Trustees deny appeal, arbitration

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The Board of Trustees Thursday denied the requests of Charles A. Goben, an electrical engineering professor, to have an outside arbitrator hear his grievance and for an appeal on his grievance.

Goben said he was unfairly denied compensation for work he did after a Judicial Review

Board discusses increases in student fees

Board panel decided in December 1986 that some of Goben's work may not have been properly considered for merit salary increases.

"We're not surprised, but we're disappointed," said

Charles Zucker, an organizer for the Illinois Education Association, the union representing Goben.

Board chairman Harris Rowe said, "I don't see how any matter could have been discussed more fully."

"For us to substitute someone else's opinion would seem strangely amiss," Rowe said of sending the matter to an outside arbitrator.

In a letter to the board, Chancellor Lawrence Pettit said, "Attempts to resolve where and how the discrepant items should be recorded included several meetings, two intercessions by the faculty ombudsman and three (by) Judicial Review Boards."

The chancellor recommended to the board that the requests for outside arbitration and for an appeal be denied.

At its February meeting the board postponed a decision on whether to send Goben's

Elizabeth Hanford Dole denied Thursday that her husband, Sen. Robert Dole, would no longer be a contender in the race for the Republican presidential nomination if he doesn't win the Illinois primary Tuesday.

Dole stopped in Carbondale Thursday to visit the house where her father was born and took some time out to campaign for her husband.

Political analysts have said that unless Dole can win the Illinois primary he will have to drop out of the race.

"He'll stand up to any problem," Elizabeth Dole said. "Bob clearly has strength throughout the United States."

When 17 states have primaries in one day, it becomes tough for a second-place candidate to catch up to the front-runner, she said.

Dole said "it has clearly been a two-man race for a long time" between her husband and Vice President George Bush. "We're asking Jack Kemp and Pat Robertson people to join us" because they take stands similar to Dole on several issues, she said.

"As people realize that he's (Dole) the man who made it happen for President Reagan," they will support him, Elizabeth Dole said.

Dole made her comments on the front porch of her father's birthplace at 504 W. Walnut St. John Van Hanford was born in an upstairs bedroom in 1893. Van Hanford lived in Carbondale until 1902. His father ran a general store in Carbondale at the turn of the century.

Computer failure tied to power unit

By Ron Sone

Gus Bode

The University's mainframe computer broke down Thursday morning because of a failure in the power supply unit, Harry Vandermark, manager of Computer Operations, said.

IBM technicians arrived at 9 a.m. to begin repairing the computer, which had been down from 6 to 8:10 a.m.

A failure in the circuit board, which monitors the functions of the power supply unit, caused the power failure, Vandermark said.

The power supply unit also failed Tuesday, shutting down terminals for about two hours. At that time, the cause of the failure was unknown, but the power supply unit was replaced after further investigation by technicians.

However, an unidentified problem with the replacement, which Vandermark believes might have happened during shipping, will require yet another replacement, due to arrive today. The recent failures, however, are not a sign of impending doom, said Vandermark.

"Over the period of a year, our computer is up about 98 percent of the time, on average," Vandermark said.

The mainframe computer controls virtually all computer operations for the SIU system, including all operations at Woody Hall and most of the operations at the Edwardsville campus and the School of Medicine in Springfield.

Gus says a computer's work day is only as long as its cord.

Students using the terminals early Thursday did not lose any information or previous work because they were informed of the scheduled maintenance shutdown, which took place between 12 and 2 p.m., Vandermark said.

The mainframe was back online at 2:15 p.m. Although Vandermark expects no further problems with the power supply in the mainframe, the University plans to purchase a new mainframe that may be installed by June, he said.

The $3 million purchase will be reviewed by Nate Felder, director of planning for computing, and then submitted to the president and the Board of Trustees.

3 colleges see collegiality differently

By Holly J. Corrington
Staff Writer

Three colleges have taken different stances on the use of "collegiality," or ability to work with colleagues, as a criterion for determining tenure.

In a meeting with the faculty senate Wednesday, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences voted against "collegiality" 23 to 0, with one abstention.

The School of Engineering, however, uses "unit compatibility" in tenure review. The school is revising its working criteria papers to formally include "collegiality" as a criterion for tenure review, along with teaching, research and service.

Jervis Underwood, faculty senate member, said at a meeting Thursday with faculty from the College of Communications and Fine Arts to discuss collegiality. "The academic community must not only tolerate, but encourage diversity of opinion."

In a paper opposing collegiality, Underwood said using collegiality in tenure reviews would create avenues for denying someone tenure based on prejudice against race, religion, sex, sexual preference, political stance, or because of professional jealousy.

Senate member Don Page wrote in a paper favoring collegiality that a positive recommendation reflects a judgment that the individual is and will continue to be an asset to the unit. Demonstrated high-quality teaching, research, and service are necessary but not sufficient conditions for tenure, Page wrote.

