SIU-C spring enrollment highest ever

By Tony Mancuso
Staff Writer

Enrollment at SIU-C is at its highest ever spring total, up 366 students more than the same period last year.

The official enrollment information, released by Admissions and Records Monday, reported that 23,850 students are enrolled at the University.

Enrollment is down from the fall 1989 semester when 24,596 students were enrolled (a 3-percent drop) but the drop has occurred every year, B.K. Browning, director of Admissions and Records, said.

"A certain attrition always occurs between the fall and spring semesters," Browning said. "Students drop out for various reasons, including poor grades."

He said, however, freshman enrollment for the 1990 fall semester is expected to decrease.

"There will be a decrease in the number of freshmen in the fall, because the number of high school graduates is less than in previous years. Also, simply fewer students are applying (at SIU-C)," Browning said, adding he could not estimate the percentage drop.

He said freshman applications are down 25 percent thus far, with 8,667 applications sent in to the University. About 80 percent of the applications are accepted annually, and 33 to 35 percent of the accepted students end up attending SIU-C.

Browning said the large numbers of sophomores, juniors and seniors will offset the lower freshman enrollment.

In comparing enrollment figures from spring 1990 with those from spring 1989, both undergraduate and graduate totals have increased. The number of undergraduate students is 19,521, up 242; the number of graduate and professional students is 4,329, up 124.

A total of 2,765 students are in master's degree programs and 995 are studying for doctoral degrees.

The number of students in on-campus programs is 20,949, up 400. Conversely, the number of students involved in off-campus programs — those offered at military bases across the country — is 2,901, down 34.

Eight of the 11 colleges and schools on campus showed an increased enrollment in comparison with last spring.

The College of Agriculture has 671 enrolled students, an increase of 70. The College of Business and Administration has 2,161 enrolled

Freedom for Mandela increases civil unrest

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Black leader Nelson Mandela, vowing to "seize the earliest opportunity" to negotiate a peaceful end to South Africa's racial conflict, arrived Monday from Cape Town but aides wary of huge crowds awaiting him kept his whereabouts overnight a secret.

As thousands spilled into the streets of the southwestern black satellite city of Soweto in celebration and jammed a stadium in anticipation of his arrival, Mandela's private jet landed at a small airport north of Johannesburg with an entourage that included his wife, Winnie. They were quickly whisked away in a car.

Aides refused to say where Mandela was staying amid continued concerns about his safety, saying only that he would stay overnight in a house in Johannesburg's northern suburbs.

The African National Congress leader was scheduled to enter Soweto Tuesday after more than 27 years in prison for a welcome rally that many had expected would occur Monday.

Dozens of children were trampled underfoot in the public rush to enter the stadium Monday for what tens of thousands hoped would be their first sight of Mandela. No deaths were reported, but more than 10 people were injured, medics and witnesses said.

The United Democratic Front, an ANC-linked anti-apartheid federation, appealed for an end to violence and misbehavior and said a Johannesburg incident in which a black man was killed by a white security guard detracted from the "victory" of Mandela's release.

The guard told police he was cornered by a mob of blacks armed with stones and clubs.

Speaking with reporters in Cape Town before his evening arrival in Johannesburg, Mandela pledged to settle the conflict between South Africa's whites and blacks at the earliest opportunity through "peaceful negotiations" if the government creates the right climate.

But Mandela stood firm in his political ideology after more than 27 years in prison on sabotage charges stemming from his involvement in the ANC's military wing, Umkhonto we Sizwe, Zulu for "Spear of the Nation."

"The armed struggle is merely defensive. It's a defensive act

Bush visit viewed as success

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — South American officials say they view President Bush's visit to Colombia as a diplomatic success — a change from U.S. finger-pointing to a willingness to discuss important economic issues.

Bush lands on South American soil Thursday for an unprecedented presidential summit in Cartagena, Colombia, to form a common anti-drug strategy between the world's largest cocaine consuming nation and the producing countries.

The agreement to be signed will include aid to help wean the fragile economies of the producers off the lucrative cocaine trade, as well as recognition that consumption must be reduced.

Controls on chemicals used to make cocaine and arms that come from developed nations also are to be tightened, along with a greater effort against money laundering.

In the past, Colombia has been highly critical of U.S. willingness to send arms for the bloody cocaine war without cracking down on U.S. users, whose hunger

Local legislators uneasy about riverboat gambling

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

After months of stormy sailing, riverboat gambling finally became a law, but some Illinois lawmakers would like to see it docked permanently.

Signed into law by Gov. James R. Thompson Wednesday, riverboat gambling legislation will become a reality by January 1991 on the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

The new law will send 75 percent of the gambling revenues to education, with the remaining 25 percent split between the state and the communities that dock the gaming boats.

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-DuQuoin, said he urged the governor to veto the legislation because it "was the wrong way to finance state government."

"We already have lottery and bingo, and I'm afraid that with the passage of the bill, the next step will be land-based casinos in Chicago and throughout the state," Dunn said.

The legislation will also allow out-of-state involvement, Dunn said.

"This bill allows riverboat gambling licenses to be granted to out-of-state powers, firms or corporations without any ties to Illinois," Dunn said. "These profits aren't going to stay in Illinois and benefit our communities. This bill may hurt our economy and perhaps our students."

Although Illinois students will theoretically benefit from the new law, Dunn said, in reality, students will not get the extra funding.

"The 75 percent going to education may sound good, but it will be like the lottery: money and will not mean more for education," Dunn said.

Larry Woolard, D-Carterville, said he too opposes the bill and said giving the profits to education is just a "diversionary tactic."

"I don't believe the money will ever get to education," Woolard said. "I think the funding for education should come from more stable means besides gambling."

Soviet presidential system to be considered

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet parliament's executive arm, at a meeting chaired by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, called Monday for a special session of the Congress of People's Deputies to create a democratic, presidential system in the Soviet Union.

"The presidium of the Supreme Soviet has unanimously supported institutionalizing democratic presidential power in the Soviet Union," the official Tass news agency said.

"An extraordinary Congress of People's Deputies will convene soon to consider this and other matters relating to deepening political reform," said a statement, carried by Tass, about the presidium's meeting in the Kremlin Monday.

The decision to hold another session of Congress, months before it was scheduled to convene again after finishing its second session Dec. 24, came five days after the Communist Party swept away its monopoly rule and decided to ask the people to approve a presidential system by popular vote.

Tass did not give a specific date for the special Congress, saying only that it would be held soon.

The presidium also sent the Supreme Soviet, or parliament, a bill that would provide a legal mechanism for any of the country's 15 republics to secede from the Soviet Union, which Gorbachev promised last month during his trip to Lithuania.

and the presidium recommended that the parliament discuss a possible reconsideration of the 1940 incorporation of Lithuania and Estonia into the Soviet Union.

The surprise announcement of an early Congress session indicated that Gorbachev, fresh from his victory at the momentous party plenum last week, is intent on radicalizing his perestroika drive to transform the Soviet Union into a modern democracy and economic power.

MVC Officials: Valley has its peaks

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

It's April 2, 1990 and the tip-off of the NCAA championship game in Denver is about to be grabbed by either Missouri: Tiger Doug Smith or SIU-C Saluki Jerry Jones. Yes, Southern Illinois' very own master of the glass, Jerry Jones.

This may seem very unlikely and almost impossible, but is it? Missouri Valley Conference basketball is on the rise, Saluki coach Rich Herrin said.

Even Herrin doesn't expect to make the Final Four in this year's NCAA tournament, but he does expect to see a rise in the competition in the MVC.

"The Valley is a very competitive conference for us to be in," Herrin said. "We are very happy to be in the same conference with a great basketball school such as Bradley. There is great tradition in this conference."

Illinois State coach Bob Bender, in his first year with the Redbirds after assisting Mike Krzyzewski of Duke for six years, is impressed with the MVC.

"The first thing impressive to me is the potential of each of the teams in the league to be explosive because of the natural ability and the style of play. Valley teams excel in transition and in utilizing the three-point shot. They can put a lot of points on the board in a hurry and still play solid defense," he said.

Creighton coach Tony Barone, an 11-year MVC veteran, agreed the Valley is a strong conference.

