Revised Affirmative Action plan to be submitted to HEW

By Wes Smith
Daily Egyptian Writer

Portions of a revised plan to maintain racial and sexual balance in hiring at SIU-C will be presented to Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) officials in Chicago Friday Hollis Merritt, assistant to the SIU president said.

"When our Affirmative Action plan was rejected in December we were told to have it revised by Feb. 9. We'll go to Chicago around Feb. 5 to talk with HEW about what we presented in this package and what else needs to be done, Merritt said.

Merritt, who has been co-ordinating the revisions through the various vice-president offices, said he didn't think SIU-C would have a complete Affirmative Action plan ready for the deadline date.

"I don't think we will have totally completed the plan by deadline time but we hope to be far along. We have already implemented parts of the plan although they haven't been approved by HEW yet," he explained.

"Few schools are as far along as we are in implementing a plan and I am told that we compare favorably with other schools in the state. As far as I know only one school in our whole district, which encompasses Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, has come up with an acceptable plan," he related.

Merritt said the amount of revisions required by HEW vary from one area to the next.

"We have to define problem areas in each department. For example, we might find one area where the staff is one hundred per cent male Caucasian. Then we have to show that, when the opportunity arrives, we will make every effort to correct the imbalance," Merritt noted.

"We have to pull together so much data, examine it and set up a plan for each area. It is difficult to project goals and needs if you don't have the proper statistics or know the number of openings that will be available."

Karen Craig, assistant provost in Academic Affairs, is heading up that department's Affirmative Action program and she agrees that compiling data has been her major concern.

"The guidelines set by HEW deal in generalities and we have had a hard time deciding what data we need and getting it," she related.

"HEW says you have to have a representative work force and we are finding that some areas, such as Liberal Arts, aren't representative of the women or minorities available for positions.

HEW says you have to make a good faith effort to hire people and maintain a balance in hiring of applicants and consideration of those who do apply," Craig said.

"We need to do some things with civil service such as putting more women in higher positions and more minority people in on all levels.

"But coming up with a really perfect Affirmative Action plan is almost impossible," she stated. "We have assumed that we've come up with reasonable goals but I'm sure we'll still receive some criticism."

Craig noted that Affirmative Action programs across the country have resulted in schools competing for minority and women and in higher salaries for both groups.

Bruce Swinburne, vice-president for student affairs, said his area has enlisted the aid of volunteers and been working day and night in order to have their plan ready for presentation.

"We are writing, almost from scratch, an Affirmative Action commitment that extends beyond the University," Swinburne said.

He pointed to a cooperative effort with the predominately black, Mississippi Valley State University at Itta Bena as evidence that SIU-C is committed to Affirmative Action.

"We have also just completed a study of male-female equity in the student affairs area that showed we have inequities which need to be resolved. These are of a magnitude that can be corrected and we will have to be diligent in looking for openings and making sure they are announced so everyone qualified can be considered," Swinburne said.

Swinburne said future plans call for establishing a reservoir of job candidates in order to ensure consideration of all minority and women prospects.

He added that recent attempts to hire a minority doctor for the health service had proved unsuccessful.

"We are committed to Affirmative Action because it is only right that we correct past inequities with future ef-

Foreign self sufficiency needed, Butz says

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Student Writer

Many countries receiving food from the United States could be feeding themselves, Dale Butz, agricultural economist and brother U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz said Thursday afternoon.

Butz cited India and nations in Africa as examples of countries that could be self-supporting in food if they had invested their resources in better farming methods instead of in industry.

Butz spoke to about 75 SIU agriculture students about the World Food Conference he attended in Rome in November.

He said one of the questions that came before the delegates of 135 countries attending the conference was how much food the countries need. Butz said the feeling of delegates from affluent countries was that "We have to step back and ask ourselves if they can buy it (food) or should we give it to them?"

Citing Africa, he said, "Even though they have starving people is it right to give them free food if they're using their resources in other fashions?"

He said that since India "gets foreign exchange to buy oil, should they get free food?"

Butz said many of the countries represented at the conference realized they had been taking for granted that they are agricultural countries and invested their money in industry instead of better methods of farming.

He said the delegates realized their countries "would have to reorient their thinking and rechannel their investments" to improve agriculture production.

"They had an awareness that if they were going to get agriculture production they would have to take a look at their political and economic systems," Butz said.

He predicted the countries would have to "relax their restrictions to give the farmer an incentive to produce." He said that on a recent trip to India he saw the country has an area that could be "very productive."

"You don't have to be there very long to realize he's (the farmer) not going to produce more than he needs until has a greater incentive," Butz said.

Describing the conference itself, Butz said many people who expected "great changes in the food situation" were disappointed because the conference "by and large was not a forum designed for action."

Instead, he said, its purpose was to establish goals aimed at heading off increased death by starvation.

Butz listed the three purposes of the conference:

-to increase and expand food production throughout the world,

-to encourage the development of early "warning systems" to head off poor climate conditions for farming and

-to further international trade and improve the balance of trade among the nations.

Butz said the strategy of the six-person delegation from the United States was to put pressure on the other countries, emphasizing that the United States "can't carry the burden alone" and needs the assistance of other nations. He said the United States contributes 85 per cent of the food aid.

A second part of the United States strategy was to "make a conscious effort to put pressure on the Oil

Dale Butz

Producing and Exporting Countries that, because they've accumulated money from high oil prices, "they have an obligation to contribute funds" to the hungry nations. Butz said this was especially true because fertilizer prices skyrocketed because of the increased oil prices.

Butz expressed dismay that many of the countries took the first of the 15 minutes they were allocated to state their positions to attack the United States.

"In spite of all the aid we've given them, I noted only one case of appreciation," Butz said. "Their attitude seemed to be not 'what have you done for me, but what are you going to do for me now?'"

Butz said population control was mentioned "in passing respect" at the conference. "Every time it came up, they would say we're meddling in internal affairs," Butz said. He added that Pope Paul VI issued a statement saying the conference "should" try to solve the food situation through population control.

After the speech, Butz said he favors the encouragement of population control to the hungry countries. "It's got to get into line," he said, adding that the high birth rate is "running amuck."

About the possibility of donating to hungry nations cattle that otherwise might be slaughtered by members of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) because of high feed prices, Butz indicated the arrangement isn't likely because it's difficult to reach an agreement with members of NFO on grain prices.

Terri 'all right' Saturday, friend says

By Mark Kazlowski
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

One of the last known person to talk to Theresa M. Clark said Ms. Clark was planning to go to the University Mall and possibly Lawrenceville Sunday.

Sandy Griffin, a close friend of Ms. Clark from the Chicago suburb of Romeoville, said she talked to Ms. Clark by phone about 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

"As far as I know, I was the last person to talk to her," Griffin said.

"She was all right," Griffin said. "She said nothing to give any clues that something was wrong."

"She said it was hard to get back in the swing of things after the long semester break, and added she knew she would get back into it in a few days though," Griffin said.

Ms. Clark, a 22-year-old graduate student in speech pathology and audiology, had been in Carbondale for a week following a month long semester break at SIU.

According to Jackson County Coroner

Don Ragsdale, Ms. Clark died of multiple stab wounds late Saturday afternoon or evening.

