Swinburne proposes student fee hike

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, has proposed an increase in student fees and a new method of assessing the fees.

The proposal would increase the Student Welfare and Recreation Fee (SWRF) by $3 and the Student Activity Fee by 75 cents. The fees would be assessed according to the number of hours a student is taking.

Swinburne said he will present his proposal to the Board of Trustees in April or May.

Under Swinburne's proposal, one general fee would be collected and distributed to University areas presently supported by several student fees—including SWRF and the activity fee.

The general fee would be divided into athletics, 37 per cent; Student Center, 37 per cent; SWRF, 15 per cent; and Student Activities, 11 per cent.

Swinburne said that the increase in SWRF will be needed to operate and maintain the new recreation building. He said he does not know what the actual cost of maintaining the building will be.

The funds needed for the first year of operation and maintenance have already been provided for by student fees collected since 1965.

Swinburne has estimated that the yearly cost of maintaining the building will be $1 million.

Under Swinburne's proposal to assess a general fee according to the number of hours a student is taking, the fee would be $4.50 per hour and $54 for all full-time students.

The proposed fee schedule includes refundable fees for the student attorney program and the student to student grant program. For students taking five hours or less the student medical benefit fee of $32.25 would be optional.

Swinburne said that if the student to student grant program is dropped because of a lack of state funds or a lack of support from students, the general fee will decrease by $2.25.

Kochman appointed acting SIU-E president

Andrew Kochman

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

EDWARDSVILLE—The SIU Board of Trustees formally approved the appointment of Andrew Kochman as acting president of the Edwardsville campus and formed a search committee to pick a new president for SIU-E.

Kochman, vice president and provost for SIU-E, replaces John S. Rendleman who died from lung cancer March 4.

Accepting the recommendations of the SIU-E University Senate, the board also approved the formation of a 14-member search committee to determine Rendleman's permanent successor. Deane Wiley, former dean of the College of Education at the Edwardsville campus was named as its chairman.

The search committee will be comprised of faculty, students, administration members, alumni and a representative-at-large. Ivan A. Elliott Jr., chairman of the SIU board, said the representative-at-large will be appointed if the search committee determines that some Edwardsville constituency group has not been given representation.

Elliott said the board will select the members of the search committee at the April meeting in Carbondale. The search process should take between six to eight months, he said.

The trustees also renamed the General Office Building on the Edwardsville campus after Rendleman and unanimously passed a resolution praising him for his contributions to the SIU system and higher education in Illinois.

In actions affecting the Carbondale campus, the board approved $351,000 for construction and repair work. This includes an expenditure of $201,210 to complete the installation of new water pipes in Neely Hall. The project, which began last summer, is expected to be completed before the beginning of fall semester.

The board also approved a $75,000 additional appropriation for the expansion of Parking Lot 10, north of McAndrew Stadium and east of the new parking garage.

Cost of the project has increased from earlier estimates of $60,000 to $135,000 because of price increases in labor and materials.

Street lights, sidewalks, signs and storm sewer connections will be installed. Funding for the project will come from the SIU-C parking fund.

The board also approved the adoption of three "floating" holidays for civil service workers. The action is necessary for SIU to comply with an Illinois law which granted the holidays scheduled to take effect July 1.

The law provides for six holidays and five floating days. However, the law does not recognize Washington's Birthday and the day after Thanksgiving which are included as floating days in the University policy.

The board also approved a supplementary appropriation of $32,000 in Student Activity Fee money. The money, made available because of increased enrollment fall semester, will be distributed between the Student Organization Activity Fund, the Student Senate, Graduate Student Council and the Vice President for Student Affairs Contingency Fund.

The Student Senate will receive a

Collective bargaining report pressures board

By Kathleen Takemoto
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

EDWARDSVILLE—Ivan Elliott Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees, said that the Faculty Organization for Collective Bargaining (FOCB) of SIU-E put "undue pressure" on the board by having a representative of a public accounting firm attempt to deliver the results of a ballot on collective bargaining to the board Thursday.

A representative of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., a Chicago accounting firm which conducted the balloting for the FOCB, attempted to deliver the results of the balloting to the Board of Trustees shortly before the board met in an open session.

Elliott said he refused to accept the results from the accounting firm because he thought it was an attempt by the FOCB to force delivery of the balloting results and force recognition of the FOCB.

He said the accounting firm was not asked to enter into collective bargaining as labor consultants. "They don't have the expertise to establish a bargaining unit for this or any other university," he said.

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. was hired by the FOCB to conduct the balloting, which asked 546 full-time SIU-E faculty members if they favored collective bargaining. Ballots were counted Wednesday in Chicago, and the results were released Thursday.

Of the 376 ballots returned, 230 or 61 per cent, indicated support of collective bargaining, 134 of the ballots returned opposed collective bargaining. Five indicated other answers, six listed wrong addresses and one was spoiled.

Dickie Spurgeon, president of the FOCB, said the results of the balloting indicate a "very strong support for collective bargaining." He said the FOCB will ask the board to "either recognize us or join the FOCB and the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) in asking the Department of Labor to conduct a collective bargaining election."

Elliott, however, was not convinced by the results, which he finally accepted from Spurgeon after the board meeting. Of the total number of ballots mailed out, 58 per cent of them either opposed collective bargaining or were not returned, he pointed out. Only 42 per cent of the total number of ballots mailed out supported collective bargaining, he said. "If the faculty were really concerned about this election,

Wallace set to stump in Marion on Friday

The fifth and final presidential candidate scheduled to stump in Southern Illinois, Alabama Gov. George Wallace, will fly into Williamson County Airport Friday evening and speak later at John A. Logan Community College in Carverville.

Wallace is expected to arrive at the airport between 5 and 5:30 p.m., according to campaign workers at his area headquarters in Energy.

Wallace will check into the Marion Holiday Inn "to rest up a bit" before going to the college for a 7:30 p.m. rally and talk.

Traveling with the governor are country and western singing artists Ferlin Huskie and Billie Cramer. The rally at the college is open to the public on a first come, first served basis. Tickets are not necessary.

Donow predicts eventual approval of bargaining

Herbert Donow, president of the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT), predicted on Wednesday that collective bargaining would eventually be approved by the SIU Board of Trustees.

"I will say quite unequivocally that there will be collective bargaining here," he said. "It is quite conceivable that there will be a change in the attitude of the Board of Trustees in the near future, even without enabling legislation."

Donow made the statement at the CFUT spring membership meeting in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

Donow said a possible coalition with the Carbondale Chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) is a "dead issue."

Veep search to start over

The final candidate for the position of associate vice president for research and dean of the graduate college has been rejected and the search committee for the post will be reorganized.

Arthur Mackinney, the final candidate for the position, was not accepted for the post after being interviewed on campus last month, Frank Horton, vice president for academic affairs and research, said Wednesday.

Horton said the new search committee will retain the same number of Graduate Council members and deans as the previous committee. The previous search committee was made up of seven Graduate Council members and three deans, he said. He said he is not met with the committee yet.

Candidates for the position of associate vice president for academic affairs and research for service are presently being interviewed on campus.

Wallace finished a disappointing second in Florida's primary Tuesday, capturing 31 per cent of the vote behind Carter's 34 per cent. Wallace had won in Florida in 1972 with 42 per cent of the Democratic vote.

Wallace supporters in the area predict an Illinois victory for the Southern Democrat, but add that even if he fails here, they would not support a move to throw Wallace's delegate strength to Carter at the nominating convention in New York City.

It was unclear Thursday evening if Wallace would stay overnight in Marion or continue somewhere else.

Donow predicts eventual approval of bargaining

He said the AAUP has taken the position that two organizations approaching the board for the right to bargain collectively would be more effective than a coalition.

Donow said the purpose of the proposed coalition was to avoid competition that has hurt collective bargaining elections at other universities. "We don't want that replicated here. We could have collective bargaining without the battle," said Donow.

Donow, an associate professor of English, and John Seldin, associate professor of Mathematics, were elected at the meeting to represent the CFUT at the Illinois Federation of Teachers convention on April 2-4 in St. Louis County, Illinois.

Horton said.

The candidates are Jack Cody, professor of guidance and educational psychology at SIU-C; Raymond N. Kraft, associate vice provost at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant; James Kolka, senior academic planner at the University of Wisconsin system in Madison; Sue Pace, professor of speech pathology and audiology and SIU-C and Eugene Trani, professor of history at SIU-C, who is presently on leave.

One of the original candidates, Edward Pauley, assistant vice president of academic affairs at the University of Rhode Island in Kingston, has withdrawn to accept a position at another institution, Horton said.

Horton said he expects the interviews to be completed at the end of this month. A decision will be announced shortly thereafter, he said.

