Madigan denying SIU $18 million

By Richard Goldstein
Staff Writer

Three days before the deadline for a decision on the tax increase, House Speaker Michael Madigan is at loggerheads with Gov. James R. Thompson and the legislative leaders.

In the meantime, $18 million for the SIU system hangs in the balance. Keith Sanders, dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, said, percent to 3.5 percent and corporate taxes from 4 percent to 5.6 percent.

Thompson's tax proposal would raise the personal income tax in Illinois from 2.5

State universities would get an extra $217 million in the fiscal year beginning July 1, Sanders said.

Political science professor John Jackson said the question is whether the legislature is going to vote on the tax bill.

"The House and the Senate should be allowed to vote up or down," Jackson said.

Madigan, as Speaker of the House, has control over which bills are voted on, and there is concern that because Madigan isn't "convinced" of the need for a tax increase, he won't allow a vote, Jackson said.

"It is widely thought in Springfield that the tax issue is now down to one person — Mike Madigan," Sanders said.

Marching Salukis will march on

By Richard Scheffer
Staff Writer

The School of Music has received verbal assurance from University administrators that the Marching Salukis will be retained, despite 2-percent budget cut proposals.

"As of now, they're going to keep it," Mike Hanes, band director, said.

Hanes said the response, mainly through telephone discussions, has been so positive that the administration believes the band is vital to the University, and that it would be best to keep it.

Robert Roubos, director of the School of Music, said the administration has been looking at the band's impact on the whole University, noting that it supports athletic programs, has a public relations impact and is a good image for a University of this size.

Hanes said the department suggested cutting the band in May because funding had to be reduced. Cutting the band was the next step in the budget-reduction process.

Roubos said the recommendation to cut the band was made because it primarily serves non-music majors.

If the administration funds the band, the money will come from somewhere other than the School of Music's budget, Roubos said.

Hanes said the department is in the process of recruiting new members for the band, and that an associate band director and French horn instructor, Dan Phillips, has been hired for the fall.

For the last 10 years, the Marching Salukis' budget gradually has been reduced.

"If we continue and there is not a tax increase, we will still be working on a shoestring budget," Hanes said.

Even if the tax increase comes through, "eventually there has to be some special allocation of funds," Roubos said.

Roubos said uniforms are in the eighth year of a 10-year lifespan, and that many of the instruments are in need of repair and replacement.

Because of budget cuts, the School of Music will be losing about $16,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, Roubos said.

The number of full-time graduate assistants would be reduced from 11 to nine, he

Area crops are thirsty for downpour

By Christine Cedusky
Staff Writer

If Southern Illinois doesn't get one or two inches of rain within 10 days, most corn crops won't survive and the shortage will result in higher prices for consumers. George Kapusta, professor of plant and soil science, said,

"There are some fields, that if they don't get rain, I can't visualize how they can produce anything," he said.

Corn yields will be down significantly because most crops are barely surviving, he said.

Kapusta expects the price of fresh vegetables to increase the most, because they come directly from the fields to consumers.

"We may have to import from Mexico," he said.

However, Kapusta said he doesn't predict much of a price increase in canned vegetables.

Edward Varsa, associate professor of plant and soil science, said livestock farmers also are in deep trouble.

The heat will rise

The brief respite from the heat should only last until the weekend, forecasters at the Southern Illinois Airport weather station say.

Last week ended with four consecutive days of over 100-degree heat, the station reported. Sunday, daytime temperatures cooled slightly with a high of 97 and a low in the 60s.

Monday, a high of 87 degrees was reached at 4:45 p.m. Today, a high in the low 90s is predicted. The low is expected to be in the low 70s.

Farmers are trying to make hay out of anything because pasture grasses are dying, and increased demand for hay has caused an increase in price.

Livestock owners are taking cattle to the market now rather than waiting till fall, Kapusta said. If owners continue to sell off their herds now, meat prices could go down this year. But in 1989-90, meat prices may increase because a meat shortage could occur as farmers try to restock their herds.

Wade Allard, of Vergennes, farms 1,500 acres— including corn, soybeans and wheat—and also raises hogs. Allard said he is experiencing a 25 percent cut in corn yields, and if it does not rain, his soybean yields will be reduced by about the same amount.

Allard said he may have to expand his hog business to keep going. He said he has enough feed for the sows, but a few sows have died from the heat.

If this growing season is a failure, Allard said, he will have to look for another job.

Charles W. Young, a DeSoto farmer, said crops on his 550 acres looked worse Sunday than on previous days.

"I had been optimistic up until this point," he said.

Young said he expects a 35 to 40 percent reduction in his corn and soybean yields, regardless of when it rains.

"Crops are already hurt this much," he said. "It works on your morale a little bit."

If yields are not there, Young said he and his wife will have to "keep the old belt tight."

Expenditures for their farm and family will have to wait until next year, he said.

Blood drive begins today

A three day emergency blood drive begins today at St. Francis Xavier Church and will continue Wednesday and Thursday at the Student Center.

Tomorrow, the blood drive will be from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the church, 303 S. Poplar. Volunteers also will be at the Student Center setting up appointments for blood donors. The number of appointments is running about 150 short of the number needed to ensure the drive will reach its goal of 700 pints, Vivian Ugent, Red Cross blood drive coordinator for Southern Illinois, said.

Appointments are also being taken by telephone at 529-2151.

Reagan calls for action against AIDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan received the massive report of his special AIDS commission Monday and directed his drug policy adviser to present him with a "course of action" based on the panel's 600 recommendations within a month.

Reagan said the unanimous report "represents an impressive effort and significantly increases our level of understanding to deal with AIDS."

The commission estimated implementation of the report would require spending $3.1 billion in state and federal funds in the AIDS battle above the level planned for this fiscal year. Much of the money would go for a massive expansion of drug abuse treatment, providing addicts with "treatment on demand."

Reagan was briefed on the recommendations in the 200-page report by retired Adm. James Watkins, chairman of the President's Commission on the Human Immunodeficiency Virus Epidemic.

The president said the report "embraces the major concepts of my administration laid out over a year ago: to be compassionate towards victims of the disease; to care for them with dignity and kindness and, at the same time, to inform and educate our citizens so that we can prevent the further spread of the disease."

Reagan said that he is directing Dr. Ian MacDonald, his special assistant for drug policy, "to present to me within 30 days a course of action that takes us forward."

