SOUTHERN ILLINOIS
Congressman Charles Percy held a slight edge Tuesday over state Senate President Philip Rock and a wider margin over two other prominent Democrats in the primary election for the U.S. Senate.

Early returns were coming mainly from Chicago and its suburbs, where Rock was considered strong.

In the Democratic primary, with 65 percent of the state's 11,500 precincts reporting, Simon had 171,441 votes, or 26 percent, to Rock's 168,090, or 24 percent.

Suburban Hillside lawyer Alex Smith, who barely scored an upset over Percy in 1978, was third with 137,479, or 20 percent.

State Comptroller Roland Burris, seeking to become the second black U.S. senator since Reconstruction, was fourth with 110,009, or 16 percent.

In incomplete and unofficial returns, Simon had 660 votes in Jackson County, 26th of four precincts reporting, Burris had 274, and Rock 272.

Williamson County, with 16 of 62 precincts in, Simon had 1,508, Burris 166, Seith, 413, and Rock 22.

Percy, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, led with 18,643 in the statewide vote, 39 percent, to Rock's 17,620. Percy won 60 percent of the total vote in the 21st District, which includes the city of Chicago.

McClure led with 5,161 votes, compared to Farr's 4,522, with all votes in from Union, Monroe, and Randolph counties. Numerous other candidates reported.

Burris had 1,508, and Rock 272, with all votes in from Union, Monroe, and Randolph counties. Numerous other candidates reported.

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, of Danville, was unopposed in the Republican primary.

Throughout the campaign, McClure and Farr were the top contenders for Sen. Ken Buzbee's seat, as support for Alex Seith, third with 137,679, or 23 percent, was divided.

Randolph County Coroner Gary McClure held a slim margin over leading opponent D. L. Farr late Tuesday in a highly contested 58th District state Senate race, including partial or complete totals from five of the seven counties in the district.

McClure led with 5,161 votes, compared to Farr's 4,522, with all votes in from Union, Monroe, and Randolph counties.

McClure was leading with 14 precints in, compared to Farr's 10 precints. Only six precincts reported in Jackson County, where Farr campaigned very heavily.

"It will be a tough race," said McClure, "but I feel I have a good chance of winning." McClure claimed a margin as a "new ideas" candidate.

Former U.S. Rep. Ken Gray was leading state Sen. Ken Buzbee late Tuesday night by a narrow margin in the race for the 2nd Congressional District seat.

With 40 percent of the precincts reporting and 18 with 17,451 votes to Buzbee's 18,456.

Buzbee called the race "very, very tight" and said he doubted a winner would be decided until the "two hours of the morning." Tuesday night, because two counties were still to come in the vote tallying.

Buzbee said, "we're winning big" and said he expected to win with 60 percent of the vote. Gray said he carried Marion and Clinton counties and was winning by a 4 to 1 margin in Franklin County.

Buzbee, 46, of Makanda, has a bachelor's degree in communications and government and a master's degree in political science from SIUC. He has served in the state Senate for 12 years and is chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Gray, 59, served as, for Cong. Illinois' representative for 20 years from 1965 to 1975, before retiring to Florida because of ill health. While in Congress, Gray served on the Public Works Committee, earning the nickname "the Prince of Pork" because of many "park barrel" public works projects started in Southern Illinois during his tenure.

Buzbee, on the other hand, said that the days of "easy" federal spending are over. "We have $200 million annual deficits. In these days, nobody appeared to be the top con­ tender for the seat vacated when Sen. Ken Buzbee retired to run for the 22nd District U.S. House seat.

McClure offered as part of a solution to a lagging economic recovery and state-operated worker's compensation plan.

"It will be a tough race," said McClure, "but I felt I had a little bit better of my goal in Union County." He said he wanted to hit 1,000 votes, but received over 500 votes in that county.

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, of Danville, was unopposed in the Republican primary.

Senate vote on school prayer fails to meet two-thirds margin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Tuesday rejected a constitutional amendment to permit organized spoken prayer in the nation's public schools, handing President Reagan a major defeat.

The vote was 56-44 in favor of the measure, 11 votes short of the two-thirds needed for passage of a constitutional amendment.

The vote followed two weeks of heated debate and intense lobbying by the president, who made the school prayer issue a major plank in his re-election effort.

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said, in the debate, "This amendment simply restore the neutrality which ought always to have been the case in the exercise of religion."

But Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said the amendment would have us "turn our birthright of religious liberty into a mess of speculative political pottage."