"I don't think the national media really zeroes in on the Missouri Valley Conference and gives this conference its due. Number one, it is an extremely athletic league and it always has been. I have always been impressed with the mental and physical toughness of the kids in our league. They attack you, play with tremendous enthusiasm, and they play with a physical play that I think rises above levels of many leagues," Barone said.

In saying that the MVC is on the rise, in no way should its past be forgotten.

Originating in 1907, the MVC has produced some great basketball athletes. Bradley Brave Hersey Hawkins, Creighton Bluejays Benoit Benjamin and Paul Silas, Indiana State Sycamore Larry Bird, Southern Illinois Saluki Walt

Frazier, Wichita State Shockers Xavier McDaniel and Antoine Carr and Tulsa Golden Hurricane Paul Pressey are just a few of the professional basketball players who fine tuned their skills in the MVC.

But what about the future? As cable television expands so does the coverage of college basketball. This year the MVC is a part of more than 27 nationally-televised basketball games. National cable giant ESPN, which reaches over 53 million homes, will carry seven Valley games.

Dawgs' defense key to winning season

Weaver: Players see defense can win some games

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

Defense can carry a ball club. For the Salukis, defense adds another dimension to their already established arsenal of rebounding and offense.

On the season, the Salukis have outrebanded (42.4 to 36.3), out-shot (47 percent to 42 percent) and in the end, outscored (81 to 70.6), their opponents en route to posting a 19-5 record. The Dawgs are 5-3 in the Missouri Valley Conference, behind Illinois State, Tulsa and Creighton, all tied at 6-3.

The Salukis are heading into the Valley's stretch run and control their own destiny with four of the remaining six games at the Arena.

Assistant coach Sam Weaver filled in a vacancy in the coaching staff during the summer and brought in some refreshing defensive schemes. At the beginning of the season, Weaver knew the new defensive philosophies would work, but it was a matter of having the players believe in them.

"The players are beginning to see that defense can win for them," Weaver said. "Our record on the road (11-4) is directly related to our being able to guard people on the road."

"I think it's just a part of SIU basketball now," Weaver said. "Just come out and get after people. There's two ends of the court and if we're going to be a complete basketball team then we're going to have to play both ends."

Speaking from a statistical standpoint, this is the best defensive ball club Herrin has coached at SIU-C. One must look back to the mid '70s to find a team that has been so stingy on opponents' field-goal accuracy.

The Salukis have allowed better than 50 percent shooting from the field only three times this season.

"We are a better defensive team," Herrin said. "Our emphasis is on it and we've changed our philosophy. I think Sam Weaver has done a great job with it."

When the Dawgs offense is not clicking, defense and rebounding has picked up the slack. The Saluki offense has managed to shoot 42 percent from the field in its last eight games.

Although the shots might not be falling easily as of late, the Dawgs are 7-11 that span. Overall, the Salukis are 5-2 in games in which they shot less than 40 percent. The Salukis out-rebounded their opponent in all but one of those games.

"If you're hitting the shot then fine, but if you're not then defense has got to carry you," Herrin said. "Defense can cover it."

"Defense can be consistent every game out the same way rebounding is. That's two phases of the game that we're very good at," Herrin said.

Positioning is a key ingredient to the Salukis' defensive pressure. With the right positioning on defense, Weaver says the opponents are forced to take an extra look before passing or penetrating.

As the Salukis downed defending league champion Creighton Saturday — the second time this season — they harassed the Bluejays all afternoon and left them second-guessing themselves.

"We concentrate on being in position and checking shots."

Canseco will make $2 million

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Jose Canseco, sidelined for half the season with an injured wrist, Monday avoided arbitration with the champion Oakland Athletics by agreeing to a contract for more than $2 million.

A's Vice President Sandy Alderson had said he felt Canseco's behavior should be considered in arbitration. The former American League Most Valuable Player was arrested last year for carrying a loaded weapon and was cited for numerous traffic violations.

Men's team earns votes in two polls

The Southern Illinois men's basketball team received votes for the UPI Top 20 poll Monday. The Salukis did not make the Top 20 but were one of 10 teams to receive votes outside the first 20.

The Salukis also received six votes in Monday's USA Today college basketball poll. The six votes placed the Salukis as the No. 30 team in the country according to the national paper.

The Salukis were three votes behind Brigham Young and one vote ahead of North Carolina in the USA Today poll.

Saluki women in running for conference crown

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's basketball team remained in the hunt for the Gateway title with two victories on its recent road trip.

The Salukis, 10-3 in the Gateway, defeated Drake 49-48 Thursday and Northern Iowa 75-61 Saturday.

The winner of the regular season Gateway title will host the postseason tournament. The Salukis have their sights set on playing in front of the home fans.

"Everyone's hopes are still real high," junior guard Alison Smith said. "We want to win and host the tournament."

The Salukis' victory Thursday was only their third in 11 tries or

Saluki Notebook

Drake's homecourt during Coach Cindy Scott's 13 years here. The victory also damaged Drake's tournament hopes.

The Bulldogs, who also lost to Eastern Illinois Saturday, are 5-7 and fell to sixth place in the Gateway. The top four teams in the Gateway regular season standings advance to the conference tournament March 9-10.

But things are looking up for the Salukis, winners of five straight games and 11 of their last 12. The Salukis are only one game behind Gateway-leading Southwest Missouri State.

Southwest (11-2) had won nine consecutive games entering Thursday's game at Bradley and held a two-game lead over SIU-C and Illinois State. But Southwest lost to fourth-place Bradley 67-45.

Scott says the Gateway race is getting exciting.

"Things are getting more and more interesting in the conference race," Scott said. "We just need to keep winning and hope for the best. No one can afford to take anyone for granted no matter what their record is."

Next 3 Games at Home

If the Gateway regular season ended today, Southwest Missouri (11-2), SIU-C (10-3), Illinois State (9-3) and Bradley (9-4) would advance to tournament action.

Eastern Illinois, the Salukis' opponent Saturday, still is in the hunt. The Panthers are 7-6 and in fifth place.

Scott likes the way her team is playing.

"I'm pleased with the team," Scott said. "We're still young and we make mistakes. But the kids are working very hard. We are just going to keep after it and get it one by one."

Southwest, SIU-C, and Bradley have five games remaining and Illinois has six games remaining.

The first-place Bears have home games remaining against Drake Friday and Northern Iowa Sunday. The Bears are 10-0 at home this season, but they end the season with three road games at Eastern Illinois (Feb. 22), SIU-C (Feb. 24) and Wichita State (Mar. 3).

The Salukis play their next three games at the Arena against Eastern Illinois Saturday, Wichita State and Southwest Missouri. Illinois State plays four of its last six at home. Bradley plays its next two on the road before ending the season with three home games.

Sophomore point guard Colleen Heimstead said the Salukis are confident but they can't look past any opponent.

"We can do it and we're really confident," Heimstead said. "We know we have to win all of our ball games and just play well. But I think now we are just taking one game at a time."

State of emergency declared in Soviet Moslem republic

MOSCOW (UPI) — Riots and pogroms erupted in the mainly Moslem republic Tadjikistan in Soviet Central Asia, leaving several people dead and dozens wounded and prompting imposition of a state of emergency Monday in the capital of Dushanbe. Soviet television said rioters, most of them youths, rampaged against Armenian refugees from last month's pogroms in Azerbaijan who were living with relatives in Dushanbe.

Plane crashes onto highway; kills mother, son

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — A Brazilian airliner with 39 people aboard slammed into houses and a supermarket Monday then crashed on top of a truck, setting it afire. A woman and her child in the truck were killed but nobody on the plane was seriously injured. Police said 14 passengers, two crew members and four people on the ground were injured. The Marilia Air Transport Fokker 27 plane was attempting a landing in clear weather at Bauru airport on a flight from Sao Paulo the accident occurred, said Marco Vancini, an airport spokesman.

Sharon resigns, throws Likud party into turmoil

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Trade and Industry Minister Ariel Sharon resigned from the Cabinet Monday during a chaotic meeting of the Likud's Central Committee that left the right wing political organization in turmoil. Both Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir and his rival Sharon claimed victory for their factions that ended in an uproar. Leaders of the Labor Party, Likud's partner in the coalition government, immediately called a meeting Monday night to discuss the committee gathering, which veteran Likud activists said was an embarrassment.