Ms. Clark's roommate, Mary Kelly, had been out of town for the weekend. She returned to Ambassador Apartments No. 20 Monday and found Ms. Clark's nude body floating in the bathtub.

No arrests had been made Thursday in the Clark case. Carbondale Police Chief George Kennedy said there are still no suspects and investigators are working on what leads they have.

Kennedy said no motives have been established, and added, "we're keeping an open mind."

In a telephone interview Thursday, Griffin said Ms. Clark was like a member of her family.

"She looked at my mother as a second mother, and my mother looked at her like another daughter," Griffin said. "She was very much like a sister."

Griffin said she and Clark had gone on vacations together. "I spent quite a few weekends here (Carbondale)," she added. Griffin said she had been planning to visit Ms. Clark this week and discussed the visit in the telephone conversation Saturday.

"She didn't like to sit down too long," Griffin said. "The word to describe Terri was life." She was always the life of the party when she was with friends, Griffin said.

"She liked to joke around. She could say something and make you laugh for hours," Griffin said.

"Anybody who became a friend of Terri's became a friend for life. All she had to do was smile," Griffin said. "If somebody met her once it was an impression for a lifetime."

The 23-year-old Jewell Food Store worker said she had known Ms. Clark since their sophomore year at Lockport West High School, which is now Romeoville High School. They graduated from high school in 1970. Though Ms. Clark came to SIU and Griffin went to a Chicago area junior college, they remained close friends.

"She was far from being a book worm," Griffin said. "She wanted very much to get her master's degree and get out of school so she could work."

According to Sue Pace, assistant dean of graduate school, Ms. Clark would have completed her thesis by the end of spring semester.

Griffin said Ms. Clark dated, but she knew of no one in particular Ms. Clark was interested in recently.

Ms. Clark was about 5-foot, three inches and thin, Griffin said. "She was not overly strong for her size, but not weak," she said.

Her body had apparently been dragged from the living room of the apartment to the bathroom.

A trail of blood from the living room to the bathroom indicated that Ms. Clark's body had been dragged.

A memorial mass for Ms. Clark will be held at St. Francis Xavier Church, 303 S. Poplar in Carbondale, Feb. 6 at 7 p.m.

Funeral services will be held at St. Dominic's Catholic Church at 10 a.m. Saturday in Bolingbrook.

Conduct code group approves addition

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Conduct Code committee approved an addition to the proposed discipline code Thursday which outlines procedures for filing complaints against students violations.

The tentative draft states that any member of the university community may file a written complaint with the Student Life office against any student within 30 days of the alleged violation.

Student Life will then investigate the charges and inform the complainant if sufficient grounds exist for proceeding with disciplinary action.

The person filing the charges can then appeal the decision to the office of the vice president for Student Affairs within 10 days of notification, according to the preliminary proposal.

Student Life, the addition continues, may begin disciplinary proceedings "when sufficient evidence has been obtained to warrant a charge being filed against a student" for violation of the proposed code.

The addition states that disciplinary action may be brought against students who knowingly file false complaints or who interfere with administration of the proposed code. This includes, but is not limited to, bribery, perjury, or disruption of administrative proceedings.

The seven-member panel also approved a suggestion by C. Thomas Busch, chairman of the committee, to rearrange the sequence of part of the document dealing with violations of the code, initiation of disciplinary proceedings, alternative measures and implementation of disciplinary sanctions.

Following the two hour meeting, Busch said that a revised copy of the discipline code document will be forwarded to SIU President Warren W. Brandt for his comments.

The chairman of the code committee said he has discussed the present proposal with members of SIU Legal Council, who are expected to provide input to the group.

Busch said the preliminary document should be finished after three or four more meetings. It will then be submitted to campus constituencies and published in the Daily Egyptian to obtain student response.

Sullivan 'definitely against' Student Center fee hike

Student body president Dennis Sullivan said that he is "definitely against" a proposed hike in Student Center fees.

The proposed hike announced Wednesday by Clarence Dougherty, director of the Student Center, would raise the fee by five dollars from the present $15 per semester for students taking 12 or more hours.

Sullivan said he wrote Dougherty a letter on Jan. 21 requesting a breakdown of expenses at the Student Center. By Thursday, Sullivan said, he had not yet received a reply from Dougherty.

Sullivan said he expected that a petition drive against the hike would not be organized, adding "we will fight this internally."

change in attitude" among chairmen and deans.

"Now these people are calling me about openings and asking what can be done about achieving balance while before I had to call them," she related.

Merritt said the stress in Affirmative Action is not on filling any kind of quota for minorities or women.

"Quota," Merritt said, "is a dirty word in Affirmative Action."

Merritt, Craig and Swinburne agreed that attempting to establish a balanced hiring system when the budget is being cut back has proven difficult.

Merritt said the "ultimate threat" HEW has is to cut off SIU's federal funding. "That amounts to several million dollars and its loss would prove disastrous," he remarked.

"But, that isn't our main concern," Merritt added. We are committed to Affirmative Action because it is an attempt to correct an imbalance that developed over many years of discrimination in hiring," Merritt said.

SIU may get funds for construction

By Ross Becker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

There is a good chance that the General Assembly will approve the Illinois Board of Higher Education's (IBHE) almost $8 million capital improvement recommendation for SIU. T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services, said.

Because of Gov. Daniel Walker's desire to stimulate the local construction industry, the recommended budget "has a better than average chance for favorable consideration at the hands of the legislature," he said.

According to an IBHE report, the University requested $11,073,200 for construction of new buildings and renovation of existing structures. If Walker and the General Assembly approve the IBHE guidelines, SIU will receive $7,913,200 representing 71.4 percent of the original request.

The biggest chunk of the proposed budget is for the School of Technical Careers' (STC) new building on the main campus. STC is located about eight miles east of Carbondale. Most of its wood buildings are from a World War II ordinance depot.

STC will be located in the field north of the Arena, Mager said. The University will recommend to the Board of Trustees that the same architects that designed the Technology Buildings be hired, he said. "STC should be aesthetically in line" with the technology buildings, he said.

Transfer of STC to the Carbondale campus will eliminate duplicate services such as a library and student center, the report states.

To "provide equal opportunities and facilities for women" the report recommends that $180,000 be appropriated for remodeling planning of the Davies Gym.

Davies Gym opened in 1925 to serve as a men's gymnasium. After the Arena opened in 1964, it was turned over to the women. "The building has never been remodeled or rehabilitated," according to the report.

The IBHE estimated that total renovation of the gym will cost about $2 million. Renovation will include air conditioning, flooring, new ceilings and lighting.

Parkinson Laboratory will also receive a face lifting if the budget is accepted. Some $180,000 has been recommended to begin planning the rehabilitation of the laboratory which was built in 1928.

"The only major change to the building since then was the addition of Brown Auditorium in 1958," the report stated. Twenty-four laboratories, six classrooms and four laboratory service rooms will be remodeled if the guidelines are followed. An elevator, new heating system and a sprinkler system are also among the recommendations.

Other recommendations include: $195,000 for an animal waste disposal system at University Farms; $185,000 to replace water piping at Life Science 1; Power Plant remodeling totaling $450,000; an emergency exit lighting system at nine campus buildings to fulfill an order of the State Fire Marshall's office, plus $274,500 for other campus projects.