"We cannot bring our children closer to God by blurring the public address system of our schools," Weicker added. "This is not a political issue. It should not be a political issue. If anyone makes it so, I hope it will be the cause of his defeat, Republican or Democrat."

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., an amendment supporter, told the Senate following the vote, "We have just begun to fight. As long as I'm in the U.S. Senate, there will be other rounds."

Helms said he would renew attempts to limit the jurisdiction of federal courts on the school prayer issue.

But Weicker told reporters, "I don't think this particular battle will be fought again this year."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, rejecting a big-money battle over NCAA control of college football on television, was told Tuesday that increasing the number of televised games wouldn't hurt live attendance.

The justices have promised a ruling in time for the 1984 college season. At stake are billions of dollars in revenue and the viewing habits of millions of Americans.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The University of Kansas and the University of Missouri had agreed to sell 73 acres of land near Lawrence to the city for $350,000 in exchange for the university's being allowed to use the land as a research facility.

The agreement was hailed as a major victory for the university, which has been trying to build a new campus in the area.

The university's president, who had been fighting with the city for the past year, said the agreement would allow the university to continue its expansion plans.

The city had been opposed to the university's plans, but said it would support the university's efforts if the university would agree to contribute $350,000 to the city in exchange for the land.

The deal was expected to be finalized in the coming weeks, and would mark a significant milestone in the university's efforts to expand.

City Council authorizes staff to complete land negotiations

By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council authorized the city staff to complete negotiations for the purchase of three properties in the downtown redevelopment area for an amount not to exceed $220,000.

The pending purchase of the properties, located in the 200 block of South Illinois Avenue, would give the city all but two properties in the block originally slated for the site of a parking garage in the conference center project plans.

City Manager Bill Dixon said that the city is still searching for a development partner for the area, and that the pending purchases are not part of any specific development project.

However, Dixon said that acquiring all properties in the block would remove one obstacle facing a development project.

"The first question asked by developers is, 'Do you have the properties necessary for it being readily available?" Dixon said.

"Properties specified in Monday's council action are up for sale at $22,000. The former Southern Barbecue at 232 S. Illinois Ave., the former Southern Barbecue at 232 S. Illinois Ave., and the former Awood Drugs building at 224 S. Illinois Ave.

Dixon would not specify the sale amount for each property, but did say that the $220,000 figure is "very near" the appraised value of the properties.

Negotiations with other property owners in the block are continuing, Dixon said. The remaining properties in the 200 block of South Illinois Avenue are not owned by the city and are McNeill's Jewelry at 214 S. Illinois Ave and Stones By George at 21S. Illinois Ave.

Downtown business owners were told by Dixon at a public meeting in February that the city would consider offers to sell downtown properties at or near appraised values.

The city originally planned to construct a conference center and parking garage in the two-block area on South Illinois Avenue between Elm and Monroe streets.

However, the city allowed deadlines on purchase options for properties in the area to expire because of uncertainties in the financing of bonds needed to fund the project.

Dixon said that the city is continuing to investigate potential development projects in the area.

Mondale spent much of a time during the week trying to depict Hart as weak on foreign and civil rights, while Hart campaigned mainly in and around Chicago.

But Hart stumbled as election approached by giving a television commercial that directly attacked Mondale for accepting the endorsement of Cook County Democratic boss Eddie Vudelyak. Hart quickly said the commercial was being used out of context, but it continued to air until the day before the election, allowing Mondale to question whether Hart was really in charge of his own campaign.

Focusing on the need to boost Southern Illinois' economy, Parr proposed a progressive income tax structure to shift federal taxes away from the state. He said the state had provided only 6 percent of that funding last year.

Parr also said the government should set minimum commodity prices for farm products and offer more research to aid farmers.

Four Democrats took the position that proposed acid rain legislation would hurt the coal industry and cost jobs in Southern Illinois and they opposed it.

Gray said selected his personal finances, Buzbee called Gray's own disclosure "sketchy" and suggested Gray had not paid Illinois income tax on commissions for coal leases he obtained for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Gray responded with charges that Buzbee ran a "dirty campaign" and said he had paid all taxes for which he was liable. The campaign was a contrast in styles, with the back-slapping politics of Gray matched against the more restrained, pragmatic style of Buzbee.

The winner of the Democratic primary will face Randy Patchett, Williamson County state's attorney, who was unopposed in the Republican primary, in the November general election.

The two Democrats also praised Illinois, long-term economic development and jobs begin in the private sector, which he would concentrate on helping.