South Africans reluctant to fight Angola

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—"The whites represent the blacks in Parliament—so tell them to represent us in this war." The wry statement, in a letter to a newspaper, reflected the overwhelming attitude of African readers answering the question, "Would you fight for South Africa if we are invaded from Angola?" Only 17 per cent said they would fight, when the World, South Africa's largest daily aimed exclusively at Africans, invited readers to write in on the issue.

Of 244 letters received, 203, or 83 per cent, were against fighting to defend the country, the World reported Thursday. Only 41 readers who replied said they were prepared to fight—and most of those said they would expect full citizenship rights and abolition of South Africa's pass laws in return.

Armed forces seize power in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—A Lebanese army officer declared Thursday he was seizing power in the name of the armed forces. He called for the resignations of the Christian president and Moslem premier within 24 hours. Brig. Aziz Ahdab said over state-run television that he was the leader of a "corrective movement" formed by the armed forces command to halt a rebellion of Moslem army troops and the growing danger of a new round in the Lebanese civil war. He said he would not rule personally.

Ahdab declared a state of emergency and imposed an indefinite curfew in Beirut. "The armed forces are called on to open fire on all persons trying to make trouble or loot," he said. Ahdab demanded that parliament meet within seven days to elect a new president and that the new president immediately form a new government.

Social Security may become optional

WASHINGTON (AP)—As the troubled Social Security program dips deeper into the pocketbook, Congress and the courts are under mounting pressure to grant individual taxpayers the same option local governments now have—to drop out of the program. But supporters of the 41-year-old program, which taxes 104 million workers to pay benefits to more than 31 million men, women and children, warn that voluntary participation could threaten Social Security's very existence.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., has introduced a bill to exempt employees from Social Security on religious grounds. That privilege now is reserved for the self-employed. While the bill is aimed at Amish in Pennsylvania, it would apply to everyone.

IRS says returns used in prosecuting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald C. Alexander testified Thursday that the federal returns of 6,704 taxpayers were turned over to the Justice Department in 1975 for the prosecution of nontax criminal cases. Testifying before the federal Privacy Protection Study Commission, Alexander said federal tax returns are vital tools in the investigations of narcotics traffickers and various types of white collar crime.

The commission has recommended that federal prosecutors be required to get a court order before obtaining tax returns for nontax law investigations.

Former Senate aide admits Soviet link

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former aide to Sen. James O. Eastland admitted during an extensive FBI investigation in 1968 that he furnished information to Soviet agents while working for Eastland, according to two knowledgeable sources. Eastland fired the man upon learning of his activities, the sources said. The FBI tried to use the man as a double agent to gather information about the Soviets for the FBI, but dropped the plan after concluding the man was unreliable, the sources related.

The disclosure came against the background of reports last fall that several congressional office staff may have been penetrated by Soviet agents. The FBI said then that there was no evidence that Soviet KGB officers had infiltrated any congressional staff.

Court recesses while Hearst ill with flu

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A feverish and shaking Patricia Hearst was taken to a hospital Thursday after she came down with the flu, halting testimony at her bank robbery trial at least until next Monday. After examination at a U.S. Public Health Service hospital in the city, the young defendant, her face covered with a white surgical mask, was returned to her jail cell for rest and treatment, officials said.

The sudden recess was announced Thursday morning by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter, who said Hearst was suffering from "a respiratory infection and a temperature" reported to be over 100 degrees. The ailment later was diagnosed as the flu.

there would have been a greater return."

Elliott indicated that the firm might have been forced into a possible conflict of interest since the firm is hired by the auditor-general to audit the Board of Trustee's financial affairs. "Counting votes is one thing, trying to force the board's hand is something else," he said.

At its last meeting, the board voted not to recognize any collective bargaining elections until the Illinois legislature approves collective bargaining.

Spurgeon said he does not believe the board has taken a final position on collective bargaining. "The board may in fact move to recognize the FOCB," he said.

Spurgeon said the FOCB will not ask to be placed on the board's agenda next month. "We will decide what to do when we find out what the board's response is," he said.

Spurgeon said he has received encouragement from an attorney on the possibility of filing a suit "to secure the right of the faculty on collective bargaining."

Spurgeon said that filing suit is "not our foremost thought. We are investigating it as an alternative."

Former CIA director to speak at Shryock

By Mike Springston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Former CIA Director William E. Colby will speak on "The New Intelligence" April 11 at Shryock Auditorium.

Colby headed the CIA from 1973 to 1976 when public pressure after disclosures of some of the CIA's covert operations forced Colby to retire as the agency's director.

Colby was called "the epitome of the covert man" by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy when Colby was nominated by former president Richard M. Nixon to become CIA Director.

Colby first joined the CIA in 1950 after serving with a French resistance group during World War Two.

While the practice has never been officially confirmed, Colby's biography states that CIA operatives are often assigned to United States Foreign Service posts under the cover of diplomatic or consular titles. Colby served as an embassy attache in Stockholm from 1951 to 1953 and from 1953 to 1958 as first secretary and special assistant to the ambassador in Rome.

In 1959, Colby became the CIA station chief in Saigon and was named the chief of the Far East division of the plans directorate at CIA headquarters in 1962. Colby became the deputy director of the Civil Operations and Rural Development Support (CORDS) program in 1968 and later was named director of CORDS, where Colby headed a force of 1,000 American civilians and 5,000 military men.

In Vietnam, Colby also headed Operation Phoenix, which was designed to weed out Vietcong agents. During Colby's direction of Phoenix, 17,717 Vietcong suspects were persuaded to defect and 20,587 were killed. Called to Washington to answer charges about Phoenix, Colby denied that the program was a counter-terror program but admitted that there may have been "some illegal killing."

Colby was named executive director-controller of the CIA in 1972 and was promoted in March 1973 to deputy director for operations, nicknamed the Department of Dirty Tricks.

Colby was nominated to succeed James R. Schlesinger as CIA Director in May 1973 and headed the organization during the controversial coup that toppled Chile President Salvador Allende in September 1973.

Colby has defended the CIA's operations by saying, "It may have done some things in the past which were either mistaken or wrong. But the CIA today is the best intelligence service in the world."

"I think we need good intelligence. I think we have got it, and I think it should continue," Colby said.

Colby's lecture is being sponsored by the Graduate Student Council.

Student candidate turnout termed poor

The candidate turnout for Student Government offices in the April 14 election has been poor, Len Swanson election commissioner, said Thursday.

Swanson said that only four groups have taken out petitions for the presidential race, and only four persons have picked up petitions for the student trustee office.

Six persons have picked up petitions for the senatorial races, Swanson said, and ten political party recognition forms are also out.

"The turnout so far has been poor," Swanson said. "We have high level decision-making positions available. If a student is really interested in presenting the student viewpoint to the administration, he or she should attempt to run for the student government positions available."

Swanson said that any political party interested in running a slate of candidates must have a recognition form turned into the Student Government offices, third floor Student Center, by March 20.

Candidates for student president, vice president, student trustee and senate seats must file petitions at the Student Government offices by March 26, Swanson said.

Swanson said all candidates will have to sign a release this semester allowing the election commissioner to examine candidates' academic and disciplinary records.

In addition to the offices of student president, vice president and student trustee, Swanson said 15 full-term and three half-term senate seats will have to be filled during the spring election.

Swanson said one senate seat each will be available at Brush Towers, University Park and Thompson Point. Five full-term seats and two half-term seats are open on the East Side District, and seven full-term seats and two half-term seats are available on the West Side District.

Spenner resigns committee

Joel Spenner announced his resignation as chairman of the Student Senate Finance Committee at Wednesday night's senate meeting.

Spenner said he would complete his duties as chairman of the Student Government Fee Allocation Board but that he did not have the time to continue as finance chairman.

Spenner said he would also resign his senate seat at the end of the spring semester.

A new finance chairman will be chosen by the finance committee after spring break, Spenner said.

In other senate action, an amendment was approved to the Student Government Constitution establishing a Committee on Committees. The new committee will appoint senators to other legislative standing committees.

The senate passed another amendment that divided student organizations into two categories. One group consists of Student Governmental organizations, other than Student Government, and the other category contains scholastic and professional honorary organizations, departmental organizations, special interest groups, fraternity and sorority clubs and Student Government.

The senate also approved an allocation of $198 to the Concerned Blind Students Organization to pay for transportation and lodging for five students to attend the Illinois Conference of Blind Students in Springfield.

GSC requests voting rights in bargaining

By Mike Springston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Graduate Student Council (GSC) approved a resolution Wednesday requesting that students be given full voting privileges in faculty collective bargaining negotiations.