Mimists Sophie Wibaux and Bert Houle dramatize an intense moment during their mime piece, "Escape," a fable about drug addiction. These two professional mime artists will appear in "An Evening of Mime" at 8 p.m. Friday in Phryock Auditorium. The Convocations program is free. Story on Page 5.

Senate recommends program funding

By Jon Kartman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Senate has adopted a resolution urging the Board of Trustees to levy a $2.25 student fee to fund the Student to Student Grant Program (STS).

According to John Hardt, executive assistant to student body President Dennis Sullivan and chief architect of the program, STS is designed to award scholarships based solely on need. In its resolution, the Senate recommended Wednesday that the maximum grant under the program be $750 per fiscal year for any one student.

Under the program, half of the funding would be provided by the proposed fee, with the other half provided by the Illinois State Scholarship Commission.

Hardt said he expected C. Thomas Busch, assistant to the vice president for Student Affairs, would draw up a resolution on the STS program which would be presented to the Board of Trustees at their March meeting. In order to be implemented, the Board must approve the STS program, he said.

Hardt said the figure of $2.25 was decided upon because it was "a good compromise and because it is the same rate charged students at SIU-Edwardsville for a similar program."

On Dec. 5, about 31.5 percent of the 1,340 students voting in a referendum on the issue said they favored a three dollar fee, while 18.4 percent favored a two dollar fee and 14.6 percent favored a one dollar fee, Hardt said.

About 35 percent did not vote on how much the fee should be, he said.

Hardt said the fee would be refundable to students who do not participate in the STS program.

Overall, SIU students approved of the aid program by a vote of 855 to 235.

The Senate tabled a constitutional amendment which, if adopted, would change the way which the Senators are elected.

Presently, 36 Senators are elected in direct relation to the number of students residing in each of the six districts.

The amendment proposes that each district would have one Senator for each 750 students residing in a district.

If the population of the district increases by 400 students, the amendment proposes that another Senate seat be added to the district.

In other action, the Senate recognized the Journalism Students Association as an official campus organization and approved the appointment of Janet Gurnsey, a junior majoring in Administration of Justice, to the J-Board.

News Roundup

Ford extends clemency program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford extended his clemency program for one month, until March 1, because of heightened interest, the White House announced Thursday.

The program, in the absence of any presidential action, would have died Friday midnight.

At the same time, three national groups repeated their call for universal and unconditional amnesty instead of Ford's conditional clemency which involves up to 24 months of alternative service in low-pay jobs.

The National Council of Churches in Special Ministries-Vietnam Generation, the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors and the American Civil Liberties Union said the program failed to achieve Ford's goal of binding the wounds of war. They predicted it would not succeed in the future.

The White House noted that only about 7,400 of an estimated 137,000 eligible men so far have decided to participate in the program announced last September.

Charles E. Goodell, chairman of the President's Clemency Board, had asked for a six month extension.

CAB approves route swap

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board Thursday approved a route swap agreement between the nation's two largest international airlines that will result in less competition between the two carriers.

The agreement between Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines could save the two carriers about $25 million each, they estimated when they filed their application.

It also will result in international travelers having fewer airlines to choose from and could result in fewer flights over the North Atlantic routes to Europe.

Under the agreement Pan Am will pull out of France and TWA will drop its services to Germany. Pan Am will halt service to Vienna, Austria, and TWA will stop its Pacific flights that go from the West Coast to Honolulu, Okinawa, Taipei and Bangkok.

Pan Am also will drop its flights over the North Atlantic to Lisbon, Portugal, although it will continue offering service to London from Miami and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

South Vietnam may face crisis

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—President Nguyen Van Thieu said Thursday that South Vietnam will face a crisis by the end of the year unless President Ford gets the $300 million in extra Vietnam aid he has requested from Congress.

Military experts in Cambodia said the Phnom Penh government also will face a crisis before the end of 1975, running out of rice and ammunition, unless Ford gets the $222 million in supplemental aid for Cambodia he has asked for.

In Washington, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott joined Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller in declaring that Congress would be responsible if a reduction of U.S. aid brought Communist success in Indochina. But Robert C. Byrd, assistant Democratic leader, disagreed, declaring that if the South Vietnamese and Cambodians want more military equipment, "let them buy it." Despite stiff opposition from Congress, Ford says he will fight for the additional $522 million in military aid for South Vietnam and Cambodia.

On the Indochina battle fronts, Communist-led forces launched a half dozen attacks around Saigon and Da Nang, South Vietnam's two largest cities, killing at least 15 civilians and cutting traffic, the Saigon command reported.

Britain begins austerity program

LONDON (AP)—Britons are going to pay more to do just about anything, including just plain watching television.

A four-year austerity program announced by the Labor government Thursday warned of "increases in the burden of taxation" for the country's work force, and outlined measures to reduce dependence on imported sources of energy.

Electricity in particular is to be priced "realistically"—meaning higher—to reduce demand and produce capital needed for future investment, the government said.

British television viewers, meanwhile, have been told the cost of watching television is to rise by up to 50 per cent April 1 to prevent "severe cuts" in programming by the publicly financed British Broadcasting Corp.—BBC.

The annual color television license will cost $43, an increase of $14.40 from the current fee, while licenses for black and white sets will cost $19, an increase of $2.40.

Britons can look forward to better times in the next decade when, the government said, most of the nation's oil needs will be supplied from domestic sources—"a great advantage compared with some other industrialized countries."

Strangulation

By Jim Ridings
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Kissinger remark in a "Business Week" interview a month ago in which he refused to rule out the possible use of military action in the Mid-East in the event of "extreme circumstances such as the actual strangulation of the industrialized world" has drawn much attention and discussion, but for more reasons than one.

The option, generally considered unthinkable a few years ago, deserves attention not only for the obvious fact that it is a radical departure from current U.S. policy of restraint and detente, but also for the lack of stinging criticism that such a remark would be expected to draw.

The American people, most notably congressional liberals, have been noticeably quiet in condemning the Kissinger suggestion. At the same time, legislation passed in historic proportions following 1970's Ecology Day has been routinely reversed recently with scarcely a protest, including the postponement of auto emission standards and the building of the Alaskan pipeline.

What caused such a radical turnaround in the ecology-minded, anti-war thinking of the American public in the last five years? The answer is money.

The problems in the Mid-East are tied to the current crises in Western economies. The newly-rich Arab nations know this, as well as the fact that the controlling forces in Israel are Western. The Arab oil-producers have used their exorbitant price increases as a tool to influence U.S. Mid-East policy.

Many Arab leaders still refuse to recognize the state of Israel. The generation preceding them had sworn to throw the Jews back into the sea; this has not been done. They hope to accomplish this with the billions of dollars in arms they have recently purchased, along with anti-Israeli sentiment they hope to arouse with oil embargoes to the West.

The logical solution to the economic problems of the West lies in a peace agreement in the Mid-East. This seems remote at the current time.

International correspondent Edward H. Bruske writes from Israel, "... (PLO leader Yassir) Arafat and leaders like him are as despised by the Israelis just as much as a man like Castro would be if he managed to send successful death raids on civilians in Florida. The Israelis will never negotiate with him or anyone like him. They will manage to survive with or without the U.N...."

