal of Booker T. Washington High School, thinks differently.

Patterson said Cox caused quite a stir when he attended the school's basketball game Friday night in women's attire.

Government trying to stop import of Mexican diet pills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is trying to stop the import of Mexican diet pills made of a "potentially lethal concoction" of tranquilizers, stimulants and laxatives, Food and Drug Commissioner Frank Young said Wednesday.

The government issued an import alert Monday asking authorities to prevent passage of the drug across the U.S.-Mexican border, whether in bulk shipments or in small quantities carried by individuals.

An FDA statement said the U.S., Mexican and Texas governments were cooperating to halt unsupervised use of the pill Redotex, which Young described on ABC's "Good Morning America" as a "combination of a number of prescription drugs all put together in one compound."

He said the drug could cause diarrhea and affect the thyroid and heart rate, "and all of these things mixed together are a dangerous and potentially lethal concoction."

Mexican authorities have closed clinics in Nuevo Laredo, across the Rio Grande from Laredo, Texas, that had been treating fat people with Redotex, which the FDA's Dallas office said appeared to contain a hormone to speed metabolism, two stimulants, a laxative and the tranquilizer diazepam.

Young said his agency is investigating four deaths and "Some individuals have had some substantial potential problems with memory and psychological makeup that have required care by a psychiatrist."

The commissioner said "thousands of people" are bringing the drug into the United States and he warned, "It's a classical health fraud."

Gwen Pace of the Dallas FDA office said Tuesday: "The FDA Center for Drugs and Biologics (in Washington) found the combination to be an irrational one that can cause serious and potentially fatal adverse reactions, including alteration of metabolic rates, increased heart rates, the lowering or increasing of blood pressure, loss of body electrolytes, and confusion and hallucinations."

Some clinics in Mexico had mixed Redotex with other drugs, increasing the danger to patients using them without medical supervision, the statement said.

Pace said several deaths and psychiatric conditions were being reviewed to see if Redotex or the Redotex combinations were responsible.

Walk, not jog, admiral tells sailors

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chief of the Pacific Fleet has overridden Navy policy and ordered men and women over 45 under his command to stop jogging because "heart attacks are taking the lives of too many members" of the force, the Navy said Wednesday.

He directed them to take a brisk 3-mile walk instead.

Adm. James Lyons, long known as a maverick among the Navy brass, issued the order from his headquarters in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, Feb. 5, warning the 238,000 personnel under his command not to jog themselves into a heart attack and possible death.

The directive by Lyons, which took senior Navy officials in Washington by surprise, is the first known anti-jogging measure put forth by a senior military leader. Jogging has become nearly a ritual for the military and hundreds of men and women run near the Pentagon daily, rain or shine.

Medical experts are at odds about the benefits of jogging to exercise the cardiovascular system.

Lyons' order may have been prompted by the Jan. 19 death of Rear Adm. Jack Darby, 50, commander of Pacific submarine forces, who had a heart attack after his routine morning run.

Lyons, 59, is portly, and overweight by military fitness standards.

Rear Adm. C.C. Smith, commander of naval air forces in the Atlantic Fleet in Norfolk, Va., died of similar causes in 1983. Lyons was attached to that command at the time.

"The Navy can ill-afford to lose more personnel to unnecessary heart attacks," the directive said. "My bottom line is that I expect you to be physically fit. I don't expect you to die getting there."

"Heart attacks are taking the lives of too many members."

Lyons' command extends from the West Coast west to the Indian Ocean. His directive does not include the other 345,000 sailors attached to the Atlantic Fleet and elsewhere.

U.S. to get 66-hour look at Soviet aerobics, videos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American cable television viewers will get their first look next week at typical live Soviet programming, ranging from prime-time news to aerobics and music videos, Discovery channel officials said Wednesday.

The unprecedented eight-day presentation, "Live: Inside Russia," starts Sunday and is timed to coincide with ABC's controversial "Amerika" miniseries. The broadcast will include 66 hours of state-controlled shows aired at the same time they are televised to 280 million viewers in the Soviet Union.