CCFA does not use collegiality as a criterion.

Contras release member of religious service group

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A human rights organization said Thursday U.S.-backed Contras had released one of its American members who had been kidnapped and held for nine days. Spokesmen for Witness for Peace, a religious service organization, said in Managua and Washington that Richard Boren, 30, of Elkin, N.C., was released unharmed Wednesday night in the village of Quilali, 145 miles north of the capital.

Haitian leader denies smuggling charges

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Col. Jean-Claude Paul, a top Haitian military leader indicted in Miami on federal narcotics charges, denied Thursday he was involved in drug smuggling. The indictment, details of which were revealed in Miami Wednesday, charges the colonel, his brother Antonio and his ex-wife Marie Mireille Delinois with conspiracy to distribute cocaine and distribution of cocaine.

Chile extends martial law beyond election

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Chile's military government extended its special powers Thursday allowing it to restrict civil liberties, arrest opponents and curb freedom of the press for another six months. Opposition leaders criticized the measure and said it was designed to suppress freedom of expression during campaigning around a presidential plebiscite planned for late this year.

Five family members die in Soviet hijacking

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three members of a jazz band family called the "The Seven Simons" died in an apparent suicide pact and commandos killed two others after the clan tried and failed to hijack a Soviet jetliner to Western Europe using guns and explosives packed in instrument cases, the Soviet media said Thursday. Two sons in the family snatched their mother to death as the commandos stormed aboard the darkened Aeroflot airliner then killed themselves with sawed-off guns, witnesses in the plane told the newspaper Izvestia.

House panel OKs minimum wage increases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House committee agreed to a proposal Thursday to raise the minimum wage to $5.05 an hour by 1992 but delayed final passage of overall legislation until next week. The House Education and Labor Committee voted 18-14 to add an additional annual increase to a minimum-wage bill that would push the base wage from the current $3.35 an hour to $3.85 an hour next year, $4.25 an hour in 1990 and $4.65 an hour in 1991.

Bill to cut aid to countries soft on drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Larry Smith, D-Fla., introduced legislation Thursday to cut off aid to Mexico and four other countries he says are not doing enough to fight drugs, but the State Department opposed the idea. Smith's legislation calls for decertifying Mexico, Paraguay, Peru, Bolivia and the Bahamas, countries that President Reagan certified earlier this month as making progress in the war on drugs.

Vote to decide on turning Alcatraz into club

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Voters will be asked June 7 whether they want Alcatraz Island, in its heyday a federal prison for notorious gangsters, converted to a city-run casino complex. The advisory measure putting the issue on the ballot was approved late Wednesday by six San Francisco supervisors. It asks whether the city should encourage changes in state and federal law to allow Alcatraz to become the Monte Carlo of the West Coast.

Vitamin B-12 found to halt precancer lung changes

CHICAGO (UPI) — Precancerous changes that often develop in the lungs of smokers can be reversed using high doses of the vitamins B-12 and folic acid, a preliminary study suggested Thursday, but researchers warned against interpreting the finding as advice on how to make cigarettes safe. Dr. Douglas Heimberger, of the University of Alabama in Birmingham, said there is still no evidence indicating it would substantially reduce the risk of lung cancer.

Kelley: S. Illinois is an ideal place for commercial, industrial growth

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Editor's note: This is the final story of a series profiling the candidates for the Republican nomination for the 22nd Congressional District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Southern Illinois is an ideal area to build factories that would feed parts into larger factories in St. Louis, Memphis and Nashville, Patrick Kelley, candidate for the 22nd District seat in the Congress, said.

If elected, Kelley said, he would employ personnel in each of his offices to aggressively promote the region as a place to locate new commercial and industrial enterprises.

"Southern Illinois is an excellent location with good transportation, hard working people and a pull of good will toward people who would move here and start enterprises," he said. "It's also very important to look carefully at proposed legislation that could effect current industries in the region."

Kelley, a law professor, said he opposes acid rain legislation, citing an Illinois Department of Commerce Affairs survey that states legislation would cut Southern Illinois coal industry jobs by 50 percent.

He said he wouldn't draw the line there for industry development. A project developer, tourism bureaus and federal agencies would be used to develop Rend Lake, Crab Orchard Lake and the Shawnee National Forest as resorts.

Campaign

"I think we ought to move toward developing these areas for tourism without impairing the natural beauty and the natural advantages of the region," Kelley said. "You need to work at eliminating some of the restrictions on the development of federal land."

Constituent service to local, commercial and industrial agencies that have problems with federal agencies also is a must, he added.

Kelley, 44, said he favors balancing the federal budget without raising income tax, maintaining a strong defense and economic policies that promote economic development, especially private development in Southern Illinois.