The resolution also calls for full voting privileges to be given to the student trustee when matters of faculty collective bargaining come before the Board of Trustees.

Before approving the resolution, Herbert Donow, president of the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers, told the GSC that he opposed any third party involvement at the negotiating table but could "live with" student observation at negotiations if he had to.

The presence of a third-party at the negotiating table might lead negotiators to "play to the public" rather than concentrate on issues relevant to the negotiations, Donow said.

Donow said he supported student employes at the University, especially teaching assistants, forming a union to negotiate their own contracts.

The GSC agreed to hold a referendum to determine if graduate assistants want to be covered by a faculty collective bargaining agreement.

Another referendum would determine the agent to represent student interests if faculty collective bargaining is accepted at SIU.

Another clause of the resolution called for the GSC and Student Senate to develop a Student Bill of Rights. The resolution stated that the Bill of Rights would be a non-negotiable item.

In other GSC action, $823.46 was allocated to the Student Bar Association to cover the association's organizational needs for the remainder of the semester.

County clerk's office open Saturday for absentee vote

The Jackson County Clerk's Office will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday for voters wishing to cast absentee ballots in Tuesday's primary.

Bob Harrell, Jackson County clerk, said voters will also be able to cast absentee ballots from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday. The Jackson County Clerk's Office is located in the courthouse in Murphysboro.

"The only place you can vote in person absentee is at the county clerk's office in Murphysboro. You cannot vote absentee at the city clerk's office in Carbondale," Harrell said.

Harrell said it would be helpful for people to bring their voter's registration cards with them when they come to vote, but it is not required.

Erring bicyclists hardly deserve handcuffs

By Lisa Durzo
Graduate Student Writer

A recent "Viewpoint" appeared in the Daily Egyptian defending Carbondale police for the overnight jailing of a Decatur woman who ran a stop sign on her bicycle. The column rightfully pointed out that traffic laws must be enforced, but failed to note that the procedure in which this is done should be questioned.

One week after the incident with the Decatur woman, another bicyclist was arrested in Carbondale for failure to display a headlight and license on his bicycle. The police officer requested an Illinois driver's license, a $25 cash bond or a bond certificate, none of which the cyclist had. His out-of-state driver's license was not acceptable.

After placing his bicycle in the trunk of the police car, the cyclist was thoroughly frisked and then handcuffed. While the arrested cyclist was getting into the police car, the officer stopped another bicyclist for the same violations. This one, though, was able to produce an Illinois driver's license in lieu of bond and was set free. A small crowd had gathered in the area by this time.

The arrested cyclist said that at no time did he resist arrest or the handcuffs and he answered all questions promptly and politely.

The officer drove the bicyclist to police headquarters and offered the use of the telephone to help him obtain bond money. The cyclist was unable to find friends at home. The officer next presented a personal recognition certificate, which the cyclist signed; he was then released. The entire procedure, from arrest to release, took 45 minutes to one hour.

The above incident brings up some essential questions, not about police policy, but about police procedure. There is no doubt that laws were made to be enforced, but the way in which they are enforced is another matter.

Handcuffing is not only painful but very dehumanizing. It seems that handcuffing should be reserved for those suspected of more serious crimes, such as murder, rape or robbery, at which time they may indeed serve a vital purpose. To handcuff and frisk a bicyclist who has committed a minor traffic offense, in the presence of a crowd, is uncalled for when the accused has offered no resistance to arrest.

Twenty-five dollars or a bond certificate is not an unreasonable request to make of someone who has obviously broken the law. However, requiring the presentation of an Illinois driver's license as another alternative is without reason. A bicyclist is not required by law to carry a valid driver's license; in fact many people ride bicycles because they do not drive automobiles.

Perhaps a university identification card or proof of employment in the area could be presented in lieu of bond, instead of a driver's license. A student or someone actively employed in the Carbondale area would hardly leave town to avoid a $10 or $15 traffic ticket.

As taxpayers and citizens we should also question the amount of time police officers spend with those arrested for traffic violations. One hour is rather long to stop, arrest, handcuff and release a bicyclist. Possibly, had that one officer been back on the streets during that time, a potential rapist or burglar might have been deterred.

The Daily Egyptian "Viewpoint" column correctly states that only courts can release an arrestee on his own recognition. However, the police did release the cyclist in question on his personal recognition. If the law is selectively interpreted, as it apparently has been in this case, why can't police officers carry the recognition certificates in their patrol cars to alleviate the need to drive to the station? They may accept driver's licenses in lieu of bond at the time of arrest, as is evidenced by the second cyclist mentioned above. The carrying of recognition certificates in the cars would save valuable time.

Traffic laws were made for everyone's safety, and violators of these laws cannot be allowed to go without punishment. A serious look at existing procedures in handling these cases is needed, though. Instead of humiliation in the form of handcuffing and thorough body searches, possibly steeper fines and court costs could be imposed to deter future violations.

Those considering riding bicycles through stop signs or without headlights might think twice if a heavy fine faces them, and our police would be free to prevent other, more serious crimes.

Handgun control long overdue; Congress has the ammunition

By Joan S. Taylor
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

It has been eight years since a gun control bill has made it out of committee and onto the floor of Congress.

By sending back to subcommittee earlier this month a bill prohibiting the sale and manufacture of concealable handguns, the House Judiciary Committee has crippled chances to enact federal arms control for yet another year.

Crime rates continue to rise in Carbondale and nationwide while congressional committees, under massive lobbying efforts by the National Rifle Association and the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers Institute, continue to play around with bills which would control concealable handguns. The Congress has breached its responsibility to citizens who are not represented by these two powerful and fully financed lobbies.

These two lobbies claim that the gun control bill passed in 1968—following the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., and the wounding of Gov. George Wallace—is already more than enough gun control.

The 1968 bill is ineffective. Its ban on the importation of cheap, poorly made handguns did not ban the importation of parts to produce those guns in this country. Its provision prohibiting the mail order or other interstate purchase of firearms and ammunition to persons not living in the dealer's state has been sidestepped by the shipment of guns from licensed dealers in one state to dealers in other states.

It is because the 1968 bill has been a legal failure that the need for new legislation is so pressing.

It is estimated by the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Crime that 8 out of 10 handguns purchased in Boston and New York come from other states. Handguns account for one half of all homicides in this country. They account for 75 per cent of all firearms homicides.

If the 1968 bill had not been riddled with loopholes we might have seen a reduction in these figures in the eight years that have passed.

The bill most recently sent back to subcommittee would have prohibited the manufacture, importation and sale of concealable handguns. It would have imposed a 28-day waiting period before a handgun sale could be completed. The bill set mandatory jail sentences for using firearms to commit such crimes as murder, assault, kidnapping, arson, terrorism and air piracy.

The ban against concealable handguns is not a threat to the responsible use of firearms by sportsmen. It is an attempt to end the daily slaughter of human beings.

This proposed legislation would not immediately halt that slaughter. But its passage—out of committee and out of congress—will be a responsible step in the right direction.

That step is long overdue.

What's the only difference between C'dale and Las Vegas?

By Gary Jaquet
Student Writer

With the recent ruling by Jackson County Circuit Judge Peyton Kuncle to close the Deja Vu and Executive Club massage parlors, Carbondale takes another giant step backwards.

Why is it Illinois legislators in general and Carbondale law makers in particular maintain the asinine concept that if something is not seen, it doesn't exist?

For example, all you couples out there living together—Illinois statutes provide up to and-or a $200 fine and six months in the slammer if you're convicted of cohabitation. If you're discovered cohabitating at the wrong time, there's a similar fine and-or jail sentence for fornication. Should you be stepping out on your spouse, there's a $500 fine and-or one year up the river for adultery.

Of course, by law, the above offenses must be "open and notorious." In some cases, though, having two different names on a mailbox was judged "open and notorious." Some states have their cohabitation laws written so loosely you could arrest Schneider Hall if you wanted.

With state laws like this, it's not hard to understand the Carbondale City Council's action against the massage parlors. It's a simple case of the blind leading the blind. And the same ostrich-like "I don't want to see it" attitude infects even the so-called community leaders and businessmen.

Consider the city of Las Vegas, Nevada. Most of the illegal and taboo activities of Carbondale are legal and open there—indeed, the state government receives a good part of its funding through the taxing of gambling casinos and prostitution businesses ("escort services" if you don't like the word prostitution) rather than taxing individuals.

Visit the Caberet in San Francisco, California. On any given night you'll see about 400 males and 20 females on the dance floor, with not so much as a raised eyebrow.

What is the difference between these cities and Carbondale? In a word: attitude. The businessmen of these cities simply follow the tradition of free enterprise: "give the people what they want." The people who live in these towns are mature enough to realize that not everyone's tastes are the same, and do not try to force their own values on anyone else.