He also directed MacDonald to include among his priorities consideration of specific measures to strengthen im-

At least 15 dead in Paris commuter train collision

PARIS (UPI) — A commuter train hurtled into a Paris rail station after its breaks failed and slammed into a stationary train during the evening rush hour Monday, killing at least 15 people, authorities said. Police and rail officials said about 40 other commuters were injured in the 7:10 p.m. crash, and rescuers rushed to the station to extract many others trapped in the wreckage. Rail officials said the death toll could climb to more than 20.

Gorbachev's opponents called 'bribe-takers'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Some of the conservative opponents of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev at this week's Communist Party Conference are known bribe-takers, according to a magazine noted for its support of reform. The magazine Ogonyok, which appeared during the weekend in advance of Tuesday's opening session of the 19th Communist Party Conference, linked unnamed delegates from Uzbekistan to the rampant corruption in the Central Asian republic.

Document calls for talks between U.S., Arafat

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (UPI) — The author of a radical Palestinian document seeking peace talks between Israel and the Palestinians appealed to the United States Monday to establish "direct contact" with PLO chief Yasser Arafat, an official newspaper reported. The English-language document, written by Arafat's information adviser, Bassam Abu Sberif, appeared as a booklet at the Arab summit in Algiers earlier this month.

Dispute erupts over cause of Airbus crash

PARIS (UPI) — A dispute erupted between government officials and the pilots union Monday over why a computer-driven Airbus A320 jetliner with 136 people aboard failed to gain altitude and crashed in flames during an air show. As officials argued over responsibility for the crash, Air France and Air Inter, its domestic subsidiary, announced they were putting three A320s back into service as of Tuesday. But a spokesman for the French pilots' union, rejected speculation of human error, instead pinning the cause of the crash on a computer flaw.

Justice Dept. to begin random drug testing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department announced Monday that 1,800 of its employees in sensitive positions would be subject to random drug tests beginning in 60 days, and another 4,700 would be tested if officials suspected they used drugs. The testing will be conducted under an executive order signed by President Reagan in September 1986 to establish a "drug-free workplace" throughout the federal government.

Broker charged in insider trading scheme

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Securities and Exchange Commission charged a broker for the Morgan Stanley Group and an associate Monday in a $19 million insider trading scheme, the second largest in history. SEC enforcement chief Gary Lynch said Stephen Wang, 24, an employee of Morgan Stanley's merger and acquisition department, had funneled confidential information about at least 25 tender offers and pending mergers to Fred Lee, also known as Chwan Hong Lee, a Hong Kong resident and Taiwanese national.

Powerful quake shakes San Francisco area

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — The San Francisco Peninsula's most powerful earthquake since 1906 shook an area from Santa Cruz to San Francisco Monday, knocking jars off grocery shelves, breaking windows and swaying high-rise buildings. There were no reports of injuries. The 11:43 a.m. PDT temblor registered 5.7 on the Richter scale and was centered about 10 miles northeast of Santa Cruz and 15 miles south of San Jose.

70 thousand acres in flames in six states

Fire bosses declared 70 percent containment Monday of an 11-day-old wildfire in the Custer National Forest in Montana and South Dakota, the largest of lightning-sparked blazes rampaging over more than 70,000 acres in six states. The parched West's other major wildfire was on the huge Nevada Test Site, the nation's nuclear testing grounds, about 100 miles northwest of Las Vegas. Smaller fires blackened national forest land and other primitive terrain in Arizona, California and Idaho.

Journalism gains recalled during professor's memorial

By Susan Curtis and Robert Baxter Staff Writers

In a rare interview with Charles Lindbergh in 1930, Charles Clayton was told the future of aviation would involve flying at night.

This interview was one of Clayton's many achievements recalled by his colleagues and former students at his memorial service Friday. A School of Journalism professor for 14 years, Clayton, 85, died of a heart attack on April 29.

Paul Tredway, of the now defunct St. Louis Globe-Democrat where Clayton worked for 30 years, said Clayton became good friends with Lindbergh and had several interviews with him in following years.

David Saunders, public information specialist for the College of Technical Careers, said, "No one who knew Charlie could possibly sum up his life in only five minutes."

Saunders was a student in a class taught by Clayton at Menard Prison in 1956. It was the first college course taught for credit in a prison.

Donald Grubb, former chairman for the department of journalism at Northern Illinois University, said, "Examples of Charlie's work are evident in every journalism school in the United States."

One of Clayton's books, regarded as legendary by Grubb, was "Fifty Years of Freedom," which contains the history of Sigma Delta Chi, Society for Professional Journalists.

Clayton was the national president of Sigma Delta Chi from 1951-52 and editor of its magazine, "The Quill," from 1956-61.

Jim Plante, Sigma Delta Chi national president and managing director of News

Support Services, NBC News in New York, was a former student of Clayton's. He said if it weren't for Clayton, society might not be as rich as it is today.

Irving Dillard, former editorial page editor for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the oldest former president of Sigma Delta Chi, donated six original editorial cartoons from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch to the School of Journalism. The cartoons were original drawing board sketches done from 1946-52.

Clayton's family donated his personal collection of books, which will be kept in the Journalism Reference Room in the Communications Building.

Clayton graduated from the University of Missouri School of Journalism in 1925. He was named to the school's Hall of Fame and awarded the school's Distinguished Service Medal.

Murphysboro man beaten

By John Walby Staff Writer

Two Murphysboro men were arrested following the Sunday morning beating of a Murphysboro man, a Jackson County Sheriff's dispatcher said.

Calvin Brewer, 18, of 226 8th St., and Edward McDaniel, 21, of Rural Route 1, were arrested for the beating of Mark A. Sullens, 22, of Rural Route 5, said the dispatcher.

The men, arrested and taken to Jackson County Jail, were charged with home invasion, aggravated battery, and intimidation, said the dispatcher.

Jackson County Sheriff's deputies, who followed an ambulance to the victim's home on Murphysboro's east side around 5:14 a.m., said Sullens told them he had been beaten over a two hour period by two men, the dispatcher said.

About 20 minutes later, Sheriff's deputies apprehended Brewer when he returned to his home, according to the dispatcher.

A short time after, McDaniel also was taken into custody

University School to hold reunion

The University School Total Reunion's organizers expect a large crowd at the reunion on Saturday and Sunday in Carbondale.

"It's going to be big — more than twice as big as I thought it would be," Linda Crandle Brandon, who helped organize the reunion, said.