"We can continue to reduce federal spending with a conservative effort," he said. "We can reduce waste and inefficiency by closing the unneeded defense bases without hurting national defense."

In addition, he favors a line-item veto feature in the budget.

"A lot of the federal spending gets attached to essential bills and the essential bill cannot be vetoed," Kelley explained. "Spending that really is not needed gets piggy-backed on top of essential things."

In his quest to balance the budget, Kelley said he favors slowly phasing out farm subsidies. This would make the American farm economy more competitive in international markets, he said.

Kelley, who has served on city councils in Carbondale and University City, Mo., said he knows what is important to the people.

"People want balanced budgets, taxes that aren't too high and quality basic services," he said. "They don't want the government to try to do everything and they don't want more regulation than is necessary to achieve basic goals."

Son: 3rd in state for Dukakis is OK

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Finishing third in the Illinois March 15 primary won't hurt Massachusetts Gov. Micheal Dukakis' bid for the presidency, Dukakis' son, John, said Thursday.

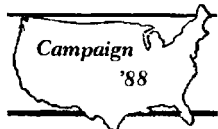

"We, of course, expect the Rev. (Jesse) Jackson and Sen. (Paul) Simon to do well in their homestate, but we hope to show some strength and demonstrate this strength in this national campaign," John Dukakis said.

"Since we are running a 50-state campaign, I think Illinoisians are interested in candidates who have a real possibility of getting the nomination," Dukakis, who held a press conference at Dukakis' Carbondale headquarters, said.

How contenders rank in Illinois is less important than strength across the state and whether delegates are picked up, Dukakis said.

"I'm not sure what that order will be," he said. "People are just going to have to look very carefully these next couple of days at who these candidates are and what they do and what they've accomplished."

Democrats will decide on a nominee prior to their nominating convention in Atlanta July 18, he added.

After Super Tuesday, Dukakis led the Democratic pack with 466 delegates, Jackson had 388 delegates, Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore followed with 344 delegates and Simon had 32.5 delegates. To secure the nomination, 2,082 delegates are needed.

"I think we have momentum coming out of Super Tuesday that will sustain us," Dukakis said.

"It has put us in a very powerful position in terms of delegate numbers, but also in terms of looking like somebody who can get the nomination and do well against the Republicans in November."

If and when Sen. Paul Simon ends his quest for the presidency, Simon supporters will be comfortable on Gov. Micheal Dukakis' bandwagon, Dukakis said.

"Those people who are supporters of Sen. Simon in the Southern states felt very comfortable with my father's candidacy and supported him in large numbers," he said.

No easy decisions in pawnbroker vote

THE CARBONDALE CITY Council will consider an ordinance Tuesday that would require licensing of pawnbrokers and force them to report collected merchandise. It would be wise to think long and hard before voting.

Prepared at police request, the ordinance is modeled after a state law that grants police immediate access to records of all transactions made in the 24 hours before an inquiry. If it is passed, pawnbrokers will be required to keep standardized records showing purchase amounts, items and serial numbers. Cooperation with the police would be mandatory instead of voluntary for pawnbrokers. In effect, it would give police a standing search warrant.

IS THIS REALLY going to be an effective deterrent to burglary? If so, then it may be a necessary evil. But the City Council should consider the ramifications of empowering police to demand and receive records without a search warrant — it is a provision ripe for abuse.

Too often, students return from break and read about all the break-ins and thefts (if they don't come home to a ravaged house themselves) that occurred while they were gone. According to the Carbondale Police Department, more than 45 reported burglaries took place during last Christmas break. Although police cracked a burglary ring accounting for 15 to 20 of these crimes, perhaps more could have been solved had the ordinance been in place.

However, police said Carbondale's only operating pawnbroker always has been very cooperative. So, how much good would this power play really do?

AN ORDINANCE TO license pawnbrokers won't magically eradicate all thieves. It may make weak-kneed crooks who resort to such fiendish behavior think twice before they try to sell someone's hard-earned property for a quick buck.

It also may thwart some shady huckster from blowing into town, setting up shop for a few low-key months and fleeing to another unsuspecting community after pillaging Carbondale.

Whatever the City Council finally decides, it should consider all possible arguments before it acts. On the surface, it may appear like an effective move, but it may turn out to do more harm than good by giving police too free a hand in conducting investigations.

Kent County (R.I.) Daily Times

A round of applause, please, for Prince Charles. Charles has taken a stand for the environment, even though it might mean stepping on a few toes — or having his toes stepped on.