Why, then, the big hassle about such activities in Carbondale? It can be described in one word: fear. Fear on the part of supposedly mature adults that their cozy little world might have to make room for someone else. Fear that values pounded into their heads as "right" might not be so right after all. Fear that activities condemned as "wrong" might not be so wrong. Fear that the only way they know how to think may have to change. So they play ostrich, stick their heads in the sand, and say "I don't see it, it doesn't exist."

Wake up, Carbondale. These things do exist and are sought actively by many. Remember prohibition—laws don't change people, people change laws.

Smile-happy, adjective-laden Jimmy

By Cathy Tokarski
Editorial Page Editor

One of the most baffling developments in this year's Democratic presidential race is the growing popularity of Jimmy Carter, the party's front-running candidate who has perfected the art of speech without meaning.

While watching the smile-happy former governor effectively side-step every major campaign issue in his recent appearance in Marion, one begins to wonder (or worry) what possible appeal Carter holds for so many voters.

To begin with, Carter doesn't dwell on anything evil. When he feels it appropriate to mention pressing issues, he calls them "anti-American" or a "disgrace" and leaves the listener guessing what Carter really plans to do.

Voters may not agree with Reagan's plan to starve the poor by taking them off welfare, or Harris' hope to decrease the burden on narcotics officers by decriminalizing marijuana, but at least these candidates have specific solutions to issues they consider important. Carter doesn't.

He's got an ingenious way to defend himself from the those who attach this shortcoming, though. When told opponent Sen. Henry Jackson criticized his lack of specific stands, Carter retorted, "My stands are as clear as his are." Not only does he dodge the issues, but he dodges personal attacks, too.

Instead of discussing problems and proposing specific remedies, Carter relies on repetitious, adjective-laden references to our nation's good points. Perhaps that's where his appeal lies—Carter is building up the country's morale at a time when there is little, if nothing to be proud of, but a person vying for the top decision-making office must have stronger qualifications than just that of an ego-booster.

If the voter can read between some of the Carter adjectives that supposedly describe the assets of a good president, a clear picture of what he represents begins to emerge: a conservative, middle-class, white supremacist.

He stresses that "Congress is not capable of leadership" and only one person can set the standards of decency, morality and honesty." He feigns concern over the nine per cent who are out of jobs, but never mentions the inflated unemployment rate faced by minorities.

His position on vital topics such as busing, abortion and marijuana, topics which sets standards of "decency and morality," have wavered and reversed themselves so much through his campaign that it's become easy to see Carter could never set any standards for a nation, let alone himself.

Why do the voters like him? Maybe it's because they are so unsure of themselves that Carter reflects the nation's indecisiveness. Let's hope it doesn't continue till November.

Information of value

To the Daily Egyptian:

Mark Bradley asked for feedback on his letter concerning the diversified courses he has been taking here at Southern.

I am pleased that some of our departmental majors are doing exactly what Mr. Bradley is doing—taking a wide range of courses. The person who graduates from college with a major and a closely related minor has a tendency sometimes to be very narrowly educated, highly knowledgeable in a few areas, with wide gaps in most others. Mark Bradley wants to be a communicator, and he is smart enough to know he has to have something to communicate.

So on with "Psychology of Religion" and "Plants for Man." (Shouldn't it be retitled "Plants for People?") Learn everything you can about everything you can. Communication sorely needs "the renaissance person." Don't be put off by people who criticize "meaningless" courses. Somewhere, sometime, most information can be of value to you.

Cycling safety

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to add to Mr. Bates comments about the poor traffic conditions which exist on Grand Avenue between Washington and Wall Streets. The construction of the new recreation center has caused this particular street to be extremely hazardous for both pedestrians and bicyclists.

It is the only link for the many residents along Grand Avenue commuting to school. Since the sidewalk is non-existent, bicyclists are forced to use the blacktop. However, for about 100 yards or so, automobiles cannot pass these bicyclists safely. Last semester, while bicycling along this strip, an irate motorist maliciously ran me off the road.

For such a heavily used thoroughfare, it appears necessary for someone to immediately alleviate this safety hazard. A temporary bike-path seems like a reasonable solution. After the construction is complete, a more permanent pedestrian bicycle pathway can be constructed.

Ford only tells voters what they want to hear

To the Daily Egyptian:

As a former native of Illinois, I am very curious as to how my fellow Land of Lincoln citizens are going to vote in the March 16th primary.

President Ford says we must keep up the farm prices; but at the same time sells crops to Russia, who then dumps it back onto the market depressing the rest of the world-wide prices, all in the name of detente.

Ford went down to Florida and made threatening

Motor boat support

To the Daily Egyptian:

On behalf of the Association for Motor Sports and the thousands of motor racing fans in Illinois, I wish to thank State Representative Richard Hart for his support to keep our sport alive.

Rep. Hart has stood hard and firm for motor racing and has sponsored legislation designed to save our sport, our hobby and, in most cases, our livelihood from oppressive regulations promulgated by the Illinois Pollution Control Board. This agency is attempting to adopt sound emission regulations to govern motor racing, recognize our sound problems and are attempting to solve them. We do not need dictatorial regulations and heavy handed government agencies to regulate us. We will continue our fight and we will win with the aid of such men as Hart.

noises about Cuba and the week before was up in Massachusetts talking about disarmament, again in the name of detente, while Henry Kissinger is planning on recognizing Cuba right after the election.

The only thing we can believe about Ford is that he tells each voter what he wants to hear, depending on what part of the country he is in.

There is an old saying, "actions speak louder than words."

Biased reporting

To the Daily Egyptian:

I am very displeased at the blatant continuation of biased reporting by Daily Egyptian reporters like Bob Springer.

After reading his headline story on March 11 about Carter's appearance, I was of the opinion he had written 80 per cent of his story before he arrived at the Marion Civic Center.

I feel it was a poor job in objective reporting. I would appreciate it if the Daily Egyptian and its reporters working for Fred Harris' candidacy on their own time would give us objective news.

Student to study American blacksmithing

By Les Chudik
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A grant of $1,905 has been awarded to Robert A. Griffith, graduate student in art, specializing in metalsmithing, for his project to document the history of 18th century American blacksmithing. The grant is from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Griffith, 25, plans to visit about 20 museums with blacksmithing collections in the states which have the best examples of traditional ironwork. These are Virginia, New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Washington, D.C. He said he has already sent letters to museum directors asking for their cooperation. So far, he has received about 90 per cent favorable responses.

His documentation will be a photographic slide series accompanied by a tape cassette describing the slides. His findings will eventually be stored in the SIU Museum and will be made available to U.S. universities and other interested institutions.

Griffith said he learned of the grant through an instructor. He decided it would provide a good opportunity to combine travel and study.

He chose to research colonial blacksmithing because he knows of no other published study on the subject and "this documentation is badly needed," he said.

"I often times find myself wanting to look at pictures of traditional ironwork when I'm working on a piece and references like this are scarce," Griffith said.

He feels there are a lot of misconceptions about blacksmithing. For instance many people still associate blacksmithing with horseshoeing. "Contemporary blacksmithing does not include horseshoeing. A person who shoes horses is called a farrier," he said. "A blacksmith is anyone who works with black iron or steel."

Griffith said a blacksmithing revival is currently occurring in the country. The art of blacksmithing, which thrived for about 150 years, died off after the Industrial Revolution. He thinks the new interest in it stems from the fact that people are becoming tired of mass production.

"There's a romanticism in blacksmithing. The back-to-the-landers are picking up on being able to make their own tools," he said.

He also believes that people are beginning to appreciate the quality of a craftsman's work again. "A true craftsman takes pride in everything he makes from a pair of andirons to a nail," he said.

Griffith feels there's something "slightly therapeutic about blacksmithing." All kinds of people—even doctors, lawyers and executives—are becoming attracted to the craft to get away from the commercialism involved in their everyday work, he said.

An increasing number of universities are offering blacksmithing courses as a part of their art curriculums and are "picking up on the traditional techniques of blacksmithing," he said.

Griffith contends that SIU has the most unique university blacksmithing program in the U.S.

"It's the only school in the country where students can work in a traditional setting and use traditional techniques. We use coal or charcoal as fuel and some of the tools here are over 100 years old," he said.

He maintains that SIU has also set a precedent in researching the old blacksmithing techniques.

Art students to reap rewards from Waterloo woman's will

Graduating seniors in SIU-C's School of Art are awaiting the first fruits of a former Waterloo woman's will, a harvest that will yield $23,000 in awards this year.