So whether or not the Mid-East conflict comes to the "strangulation of the industrialized world," which is seriously doubted by most economists, it is interesting to note the Arab over-reaction to the Kissinger remark. If the U.S. were indeed as serious about the remark as the Arabs think it may be, military action already would have been taken long ago; governments have gone to war and have taken over other nations for much less. What is needed is less heated reaction to misunderstood statements and cooler heads prevailing at the negotiation tables.

Rebate the rebates

During this period of economic paralysis, the auto industry is bending over backwards to stimulate sales. While this should not seem strange—after all, they are in business to make money—it simply seems that their lures of cash rebates come at a particularly bad time. Most people just are not in sound enough financial shape to go into debt.

Telling customers that "now is the time to buy," when unemployment is surging and the economy is stagnant, is hardly considering the public's good. We are now being barraged with all kinds of ads claiming that trade-ins are worth more than ever and we should take advantage of those generous industrialists in Detroit—and buy.

Not only are the auto makers telling the citizenry what it should do, they are using their great influence in Washington where they are urging the House Ways and Means Committee to act swiftly on President Ford's proposed multibillion dollar tax cut. This would put more money into the public's pocket and (hopefully for the auto builders) stimulate auto sales. While a tax cut would, no doubt, stimulate the economy, it must be cautioned that there are better things people could do with their money than rush out and buy sleek new cars that are being built with increasingly less precision.

One would be hard pressed to maintain a new car for more than three years and have it worth much when it came time to sell. People should, instead, consider long-range investments that will pay off, giving them more money to play with.

Therefore, it is mandatory that the public take these enticements with a large grain of salt. If the auto industry had its way they'd have us all driving new, shiny cars to the unemployment lines or to the loan banks.

Jabberwocky

The mustard-yellow, wood-framed hot dog emporium had opened for lunch one unseasonably warm Wednesday in January, but business was slow. Shad's owner Howard Preiss, a hefty man bedecked in student garb—yellow T-shirt, wire-rims and beard—had time to reflect on his three years of operation.

"The place does have atmosphere, but it's a kind of perverse atmosphere," he said, measuring each word carefully, as though ladeling out shortening in teaspoons. "The decor here is nothing lavish, and that's an exaggeration. The chairs wobble, the—well, how the hell do you describe the decor in here? Abused!" He laughed, gesturing with his hand.

Directly across from the counter, on the street-side of the spartan interior, graffiti sprawls across a wall between two windows. Much of the writing leaves questions of taste in one's mind.

"We dig graffiti; we think it's cool," Preiss commented. "If someone wants to express emotion on our wall, we'll give him a pencil. Anything goes here, really."

A faded, stained American flag hangs limply from a Hostess cupcake stand, while a table-radio tuned to WTOA-FM vainly competes for a hearing against the whirr and clatter of pinball machines. Posters advertising campus events line one wall, watercolor paintings decorated another. The $1.40 special, a steak sandwich with fries and a coke was written in pink chalk on a child's blackboard propped atop the cigarette machine.

"Shad's is really the only place to bring your date," Preiss said, tightening the string which fastened a wrap-around apron to his waist. "The chicks get off on the pinball machines and the graffiti."

Behind the counter, frankfurters bask on Shad's steam table. The aroma of hot dogs mixed with scents of onions, peppers and sauerkraut send an appetizing odor all the way out to the street. It is Shad's best advertisement. Bags of potato chips bulge from their racks like fat paperbacks on a newstand. Big bottles of ketchup and hot sauce line the counter.

Preiss moved to Carbondale from Chicago in 1972 to set up a business, he said. He bought Shad's from its original owner and used profits from the hot dog stand to put his wife and himself through college. He now is working on a graduate degree in business. "When I came down here three years ago, the thought of a college degree was very far away," he said. "But here I am."

"Put down that I originally came from Peterson Park in Chicago," Preiss suggested. Memories of his childhood neighborhood twinkled in his eyes. "All the north side Jews will get off on it."

Preiss continued, "My wife and I like to consider Carbondale and Southern Illinois our home now. We have plans for staying at least another four to five years."

"It's been a lot of fun, waiting on downer freaks at two in the morning, mopping up vomit left by alcoholics," Preiss said. He paused. "It's a weird business, 'cause we really don't get busy until after 10:30 or 11 p.m. in the evening. We do a good daytime business, though."

At night Shad's mostly caters to the bar crowd, Preiss explained. "We get a lot of vets, a lot of people who drink at the Club, a very large following among the black students. Kappa Kappa is our biggest weekend of the year. There's always a lot of people walking the strip from Merlin's to American Tap. PK's gives us good business too."

The crowds have changed over the years, Preiss observed. More drinkers and fewer drug freaks patronize Shad's than in 1972, "at least in visible customers who come into the store," Preiss said. He noted that late in the evening, "you have to deal with people who are, to some extent, out of control, and it is a bit of a strain."

Preiss grinned. "On the other hand, we couldn't survive without them."

Students began drifting off Illinois Avenue. They leaned on the counter and called for Preiss. He greeted them; he knew many of their faces, the features of steady customers. Polish sausages flew onto grills, french fries swam in boiling oil, pinball machines clattered and the cash register joined in harmony.

Couple presents mime showing at Shryock Auditorium tonight

By Michael Hawley
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"A mime is a silent actor, alone on an empty stage. A mime is a kind of sculptor who uses his body and empty space around him as clay to create his own props and environment."

"An Evening of Mime," featuring Bert Houle and Sophie Wibaux, resident artists with the Loretto-Hilton Theatre in St. Louis, will be presented at 8 p.m., Friday in Shryock Auditorium. Sponsored by University Convocations, the program is admission free.

Houle and Wibaux, originating from New Hampshire and Paris, France, respectively, met while studying under Etienne Decroux, teacher of Marcel Marceau. They are married to each other and have been touring their original mime pieces nationally and abroad for many years.

Of the "Evening of Mime," one reviewer in Wilmington, Del. wrote, "Following on the heels of Marcel Marceau's appearance at The Playhouse, they seemed to have several points against them. Marceau is a hard act to follow. But the Houle-Wibaux duo pulled a lot of magic out of the hat. Forget Marceau, and never forgive yourself if you missed this one."

The art of mime is divided into two categories; mime, which is like visual poetry, and pantomime, which is more like visual prose. Houle and Wibaux perform both.

Breakdown limits pages

Because of a breakdown of one of the Daily Egyptian's type-setting machines, the number of pages in the newspaper has been reduced and Page 5 has been given over temporarily to news and advertising. Publication of commentary and readers' letters on this page will resume when the mechanical difficulties have been corrected and the newspaper's type-setting capacity returns to normal.

Pantomime is usually light-hearted, comic and tells a specific story by using physical gestures as a substitute for words. Facial expressions are heavily relied upon, and the gestures are only open to a single interpretation.

Mime, on the other hand, is more symbolic and dramatic. Sharing common ground with modern dance, mime is left open for more than one interpretation, expressing a theme through metaphorical movement.

Original pieces which Houle and Wibaux have performed in the past include a fable about drug addiction titled "Escape," "Puppet's Lib," "The Alchemist," "Dark Night of the Soul," and their most noted composition, "Cain and Abel."