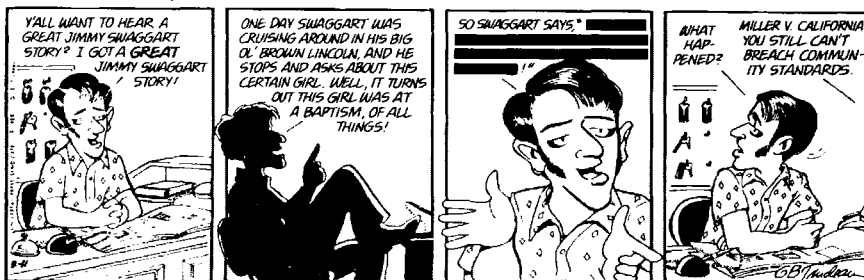

In a move of kingly proportions, the prince has banned the use of aerosols, including hair sprays, in his palaces. Environmentalists warn that aerosol spray can deplete the atmosphere's ozone layer that protects the earth from dangerous radiation.

Granted, this small ban on aerosols probably won't make a noticeable difference to the ozone layer. And granted the prince is doing nothing more than what many people here in the United States are doing by voluntarily giving up something that is hurting us all.

Somewhat it seems to have more weight when the future king of England does it.

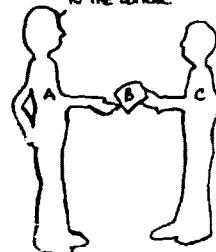

...There may well be a little bickering at Buckingham Palace of the ban, but it will be well worth it.

Watson shouldn't blame the police, but the black who committed crime

In reply to Calvin Watson's letter of March 2 concerning the SIU-C police department being racist: just because you were stopped and asked some questions, well, big deal!

If more people on this campus — black, white or purple — were stopped and asked some questions, maybe the unsolved crime rate on this campus would decrease.

Think about it. As far as being stopped just because you are black, we (black people) have caused a lot of this stereotypical action ourselves.

I am not saying I condone such actions that they have taken. If I knew I was innocent of this accusation, it would be sufficient reason for me to be cooperative enough to go for questioning or positive identification. I definitely would not cry about it and shout the most typical statement used by blacks, "I'm being discriminated against."

Before you say, "If I were white, this wouldn't have happened," do a little more research and a lot of thinking. There have been plenty of whites, foreigners and, yes, blacks accused and questioned about crimes.

The next time you feel the need to lash out against the police force, why don't you try thinking first. Instead of writing to the Daily Egyptian about the mean, ruthless policemen of Carbondale, try writing a letter asking the "brothers" to chill out doing the stupid things that affect all of us.

Regardless of whether you committed the crime, obviously somebody black did. So, why don't you get mad at him for your humiliation and embarrassment. If he had not, then you would not have been accused of it.

I think you are a victim of damaged pride. Think about what you said. What do you want the police to say, "Oh, we better not question him, he is black, he might get offended."

About your comment about the black police officers not being real men because they didn't say anything on your behalf: why the hell should they speak up for you? Are you that righteous?

To prevent this sort of situation from occurring again, I think you should burn that black leather jacket and throw your black shoes in the nearest trash can. They seem to be bringing you bad luck. — Tonya Jackson, sophomore, technical studies

Time has come for unionization election

Yesterday I and most of my faculty colleagues received a memo on collective bargaining from SIU-C Vice President for Financial Affairs Charles Hindersman.

While most of the information contained in the memo was strictly factual, it was written (of course) from the administration's point of view. For example, Hindersman stated: "It has been the University's (i.e., the administration's) position... that collective bargaining is undesirable for SIU-C faculty and AP staff."

Naturally, the administration sees collective bargaining as undesirable, since under collective bargaining it would be held accountable to the faculty and AP staff for its actions. At the moment it is accountable to no one. Collective bargaining may be undesirable to the administration, but that does not mean that it is undesirable to the faculty.

I also find it amusing that the opening salvo in the administration's anti-collective bargaining campaign is termed "information ..." in an effort to clarify issues and help you make informed choices, while Chancellor Lawrence Pettit is on record as insinuating the pro-collective bargaining campaign is simply "misinformation and lies." What's the sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

Hindersman states that the chairpersons "cannot participate in pre-election discussions effectively as either managers or employees" until the administration's appeal on the inclusion of the chairpersons in the unit is decided. On the contrary, the hearing officer's decision includes the chairpersons in the faculty unit. Unless that ruling is reversed, the chairpersons are in the faculty unit and are entitled to participate as faculty in the election discussion. As chairpersons, we simply assume that we are faculty, as we always have been, and act accordingly.

There is no good reason to postpone the impending election. The time for collective bargaining has come, and the faculty and staff want to get on with it. — David Stevens, chairman, theater department, IEA NEA Faculty

Activists relax on canyon floor

In the late spring, thousands of wildflowers carpet the Little Grand Canyon floor. In the summer, a hiker is apt to find a timber rattlesnake sunning itself on the higher rocks where the heat is oppressive in contrast to the coolness of the canyon floor.