The University School was the culmination of SIU-C's Model School (grades 1-8) and Preparatory School (high school) which provided practical experience for prospective teachers for about a century from the time the University opened its doors in 1897 as a regional teachers college.

More than 800 former students, teachers, parents of former students, other relatives and friends have signed up for the dinner at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center ballrooms and the reception afterwards, Brandon said.

"And we've got 700 signed up for a picnic from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday at the Egyptian Sports Center," she said.

Civic center sequel gets zero-star rating

THE SEQUELS ARE back. Crocodile Dundee II, Rambo III, Return to Snowy River and Downtown Revitalization II. Wait a minute. Downtown Revitalization II? What's that?

It's the latest in the continuing drama of down and out in downtown Carbondale. Downtown is down and it's fighting for it's life in an effort to bring respectability back to the area.

When we last left our hero, downtown had just fought off an attack by the hotel-convention center monster but now he's back to face an even nastier foe — the civic center.

Our story began many years ago, during the mid-1970s. Carbondale had purchased a parcel of land on South Illinois Avenue in an effort to bring new blood to the dying heart of Carbondale. A committee, established to find uses for the land, proposed the building of a hotel-convention center, complete with rooms, meeting facilities and parking.

A federal grant was obtained, but production problems caused the apparent death of the convention center before the cameras got rolling.

BUT LIKE ALL good dramas, and this surely is one, the villain isn't easily killed, and last week the City Council began the production of another project.

Now, instead of a hotel-convention center — which wasn't very popular among local hotel owners, or anyone else, really, to begin with — the city has proposed building a civic center. The idea would be great if one were needed, but the resources of Carbondale already fill the void that a civic center is built to do.

By most definitions, a civic center is a place to hold meetings, entertain important visitors, view plays and sometimes become city halls.

If this is what they plan to build, why waste the time? The city has a cast of supporting actors up to the task. The University offers places to meet, view the arts and entertain important visitors; city offices are in a convenient area and serving the purpose for which they are there — running the city. Local hotels offer meeting space and can care for the influx of travelers to the area.

Adding another supporting actor, in the form of a civic center, would be a waste of taxpayers' money. The city surely can find something more worthwhile to do with the money than to waste it building something that is readily available.

Will downtown defeat the civic center? Will the city find something more useful to do with the land? Stay tuned for more action packed excitement, the show just has begun.

Letters

Smoker's lack of concern obvious

Lynn Naumann's letter concerning smokers rights portrayed the obvious ignorance and lack of concern smokers have for the rights of non-smokers.

While smokers may have the right to smoke, who gave them the right to blow it in someone else's direction? Certainly not I. I choose to waive my right to endure those consequential side effects which are included as a package deal with the unwanted smoke.

If all it would take is a Smoke Grabber ashtray to alleviate the problem, why not have every smoker go to the store and purchase one? Does Naumann suggest that the University foot the bill? Tuition is high enough without having to pay for smokers to smoke.

According to Naumann, her quantity of work output will be diminished in a non-smoking environment. If this is true, then Naumann's boss should start interviewing immediately for a replacement to keep up her end of the job.

I was always under the impression that stopping in the middle of a job to light up and smoke would increase a person's productivity twofold. All I know is that when smoke is blown into my face I can't concentrate or relax, thus decreasing my productivity.

I read somewhere that about two thirds of all Americans are non-smokers. If this is true, for every 520 hours Naumann seems to gain, the two non-smokers next to her lose a total of 1040 hours. This would amount to $3,000 for her employer. I may be wrong but that doesn't sound too productive to me.

Smokers should smoke on their own air and time so non-smokers can breath what's left of the smokeless air. After all, it's only fair! — Terry Trippany, senior, computer science.

Daily Egyptian caught up in AIDS hysteria

Obviously, the word AIDS caught your attention. Articles in the Daily Egyptian are numerous and a bit triteful on this subject.

Two years ago, I read that only 4 percent of the 20,000 people that died from AIDS were heterosexuals. That percentage has not increased to this date.

The AIDS virus is fragile and strictly hypothetically speaking, very hard to transfer through vaginal intercourse. Penile penetration in a lubricated vagina does not cause lacerations, unlike rough anal intercourse. Thus, it should make it very difficult for the virus to enter a woman's blood system without lacerations.

However, a woman with a venereal disease would be more likely to catch the AIDS virus. Ulcers in the vaginal wall can be easy entrances to the blood stream. But, not much has been proven as of yet.

AIDS has changed the sex lives of many people. It's a shame people were wakened to the dangers of sex through a hyped threat. Numerous kinds of sexually transmitted diseases should be their primary concern.—Jerry Bellak, senior, pre-dentistry.

Hot cars, hot crowd

By Scott Perry
Staff Writer

Hot weather and hot cars were on hand over the weekend, as people from all over the United States and the world came to see, sell and show at the 12th annual Street Machine Nationals at Du Quoin.

3,500 cars and 61,442 spectators converged on Southern Illinois for three days to witness the "largest gathering of street machines in the world," Susan Davis, spokeswoman for the Promotion Company, said. "But the hot weather kept attendance down."

"Saturday is usually our biggest day," Davis said, but with the temperatures hovering around 100 degrees for most of Saturday, attendance was down almost 3,000 from last year.

John Hampton, on-site director of the first aid tent, said six people were transported to Marshall Browning Hospital in Du Quoin because of heat-related illnesses. Sixty to 80 people took advantage of the first aid tent, he said.

Despite the hot weather, the participants were showing off their cars.

"It's hot outside, but it's cool under the hood," participant Steve Roth, of Pittsburgh, Penn., said.

Dan Eby, of St. Louis, has attended all 12 Street Machine Nationals. He said the number and quality of the cars were up from past years.

"More people are becoming enthusiasts," he said. "It's good for the sport."

Davis said more cars were allowed to enter this year because police and the company promoting the show believed they could handle more people. The limit was 3,000 in the past.

Forty-two states, including Alaska, were represented, Davis said. A car was registered from Hawaii, Davis said, but she hadn't seen it yet.

More than thirty people from Canada participated.

Andy Rankin, of Toronto, Ontario, hauled his car in a trailer for 17 hours to get it to Du Quoin. He has been to eight Street Car Nationals. Rankin said he would have been to nine, but "the event was held in St. Louis, and I didn't know where St. Louis was."

Lee Sands, also from Toronto, was attending for her first time.