Mime is most known to the world through the art of Marcel Marceau, who specializes in illusionary mime, or creating the illusion of concrete objects. The art of mime has also received attention lately in the stage performances of rock stars David Bowie and Marc Bolan, both former mimists.

Following the performance of "An Evening of Mime," there will be a free coffee hour sponsored by Student Government. Held backstage at Shryock, the coffee hour will give the audience an opportunity to meet and talk with Houle and Wibaux.

DEPRESSION ART "FOUND"

Public Offered 1937 U.S. Gov't Art Prints

A series of rare coincidences has led to the historic discovery of several thousand sets of full color antique art prints that were "lost since 1937." They are now being offered to the American public.

Eleanor Roosevelt

Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th centuries - the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Gainsborough, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc. and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

Abandoned In 1937

For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

The lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agree that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction is incredibly accurate. Over $500,000.00 had been spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates.

These authentic original 1937 prints are literally collectors' items and have been appraised by the American Appraisers Assoc. at $7.00 each print. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

Available to Public

Now, after 38 years these full color 11" x 14" (ave. size) prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 18 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Surplus, Dept. # X34, P. O. Box 605, Tarzana, Calif. 91356. Fully "A.R.A.N.T.E.D." Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Mastercharge and BankAmericard OK (give card number).

What's going on

Films

"Airport 1975"—University 4, numbers 1 and 2; Actors and other things are frivolously wasted in this shoddy, but occasionally gripping story of a 747 that collides with a smaller plane. Karen Black pilots the thing, while Sister Helen Reddy prays and strums a guitar for kidney patient Linda Blair.

"Bluebeard"—Fox, Sunday late show; Richard Burton with a mother fixation killing his beautiful wives. Comic trash.

"Chariot of the Gods"—Saluki Cinema with second feature; Explores theory that extraterrestrial creatures visited earth centuries ago.

"The Devil's Triangle"—Saluki Cinema, with second feature.

"Freebie and the Bean"—University Four, number 3; James Caan and Alan Arkin as irreverent cops who are usually as insane and tasteless as the film they appear in.

"Great American Cowboy"—Varsity II; Academy Award winner for best documentary film.

"Odessa File"—Joh Voight miscast as a free-lance Berlin journalist attempting to infiltrate and expose a secret organization of former S.S. troopers. Based on the best selling novel, the film is poorly made despite the good story.

"Scarecrow"—Varsity, Friday, Saturday and Sunday late show; One of the most overlooked films of 1973. Gene Hackman and Al Pacino give bravura performances as two dreamfilled, wandering misfits travelling cross country. Somewhat oversentimental, but definitely worth sitting through.

"The Towering Inferno"—The world's tallest skyscraper catches fire on the night of its dedication. Good for its grandiose special effects, but not much else.

"The Way We Were"—Student Center Auditorium, Friday and Saturday; The magical charisma of Barbra Streisand and Robert Redford turn this otherwise bad film into great entertainment.

"Vixen" and "Cherry, Harry and Raquel"—Fpx, Friday and Saturday late show; two films by the king of soft pornograph, Russ Meyer.

Human values subject of 'Breaking Barriers'

The first in a series of public dinner meetings in a program titled, "Breaking Barriers in Carbondale" will begin at 6 p.m. Friday at the Lutheran Student Center.

The program, which will continue with monthly events until May, is sponsored by the Carbondale Interchurch Council and Carbondale Peace Center. It is funded by a $7,220 grant from the Illinois Humanities Council.

"We are more interested in examining the human values behind the issues than in trying to solve specific issues," said Hugh Muldoon, project coordinator.

The topic of Friday's meeting is "Opportunities for the Creative Arts in Carbondale." It will begin with an informal reception and free home-cooked meal. Following that will be a dramatic presentation, group discussions and talks by Sylvia Greenfield, assistant professor in the SIU School of Art and Garth Gillan, associate professor in the Department of Philosophy.

Most Christmas cards

The greatest number of personal Christmas cards sent out is believed to be 40,000 in 1969 by President and Mrs. Richard Nixon.

Bifocal or single vision contact lenses can be fitted now with the aid of a computer. Bifocal lens has no segment or line to distort the vision and looks like a single vision lens.

With the use of a PhotoElectric Keratometer called PEK Mark III a photograph of the eye is made. The photo, along with the prescription is sent to the Visual Data Center in Chicago where they are put into a computer. The computer calculates the structure, size, tear layer and the RX required.

The advantage of the lens is usually more comfort and longer initial wearing time.

Petroleum slowdown lays up supertankers

By The Associated Press

An increasing number of oil tankers are laid up around the world because of a slowdown in petroleum shipments since the energy crisis of last year, Norwegian shipowners report.

The Oslo newspaper Aftenposten said that in Norway alone supertankers totaling two million tons have already been laid up and the mothball fleet could grow to 10 million tons by the end of 1975.

A spokesman for the Norwegian Shipowners Association said the demand for tanker capacity in terms of tonnage-miles had increased only 1.5 per cent while new tanker tonnage increased 18 per cent in 1974.

Aftenposten said, "We can expect a stream of tankers to be laid up this year and in shipping circles it is said that the only long-range solution will be gross cancellations of orders for new tankers."

In other economic developments around the world: - Usually well-informed sources in Budapest reported that Communist bloc nations face substantial price hikes for crude oil and other raw materials they import from the Soviet Union next year. The sources said more flexible prices approximating world market prices would be introduced into Communist area trade when the new five-year plan begins.

-The European Common Market reported coal production by its members declined in 1974 despite the energy crisis, but a slight upturn was recorded at the end of the year. Output totalled 243 million tons, a drop of 27 million tons from 1973. Underground workers declined to 341,000 from 362,000 the previous year, but a slight increase was shown for the latter months of the year.

-In Rome, the Italian government gave preliminary approval to laws designed to save energy, including a curb on house heating and extension of midtown districts closed to private cars.

-Coffee producers and consumers clashed in London at a conference called to work out a new international coffee agreement. The consuming countries protested as "misleading and counter-productive" a producer complaint that consumers showed no political will for a new agreement and that the United States was causing prices to fall.

-Chile's central bank announced devaluation of the escudo from 1,870 to 2,150 escudos to the dollar. The rate for travelers went from 2,000 to 2,300 per dollar. The devaluation was the first in 1975 after 24 devaluations in 1974 in line with official policy of keeping the rate at a realistic level.

-Oil-rich Kuwait, operating through its Arab Fund for Economic and Social Development, announced loans totaling $24 million to build communications networks in Sudan, Algeria and Morocco. Fund chairman Saeb Jaroudi said in Kuwait that $14.1 million would be used for a tele-communications network linking Sudan with Egypt, Saudi Arabia and the rest of the Arab world, while $9.9 million will go to Algeria and Morocco as longterm loans for building a tele-communications network.

Plant closes temporarily following fire

Carbondale firemen were called to Tuck Industries, Inc., 600 N. Illinois Ave., Thursday afternoon to extinguish a fire in the plant's coating department.

Plant Manager Matt Maier said the fire was minor and added that arson was definitely not involved.

Maier said approximately 180 people who were in the tape manufacturing plant at the time evacuated the building when the fire started about 1:45 p.m. He said the fire was contained in the coating department where adhesive coats are put on paper tapes. He said the adhesive material is very flammable.