"Just as American television reflects the diversity of our social, cultural and even political values, live, internal Soviet television will offer many insights into how the Russians perceive themselves and their institutions," said Ruth Otte, president of Discovery.

"We will carry no programming that is not typical of regular Soviet television fare — no 'made for America' specials," network Chairman John Hendricks said.

At a news conference, the network showed a sample of programs recently picked up from the Soviet "Molnaya" satellites.

The shows lacked the sophisticated video techniques of American networks but appeared similar in many other ways.

A children's show taught spelling in the style of "Sesame Street"; a litesome conrarde clad in red leotards and sweatband led an aerobics class; and Soviet women matched wits and athletic prowess in a game show called "Let's Go, Girls!"

There were sports, technology documentaries, spy shows and even music videos, including a rock 'n' roll song with the English lyric, "Stop, stop, stop, Mr. Reagan."

The Soviet Union agreed to allow Orbita, the company whose technology makes the satellite reception possible, to transmit the programs free of charge.

A panel of experts on the Soviet Union will provide commentary between some of the shows. The experts will also advise the network if the programming appears atypical—altered to address the American audience.

"We have the right to interrupt the transmission," Hendricks said.

Simultaneous interpreters will provide translations, and subtitles will appear during the programs.

All-America gymnast Preston Knauf prepares for a meet at Penn State by working on the pommel horse. The Salukis face the Nittany Lions Friday.

12th-ranked gymnasts set to battle No. 1 Penn State

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

SIU-C's 12th-ranked gymnastics team will give top-ranked Penn State a chance to avenge a loss when it meets the Nittany Lions for the first time this season in University Park, Pa. Friday.

Although the Salukis defeated Penn State 279.20-272.15 in one of the last dual meets of the 1985-86 season, Meade's athletes are 3-7 against the Lions in Meade's 30-year career as an SIU-C coach.

Penn State currently leads the nation in team scoring with 281.70.

Meade said the team from his alma mater has scored over 280 twice this season. The Salukis' high score of the season is 271.75, which they earned at the Jan. 31 Oklahoma Invitational.

"They'll (Penn State) have to make a few mistakes to make it close," said Meade. Some of the firepower in the Nittany Lions lineup include all-around performers Glenn Aser, Spider Maxwell, Marcelo Ribeiro and Ian Shelley. Also competing for Penn State will be senior Mario Gonzalez, a strong all-arounder who red-shirted last year because of a leg injury.

Meade said the Nittany Lions are an experienced team, but may have to rebuild next season since Aser, Maxwell, Shelley and Gonzalez are seniors.

The Salukis only return three seniors to their team (David Bailey, Preston Knauf and Mark Ulmer) and have been outscored by the Nittany Lions, but Meade said this meet's score will not be as important to postseason possibilities as those later in the season.

"We won't really be counting scores as much," Meade said.

"It's nice and it's good, but it's not critical."

Saluki Brent Reed, a sophomore all-arounder, suffered a shoulder injury at the Oklahoma meet and may be limited in the number of events in which he can participate, Meade said.

"He'll go pommel (horse), but I don't know what else...probably vaulting and floor (exercises)," Meade said. "I don't know... I'll play it by ear when I get there."

"We'll be a bit thin with Brent hurt, so we can't afford to make mistakes," Meade said.

Sophomore Phil Armand and junior Ken Clark will make the trip, but are recovering from shoulder surgery, and their participation may also be limited.

Booster Club meets today; Harre, Thouvenin to speak

The Saluki Booster Club will meet at the Carbondale Holiday Inn for lunch at noon today.

Men's basketball coach Rich Herrin will bring senior guard Wayne Harre as a featured guest.

Women's basketball coach Cindy Scott will bring junior guard Anne Thouvenin.

Scott Monserud, Southern Illinoisan sports editor, will perform master of ceremony duty.

Dorr signs grid speedsters to bolster backfield

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Despite sporting the best Gateway Conference ground attack for two straight years, Ray Dorr went after some of the state's most talented running backs.

On Wednesday, national letter of intent day, Dorr's effort inked four additional running backs for the Saluki squad.