"Two Democrats also differed on the acid rain issue. Gray favored the use of scrubbers on smokestacks to prevent sulfur from coal-burning plants from entering the air. Gray also proposed using national legislation to solve the acid rain problem.

Buzbee opposed scrubbers, which he said are a short-term solution, and instead favored a crash research program to find a way to remove sulfur from coal before it's burned.

The campaign between Gray and Buzbee was bitter, with the Synergy Week to show appreciation

FOR THE PAST 14 years, the people at Synergy have been helping SIU-C students and Southern Illinois residents cope with what to them was an overwhelming burden.

This week, through a variety of programs and events, the crisis intervention center is trying to promote awareness of its services and raise some much-needed cash in the process. It deserves recognition and support.

Synergy occupies a geodesic dome on South Illinois Avenue, opened in 1970 during an era when society was struggling to deal with unprecedented urban violence brought on by the "psychological revolution," or drug experimentation.

Volunteers at the agency were trained to help young people cope with their unique problems and the emotional strain of living in those turbulent days. The success of the program brought state and federal grants and a $42,000 yearly contract from SIU-C a few years ago, Synergy had 14 paid staff members.

But these days are over.

LAST YEAR, after federal and state grants dwindled and ISU University completely cut its funding, the agency experienced a crisis of its own. But as it helped so many others do. Synergy sur vived the trauma and, in some ways, emerged stronger.

The Synergy staff reorganized the agency, which is now staffed almost entirely by volunteers, and refocused Synergy's mission to the local level.

The transformation was a healthy one — the availability of grant and social grants agencies is not the only thing that has changed since the early '70s. Homicidal drug abuse, while still a serious concern, is not as prevalent as it was when Synergy opened. However, other types of crimes still occur: alcohol abuse, domestic violence, and emotional strain from relationships. Synergy is better tuned than ever, and other problems with its 24-hour hotline, confidential counseling and referral service. More than 450 people, most of them students, came to the agency for assistance last year.

ON MONDAY, Mayor Helen Westberg proclaimed this week to be Synergy Week in Carbondale. This proclamation came a week after the City Council rejected a request by Synergy officials for $4,260 of city funding.

Dr. Westberg's action shows a common problem encountered by Synergy. In times of tight budgets, vocal support is easier to obtain than cash.

That's why this week's activities are so important. It will help Synergy to raise the scarce financial resources. But more important, it will allow us to make that suggestion for what is certainly a valuable service to the community.

Free press serves all, not just the media

By Bob Delaney
President, SIU-C Chapter of the Daily Egyptian

Freedom of Information Day passed quietly for most of us last week. Members of the press took notice, but the celebration of our First Amendment rights was one of our quieter holidays.

That's too bad. Freedom of information and our First Amendment aren't the property of just the press. We need to think so since it always seems to be reported more about being locked out of a meeting or being denied information.

The way things are today, the press and opinions are the same and say the reporter deserved it.

"Remember me," the reporter always says, and no one who brought you the press has ever said "And All The President's Men."
'Annie Get Your Gun' to have modern country-western sound

A Nebraska musical tradition, "Annie Get Your Gun," will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday in Shreveport Auditorium. But the tradition will be modified in this production, with lyrics by Herbert and western singers Helen Cornelius and Dave Rowland.

In their roles as Annie Oakley and Frank Butler, Cornelius and Rowland will sing such Broadway favorites as "There's No Business Like Show Business," "My Girl That I Married," and "Anything You Can Do (I Can Do Better)." The updated score will be backed by Cornelius and Rowland's own band.

Cornelius won the title of Most Promising Female Vocalist from Music City News and was nominated as the Best New Female Vocalist by the Academy of Country Music. She and former partner Jim Ed Brown were named Vocal Duo of the Year by the Country Music Association.

Rowland and his country band Sugar were awarded Top Vocal Group Album, Top Vocal Group Single and Top Vocal Group by Record World's Country Music awards in 1975. The band was also named Best Vocal Group in the country music division by Billboard magazine. The two will sing through the story that parallels the life of the real Annie Oakley who, as a teen-ager from the backwoods of Missouri, was matched in a shooting exhibition in 1881 against the leading marksman of the day. His name was Frank Butler, and Annie won the contest by one shot.

The actual story was that Butler, in admiration of her sharp eye with a gunstock, persuaded her to join his travelling show, then married her and retired from competing against her phenomenal lady's eye hitting in order to serve as her manager. They both surged to fame and fortune when Annie joined Buffalo Bill Cody's Wild West Show.