The plant will be shut down temporarily, he said. It is hoped that Tuck Industries, Inc. will resume normal operation at 7 a.m. Friday, he said. Tuck Industries employs about 300 people, Maier said.

Carbondale Fire Chief Charles McCaughan said the flames shot through the vents on the roof.

Funds offered to encourage Dewey study

A John Dewey Research Fund, to be administered by the Center for Dewey Studies, has been established at SIU, Jo Ann Boydston, director of the Center for Dewey Studies, said Wednesday.

Boydston said the purpose of the fund is to support and encourage Dewey studies. This fund will enable scholars and students to defray research-related costs, Boydston said.

Such costs include, but are not limited to, manuscript searching, traveling, purchasing and copying of research materials, and typing of manuscripts, Boydston said.

However grants will not be made to subsidize publication.

Applications may be made at any time but awards will be made only twice each year, Boydston said. Proposals received before Jan. 1, will be acted on by Feb. 15. Proposals received before July 1, will be acted on by Aug. 15, Boydston said.

Proposals should be made on a standard form available from the Center for Dewey Studies, at 803 S. Oakland, Boydston said.

Local artist sells etchings

Six etchings by Richard A. Hoffman, designer with University Graphics at SIU-C, have been purchased by the Henry B. Plant municipal museum at Tampa, Fla., for its collection.

The museum also will purchase other Hoffman etchings for re-sale purposes.

His etchings, primarily of military scenes and views of Britain and France, are in collections of the Imperial War Museum in London, the Musée de l'Armée in Paris, and the Foreign Legion Museum in Aubagne, France.

Listed below are the stops and departure times for the Health Service bus route to be run on an experimental basis on class days Monday through Friday from February 3 through 28. The times listed range from 7:30 a.m. to 5:10 p.m. and are only approximate depending upon traffic and weather conditions. The bus service is designed primarily for taking students to and from the Health Service but usage is not limited to that purpose. The experiment is being funded jointly by the Vice President for Student Affairs and the Student Health Program so the bus fare is free to users.

Bible repairs growing, says hand bookbinder

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — Ed Factly, who pursues the ancient art of bookbinding by wheelpress and hand, says people are thinking more of God in these days of uncertainty, judging from the growing number of old, worn Bibles he repairs.

"Most of what's left of my business is restoring family Bibles, those treasured not only for their content but also for certifications of births and deaths written in them maybe 100 years ago," says 72-year-old, white-bearded Factly, a hand bookbinder since he was thirteen. Factly's workshop is in the tidy, wood-stove-heated basement of his home. His equipment is a throwback in history with a big, metal board-cutter, a wheelpress, an intricate gold stenciling machine, glue and various cover materials.

"When I was a kid I got acquainted with an old German, Otto Piltz, whose bookbinding work fascinated me," recalls Factly. "I would run over to his place here in Elgin after dinner and just watch him. He was a great artist. That's how I began."

On the side, Factly had his own Dixieland band.

"I played the drums, banjo and violin," he said. "I only have my violin left. The strings are all broken."

Factly said one of his most interesting jobs was restoring a Bible dating back to Civil War times.

"It had been picked up on a battlefield and imprints of horses' hooves were on it," he said. "It was a cutting and pasting job with restoration of the leather covers and took me about four solid days to complete. Once a fellow brought in a huge Bible that was falling apart. To save money, he wanted me to do the best I could by using adhesive tape. I told him to take it somewhere else. If a book is really battered, I charge from $50 to $65 to repair it."

Factly continued: "My work gets known only by word of mouth. For instance, there is a goodhearted woman in town who sends me business. In church when she sees someone with a frayed, worn Bible she tells her to take it to me."

Factly said that he has seen so many books in his time that "there is only one thing I don't do with them and that's read them."

Here's a hard-to-believe fact about the great Jim Brown who played in the National Football League from 1957 through 1965 and carried the ball more times and gained more yards than anyone else in pro history...Despite carrying the ball more times than anyone else, Brown NEVER missed a game because of injuries in any of his nine full seasons in pro football!...That's amazing when you consider the beating he took from tacklers game after game.

How much money is bet on sports each year?...A recent publication estimates that Americans bet more than 20-BILLION dollars on sports events in a year!...The event that attracts the most betting is reportedly the Super Bowl.

Here's an oddity from major league baseball...This past season was the 13th consecutive year that the National League has outdrawn the American League in attendance. The last time the American League drew more fans than the National League was in 1961.

93 miles per hour? We obviously don't recommend it, but it is reassuring to know that as you get onto a hectic expressway, a new Volkswagen Rabbit Hatchback has the power for incredible acceleration. From 0 to 50 in only 8.2 seconds. Quicker than a Monza 2+2. 38 miles per gallon? That's what the Rabbit averaged on the highway in the 1975 model Federal Environmental Protection Agency fuel economy tests. The Rabbit in the city averaged a nifty 24. Not bad for a sub-compact with all the interior room of some mid-size cars.

$2,999? That's what you pay for the car backed by the most complete and advanced car coverage plan in the business: The Volkswagen Owner's Security Blanket with Computer Analysis!

Happy days are here again? We think you'll think so after you've driven a Rabbit.

Panel members study individual differences

By Diana Cannon
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

People need to be recognized as individuals, not labeled masculine or feminine, participants in the first "Being a Woman" seminar of the semester decided Wednesday.

About 15 persons discussed the "Psychological and Physical Differences Between the Sexes" during the seminar held in the Student Center Illinois Room.

Secondary sex characteristics, biological cycles, hormones and bone structure were some physical traits listed by the group participants as innate sexual differences.

Health Service will have 'lift' for disabled

A "lift" for the stairs at the Health Service will probably be installed during the first week of February, said Sam McVay, administrative director.

All patients, visitors and personnel who wish to get to the second floor and are unable to walk up the stairs now have to be carried up, said McVay.

Persons will be able to transfer to the lift chair on the first floor, ride to the second floor and get into a wheel chair there, McVay said.

He said two wheel chairs will be kept on the second floor of the Health Service and one on the first floor for this purpose.

"This is an interim measure until we can get an elevator installed," said McVay. He said the lift would probably be moved into Building 112 of Small Group Housing if and when the Health Services moves its administrative offices and pharmacy there.

Amendment allows grads to delete data

Students whose names are scheduled to appear in the Radio-TV Graduate Bulletin may request that certain biographical information be deleted. Deadline for the request is Feb. 15.

The Buckley Amendment requires that schools must have a signed release from students in order to publish their biographical data. But John Huffman, SIU legal counsel, said the requirements of the amendment will be satisfied by giving the Radio-TV graduates a deadline for having personal information deleted.

Erv Coppi, SIU information supervisor, said if a student does not make such a request, it will be assumed he has agreed to allow his biographical information to become part of the bulletin.

The Radio-TV Department's Graduate Bulletin, a compilation of pictures and biographical information on all prospective graduates available for employment, is sent to radio and television station managers across the country.

Portions of the amendment state that "no funds shall be made available to any educational agency...which has a policy of denying...parents of students (or students)...the right to inspect and review (their) education records..."

The amendment governs student access to records and their release.

U.S. uses lots of silver

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 150 million ounces of silver are used in the United States each year.