Bush assures against blockade of Colombia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush said Monday it was "absurd" for Colombians to fear the U.S. Navy was preparing to blockade its coast to stop drug traffickers, and blamed the concern on "mischievous" news stories. Bush said he will tell the leaders that their problems cannot be solely blamed on the United States, despite its leading consumption in cocaine, and that America is doing its share to educate its young against the use of narcotics and to fight drug traffickers.

Black students abandon sit-in at school

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — Black students protesting the firing of the city's first black school superintendent ended their five-day sit-in at Selma High School Monday, at the request of the fired superintendent. The 150 students, who had occupied the school cafeteria since Thursday, left the building and marched to City Hall, where another sit-in by angry blacks continued. The students said they left the school at the request of Superintendent Norward Rousell, who was fired by the white-controlled school board earlier this month.

Goopy oil slick attacks California coastline

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A band of black goo 20 to 30 feet wide and smaller ribbons of oil several inches thick washed onto the Southern California shore Monday as Coast Guard officials monitored a fast-approaching storm front threatening to further foul the coastline. The heavy concentrations of petroleum began swirling ashore in a brownish foam late Sunday afternoon.

Washington Senate approves castration bill

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — Legislation to allow convicted sex offenders to choose voluntary castration in return for a 75 percent reduction in their prison sentences won a bare Senate majority Monday as opponents argued the politicians were engaging in "bloodlust." The bill was sent on a 25-23 vote to the House, where a similar measure has failed to move this legislative session. In addition, Gov. Booth Gardner has said on several occasions he is unconvinced that castration would deter predatory sex criminals.

Poshard blasts R.A.C.E. after groups withdraw

Congressman 'doesn't care' about groups' decision

By Phil Pearson
Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, said he won't miss two groups which pulled out of a committee organized to contribute ideas concerning the management of the Shawnee National Forest.

The Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists and the Association of Concerned Environmentalists, closely related organizations, said at a news conference Monday night the groups would pull out of the Citizen's Advisory Committee. The announcement was made at a news conference prior to the committee's monthly meeting in Vienna last night.

"If they don't want to work with all the other groups, that is their choice," Poshard said.

The committee is made up of representatives of the Forest Service, local governments, citizen's groups and other parties with a stake in the management of the forest.

Pomona resident Bill Cronin, R.A.C.E.'s representative on the committee, read a prepared statement at the news conference charging not only mismanagement of the forest by the U.S. Forest Service but a lack of appropriate action by Poshard.

"Mr. Poshard feels that establishing the CAC usurps the need for an investigation (of the Forest Service)," Cronin said. "This is where we, R.A.C.E., must protest and protest loudly. This CAC is a sham."

Cronin also said the intended purpose of the exchange of ideas required R.A.C.E.'s leaving the committee.

"We had no choice," Cronin said. "The forum isn't there."

Poshard, who organizes the group, said the Shawnee Forest is the single biggest project currently being undertaken in his office.

He also said the two groups aren't willing to work within the frame work of a democratic system and members of the groups say their answer is the only answer.

Cronin claimed the monthly meetings, which began in the late summer of last year, have been controlled by the Forest Service and that the minutes of those meetings don't accurately reflect what happened at the meetings.

R.A.C.E.'s main argument has been against commercial timber harvest within the forest.

Poshard said R.A.C.E. is being selfish and they want their ideas to become the rules—now.

"R.A.C.E. feels if you're not operating on their time frame, you're ignoring them," Poshard said.

Poshard said he is "sorry" R.A.C.E. members feel as they do, but offered little other sympathy for their cause.

At the beginning of the 7 p.m. meeting, Poshard explained the commotion before the meeting to the 50 or so people crowded into the courtroom.

"If R.A.C.E. wants to operate on their own, they can operate on their own. We're trying to find solutions here and I frankly don't care (about R.A.C.E.'s actions)," Poshard said. He was met with hearty applause.

R.A.C.E. member Joe Glisson, Pomona, reiterated the statement Cronin made that R.A.C.E. is in the process of filing a lawsuit against the Forest Service. Glisson said the suit should be filed "in a couple more weeks."

The meeting finally got to the scheduled business of how roads and trails in the Shawnee Forest should be managed under a revised management plan.

The disheartened, former members of the committee left before the meeting began, with Glisson saying they had nothing to say to Poshard.

English department thrust into limelight

THE ENGLISH department, tucked away in the concrete confines of Faner, has been showing off lately.

While the English department was being restructured to include more of the creative writing segment, dust was swept away from some notable faculty members and their works.

Forty faculty members strong, the English department has gained prestige during the last few years. Its recipe: a strong, dependable crew and a few polished performers.

AMONG THE BEST of them are Rodney Jones and J. Richard Russo, associate professors of English; Donald Hays, assistant professor of English; and Richard Lawson, associate professor and published photographer.

Most recently, Jones, considered by some to be one of the leading American poets of this century, is in the running for the National Books Critic Circle award with his latest collection of poems, Transparent Gestures.

Among his most notable honors, Jones won the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation award in 1985, including a $24,000 purse.

Russo, author of two books, Mohawk and The Risk Pool, has taken a year-long leave of absence from teaching to work on another novel.

FILM RIGHTS TO his first two successes have been sold. The rights to Mohawk, written in 1986, were sold to Light Years Entertainment; of New York. The Risk Pool rights were sold to 20th Century Fox, and Russo is expected to write the film script.

Russo's novels have been published in the United States and in England.

New to the University during fall semester 1989, Hays encountered huge success with his most recent novel, The Hangman's Children. His first novel, The Dixie Association, was published in 1984 by Simon and Schuster.

LAWSON, AUTHOR and distinguished photographer, came to the University in 1963. He co-authored, Fred E. Meyers: Wood-carver, in 1980 with George Mavigliano, associate dean of the School of Art and Design. Their next book, a record of a federal art project in Illinois during 1935 to 1943, is due out in April by the Southern Illinois University Press.

Although their contributions are too numerous to list here, these and other members of the English department have generated renewed interest in their field. Congratulations!

Did Douglas really beat Tyson?

Scripts Howard News Service

It will be a travesty if the World Boxing Council and the World Boxing Association rule that James "Buster" Douglas is not the world heavyweight champion.

Douglas, a relative unknown, shocked nearly everyone when he knocked out Mike Tyson in last weekend's championship bout in Tokyo. Douglas dominated the fight except for the eighth round, and kayoed Tyson in the 10th.

But the WBC and WBA, which are heavily influenced by Tyson's promoter, Don King, suspended the result pending hearings.

In dispute is whether Douglas received a "long count" in the eighth round, when Tyson floored the challenger. Douglas was on his feet at the referee's count of nine, but the referee's count apparently was out of sync with the timekeeper's. Tape recordings of the fight indicate that Douglas was not up until about 12 seconds had elapsed.

Nonetheless, under the rules, the referee's count is supposed to prevail. Douglas' condition at the knockdown seemed to indicate that he could have gotten off the canvas earlier but was relying on the referee's count to determine his action.

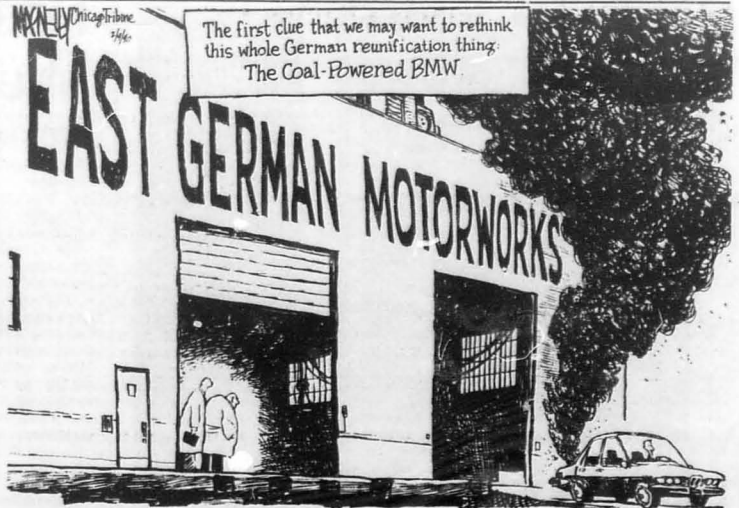

Douglas clearly was the winner and deserves the title. The WBC and WBA ought to accept that.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

News junkie admits tabloid regression

When I returned from vacation, a co-worker asked me what I thought about a major national news story that had occurred while I was away.