Ken Parks, a 6-1, 195-pounder from Joliet Central, signed with SIU-C despite offers from Illinois, Purdue and Northern Illinois.

A quality runner, Parks has a 4.5-second speed in the 40-yard dash. He rushed for more than 1,400 yards and scored 11 touchdowns last season despite being sidelined with a groin injury for two games.

Fullback Dion Henderson, a 5-9, 215-pounder from Decatur MacArthur, ran for 972 yards as a junior. Although a teacher's strike limited Henderson to four games his senior year, he ran for more than 400 yards.

Henderson speeds a 4.6 in the 40 and bench presses 320 pounds. Henderson turned down Indiana State and Northern Illinois.

As of late Wednesday, Ian Oliver, who verbally committed to SIU-C earlier in the week, had not yet signed his letter.

Oliver, of Peoria Central, rushed for 1,372 yards as a senior utilizing his 4.6 speed. At 6-1, 185 pounds, Oliver is similar in stature and running style to Parks.

Add to that trio one Garret Hines, a 5-11, 165-pounder from Memphis Bartlett High School, and the Salukis will have ample talent in the backfield.

Hines, labeled the best runner in Memphis, finished his senior year with a 7.0 yards per carry and 1,063 total rushing yards. SIU-C beat out rival Arkansas State, the runner-up I-AA national champions, for Hines' signature.

The newcomers will compete with Byron Mitchell, Anthony Vaughn, and sophomore Cedric Brown of Murphysboro for playing time.

Or, because all the running back recruits possess better-than-average speed, Dorr has the option of shifting some newcomers to such speed-oriented positions as defensive back or wide receiver.

Early in the preseason of 1986, a knee injury sidelined All-America tailback Mitchell, who provided 51 percent of SIU-C's total offense the previous season. Mitchell's replacement Johnny Field, a preseason All-America at safety, was then sidelined with an ankle injury.

Kattreh passes Bonds, climbs in Gateway

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Senior swing player Ann Kattreh broke into Gateway Conference statistics while the Salukis dropped a few notches in team categories.

Kattreh, who's averaged 22.8 points in the last four games, passed Bridgett Bonds for the team scoring lead and rates fifth among Gateway individuals. Despite shooting primarily from long distances, Kattreh rose to ninth with 50.5 percent field goal shooting.

The junior forward Bonds holds seventh in Gateway scoring with 14.8 ppg, fourth in rebounding with 8.4 pgr and second in field goal shooting with 60 percent.

That 60 percent shooting also rates Bonds 19th in the nation.

"B.B." Bonds

Ann Kattreh

But junior center Mary Berghuis would rate ahead of Bonds if she had as many attempts as the national statistics require. Berghuis, on the Gateway's basis of four attempts per game, leads the league at a 64.4 percent clip.

In a slump partially caused by a shoulder injury, point guard Marialice Jenkins dropped to fifth in three-pointers with 34.9 percent shooting. The senior Jenkins ties with sophomore guard Dana Fitzpatrick at eighth in the conference with 3.0 assists per game.

The Salukis only lead four of the 10 team categories as compared to six a week ago. SIU-C rests atop Gateway field goal percentage offense, scoring margin, rebound margin and scoring defense.

The scoring defense, which holds Saluki opponents to an average of 55.5 points, rates second in the country. The Salukis also rate 14th in out-rebounding opponents by 7.5 per game, 15th in outscoring by 14.8 ppg and 15th with 50 percent shooting, according to the latest "NCAA News."

turned down partial offers from Northern Illinois, Minnesota and Kansas. He may have the best raw talent of the Saluki recruits.

Kevin Jacobsen (Schaumburg, 6-2, 215 pounds) and Ron Crech (Glenbard High School, 6-3, 196 pounds) also signed as linebackers.

The Salukis landed talented prep recruits at other positions:

—John Dollenmaier, of Warren Township, 6-3, 230-pound noseguard on defense and middle guard on offense. Dollenmaier chose SIU-C over Ball State and Eastern Illinois.