That is the interest generated so far from SIU's share of the estate of Marguerite L. Rickert, daughter of a onetime Monroe County judge and school teacher. When she died in 1971 in Hendersonville, N.C., she left one-third of her estate to SIU and stipulated that it be used to "reward the accomplishments of undergraduate senior art students" at the University.

According to terms of the will, award winners can use the money as they wish to "develop their artistic abilities" whether in graduate work, museum tours abroad, purchase of materials, or whatever.

The SIU Foundation estimates that SIU's portion of Rickert's total bequest (other equal one-third shares went to the University of Illinois and to a cousin) may top $250,000. The bulk of the principal is in stocks, bonds and proceeds from the sale of two farms near Waterloo, Ill.

Officials in the SIU School of Art say somewhere between 80 and 90 art students will be graduated in 1976 and those of them who have "achieved an outstanding level of attainment in their areas of study" will be eligible for awards from the trust fund.

Miss Rickert's original will had stipulated that the entire interest fund be awarded to a single student each year. But SIU and U of I attorneys obtained a North Carolina court ruling to relax the terms so that more students could share in it.

Miss Rickert earmarked the U of I's share of the estate for an awards trust fund for law students. She named it after her father, the late Judge Joseph W. Rickert.

A panel of SIU School of Art Faculty members will select award recipients out of the total field of eligibles in the May and August graduating classes. They're expected to come from the school's five major areas of study: art education, art history, sculpture, two-dimensional art and crafts.

The SIU Foundation said the amount of awards from the trust fund will vary each year, depending on interest gained. This will be the first year the awards have been made.

Miss Rickert had been living in North Carolina for five years at the time she died.

Shawnee camping opens for season

All Shawnee National Forest campgrounds will be open during the 1976 season, Forest Supervisor Charles J. Hendricks said.

Campgrounds already open for operation are Lake Glendale Campground, Pads 2 through 33 and Goose Bay Picnic Area, Bell Smith Springs (Teal Pond and Red Bud Campgrounds), Garden of the Gods Observation Site and Trail and Rim Rock Forest Trail.

As of April 1, Pounds Hollow Camp Cadiz, Garden of the Gods Camp and Picnic Grounds, and Pine Hills recreation areas will be open.

Turkey Bayou and Lake of Egypt will be open starting April 15, and Lake Glendale Campground, pads 34 through 60, and the Ohio River recreation area will open on May 1.

Tower Rock recreation area will not be opened until Ohio River floodwaters have receded and cleanup of the area is complete. Lake Glendale and Pounds Hollow swimming beaches will open on May 15 with a daily charge of 50 cents for persons 6 years or older.

Camping fees are $3 per night at Lake Glendale and $2 per night at all others.

Group picnicking and camping at Lake Glendale may be arranged through the district ranger at Vienna, Ill.

Foreign students can qualify for summer studies program

Foreign students attending SIU may participate in an expenses-paid summer program in environmental studies offered by Washington University in St. Louis, according to the SIU International Education Department.

Students selected to participate in the program will receive room, board and travel expenses, according to Beverly Walker, international students and faculty affairs adviser. Deadline for application is April 15.

Graduate students who are citizens of developing countries are eligible to attend the six-week course scheduled from June 14 through July 23. Students must have completed one year of graduate studies in the U.S.

A proficiency examination for GSB 103-Geography of Man's Environment will be given to registered students March 30 at 2 p.m. Students currently enrolled in GSB 103 are not eligible.

Sheila Bruten of the Linguistics Department attended the tenth annual Teaching English as a Second Language Convention in New York City. Papers and workshops were presented dealing with new aspects of teaching English as a foreign language and bi-lingual education.

James Ford, professor emeritus of journalism at SIU, has been invited to serve as visiting professor at the University of Montana during May and June. A special seminar in magazine editing and design will be given by Ford at Montana.

Richard C. Hayes, associate university affirmative action officer and Burton Bond, Jr., assistant to the dean of the School of Technical Careers, attended the National Convention of the Association of Affirmative Action Officers held in Chicago recently.

Christian Moe, professor of theater, received the Amoco Gold Medallion Award for excellence during February's Midwest regional competition of the American College Theater Festival in Stevens Point, Wis. The award was also given in recognition of Moe's contributions as a teacher of playwriting at SIU.

The Bloomington Area SIU Alumni Club meeting March 27 will begin with a 7 p.m. dinner in the Circus Room of the Illinois State Student Center in Normal. Dinner reservations at $6.30 per person should be sent by March 19 to Roy Scrivner at 311 S. State St., Bloomington, Ill.

Marie Mesic, George Eustice, Glenna Kilgore and Jerry Feingold, all social welfare students, represented the Social Work Club at a national meeting of the National Federation of Social Work Students held last week at Temple University in Philadelphia.

Friday deadline to register for national tests

Students leaving for spring break have until Friday to register for a number of national tests to be held during the month of April.

Registration for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and the entrance exam for Schools of Radiologic Technology to be held April 3, closes March 12 and 13 respectively.

Students desiring to take either the American College Test (ACT) or the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) on April 10 have until March 15 to register for the ACT and March 18 for the LSAT.

The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) to be held April 17, has a March 21 registration deadline.

Registration brochures for each test must be picked up at the Testing Division of the Career Planning and Placement Center located in Washington Square Building C.

Students will receive a ticket of admission for their particular test on completion of registration. Notification of testing times will be sent to the applicants by mail before the testing date.

Mexican study, travel class set for summer

A Mexican Experience, a summer study and travel program in Mexico, is being jointly sponsored by the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and the Division of Continuing Education, said Arnold Ulman, program director.

The nine-week program will be carried out in cooperation with the School for Foreign Students at the State University of Veracruz (UV) in Xalapa, capital of the state of Veracruz.

Participants in the program may take from four to eight hours of credit, including at least one course from SIU and one from UV. Non-credit courses will also be offered.

While in Mexico, the students will live in Xalapa in private homes selected by the staff of the School for Foreign Students.

The cost for the program depends on whether the student goes on the field trips and the number of hours of credit being taken.

Total cost of the program covers round trip transportation, tuition and fees, cultural activities and room and board.

The lowest estimated total cost, that which would be paid by those going on neither field trip, is $595, while the highest, for those going on both field trips, is $826.

The round trip will be made in SIU vans. The trip to Xalapa will follow an indirect route through Monterey, Queretaro and Oaxaca and will take about nine days.

The program has a prerequisite of two years of high school Spanish, one year of college Spanish or the consent of Ulman.

Applications and further information may be obtained from Ulman, in the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures.

Beating of women often unreported

By Chris Courtage
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Although crimes against women have always been recognized by women's and social groups, the media is just beginning to pick up on them.

Rape has been in the news often but one crime—women beating—is largely unreported.

"The battered woman touches every one," said Pati Constance, citizen's resource specialist for the Regional Planning and Development Commission in Carbondale.

"It (battered women) cuts through all social stratifications," Constance continued, "because it involves the family unit."

According to Constance, this is one of the few crimes that is largely unreported, socially acceptable and is not dealt with through public agencies.

She estimates that only 5 to 15 percent of the actual cases are reported.

Battered women remain unreported because it has been socially unsafe for a woman to admit to having been beaten. She fears retaliation.

Historically, women and children were considered slaves to be bought, sold and beaten much like cattle.

Wife beating used to be legal in all states under common law. It still is in several states.

A battered woman is hard to identify, Constance said, unless there is some physical evidence of the crime.

Constance explained that the battered woman is often unable to deal with this crime because she feels she is alone with the problem. Frequently it is a neighbor, who can not or will not intervene, who notifies the police about a battered woman.

Although the police are trained in family crisis intervention, this type of call is the most dangerous for the police officer, Constance said.

Most battered women cases are brought under charges of assault because it is easier for the woman to prove assault than attempted murder or battery. To prove assault the woman must show she has reasonable fear of receiving a beating.

The battered woman has no services openly available to her.

In rural counties there is no single agency which deals primarily with crimes against women.

Constance said women's centers, primarily in university communities, have dealt with battered women since 1969.

"There are three alternatives available for people in Carbondale,"—Constance emphasized.

These are the Women's Center (549-4215), Crisis Intervention Center (457-3366) and the Carbondale Police Department (549-2121).

Co-op program gives care for aged

A cooperative program between SIU and a local sheltered care home is providing training for SIU students and more personal care for the home's residents, according to the program coordinator, an employee of the home.

The joint effort allows students to get credit for field work at the New Haven Center in Carbondale and also brings new ideas, techniques and programs for expanding resident services to the facility, according to Greg Yanta, who supervises social rehabilitation and recreational activities at New Haven.

"It provides a better program for our residents because of the manpower," Yanta said. "We're able to function more on an individual basis, providing activities and programs for smaller groups."