I told him I hadn't read it. Looking surprised, he said: "It was in all the papers. Front page."

Then he mentioned a big international development. I told him I had missed that one too.

"Don't you read papers while you're on vacation?"

As a matter of fact, I don't. When I'm working, I read four or five papers a day, plus the various national and international news wires. By the time I go home, I have news squirting out of my ears.

So when I take time off, I try to ignore the great issues of the day. I figure that if something really big happens — the start of World War III or the arrival of Martians — I'll hear people screaming in the streets and will become informed.

Because most news people are news junkies, my co-worker seemed amazed.

"You actually don't read any newspapers?"

So I confessed to a dark, dirty little secret. Yes, when I'm on vacation, I do read one newspaper. And I read that paper only when I'm away from Chicago.

This requires a brief explanation. It begins with the fact that normally I don't do the food shopping. So I don't get into supermarkets.

But while I'm on vacation, I share shopping chores. And as I'm standing in the checkout line, my eyes are drawn to a supermarket publication called Weekly World News.

Because I work for a serious, responsible newspaper, I shouldn't admit this. But I love the Weekly World News.

Mike Royko

Tribune Media Services

If the New York Times can be considered the Mozart of journalism, then the Weekly World News might be described as a journalistic Gergo.

The last issue I read, which I brought back with me, contained nothing about the upheavals in Europe, Bush's budget, the reunification of Germany or other weighty matters.

But it had a screaming headline (all of its headlines scream or, at the very least, shriek) that said: "Bulldog Rips Mercedes To Shreds!"

It seems an Australian's car stalled on a country road. Suddenly a big bulldog came out of a hedge and began chomping his car. "I feared for my life," the man said. The dog's owner said: "I don't know what got into Barney, he's normally a good boy. I guess he just liked the way the car smelled."

A few pages over was the headline: "Rock Music Cures Deaf Girl!"

There was no scientific explanation for this miracle. Maybe the kid had a waxy buildup and the bass guitar burst through.

In most stories, the headlines tell it all. For example:

"Fatal Reunion! Divorced Couple Die When Their Cars

Collide On The Way To Patch Things Up!"

"Old Lady Locked 55 Hours In Coffin-Sized Closet!"

But in that issue, my choice for top headline was: "Love-Swarved Hippo Tries To Mate With Scuba Diver!"

(For those who demand the sordid details, it happened in a river in South Africa where some blokes went swimming. The diver, who suffered a few cracked ribs and considerable indignity, said: "He thought I was his mate." An animal expert said the young man was lucky. "Hippos are fierce lovers who don't stop until completely satisfied, and they are used to getting their way.")

Keep that in mind if you plan to swim among hippos.

A close second to the hippo headline was the one about an incident in Swaziland, which also is self-explanatory:

"Cannibal Steals Accident Victims' Corpses And Eats Them!"

And this country became hysterical when California motorists were shooting at each other!

Finally there was the story about a West German man who was slicing some salami for a snack before his favorite TV show came on. The knife slipped, and he cut his hand.

Apparently he was a TV addict. The headline tells it all:

"Man Bleeds To Death While Watching TV! He Wanted To Finish His Program Before Going To Get Help!"

But the vacation is over, so I'm back to significance. Will Jesse run? Will Gorbachev survive? What about Bush's budget? And how will we solve the problems of the inner city?

I think maybe I'll start doing the food shopping.

Apology from team player shows responsibility

Recently I was involved in a freak accident at the arena. I was playing basketball on the arena floor and suddenly was hit on the side of the head by a batted baseball. There is a batting cage on the arena concourse, and somehow a baseball had bypassed the netting.

It was not clear at first how serious the injury was. As I sat on the bleachers with ice, someone came to me, told me his name and apologized.

I give the young man a lot of credit. It was not easy for him to face what could have been a very tense situation. Actually, he could have disappeared and nobody would have known the difference. I was certainly in no position to find out who had hit the ball. It was very nice to see someone have enough character to do the right thing, even in a tough situation.

Congratulations, Tim. Your actions were a credit to yourself and to your team. Thanks for reminding us how to act responsibly. — Bill Patula, Department of Mathematics.

against the violence of apartheid," said the silver-haired, fit-looking, 71-year-old black leader. "But we remain committed to peace if the government gives us the opportunity."

"If they normalize the situation, we're ready to make a positive contribution towards the peaceful settlement of the problems of this country," Mandela said, speaking in the garden of Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu's official residence in Cape Town.

In coastal Natal province, violence erupted for a third day between members of Chief Mangosuthu Buthelezi's conservative Zulu Inkatha Movement and ANC supporters. Since Saturday at least 28 people have been killed and an estimated 2,000 forced to flee homes set on fire by rival groups.

While Mandela has repeated his call for the government to completely lift the 43-month-old state of emergency, a commentary by the South African Broadcasting

Corp. Monday said the violence in Natal was "one of the chief factors holding up the ending of the state of emergency."

"The need for national reconciliation is obvious, but it cannot be forged from a narrow base," the commentary said. "It must be constructed over a broad front, spanning not only racial barriers but also the ideological differences that are found within the particular races, as is to be seen in the black-on-black violence in Natal."

In Soweto, hundreds maintained a vigil outside Mandela's home, its fence and a nearby garage adorned with banners proclaiming: "Power to the People, May It Come to Africa" and "Mandela Is Coming ... Forward to Victory." "ANC will conquer! ANC will govern!" rose the chant from young blacks who jogging up and down a section of Vilakazi Street outside Mandela's home.

By evening the crowd was more subdued than some of the estimated 60,000 who turned out in antiipation of a welcome rally for Mandela Monday at Soweto's Orlando Stadium. Dozens fainted from the heat, dehydration and hunger after waiting in the sun.

UDF spokesman Murphy Morobe said aides were trying to make Mandela's arrival "as dignified as possible" and were trying to "relieve the pressure" of the people surrounding the Mandela house.

Freud unconditionally from life imprisonment Sunday by President Frederik de Klerk, Mandela told reporters in Cape Town he had hopes that negotiations intended to end the country's racial strife were at hand.

"I am confident that if Mr. de Klerk is able to carry the National Party with him in the new line he has taken — that he himself wants to normalize the situation as soon as possible — I think that very soon the obstacles to negotiations will be removed and it will be possible for us to sit down and talk," Mandela said.

for cocaine provides drug cartels with billions of dollars.

Bush's arrival signals a willingness to meet the South Americans on their own soil and discuss what South American nations have repeatedly said was a complicated economic and social situation.

"This is an unprecedented meeting and a great thing that is happening in our area, in Latin America," Bolivian President Jaime Paz Zamora told a Bogota radio station Monday. "There must be concrete results for the welfare of our people and the support of Latin America in conjunction with the United States."

"I am going to Cartagena with a lot of optimism," he said.

Colombia, Peru and Bolivia have been pressing the United States to provide not only military aid but also money for programs for alternative economic development.

Peru and Bolivia, the major producers of the coca leaf, cocaine's main ingredient, want to promote the substitution of other crops among poor farmers. They also are pushing to open U.S. markets to those crops in order to give the farmers an income if they make the switch. Coca can now bring as much as six times the income of a traditional crop.

President Alan Garcia of Peru met last week with coca leaf farmers to discuss alternative programs. The government of Bolivia also has formed a council with grower representatives.

Colombia seeks not only substantial help for its police and military to fight the powerful producing cartels but also improved prices for coffee and an open market for flowers and textiles.

Colombia also has pushed for the view that the problem of drug trafficking is universal and not the responsibility of any one nation.

The newspaper El Tiempo quoted unnamed government sources Monday as saying the administration of President Virgilio Barco was satisfied it had achieved recognition of that view.

The summit will "celebrate the fact that we're beginning to think alike on these problems," he said.

The College of Education has 2,548 enrolled students, an increase of 83. The College of Engineering and Technology has 2,109 enrolled students, a decrease of 249. The College of Liberal Arts has 2,753 enrolled students, an increase of 752.