"You see a lot of cars you don't see in Canada," she said. "Your cars have little squiggles on them," she said, referring to the pinstriping. "We don't have that in Canada."

Participants weren't the only ones from far-away places. Spectators from all over the world were on hand, including one from Holland, Davis said.

Davis said the show will be returning next year and she hopes the weather will be a little more cooperative.

The return will be a milestone for the Nationals, because, as a Petersen Publishing representative put it, "I don't think we've ever been four years anywhere."

In addition, there would be less graduate assistants to help with other music courses and the ensembles.

The other area that would be affected is the School of Music's operations, which would mean reductions in duplication of materials, faculty and graduate travel, amount of sheet music for the ensembles and long-distance telephone calls.

Sanders is chairman of a state-wide committee which lobbies for money for higher education.

Madigan is the center of attention, not only because he controls the voting agenda for the House, but because, as of Friday, he is the only legislative leader who hasn't "jumped on the bandwagon" for a tax increase. Barry Hickman, spokesman for the governor, said.

Hickman said in Thompson's "tax summit" last Friday, House minority leader Lee Daniels joined. Senate President Philip Rock and Senate Minority Leader James "Pat" Philip in support of the tax bill. But Madigan remained unconvinced over the need for a tax increase.

Steve Brown, Madigan's press secretary, said the Speaker has allowed for three or four opportunities to vote on tax increases but there was no response from the assembly.

"There's obviously no support for a tax increase," Brown said.

"The Governor doesn't even have anybody to sponsor (the bill). He hasn't worried about that, all he has tried to do is pin Madigan into a corner," Brown said.

Thompson has said that a majority of the legislature would vote for the bill if it is presented.

Experts see no quick fix for obese

Education,
not gimmicks
key to weight loss

"Getting people to understand there is no easy way to lose weight, only a right way, is the first step."

—Janet Sundberg

By Megan Hauck
Staff Writer

There are no easy solutions for the overweight, weight loss experts agree. Though many people want to lose weight, they also want an easy answer to the problem, weight-loss counselors say. But, there are no easy answers.

Pills, fad diets, and a quick-fix are no longer an option for those serious about losing weight, Janet Sundberg, a registered dietician for Nu Life Nutrition, said.

"We don't sell any gimmicks," Sundberg said. "We don't work like that."

Sundberg, who was once obese, counsels dieters at Nu Life Nutrition. Educating people about eating habits is her main goal, she said.

"Getting people to understand there is no easy way to lose weight, only a right way, is the first step," Sundberg said.

Sundberg admitted to trying "every fad diet that ever was" before she learned to control her eating habits. Most dieters are willing to try anything to lose weight, she said.

Women are more likely than men to use weight loss centers, Sundberg said. And, she said, the influence of society helps explain why 87 percent of the clients at Nu Life Nutrition are women.

"Society says it's unattractive for people to be heavy, especially women," Sundberg said. "I say it's more unhealthy than it is unattractive."

A lot of people who decide it's time to lose weight want to lose weight immediately, so they skip meals or they eat nothing but grapefruits for a week, she said.

Kimberly Schmid, a Diet Center counselor, agreed that losing weight and remaining healthy is tricky business.

"You can have someone who's 90 pounds overweight and still be malnourished," she said. "They just don't get the nutrients they need from what they eat."

Schmid, who once weighed 219 pounds, said she also had tried countless fad diets—only to gain back more weight than she had lost.

On a national average, only 3 percent of those who have lost weight are able to keep it off, she said.

"It's because of all the fad diets that the average is so low," Schmid said. "People lose 10 pounds and gain back 15 more."

Students are especially prone to fad dieting, Schmid said.

"Students trying to make it through college on a tight budget are more likely to buy a 99 cent box of Little Debbie snack cakes than 99 cents worth of vegetables because the cakes are more filling," she said.

Schmid said a lot of people don't see the correlation between less expensive, processed food and poor health.

Sundberg agreed, saying clients are first taught healthy eating habits and then counseled to change their habits, attitudes and behaviors in order to lose weight and keep it off.

Although both weight loss centers have individualized diets and counseling that makes losing weight "as simple as they need it," Sundberg said, dieters pay a price for the pounds they lose.

In addition to a non-refundable registration fee, Nu Life Nutrition and Diet Center charge clients $35 to $40 each week to lose an average of three to five pounds.

Dieters such as Millie Messerschmidt are often willing to pay whatever it costs to lose weight. Messerschmidt, director of volunteer services at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, became a client at Diet Center in November, 1987. So far, she has lost 68 pounds.

"If someone came along and said I could have an operation for x-number of dollars to lose x-number of pounds, I would take it," she said. "What's the difference as long as I lose the weight?"

For those on a tight budget, the Wellness Center is an option that most students, faculty and staff fail to consider.

"I always ask a new client if she's aware of the Wellness Center before I start her on a diet plan," she said. "A surprising number of them aren't."

Jamie Mills, a Wellness Center counselor, said she get a lot of students who dropped out of a weight loss center because they ran out of money.

"Some students don't realize that part of their health service fees goes to the Wellness Center," Mills said. "That's why we can offer the same services as expensive weight loss centers offer for a fraction of the cost."

Mills' aid weight loss gimmicks are popular among students because they are inexpensive compared to weight loss centers.

"Students who use the 'magic weight loss pills' think they are getting a quick-fix-it deal," Mills said. "What most of them don't realize is a lot of these pills come with 1,000 calorie diets and that it's the diet and not the pill that makes them lose weight."

Adventure Center has alternative to sports for fitness

Students who want to stay fit but don't enjoy the competition of conventional sports can find a fitness alternative at the Adventure Center.

The Center, located in the Recreation Center, has offered backpacking trips through the Smokey Mountains, canoeing on the Shawnee River and whitewater raft trips.

It also is a resource and information center that can provide tips on anything from fossil hunting to wind surfing and skiing. The services are free to all SIUC students. The center has maps, brochures, lists of sports clubs and suggestions on the best places to go, where to get equipment and who to contact for just about any activity the student desires.

"A lot of students come to Carbondale and end up knowing the Strip and that's it," Katie Belisle, summer supervisor at the Center, said. "Southern Illinois is one of the most beautiful places in the country and students should really get out there and see it. It's a lot of fun and many times can be a great workout."

SIU-C physical education starts with basic factors, leads to fit student body

By Beth Clavin
Staff Writer

In today's society, many studies claim that America's youth is out of shape.