In late February, when the Shawnee chapter of the Sierra Club hiked the canyon, its floor was peaceful, disturbed only by the trickling stream that snakes through its middle. The air is fresh, brisk but not cold on the canyon floor. The 150-foot high canyon walls block the blasts of wind that whip the trees overhead.

There, the hikers find solitude. Only the barely audible conversations of the 18 Sierra Club members interrupt the tranquility as they pause to discuss the location of a cave, reflect on its use as a shelter in earlier times or its appropriateness as a site to hunt Indian relics.

Although the club is still active in its struggle to preserve natural areas, this outing was a time to relax. They did not preach on this day about the dangers of human encroachment into areas like Little Grand Canyon, a little-publicized place of natural beauty about six miles south of Murphysboro. But the struggle to maintain these areas remained on their minds.

"One side of us is selfish," Wally McCarthy, of Cobden, said. "That side wants to keep these places secret and save them for ourselves. The other side wants everyone to enjoy their beauty and to know the feelings we get when we are here."

The club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Charter Bank building at the corner of Poplar and Main streets in Carbondale.

Steve Smith, of Anna, appears impressed by the high canyon walls.

Train bearing rocket parts crashes, kills 2

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Two people were killed Wednesday when a train carrying booster segments for the first post-Challenger shuttle flight collided with a car in Mississippi, NASA officials said Thursday.

The train, made up of special freight cars housing three fuel-loaded booster segments, left Morton Thiokol Inc.'s rocket plant near Brigham City, Utah, Sunday for a non-stop trip to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

NASA spokeswoman Lisa Malone said the accident happened near Biloxi, Miss., about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"Two people in the automobile died as a result of the collision," she said, adding she did not know the identities of the victims or details of how the accident may have happened.

But she said there was no

"apparent" damage to the booster segments and the train was expected to arrive at the Kennedy Space Center late Thursday or early today.

"Procedures are being developed for inspecting the hardware after its arrival," she said.

NASA spokesman George Diller said the chartered train was operated by CSX Transportation and that it was made up of an engine, three booster freight cars and empty "spacer cars" between those carrying the rocket segments.

The shuttle Discovery is scheduled to blast off around Aug. 4 on the first post-Challenger flight.

The current launch processing schedule is extremely tight and officials say there is no "contingency" time built into the shuttle booster schedule for unexpected problems.

Andy Gibb dies of unknown causes

LONDON (UPI) — Singer Andy Gibb, who shot to fame in the 1970s under the guidance of his brothers — the Bee Gees rock group — died of an undisclosed illness Thursday in an Oxford hospital. He was 30.

Gibb, who had a history of drug abuse, had moved to Britain to work on a comeback album. A spokeswoman for Island Records, his new record company, said he was stricken with stomach pains Monday and hospitalized for observation.

"His family has no public statement to make. They are making private arrangements for the funeral," she said.

Gibb, who just turned 30 last Saturday, died at John Radcliffe Hospital in Oxford, about 63 miles northwest of London.

Boy's ear rescued by veterinarian

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI) — A 2-year-old boy was in satisfactory condition Thursday after surgeons reattached one of his ears, which had been bitten off and swallowed by a pit bulldog.

Chris Graham of Delco was attacked by three pit bulldogs Tuesday at his grandfather's farm, authorities said. A veterinarian, after killing the dogs, found the intact left ear in the stomach of one of the animals and turned it over to surgeons.

The dogs, in addition to biting off the child's ear, also mangled his right ear and throat in the attack.

grievance to an outside arbitrator. Board member Ivan A. Elliott, Jr. said then that he wanted to see the information Goblen had submitted for an appeal, which would be heard separately if the board decided against sending the matter to an outside arbitrator.

No board member made a motion in favor of hearing Goblen's appeal, which, according to the board's bylaws, means the board denied the request unanimously.

In his letter, Pettit said that the cost of outside arbitration would not be justified in this case.

"The cost of arbitration is wholly on the University under the SIU-C grievance procedure," Pettit said. "The dollar amount at issue is only a portion of a merit increase and for only a few years back.

Pettit referred to the decision "as a matter of sound policy not even reviewed by our own governing board."

"It is even less desirable that such judgments are second-guessed by any strangers to the institution's ethos and mores," such as an outside arbitrator, he added.

Tow truck hits students' car

A car driven by an SIU-C student was hit at Greek Row Thursday night by a tow truck owned by Jim's Towing, owned by Jim's Towing.

The driver of the car, Dana Denkinger, freshman, had stopped the car in front of 105 Greek Row. Denkinger said she was waiting for the tow truck to move when it backed up and damaged the front left quarter panel of the car.

"He backed up all of a sudden," she said. The driver of the tow truck refused to comment.

Brian Reardon, junior in finance, witnessed the accident. He said he saw the tow truck move forward and then back up into Denkinger's car.