The College of Science has 960 enrolled students, an increase of 70. The College of Technical Careers has 3,396 enrolled students, a decrease of 114.

The Graduate School has 3,760 enrolled students, an increase of 95. The School of Law has 298 enrolled students, an increase of eight. The School of Medicine has 271 enrolled students, an increase of 21.

In addition, the number of unclassified undergraduates is 50, an increase of nine, and the number of pre-major students is 2,431, an increase of 157.

The recently abolished College of Human Resources lost its spring 1989 total of 683 students to the other academic units. The newly-formed School of Social Work had an enrollment of 186.

The number of pre-med students dropped from two to zero, and the number of weekend and evening students dropped from 15 to six.

money." Illinois residents won't see the positive financial effects of riverboat gambling, but they will see the negative side associated with gambling, Woolard said.

Secretary of State Jim Edgar said if he were governor, he would have vetoed the legislation.

Edgar, who is seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said Illinois has enough gambling and he fears people just aren't going to spend the money on gambling.

"I hope I'm wrong about this legislation and it becomes a boon for the state, but I think it will create more problems than benefits," Edgar said.

Edgar said he shared Woolard's concerns and warned of possible organized crime involvement as legalized gambling grows.

A five-member, governor-appointed state gaming board was created to issue licenses and to ensure the riverboat gambling runs smoothly in Illinois.

Dunn said he was concerned that the legislation itself has minimal restrictions on the licenses to be issued and sets no limits on bets and allows, but he said he would urge the gaming board to put a cap on the betting.

Funeral services to be held for crash victim

By Jeff Stoeber Staff Writer

Funeral services for University student Jeffrey Allen Luse will be at 11 a.m. Thursday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 307 W. Weldon, in Roberts, Ill.

A motorcycle carrying Jeffrey A. Luse and Matthew Sheehan struck a curb at 400 N. University Ave., at about 12:37 a.m. Sunday, Susan Davis, SIU-C news coordinator said.

Luse, a senior in philosophy from Roberts, was flown by helicopter to University Hospital in St.

Louis where he died from multiple trauma at 7:30 a.m. Sunday, police said.

Sheehan, a former University student, was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale. Sheehan was a senior in aviation flight when he attended SIU-C in fall 1989.

Luse is survived by his parents Paul Allen and Linda Kay (Johnson) Luse of Roberts, a sister Katherine of Champaign, a brother Christopher Allen of Champaign, and a grandmother Grace W. Kubala of Mentor, Ohio.

Luse and Sheehan resided at 701 S. Wall St.

Luse had worked as a relief manager at Varsity Theaters the last six months, Bryon Kluesner, manager at Varsity Theaters, said.

"Everybody loved him. He was an excellent worker. We're really going to miss him."

Luse was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Berca, Ohio. Luse will be buried at Lyman Cemetery in Roberts.

Memorials for Luse can be made to St. Paul's Lutheran Church or to the memorial of your choice.

Faculty Senate meeting to focus on CCFA dean search

By Brian Gross
Staff Writer

The IEA-NEA will raise questions over the procedures in a search for a dean for the College of Communications and Fine Arts at the Faculty Senate meeting in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center at 1 p.m. today.

Gretel Chapman, CCFA faculty and IEA-NEA member, said he hopes to persuade the senate not to approve a title change for Marvin Kleinau from acting dean to dean. The change was requested by Benjamin Shepherd, vice president for academic affairs.

The IEA-NEA voiced its concerns over the matter in a letter to Shepherd. The concerns were over the delays in searching for a new dean and the violation of affirmative action and hiring procedures in changing Kleinau's title. The letter also stressed that the process is being questioned, not Kleinau.

In other business, the senate will resolve a recommendation to President John C. Guyon to spend no state or university monies for travel, just unrestricted gift monies and foundation or direct grant monies.

The senate will also resolve the voting representation procedure for the School of Social Work at the meeting.

"In restructuring the College of Human Resources, the social work unit was not placed into a college," Paige said. "When the college was abolished, the other units were put in various places. Social work stayed a free-floating department, under the supervision of an assistant vice-president, which removes it from being in a constituency group of the Faculty Senate."

During the last senate meeting in December, a resolution for social work to remain free-standing and still be represented on the senate was voted down because the school did not have the required number of faculty, 25.

"In passing this resolution, (social work) has determine what college it wants to be a part of," Paige said.

Interim arrangements for senate representation could be made at the meeting, Mary Davidson, director of social work, said, but the school wants to remain free-standing.

"It's not my position to question (the senate's) decision," Davidson said. "They're doing what they believe is best, but they are making a decision out of the main stream. All the flagship schools in Illinois have separate representation for autonomous social work departments, no matter how small. They're failing to recognize our accomplishments on campus."

A postponed Judicial Review Board election will be held at the meeting. The election was postponed because of changes in format that prevented the senate from getting information at the December meeting, Paige said.

Under new business, Paige said the senate will review a request by the Student Wellness Center that a faculty member be appointed to its drug awareness board. Also under new business, the senate will discuss the addition of Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday to the spring calendar as a holiday.

"There's been a big push to take off Martin Luther King Day," Paige said, "but having two Mondays off in the spring, it goes up the calendar."

Paige said placing a second holiday during spring break would give workers in such areas as maintenance a day off, but professors will not lose class days.

Legislator: SIU-C must improve black, minority enrollment levels

By Peter Zalewski
Staff Writer

Enrollment of blacks and minorities can be improved at SIU-C, U. S. Rep. Charles A. Hayes D-Chicago, said at a lecture here Monday.

"SIU, the second largest university in the state of Illinois in enrollment, I can venture to say, can improve the enrollment of blacks and minority students," Hayes said.

"Our educational system is geared towards the elitist part of our society," Hayes said. "Poverty is growing and will continue to grow as we neglect to educate and prepare our young."

"We need to recognize education as the best defense this nation has for the future," said Hayes. "Our representatives' commitment to give every kid an opportunity who wants an education, to get that education."

The question of where the money will come from to continue a student's education is unclear, Hayes said. He speculated that it was much easier to cut out aid to education and entitled programs, then it is to not build another Stealth bomber.

"There is no possibility for eliminating grants, in order to put money towards loans for all students," said Hayes, "I don't think it would be better to eliminate the grant program and go to only a loan program, with the thought in mind, that it would enhance the opportunity of the poor and middle class students."

Hayes had been vice president and regional director of the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union, and is interested in more representation by women and blacks in the ranks of union leadership.

Hayes serves on the Committee on Education and Labor and the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service.

Environmental artwork requested for exhibit

By Jeanne Bickler
Entertainment Editor

Illinois artists are invited to enter ecological or environmental artworks in the second annual juried exhibition at the Up Front Gallery in Bloomington, Ill.

The gallery's non-profit, artist-operated exhibition space is seeking artwork which comments in any way on ecological or environmental themes, or expresses concerns about man's relationship with nature. The work can take any form and use any type of media.

The exhibition is being juried by Gail Simpson, an assistant professor of sculpture at Illinois State University, and Aris Georgiades, a multi-media artist.

Along with selecting works to be exhibited in the show, the jurors will choose some works for cash awards. An estimated $1,000 will be available for awards. The awards will be announced at the opening of the show on April 21, at 3 p.m.

Entry forms are available by sending a request letter to: Art and Ecology, Up Front Gallery, P.O. Box 4036, Bloomington, Ill, 61702. Each entry must be accompanied by an entry fee of $5.

Stage Company to perform Tony Award winning play

By Stephanie Steirer
Staff Writer

"The Shadow Box," the Tony Award winning play written by Michael Cristofer, opens Friday at The Stage Company.

The play, which received a Pulitzer Prize in 1977 and was named the Best Play of 1976-77, takes place in three adjacent cottages on the grounds of a large hospital.

Living within each cottage is a terminally ill patient and his or her family and close friends. Each family has its own story to tell and, while never interacting between cottages, the stories intertwine side-by-side on stage.

The main theme of the play, directed by Roy Weshinsky, emeritus professor in the Department of English at SIU-C, is about the celebration life.

Because of its delicate subject matter and use of profanity, "The Shadow Box" is intended for mature audiences.