Students from the SIU Departments of Recreation, Social Welfare, Rehabilitation, special Education, speech and Speech Pathology spend an average of eight to 25 hours each semester working with New Haven residents, Yanta said. Plant and soil science students will assist with garden plans later this spring. About 15 students are used each term. Intern students also utilize the center, learning about management and daily operations as well as working with residents, Yanta explained.

In addition, Yanta said the center utilizes the SIU School of Technical Careers physical therapy services and the Department of Theater for entertainment activities.

Yanta, a 1975 SIU graduate in recreation, was hired by New Haven Center last spring while interning with the Jackson County Workshop and Activities Center in Murphysboro. He started a recreation program for adult mentally handicapped residents of Jackson County which was used by New Haven. From that, he became familiar with New Haven's sheltered care for mentally and physically handicapped and was hired before graduation. He now supervises much of the student work he himself participated in while attending SIU.

Engineering club organizing

Triangle, the national fraternity of engineers, architects and scientists will hold an organizational meeting Tuesday, March 30 for students and faculty interested in forming a chapter on the SIU campus. The fraternity has over 30 chapters.

Tim Lepp, senior in technology, joined the fraternity while attending the University of Missouri-Rolla and is now organizing the chapter at SIU. The organizational meeting will be held at the Mississippi Room of the Student Center at 7:30 p.m.

Bill Krack, triangle field director, will make an audio-visual presentation of the purposes and precepts of the fraternity and will explain the life long benefits of membership.

A former member of the faculty, Robert A. Mack, will head local alumni support for the group.

New Mexican professor to give linguistics talk

John Oller, professor of linguistics at the University of New Mexico, will present a public lecture Monday, March 22 at 4 p.m. in the Morris Library Auditorium.

Oller's topic will be "Proficiency in English as a second language as predicted by measures of attitude."

Oller is recognized as one of the leading specialists in the area of English as a second language methodology, including both theory and application. He has published many articles on language testing, error analysis, language attitudes and the sociolinguistic aspects of language learning.

Oller's lecture is part of an interdepartmental lecture series on language sponsored by the Departments of Linguistics, Psychology, Speech Pathology and Audiology and Speech. The lecture is open to the public.

Lake Tahoe clutter focal point for California conservationists

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP)—Mark Twain once called this huge mountain lake "the fairest picture the whole world affords."

Now conservationists point to Tahoe's traffic jams, air pollution and gambling casinos and wonder if Twain would still be as enthusiastic.

Still one of the world's purest lakes, Tahoe is the focal point of a struggle that has been a cause celebre for West Coast environmentalists.

So far, some conservationists say, they and the lake are not doing too well.

They say that regional governments set up in the last few years to check urbanization of the lake basin have not done their job.

But many local land owners and developers say that regional government has worked all too well, in many cases smashing their hopes to turn their acreage into condominiums, motels or other types of developments.

And there are those both in and out of state government who say that the lake's pollution problem is not as serious as conservationists and the Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. administration say it is.

A deep, natural lake 22 miles long, Tahoe lies in a huge oval basin in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, 6,000 feet above sea level.

The lake spans the California-Nevada border and in recent years has become a vacation mecca for gamblers, skiers and boating enthusiasts.

On winter weekends and during the summer months thousands of visitors pour into the basin.

During the busiest times the lake's population tops 150,000 and as many as 55,000 cars a day clog the two-lane Highway 50, causing frustrating traffic jams along the main street of the basin's only incorporated city, South Lake Tahoe.

Gambling has become big business at Tahoe. There are four major hotel-casinos on the Nevada side of the lake now, and four more on the way. Another high-rise hotel is open at the north end of the lake.

And at the northern and southern end of the lake on the California side the highway is lined with motels, fast-food restaurants and real estate agencies.

Jean-Michael Cousteau, son of the famed oceanographer, says the lake environment could be destroyed "within a very few years."

"I still don't understand what goes on in our minds, looking at what has been built around Lake Tahoe," he says. "Why mix gambling with beauty? So why not put it somewhere else."

There are those who say that federal and state standards used to judge the lake's air quality are unrealistic. They say the standards sometimes can be exceeded in isolated rural areas by gases from trees and decaying animal and vegetable matter.

In an effort to control basin growth, California and Nevada formed a bistate planning agency with the approval of Congress.

It adopted a zoning plan for the basin in 1971 that cut the 800,000 maximum population possible under local plans to 300,000.

International study programs open for summer; all from SIU welcome

International travel and study programs are now open to all SIU students faculty and personnel.

Barbara Litherland, coordinator of Travel-Study Programs at SIU said that the programs selected for spring and summer of 1976 include plans for study in Denmark, Western Europe, Mexico and the Western United States. Litherland suggests that anyone interested in these programs sign up immediately since they are filling rapidly. The downpayment was due March 1 but could be accepted by March 13.

Harry Miller, Chairman of Educational Leadership and Andrew Marcec, Director of Southern Illinois Health Manpower Consortium, will conduct the Copenhagen program from June 12 to 27, exploring adult education systems. The group study plan includes visits to hospital staffs, folk high schools, study circles and many other interesting areas.

James Quisenberry, professor in Professional Educational Experiences, will supervise the Western European Schools tour from June 7 to July 6 focusing on "showcase" open schools and on "ordinary" elementary schools from London to Innsbruck, Austria.

David L. Jones, Professor in Geography, will conduct earth science tours in Western and Central Europe from June 14 to July 28, including the countries of Germany, Switzerland, France, Italy and possibly Ireland. Earth science principles and processes and cultural differences between the countries will be investigated.

Arnold Ullner, Professor in the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures, will supervise a program at the Universidad Veracruzana, Mexico from June 11 to August 14. Courses will be taught in Spanish languages, Spanish American Literature, anthropology and history. No credit courses in guitar and art will be offered.

Bruce Petersen, Professor in Zoology, will conduct a Desert Mountain and Marine Ecology Program of the Western United States from May 13 to June 14. This program includes field studies in Arizona, Colorado, California and visits to Mesa Verde National Park and Rocky Mountain Park.

Final payments for the programs are due by April 11, 1976. If there are any questions about the program, contact Barbara Litherland, Division of Continuing Education, 315 W. Grand, 453-2395.

'Women's lib' in prison still behind bars, researcher says

By Elizabeth Boscia
Student Writer

To the researcher, the role of "women's lib" in our prison system may still be behind bars. But Nancy Wilson, an assistant professor of administration of justice at SIU might have a key.

Wilson is conducting research on the female's reaction to imprisonment and other prison experiences at the Vienna Correctional Center, Vienna, Ill.

Vienna is a minimum security facility which houses both men and women. This move to a co-ed correctional prison was made in the spring of 1974.

"Only a handful of prisons across the nation have this type of co-ed correctional system, so Vienna provided a unique setting for prison research," Wilson said.

Wilson became interested in how men and women would act in a co-ed correctional institution, types of relationships that would develop, and most of all the women's reaction to imprisonment.

"Actually there is very little literature on the female prison experience," said Wilson. "The difference in attitudes between men and women is not as strong as previous literature has hinted."

Wilson has written two articles concerning her research. They were presented at the American Society for Criminology and the Southern Sociological meeting.

"The typical stereotype of the woman inmate is that she is more emotional than the male prisoner, greatly affected by her loss of family ties, and in short, not mentally strong enough to cope with the prison experience," Wilson said.

Wilson believes that, as has been done with the male prisoner in research, a women's reaction to imprisonment should be studied only after reviewing her personal background.

"For example, a female with a street background is more likely to have quite a different set of attitudes than an inmate with lesser offenses and more sheltered background," she said.

Wilson's research presently involves collecting and studying personnel records, so no concrete data concerning her findings can be released thus far.

Wilson notes that unlike larger prisons, Vienna affords an atmosphere of cordiality between administration and the inmates.

"The traditional prison is a very artificial world which calls for very little in terms of responsibilities and decision making situations," Wilson said.

Wilson remarked that the more like the outside world the correctional facilities is, the more apt an inmate is to deal successfully with everyday situations later on in life.

Press council to hear complaints of D.E. readership at first meeting

By Ron Morgan
Student Writer

The University-Community Press Council, recently formed to hear complaints against the Daily Egyptian, has set March 25 for its first public meeting.

The council will meet at 4 p.m. in Room 108 of the General Classrooms Building.

In a statement released by the council Wednesday, the nine-member group said, "The purpose of the press council is to act as an intermediary between the Daily Egyptian and its readership in an effort to promote understanding between the paper and its audience."

The press council will hear suggestions and complaints from Daily Egyptian readers and bring up issues on its own initiative, David Bateman, temporary chairman of the council, said.