Tickets are $14.50 and $12.50, and are available at Shreveport Auditorium box office from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

University to license SIU-C logos, trademarks

By Dan Devine
Staff Writer

SIU-C will attempt to grab a slice of the lucrative licensing revenues of many large universities, according to Matten. The University's licensing department, said Matten, would be a major source of revenue for the University.

Matten cited one study that said SIU-C could raise more than $50,000 if every student bought an average of $100 worth of licensed items. The University would split the revenue generated up to $200,000, 66 percent of the revenue up to $25,000, and 70 percent up to $100,000.

Matten said the ICE would have to negotiate with all trademark registration companies. She said the University would get a share of the cost of a licensed item. The IAAC also approved the trademark registration companies. The University would get a share of the cost of a licensed item. The IAAC also approved the trademark registration companies.

Health care offered for any ailment

Health clinics available for everyone

By Debra Colburn
Staff Writer

If you've got something ailing you, the chances are good that you can find the health care you need somewhere in the Jackson County area. Some health care centers are specialized and others give general medical and dental care to people of all ages — it's just a matter of finding the one to suit your needs.

The Adolescent Health Care Center, 231 W. Main St., Suite 33, provides services for people from 12 to 21 years old, according to Barbara Bates, the center's health educator. The center offers prenatal physicals, sure threat checks, venereal disease screening and treatment and a full pregnancy program for teens, as well as providing general medical treatment. A periodic check on the growth and health of babies of teen-age parents is also available.

A sliding fee scale based on the teen's ability to pay is used, but Bates said services are never refused. The center is part of the Shawnee Health and Development Corp.

Two full-time nurses, three doctors from the Family Practice Center, three ob-stetrician-gynecologists and one nurse provide funding for the clinic.

Medical clinics are held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Monday, Thursday and Tuesday. Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. A nurse is available for counseling during daytime hours.

While the Adolescent Health Care Center is designed to meet the needs of the young, the Comprehensive Health Service, located at 441 E. Willow St., seeks to meet the health care needs of the elderly community. The service provides both medical and dental care to everyone, without age or income restrictions, according to Ellen Boger, the center's administrator for the service.

Included in the medical and dental facilities is a home health unit, composed of a registered nurse for in-home care and a home-bound service for home-bound clients. Low-income clients who live in Carbondale may be eligible for up to 50 percent discounts on their medical and dental fees, Rossiter said.

Three doctors work part time with the service. Two nurses, one dentist, a dental hygienist and a dental assistant also work there.

Rossiter estimated that about 300 clients come in for both medical and dental care each month.

The clinic is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Rossiter said doctors aren't always available during that time but appointments can be made.

Consumer fees, money from the city and a Community Development Block Grant provide funding for the clinic. Rossiter said the clinic doesn't work directly with any other health care agencies in the area, but it does make referrals to pediatricians and other care.

The clinic isn't just a neighborhood community facility or a free clinic, Rossiter said.

"We're here to serve everyone in Carbondale, regardless of race, sex or income level," she said.

The Family Practice Center, 441 W. Main St., is similar to the Comprehensive Health Service in that it is available to all members of the community.

The center is not only a health care facility, but also a resident training center and is run by the SIU-C School of Medicine, according to Ellen Boger, program administrative assistant.

The 14 doctors at the center are community physicians. Two full-time faculty doctors, as well as several part-time faculty physicians, are available to treat patients.

The resident physicians work at the center for three years. During that time they gain experience in treating all sorts of medical problems, Boger said, and at the end of their residency they become accredited family practitioners.

Roger estimated that the center treats about 5,000 patients a month.

"We're bigger than people think," she said.

Services at the Jackson County Health Department are available to all citizens regardless of age or income, Michelle Jacknin of the department said.

The health department has two offices, one at 342-A North St. in Murphysboro and one at 604 E. College St. in Carbondale.

Some services are offered without a fee, and others require payment, Jacknin said.

Contract physicians, who work through family practice clinics, nurses and environmentalists who inspect private water and sewage systems are all connected with the department.

Democratic candidates busy while awaiting primary results

By the Associated Press

-Walter F. Mondale took a day off from campaigning Tuesday to have his basal boil drawn, Minnesota's Democratic primary victory. Gary Hart, saying "nothing would do more to help national unity," canceled a campaign trip to Kansas to vote against the measure.