This is The Stage Company's third production of the current season. The box office is now open at the community theater, 101 Washington St.

The performances run for three consecutive weekends; Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m.

Sex no 'super glue' for friendship

By Julie Beardsley
Wellness Center

To Your Health

"The thrill of victory. The agony of defeat."

Sometimes sex is a game of conquest rather than an expression of love. "He loves me? She loves me not?" Sometimes it seems sex is more about strategy game-playing than about intimacy.

During your college years, the decision whether or not to have sex may become a priority in your life. The decision is not a simple one and there may be several things to consider while deciding what levels of sexual intimacy is right for you.

Some reasons for not having sex include: A personal/moral belief that sex only belongs in a marriage or serious committed relationship; fear of pregnancy-abstaining from sex is the only 100 percent guaranteed protection from pregnancy; fear of sexually transmitted diseases and AIDS; and fear of being too vulnerable. Whatever the reason for deciding to abstain from sex, building relationships on the basis of friendship can be an exciting experience of intimacy.

Sex is not the super glue that holds relationships together. It takes more than sex to develop the trust, understanding and acceptance of each other that will carry a couple through times of vulnerability and changing commitments. If the decision is made to let the relationship grow without sex, it gives time to share, time to get to know each other well, time to share experiences, feelings, thoughts and, most of all, time to become good friends. Relationships built on friendship have a greater chance of surviving and flourishing.

Remember, to have or not to have sex is not a permanent decision. The choice is up to each individual, in their own time, with whom they choose. Each person is in control of their sexuality and life.

The Health Advocate at the Wellness Center has declared the week of February 18 as "Sexual Abstinence Week." Show your support by sharing with a friend why you are not "doing it." For more information call the Wellness Center at 536-4441.

Search for six fugitives moves to Chicago after capture of convict

JOLIET (UPI) — An intensive manhunt for five of six dangerous fugitives who broke out of Joliet Correctional Center focused early Monday on the Chicago area, where at least two of them had relatives.

One of the fugitives, Tommy Munoz, 22, was captured near his home on Chicago's South Side Sunday evening. Department of Corrections spokesman Nic Howell said. An anonymous tip led authorities to the convict.

Munoz was imprisoned on narcotics-related convictions and for intimidating a witness, authorities said.

A nationwide alert was issued for the remaining five fugitives. "Basically everybody should be very cautious anywhere. These guys are dangerous," Howell said.

Three of the convicts were serving time for murder and are considered "extremely dangerous," Howell said.

They are James F. Allen, 40,

Chicago, convicted of three murders; Dave Rodriguez, 21, Chicago, convicted of murder; and Daniel Johnson, 24, of Bureau, Tenn., also convicted of murder.

Police also sought Terry W. Colburn, 21, Fulton, Mo., a convicted burglar, and Ron Roach, in his 20s, Wyoming, Ill., also convicted of burglary.

The six escaped from the disciplinary segregation unit of the maximum-security prison, 45 miles southwest of Chicago.

Springfield recognizes Lincoln's birthday

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Veterans and state leaders laid 20 wreaths at the tomb of Abraham Lincoln Monday in an annual pilgrimage to mark the 181st anniversary of his birth.

About 200 people gathered at the ceremonies at Oak Ridge Cemetery. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., a J Rep. Richard Durbin, D-Ill., presented a wreath sent from President Bush made of red, white and blue carnations. Both compared Lincoln's desire for freedom to the democratic movements in Eastern Europe and the release from prison of black activist Nelson Mandela in South Africa.

"There is something special about Abraham Lincoln," Simon said. "He has captured the hearts not just of Americans but of people everywhere around the world."

Simon said, "This past year has been a great year for freedom and that's what Abraham Lincoln lived for, what he died for."

Lincoln owned his only home in Springfield and lived in that downtown residence from 1844-60 while he practiced law and served in the Illinois General Assembly.

He is buried with his wife, Mary Todd Lincoln, and some of his children at the tomb.

Durbin said Lincoln "embodied the greatness of America," and the Springfield representative called on Americans to use Lincoln's wisdom when planning for this nation's future.

"It's not enough to only recall the life of Lincoln with speeches and warm admiration," Durbin said. "We must remember it with personal dedication, a dedication to apply Lincoln's values to our world today."

West Frankfort woman pushes for 'Coal Day'

WEST FRANKFORT (UPI) — Efforts by a Southern Illinois woman to have a national commemorative day for coal miners has caught the attention of state and national legislators.

A resolution asking Congress to designate Sept. 23 "American Coal Miners Day" was approved last month by the Illinois House, Rep. Larry Woolard, D-Carterville, said Monday.

The resolution that passed the Illinois House cites contributions by coal miners to the American labor movement and reminds the public about the dangers of coal mining.

June Valenciano, a West Frankfort resident, is circulating petitions in support of the day. Valenciano said her father was a coal miner.

Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Ill., is working to draft legislation that would set aside the day, said Dave Stricklin, a spokesman in Washington for Poshard.

Bush says 'solid progress' made in arms negotiations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush declared Monday "solid progress" had been made in three key areas of arms negotiations with the Soviet Union this past week, but insisted the United States would stand by its latest plan for cutting numbers of troops in Europe.

At a White House news conference, Bush stopped short of promising the two superpowers would be able to sign treaties on new limits for conventional arms and nuclear and chemical weapons at the planned June summit between himself and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

But he insisted that progress was made in all areas during Secretary of State James Baker's trip to Moscow.

Baker's trip, Bush said, made "solid progress in pushing the U.S.-Soviet agenda forward."

"All in all, Secretary Baker's talks in Moscow accomplished much of what Chairman Gorbachev and I intended when we set the goals for this meeting" at the summit in Malta, Bush said.

"Secretary Baker's visit to Moscow made solid progress in pushing the U.S.-Soviet agenda forward in preparation for the June summit here," Bush said. "We made important headway on conventional arms control, START, nuclear testing and chemical weapons and continued to explore ways to reduce our differences on regional issues, especially concerning Central America and Afghanistan."

"I'm not sure that there will be three treaties to be signed by the time we have this summit, but I think there is going to be progress toward all three," the president noted.

However, Bush appeared to reject Gorbachev's counter-proposal on conventional troop levels in Europe.

Bush has proposed cutting U.S. and Soviet forces in Central Europe to 195,000. But Bush has suggested that an additional 30,000 U.S. forces be kept in Western Europe.

Gorbachev has countered with a plan that would leave the Soviets and United States at the same levels in all of Europe.

"We're going to stay with our proposal because we don't see this linkage to that degree," Bush said.

"We've got a big ocean between us and Western Europe. So the argument that we should always have a linked reduction is one I want to get away from now," the president said. "I think we've made some real progress on this."

Despite the difference, Bush said the two superpowers were not at an impasse over the issue.

"I wouldn't call it an impasse. This is the way it works when you're discussing these arms control things," he stressed.

The president insisted that the NATO allies wanted the additional U.S. troops in Europe as a "stabilizing" force and suspected that Eastern European countries also would be pleased with the American presence.

He said while recent events in Europe and the Soviet Union were "extraordinary," no one could adequately predict what would happen in the future.

Bush also praised the move in the Soviet Union to open the political process and let others compete with the Communist Party and said it was another sign of why his administration has supported Gorbachev's moves for perestroika and glasnost.

On another matter, Bush said he wanted to discuss U.S. sanctions against South Africa with newly freed South African black leader Nelson Mandela and President Frederik de Klerk, but stressed that those economic penalties, as currently written, could not be lessened until South Africa takes more steps to eliminate apartheid.

Bush has invited both men to visit the White House and he said Monday that in separate telephone conversations with the two, they had accepted those invitations in principle, although no date had been set.

Thurmond stalks longevity record in Senate service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., seeking re-election at 87, is stalking some legendary longevity records and proving again that great age is no barrier to Senate service.

Thurmond, who is so strong politically that no Democrat has come forward to challenge him, would become the oldest senator ever elected at 87 years and 11 months.

The record, held by Sen. Theodore Green, D-R.I., is 87 years and 1 month set in 1960.

Green left office when he was 93 years and 3 months old after deciding not to seek re-election in 1960. Thurmond, if he completes the entire six-year term, would be 94 years and 1 month old.