—Jim Rung, of Warren Township, 6-4, 235-pound offensive lineman. Rung visited Iowa State, Western Michigan and Northern Illinois before deciding to accompany teammate Dollenmaier to SIU-C.

—Jason Wilson, of Thornwood, 5-11, 175-pound defensive back. Wilson has 4.5 speed and started two years. Wilson led his conference in scoring as a tailback, but SIU-C is more interested in his defensive abilities. Wilson picked SIU-C over Minnesota and Wisconsin.

—Don Craig, of Joliet West, 6-4, 255-pound offensive lineman. A three-year starter and four-year honor student, Craig also visited Purdue. He is projected as an offensive lineman at SIU-C.

—Polo Powell, of Kirkwood Mo., 6-0, 220-pound defensive tackle. He hails from the same school as Saluki fullback Anthony Vaughn.

—John Manley, of Lockport Central, 6-3, 215-pound tight end and linebacker with two years of starting action.

Dorr also signed three junior college transfers. Defensive back Ernest Mangham signed last fall and is already enrolled in classes at SIU-C, while other juco recruits include defensive back Mickey Simmons of Northeast (Miss.) Junior College and James Cox, a defensive tackle who played at Northeast Oklahoma A&M College.

According to one staff member, most of the recruits are good students and will be eligible next fall. All of the recruits had at least a 2.0 grade point average, but at least five had still not scored a 14 or better on the ACT exam, which is required by the NCAA's academic guidelines for freshman eligibility.

As of late Wednesday afternoon, Dorr and staff were still on the road and hoped to sign several recruits who gave verbal commitments earlier.

Included on that list are: Mark Francis (Wyoming High School, linebacker, 6-2, 220); Tom Roth (Alton Marquette, tight end, 6-7, 218); Ian Oliver (Peoria Central, running back, 6-1, 175); Troy Cook (Kirkwood, Mo., linebacker 6-3, 235); Matt Meier (Kaneohe, Hawaii, defensive back, 6-2, 190); and Nelson Thurman, a defensive back from Triton College near Chicago.

Many of the recruits who had given verbal commitments to SIU are waiting to see what offers other schools will present. Cook, Roth, Meier and Oliver are all highly sought after recruits who may get better offers from bigger schools.

Ben Lathrop, a defensive tackle with Olney, signed with Eastern Illinois after seriously considering SIU-C. Ron Maulding, an all-state defensive tackle from Casey, signed with Northwestern after receiving attention from Dorr's staff.

Gridders sign 18 recruits join Dorr's squad; long hours pay off for coach

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Many long hours of travel and research paid off for Saluki football coach Ray Dorr and his staff, as a bumper crop of recruits signed national letters of intent Wednesday morning.

Of the 18 Saluki recruits, linebackers and running backs were the most abundant categories.

One local recruit is 6-2, 230-pound Dwayne Summers of West Frankfort.

Summers, an honor student, played linebacker for the Redbirds and used a 27-inch vertical jump to land a starting spot on the Redbird's basketball squad. Summers was also recruited for track and field.

Other linebackers signed Wednesday include:

—Scott Andrews, of Lincoln-Way High School, 6-1, 215 pounds. Andrews visited Rice, Northwestern, Iowa State and Northern Illinois, but the honor student chose SIU-C because of its graphic arts program. With 4.7 speed and a 385-pound bench press, Andrews is expected to compete for playing time as a freshman.

—Tyrunne Jackson, of East St. Louis Senior, 6-0, 193 pounds. Jackson also logged time as a defensive tackle and is pegged as a good pass rusher.

—Michael Jones, of Paducah (Ky.) Tilghman, 5-11, 220 pounds. With experience at running back and nose guard, Jones chose SIU-C over Austin Peay and Western Kentucky.

—Kevin Kilgallon, of Thornwood High School, 6-1, 220 pounds. He set a school record with 63 solo tackles last fall and logged all-conference honors two years running. Kilgallon has 4.7 speed, and

Davies' crowd plays tough

Sycamores rolling, bring challenge to women cagers

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

The SIU-C vs. Indiana State women's basketball game at 7:35 p.m. tonight in Davies Gym may become a battle of whose fans can outdo whose.