The council may also concern itself with disputes between members of the newspaper staff if it seems appropriate, Bateman said.

the council will act to protect the integrity and independence of the Daily Egyptian if it is ever threatened.

The council will be in an advisory position with no power except to evaluate the performance of the Daily Egyptian and make its findings public.

Bateman said the editors of the Daily Egyptian have pledged support for the council and have promised to print its findings.

Anyone with suggestions or complaints can write to press council in care of the Department of Administrative Sciences, SIU, Bateman said, or any of the council members.

The members of the council are David Bateman, assistant professor of administrative sciences, 453-3307; Gene Charleton, graduate student in journalism, 453-2276; William Dean Justice, SIU Arena manager, 453-2321; Cherie L. Koch, junior in multi-media communications, 549-8115; David W. McCarthy, junior in administration of justice, no phone; Claudette Simon, administrative secretary, College of Communications and Fine Arts, 453-4308; Albert M. Suguitan, of Diederich Insurance and Real Estate, 457-8186 or 457-6540; and Steve Tock, junior in physics, 549-7034.

Corrections seeks minority, women grads

The Illinois Department of Corrections is seeking minority and women graduates from SIU for openings in professional and paraprofessional positions within their department.

Charles D. Green, affirmative action officer for the Department of Corrections, said professional jobs are available in correctional counseling, parole counseling and sociology. Qualifications include a bachelor's degree and one year of experience in a correctional, counseling or social service setting or a master's degree, Green said.

Green said the correctional institutions should have "about 70 per cent of the resident population reflected in personnel." He said at the present time, institutions in Northern Illinois have about 85 per cent black residents and mainly white officials.

Green visited SIU with Alma Fremarek, affirmative action officer in charge of recruiting professional personnel. They met with representatives from the Career Planning and Placement Center (CPPC) and the Administration of Justice Program to outline guidelines to be followed by those applying for jobs with the Department of Corrections.

Green said students will be recruited through CPPC and then referred to him. He said he plans to return to SIU later in the semester to explain the hiring process used by the Department of Personnel to students wishing to apply for the positions.

Information regarding jobs with the Illinois Department of Corrections can be obtained from Lee Chenoweth, CPPC, or Pat Bascom, Crime and Correction Center.

Did You Know

By Jim Simpson

Here's an unusual baseball story...It's a little-remembered fact today that several major league baseball teams once scouted Cuban dictator Fidel Castro when he was a young pitcher in Cuba years ago...Just think how world history might have been changed if one of those teams had signed Castro and he had become a baseball pitcher in the U.S., instead of staying home and turning to politics.

Can you imagine a team scoring 151 points in a game—and losing it?...It happened to the San Diego Rockets in 1969 when they set the all-time basketball record for a team scoring the most points and losing as they were defeated by Cincinnati, 165 to 151.

Did you know there was once a college basketball game in which both teams went through three periods without EITHER team scoring a point?...When Western Illinois met St. Ambrose on Dec. 13, 1954, every time one team or the other got the ball they froze it throughout the 2nd, 3rd and 4th quarters until the final seconds...Then both tried to score, but missed...Thus, there was no scoring at all by either team in the final three periods!

Did you know that college graduates live approx. 5-8 yrs. longer than the average person. This makes possible broader benefits & greater cash values. See your College Life Agent at:

Elite gymnasts face regionals

By Jerry Tucker
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

SIU women gymnasts will be competing in the AIAW regionals Friday and Saturday at Eau Claire, Wisconsin. Elite teams from Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio and Indiana will be on hand trying to win or, at least score 98.00 points, the minimum score required for a team to advance to the national championships.

Due to late-season illness and injuries, Coach Herb Vogel insists his squad's goal is merely to score the needed 98 points. The team would then have almost three weeks to recuperate and prepare for the AIAW finals in Boone, North Carolina April 1-3.

Other Region 5 coaches may be relieved by Vogel's somewhat modest expectations. Since the AIAW established the regional qualification system, the Salukis have never finished anywhere but on top.

The fact that the SIU women have won the last two national titles also causes opposing coaches to watch the Saluki gymnasts closely.

SIU scored only 96.5 at the Illinois state meet recently, but competed without Denise Didier and Linda Nelson. Both gymnasts will compete this weekend, but perhaps still not at full strength.

"Nothing exceptional is expected of Denise this weekend," said Vogel. "One good vault and bar routine by her should make the difference."

Didier has been the top all-around scorer for SIU this season, followed closely by Diane Grayson.

Grayson and senior Pat Hanlon shouldered much of the burden of state qualifying while ill themselves, and they are still recovering from upper respiratory infections.

Linda Nelson will also return to the lineup following a severe ankle injury three weeks ago. Nelson will compete in the vaulting, the bars and the beam, but will not participate in the floor exercise unless the team needs the score to qualify.

Cindy Strum and Kathy McCormick, both brought up from the advanced team late in the season, are still developing, according to Vogel. In only four weeks, Strum has become SIU's second-best vaulter (behind Didier) and McCormick is mastering more difficult routines.

Merely scoring the minimum score is considerably less than a healthy Saluki team had in mind at last year's regionals. Defending their national title, the elite women scored 110 points, the highest team total in the history of women's intercollegiate gymnastics.

The 1976 group hopes only to qualify at Wisconsin, in the process buying time to heal before taking on such title contenders as Penn State, Southwest Missouri State, the University of Massachusetts, Clarion College and Springfield College.

Thinclads compete at indoor finals

Mark Kazlowski
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

One more indoor challenge awaits four Saluki tracksters before the start of the outdoor track season.

Michael-Bisase, Earl Bigelow, Gary Hunter and Philip Robins will travel to Detroit with Coach Lew Hartzog for the INCAA indoor championships Friday and Saturday.

While those five are moving their tails on a commercial airline, the remainder of the team will be preparing for the outdoor opener Tuesday at Southwest Louisiana at Lafayette.

SIU placed 10th in the indoor meet last year, but Hartzog did not foresee such a high finish this time around.

"We go back there hoping to do well," he said. "I wouldn't be surprised to see us do well, but I won't be displeased if we don't."

Hunter has qualified in the pole vault. The junior's season best is 16-6. He took third in last year's indoor meet.

Senior Philip Robins will be trying to score in the triple jump. His season best is 52-9 1/2.

"I feel Robins is ready to go," Hartzog said. "If he can hit the boards he should score."

"Robins and Hunter are competitors. The tougher things get, the tougher they get."

Bisase, a freshman from Kampala, Uganda, will compete in the 880-yard run. Hartzog estimated that about 30 persons have made the NCAA qualifying time to make several heats necessary.

"He'll probably have to run three races. That's an awful tough road to go," Hartzog said.

The other person who will find it necessary to be in near perfect condition is Bigelow. He will run a 440-yard dash. Hartzog said Bigelow is in shape now and running well. The sophomore sprinter pulled a muscle in the Illinois Intercollegiate meet and sat out from competition for nearly a month.

"You have to be in shape," Hartzog said. "With the number of heats you have to run, they'll (other runners) catch up to you if you aren't in shape. It takes more than endurance. You have to have talent."

The mile relay team, Mike Kee and Joe Laws also qualified for the meet but will not go. Kee and Laws qualified in the 60-yard dash.

"They're not winning consistently enough to make me feel they can place up there," Hartzog explained.

Hartzog said he did not know much about Southwest Louisiana, but Northeast Louisiana (Thursday's foe) meant something special to him. He coached at Monroe School three seasons before coming to SIU.

East Texas State will be the third team in the triangular at Northeast Louisiana.

Hartzog said the Louisiana schools would probably have four outdoor meets under their belts by the time SIU arrived.

"We're going to compete hard," he said. "This is really where I find out which guys are going to compete well."

Blues, Suns reach IM finals

By Rick Korch
Student Writer

In Wednesday's semi-final intramural basketball games, the Blues rallied in the fourth quarter to defeat Kappa Alpha Psi "A" 51-43, and the Suns beat the Bigger Men 58-51.

Trailing for the first time 36-35 at the start of the fourth quarter, the Blues outscored the Kappas 16-7 to win. The Blues outplayed the Kappas decisively early in the game with their hot shooting and good rebounding to take a 14-3 lead. Near the end of the second quarter, the Blues went cold and the Kappas started their comeback, tying the game 30-30 in the third quarter.

High scorer in the game was Bryant Wright of the Blues with 22 points, most of them under the basket. "We put (Billy) Smith in the point, and Wright and me in the wings. Then we just started shooting," Martin Coleman of the Blues said.

"The Blues were able to shut off the Kappas' outside shooting. They fought them off when the game got close," Al Lery graduate assistant in charge of the league said.