"Production," says a Department of Interior spokesman, "could be increased by discovery and development of new resources, and increased prices would encourage development of large known potential resources in low-grade disseminated deposits."

Much of the research concerning the distinctions between males and females has been conducted by men.

"We have been duped into believing the scientist always takes a dispassionate stand," said panel member Antoinette Appel, assistant professor in the SIU School of Medicine.

Psychologically, men are seen as traditionally aggressive, independent, rational and confident creatures. Women are supposedly in a more emotional, illogical and fearful state of mind.

"But behavior is learned," Appel said. She cited studies of aggressive female behavior in foreign cultures to demonstrate that such qualities are not inherent.

"We really need to recognize individual differences and eliminate stereotypes," said second panelist Beverly Horner, assistant professor in Guidance and Educational Psychology.

American society has passed the point where basic needs can be met and realization of an individual's highest potential is possible. But this "self-actualization" is thwarted by cultural constraints, Horner said. "Stereo-types do nobody any good," she added.

The seminars, held every Wednesday from noon to 2 p.m., are free and open to everyone. Next week's program will center on the film "Pack Your Own Chute."

Women cagers romp to third straight

By Martha Sanford
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Saluki women brought home their third consecutive win after their first road game Wednesday night at St. Louis against Principia College, but the 57-47 final score does not tell the whole story.

Throughout most of the game the score didn't differ much more than four points. Head Coach Charlotte West said the turning point came in the final minutes of the game when the Salukis set up a tight press and several quick turnovers put them ahead.

High scorer for the Salukis was Pam Berryhill with 14 points, followed by Vicky King with 11. The rest of the team scoring was well-balanced.

The Salukis did have their problems, however, shooting only 25 per cent on free throws. Principia was able to take 13 points from free throws. The Salukis did outbounce their opponents, coming down with 45 rebounds compared to Principia's 34.

Foul trouble also plagued the Salukis, as Kathy Vondrasek, the team's tallest player, sat out much of the game after drawing three fouls in the first eight minutes of play. Post player Jan Winkler later fouled out of the game.

Kay Anderson sat out most of the game, playing only a couple minutes early. Anderson was injured in last Friday's game.

"Kay just isn't quite ready to play," West said. "She still has a lot of trouble jumping."

"It's one of those things that happens in basketball," West said of the game as a whole. "We worked the ball and had some good shots, but the girls just had a bad night."

The SIU second team lost 44-37 to Forest Park College.

The Salukis will meet Indiana State at 6 p.m. tonight in Davies Gym. Saturday they play Eastern Illinois University and the University of Tennessee-Martin.

Tourney Week starts tonight

Bowling, anyone?
How about billiards? Or bridge? Or table tennis? Or chess?

Amateurs in each of the five areas are eligible to compete in 10 days of tournaments starting tonight at the Student Center. Bowling is set to begin at 6:30 p.m. tonight and will last until 10:30 at the Student Center Bowling Alley.

Pins will continue to fly from 5 to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Billiards and bridge begin next, starting Monday night. Billiards open at 7, bridge at 7:30, and both last until closing (about 11:30 p.m.) The same hours hold for billiards Tuesday, while bridge resumes Wednesday at the same time.

The Student Center billiard room is the obvious site of the former, while the bridge games will be held in the Ohio Room.

Table tennis is slated for the fourth floor of the Student Center Thursday from 7 to 11:30 p.m. and Friday, Feb. 7, from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Cheer matches will be held in the Illinois River Room Saturday, Feb. 8, from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m., and Sunday, Feb. 9, from 11 a.m. to closing.

The Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) promotes the activities, which are sponsored by the Association of College Unions International (ACUI). The local contests lead eventually to a national tournament, but a regional tournament at Western Illinois University, Macomb, stands in between.

SGAC will pay the entry fees for anyone moving on to the regional championships. Last year, James Gray of SIU won the pocket billiards regional to advance to the national

Gals' IM's underway

By Rick Korch
Student Writer

"Crazy" is the only word that can aptly describe the women's intramural basketball league which began its play during the last week.

There are 17 teams, in two leagues, involving about 220 girls in the IM league. Each team will play either seven or eight games in Davies Gym on Monday and Thursday nights.

After the season is over, a post-season playoff has been tentatively planned. The girls on the winning team will each receive first place trophies, and the girl with the most points will also receive a trophy.

Basketball is supposed to be a non-contact sport, but that's not so when the women play. Fouls are not usually called, enabling the girls to get pretty rough at times.

The scores were pretty low in Monday night's action, with the winning teams averaging in the high teens. Shutouts are unheard of in basketball, but there was even one of these on the first night of play.

The Twizzlers were never able to get going as they lost to The Girls 16-0. Other scores were: the Back Court Sneakers over the Mouters, 26-12; the Bowyer Bouncer's over the Mae Smith Sassy Six, 16-6; and Classen's team sneaked by Sentlebar's team 16-12.

"They have a good time," said Jean Egarare, the Coordinator of Women's Intramurals. "The girls love it."

tourney, according to Brett Champion, chairman of the SGAC Tournament Week committee.

Twenty-one trophies will be awarded next week to the winners of the SIU tournament events.

Tournament activity applications are available in the bowling alley or the Student Activities Office in the Student Center. There is no charge, but competitors must have at least a 3.0 grade point average.

Both undergraduate and graduate students are eligible.

More than 200 persons are expected to participate.

If Glenn played Redbirds every time...

By Ron Sutton

If only Mike Glenn could play every game against the Illinois State Redbirds...

Not that he's having troubles elsewhere, but the unflappable 6-foot-3 sharpshooter must be a unanimous pick on the Redbirds' all-opponents team over the past decade, at least.

All he has done in two encounters this season is score 58 points—by hitting 25 of 31 attempts from the field and eight of nine from the free throw line. That's 81 and 89 per cent, respectively, between two 29-point efforts.

"I think it's mostly the way they play Joe (Meriweather)," Glenn mused Thursday, reflecting on one of the all-time great individual performances in Arena history. "We have been having trouble getting the ball into him when he's in position, so I have to get some points on the scoreboard."

That doesn't explain his accuracy, but what can, other than 16 years of practice?

"My father coaches at a deaf school, so I used to travel with them when I was three or four years old," the 19-year-old sophomore recalled. "I was always out on the court—getting in the way at that time."

When Glenn grew to grade school age, he began playing against the high school-aged deaf youths. In between, and in the years after, he sharpened his shooting touch by himself in the high school gym, since his father had the keys.

"Our town (Rome, Ga.) is really small, so I spent a lot of time just shooting by myself during the summers," he said. "Then, after I got to high school, I went to basketball camps every summer."

The practice made perfect, as the saying goes. As great as his shooting performance was Wednesday night, he even topped that in high school.

As in 18 straight buckets! "I missed my first three shots in that game and then made my next 18," Glenn recalled, a smile barely creeping across his face. "I was 16 for 16 from the free throw line."

"I guess I never hit this good of a percentage in college before, though," he added.

It wasn't that far from the norm, though. Despite the 14-for-17 (82 per cent) shooting, his season mark rose just slightly. However, it's difficult to raise a 605 mark—especially to 625.