SIU-C is addressing this problem by requiring students to take physical education (GE-E) classes.

"GE-E's, in general, start with very basic factors," physical education instructor Kenneth Ackerman said.

Weight training, physical fitness, and aerobic dance classes are designed to improve individual fitness. Claudia Blackman, physical education GE-E committee, said. These are taught most frequently, she said.

Weight training increases strength, flexibility of muscles, endurance, and body composition, Ackerman, the summer instructor of weight training and physical fitness, said.

Aerobic dance also aids in each of these areas, except in increasing strength, he said.

Swimming strengthens the heart and lungs, Blackman, summer swimming and bowling instructor, said.

Ackerman encourages enrollment in the physical fitness class because of its broad-based curriculum. Each student's level of physical fitness is assessed at the beginning of the course. An individual program is then developed to overcome weaknesses and maintain strengths, he said.

"If somebody wanted to get started, this would be a good class to take," he said. "We try to give (students) both the how to and the why of."

Although physical education classes are required, most students in the classes seem pretty enthusiastic, Blackman said. They have the freedom to select which classes interest them, she said.

"By and large, students are there because they want to seriously start a fitness program," Ackerman said. Some students take as many as three GE-Es at one time, he said.

Approximately 5,000 students per year take physical education classes, Blackman said. Like any program, we could use more staff and equipment, she said.

"The general population should understand that it is important to improve fitness," Blackman said. "The youth of America is worse off today than they were after World War II."

"Physical fitness makes one look better and feel better," Ackerman said. "Exercise is one of the ways people can enhance the quality of their life."

Blackman said she believed SIU-C should bring back the required physical education course that explains basic physical fitness and the method for improving body health.

Thin is no longer in, survey says

New York (UPI) — American women are moving away from the thinness mania and men like it that way, a survey reported Monday.

In fact, men still yearn for women with that curvy Marilyn Monroe look. The survey, commissioned by American Health magazine, showed women seem to want to pass up being ultra-slim for "a muscular body tone, rather than a soft one."

In the survey, only 35 percent of women polled said they would like a thin body.

Benefits of exercise depend on athlete's efforts

SIU-C health expert recommends aerobics; gives guidelines for effective conditioning program

By Richard Goldstein
Staff Writer

"No pain, no gain" is an axiom associated with the toils of exercise. But some SIU-C fitness experts disagree.

Those experts say there is no getting around the fact that the benefits of exercise are directly related to the amount of effort put into an exercise program.

David A. Elam, Wellness Center coordinator, said conditioning depends on a combination of frequency, intensity and time.

Elam said exercise may be cardiovascular, strengthening or stretching. In an ideal conditioning program, all three categories should be included, he said.

But in an imperfect world, aerobic exercise is the next best thing. Aerobic exercise includes activities like walking, running, swimming, riding a bike, and, what is commonly referred to as "aerobics"—aerobic dance.

While aerobic exercises mainly benefit the cardiovascular system, Elam said, "if you spend 20 or 30 minutes on these, you will also improve your strength."

He said an aerobic exercise program should be performed a minimum of three times a week and 20 to 30 minutes for each session for substantial cardiovascular benefits.

As for intensity, Elam said, the target heart rate is between 60 and 80 percent of the maximum rate.

The maximum heart rate can be calculated by subtracting a person's age from 220, he said. The target range is determined by taking the pulse for six seconds after four or five minutes of exercise, and multiplying the pulse rate times ten.

A 20 year old's heart should beat 12 to 16 times in six seconds, he said.

"It's important that people integrate activity into their lifestyle."

—Ronald G. Knowlton

"Most people, if they are not regular exercisers, can walk briskly and get into this range," Elam said. And, he said, aerobic exercise burns calories more efficiently in the low range.

"Your body will burn fat or you will be more likely to lose weight at 60 percent of your heart rate," he said.

Elam said it is better for cardiovascular fitness to exercise for a longer period in the lower target range, than for a shorter period in the higher target range.

In short, "longer is better." Sure, longer may be better, but some people say they don't have the time.

Elam doesn't buy that excuse. To benefit from a conditioning program, he said, exercise must be a priority in life.

Ronald G. Knowlton, professor of physical education, agrees.

"We tell people, make time for it, don't take time for it," he said. "It's important that people integrate activity into their lifestyle."

Knowlton suggested taking a fitness assessment before starting a conditioning program. A fitness assessment also can serve as a motivating technique, Knowlton said. By taking the assessment and coming back after a few months, the person's progress in a physical conditioning program can be gauged.

Fitness assessments are offered at the Arena and the Recreation Center.

BITING BUGS & PLANTS

In general, if you're heading outdoors, take these precautions to reduce your chances of getting bit or snagged:

- Wear long sleeves and pants
- Use an insect repellent containing DEET.
- Stay in open areas, away from trees and long grass.
- Take a bath or shower and wash clothes after being out.
- Calamine lotion or Cortaid helps reduce itching of mosquito and chigger bites and poison ivy rash.

POISON IVY is a trailing, climbing vine with green leaves that grow in groups of three. If rash occurs follow the tips above and apply cool soaks 20 minutes, 4-6 times daily. Leave open to air and keep it clean.

CHIGGERS are generally found in areas with long grass and cause a tremendous itch. Bites are usually around beltlines, armpits or areas where skin touches skin. Keep moving when in chigger territory.

MOSQUITOS hang out everywhere but are more common in wooded areas. Use spray repellent for clothes and lotion for skin.

TICKS are found in woods or grassy areas and can transmit serious fever type illnesses. Check your body regularly for ticks, remove by flipping tick on its back with tweezers...Do not squish the tick...cleanse the wound with soap and water and apply an antiseptic.

BEE STINGS cause swelling with redness, aching and itching in a non-allergic person.

- Scrape the stinger out, don't squeeze it.
- Apply cold compress or ice for 24 hours.
- Baking soda paste or meat tenderizer may reduce swelling and relieve itching.
- An allergic person should always be prepared and carry a special kit available from your physician.

These tips are for those who suffer from minor bites, stings, wounds, etc. If you have allergies to a bug or plant or if you develop symptoms more severe than those described here, consult a physician.

Call 536-2291 for a Health Service appointment, 8AM-4:30PM, Mon-Fri.

For informational brochures or health advice, stop by the Student Health Assessment Center in the Student Center.