Glasnost opening the door for performing arts at SIU-C

By Dale Walker
Staff Writer

SIU-C has a good deal of student and faculty exchange programs internationally, but, Dr. Robert Roubos, director of the School of Music, said, none of those exchanges were for the performing arts. In the last two years things have changed.

Roubos took his first trip with the purpose of establishing communications that could result in an exchange two years ago, he said.

"Now that Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union are opening up, the United States has a wonderful opportunity to build bridges of understanding between our countries," Roubos said.

Roubos said that music is an excellent medium for purposes of exchange.

"Music is a universal language. It helps in world understanding," he said.

Roubos said he was in Romania and Hungary two years ago to perform in some concerts and while he was there he started to talk to officials of conservatories about possible exchanges.

In Hungary he contacted the Franz Liszt Academy of Music and in Romania he talked to the officials in the embassy in Bucharest and officials in the art management agency, also in Bucharest, he said.

As a result of that visit the SIU faculty jazz quintet got an invitation to go to Romania. They are scheduled to go to Romania for a seven concert tour, he said.

"We hope that now that Romania has opened up we're hoping that we can get an official exchange agreement with Romania," Roubos said.

On Roubos' next excursion, he went to Latvia, one of 15 provinces of the Soviet Union. Roubos went there because of the efforts of Alfred Straumanis, professor in the theater department, he said. Straumanis is from Latvia and he had worked for a long time to get an exchange, Roubos said.

"When I went there I played two concerts and met with the Rector of the Conservatory of Music in Rega, Latvia," Roubos said. "He was interested in exchanges."

Straumanis wrote a United States Information Agency grant for $50,000 so the Latvian and SIU faculty could exchange and it was approved, Roubos said.

Since then two Latvian theater faculty have come to SIU-C and two music faculty from SIU will go to Latvia for one month in April, he said. Two musicians from Latvia will come here for two months in the fall and two more will come for two months in the spring. One theater faculty member and one music faculty member from SIU will go to Latvia in spring, 1991 to finish the exchange, Roubos said.

In the summer of 1989, Roubos went to Yagoslavia where he met with officials from Edward Kardelj University of Ljubljana and officialians from the Festival Ljubljana, an artistic festival held every summer.

As a result, one music faculty member from SIU went there and four music faculty from Latvia have been invited for 1991, Roubos said.

In December 1989, Roubos returned to Latvia. The 70th anniversary of the Latvian State Conservatory was being celebrated, he said. While there, Roubos met the heads of other conservatories and discussed future exchanges.

As a result of the December Latvian visit, Roubos will go to Poland in June. He will play in some concerts and discuss possible exchanges, he said. During the same trip, Roubos went to Leningrad.

He met with the president of the Leningrad State Conservatory of Music, the oldest conservatory in Russia, Roubos said.

"He and I agreed that we should develop exchanges," he said. "If we could develop that (exchange) it would be very good because they're (Leningrad) prestigious and it's a great cultural city," he said.

Roubos will be part of an exchange with Schloss Hofen-Lochau in Vorarlberg, Austria. Roubos will go there in June and an Austrian organist will come here in September, he said. There will be an exchange between an SIU-C and an Austrian choral director this year, he said.

Reunified Germany topic of April summit between 'Big Four' victors

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Opposition social democrats in East and West Germany called Monday for the convening in spring of a conference with Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union to prepare for German reunification.

The proposal was made on the eve of East German Prime Minister Hans Modrow's two-day visit to Bonn, amid increasing calls for a rapid reunification of the two states, which have been divided since Germany lost World War II.

In a joint statement, both the West German Social Democratic Party and the East German SPD said a unified Germany could belong neither to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nor to the Warsaw Pact.

Officials of NATO, the Western military alliance, had earlier rejected a plan by Modrow which called for the neutrality of both countries as a step toward reunification.

The SPD said a decision on the military strength of the new Germany would have to be made within the framework of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

The parties also called for a spring meeting with the four World War II victors — the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

"This conference of the six states should take place in the second half of April," and "must agree to a security-political framework for the unified Germany and steps toward it."

At a later stage, the conference should be enlarged to include Germany's neighbors, the SPD said in the statement.

A member of East Germany's opposition movement New Forum warned Monday in Oslo, Norway, that plans for German reunification were "going too fast."

"In East Germany, we are unable to put economic conditions on our negotiations with our big brothers in the West," New Forum member Werner Schulz told Norway's news agency, NTB. "Nonetheless, we of the New Forum are worried that reunification looks as if it will arrive before we've established our own democratic systems."

On his return from weekend talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Moscow, Kohl indicated the two German states would have to begin talks on the reunification issue with the World War II victors.

He said he expected that a single German state could be formed before 1992, now that Gorbachev had given "a green light,"

Soviet Communist Party to exert control over establishment of new political parties

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The Soviet Communist Party will control the eventual establishment of new political parties and will fight to stop the formation of any parties that pit Soviet nationalities against one another, Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov said Monday.

Ryzhkov, a member of the ruling Communist Party Politburo and widely considered an ally of President Mikhail Gorbachev, said last week's decision to give up the party's constitutionally guaranteed dominance did not mean it would allow the immediate formation of any and all other political parties.

"The Communist Party agrees to the existence of other political and social organizations. And some time later, in the future, it also agrees to the establishment of new political parties," he said at a news conference concluding a two-day official visit to Thailand.

Ryzhkov said there was no need to rush the establishment of new parties "because we still believe that today the driving force of political change is the Communist Party, as it has been historically and it will go on being."

He said new laws had to be passed to provide a legal basis for competing parties "to regulate the establishment and existence of these parties."

"If these parties are for the conservation of our society, for the construction of our society, then we think they have a right to live, a right to exist," he said.

"But if the parties are for pitting two nationalities against each other, then we think that these kinds of organizations should not be established," he said.

MVC, from Page 20

Included in this package will be the Pepsi Missouri Valley Conference championship game March 6, which will be held this year at the 10,200-seat Arena on the campus of Illinois State.

"Look at the Big East. Television made them what they are today. They had some good teams, but they really became strong when the national exposure was given to them," Herrin said.

"We're very excited about our continuing relationship with ESPN," MVC Commissioner Doug Elgin said. "The phenomenal growth of ESPN and college basketball over the past 10 years goes hand-in-hand, and the Missouri Valley is looking forward to being a part of the second decade of sports coverage by ESPN."

—Rich Herrin

The league returned to a Saturday game-of-the-week feature for the first time in four years. A total of 10 regular season games will be picked up by Creative Sports Marketing, a national television syndication and production company based in North Carolina. The games are being aired in MVC cities and on SportsChannel America, which reaches approximately 12 million homes nationally.

ing 1.5 million homes in the Chicago area and parts of Wisconsin, Indiana and Iowa, will contribute to the coverage of the MVC. It will telecast portions of the Pepsi MVC Tournament.

Prime Network also has picked up a total of seven MVC games this season. It reaches approximately 10 million homes. Ron English, MVC director of communications, said.

SportsChannel Chicago, reach-

One additional national telecast involving a MVC team will take place Feb. 28 when Bradley takes on DePaul. The game will be carried live on Chicago-based superstation WGN.

"We try to maximize Missouri Valley exposure, and television is the best vehicle for this," English said. "We are very pleased with the television packages we got this year. It will definitely help the coaches when it comes time to recruit."

When it comes to promoting the MVC, nothing is more effective than winning, Elgin said. And when the teams are winning they get national exposure on television.

The mix can be very rewarding when it comes to recruiting time.

The conference standings also are producing much excitement in the Valley. With Illinois State, Tulsa and Creighton at 6-3 in the conference and SIU-C a half game out at 5-3 the race should create a great deal of media exposure throughout the country.

One characteristic of the MVC most coaches are eager to point out is attendance. The Valley ranked 9th in attendance last year among NCAA Division I conferences. A total of 791,891 fans packed the MVC arenas to watch the eight Valley teams in action. League rivalries attracted more than 406,000 fans to the 56 MVC conference games.

"We don't have figures for this year in order to compare attendance to the past seasons, but from the reports we do have it looks like we will draw more fans this year than ever before," Elgin said.

Ladies' track has 17 bests, finishes last

By Sean Hannigan
Staff Writer

The women's indoor track team finished last, but not least at the Purdue Quadrangular meet this weekend.