-In Chicago, the Rev. Jesse Jackson called for a federal investigation of Mississippi's Democratic primary results and said Arkansas delegates are awarded under a system of "junky math." While Illinois Democrats voted, Minnesota's Democratic-Farmer Labor Party was holding 4,000 precinct caucuses, the first step in selecting the state's 72 pledged delegates to July's Democratic National Convention.

-Mondale was heavily favored to win the support in his home state caucus. His only real challenge was from a state tradition to remain uncommitted. But it will be days before the caucus results are known. Mondale quipped in the DFL "the thought that a

Investigation continued Tuesday into the burnings on March 11 and 12 of six cars parked in lots on campus, with no connection established between the owners and the unknown suspect or suspects, according to SIU Security.

"It appears the fires were set at random for no apparent reason other than self satisfaction," said SIU Security Detective Dave Bunton. "We are working on some leads that may develop a suspect."

Bunton said a security officer discovered five of the fires between 10:25 p.m. and 11:35 p.m. on March 11. The cars were found in various stages of fire on Lot 14 (west of Neely Hall), Lot 27 (north of Southern Hills), the Evergreen Terrace storage lot, Lot 63 A (east of the Lenin Law Building) and on the street in front of 106 Creek Row.

A car owner discovered the sixth car fire on the morning of March 12, in Lot 25, south of Southern Hills.

Bunton said there were no injuries resulting from the fire. One car was totalled and the others received varying degrees of damage.

Photos to be displayed in Allyn Building

A collection of fantasy photos by Lorna Metz Kallsen, senior in cinema and photography, will be displayed by B6 and B7 on campus from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. March 26-30 in the Allyn Building.

The Illinois Supreme Court decision does not affect Illinois universities, because education bargaining is covered by a different law than that governing other public employees.

"There are always older faculty members who fight the establishment of bargaining on campus," Donow said.

"When bargaining goes through they refuse to join the union, and then they complain that they have no voice."

Collective bargaining works on the same principles as democracy, Donow said, and when the majority of community votes to have a union represent them, those who aren't in the union have no official voice. The union is the medium through which faculty voice their collective opinion, he said.

Non-union faculty cannot be included in a bargaining unit and more than students, as consumers, can be included, Donow said.

The CFUT has begun a membership drive in an attempt to decide whether SIU-C faculty want collective bargaining. Donow said he expects SIU-C to have an election within the next year, and for bargaining to be in place by 1986.

Emile Spees, president of the American Association of University Professors, agreed with Donow that the Supreme Court decision reaffirms the faculty representatives should have bargaining power collective bargaining systems have over non-union faculty representation.

He said that the faculty are being separated through their representation by both the Faculty Senate and the Governing Board, according to Robert Beck, professor at SIU Law School, the Supreme Court decision won't affect Illinois universities, because educator bargaining is covered by a different law than that governing other public employees.

Difficult courses
wear down golfers

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

The SIU-C men's golf team shot good golf on its first two courses in Florida over spring break, but the team slacked off on the last two courses and ended up finishing sixth out of 14 in the Florida International University
Sunshine Intercollegiate.

Bayler won the meet, shooting a 1226. FIU took second (1226), Monticello third (1260), Florida Atlantic University fourth (1283), Morehead State fifth (1298) and the Salukis sixth (1328).

The Invitational consisted of four rounds of golf played on four different courses. Saluki Coach Mary Beth McGrigg said the courses got tougher as the days went on. She said she was not pleased with the performance of the Salukis but that she was also not disappointed.

"For the first two rounds, we played some good golf," McGrigg said, "but the course was not progressively more difficult and that took the toll on us." McGrigg said there were two reasons for her squad's poor performance during the last day's play. McGrigg said, "The last day was the first day we got out of the rain and that was difficult. We were not playing at our best."

 McGrigg also found it hard to keep the pressure on the team due to the large number of players. McGrigg said, "It was bad enough to have to go to the next course and sandtraps and water watered the whole course, but the wind was terrible," McGrigg said.

"That somewhat discouraged the players." McGrigg said. "Perhaps we could change the previous attitudes of the players.

"Hopefully, this sixth-place finish will motivate the players in practice much harder," she said,"and then they can turn it into something good."

Scott Briggs led the Salukis with a 328. His best day was a 76 on the second course, John Schaefer and Tom Jones tied toe second on the Salukis, each shooting a 336. Tim Sans shot a 336. Jay Sala shot a 343 and Bobby Pavlovich shot a 352.