WOUNDS

Summer activities: catching your finger on a fishing hook; scraping your knee in a fall; stepping on a nail; etc. ...a small wound can be cared for by....

- cleaning with soap and water
- covering with a dry, sterile bandage.

TETANUS is a serious, preventable infection that may be a complication of "dirty wounds", such as wounds with little bleeding. This kind of wound had one in the past 3-4 years.

MISCELLANEOUS TIPS

- Wear a helmet when cycling (bike, motorcycle or scooter) and clothes that protect in falls or burns.
- Cotton clothes absorb perspiration better and may cause less chafe of skin irritation than synthetics.
- Walking can provide an aerobic workout - burn calories and reduce stress. A low-impact way to keep fit in these hot summer months.
- To quench your thirst, reach for a tall glass of cold water. Remember, beer and sodas are mild diuretics that deplete your body of fluids.

SUNBURN

- Apply cool compresses or soak in a tub of cool water.
- Drink water or juice to re-hydrate yourself.
- Use common sense. Limit your exposure, especially during the "danger hours" (11AM to 2PM).
- If you do tan during the "danger hours", do so for a maximum of 15 minutes.
- Use a sunscreen containing PABA and a benzene compound. Lotions are rated 2-15, 15 being most effective.
- Apply sunscreen about 1 hour before sunning.
- Remember, up to 60% of the sun's UV rays can reach you on cloudy days.

SUN & DRUGS. Many drugs can make your skin more sensitive to the sun. Some depressants and some forms of tetracycline. Sun & Drugs may cause itching, a rash, exaggerated sunburn, blisters and peeling. Ask your doctor or pharmacist about possible reactions if you're getting a prescription.

CHOOSING SUNGLASSES. be sure they have UV protection....Neutral gray is best for color perception. Brown is second best....Polarized lenses are best for driving or near water.

EXERCISING IN THE HEAT

Regardless of your physical conditioning, extreme caution must be taken when exercising in hot, humid weather. Prolonged exposure may result in:

HEAT CRAMPS are extremely painful muscle spasms related to an imbalance between water and several electrolytes (sodium, potassium and calcium). These electrolytes are essential in muscle contraction.

HEAT EXHAUSTION results from inadequate replacement of fluids lost through sweating. Symptoms include profuse sweating, flushed skin, dizziness, hyperventilation, and rapid pulse. At first sign of trouble, ingest large amounts of cool water and move to a cool place.

HEAT STROKE is a serious, life-threatening emergency. Your body's sweating mechanism breaks down and loses the ability to sweat. Symptoms include pale, relatively dry skin, loss of consciousness, temperature of 106 degrees or higher. Try to reduce body temperature as quickly as possible. If someone collapses, cool their body while on the way to the emergency room.

TO PREVENT HEAT—RELATED ILLNESS allow your body to gradually get used to the heat. Allow 5-7 days of gradually increasing periods of exposure.

FLUID & ELECTROLYTE REPLACEMENT. Drink plenty of water before, during and after exercise. The biggest need is to replace water. Electrolytes can be replaced through your diet. Sodium can be replenished by lightly salting your food. Bananas, potatoes and tomatoes are excellent sources of potassium. Calcium is found in all dairy products.

CLOTHING: Wear as little clothing as possible to allow maximal evaporation. Never wear rubberized or plastic suits since they severely limit the body's ability to dissipate heat.

Wellness Center treats students with illness-preventing measures

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

Questions about birth control, smoking or care for a minor cold, are answered at the Wellness Center.

The Center specializes in preventive medicine by teaching people how to care for themselves and avoid getting sick. It opened in 1978 and now has several branch offices around campus.

The Center's headquarters in Kesner Hall on Greek Row coordinates one-on-one counseling on stress management, weight loss, nutrition, sexual matters, birth control, drug and alcohol, pain management, smoking, and many other areas.

The Health Assessment Center at the Student Center gives students access to a student counselor and a registered nurse.

The center's convenient location, in the main hallway on the ground floor, provides weight and blood pressure checks, minor first aid, diet and exercise counseling, health and fitness displays, and throat cultures.

Often these services save students the $5 door that a trip to the Health Service costs, Assessment Center personnel say.

Rec Center programs allow faculty, staff to shape up

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

SIU-C faculty and staff members who want to get in shape or stay that way have an opportunity to get exercise with summer fitness and sports programs sponsored by the Recreation Center.

Herman Williams, coordinator of intramural recreational sports, said it is important to offer some programs during the day because most faculty and staff members are not likely to return to campus for recreation once they leave in the afternoon.

Although programs aimed at the faculty are not new, program coordinators are trying to get more people involved and make the programs readily available to them, Williams said.

Many faculty and staff members feel more comfortable participating in aerobics or basketball with colleagues rather than students, Williams said. Some faculty feel intimidated when they go to the Rec Center and see 18-year-olds working out, he said.

Summer programs have had a good response, Williams said.

"We try to make it fun for everybody, whether they win or not," he said.

"We try to make it fun for everybody, whether they win or not."

—Herman Williams

There is an Aerobics program from noon to 1 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in Davies Gym. The sessions are primarily low impact.

Volleyball tournaments are being held for teams from different departments at 4:45 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. A summer golf league with round robin play teas off Monday evenings at Crab Orchard golf course.

Programs for the fall include wallyball, racquetball, tennis and basketball, Williams said.

Williams said many faculty and staff members are beginning to realize that the Recreation Center is geared toward them as well as the students.

Harvey Welch, vice president for student affairs, said the fitness program could be turned into an incentive program for faculty and staff, but the administration must look into a program that is inexpensive and available to everyone.

WELLNESS, from Page 6a

The Wellness Center located in Lentz, Grinnell, and Trueblood cafeterias. Student Health advocates staff these facilities and provide pamphlets dealing with health topics and advice on everything from sex to stress management.

The Health Advocates also offer programs on different topics in the dorms.

Another group of Health Advocates forms a traveling speaking bureau and takes health-related programs to student organizations and meetings.

Dial-a-nurse, another branch of the Wellness Center, gives students access to medical advice during the hours when the Health Service is closed.

Image is not a high priority at bars

Students select bars that suit their style, budget

By Carrie Ferguson
Staff Writer

Carbondale bar-hoppers agree it takes a certain amount of preparation to play the dating game, but say that image isn't "too big a deal" at most of the bars they frequent.

"I try to go to bars that don't put an emphasis on what you look like or what you're wearing," Lisa, 21, senior in elementary education, said. "Of course, you always try to look your best, but the pressure is greater at some bars than others."