Coach Don DeNoon, who is looking ahead to the conference championship to be held here in two weeks, saw timely improvement in his club.

"The thing that highlights the meet is the 17 personal bests recorded out of 35 performances. This shows that we're coming together at just the right time," DeNoon said.

He pointed out that the competition at the meet this weekend could prove to be tougher than conference opposition. Purdue won with 164 points, ahead of Wisconsin 115, Murray State 95 and SIU-C 94.

"I certainly hoped we could do a little better. We finished a point off Murray State for the second time this year," DeNoon said.

"Our two triple jumpers did a real fine job," DeNoon said highlighting the top Saluki.

Nacolia Moore finished second in the triple jump with a 37' 4 1/2", ahead of third-place Saluki Michelle Williams 36' 3".

Brandy Mock beat her top mark in the 400-meter run by a couple of seconds with a 58.45 time that netted her third.

"Our distance runners Leeann Conway, Dawn Barefoot and Cathy Brown did a real fine job," DeNoon said.

"We have to have better chemistry with our sprinters and have our distance runners keep going the way they're going," DeNoon said.

As for the conference meet, the Dawgs will have the capabilities of Danielle Sciano, a top point scorer, who stayed home to attend a funeral this weekend. DeNoon estimated his team lost 9 to 12 points due to her absence.

DeNoon and his staff will be using this week to solidify decisions on where his athletes will be placed for the championships.

Men's tennis team battered, beaten on weekend venture

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

The Saluki tennis team walked into a battlefield this weekend and barely escaped with their lives. The team journeyed to Wisconsin and Notre Dame to compete in four matches in two days and brought back three losses and three injuries.

The team van was converted into an ambulance as it carried the wounded team home Sunday night.

Freshman Rikard Stenstrom experienced soreness in his right arm, junior Joe Demeterco suffered a hamstring pull and freshman Yan Lerval possibly fractured his kneecap when he smacked it with his tennis racket. Already on the injured list is senior Mickey Maule, who suffered a stomach muscle pull last weekend at Indiana.

Maule was competing in the Rolex National Indoor Intercollegiate Tennis Championship in Minnesota so he did not travel with the team.

For most of the weekend the Salukis were healthy. They began competition at Wisconsin, the Big Ten champion in the fall. The Badgers downed the Salukis 7-2.

Demeterco was the only singles winner for SIU-C, taking his opponent in three sets 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Following the Wisconsin match the Salukis drove to Notre Dame, a journey LeFevre wishes he never had made.

The Salukis captured the first match of the Notre Dame Quad 8-1 over Bowling Green of Ohio, but literally fell apart afterwards.

In its second match of the day SIU-C fell to the Fighting Irish 6-0.

"We had some good matches. We had some guys down in the first set but we couldn't hang on. We should have beaten some of them," LeFevre said.

Stenstrom started to feel sore-ness in his right arm during his Notre Dame singles match. He continued action against Western Michigan, SIU-C's next opponent, but was forced to retire after losing the first set 6-3.

Demeterco, playing in the No. 1 spot for the absent Maule, was hobbling on a pulled hamstring during his singles match, but was able to take his Bronco opponent to three sets before losing 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

The only winners for SIU-C in its 7-2 defeat by Western Michigan were freshmen John W. Brown (6-4, 6-2) and Tim Derowin (6-2, 6-2).

"I was expecting a split this weekend, but we didn't get it. We should have beaten Western Michigan," LeFevre said. "I believe Bowling Green, who we beat, is a better team than Western Michigan. We just couldn't overcome our injuries."

Women's tennis gets doubles help to take 2 of 3 matches over weekend

By Sean Hannigan
Staff Writer

The rock monster Meatloaf once crooned, "Don't be sad, 'cuz two out of three ain't bad." Women's Tennis coach Judy Auld is satisfied to be humming that tune after a tough three-team dual match to kick off her season.

The Salukis traveled to Northern Illinois University and defeated the Huskies and Toledo, but lost to Marquette. Auld claims her team is "bruised and blistered", but generally satisfied with the results.

One of the weaknesses of recent teams has been the doubles teams. This weekend the Salukis won 6 of 9 matches.

"We're very strong in singles. Now I'm confident that our doubles teams have come together," Auld said.

Michelle Toye and Beth Boardman won all three of their matches, winning the team's only doubles match against NIU 6-4, 2-6, 7-5.

Auld called it a crucial victory in beating NIU.

Lori Gallagher, a freshman who was lost last season to illness, won all three of her matches. She beat Stephanie Ide of Toledo 6-1, 6-1, pounded Marquette's Laura Klingler 6-0, 6-0, and silenced NIU's Kris Whitney 7-5, 6-0.

Lori Edwards won her first two matches against Toledo and Marquette, but fell short to Monica Larson when they decided to play a tie-breaker even though it wasn't necessary to the outcome of the match.

"She could have been undefeated, but overall I thought she had an excellent weekend," Auld said.

On the loss to Marquette, Auld felt the match could have went either way, with fatigue possibly being a factor.

"This was our first time out this year. These other teams already have matches under their belts," Auld said.

Rakers Setting Pace

Junior forward Amy Rakers is showing why she is an All-American candidate.

Rakers leads the Gateway in scoring and rebounding (20.1, 10.9) and field goal percentage (56%).

If Rakers continues this pace she will break single-season school records for scoring (561, Char Warring, 1983), rebounding (289, Sue Faber, 1979) and points per game (20.1, Sue Faber, 1979).

"Amy has played very well in the conference season and I'm proud of what she's accomplished," Scott said. "You have to credit her teammates who have done a fine job finding her in great situations."

Rakers, like any star, receives special attention from opposing defenses. Scott said Rakers is starting to get her teammates involved in the Saluki offense.

"Amy is returning the favor now because teams are double-teaming her," Scott said. "She is doing a fine job getting the ball to her teammates on the perimeter."

Rakers has confidence in her teammates.

"We have guards that can shoot the ball," Rakers said. "It's just a matter of getting the ball to them."

The results are starting to show. Nine players scored for the Salukis in their victory over Northern Iowa. Smith, averaging 10 points in conference play, scored 12 at Northern.

The Salukis received 23 points from reserves off the bench. Senior forward Deanna Kibelkis scored 11 and sophomore forward Karrie Redeker added 7. The Salukis also received quality minutes from junior forward Cyd Mitchell and freshman center Kelly Firth on the recent road swing.

"I believe we have to have balanced scoring to be as good as we can be," Scott said.

Heimstead said the Salukis are trying to fashion a more balanced attack.

"We're looking for other people besides Amy but we really depend on her," Heimstead said. "We look to her all the time but we have other people that can score too."

Jensen Humbled by 'D'

Drake's Jan Jensen, the second-leading scorer in the Gateway at 19.6 points per game, has had trouble scoring against the Salukis.

In two games this season Jensen has scored a total of only 18 points against the Salukis.

The Salukis are second in Gateway scoring defense (62.9) and field goal percentage defense (.418).

two seasons, but with other players stepping up their game he can step out of the paint more and add to the all-around effectiveness of the team.

"I think it's the mental outlook (desire) of this team," Shipley said. "We know it's an asset and we really work on it. It's just wanting to win and wanting to the ball."

"Everybody knows what kind of player Jerry Jones," Shipley said. "Andrew Amaya goes after the ball as much as anybody does. Freddie can go in and get some rebounds and I like to get in there and mix it up."

Weaver said. "I think our players did a tremendous job on Saturday. We made the Creighton post-people keep adjusting back and forth. There was just no set pattern that they could throw the ball in there."

The Salukis are averaging eight steals per game. At the present rate, last season's total of 203 will be surpassed by almost 40 steals.

"We teach them in practice but the players are making it happen in the games," Weaver said. "I think that Southern Illinois is passing the test. Especially on the defensive end."

Defense is something the coaching staff says should be consistent on a game to game basis. While shooting can have on and off nights.

"Defensively you can come out and play each night because it's just an individual effort with a team concept," Weaver said. "I think we should be able to play a good defensive ball game every night."

The athletic ability and personal desire make the Salukis one of the most dominating and physically intimidating teams in the league.

Junior forward Rick Shipley led the Salukis in rebounding his first