Last month a tow truck owned by Jim's Towing ran into a parked car also at 105 Greek Row causing a five-car accident.

Board studies fee hike

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Student medical insurance fees and the Students' Attorney Program fee will be increased if a resolution before the Board of Trustees is passed next month.

The proposed increases were discussed at the Board of Trustees meeting Thursday at Edwardsville.

If passed, the medical fee increase would offset a proposed fee refund for students at the medical school in Springfield. Medical students have been paying for health service benefits that they have no access to.

The increase in the student medical insurance premium would boost summer fees by $5 to $23.75 and fall and spring fees by $9 to $39.50.

The Students' Attorney program fee, if the proposed 35 cent increase is passed, would raise the fee to $2.35 for the fall semester. This increase, the first since Fall 1984, would provide for additional graduate assistant staff.

The board also discussed the topic of a tax increase for higher education.

Without a tax increase for 1989 state universities would face a second year with a zero-increase budget, resulting in a "brain drain" for Illinois universities, Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said.

"Some of our most talented faculty members are getting better offers from universities in other states," Pettit said. "We simply cannot get good people to make a commitment to come to Illinois when they see that Illinois is not making a commitment" (to higher education), he said.

Pettit has said he would not rule out a tuition increase if taxes aren't increased.

In other business:

The Board approved to authorize the sale of $6.5 million in bonds to finance the Recreation Center addition. Bids for the project are expected to go out later this month, with a possible ground breaking in June. The 72,000-square-foot addition is expected to be completed by July 1989;

- Renovation and repairs to Evergreen Terrace totaling $1.7 million. The work is expected to begin this summer;

- Naming Room 101 of Quigley Hall the Faye Minor Magill Family Food and Learning Center. Magill is a recipe columnist and contributor to nutrition research at SIU-C;

- Recommendation of honorary doctoral degrees from the SIU-C to emeritus theater professor Mordica Gorelik and Ronald E. Hall, a Johnson City native and chief executive officer of Citgo Petroleum;

- Selection of a Quincy architect firm for the removal of asbestos insulation from underground steam lines at SIU-C;

- The abolition of two graduate degree programs in education at SIU-E. The master's of science in education and the specialist degree in counselor education were cut because of declining enrollment and limited employment opportunities.

Students continue protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hearing-impaired students at Gallaudet University, bolstered by support from presidential candidates Jesse Jackson and Paul Simon, said Thursday they will sacrifice their spring vacations next week in their campaign to oust their new, normal-hearing president.

impaired administrator Elisabeth Zinser to head the institution is final. Zinser, who has normal hearing and does not know sign language, was chosen over two hearing-impaired candidates.

But students, faculty, staff and alumni, as well as congressmen and Democratic presidential candidates Jackson and Simon, say they believe a deaf person would be the best leader for the school.

Officials at the nation's only liberal arts university for the deaf say their decision to hire non-hearing

At Cortland, Foley trains students to work with handicapped children.

"I get my students involved in working with the children and give them all the practical knowledge I can," said Foley, who received her master's degree in adapted physical education from the University of Arkansas in 1981.

"The main reason I've stuck with Division III schools is because it gives me the opportunity to work with children and still keep my coaching job at the same time."

"My memories of pro ball are very negative. The league had some big management and money problems. The referees were NBA rejects, and I don't know where they dug up some of the coaches from. I didn't get along with my St. Louis coach at all."

—Bonnie Foley

Foley's first experience with the handicapped was in organizing a Special Olympics meet at Castleton.

"I love working with children, and I wouldn't want to have to choose between the two," she said.

After SIU-C, Foley was a first-round draft pick of the St. Louis Streak of the defunct Women's Pro Basketball League.

"My memories of pro ball are very negative," she said. "The league had some big management and money problems. The referees were NBA rejects, and I don't know where they dug up some of the coaches from. I didn't get along with my St. Louis coach at all. That was the only time I ever had a coach I didn't get along with."

Foley played in St. Louis for two months and then was traded to the San Francisco Pioneers. She was released at the end of the season.

"When I got released I wasn't unhappy at all," she said. "I wanted out anyway."

Foley has more positive memories of playing at SIU-

has the most field-goal and free-throw attempts in Saluki history.

After he left SIU-C, Vaughn played in the National Basketball Association for five years and in the American Basketball Association for 3½ years.

Vaughn still is very involved in basketball as a spectator and an instructor.

Vaughn has held a weeklong basketball clinic the past two summers in Davies Gymnasium with former SIU-C players and current University employees. Bardo, associate chairperson of Medical Preparation, Seymour Bryson, dean of the College of Human Resources, and Harvey Welch, dean of Student Life, help with the clinic.

"We give a free clinic for kids that can't afford to go a camp," Vaughn said. "We had about 105 kids last year."