Paul, 23, of Carbondale said he always tries to look good because "there is a lot of competition."

"I hate the attitudes some people have," he said. "They only come out to be seen."

Bill, a 22-year-old senior in mechanical engineering technology, said the crowds can be "materialistic and cliquish, depending on where you go."

"At certain bars you can do your own thing, wear what you want," he said. "It's relaxing and it's fun."

Bar-hoppers who are prepared for the scene they are entering, can find relaxation in the most elegant atmosphere Carbondale has to offer.

"Skirts and pearls" is how 22-year-old Nancy, senior in clothing textiles and design, describes a bar she frequents.

"I have a good time there. I don't feel self-conscious," she said.

Bill said he won't go to a certain bar because he feels "old" compared to the crowd that's usually found there. "I'm self-conscious there," he said.

Economics, rather than a self-imposed dress code, dictate where many students go in search of night life.

Dawn, 21, senior in elementary education, said the bar she goes to depends on what day of the week it is.

"I go to one for the quarter beers, one for the beer garden and one for the music," she said. "I don't really go to the bars to look for guys."

Although no one in the crowd agreed on a favorite bar, everyone agreed with Dawn that what bars they go to depends on what night of the week it is.

Steve, 26, senior in electrical engineering technology, said, "You can get bored (of a certain bar) pretty fast, so you hit them all and then go home."

Giant City offers fitness, exercise in the great outdoors

By John Walblay
Staff Writer

Summer weather will bring out even the most timid fitness enthusiasts. Many will flock to the University's Recreation Center or any of the other courts and gymnasiums in the area. But many will escape to the outer limits of the area to find their own form of exercise.

Devil's Backbone beach near Grand Tower has a beach and picnic area. Low rains this summer have caused the banks of the Mississippi River to recede several feet, creating ideal swimming conditions.

The beach is open every day and free to the public.

David Smith and his wife Mabel, of Morristown, Tenn., pedaled their bicycles over the roads of Giant City State Park one recent Friday afternoon. Mr. Smith is a retired university teacher, though Mrs. Smith still teaches at Lincoln Memorial University in Shawnee, Tenn.

The Smiths were on a 500-mile trek which started in Farmington, Mo. Mr. Smith said they hope to complete the journey in 18 to 20 days, ending in Berea, Ky.

"It's nicer out here, because it's a bike route. Other places they (drivers) would just as soon blow you off the road," he said.

Giant City also has a baseball field and several open areas suitable for volleyball or badminton. There are trails for hiking, including a 18-mile trail, and the Post Oak Trail for the handicapped.

SPC looking for volunteers in fall

By Kimberly Clarke
Staff Writer

A college degree without experience on campus is merely words on a piece of paper, a Student Programming Council official says.

"The best thing I ever did was get involved at SIU-C," Suzanne M. Slas, SPC's promotions chairwoman, said. SPC is a campus organization that gives students a chance to learn organizational, as well as management, skills, Slas said. SPC also provides entertainment and educational programs.

"There is something for everyone at SPC, and right now we need people from all majors to help with the new students program for the fall," Slas, 21, a university studies major, said.

SPC has 10 committees that hold 800 events annually, offering the volunteer experience in time management, organizational and office skills, as well as social and educational contacts, Slas said.

Center Programming is responsible for coordinating student center events. Travel and Recreation plans trips for breaks and weekends. Special Events plans and implements programs such as Homecoming and Springfest. Concerts organizes a broad range of music festivals, and Promotions keeps the public aware of SPC by using the media.

Some committees deal in the entertainment and arts areas, she said. The Spirit committee is in charge of the university mascot, cheerleaders and Sahki Shakers. Fine arts provides activities such as craft sales, and deals in the business of art. In expressive arts, the students make their own entertainment productions, and the video and films committees present shows.

"SPC is here for and is run by the students, which a lot of people do not know. The atmosphere is very open and we're given a lot of freedom. We learn from our mistakes," Slas said.

SPC is funded by student fees. There is no cost to join, Slas said. It is strictly volunteer work, she added.

"SPC is one of the better things SIU-C has to offer," said Slas. "It's a great way to meet people who have the same interests as you do, and have a lot of fun in the process."

Move ahead with trials, Reagan says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Monday he wants to see trials in the Iran-Contra scandal move forward as soon as possible to see the innocence of former aides John Poindexter and Oliver North "established once and for all."

Speaking to reporters during an Oval Office photo session with Turkish President Kenan Evren, Reagan reinforced a pledge made last week by the White House to cooperate in procedures standing in the way of the trials.

Reagan has taken repeated opportunities over the last year to voice confidence in the innocence of Poindexter and North.

Lendl nears disaster mark

Nearly 5 hours of play consumed before quarterfinal berth

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Ivan Lendl, as close to disaster as a novice tightrope walker, scrambled to safety Monday by saving a match point for a five-set victory over Mark Woodforde and a quarterfinal berth in the Wimbledon Championships.

Lendl, seeking his first Wimbledon title after two appearances in the final, defeated the unseeded Australian 7-5, 6-7 (6-8), 6-7 (4-7), 7-5, 10-8. The match lasted 4 hours, 46 minutes and was completed shortly before play was suspended for the day because of rain.

Lendl and Woodforde took so long to settle their 68-game duel that the fourth-round match between No. 6 seed Boris Becker of West Germany and Paul Annacone of the United States was postponed until Tuesday.

Advancing to quarterfinals with considerably less fuss were Swedes Mats Wilander and Stefan Edberg. The women lost Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina while Steffi Graf of West Germany and Americans Chris Evert and Pam Shriver were among those moving into the quarterfinals.

Wilander, the No. 2 seed, is already halfway toward a Grand Slam, having won the Australian and French Open. He overcame hard-hitting Slobodan Ziljovic of Yugoslavia 5-4, 7-6 (6-1), 7-5. Edberg, the No. 3 seed, overpowered Simon Youll of Australia 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

No. 4 Pat Cash, the defending champion, is the lone Aussie left. He outplayed Soviet qualifier Andrei Olkhovskiy 6-3, 6-3, 6-3. And No. 9 Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia earned a quarterfinal match with Wilander by rallying to a 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Australia's Wally Masur.

The match between No. 5 Jimmy Connors of the United States and Patrick Kuhn of West Germany was tied 7-5, 6-7 6-6 when play was suspended. The winner meets Edberg.