"The coaches tell me I have to score more and get more aggressive on offense," said Glenn of his sudden inclination to create his own shots, "especially so when Joe's in foul trouble. When Joe's clicking, I'd rather take it inside, because he's just five feet from the bucket and he hits 65 per cent."

Actually, Meriweather's percentage is just a shade lower at 639. That still makes him one of the 10 or so players across the country ahead of Glenn. But none of them are guards.

"I can't think of another guard in the country I'd trade him for," Saluki coach Paul Lambert remarked. "I think that he played a complete game Wednesday."

Defense hasn't come as easy as offense to Glenn, but now he's among the team's best at both ends of the court.

"I worked hard on defense this summer," Glenn said. "Some cats came down to school—there was Perry (Hines), Walt Frazier, Dickie Garrett and some others—and I just concentrated on defense, moving my feet faster."

Glenn's versatility doesn't end on the court, either. Though just a sophomore athletically, the honor student is already a junior academically and could graduate after next summer. Teammate and roommate Corky Abrams is in the same boat.

"Corky and I would have to take graduate and undergraduate courses that last year to play ball," he said. "I might just take some summer courses this year, though, then take a lighter load after that."

And if he were drafted early? "It depends a lot on the money situation," he mused. "Right now, I'm not even thinking about getting drafted early. If I was drafted, I think it would be a low pick, which wouldn't be worth much."

"I'm just looking ahead in college ball for now," he said. "One thing I've got to work on more is ballhandling, in case I'm put at the point next year. I'll have to sharpen my defense and driving, too."

"Next year it's going to be an entirely different game without Joe in there. I'm going to have to score more."

Sure! Like Don Rickles needs to talk more.

Grapplers triumph

A cold winter rain poured down Thursday night, but the splattering sound it made on the roof of the Arena seemed to play a victory tune for the Saluki wrestlers.

The final score was SIU 26, Kansas State 12.

The team victory never seemed in doubt as Joe Goldsmith, 118, started the night off right with a second period pin of Wildcat Mark Schottler. Goldsmith showed his superior strength early in the match, which proved to be too much for the leaner Schottler.

Saluki good fortune continued in the 126 weight class when Dale Eggert sneaked by his opponent for a 2-1 victory. Neither wrestler could muster up an offensive or defensive move to score points, and the third period ended in a 1-1 tie. The margin of victory was Eggert's one point riding time.

Mark Wiesen, the Salukis leading wrestler at 144-0, built up a huge point total over Wildcat Larry Thaw, repeatedly taking Thaw down for two points and then letting him up, preferring to win the match on a pin instead of points. Wiesen eventually won the match on points. Wiesen's win clinched the team victory.

After the Salukis' Dennis Lewis was outpointed by a stumpy and spunky Dan Demo, SIU went on to win five matches in a row before freshman Tim Swoboda, 190, lost to Kansas State's Rich Taylor by one point 9-8.

Fred Hoef, 150, and Jim Horvath, 158, had little trouble with their Wildcats. Hoef tamed Ron Bartlett 14-6, and Horvath won a superior decision over Dan Hamby 15-6.

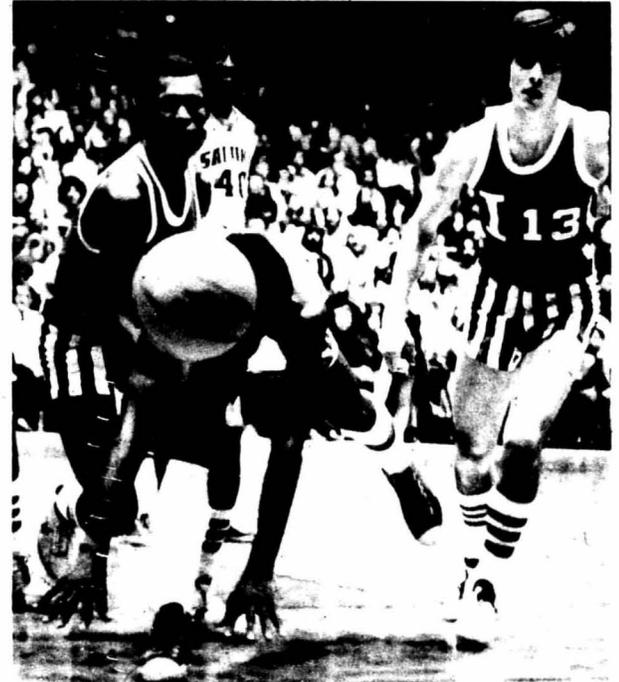

The meet ended on a down note for the Salukis when heavyweight, Ken Karwowski, who had pinned his man in the last two meets, got pinned himself.

Friday night's scheduled match with the University of Cincinnati has been canceled, giving the Salukis a forfeit win. With the win over Kansas State, SIU's record stands at 12-3-1 on the season.

Ticket plans set

Due to the late rush for basketball game tickets Wednesday night, the Arena Ticket Office has altered its hours prior to Saturday night's game.

The office in Room 118 of the Arena, will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. Friday and from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

NCAA? NIT? At the beginning of the season, many experts had picked Illinois State and SIU to receive bids for one of the two post-season tournaments.

However, Thursday night at the Arena, for almost an entire half, it seemed like neither team knew that the tournaments existed and that it was their ultimate goal as independents to be invited to one.

The intelligent and loyal Saluki fans were well aware of the subpar performances, and it was manifested by the lack of spirited and emotional involvement by the whole crowd until the final three minutes of the half.

This is most unusual for a Saluki crowd and only happens on rare occasions. Of course, when Mike Glenn and his sidekick Corky Abrams put on a two-man show in the second half, the noise began to shake the rafters. But because of SIU's poor showing in the first half, it prompted me to go to the fans at halftime and ask their opinions. How did they think the Salukis had played up to this point in the game, and what did they think SIU's chances were for post-season tournaments, these were the two questions, I directed at them.

In answer to the first question, I received various intelligent answers to why Joe C. and Company were playing sluggishly, but what I found more interesting, were the responses to the second question.

With a couple exceptions, most persons I talked to expressed confidence and loyalty in the Salukis, despite the first half of the Illinois State game.

"They still have a chance to make it to a post-season tournament," commented Mike Hillstrom, junior in radio and TV, "but they'll have to win the rest of their games. I don't think they can lose another one."

Mark Seby, senior in business, analyzed, "They're (SIU) not playing up to par. I think they were sort of overrated at the beginning of the season. On a good night, though, they play a good game."

Freshman Jim Robinson offered several opinions.

"SIU has a helluva team, but I think our chances are pretty good of making a tournament," he said. "I don't think Meriweather is doing the job, and I don't think he will make All-America."

One fan was particularly pessimistic. Junior Larry Giacoen thought that "So far, this year's play is worse than last year's."

A check with last year's record at this time disproves Giacoen's last statement. The Salukis had almost the same record at this point last season.

But there you have it. A little sampling of what the SIU following thinks of its Salukis.

As fan Hillstrom pointed out, the Salukis need to win the rest of their games. The team can't afford to lose more than two games the rest of the season.

A 1974 record of 19-7 and a season-ending stomping of Detroit wasn't enough to earn a bid last year. Nine or 10 more victories and 20 wins on the year, although not an easy task, could hardly go unnoticed. That's just what it might take to impress the people from the NCAA and the NIT.