C. "I had a great time playing college basketball," she said. "SIU was a special place to play at that time. Everyone was very team oriented. I didn't even realize I was setting records when I did it. I never found out that I'd scored 1,000 points until after I graduated."

Foley is second on the all-time rebounding list, even though she holds records for rebounds per game in a season (11.6, 1976-77) and career (10.85).

"I know I've got two more rebounds out there somewhere though," she laughed. "The official scorers must have missed them."

Golf teams open spring season

The men's golf team will open its spring season by competing in two tournaments in Florida. The Embry Riddle Invitational will be March 18-20 in Daytona Beach. The Salukis will compete against 24 teams in the 54-hole tournament, including 11 from Florida. The team will then compete in Orlando for the 54-hole University of Central Florida Classic March 21-23.

The women's golf team will open its spring season by competing in the Snowbird Classic in Sebring, Fla., March 13-14. The Salukis will compete against teams from Northern Illinois, Iowa State, Western Kentucky, Wisconsin, Missouri and Jacksonville at the invitational tournament.

Softball team ready for Florida

Spring Break. For the softball team it means fun in the Florida sun as well as some stiff competition. "Our goal is to play as well as we can," Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "Plus we have one free day scheduled in to do something away from the softball diamond. The players are excited."

The Salukis, 1-0, play at least 10 games in Tallahassee starting March 15, including a doubleheader against No. 7 Florida State.

Other opponents will be Virginia and Florida A&M. The March 18-20 Seminole Invitational has Stetson, Tennessee Tech, Virginia, Massachusetts and Georgia State.

Gymnasts face Illinois, Iowa

The men's gymnastics team will take on top-ranked Illinois and ninth-ranked Iowa in its toughest road trip of the season. "We'll see who's the best team in the United States this weekend," Coach Bill Meade said.

Eastern wins Gateway

With an NCAA bid on the line, the Eastern Illinois women's basketball team called on 5-foot-9 sophomore guard Barb Perkes.

With 11 seconds left, Perkes scored the game-winning layup off a steal to give Eastern Illinois the 80-79 victory over Illinois State for the Gateway Conference tournament championship late Wednesday in Normal. Illinois State's Pam Tanner, who had 22 points, missed a 15-foot shot at the buzzer.

Eastern Illinois trailed by 21 points, 68-47, with 12:17 to go. Perkes, who finished with 29 points, hit five straight three-point field goals to spur the comeback.

Three runners in nationals

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

Three track standouts will face the country's top athletes at the National Indoor Track Championships today and Saturday in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Brian Bradley will represent SIU-C in the long jump, Bret Garrett in the 800-meter run and Ron Harrer in the 35-pound weight.

Bradley met the national qualifying standard in the long jump at the Missouri Valley

Going for it:

Brian Bradley - long jump
Bret Garrett - 800-meter run
Ron Harrer - 35-pound weight

Championships Feb. 26-27. His jump of 25 feet, 7 inches broke the SIU-C and Missouri Valley Conference records.

Before the conference, Bradley's longest jump was 24-10.

"We knew he was getting close," Coach Bill Cornell said.

"He deserves it, he's worked hard."

Harrer was the first Saluki to qualify. He threw the 35-pound weight 62-3 at the Illinois Domino Pizza Classic Feb. 20.

Harrer was an outdoor All-American last year in the discus.

"The chances of (being) All-American are good," Harrer said. "I'm hoping to place in the top six and I think I have a pretty good chance of that." Harrer and Bradley will compete today.

Garrett will run a preliminary race today. The finals will be Saturday.

He qualified in the 800 at a last-chance meet March 6. Garret set a school record with a run of 1 minute, 49.72 seconds. The national qualifying standard is 1:50.50.

Garret is going for All-American status.

"I think it's pretty realistic," he said. "I'm ranked sixth or eighth now out of 26 guys."

SIU-E director of athletics looking at SIU-C

By Sharon Waldo
Staff Writer

The athletics director at SIU-Edwardsville is looking to step up to a Division I school and could end up being a candidate for the position at SIU-C.

G. Lynn Lashbrook, who has been at SIU-E for three years, announced his resignation in October. The position will be open Sept. 30. He said he "is pursuing other opportunities and would be interested" in the SIU-C job.

"I understand the situation, and I think Charlotte West has done an excellent job," Lashbrook said Thursday. "It would be a great opportunity."

He said he has been interviewed at other schools, including Tulane and Connecticut.

"Basically, I'm interested in getting in a Division I program with football," Lashbrook said.

SIU-E is an NCAA Division II program consisting of eight men's sports and six women's sports. Soccer is Division I.

SIU-C President John C. Guyon named a search committee Wednesday for the position left open by James Livengood, who left in August to become the athletics director at Washington State University.