Playing as an individual and not for the team, Saluki J.D.
Tolmeisson shot a 331. The Salukis shot two rounds of golf prior to the Invitational to fill in the fourth, fifth and sixth positions on the squad. Tolmeisson was the player who didn't make the team for the tournament but, ironically, he ended up shooting better than three of the players who made it.

"I'm thrilled for J.D. that he shot as well," McGrigg said.

"I'm not pleased with the performance of the Salukis but that was not the fault of the Salukis."

In the fifth meet, a 7-2 loss to Missouri, the Salukis surrounded the whole course, but the wind was terrible," McGrigg said.

"I'm not disappointed.
Though I'm not happy with the performance of the Salukis,
ironically, he ended up shooting better than three of the players who made it.

Women netters zero for spring

By Jim Lex

Sports Editor

The Saluki women’s tennis team kicked off its spring trip more than a week ago, but by the time it was over, the squad was probably just as anxious to return home after losing all seven of its dual matches at Hilton Head Island, S.C.

The closest SIU-C (6-4 in the spring and 11-13 overall) came to pulling off its first victory was a 6-2 loss to Wasea Forest and Maryand, respectively.

Two matches that could have been expected to end as Saluki losses were to Indiana, ranked No. 10 in the nation in the fall, and No. 11 in both the Intercollegiate Tennis Association-Pennsylvania-Ohio Valley Conference and the Chattanooga, the defending Division II champion. Both squads beat SIU-C 9-0.

Auld had hoped her squad would pull out a 3-2 result (from the original five scheduled matches) and do well in the flighted tournament. The tournament was canceled and two dual matches were to be included in the schedule. Although Auld was in favor of adding the matches, as it turned out she didn’t like adding the two losses to her squad’s record.

“We’re kind of shocked... Auld said of her squad’s winless mark

Auld hasn’t had a team start out this poorly, but she is not beginning to make excuses for her squad’s slow start out of the gate.

“We’re just not winning the points needed to win the match.” Auld said. “Mentally, we’re just not in competition. We didn’t have any injuries or anything that hurt us.”

In January, VonJouanne competed in two meets in Europe where he was the U.S. team explain. At the Swedish Swim Games in Badere, Sweden, he won the 200 individual medley and took second in the 200 butterfly, 100 fly and 200 backstroke. A short time later he won all seven of its dual matches at Hilton Head Island, S.C.

In his career at SIU-C, VonJouanne’s name appeared on the school record board no fewer than 20 times. He was an All-American for three times. He was second in the 200 fly and 200 backstroke. A short time later, he was part of a 12-member U.S. team that swam against 22 other countries at the Bonn Arena Meet in Bonn, Germany. He won the 100 fly and was second in the 200 IM and 50 back.

In his senior season at SIU-C, VonJouanne’s name appeared on the school record board no fewer than 20 times. He was an All-American for three consecutive years. He was named to the American record in the 200 fly in 1980. The record has been broken twice since then.

VonJouanne said he will graduate in May with a master’s degree in thermal environmental engineering, and he has a strong job prospect with Boeing Co. in Houston.

“But I’m not thinking of anything else but the Olympic Trials now, that’s my main goal.” he said.

The Olympic Trials are scheduled for June 25-30 in Indianapolis, Ind., and VonJouanne said he will have to finish in the top two in an individual to make the team.

“My school has been taking me away from my training, but I’ll have about a month of stiff training before the trials in June,” VonJouanne said. “My big shot is in the 200 fly and 200 backstroke. I’ll be married in Mayor Jim of Springfield, Ill., and I’ll have a month to train before the trials in June.”

“Sometimes when we’re both at a meet, I find myself worrying about her and not thinking about what I have to do,” VonJouanne said. “That’s when Pam really helps me. She gives me encouragement.”

for two years at SIU-C, and visited Dwyer in Coral Gables, Fla., during the Salukis’ spring trip last week, taught him to take baseball seriously and have fun at the same time.

“BASEBALL CAN BE fun if you remember to enjoy the game,” Jones said. “Baseball is hard work, but if you can have fun at it, you won’t have fun doing anything.”

“Jimmy has stuck in the big league when other people have problems because he’s a dedicated, knowledgeable kid who can iron out his problems,” Jones said.

At 34, Dwyer is actually no kid anymore, despite what he may say.

“His wife (Carol) has done a good job in preparing him for the day he has to call it quits,” Jones said. “Baseball has been his whole life but suddenly that day will come. You say to yourself, ‘What am I going to do?’ It’s scary, after enjoying success all your life, suddenly you have to start all over again.”