No. 3 Shriver, suffering from mononucleosis, benefited from Sunday's rest day and defeated No. 14 Katerina Maleeva of Bulgaria 6-2, 6-2. And Natalia Zvereva, who ousted Martina Navratilova at the French Open, tumbled in the fourth round.

Hambletonian won't make return trip

By Jeff Grieser
Staff Writer

The Hambletonian isn't coming back to the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds. At least not for a while.

The Hambletonian, one of the races in harness racing's triple crown, was a spectacle in Southern Illinois for several years before moving to New Jersey in 1981. Jim Skilbeck, special assistant to Gov.

James R. Thompson, said he feels the prestigious harness race is staying at the Meadowlands for the wrong reasons.

Skilbeck said: "They chose not even to vote on our proposal, which is something that for as long as I'm in government politics will escape me. If they (the Hambletonian Society) wanted to return to tradition, than Du Quoin is the place."

"We gave them a choice that would have been mutual to both parties," Skilbeck said at a press conference in Du Quoin Tuesday. "Take a look at what we wanted to do. We gave them an option that would have kept the two biggest races there and left one here. We gave them a choice not to hurt a friend."

Skilbeck said he believes the decision was made because the Meadowlands is a more convenient location.

"The disappointing thing is that they didn't even vote on a proposal that would have made us all winners," Skilbeck said.

Skilbeck named other reasons why he and his colleagues feel the race belongs in Du Quoin.

"This track is a faster track than the Meadowlands, the speed record was set here," he said. "I think the result was indicative of the fact that they didn't want to deal with the race being here."

Skilbeck said he wouldn't reveal what Illinois' bid was, but said that the bids were, "virtually identical."

As it stands now, Du Quoin has lost the race until at least 1995.

Community to help decide on new AD

Coaches will have greatest influence

By Beth Clavin
Staff Writer

President John Guyon said he is waiting for community feedback before he makes a decision about the candidates vying to be the new athletics director.

He said that the proper course of action is to listen to the feedback from the university community. He will share this information with the AD search committee, which he will meet on Wednesday.

"I will summarize for them what the community had to say, and we'll go from there, although a decision may not be reached at that time," Guyon said.

"The No. 1 constituent I will take into consideration is the coaches," he said. He planned to meet with them Monday and today.

Guyon said the interviews with the coaches are going well. However, it is too early to reveal more information about which candidates they endorse, he said.

Rick Rhoades, Saluki head

"The No. 1 constituent I will take into consideration is the coaches."

—President John C. Guyon

football coach, said he does not enquire a particular candidate. "I have confidence that the University will pick the best person for the job," he said.

The candidates for the position of athletics director are athletics director for Central Missouri State University Jerry Hughes, SIU-C interim athletics director Charlotte West, former St. Louis Cardinal quarterback and Saluki football player Jim Hart, and Sonoma State University athletics director Ralph Barkey.

The new athletics director should be named the first week in July, Guyon said.

Men's track members don't do well in Florida

By Brad Bushue
Staff Writer

Ron Harrer and Bret Garrett of the Saluki men's track and field team agreed that June 17 wasn't their day.

The two attended The Athletic Congress track and field competition in Tampa Bay, Fla., where Harrer, an All-American in the discus, placed 11th, and 800-meter runner Garret crossed the finish line in fourth place, just one position short of qualifying for the finals.

Harrer said he was up against the "best in the country." He said the competition gets better as the Olympic team trials draw near and he "just had a bad day."

Garrett, the third fastest 800-meter runner in Saluki history, said he was a victim of false information when he was mistakenly told by a TAC employee that the first four finishers would be qualifiers. He discovered after the race he needed to finish in the top three places to go on to the TAC finals.

"I could've gotten third," Garrett said, but he placed fourth because he was unable to pass his surrounding opponents.

Harrer and Garrett competed in a qualifying meet in St. Louis Saturday but the results of that meet are not yet available.

Joe Hall and Dale Kisten are experiencing different fates with their new ball club.

The former Saluki baseball players have reunited on the Cardinals' Class A Rookie League Team in Hamilton, Ontario. Hall is hot, Kisten is not.

Through 11 games, Hall is leading the New York-Penn League with 13 RBIs, and his .318 batting average is good for eighth in the league. The 22-year-old Hall is picking up where he left off in his college career. He finished the 1988 season at SIU-C with a .355 batting average, nine home runs, and 56 RBIs.

Hall has played in all of his team's games. He has batted 44 times and has 14 hits, two of them doubles. He's scored ten runs, stolen four bases, and been caught stealing twice. He's struck out eight times and walked seven. Hall's only drawback has been in the field, where he's committed three errors.

Kisten, 0-1, had a rough time in his only outing with the team.

In a three-inning relief stint, Kisten yielded five hits and four runs, two of them earned. He walked one and struck out three.

Women's Open suits the champ

LUTHERVILLE, Md. (UPI) — Despite playing on a course that suits her long hitting, Laura Davies Monday downplayed her chances to become the first golfer in a decade to repeat as U.S. Women's Open champion.

The 43rd U.S. Women's Open runs from July 21-24 at the Baltimore Country Club on the par-71 6,232-yard Five Farms course that rewards power hitters such as Davies.

Flying discs aren't just for the beaches anymore

At the office of Intramural Sports Recreation, the Frisbee disc isn't a game just for the beach.

Registration for Ultimate Frisbee, a combination of football and soccer, but played with a common Frisbee disc, will close today at 4 p.m., assistant director of Intramural Sports Recreation Sarah Simonson said.

The object of the game, Simonson said, is for a seven-member team to throw the disc to their teammates until it can be caught behind the goal line.

Simonson said the quick-paced game is a good cardiovascular exercise, conditions the leg muscles and sharpens hand-eye coordination.

Registration ends today for novice, intermediate and advanced levels of play. Registration requires the names of four or more team members on a roster at the Recreation Center information desk. Those who do not have a team can sign a request list and be assigned to a team.

Players have the option of joining the men or women's division, or the Co-Recreational team, both men and women, she said.

There will be a captain's meeting June 29 to discuss scheduling and the games will start at the Recreation Center playing fields, the area north of the Towers. The teams will play until the end of July when the season will wrap up in a single elimination tournament, Simonson said.

SIU-C students, faculty and staff passholders may participate in the activity. Those who do not have a user's pass may purchase one for $10.