Charlotte West has been interim director since Sept. 1.

Baseball team starts 11-game Florida trip

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The baseball team begins an 11-game road trip with a game against Army at noon and Miami at 7:30 tonight in Florida.

During the 10-day trip, the Salukis also will play Purdue, Montclair State, Maine, Rutgers and Michigan State. All games will be played in Miami.

The teams already have a playing edge on the Salukis. The weather allowed the Salukis to take batting practice just six times on Abe Martin Fields. Most teams have been in Florida for a week already, SIU-C coach Itchy Jones said.

"Ask a basketball coach how he'd feel if they got to practice basketball if they didn't have any baskets and they had to play a team who played 20 games," said Jones, who is beginning his 19th season at SIU-C. "It's something we're familiar with. It happens every year."

Last season, the Salukis went 7-4 on their spring trip en route to a 36-21 campaign.

Pitcher Dale Kisten, 7-4 a year ago, will receive the opening day start. Matt Giegling is expected to be behind the plate.

The infield will be Chuck Locke at first base, Rick Gaebe at second base, Dave Wrona at shortstop and Joe Hall at third base.

Probable starters in the outfield are Brad Hollenkamp in left, Doug Shields in center and Chuck Verschoore in right.

"We're going to utilize our players as best we can and find out what each guy is capable of doing," Jones said. "I'm hoping, as the season progresses that each guy will find a spot on the team and know what is expected of him on a day-to-day basis."

Six women swimmers in NCAA championships

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

Six members of the women's swimming and diving team will compete at the NCAA Championships March 17-19 in Austin, Texas.

Senior Lori Rea, who qualified in the 100-yard butterfly, also will compete in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle. Senior Karen McIntyre, who qualified in the 100-yard butterfly, also will compete in the 200-yard butterfly.

The relay team of Iris von Jouanne, Kathi Wire, Jackie Taljaard and Rea will compete in the 200-yard freestyle.

Senior diver Celia Gales could compete in the championships, but must first qualify at the National Zone Qualifying meet being held today in Austin. She will compete against divers from 11 regional schools for one of only four positions in the one-meter springboard competition at the championships.

"Celia's got a shot, but it's a long shot," Coach Doug Ingram said. "There are only four positions, and our region

Men get 1 more chance

Members of the men's swim team have one last chance to qualify for national championship meets at the Ozark Seniors Invitational Saturday at the Recreation Center pool.

Teams will try to qualify members for the U.S. Junior and Senior Championships and the NCAAs at this non-scored meet.

Salukis Kevin Nagy and Eric Bradac will try to qualify. Coach Doug Ingram also is looking for the 800-freestyle relay team to qualify.

has some Big Eight and Big Ten schools in it. It's very competitive."

The team finished 18th at last year's NCAA championships. McIntyre earned honorable mention All-American honors after finishing 11th in the 100 butterfly and 14th in the 200 butterfly. Rea also earned an honorable mention All-American status.

Life after basketball ...

This is the last in a series of stories on what some of SIU-C's basketball greats are up to now.

'Chico' Vaughn back in school

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

Charlie "Chico" Vaughn is back at SIU-C — and what Saluki basketball fans wouldn't do to get him back on the court.

Vaughn, who played guard and forward from 1959-62, is the school's all-time leading scorer with 2,968 points. He returned to obtain a degree in recreation.

"I went to get a job and I needed a degree," Vaughn said. "I couldn't blame anybody but myself."

Vaughn is fulfilling an internship requirement for his degree in Cairo, where he wants to establish a recreation program. Vaughn lives in Cairo with his wife, June, and their son, Justin.

Harold Bardo, Vaughn's teammate for three years said: "He's the kind of player you'd almost have to see play to believe. He's kind of like Steve Middleton in that he could create a play for himself."

Vaughn holds records for the most points in a season (799), most field goals for a season (301) most field goals for a career (838) most free throws for a game (16), most free throws for a season (117), and most free throws for a career (402). He also

Foley calling the shots now

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

Bonnie Foley was one of the most outstanding rebounders to ever appear in a women's basketball uniform.

Now she's having similar success as the head basketball coach at the State University of New York at Cortland.

Foley, who had 998 rebounds and 1,183 points as a Saluki from 1975-79, coached Division III Cortland to a school record 21 wins and an NCAA tournament bid.

"Our team had a lot of talent this year," Foley said. "Usually at a Division III school you get mostly overachievers — people with a lot of heart and desire but not much talent. This year we had more talent than usual."

Foley, a 1985 inductee to the SIU-C Hall of Fame, also has coached for three years at Plymouth State College in New Hampshire and two years at Castleton State College in Vermont. While at Castleton, Foley also was a full-time instructor and coordinator of women's athletics. "Thank God Castleton was only a two-year appointment, because I was pretty worn out by then," she said.