The Suns' 58-51 win over the Bigger Men started out slowly with the score at 10-5 in favor of the Suns after the first quarter. The game opened up in the second quarter, with the Suns holding on to a close lead.

Throughout most of the second and third quarters, the game swung back and forth as the Bigger Men pulled within two points, only to see the Suns stretch the gap to five or six points.

Late in the game, the Suns started to stall, and the Bigger Men never had a chance to catch up.

"We were too tight and we threw the ball away a lot," Leonard Hopkins of the Bigger Men said. "And we didn't shoot well enough."

"They weren't quick enough, and we beat them on the boards," Andrae Scurlock of the Suns said.

Scurlock was the high scorer for the game along with Mark Garcia. Both had 14 points.

The championship game was played Thursday night, and Scurlock admitted before the game that he expected some trouble inside. "The Blues are tough and quick, but maybe we'll beat them on the boards," he said.

Gymnasts face important test at Eastern Regional tourney

By Jeff Schwartz
Student Writer

The SIU Men's Gymnastics team will try to qualify for the 1976 NCAA Championships this weekend in the 11 team Eastern Regional at Penn State.

"Penn State and Indiana State should fight it out for first," Saluki coach Bill Meade said, "with Indiana State a slight favorite."

"I look for us to battle Illinois State and Northern Illinois for third place."

Six other small schools are entered in the competition. The regional champ advances to the nationals in Philadelphia April 1 to 3.

Working with only five veterans this year, the Saluki gymnasts finished the regular season with a 7-5 record. It was the 18th time in 20 years a Bill-Meade coached squad has compiled a winning record.

Competing with four freshmen this year, SIU garnered upset wins over three nationally ranked squads—Oklahoma and LSU during January and Nebraska in February. While his hopes for a team title remain slim, Meade still thinks some Saluki individuals stand a good chance of qualifying for the NCAA Finals.

The veteran coach singled out juniors Tony Hanson, Steve Shephard and Kim Wall.

Hanson was the nation's seventh best horse performer last year. The slim All-American has a team high 9.45 (out of ten) on the horse this year.

Shephard has gone as high as 9.3 on the floor-exercise, but he has been bothered by little injuries all year. However, Meade expects Shephard to be near top physical condition this weekend.

Wall has filled in a void left by ex-Saluki standout Jim Ivcek's graduation and Pan-American Games Trials Finalist Jon Hallberg's retirement.

Softballers move home, start practice

By Scott Burnside
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

There's no place like home, except when it doesn't have a dirt infield.

The women's fast pitch softball team has moved to its new field across from the new recreation building on Grand Street. Last year they played on the all grass field behind Wham.

Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer is pleased with the team's new facilities, although the left field wall appears to be closer than the infamous "Green Monster" in Boston. Brechtelsbauer said the distance to the left field fence is an official 235 feet away.

Brechtelsbauer said the field's unusual dimensions wouldn't make that much difference in tactics.

"The only thing we'll play differently is that we'll have a fence behind us this year. The left fielder in certain cases can play up and cut off the short hit," Brechtelsbauer pointed out.

Another reason "Miss B," as Brechtelsbauer is known in the women's athletic department, likes the new field is because it gives her more room to work with the players.

And Brechtelsbauer will need the extra space. This is the second week of optional practice and 60 players have signed up for the team.

With this many players, Brechtelsbauer said she might have to cut for the first time. "We haven't cut in the past, but we may this year. Sometimes they cut themselves."

Most of the players out this early are freshmen or athletes who haven't played for the team. Many veterans are still involved in winter sports teams which haven't completed their season.

There are 18 players back from last year. Seven were starters on last year's 6-7 squad. These players are Vicki King (first base), Gail Moschino (second base) Pat Matreci (third base), Denise Kelly (left field), Jan Winkler (right field), Carolyn Brady (pitcher) and Kathy Lies (catcher).

Despite the returnees, Brechtelsbauer said all the positions are open, especially since there are many good freshmen out this year.

"We're getting athletes in the program that have played before," Brechtelsbauer said. "In the past we had to teach them the basics, such as moving their feet on plays and getting the correct position to throw the ball. We also have people coming in this year who have a pitching background. In the past we've had to develop our pitchers."

Pitching is probably more important in fast pitch softball than in baseball, since an excellent pitcher can almost totally dominate the game.

Besides Brady, the pitching veterans are Sharon "Mom" Heise and Lies. Heise pitched for the junior varsity last season and Lies filled in on the mound, although her normal position is catcher.

Some of the newcomers with pitching experience are freshman Karen King and Sue Malkovich, plus Junior Donna Ellison. Ellison pitched in PE softball class, but this is her first year out for the team.

Helping out with the pitchers again this year is Craig Calloway, a hurler for the Murphysboro Merchants team.

Regular practices won't begin until March 22 and the first game is the 27th. Indiana State and Southeast Missouri State will be here for a triangular competition.

Women cagers lose tourney tilt

Foul trouble dumped SIU into the consolation bracket of the Midwest regional tournament, as the Salukis lost to the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse Thursday 79-57 in first round at Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

LaCrosse went to the line 29 times as both Jan Winkler and Helen Meyer fouled out of the game. Winkler the leading scorer for the Salukis, fouled out almost seven minutes before the end of the game. It was the first time Meyer has fouled out this year.

Southern led early 7-2, but the fast break Wisconsin squad took command at 14-13 and was never headed. At halftime they were ahead 45-31.

Leading scorer for SIU was Bonnie Foley with 20 points.

Southern's next game in the consolation bracket will be at 11 a.m. Friday against loser of the Indiana University-Western Michigan game.

Valley meeting begets decisions galore

By Mark Kazlowski
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

More than tired seats and sore throats came out of Monday's special meeting of the Missouri Valley member institutions' presidents, faculty representatives and athletic directors. Four decisions significant to Valley schools were announced.

—The main item of business was Indiana State's acceptance of an invitation to join the conference. The Terre Haute institution of more than 11,000 students has all eight sports that the Valley competes in for championships.

In fact, Indiana State, like SIU, has three additional sports (gymnastics, wrestling, swimming) in which the conference has no championships. While Indiana State does have a well-rounded program, ISU athletic teams have not achieved national prominence in Division I competition, with the exception of gymnastics. The gymnastics team has been ranked No. 1 in the country, but that is one of the sports in which the Valley has no championships.

SIU met ISU in football, wrestling, swimming and gymnastics during the 1975-76 school year. The Sycamores are on the football schedule next season also.

Indiana State begins competition for conference championships in the 1976-77 academic year in cross country, indoor and outdoor track, baseball, tennis and golf. The basketball team will begin competition in 1977-78. The football team will enter the race as soon as scheduling requirements are achieved.

Kazually speaking

—Secondly, the conference decided to drop participation in football as a criteria for membership to the Valley.

That may be subtle, but it seems to indicate two things. First it reinforces the idea that the Valley is primarily a basketball conference. Second, it seems to show that the Valley is looking toward still further expansion.

Of course, the conference is always looking to expand, but it has opened its doors with the dropping of the football requirement. Creighton University in Omaha, Neb., could be considered as a prime target for membership. The Catholic school has no football team but does have one of the most solid basketball programs in the Midwest.

Valley Commissioner Mickey Holmes said consideration of other applicants may be considered at the regular conference meeting in May.

Illinois State, though it recently withdrew its application to the Valley, is one of the schools mentioned as a possible addition. Arkansas State is also often mentioned as a possible member.

—Third, the conference athletic directors approved plans for the implementation of a post-season basketball tournament to begin in March 1977. The tournament champion would get the automatic berth in the NCAA tournament.

The tournament would not take all the emphasis off the regular season. The team that ends the regular season in first place gets a bye into the final round. The second and third place teams get byes into the semifinals.

The first round games would be between the fourth and seventh place teams and fifth and sixth place teams. In all games except the finals, the team with the better record will host the playoff.

The championship game in 1977 is scheduled to be hosted by Wichita State. The championship site would rotate each season.

—Finally, the conference's baseball tournament was suspended for one year. The tournament that was supposed to be hosted by SIU May 15-17 will be hosted by SIU in 1977.

Only four teams would have competed in the tournament if one were held because only Tulsa, SIU, Bradley and New Mexico State field baseball teams. The NCAA does not guarantee berths in district tournaments to conferences that have fewer than six teams competing for the title.

All four Valley teams will be competing as independents in the NCAA's Midwest Division. More than one team may be given a bid to the district.

The SIU diamondmen did not receive a bid last season after taking tournament to Tulsa.

With the addition of another school or two and barring desertion of any more schools, the Valley could be considered to be on the rise.