In last Saturday's game at Davies Gym, SIU-C fans waved a blow-up dinosaur behind the basket during EIU free throw shots. Saluki assistant George Iubelt joked that he wonders just what the fans will bring for this game.

What Indiana State fans did call to mind an old saying about paybacks, because a fraternity group sat nearby the Saluki bench and raised all kinds of 'h' during free throws at the previous teams' meeting on Sycamore turf.

The trouble for the Salukis is, the Sycamores play as aggressively as their fans.

"I imagine they'll show up fired and ready," Saluki assistant Julie Beck said.

The Sycamores bring the Gateway's third-best scorer, Amy Hile, who averages 17.3 points per game. Complementing the senior forward Hile, senior center Tammy Hammel hit high gear last week with a pair of more-than 20-points performances. Both Hammel and Hile rate in the Gateway's top 10 rebounders and free throw shooters.

Saluki coach Andy Scott would not say who will guard the Sycamores' team leaders.

Indiana State downed its last three opponents—Drake, Northern Iowa and Wichita State. While the Sycamores lead Gateway free throw shooting, they show weakness in defense and strength in offense.

The Salukis used a five-day lay-off to rest a bit and get intense practices. Those elements should help the main Saluki goal—a big game.

"We need to start playing well again," Scott said.

Bridgett Bonds' thumb injury improved this week. Marialice Jenkins' shoulder has not reached 100 percent.

CCHS's Laster takes talent to Fighting Illini grid squad

By Wendell Young
Staff Writer

Carbondale Community High School football standout Tony Laster signed a national letter of intent Wednesday to deliver his gridiron talents to the Fighting Illini at Champaign next fall.

Laster made the decision after narrowing his preferences to Indiana and Illinois, both of the highly acclaimed Big Ten conference. Laster said he gave SIU-C "a little consideration, but in the end, I didn't want to stay in Carbondale."

Despite the concern for high school athletes leaving the Southern Illinois area to compete at other institutions, Terrier football coach John Helmick said it happens often. "It's natural for a kid to go away to school," Helmick said.

However, "only two (other area) players, Tony and Dwayne Summers of West Frankfort (High School), have signed major college scholarships," Helmick explained. "We appreciate (SIU-C head football) coach Ray Dorr's efforts."

Early Laster, Tony's dad, said he would like for Tony to get entrenched into U of I academically during his first year on campus, adding that he "had no influence on Tony as far as the decision goes. I'm very excited," the elder Laster said.

Texas spiker signs letter, dad confirms

The Saluki volleyball program has one new addition to the team as of Wednesday.

Margaret Cooney, a 5-foot-10-inch middle blocker from Houston, Texas, who played at Northbrook High School, has signed a letter of intent to play volleyball at SIU-C.

In a phone conversation with Margaret's father, Bill Cooney, it was confirmed that she will play volleyball for the Salukis.

Cage women change scheduling to Arena

The SIU-C women's basketball team will play its final two regular-season and any postseason games at the Arena.

The revised schedule makes the Feb. 26 Southwest Missouri game a doubleheader with the men Salukis against Indiana State. The women tip off at 5:30 p.m., followed by the men at their regular time. Women's basketball season tickets will be honored at the Arena. Others may purchase a single ticket for both games at $4 for adults, $2 for high school age and under and $1 for SIU-C students with ID.

Providing no conflict arises with Missouri Valley Conference tournament play, the Feb. 28 SIU-C-Wichita State game will begin at the Arena at 7:35 p.m.

The 17th-ranked Salukis must play at the Arena to be considered for an NCAA tournament home game.

Charlotte West, associate athletics director, said, "The first criterion that the NCAA looks at is the quality of the facility—the ability to accommodate press and spectators. We have an opportunity to impress the NCAA by drawing some big crowds for our final two home games and for the Gateway tournament. Good turnouts should ensure the bid."

Although Davies Gym helped the women to a decided advantage, the Salukis will work on building a winning attitude in the Arena.
